STORM LASHES BRITISH ISLES; 26 PERSONS DIE

Wind of 108 Miles an Hour Reported — Many Calls for Help from Ships in Distress.

London, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A new hurricane which swept in from the Atlantic still raged over the British Isles and nearby coasts today, spreading destruction and confusion in its wake. Scilly Island reported a wind velocity of 108 miles an hour, while eighty and ninety mile velocities in other parts of England were common.

As many as 26 persons already were dead in the furious storm, 19 of the victims having lost their lives in sea mishaps in which huge waves and wind swamped small craft before they could make port.

Many Ships Missing
Considerable anxiety was held for some vessels which either were not reported or were known to have been in difficulties.

It was dawn before the wind began to quiet down and even then violent conditions still prevailed. Quiet winds showed a trail of destruction with fallen trees, telegraph poles, flooded roads, and broken telegraph and telephone wires.

The French steamer Orna was wrecked at Perran Bay during the night. A lifeboat was sent out to assist the crew but its own crew had a terrifying experience before returning to the Orna's crew of nineteen eventually were saved by rocket apparatus.

The rocket apparatus was taken out and the New Haven lifeboat launched to assist a vessel believed to be the Larrows out of control with steering gear damaged off Dungeess. The Swansea Coast Guards reported a Norwegian boat driven ashore during the height of the gale. The crew was believed safe.

CROWN PRINCE PAYS RESPECTS TO POPE

Humbert With His Two Sisters Sees the Pontiff for the First Time.

Rome, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Crown Prince Humbert and his younger sisters Princesses Giovanna and Maria drove today from the Quirinal Palace to the Vatican and paid their respects to Pope Pius XI. They were accompanied by Count De Vecchi, Italian ambassador to the Holy See, who introduced them to the Pope. It was the first time Humbert, Giovanna and Maria had seen the pontiff.

Troops stood at attention as the children of King Victor Emmanuel passed by. The crowds cheered the royal trio to the echo, particularly their future king.

Follow Same Route
Humbert, Giovanna and Maria drove along the same route followed two days ago by their father and mother who paid their initial visit to the Pope Thursday. At the boundary line of Vatican City, Commander Serafini, governor of the city met them and the papal band played the royal march.

The princesses were dressed charmingly in white with lace veils in full length.

Blesses Party
When the Prince's suite was presented to him afterward the people conversed affably with all, adding: "God bless the whole Italian royal family and all Italy and in particular."

Blow to the Italian Steamer
The Italian steamer Casmon, the Italian steamer Johnny wanted assistance. Both were off Penzance.

BOARD TAKES OVER THE FOX PICTURE CORP.

Stock Market Crash Hit Company Hard But President Says Financial Problems Will Be Solved.

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Control of the motion picture interests headed by William Fox today was vested in a board of trustees of which the Western Electric Co. and a firm of Wall street bankers is represented.

The board of trustees which was appointed by Mr. Fox consists of himself, John Otterson, president of Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of the Western Electric Co., and H. L. Stuart & Halsey Stuart & Co., a Wall street banking house.

Heads Both.
The Fox Film Corp. and the Fox Theaters Corp., are the principal companies in the Fox holdings to come under the supervision of the board of trustees. Mr. Fox is president of both.

The board of trustees was formed, the statement continues, to facilitate the permanent financing of the projects at the earliest possible moment and to work out a practical plan for the acquisition of the assets of Loew's Inc.

Owes 91 Millions.
The New York Times says obligations of $91,000,000 which Mr. Fox arranged on a temporary basis with expectations of placing them on a permanently financial position are the reasons for the formation of the board of trustees.

The crash of the Stock Market, the Times says, checked plans for stock offering planned in connection with an amalgamation of all the Fox properties and at the same time impaired collateral used in the temporary financing.

Mr. Fox's motion picture enterprises are estimated to represent assets of $500,000,000.

U. S. MARINES CLASH WITH HAITIEN MOB, KILL FIVE, WOUND 20

COL. HURLEY NEW WAR SECRETARY

Washington, Dec. 7.—Colonel Patrick Jay Hurley of Oklahoma, once a cowboy, has been named by President Hoover for Secretary of War to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James W. Good. The nomination

Port Au Prince, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A body of 1,500 men who attempted to invade the city of Aux Cayes late yesterday afternoon armed with machetes, clubs and stones, clashed with a Marine patrol. Five of the invaders were killed and twenty wounded.

The invading band came from an outlying section. They met a Marine patrol of twenty men under command of Captain Roy Swink of the National Guard. For an hour a party was held and the soldiers surrounded. They fired three volleys overhead and then opened effective fire with one machine gun and six automatic rifles. None of the defenders was injured.

Quiet in Aux Cayes.
Reports from Aux Cayes this morning said that the city was quiet with members of the band all dispersed. Aux Cayes officials reported that in their judgment yesterday's action has saved the city from looting.

A search made in Jacmel yesterday was reported to have revealed evidence of the smuggling of automatic pistols. Reinforcements arrived there this morning and prepared to make further searches and arrests. The city was quiet and under control as were all other points.

REINFORCEMENTS EMBARK
Norfolk, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Serving as transport for a battalion of Marines to reinforce those already in Haiti, where recent turbulent activities have attracted attention of the President and the Navy and State Departments, the aircraft squadron's flagship Wright was to sail from the naval operating base at Hampton Roads with some 500 Marine corps officers and men today.

The Wright was loaded with supplies, munitions and men at 10 a. m., and was ready to sail on the afternoon tide about 2:30. The naval base headquarters constituted a detachment of about 75 men commanded by Captain Erwin Mehlinger.

BUSINESS CLINIC BIG PROPOSITION

Julius Barnes Will Have to Interview Leaders All Over the Country.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Julius Barnes is finding his task of organizing a National council to guard the welfare of American business one of gigantic proportions.

The project is to remain in the conference and discussion stage for some time and slowly and carefully the members of the council will be chosen.

Barnes was delegated to take charge by the huge gathering of prominent business men which assembled here on Thursday to advance President Hoover's plans for business stabilization.

Large Committee.
As a contemplated council is to be composed of a large committee representing many lines of American business, within which is to be established a smaller working committee.

Barnes purpose as revealed by himself is to interview the business leaders of the nation, discuss the project with small conference groups and study the result before taking definite action.

THREE ENTOMBED IN A COAL MINE

Over 100 Miners Worked All Night to Free Men Trapped by Cave-In.

Morgantown, W. Va., Dec. 7.—(AP) Signal tapping by three miners entombed behind a huge fall of coal in the Brock mine of the Continental Coal Company at Cassville, near here, spurred rescuers early today. Officials of the company said they believed the rescuers were within thirty or thirty-five feet of the trapped men.

Over 100 Rescuers.
More than 100 rescuers, using three cutting machines, hacked away at the fall of coal described as about 200 feet in length when it caved in on the men about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This force worked in shifts throughout the night. The tappings could be heard more distinctly toward dawn, officials said.

The men were believed to have been at work beyond the fall of coal. It was said by rescuers. They are: Sam Kratchen, L. Holt and J. Martindale, the latter two negroes.

TWO MEN ARE KILLED IN A 1,000 FOOT FALL

Were Going Down Into Jersey Iron Man When the Elevator Drops.

Wharton, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—The accidental deaths of two men killed in a fall of 1,000 feet at the Richards iron mine, were reported today.

The victims were George E. Tolley, of Dover, civil engineer and Harry E. Briostus, of Darby, Penn., construction foreman. The men were descending the 1,100 foot main shaft yesterday afternoon in a mine car and had gone about 100 feet when they lost control of the car, which plunged the remaining distance to the bottom. Both were dead when other workmen reached the bottom of the shaft. Their bodies were recovered. Officials of the Allen Good Mining Company, which recently reopened the mine, have not determined the cause of the accident.

PLAN TO CLEAN UP FRONT ST. 'JOINTS'

Chief Farrell, of Hartford, Has Long Been Dissatisfied With Conditions.

Hartford, Dec. 7.—(AP)—That police chief Garrett J. Farrell, had been dissatisfied with the speakeasy situation on the East Side for a long time before the fight between two bootleggers resulted in the slaying of one of them in Front street last Wednesday, came as an official statement from headquarters today following Mayor Batters' directions to the chief yesterday afternoon, that a complete investigation and report of conditions be made to him. The mayor also asked the head of the department to extend his inquiry to reported rumors of "protection collection agents." It is understood that the city's chief executive was referring to a report that an ex-city official has been receiving sums of money

Jury Drinks Up Evidence
In A Prohibition Case

Bend, Ore., Dec. 7.—(AP)—It may be all right for a juror to sample the evidence when he is deliberating on a liquor case in Judge T. E. Dury's court but when half the forbidden juice disappears overnight while in the possession of the juror the judge becomes apprehensive.

Judge Duffy yesterday ordered District Attorney Ross Patton to prepare a contempt citation against an unnamed juror who sat in the case of Mrs. Lulu Cline, charged with violation of the prohibition laws, and declared a mistrial.

Court attaches said a gallon jug was full of evidence when the juror retired to deliberate Thursday night, but that it was only half full when returned to court yesterday morning. They also asserted that one of the jurors had attacked a juror who was 75-year-old and was unable to get into the court building when the juror refused to obtain a bed for him.

French Business Woman
Marries Moslem Prince

Aix Les Bains, France, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Mlle Andree Josephine Caron, young French business woman and the Aga Khan, wealthy Indian sportsman were married here today. They were united by a civil ceremony with a Moslem rite following. A few days before her wedding, Mlle. Caron answered newspaper comment that she looked like a young girl with the statement she really was 31. She ran a small candy shop in Paris and was much more interested in sports than the clothes she would wear at her wedding.

Despite efforts of Aga Khan, who is famous owner of race horses, to keep such details secret it became known she was to receive about a million francs (about $40,000) before the ceremony took place.

Aga Khan's full name is His Highness Sir Sultan Mahomet Shah Aga Khan, Aside from the Pope, the Prince, head of a Moslem sect, has the largest spiritual following in the world.

More than 100 rescuers, using three cutting machines, hacked away at the fall of coal, described as about 200 feet in length when it caved in on the men about 3:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. This force worked in shifts throughout the night. The tappings could be heard more distinctly toward dawn, officials said.

The men were believed to have been at work beyond the fall of coal, it was said by rescuers. They are: Sam Kratchen, L. Holt and J. Martindale, the latter two negroes.

BOARD TAKES OVER THE FOX PICTURE CORP.

Stock Market Crash Hit Company Hard But President Says Financial Problems Will Be Solved.

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Control of the motion picture interests headed by William Fox today was vested in a board of trustees of which the Western Electric Co. and a firm of Wall street bankers is represented.

The board of trustees which was appointed by Mr. Fox consists of himself, John Otiserson, president of Electrical Research Products, Inc., a subsidiary of the Western Electric Co., and H. L. Stuart of Halsey, Stuart & Co., a Wall street banking house.

Heads Both. The Fox Film Corp. and the Fox Theaters Corp. are the principal companies in the Fox holdings to come under the supervision of the board of trustees. Mr. Fox is president of both.

The board of trustees was formed, the statement continues, to facilitate the permanent financing of the projects at the earliest possible moment and to work out a practical plan for the acquisition of the assets of Loew's Inc.

Owes 91 Millions. The New York Times says obligations of $91,000,000 which Mr. Fox arranged on a temporary basis with expectations of plugging them on a permanent financial position are the reasons for the formation of the board of trustees.

The crash of the Stock Market, the Times says, checked plans for a stock offering planned in connection with an amalgamation of all the Fox properties and at the same time impaired collateral used in the temporary financing.

Mr. Fox's motion picture enterprises are estimated to represent assets of $500,000,000.

U. S. MARINES CLASH WITH HAITIEN MOB, KILL FIVE, WOUND 20

COL. HURLEY NEW WAR SECRETARY

Was Once Cowboy; President's Appointment Was No Surprise to Capital.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Colonel Patrick Hurley of Oklahoma, once a cowboy, has been named by President Hoover for Secretary of War to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James W. Good. The nomination was sent to the Senate yesterday afternoon. Colonel Hurley is now Assistant Secretary of War, a position in which he has served since early in the Hoover Administration. He is 46 years old.

Although the selection of Colonel Hurley produced little surprise, from a political standpoint it is regarded as significant in that it is a recognition of the South in Cabinet honors.

Recognition of South. This recognition was stressed when President Hoover at his semi-weekly conference, announced that Colonel Hurley's nomination was then on its way to the Senate. It was said at the White House that his appointment gave expression to the wish of the South that a Cabinet member be chosen from that section and that he had been endorsed by the Senate.

Just under 50 now, the new secretary of war was born in the Choctaw nation, Indian territory. He roamed the plains as a cowpuncher; took a fling at mining, and at 25 became an attorney in Tulsa, Okla., where he has lived since.

He carries his six feet odd with an erectness that testifies to his active life. He is easily one of the handsomest men in Washington public life.

Good Mixer. An ability to make people like him, and to listen attentively and courteously to the troubles of anyone in his department—be the troubled one of high, low or intermediate rank—are commented upon as facets of his character as assistant secretary of war.

MAN ELUDES LAW THIRTEEN YEARS

Texas Swindler Found in New Zealand Where He Was Respected Citizen.

San Pedro, Cal., Dec. 7.—(AP)—After eluding the law for thirteen years, Arthur E. Crouch, former Fort Worth, Tex., grain dealer, today was enroute to Texas to face charges of illegally obtaining $160,000 through the forgery of bills of lading on grain shipments.

Crouch arrived here yesterday aboard the steamship City of Honolulu in custody of Sheriff John R. Bigham of Bell county, Texas, on the last leg of a 16,000 mile trip after the fugitive, Sheriff Bigham left Texas four months ago on information that Crouch was living in Helenville, New Zealand, where he is said to have fled after his alleged forgery operation.

Government Agent. At the time of his arrest, Crouch was living as a highly respected citizen in Helenville, where he was a government land agent, president of a local golf and tennis club, member of the school board and an officer in his church. He has two daughters in a New Zealand college and two sons in business there.

Mrs. Crouch accompanied her husband. The trio traveled as wealthy voyagers, and those aboard the ship were not aware that Crouch was a prisoner.

BUSINESS CLINIC BIG PROPOSITION

Julius Barnes Will Have to Interview Leaders All Over the Country.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Julius Barnes is finding his task of organizing a National council to guard the welfare of American business one of gigantic proportions.

The project is to remain in the conference and discussion stage for some time and slowly and carefully the members of the council will be chosen.

Barnes was delegated to take charge by the huge gathering of prominent business men which assembled here on Thursday to advance President Hoover's plans for business stabilization.

Large Committee. As a contemplated council is to be composed of a large committee representing many lines of American business, within which is to be established a smaller working committee.

Barnes purpose as revealed by himself is to interview the business leaders of the nation, discuss the project with small conference groups and study the result before taking definite action. In the Secretary Lamont, it was announced, late yesterday at the White House has created a new division of the Commerce Department to coordinate Federal construction activities with those of the states.

MENTION GRUNDY FOR VARE'S PLACE

Governor Fisher Announces Appointment May Be Made Some Time Today.

Harrisburg, Pa., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Speculation on the identity of the man to be named by Governor John S. Fisher to fill the post of Junior U. S. Senator from Pennsylvania was advanced by the Senate's rejection of William S. Vare took a wide range today.

No less than a dozen possibilities were advanced in political circles, with Joseph R. Grundy, of Bristol, president of the Pennsylvania manufacturers Association heading the list. Political observers believed Grundy will be offered the appointment, but there was considerable doubt as to his acceptance because of the unfriendly feeling manifest against him by Independent Republicans and Democrats in the Senate during the investigation of his lobbying activities.

Matter of Hours. Gov. Fisher announced in Reading last night that the appointment was "only a matter of hours."

The governor criticized the Senate in refusing to seat Mr. Vare. In a statement to newspapermen, he said: "While I have been opposed to Mr. Vare politically, I regard his election as an established fact. I accepted it as such and issued a corrected certificate of election. In doing this I simply manifest the American spirit of submitting to the will of the majority."

STATE INVENTOR DIES

Palatka, Fla., Dec. 7.—(AP)—William H. Hoyt, 72, artist and inventor of Stamford, Conn., was found dead in bed here at the home of his niece, Mrs. M. M. Vickers, and today his body was being sent to Stamford for burial.

Doctors attributed death to natural causes. Mr. Hoyt had spent the winter in Florida for many years.

French Business Woman Marries Moslem Prince

Aix Les Bains, France, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Mlle Andre Josephine Carron, young French business woman and the Aga Khan, wealthy Indian sportsman were married here today. They were united by a civil ceremony with a Moslem rite following.

A few days before her wedding, Mlle. Carron answered newspaper comment that she looked like 21 years with the statement she really was 31. She ran a small candy shop in Paris and was much more interested in sports than the clothes she would wear at her wedding.

Despite efforts of Aga Khan, who is a famous owner of race horses, to keep such details secret it became known she was to receive about a million francs (about $40,000) before the ceremony took place. Aga Khan's full name is His Highness Sir Sultan Mahomed Shah Aga Khan, Aside from the Pope, the Prince, head of a Moslem sect, has the largest spiritual following in the world.

REINFORCEMENTS EMBARK FOR HAITI

Norfolk, Va., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Serving as transport for a battalion of Marines to reinforce those already in Haiti, where recent turbulent activities have attracted attention of the President and the Navy and State Departments, the aircraft squadron's flagship Wright was to sail from the naval operating base at Hampton Roads with some 500 Marine corps officers and men today.

The Wright was loaded with supplies, munitions and men at 10 a. m., and was ready to sail on the afternoon of Dec. 7. The 1100 navy base barracks constituted a detachment of about 75 men commanded by Captain Erwin Mehlenger.

A detachment of nearly 300 Marines arrived from Quantico at 7:30 a. m., and at once went on board the Wright.

Shortly before 10 a. m. nearly 200 Marines arrived from Parris Island, S. C. At 10 o'clock all were aboard the aircraft ship and the battalion was formed under command of Major Louis E. Fagan of the Marine Corps.

The 500 men will reach Port Au Prince probably by Wednesday or Thursday, joining the some 700 Marines now on the island.

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Troubled times in Haiti have caused the Washington government to mobilize Marines for dispatch to the tiny island republic.

Detachments from the barracks at Quantico, Virginia, and Parris Island, S. C., were concentrated at the Norfolk naval base. The U. S. S. Wright was made ready there to transport approximately 500 men to a "secret" destination for "duty beyond the seas." The vessel was due to start southward this afternoon.

President Hoover prepared a special message to Congress on the Haitian situation.

The administration took action late yesterday after Secretary Stimson had received dispatches from the American high commission saying he feared a "serious situation" may develop. The President's message was sent to the capital in usual manner by a White House messenger but both Houses had adjourned when he arrived.

A detachment of four officers and 273 men boarded a river boat last night at Quantico for the journey to the Potomac to Norfolk and five officers and 120 enlisted men enroute at Norfolk are expected to supply 72 men for the expeditionary force.

The detachment was under the command of Lieut. Lester E. Power. The other officers were Lieut. T. Bailey, Lieut. Roy M. Gulick and Lieut. Walter E. Eaves.

The Wright is flagship of the aircraft squadron of the scouting fleet.

Port Au Prince, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A body of 1,500 men who attempted to invade the city of Aux Cayes late yesterday afternoon armed with machetes, clubs and stones, clashed with a Marine patrol. Five of the invaders were killed and twenty wounded.

The invading band came from an outlying section. They met a Marine patrol of twenty men under command of Captain Roy Swink of the National Guard. For an hour a parley was held and the soldiers surrounded. They fired three volleys overhead and then opened effective fire with one machine gun and six automatic rifles. None of the defenders was injured.

Quiet in Aux Cayes. Reports from Aux Cayes this morning said that the city was quiet with members of the band all dispersed. Aux Cayes officials reported that in their judgment yesterday's action has saved the city from looting.

A search made in Jacmel yesterday was reported to have revealed evidence of the smuggling of automatic pistols. Reinforcements are enroute there this morning and prepared to make further searches and arrests. The city was quiet and under control as were all other points.

Sunday School Lesson

Modern Good Samaritan

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for December 8. The Modern Good Samaritan: Who Is He?—Matt. 25:31-46.

BY WILLIAM E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist

The title of our lesson suggests the importance of reading in connection with it the story of the Good Samaritan, found in the tenth chapter of Luke.

Text: Matt. 25:31-46

When the Son of man shall come in his glory, and all the holy angels with him, then shall he sit upon the throne of his glory: and before him shall be gathered all nations: and he shall separate them one from another, as a shepherd divideth his sheep from the goats:

And he shall set the sheep on his right hand, but the goats on the left. Then shall the King say unto them on his right hand, Come, ye blessed of my Father, inherit the kingdom prepared for you from the foundation of the world:

For I was hungry, and ye gave me meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me drink: I was a stranger, and ye took me in: Naked, and ye clothed me: I was sick, and ye visited me: I was in prison, and ye came unto me.

Then shall the righteous answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee a stranger, and fed thee? or thirsty, and gave thee drink? or naked, and clothed thee?

Or when saw we thee sick, or in prison, and came unto thee? And the King shall answer and say unto them, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye have done it unto one of the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me.

Then shall he say also unto them on the left hand, Depart from me, ye cursed, into everlasting fire, prepared for the devil and his angels: For I was hungry, and ye gave me no meat: I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink:

I was a stranger, and ye took me not in: naked, and ye clothed me not: sick, and ye visited me not. Then shall they also answer him, saying, Lord, when saw we thee a stranger, or a stranger, or naked, or sick, or in prison, and did not minister unto thee?

Then shall he answer them, saying, Verily I say unto you, Inasmuch as ye did it not to one of the least of these, ye did it not to me. And these shall go away into everlasting punishment: but the righteous into life eternal.

Members of the parish are asked to send in their pledge cards by mail or bring them to the church on Sunday morning. All others will be solicited by the canvassers.

NORTH METHODIST EPISCOPAL

Marvin S. Stocking, Pastor. The church school meets each Sunday morning at half past nine. The preacher at the 10:45 worship service will be Rev. Mark A. Dawber, D. D., of Philadelphia, who is one of the outstanding specialists in rural church work in the United States. He has had extended experience as pastor, professor and lecturer. His connection with the Board of Home Missions and Church Extension during the past six years has taken him into all parts of the United States. Dr. Dawber is an interesting speaker who always leaves his audience eager to hear him again. The music of this service will include selections on the organ, anthem by the quartet. "Remember now, thy Creator in the days of thy youth"—Adams and an anthem by the junior choir and the hymns, "Joy to the world"; "Lead, Kindly Light," and "O Master, let me walk with thee."

SOUTH METHODIST

Robert A. Colpitts, Minister. During December the pastor is preaching a series on the "Life of Christ" having as this Sunday's subject, "The Joyous Christ." He argues that the obvious teaching of the Gospels is that despite all pain, misunderstanding, and misery heaped upon Him by His enemies Christ was the gladdest soul that ever lived. Colpitts will discuss the underlying causes for that joyousness. The vested choir will sing Carol from the Latin of the Fourteenth Century by Chadwick; and the "Virgin's Lullaby" by Maunder. This service will be at 10:40 a. m. At 8:45 p. m.—the Epworth League will meet for their service. The church school meets at 9:30 a. m. THE GREATER LOVE

BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE International Sunday-School Lesson Text, Dec. 8. Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.—Lev. 19:18.

If the precept, Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself, were universally observed, everywhere harmony, happiness, and abundance would prevail as an inevitable effect. Hostility, conflicts, and all evils arise from one primary cause, namely, because somewhere self is loved more than others are loved. To love the neighbor as oneself was a law of the Jewish church. That was as high a standard as those distant times could attain. The Lord gave a higher standard than that. Said He, a new commandment I give unto you, That ye love one another as I have loved you. This is a new and more heavenly law than the old Commandment because the Lord loved mankind more than He loved Himself. And to demonstrate this surpassing love He gave the supreme example of laying down His life in that most sacrificial death. To love others more than self is loved, is not beyond the possibility of anyone, because the Lord stands ready to give such love. In fact, He has no other kind of love to give, for He is that love itself. If one's love is less than this, it is because the full measure and quality of the Lord's love is diminished by the recipient. The true Christian standard must be the highest conceivable, and we should try to love others not only as much as we love self, but more than we love self. This is the love that lays down one's life for his friends. To love others more than self is loved, requires great sacrifice, though nothing unwise need be done, nor anything that impairs itself. That supreme love is wisdom itself. Though the sacrifice is great, the sacrifice of the whole of self, the gain is above all comparison, for nothing is so valuable as the love that enables one to love others more than he loves himself. Such a love gifts the soul with hallowed peace, holy life, and the joy divine. This great love is the quest of life, and it contains within it the infinite felicities that the Lord has created us to receive and for which He came into the world to make known and to give. In such wondrous love Jesus reigns over the world, and gives that heavenly love to anyone who will make use of it. The custom of milking cows from the right side is almost universal. The Lord's love is diminished by the recipient.

Christmas Tree King Talks Of His Labors

John McConville Has Sold 30,000 Wreaths and 15,000 Trees During Past Six Years—How the Trees Are Cut and Shipped.

John McConville of 7 Windemere street, Homestead Park section, is Manchester's Christmas Tree King. In the last six years he has distributed in Manchester nearly 30,000 Christmas wreaths, 15,000 Christmas trees of all sizes, and in addition has found time to make some 6,000 yards of Christmas laurel roping for outside decorations. His year's work is pointed toward the climatic moment during these last days of December with but a few weeks in which to market his year's work.

As a result of long hours spent on his hobby—tree-making and wreath-making—Mr. McConville has succeeded in wresting a comfortable living from his sandy acres in the Homestead Park section. Moving to the new farm six years ago, he went about the matter in a logical way. First, he labored early and late to put a roof over the heads of the large family that had come to bless their home. This done, he spent his first summer in the soil, and at harvest time was re-warded with vegetables and fruits from the virgin, yet not too productive soil.

Small Greenhouse

The erection of a small greenhouse taxed the finances of the industrious family so, during the fall, they began their first Christmas wreath and tree supply sideline. All hands worked untiringly, beginning during the middle of October, and working until the first week of December. As a result of this six years' of flagging energy, Manchester's Christmas Tree King finds the business growing beyond the bounds of family capabilities. For all the intensive work of the past few years, the available supply is limited. The late snowstorm put to an end the possibility of gathering added supplies, with which to appease the Christmas rush for decorations.

How Trees Are Cut

Before the last Manchesterite has returned from beach or mountains, the big army of Christmas tree forgers are on their way deep into the fastnesses of the Far North country in search of decorative material for the Christmas trade. Spotted have already signed options on the high ridge scrublands where the best spruce and balsams grow—strong, and conically perfect in the full blasts of northern winter winds.

It is hard work—this tree swamping—miles upon miles of walking over the ridges, through the swamps over the frozen spring-fed streams, and at that it is only a beginning. If one were only to follow the little tree from its hillside home in Vermont, Maine or Canada you would gladly pay the bargain price. Many of the men engaged in cutting and marketing Yuletide trees have been in the business since boyhood. Each season they are driven farther and farther back in the primeval woods of Canada. No reasonable industry can compare with Christmas tree foraging in its intensity during the three months activities.

Much Work

Four thousand wreaths involves a tremendous amount of labor. First, the material must be gathered from the nearby woods and lowlands—labeled, ground pine and many bushes of perfect pine cones. This decorative material then strung on circular wires in a skillful manner. A final touch of color is added in several red-lacquered pine cones, making the whole a pleasing blending appropriate for the holiday windows and doorways. The largest wreaths made by the Manchester nurseryman are four feet in diameter, made especially for large halls or public buildings but the greater number are of the home size.

Trees have become such a part of Mr. McConville's daily life that he has started another branch of this interesting vocation. Last summer he started 8,000 seedling evergreens from cuttings, sweating the roots in the greenhouse sand for a time and then transplanting to the prepared fields in rows about 18 inches apart. Three transplantings become necessary in rapid succession.

Mr. McConville has propagated during the last six years over 60,000 rose shrubs, yearly, in addition to cut flowers and potted plants.

or who have a debutante daughter, Miss Carol Grosvenor, will entertain Miss Culbertson and a large group of other young folk at dinner before ball.

Senator Park Trammell of Florida gave a rather unique party a few days ago in the Senate private dining room when his guests were, not high officials or diplomats or his colleagues in the Senate, but a big gang of little children from the White House. The children, led by Barry, sergeant at arms of the Senate, assisted the Senator in showing the little folk about the Capitol, and a real dinner party with all they could eat and just as many "helpings" of ice cream as they liked, accompanied the meal.

The party was planned by Miss Marie Lorberbaum who recently came to Washington from Austria. Senator Lynn J. Frazier, and his secretary had previously arranged for the youngsters to visit the house where they were shown such sights as historic portraits and busts of great men and lofty chambers, empty save for portraits, mirrors and chairs.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

CONTINUITY RATIFIED

One hundred and forty-two years ago today, on December 7, 1787, Delaware ratified the United States Constitution, the first state to take such action.

Some of the states followed Delaware's example and ratified the Constitution promptly, but others vigorous opposition developed.

It was only after a protracted struggle that the ninth state, New Hampshire, approved the Constitution on June 21, 1788, and by that event it went into force. The two important states of Virginia and New York followed soon after with their endorsement, leaving only Rhode Island and North Carolina in the anomalous position of not being members of the new nation which claimed jurisdiction over the territory.

Today also is the anniversary of the burning of Concordia, Miss., by federal troops on Dec. 7, 1862. On the same day the Confederate cruiser Alabama captured the Ariel.

WOULD BURY WIRES

Bridgeport, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A recommendation to the Public Utilities Commission that high voltage electric wires be placed in underground conduits as contained in a finding of accidental death returned by Deputy Coroner Henry C. Stevenson in the case of William Dougherty, 21, of Ridgefield.

Dougherty, a carpenter, was electrocuted December 3 while working on the estate of William Ingold in Ridgefield. He was sweeping off the roof of a newly constructed chicken house when his foot slipped. To save himself he grasped two high tension wires and was instantly killed.

WOMEN TO HEAR FAMOUS SPEAKER

Mothers Club and Voters League Engage Alice Winsor Hunt for Meeting.

Manchester Mothers club and the Manchester League of Women Voters are joining forces for a large meeting at the South Methodist church on Tuesday evening of next week. They have engaged as a speaker, Alice Winsor Hunt who will discuss international affairs. Local women who have heard her declare they would travel many miles to hear her again.

Miss Hunt prepared for college in the public schools of Rhode Island and was graduated from Wellesley college in 1895 with the degree of A. B. After graduation she taught languages and history in public and private schools for nine years, giving up teaching for study in travel for two years in Europe. On her return to this country she became executive secretary of the Consumers League of Rhode Island, a position she held for ten years. During her connection with this organization she directed the forces that secured the passage of the Street Trades Bill, the 54-Hour Bill, the Night Messenger Bill, the bills abolishing the "Kiss of Death" shuttle and the Common Cup and Common Towel in factories.

Miss Hunt organized the committee of One Hundred, a state-wide committee of influential citizens, to work for the passage of the Rhode Island Children's Bill. This bill, passed on the last night of a legislative session, is of vast importance to Rhode Island children.

Miss Hunt organized and then raised the yearly budget for the Cooperative Employment Bureau in Providence, which for years gave vocational guidance and secured jobs for the boys and girls of the community. During the war she was in charge of the National Child Labor Committee, the Child Labor Commission, and the Providence City Council Miss Hunt was able to get the work of the Cooperative Employment Bureau taken over by the Providence public School system.

At the request of Governor R. Livingston Beekman, Miss Hunt organized and was a member of Governor Beekman's Prize Garden Committee for mill villages which brought about many improvements in the State.

During the war, she served on the National Council of Defense of the United States and as Chairman of the Rhode Island Committee on Women in Industry, of the Council of National Defense. She was recruited by the production experts of the Ordnance Department of the United States Army to assist in increasing the production of an ammunition factory. Because of the successful organization, the output was doubled in three weeks.

After the war, Miss Hunt was one of two women to serve on the Rhode Island Fair Price Committee. She is at present on the advisory Committee of the National Child Labor Committee, on the Council of the National Consumers' League and Vice-President of the Rhode Island Consumers' League. She has been President of the Rhode Island Branch of the A. A. U. W. She was organized the Wellesley College Alumnae Association when she organized the Wellesley Club of Rhode Island. She named and helped to organize the Providence Planning Commission, the Child Labor Commission and became later Director and Vice-President for many years of the League of Women Voters of Rhode Island. For this organization she has helped organize Schools of Folklore and Institutes of International Relations.

Since the war, Miss Hunt has been especially interested in international affairs. She has attended all the conferences in Washington of the Cause and Cure of War Committee. Her paper on the real causes and possible cures of war was chosen as one of two from all those submitted by the delegates to be given to the Conference and to the Press. She has visited the residence of Boleslaw Habarek, 142 Winthrop street, and two officers assigned to watch the place took Korpaek into custody when he drove up to the house in a car which was found to contain ten gallons of alcohol. Korpaek was given a ten day jail sentence and fined $200 and costs when he pleaded guilty in the Police Court to a charge of transporting liquor and Habarek who was arrested on charges of illegal possession of liquor and keeping a place where liquor was sold.

WANTS RIGHT OF WAY

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Secretary of War would be authorized to grant to the Town of Winthrop, Mass., a perpetual right-of-way over such land of the Fort Banks military reservation as is necessary to widen Revere street to width of 50 feet, by a bill introduced today by Representative Underhill, Republican, Massachusetts.

ONCE UPON A TIME

Commander John H. Towers was hurled from a "bucking" seaplane 1700 feet above Chesapeake Bay, without a parachute, and lived to be the oldest flyer in the navy in point of service. It happened in 1913.

Hollywood Sights

Children—Another of fortune's children who walked unsuspectingly into the movies has come to Hollywood.

This one is the small and dainty Joan Peers, who since childhood had planned to be an actress but never had thought of crashing the screen.

Joan, 10 years ago a child actress with Guy Bates Post and others, returned to school and completed her course at the same Hyde Park high school in Chicago which claims Milton Silla as an alumnus.

Then, with a little experience on the Chicago stage to bolster her courage, she sailed New York.

Her first engagement, in a play called "Marry the Man," was short-lived. The show closed. Being free from worry over finances, all she had to do was find another job. Which was plenty.

She sought one rather timidly, she admits, because she was always just a bit awed by the impressive doorman in the casting agents' offices. But one day she walked into an agent's office and was greeted with the surprising news that a part probably was waiting for her. It was her role in the tangle "Applause."

In by Chance

Thus by chance, when she desired stage work, did she become a talkie actress, apparently successful, because soon she was summoned to Hollywood for a part in the new Morning Noon and Mack picture.

And one of her biggest thrills in the film city is the novelty—to her—of living in a real house after a lifetime of apartment-dwelling!

With the backstage themes pretty well exhausted in the casting agent's offices, she is now in the walk into an agent's office and was greeted with the surprising news that a part probably was waiting for her. It was her role in the tangle "Applause."

The church was decorated in Christmas greens, while the gowns of the bridal attendants were fashioned of white and red satin. The capes of their flowing white satin frocks were lined with red. Crimson turbans and bows on their slippers completed the color scheme.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin, designed with a long court train and a wide flounce of rose point lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Society's charity activities filled the greater part of the week. Fashionables with lengthy Christmas lists and a charitable urge urged the gift of prohibition, and looked their share to benevolence by attending the benefit sale given at the Women's University Club in aid of the Grenfell Association.

There they purchased carved ivory, skin boots and toys made by the residents of Labrador, and sold by debutantes garbed in the fur suits and hoods of the Far North.

Other smart folk collected last year's frocks and last century's household knick-knacks and took them to the Old Canteen's rummage sale where they were sold in aid of disabled World War veterans. Still others contributed to the prosperity shop which sold rummage, and gave tea and supper dances at the St. Regis for the benefit of numerous playground associations.

The Russian exhibit and bazaar on West 57 street was visited each day by members of society whose purchases of Palekh boxes, Caucasian silverware and Ukrainian rug and shawls contributed to the support of the Paxton Hibben Memorial Hospital Fund.

The debutantes, meanwhile, busied themselves with plans for the opening of the new Junior League headquarters, which takes place December 8. During the afternoon officers of the league will hold a reception.

A glass-enclosed swimming pool, a theater school, a baby shelter with sunlit wards to carry on the League's charity work, and even a dog room for the care of neglected canines have been included in the new headquarters.

Cold weather has brought the indoor polo season. The arena of Squadron A headquarters on Madison avenue resounds these days to the click of mallets and the clatter of horses hoofs and Saturday evening finds the galleries packed. The Riding Club is also taking an interest in indoor polo and many of the smart folk may be seen cantering around its tankard.

Trap-shooting has attracted other members of society who have country homes on Long Island. The men hold their shoots on Thursday afternoons, the men on Saturdays. Mrs. Hunt T. Dickinson is acting as chairman of arrangements for the women's shoots. Among other feminine members of society who are taking in the sport are Mrs. Norman K. Toogry, Mrs. Edward P. New York Society Notes

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—With the winter's first snow coating Park avenue and its byways, this week's activities of fashionable New York took on the crimson tint of Christmas festivities.

Weddings, which have become as numerous in December as they once were in June, the balls and charity bazaars which the fashionables gave for the benefit of "the other half" sounded a note of holiday gaiety.

This year's festivities seem designed to have an eye to the amusement of the older members of society instead of exclusive entertainment for the debutantes and collegians, and several parties excluded the butterfly altogether.

An old-fashioned street fair, set in the background of a Park avenue hotel, was the method chosen by Mr. and Mrs. Robert T. Stone for the amusement of the young married smart folk Tuesday night. Their guests, costumed as Egyptian slaves, snake-charmers and country yokels, arrived at dinner time to be ushered into the ball room, decked with poinsettias, palms and holiday greens. Hundreds of colored lanterns and balloons swung from the ceiling, which was banked with silver smilax.

After dinner was served from small tables the guests danced to the strains of a jazz orchestra and joined in the street-fair amusements until midnight when they were entertained by specialty dancers and saxophone players who gave a novel rendition of the ever-popular "blues."

The December ball, given at the Ritz-Carlton Thursday night in aid of the Goswami Neighborhood House gave the "debs" an opportunity to bask in the social limelight once more. Miss Gladys Rockefeller, Miss Anne Vanderhoef and Miss Leta Clews were among the season's butterflies who served on the debutante committee for the affair.

Others graded as important in the fashion show displaying what the most feted girls in America wear from morning until night.

At supper time came the cabaret entertainment when Miss June Blosom, another debutante, and Ward Goss gave an exhibition of dancing, showing the new slow side step that marks this season's fox-trot.

Mrs. Clifford Brokaw, Jr., and Mrs. Frank P. Shepard were among those who assisted in arranging the affair.

The wedding of Miss Anne Crawford and John Boyd Ballantine sounded the holiday note in the decorations which marked the ceremony in the Central Presbyterian church.

The church was decorated in Christmas greens, while the gowns of the bridal attendants were fashioned of white and red satin. The capes of their flowing white satin frocks were lined with red. Crimson turbans and bows on their slippers completed the color scheme.

The bride's gown was of ivory satin, designed with a long court train and a wide flounce of rose point lace. Her tulle veil was held in place by orange blossoms and she carried a shower bouquet of gardenias and lilies of the valley.

Society's charity activities filled the greater part of the week. Fashionables with lengthy Christmas lists and a charitable urge urged the gift of prohibition, and looked their share to benevolence by attending the benefit sale given at the Women's University Club in aid of the Grenfell Association.

There they purchased carved ivory, skin boots and toys made by the residents of Labrador, and sold by debutantes garbed in the fur suits and hoods of the Far North.

Other smart folk collected last year's frocks and last century's household knick-knacks and took them to the Old Canteen's rummage sale where they were sold in aid of disabled World War veterans. Still others contributed to the prosperity shop which sold rummage, and gave tea and supper dances at the St. Regis for the benefit of numerous playground associations.

The Russian exhibit and bazaar on West 57 street was visited each day by members of society whose purchases of Palekh boxes, Caucasian silverware and Ukrainian rug and shawls contributed to the support of the Paxton Hibben Memorial Hospital Fund.

The debutantes, meanwhile, busied themselves with plans for the opening of the new Junior League headquarters, which takes place December 8. During the afternoon officers of the league will hold a reception.

A glass-enclosed swimming pool, a theater school, a baby shelter with sunlit wards to carry on the League's charity work, and even a dog room for the care of neglected canines have been included in the new headquarters.

Cold weather has brought the indoor polo season. The arena of Squadron A headquarters on Madison avenue resounds these days to the click of mallets and the clatter of horses hoofs and Saturday evening finds the galleries packed. The Riding Club is also taking an interest in indoor polo and many of the smart folk may be seen cantering around its tankard.

REFUSE BOSTON TEMPLE FOR RITCHIE'S ADDRESS

Boston, Dec. 7.—(AP)—An official of Tremont Temple, a large Baptist church in which meetings of a political character are frequently held, has denied use of the building to the Liberal Civic League for an address by Governor Albert C. Ritchie of Maryland on the expiration of his state, under prohibition. Gov. Ritchie will speak here in another hall next Tuesday.

The trustees of the Boston elevated have also refused the use of their cars for posters on the ground that "the meeting was on a controversial subject."

The temple, one of the oldest and largest Baptist churches in the city has been frequently rented for political gatherings and meetings of a non-religious nature.

Trenton, N. J. — To be healthy live in the city. Dr. George E. Vincent, president of the Rockefeller Foundation, told a conference of social workers that the city more than the country is productive of healthy people.

New York—If you wish to telephone anybody crossing the ocean on the Leviathan just tell the operator in your own exchange. The ball cost for service starting tomorrow will be $7 a minute, nothing less than three minutes accepted. The base rate will apply in eastern states. Calls from other states will cost more.

Philadelphia—"It" said it good; my daddy cooked it," said a little girl when a butcher was doubtful about a quarter. As a result of her remark three men and a woman were arrested for running a counterfeiting plant.

Paris—A plaque in the National library notes the fiftieth anniversary of the death of Edouard Leon Scott de Martinville, whose apparatus, called the "phonograph," a crude sound reproducer, was built twenty years before Edison's machine was invented.

Viareggio, Italy—A monument is to be erected here to the memory of Giacomo Puccini, composer of "Madame Butterfly," "Tosca," "La Boheme" and many other operas. A committee will seek to induce the government to choose it for the National monument for which a prize of $8,000 has been offered.

Greenwich, Conn. — Mr. Tunney has been terribly embarrassed, as he described it, by getting into a ring in unfamiliar atmosphere. He made a speech at bouts for charity, finding consolation for his embarrassment as a non-combatant by the immunity of the ordinary spectator from being hurt physically or mentally. Mrs. Tunney was not present.

Booneville, Ark. — Roy Houston, 10, once doubtful, is now firmly convinced that one's tongue will stick on frosted steel. He tried it on a rail as a locomotive approached. It was so. The locomotive was switched to another track and steam was turned on the rail till he could get his tongue off.

New York—Bill McLaughlin is a pilot who takes big liners down the harbor or meets them and guides them to their piers. He is now on a vacation. Much of the first day of it he spent watching the Leviathan being docked by one of his colleagues. When he retires he hopes to make a voyage around the world.

MOSCOW APPROVES CHINESE PROPOSAL

Not to Employ Russians to Run Railway—This Was Cause of the Trouble.

Mukden, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The Mukden political council today dispatched a message to Moscow approving the preliminary agreement reached between Chinese and Russian delegates for the settlement of the Chinese Eastern Railway controversy. After prolonged discussions over the preliminary agreement negotiated by representatives of Russia and China at Nikolai-Ussuriyskiy, Siberia, December 3, the Mukden council, to which the Chinese delegates reported decided to withdraw its objection to one of the Russian demands.

Accordingly the council decided no longer to oppose Moscow's insistence on the re-employment of Emsahoff and Eismont, respectively former manager and assistant manager of the railway, in other capacities. In the conversation at Nikolai-Ussuriyskiy, Chinese delegates had refused to grant this condition and referred the matter to the Mukden council upon their return here.

The Chinese council conceded this point in view of the Soviet's delegates promise that the Sino-Russian agreement of 1924 under which the railway was being operated prior to its being taken over by the Chinese last summer would be fulfilled. This agreement binds Russia not to carry on propaganda work in the railway area.

It was reported that the president of the Chinese Eastern resigned thus making possible the accomplishment of the Nikolai-Ussuriyskiy arrangement for the appointment of a new president.

Teng Yun-Sheng, Chinese commissioner of foreign affairs at Harbin was appointed as delegate to represent Mukden in further discussions of the situation with Russian representatives.

FIVE KILLED BY BLAST

Pittsburgh, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A second explosion occurred today near the scene of the blast that killed five persons and injured a number of others in Muncie, a suburb, yesterday. The second explosion was in the Star drug store and an adjoining restaurant. Yesterday's blast demolished the Muncie post office building.

Several persons were said to have been brought to the Homestead hospital. At the hospital it was said that one injured had been brought there.

The extent of the blast was not determined. Reports said the drug store and restaurant were wrecked.

Society Notes From Capital

Washington, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Mrs. Hoover First Lady of the Land, and some ladies of the Cabinet circle, dissociated music from real society events as affected by official mourning and when on Wednesday morning the first of the series of Townsend morning musicals was given.

To keep any official significance from being attached to her presence, Mrs. Hoover left the White House vacant and occupied a seat quite in the rear of other guests. However, her presence could not pass unnoticed for the White House limousine with its huge coat of arms stood before the hotel where the musicale was given and, spying it, a large number of persons congregated in the street to see her drive off to the White House. She wore a black fur coat and a small black hat with a rim shading her eyes.

PREVENTING STAMPEDE
 The thing which President Hoover is calling all the conference about, which has caused the gathering of a thousand industrial leaders in Washington, which has brought about a spirited mobilization of the brains and capital of the nation in preparation against a possible invasion by depression, is one of the most curious freaks of psychology that this country has ever encountered.

Absolutely nothing is the matter that hasn't been the matter for months and years; there isn't a fundamental thing wrong; many things are extraordinarily right. Yet because a Wall street bubble which every sane human being knew was going to blow up did blow up it becomes necessary to go to all this trouble in order to prevent a stampede when there is nothing but a tiny shadow to frighten the herd.

To this extent and no more could the Wall street blow-up affect business in the United States: A certain relatively tiny part of the people of this country who had carried their money to the gambling table of Wall street went broke. We don't know how many of them there were, but we doubt very much if they were more than a couple of hundred thousand in the whole Union. Grant that the victims of the market collapse were a million. That would mean that the purchasing power of about one person in a hundred in the whole nation was seriously curtailed or temporarily destroyed. Other than that there could be no possible effect of the so-called financial debacle. And there has been no financial debacle. Money is more plentiful and cheaper than it was before the smash. Credit it at least as easy. The only cloud in the business sky is the fact that one per cent of the people are "out of the market" for the luxuries. They must still somehow or other buy the necessities, even if they have to go to work.

If any one can show us where the stock market is or possibly can be responsible for a shrinkage of more than a major fraction of one per cent in the prospective volume of business for the next six months we shall thank him for the enlightenment. And what, if you please, is half of one per cent business loss—and that temporary—to worry about?

Yet with no more basis than this, too much gabble about "possible panics" "succeeding depression," and so on, at the time of the bubble's bursting, has made it advisable for the President to have the orchestra, so to speak, play the "Star Spangled Banner" to keep the audience from stepping on itself.

HOOVER ON RUM
 Extremist who like Dr. Clarence True Wilson are thanking God, since their reading of the President's message, that they now have in the White House a dry as fanatic as themselves, may well be suffering from a lopsided interpretation of the President's utterances on the subject of prohibition. When Mr. Hoover said "If the law is upheld only by government officials, then all law is at an end," the fanatic drys jumped at the conclusion that he had lined up at last squarely alongside themselves. For our part we think we see very different implications in that part of the message.

In the first place we believe in the honesty and candor of the President. We believe that when he created his Commission on Law Observance and Enforcement he was seeking, in the only really intelligent way, an answer to the prohibition problem and kindred ills. We believe him when he said that he regards prohibition as a noble experiment—and still believe him. We do not for a moment believe that he called prohibition an experiment and at the same time believed it to be a settled and immutable principle of right. If we did we should have to believe him a liar, and though Dr. Wilson may be willing to do that we are not.

Having appointed his commission, any expression of opinion on his part as to the eventual solution of the liquor problem, in advance of its findings, would be not only in extremely bad taste but would put the President altogether out of character. Calling prohibition an experiment and then appointing a remarkably able board to find out whether the experiment was a potential successor a proven failure, committed Mr. Hoover to a waiting policy till the facts could be learned. He has said or done nothing to indicate in the slightest degree that he is not waiting, with completely open mind.

Inevitably, until he knows the truth about prohibition he is, by virtue of his office, bound to render the prohibitory laws such support as it is possible to give to them. This he is doing, more diligently than his predecessors, because he is one who appreciates very gravely the meaning of the word "duty." But with the genius of the forward-soldier for lines of retreat as well as lines of advance he has thrown into his urge for compliance with the law this almost cryptic utterance quoted in the first paragraph of this article—"If the law is upheld only by government officials then all law is at an end."

The fanatic drys may see in these words the desperate battle cry of a prohibitionist who believes that the world begins and ends with the alternative of a legalized or an illegal rum traffic, but we see in it a quite clear admission that if there is no popular support for a prohibitory law then there is no such thing as a prohibitory law in substance, nothing but a shadow.

Mr. Hoover's Commission is going to find out, unless we are lamentably mistaken, just how much popular support there is for the Eighteenth amendment and the Volstead act. If it reports that the popular support is lacking or confined to a small and inactive part of the population, the President will be, in view of this message phrasing, in an absolutely perfect position to recommend the repeal or modification of a law which is "at an end."

SPEED
 The actuary department of the Travelers Insurance Company estimates that the deaths from automobile accidents in the United States during this year will total more than 29,000. If this rate were to be merely maintained for three years more the total toll taken by motor vehicles would be, for a four-year period, 116,000 lives; and this without making any account of the fact that the proportion of automobile fatalities to the population increase every annual period. For four years the Northern states and the Southern states of the American Union were locked in a death grapple so bloody that it shocked the world. No such desperate fighting had been known in modern times. The losses in many of the battles were terrific. It was America's most terrible experience; it bled the nation white and almost drowned it in years.

Yet there died on the field of battle in the War of the Rebellion only a slightly larger number of human beings than the automobile is killing in the same length of time.

Sixty-five thousand Union soldiers and sixty thousand Confederate soldiers, as nearly as can be told, were killed in action in the Civil War. One hundred and twenty-five thousand slain by the guns and bayonets of a stupendous war. One hundred and sixteen thousand men, women and children are to be killed by motor vehicles in the number of months that reached from Bull Run to Appomattox. Sixty-five thousand died on the field of battle that a nation might survive. Sixty thousand died for their states and their homes. One hundred and sixteen thousand are dead or are to die to make a mourning holiday, to justify the speed advertisements of automobile manufacturers, to gratify the appetite for thrills.

Can nothing under God's heavens arouse the people of this country to the horror of this situation? Are we to permit ourselves to be destroyed by a toy and a pastime?

SENATE WORST HURT
 As was very generally anticipated the steam roller went over William S. Vare and, after an outrageous delay of years the Pennsylvania man has been denied admission to the United States Senate. Connecticut citizens have reason to congratulate themselves that neither of their Senators had any part in this hypocritical and presumptuous assault on the right of a sovereign state to choose its own Senate representation.

An infinitely bad precedent has been established. But it is a precedent that in one way or another will eventually be demolished. We cannot run this government according to its constitution and at the same time according to such mad whimsies as this. And what we simply cannot do we will not long waste effort and public confidence in trying to do.

Vare is not particularly injured by this proceeding. Instead of being quite generally regarded as a political blackleg he is now privileged to be thought of as a martyr. Nor is the state of Pennsylvania materially damaged, for the blow is to its dignity and can be survived. But the Senate of the United States is bound to be a real sufferer from its own excesses. The Vare episode adds just one more to a series of achievements by that body well calculated to bring it into contempt with a hundred and twenty million people, most of whom already entertain serious suspicion as to its value.

ANTI-SKID
 Somebody is going to invent an appliance, some of these fine days, that will keep an automobile from skidding on the ice or on greasy wet pavements and from becoming stalled in the snow through loss of traction. Whether it will be a chain or some material more effective than metal and more durable than rubber, whether it will be some entirely different appliance connected with the tire tread or whether it will be something that applies itself to the car's contact with the road in some yet unthought-of way we can't even guess—we wish we could. But there is a tremendous need for greater safety than is now possible, even with the most careful driving, under special weather conditions; and when a very great mechanical need exists in this country it isn't very long, as a rule, before some village dreamer or some mechanical scientist or some factory hand—as likely one as the other—solves it.

Health and Diet Advice
 By DR. FRANK MCCOY

WHAT'S WRONG WITH YOUR SHAPE?
 The science of form is called morphology. We may do well to study this science in its relationship to the formation of the human body. The conformation of the various muscles, bones, and tissues, and the habitual postures we assume, are all the results of our physical and mental habits.

The one who is shapelessly thin is so, possibly, because of a tendency in that direction, but many errors of life on the physical and mental plane have only served to exaggerate the natural tendency. The thin person is generally nervous and irritable, and the proper practice of thought control will tend to overcome these nervous habits and assist in correcting metabolism. This type is so active physically that they burn up too much muscular and nerve tissue. Regulated periods of rest will bring about a gain in weight and a relaxed feeling of repressed strength.

The one inclined to obesity is liable to be lazy mentally and physically. Too much relaxation with this type will encourage the gaining of more weight, with a sluggishness of mind and a more misshapen body with perhaps a protruding abdomen and an ill-proportioned figure. Less food and more exercise will easily restore the body to a symmetrical form.

One who sits at a desk all day often finds after a few years that weight is accumulating around the mid-section. If his work requires so much of this sitting posture, the only cure will be found in taking a long walk each day, increasing the distance until the excess baggage is removed. Time for this will be found in the early morning or just before dinner in the evening. If hours of work seem to interfere, give up an hour or more from your work for this profitable and pleasant exercise, and you will be richly repaid in more "pep" both mentally and physically.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER
 BY RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Dec. 7.—Frequently one hears the householder or housewife muttering about the good old days when eggs were "only 10 cents a dozen," talking as if eggs were a horrible example of the way the cost of living has gone up since the war.

Fact is, eggs are about the cheapest thing anyone can buy for a meal, if you compare present prices with pre-war prices. Eggs last year cost less than 35 per cent more than the eggs of 1913 cost. In 1913, whereas nearly all the other commoner articles of food showed an increase of from more than 50 per cent up to nearly 100 per cent. The only foods of importance which haven't gone higher in proportion than eggs are sugar, lard and rice.

Thus, anyone who lives on a diet of eggs can make his money go further as compared with pre-war prices than by any other method, insofar as food is concerned—unless, of course, one cares to live on rice, which is a much better bargain. Here is a list showing the percentage of increases of 1928 food prices over 1913 prices:

Ham 98 per cent, round steak 88, sirloin steak 88, rib roast 77, corn meal 77, hens 76, chuck roast 74, cheese 74, pork chops 66, coffee 65, flour 64, bacon 63, bread 62.5, milk 60, potatoes 59, plate beef 57, butter 47.5, tea 42, eggs 34.5, sugar 29, lard 18 and so on, omitting most of the decimal points.

If anyone doesn't believe these figures he can ask the U. S. Bureau of Labor Statistics, which went to a great deal of trouble in compiling them.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec. 7.—The kaleidoscope of the week—And now the curtain descends slowly upon the Raymond Hitchcock as merry a wag as any—on or off the stage.

Here was a clown who had met Broadway at every corner and in every phase—as chorus man, producer and star. It was typical of the big street's fateful role that he should be stricken out west within a few days of the time when he planned to stage a hilarious comeback on the Great White Way.

He generally carried a prank or two in his sleeve when he was "out in company." He had a liberal education in this, however, from playing master of ceremonies in the pioneer intimate reviews.

I recall a couple of winters ago, noting him with a party at Texas Guinan's late resort. Tex, as usual, was calling out, during the course of the entertainment: "Come on, now, give the little girl a hand."

that he put up $50,000 more and saved the show.

While Harry Richmond, whose name reached the front pages, thanks to Clara Bow, is coming back to be a supper club entertainer again. . . . Al Smith has taken to eating in Childs restaurants. . . . But not because of the market.

Angus Enters, the charming little artist who came solo dancing out of the west only to wind up before such crowned heads as are left in Europe, came back to Broadway a few days ago. . . . Cole Porter, whose musical show, "Fifty Million Frenchmen," just opened, is a millionaire, but would rather write songs and lyrics. . . . And "does. . . . He has a chateau in France where he entertains American literary folk during the winter season. . . . And he makes enough money from his songs to be wealthy, even if he hadn't been already.

ROCKVILLE

Elks' Boxing Show.

On December 19 one of the biggest boxing exhibitions that has been staged in Connecticut in a great many years, bringing to Rockville some of the "kings" of the prize ring, will take place in Town Hall.

The exhibition will be held under the auspices of the local Lodge of Elks and the proceeds will be used for charity and placed in the Christmas fund.

Three big figures of the boxing world, Jack Battalino, Kid Kaplan and Jack Delaney will be the steeple drawing card. Rulers Thomas F. O'Loughlin and George H. Williams, well-known leading Knight John P. Cameron have been quietly at work making plans for this trio to come.

In addition to the big fellows six bouts have been arranged. New Year's Ball. Plans have been completed for the 54th annual New Year's ball and whist, under the auspices of Division No. 1, Ancient Order of Hibernians, and its Ladies Auxiliary.

LAST OF DUO-DOLLAR AUCTIONS WEDNESDAY

Novel Trade Boosting Campaign of Manchester Merchants Has Proven Successful.

Duo-Dollar ends its reign over Manchester, which has extended over a period of four months, with a last grand flourish at the State Theater, next Wednesday evening, when a list of 102 articles will be auctioned off to the highest bidder.

And by high, is meant high, in that months in which have had two Duos instead of the usual one, there having been no auction in November.

Then too, the Christmas shopping season is now here, and Duo-Dollar is disappearing like snow in a spring thaw.

At the last auction, the bids were unusually high and on Wednesday evening should approach the 100,000 mark for all the articles.

Merchants say the campaign has had a marked effect on business. Manchester people are shopping in Manchester. And that was the goal at which the merchants aimed.

Get to the State early on Wednesday night. The box office opens at 5:45 o'clock. The performance will be at 8:15 and the final Duo-Dollar auction will start at 8 o'clock.

The System. All duo-dollar auctions are silent. Bids must be written on a separate slip (obtainable at all duo-dollar stores.)

The bidder must place his written bid in the duo-dollar auction box at the State theater lobby by Tuesday night, Dec. 10.

The bidder or his representative with the bidding slip stub must be at the auction to pay for the article won with duo-dollars when his name is called.

The highest bidder wins, but if the highest bidder or his representative is not in the theater to pay, the article goes to the next highest bidder. If neither are present the article will be sold by the auctioneer at open auction.

You can bid more than once on each article but only the last bid on each article counts.

The bids will be rebid at the auction on duo-dollar bidding slips.

You and your friends may combine your duo-dollars.

Merchants and clerks are not permitted to participate in the auction in any way.

RANGER, FAMOUS DOG IN CIRCLE PICTURE

Two Features in Week-End Program at Oak Street Motion Picture House.

Ranger, the screen's most famous dog star, in "Fury of the Wild," heads an unusually attractive double feature program at the Circle Saturday and Sunday.

Norman Kerry, Margaret Morris and Robert Fraser in "The Woman I Love" is the other feature attraction.

"Fury of the Wild" is undoubtedly one of the season's outstanding dog pictures. It is somewhat an innovation, so far as this type of picture is concerned, the picture being based on the loyalty of a dog to an ex-convict who has served a year in prison on a false charge.

Discouraged by his prison experience, the youthful jailbird in company with his dog, seeks an honest living.

"Temptation" is constantly thrust upon him but trust in his canine pal forces him to stick to the straight and narrow. However, he eventually finds that his past overtakes him and brands him a social outcast.

The canine star is entitled to most of the plaudits, because of his perfect pantomime performance. Barbara Worth and Pat O'Brien play the two leading "human" roles, and both give excellent portrayals.

"The Woman I Love" carries the answer to many human problems in a fashion that provides entertainment that comes to the screen only at rare intervals.

The story pulls at the heart strings of anyone who has ever been in love—or anybody who ever expects to be in love. The picture is based on the story that won the prize contest conducted by True Story Magazine, and has Norman Kerry, Margaret Morris and Robert Fraser in the leading roles.

It is real, human, revealing. A husband's blind devotion is pitted against the ruthless cunning of another's desire. It is packed with heart interest, pathos and thrills.

Chapter nine of "The Final Reckoning" and a cartoon comedy complete the bill.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Jesus was speaking in our lesson to those who did make profession of religion. They thought of themselves as the chosen of God. They were proud of their religious privilege and situation.

Jesus challenged this pride. He asked them plainly what their religion meant. What the use of religion to what people professed but in relation to their actual needs.

There is, however, a phase of this emphasis of Jesus upon practical conduct which needs, also, to be grasped very clearly. No one was more subject to the scorn and reproach of Jesus than those who made their acts of professed charity an occasion of pride and self-satisfaction.

There is a type of man whose professed benevolence is very largely a form of self-gratification and of pride. The good deed in the conception of Jesus is determined not only by its outward quality and aspect but by the spirit in which it is done.

Those whom Jesus commended for their care of the needy revealed the inner quality of their characters in their surprise that the King should have found them worthy. They were conscious of having done nothing more than they ought to have done; in fact, there was in them the appalling sense that they had done so little to meet the great needs of their fellow men.

It is only where the true spirit goes with the deed that goodness comes to its full fruition and expression.

Most readers will recognize the passage in our lesson as largely in the nature of a figure or parable, but this parabolic form need not lead to less emphasis upon the fact that human destiny is associated with these characters and acts of good or evil.

The way of life is the way of service and helpfulness. The way of death is the way of selfishness and pride. We can see how true this is in the life of mankind. It is the deeds of mercy and of unselfishness that conserve and uplift society.

It is the lives of thoughtfulness and selflessness and disregard of the deeds of one's fellow men that destroy and break down society, and what is true of society is true, also, of the individual. We cannot see all these destinies always so clearly marked.

We see the wicked prospering and "spreading himself like a green bay tree," but to the eye that looks deeper the destinies are none the less marked. We choose our way in life with goals that lead inevitably to heaven or to hell, and no matter what the changed form or conception of that goal, it is there, and it still represents for all thoughtful men goals and destinies of glory and triumph or of defeat, degradation, and despair.

GEO. BANCROFT STARS IN "MIGHTY" AT STATE

"The Mighty," which comes to the State Sunday, Monday and Tuesday, is an extraordinary all-talking action-melodrama, with George Bancroft in his greatest role, plus speed of the best sound thrillers.

Words cannot paint in the thrills, the suspense, the drama, the action that is literally packed into this screen epic. Words can only tell you that "The Mighty" is a picture that you will rave about.

Blake Glesson, played by George Bancroft, was a tough gunman. He didn't care if there was a war, he wasn't going even if he had been drafted three weeks previous.

Warner Oland was the mob leader, and Bancroft was his best gunman. But Glesson went to war, even if it did take four M. P.'s to put him in the service. His natural instinct for gunning finds him emerging from the war a full fledged major and a national hero.

He is very impatient to get back to his old haunts. In a city where he stops to see the family of an overseas buddy, he is offered the post of commissioner of Public Safety and accepts, to further his own interests. He soon rides the city of all gangsters and then assembles his own gang for a grand coup.

The gang becomes restless and decides to go ahead without the chief. That becomes the most startling bit of action you have seen in years. Bancroft at the head of over two score of mounted motorcycle officers goes in pursuit of a powerful gang of handits. If there is a drop of real blood in you, you will forget your dignity and cheer as you have never cheered before.

Esther Ralston has the leading feminine role, and the supporting cast includes Warner Oland, Raymond Hatton, Dorothy Revier, Morgan Farley and O. P. Heggie.

"Harry Langdon in 'Hotter Than Hot,' 'The Opry House,' with Lew Hearn and Doris Walker, Oklahoma, Bob Albrit and his Rodeo Do-Flappers, and the latest sound news complete the program.

TWO WIDOWS FIGHT FOR REBEL'S ESTATE

Chihuahua, Mex. Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two widows of the late rebel leader Francisco Villa have appealed to the district court here to decide which is entitled to his properties.

Mrs. Austreberta Renteria de Villa, claiming to be Villa's only legitimate widow, has filed suit against Mrs. Lux Corral de Villa, who is in possession of the properties by which she has been the last woman Villa married.

The properties include a hotel in Parral. The plaintiff also demands the Hacienda Canutillo, which the government gave Villa and which it reclaimed upon his death.

BRITISH SEE BENEFIT IN AMERICAN SLUMP

London.—(AP)—Old Dr. Wall Street, who has been curing many Americans of the speculative fever, over here is looked upon as a great surgeon.

Some financial and political observers, in fact, seem to think that the amputations in America will be chronic and most grievous illness—unemployment.

For unemployment in England, they rightly or wrongly believe, is to some extent the fault of American speculators. Unquestionably the margin speculator in Wall street, by his willingness to pay high rates for call money, attracted much gold from England which otherwise might have remained here to finance a revival of British industry.

Now that he has lost his appetite for high priced money, the gold has been coming back to this way. Theoretically that should mean abundant capital for new British enterprises and public improvements likely to stimulate employment.

However, there are a few analysts of the situation who decline to be over-enthusiastic, even though they admit the home-coming of gold from America is a healthy symptom.

Money poured into industry, they point out, has to be skillfully poured into the right channels or it may have little effect on employment.

In about 250 of these new enterprises the public put, during 1925, approximately $370,000,000, this being the "cash value" of the various stock issues at their price of issue. Before the boom was over many were selling at four and five times their price of issue.

Now, however, the margin value of these 250 issues aggregates less than $24,000,000, an aggregate slump of 50 per cent. from the high point of 1925.

Old Dungeon Cellar Yields To Modern Useful Basement

Even the family dog hated the oldstyle basement. And for good cause; because "below stairs" was dark, dank and generally unpleasant, a place fit only for the furnace, garden tools, collections of old magazines and papers and piles of odds and ends which should have been promptly eliminated.

Nowadays the basement is benefiting by the basic idea of modernism, which is, reduced to its simplest terms, utility. The modern builder has little patience with useless, inefficient or waste space. The modern idea is—if it doesn't serve or cannot be made to serve a definite purpose, decorate or utilitarian—junk it.

Family Uses Modern Basement

So the modern basement is made as livable, comfortable and useful as any other part of the house. Modern heating plants are clean and, in some cases, positively good looking. And modern construction has made it easily possible to have a basement that is dry, warm, healthful and easily useful as a recreation room for adults as well as for the youngsters, or a study or music room or for any other purpose which may appeal to the family.

The fundamental factors to be considered in building a modern, useful basement are these: First, adequate exterior drainage to relieve all but normal moisture from the outside of the basement wall; second, moisture-proof wall construction, and, third, moisture-proof basement floors.

Naturally, methods will vary according to the local conditions. In some cases exterior drainage may be ample, thus eliminating the need for artificial drains; in others, a line of drain tile may be needed.

Water-Sealing Prevents Moisture

But in all cases it is important that the wall, from footings to a point well above grade, should not only be strong, but impervious to moisture. Concrete, in either monolithic (solid) or masonry form, makes an excellent basement wall, assuming, of course, that the builder understands the modern technique of concreting. If concrete masonry is used in cases where the ground moisture is excessive, a coat of Portland cement plaster on the outside face forms an effective water seal.

Concrete for the basement floor should be cast on a compacted layer of cinders or gravel. Once in place, such a floor offers diverting decorative possibilities. The concrete itself can be colored with stains or with a topping of colored concrete. It can be marked off in squares or irregular shapes, and polished with ordinary floor wax; or special concrete or ceramic tile may be laid over the base.

Ample lights, cleanly plastered walls and a fireplace add the final touch and eliminate the last traces of the old-fashioned, unhealthy and unhappy dungeon.

Good architecture survives contemporary building style just as the paintings of old masters lose none of their value with the advent of the modernist schools.

The Colonial house pictured here is "built for the future."

Throughout it is of wood construction. The exterior is of white-painted cedar shingles. Shutters are blue and brick chimneys are painted white. There is an oaken front door, also white-painted, with leaded glass sides and an old brass knocker.

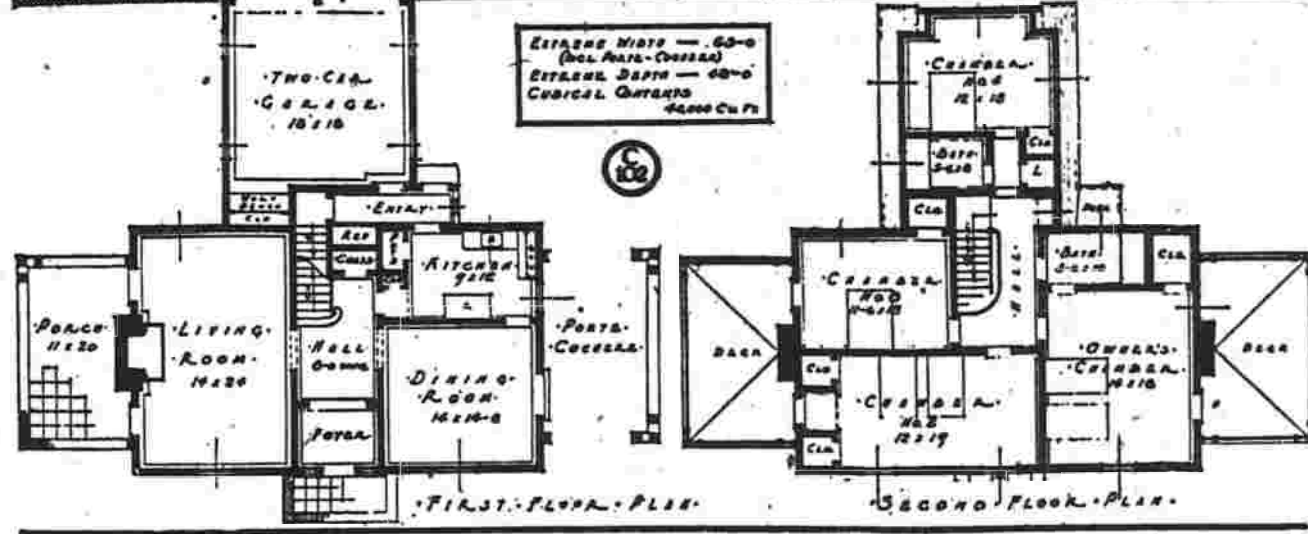

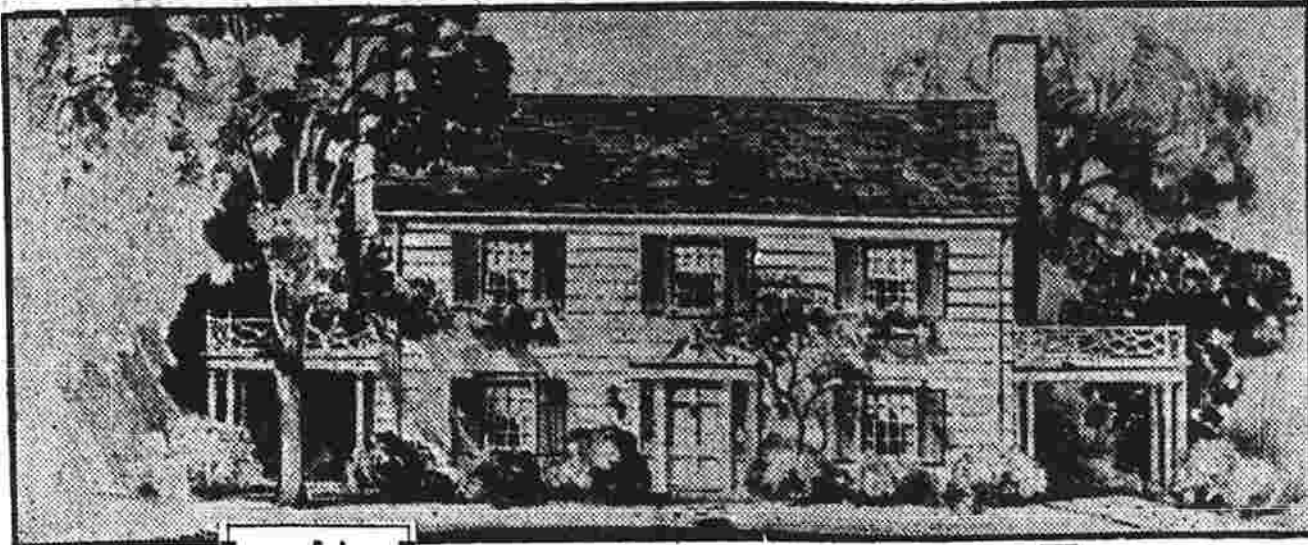

The house has eight rooms and two baths and adjoining is a garage for two cars.

The visitor enters a foyer hall. To the left is a well-designed living room with a Colonial fireplace and mantle. Glass doors on either side of the fireplace lead to the open porch.

On the right of the foyer is the dining room—a square room with one doorway opening onto the Forte Cochere, and another leading to the kitchen. From the kitchen there is an entry to the garage.

Every inch of space is utilized on the second floor. There are four large bedrooms, two baths,

WOMEN OF ALGERIA AGAIN MAKING RUGS

Tlemcen, Algeria.—(AP)—Rug-weaving, once a great native industry, is regaining its lost importance. A new training school is being built here by the government as a technical center, intended to raise standards of design and dyes.

Once nearly all native women made rugs. The industry was on the wane before the French conquered the country a century ago and has continued to lose favor since.

After the war French authorities encouraged a revival of interest by establishing a small training school at Algiers for girls who later went into native homes to stir up the women and get them back at the looms.

Within the last few years there have been established 320 small rug weaving studios where 3,000 girls and women work.

Girls are taken in very young and most of them leave when they are 12, the age at which they usually put on the veil in public and rarely go out unless accompanied by their parents. These girls, however, continue to weave at home.

In this way, besides the many rugs made for home use, the natives have tripled the country's exports in six years, selling abroad last year rugs valued at $500,000.

SMALL BUNGALOW PERMANENT TYPE OF HOME TODAY

American Designs Believed to Have Been Borrowed from European Cottages.

The origin of the modern bungalow has been attributed by some enthusiasts to India, where it is a one-story building with a veranda and a projecting roof, but now about the only relation our one-story house bears to India is its name. Certainly, the idea of a one-story house has not been restricted to Eastern lands, for we have countless examples of this type of home in England, France and other European countries. In England and France they are called cottages. In fact, until recent years we called our own small houses cottages.

One-story houses have attained great popularity in this country, due principally to the work of architects on the Pacific Coast. They have borrowed from European small houses many details of architecture. These architects have been adapted to our use with plans that supply all the modern demands of the American style of living.

Simplifies Housekeeping

Perhaps their greatest advantage lies in the fact that stairs have been eliminated and some of the difficulties of housekeeping thereby overcome. Architects also have devised room arrangements for these houses in which the living quarters are separated from those rooms that would normally be in the second story. This is one of the features that a good bungalow must meet. neither bedroom nor bath opens directly from the living or dining rooms.

Since bungalows must be, in fact, adaptations to the one-story house of most of the accommodations found in two-story dwellings, one of the qualities of the bungalow is compactness of plan. This, however, is not always true, for in certain types of bungalow rooms are made to ramble out pleasantly enclosing courtyards or patios, but in bungalows of smaller size compactness is of first consequence.

Halls Reduced to Minimum

For this purpose, especially in the very small bungalows, dining and living rooms are often combined, or especially commodious dining alcoves are arranged in the kitchen so that all but the most formal meals may be served there. Halls and vestibules must be reduced to the minimum. Even the front entrance leads directly into the living room. The kitchen and service quarters are replete with labor-saving devices.

The bungalow may be comparatively expensive to build. Costs must necessarily run high when the plan is much extended, for this involves extra expense for excavation walls and roofing. The cost of the stairway that goes into the two-story house is saved, but this does not balance the other expenses. Comparing the extended bungalow with a trim two-story New England Colonial, we frequently would find that the average bungalow costs most. On the other hand, probably the most inexpensive type of house is a compact bungalow of small size.

A Home Study for Small Students

By GLADYS LILLY

LATE summer and early autumn are busy times of the year for mothers whose children are beginning school. A wise woman will set apart some time which can be used for fixing up a study room for the children, a place in which small visitors may be entertained, where school books, playthings and wraps may be deposited without disturbing the belongings of the grown-ups. It is equally important for children and parents to have some place where each may seek seclusion. Remember that while children often get on parents' nerves, parents sometimes get on children's nerves.

A small room can be quickly transformed into a place for children, where they may prepare their lessons or spend their play time when the weather is bad, without disorganizing the whole household. By sawing down the legs of an old kitchen table a low one can be made with practically no expense. When enameled this will be a practical, decorative and sanitary table on which to place books, drawing materials and playthings. Low built-in book shelves, chests for toys and little chairs should be included in the furnishings and coated in harmony with bright enamel.

Enamel should also be used for the walls, woodwork and furniture of the children's room since it is washable and very durable. Sunny yellow, orange, soft clear greens and blues are all suitable for a study hall or play-room and are as practical as they are beautiful. A low frieze of simple stencil designs has additional decorative value. Giraffes, elephants, and camels are not difficult to achieve, and when they march sedately around the walls into a tent painted at one end of the room the effect is very amusing. These may be cut from picture books and pasted on the walls. A coat of shellac should be applied to prevent the edges from curling and to make them washable.

HOME WORK

YOUR school system takes great pains to heat class rooms uniformly! Can you do less for your children in their own homes? Home heating has an important bearing on the quality of children's home work. Also on their health and happiness. The SUPER Oil Heater fits completely inside your present home furnace. It provides constant heat—at the desired temperature—without dirt or labor—economically. Easy time payments. Please call or telephone for a demonstration.

Good Buildings Deserve Good Hardware

CORBIN

Locks that guard Knobs that beautify Hardware that lasts All good ALL CORBIN

If you've ever built a home you know how much your comfort for years to come will depend on the hardware you choose today. First—the front door. Surely you want a good impression there! And absolute security as well. Corbin will see to that!

Then the many inside doors—all with knobs that must function perfectly—all with knobs that can be seen. These, too, must be in good taste. And will be if they're Corbin.

Even windows require Good Hardware or they'll stick and shriek. Cupboard doors need good latches—or they'll never stay closed. And so on through the entire house—wherever there is a window or a door there should be Good Hardware—Corbin.

Which is why we so frequently say: "Remember one word—'Corbin'—and you will be able to forget hardware in your new home the day you move in."

To Beautify the Bath

By GLADYS LILLY

"The bathroom room known as 'the bath' affords the home decorator a wonderful chance to make it quite as charming a feature of the modern home as it is indispensable. Color having invaded this province, the decoration of the bathroom need not involve the expenditure of much money but rather the use of good taste in making attractive color selections.

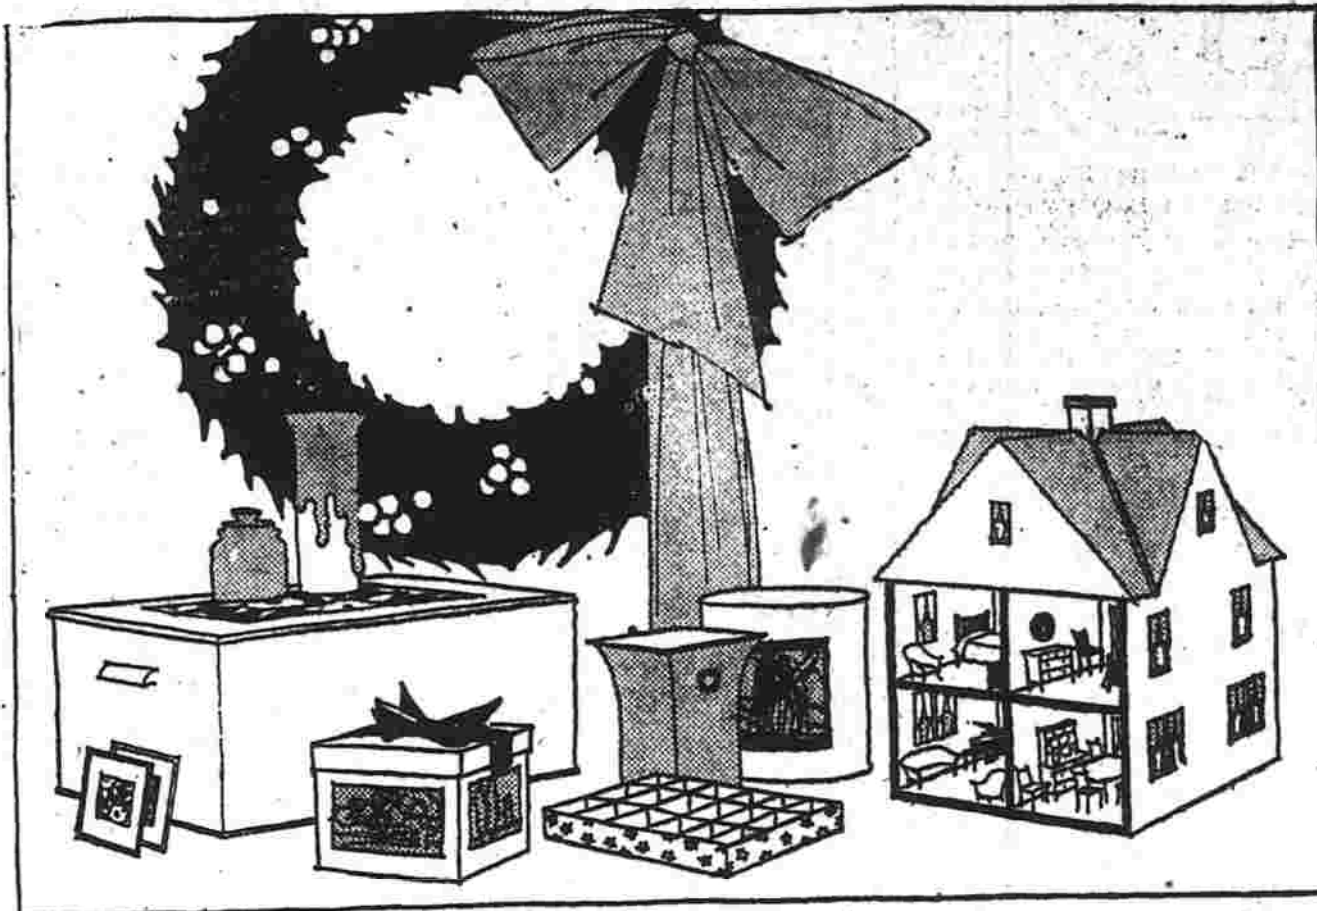

A bathroom does not have to be tiled to be luxurious. It may have a wood floor and just plain plaster walls and yet be the pride and joy of the whole family. It need not even have the most up-to-date plumbing fixtures for one may enclose an old fashioned tub in a well designed paneling of wood and a basin may have useful cupboard built beneath it. The custom of using tile or wooden wainscoting in the bathroom is a practical one, and while the latter is very much cheaper it need be no less attractive than the often prohibitive tile. If a wainscoting of wood is used, it is most decorative when made of wide planking run horizontally around the bathroom walls and capped with a very simple molding. For practical purposes it should extend well above the bathroom fixtures so that it will provide a place on which towel racks, soap dishes, tooth-brush holders and other bathroom accessories can be fastened, and where it will protect the walls from splashing.

Enamel is the most satisfactory finish, both for the woodwork and walls, that a bathroom can have since it is washable, has a hard shiny surface, comes in all of the beautiful shades and can be had in the new four-hour type which, as its name suggests, dries within four hours after application. The walls above the wainscoting should likewise be enameled though another color may be chosen. Combinations of peach and robin's egg blue; yellow and white; jade green and rose; even bright red and black are all suitable. An ebony painted floor when covered with varnish is as smart as it is satisfactory.

PILGRIMS ON VISIT TO ITALIAN SHRINE

Loreto, Italy, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The feast of Our Lady of Loreto, patron saint of aviators, began today in this little Adriatic port town just south of Ancona, initiating a program of religious observances and popular rejoicings which is due to last until next Tuesday.
The commemoration centered about the "Holy House," that strange building enclosed in the "church of that name," which is alleged to have been the Holy Family's dwelling in Nazareth and to have been transported here across the seas by angels.
The Holy House, standing in the center of the church beneath the dome, is a simple building of stone similar to that found in Palestine. It is only 13 and a half feet high, 28

Gifts That Can Be Made

By HELEN B. AMES.

Mother and the girls "just adore" Christmas shopping, but Father and the boys always find it something of a bore. Father, particularly, is inclined to shift most of the burden of selection to the feminine members of the family and put off buying the few gifts that he can't avoid picking out himself, until the great day is almost here. Then of course he gets into a crowd and comes home tired and disgusted, vowing he will never do any holiday shopping again. These are the times when he revises his ideas that women belong to the weaker sex, as he sees them fighting their way to the counters, with the light of battle in their eyes.

Yes, there is no doubt that men are pretty helpless in a throng of Christmas shoppers, but they do like to present gifts and there are ways of choosing them without being shoved and stepped on in a crowded store. If Father or Big Brother is handy with the saw and the paint brush, gifts can be made at home, and something with a personal touch is often more welcome to the family than anything that can be bought downtown.
If the young daughter has expressed a wish for a chest for extra clothes, a very nice one can be created from a strong wooden box, which may be obtained from the grocer. Hinges can be bought at a hardware store and fastened to the cover so the box can be opened and closed, and when it is lacquered or enameled in a charming color that blends with the decorations of her room, the young lady is sure to be delighted with her present. Mandarin red with a stencil decoration in black on the top, and lines of black around the edges, will make a colorful box. Or, if this does not harmonize with the rest of the furniture, robin's egg blue decorated with yellow, coral with a trim of ivory, or green antiqued with burnt umber, will be sure to fit in with the color scheme.

Her little sister will be delighted with a doll's house, which can also be made from a packing box. After cutting the windows, if there is difficulty in inserting the glass, a local glazier will probably do this job for a small sum. When the floors are fitted in, the exterior should be attractively painted in one of the new color schemes for homes. Pale cream with cobalt blue trim would be pretty for the outside, the interior walls may be yellow, and the floors a lighter shade of green. Of course, Mother will have to be called upon to make curtains for the windows and select the tiny pieces of furniture for the doll family.
Even something cleverly made over until it looks like new will be a welcome gift in the family circle, for there are generally "old friends" in the attic which have been regretfully banished at the suggestion of up-to-date daughters. The roomy bureau of ancient vintage, for which Mother still cherishes a sentimental feeling, can be modernized by cutting down the legs, replacing the tarnished handles with wooden knobs, and removing the clumsy supports of the mirror so this can be hung separately. Then both the bureau and the mirror can be restained or repainted any desired color.
If an extra chair is needed in the living room or there is a demand for a small table to fill in an empty corner, it is worth while to make a visit to the attic before starting out to buy something new. Fresh paint and new color will work wonders with shabby old pieces, and nowadays there are so many quick-drying products on the market that the work can be done in a very short time. Modern lacquers dry in about thirty minutes and it is now possible to purchase good enamels that will dry in four hours from the time they are applied.
Decorations, such as stencil patterns and decalcomania transfers, simplify the work, and those who have a talent for free-hand drawing can make their gifts still more distinctive. Colored prints, too, suggest a means of redecorating, such pieces as a dingy wastebasket or a faded screen. A magazine cover or a colored illustration from a seed catalog will look like a mellow, old print if it is covered with a coat of shellac after it has been pasted on. These prints also make attractive wall pictures when they are outlined with passe partout or fastened into a simple wooden frame. This is an easy gift for a small boy to make, but the shellac is so transforming that if the picture is well chosen, it is worthy to be included in the Christmas list of the older members of the family.

FOG HALTS TRAFFIC

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—A heavy fog for the second successive day settled over New York harbor this morning, hampering river traffic.
The Red Star liner Pennland, outward bound, anchored off Robbins reef, and the inbound President Wilson of the United States Lines pulled into Quarantine and dropped anchor there. Ferry boats to Staten Island operated behind schedule.

Modern Version

Father claims he has something to sing about since the Gas Water Heater has been installed. For now he doesn't have to wait for hot water... there's an instant, rushing response the moment he turns on the faucet. Perhaps it's the gentle relaxation of a warm bath he wants... perhaps it's merely hot water for a hurried shave... there's enough for every need.

To Father and to every other member of the family, plentiful hot water at the turn of a spigot—for bathing, for dishwashing, for countless other purposes—is not only a convenience; it is a necessity. All can share in the benefits of a

SHIRES' PUGILISTIC AMBITIONS SUFFER UNEXPECTED JOLT

Boxing Commission Finds Opponent Too Mysterious and Shires Too Crude, So Delays Bout.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The professional pugilistic career of Charles Arthur (the great) Shires, White Sox first baseman, appears to die a burning. Major General John V. Clinain, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission, has issued an order holding up the permit for Shires to engage in a preliminary bout with one mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland at White City Monday night on two counts.

The first count is that General Clinain and the commission in spite of diligent search has failed to find anyone who has met a mysterious Dan Daly of Cleveland, either specially or generally.

The second count is that Fred Gardner, a member of the commission, watched Shires in a workout and leaned toward the opinion that Charles Arthur was too much inclined to thrust salient parts of his anatomy unprotected into the path of his sparring punches, and is not a real good fighter.

Final action will be taken tomorrow when the mysterious Dan Daly is to arrive in Chicago.

PITT IS CHOSEN FOR COAST CONTEST

Panthers to Meet Southern California in New Year's Day Grid Classic.

By WILLIAM J. CHIPMAN.

New York, Dec. 7.—(AP)—When the champion Pittsburgh football team lines up against Pasadena in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena on New Year's Day the Panther will be seeking the second victory for a strictly eastern invader in the history of this post-season classic. Atlantic seaboard teams have figured in no fewer than seven of the 13 Pasadena conflicts to date, but have only Harvard's single six victory over Oregon on January 1, 1920, to match against defeats for Pennsylvania, Penn-State and Pittsburgh and ties for Washington-Jefferson and the Navy.

The east was last represented at Pasadena two years ago when an undefeated Pittsburgh eleven was shaded 7 to 6 by Stanford. The Panthers welcomed the chance to return to the California front this season hoping to defeat Southern California by a more convincing victory than Notre Dame's 18 to 12 triumph.

Of the four major sections of the U. S. the south has won the Pasadena classic, with two victories and a tie in three appearances.

The sectional standing is:

YALE GRID STARS CELEBRATE TONIGHT

Montclair, N. J., Dec. 7.—(AP)—Yale stars of the past, present and perhaps the future will gather in Nick Roberts old barn here tonight for the annual "Win, lose or draw" party given by the Yale club of Montclair in honor of the Eli football team.

Some 300 Yale men from every part of the country are expected to attend the meeting held annually for the past nine years. This year's leader will bring 27 letters with him from New Haven, among them Fay Vincent, captain of the 1929 army. Bill Webster, captain in 1927; Phil Bunnell, 1926 leader and Winslow Loveljoy who led the Eli's in 1924, also will attend.

Other heroes of past Yale triumphs will be there—Ducky Pond, Century Milstead, Larry Noble, Cobble Eburnah, Charley Comerford and many others.

The principal speaker will be Robert M. Hutchins, '21, president of the University of Chicago.

MID-WEST CONTRIBUTES MOST IN NATION WIDE PRESS POLL

Carideo, Nagurski, Donchess Only Overwhelming Choice; Tony Uansa Leads Halfback Balloting; Booth Put on Third Team; Cagle Rates on First, Marsters on Second

By ALAN GOULD (Associated Press Sports Editor)

New York.—(AP)—As a tribute to the fertile football plains that produced such consistently brilliant teams as Notre Dame and Purdue, the Middle West takes the lion's share of honors in the Fifth Annual All-American consensus, compiled by THE ASSOCIATED PRESS from expert nation-wide opinion and made public today.

On the first team, the "shock troops" of an All-American squad of 33 players, five represent the Middle West, four the East, one each the South and Pacific Coast.

Pittsburgh and Notre Dame, two of the finest aggregations of the year, each gained two places on the mythical eleven, a distinction no team in the country has been accorded in the consensus since Dartmouth placed three men on the first team in 1925.

The East manifested strength in the squad as a whole by collecting 12 out of the 33 places, with nine going to the Middle West, six to the South, five to the Far West and one to the Southwest.

In the nation-wide poll of opinion taken by The Associated Press, 215 experts contributed their views. They represented newspaper sports editors and writers, Associated Press staff observers, officials and coaches in every section of the country. There was not an important game anywhere, scarcely a spectacular feat recorded in any noteworthy college contest, which was not "covered" or studied by some one or more of these experts.

Diegel Defeats Hagen Meets Farrell Today

"Larruping Leo" Conquers Great Haig 3 and 2 and Farrell Trims Watrous 6 and 5; Meet in Finals.

Los Angeles, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The great conjurer of the links, Leo Diegel whose swinging clubs, as magic wands, carried him through to triumph over Walter Hagen yesterday, will put his skill against the threat of smiling Johnny Farrell today in the final match of the Professional Golfers Association tournament.

Farrell will be seeking his first P. G. A. crown on the trying Hiramcrest course which saw the championship hopes of both the great Haig and his fellow townsman from Detroit, Al Watrous, lost in the yawning traps and on the treacherous greens.

While the fiftful putting of the great Haig had much to do with yesterday's defeat, on the thirty-fourth green 8 and 2, the fact that

FINAL PERIOD RALLY DEFEATS EAST HARTFORD

Manchester High Defeats Rival 18 to 9 in First Basketball Game of Season; Second Lose.

Championship teams of a bygone day came out of the past last night and beckoned the latest Manchester High School basketball squad to follow the obstacle strewn path of scheduled games that leads to admittance in the exclusive circle of scholastic fame.

And late in the final period the team responded and in frenzied moments of spectacular play, when East Hartford was leading 9 to 8, staged a rally that overwhelmed the visitors to give Manchester High its first interscholastic league game by the score of 18 to 9, before a crowd of nearly 600 persons at the School Street Rec last night.

Coach Clarke used ten men on his first string team, starting with Smith, Turkington, McCormick, Squatrito, and Tierney, and faced the much better than the first. The five showed a better passing game, and a smoother more finished all round playing, that soon accounted for a score, after the ball had been passed the floor's length. Moriarty caged the first basket of the string season. Until the half Manchester held its own in scoring and left the floor, trailing 9 to 5, to make way for the return of the first five.

The third quarter was much the same way as the first with East Hartford continuing to force the Clarkites to the limit. Manchester, warming up and with each minute began to assume the proportions of a real basketball team.

Then came the last period and the same five took the ball on the pump, passed accurately and often, and Dowd put the team ahead with a side shot followed closely by another that put the game in the local victory column and took the heart out of East Hartford. Two more scores added to the margin and Manchester High's second win down to defeat through the accuracy of Miller of East Hartford, by a score of 17 to 15. Radding was the only man on the local team who was able to find the basket with any degree of regularity.

RUNAWAY HORSE KILLS DRIVER AFTER CRASH

Seymour, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Peur E. Foy of this town formerly for 25 years supt. of Hillside Home, Ansonia's farm for indigents, died last night in Griffin hospital from a fractured skull received when thrown from his wagon by collision with two autos.

Mr. Foy was driving his horse south on Derby avenue, Seymour, early in the evening, when an automobile driven by Ernest G. L. Graig, of Clarkdale, N. Y., came up behind him. Mr. Craig applied his brakes suddenly and skidded, striking the rear of the wagon. The frightened horse dashed to the left across the road, colliding with a northbound car driven by Howard Telleiter of Waterbury. Mr. Foy was thrown to the ground, receiving his injuries from which he died, and the horse was hurt so badly that it had to be shot. Both cars were somewhat damaged but none of the occupants was hurt.

PICKS TWO SETS OF WIVES, HUSBANDS

Hartford, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Two sets of husbands and wives are expected to grace municipal boards of Hartford in the coming year.

Should Mayor Patterson appoint Mrs. Russell Lee Jones to the charity board as now is forecast, she will parallel her husband, who is a member of the police board.

Mrs. Robert F. Gadd, whose husband is a police commissioner, is a member of the charity board.

Mrs. Jones is slated to succeed Eugene C. Lamoureux, president of the charity commission.

BRITISH CAN CO.

London, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The newly-formed British Can company has acquired the business of Ernest Taylor, can manufacturers, of Liverpool. It intends to extend the factory and erect others with the assistance of American experts and to install equipment and machinery protected by the American Can company.

The Americans who will join the board of the British company are Henry W. Phelps, Harry Craver, George K. Morrow and Robert McMullen.

The company, which will develop the manufacture in England of containers for all kinds of foods has agreement with the American Can company and the Thermoseal Corporation for the use of their technical experience, research work and manufacturing and selling methods.

It appeared the delay was caused by the fact the French Embassy at Moscow was obliged to translate it from Russian into French and then put it into code for transmission to Paris. At Paris the foreign office decoded the message and handed it over to the American Embassy at 9:40 a. m., the Embassy proceeding to translate it into English and code it for transmission to Washington.

It was learned the French government on behalf of Washington transmitted the American communication to Afghanistan urging us in the case of all other signatories of the Kellogg pact that the country support the American initiative in China and Russia.

SENSE and NONSENSE

THE TEN DEMANDMENTS OF HOW TO GET ALONG WITH PEOPLE

1. Keep skid chains on your tongue; always say less than you think. Cultivate a low, persuasive voice. How you say it often counts for more than what you say.
2. Make promises sparingly and keep them faithfully, no matter what it costs you.
3. Never let an opportunity pass to say a kind and encouraging thing to or about somebody. Praise good work done, regardless of who did it. If criticism is merited, criticize helpfully, never spitefully.
4. Be interested in others; interested in their pursuits, their welfare, their homes and families. Make merry with those who rejoice, and mourn with those who weep. Let everyone you meet, however humble, feel that you regard him as a person of importance.
5. Be cheerful. Keep the corners of your mouth turned up. Hide your pains, worries and disappointments under a pleasant smile. Laugh at good stories and learn to tell them.
6. Preserve an open mind on all debatable questions. Discuss, but don't argue. It is a mark of superior minds to disagree and yet be friendly.
7. Let your virtues, if you have any, speak for themselves, and refuse to talk of another's vices. Discourage gossip. Make it a rule to say nothing of another unless it is something good.
8. Be careful of other's feelings. Wit and humor at the other fellow's expense are rarely worth the effort, and may hurt where least expected.
9. Pay no attention to ill-natured remarks about you. Simply live so that nobody will believe them. Disordered nerves and bad digestion are common cause of backbiting.
10. Don't be too anxious about getting your just dues. Do your work, be patient, and keep your disposition sweet, forget self, and you will be respected and rewarded.

Cheer Up! If you are outwiped this Christmas maybe you can get even next Christmas.

DAD-LOOK THIS OVER

A group of 369 high school boys and 415 girls were asked to check a list of ten desirable qualities in a father. The quality that received

A DVICE CAN USUALLY BE HAD FOR NOTHING, AND A LOT OF IT IS WORTH JUST THAT.

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS:

Even cheap stockings are expensive in the long run.

The largest vote was "spending time with his children." The quality that received the second largest vote was "respecting his children's opinions." Other qualities were rated in the following order: Third, being an active church member. Fourth, being a college graduate. Fifth, never nagging his children about what they do. Sixth, making plenty of money. Seventh, being well dressed. Eighth, being prominent in social life. Ninth, having a love of music and poetry. Tenth, owning a good-looking car.

ODE TO A CAN OPENER

Oh, thou, my trusty servant, My chef, my pantry maid, A million hungry stomachs wait The magic of thy blade. Upon thy mighty master strokes A nation safely leaps. Thou art the emblem of the home, The key to pork and beans. With thee, the blushing, eager bride May face 'life unafraid; Her destiny in coming years Hangs on the shining blade. And thou shalt leave thy blood imprint On history's crowded page— To thee we owe the laurel wreath Of this, the tin can age.

Many of us can never hope to be of any service to humanity except as horrible examples.

Fond Mother: "Quiet Dear, the sandman is coming." Modern Child: "Okay mom, a dollar and I won't tell pop."

Member when you used to hope we'd have sleighing for Christmas?

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

On o'er the ice the Tinies sped, all clinging to the little sled. The elf was still up in the lead, his wings both flapping fast. It was a pleasant sight to see the Tinies bubbling o'er with glee. They liked the ride and wondered just how long 'twas going to last. Then to the elf Scouty cried, "Please tell us more about this ride. You say we're bound for Santa's land. How far is that from here? And will there be much ice and snow away up where we're going to go? I hope that everything is safe and we have naught to fear." "Don't worry," said the little elf. "If I am game to go, myself you surely ought to be as brave and gladly go along. Naught, but the best of things you'll find, so chase the fretting from your mind. I promise you quite faithfully that nothing will go wrong." They shortly left the frozen stream. The trip was almost like a dream. Up o'er some banks of snow they went. Said Copy, "This is great. It feels like real far north to me. I'll bet some wondrous things we'll see. Imagine meeting Santa Claus. Why, I can hardly wait." Then Clowny cried out, "Hip, hurrah! I see a great big entrance way. Some sign is spread across it. Where! Our trip is not in vain. The sign says 'Santa's Toyland.' See? I'm just as happy as can be." And, sure enough, the sign was there. It stood out very plain. The next thing that the Tinies knew some little elf came running through the entranceway. The sign shed loudly, "Welcome, Tinymites!" Then one exclaimed, "Hang on! Don't fall!" They picked the bunch up, sled and all, and started into Toyland which was filled with wondrous sights. (The Tinymites put on new clothes in the next story).

ABOUT TOWN

Commandant and Mrs. John Strain of Springfield, Mass., with their splendid band will conduct the service tomorrow afternoon at the Salvation Army citadel. The players for the most part are young people. This will be an unusually interesting service and the general public will be welcome.

The social committee of the Highland Park Community club announces a setback party for Tuesday evening at the clubhouse. Six prizes will be awarded and refreshments served. Tonight there will be modern and old time dancing and everybody in the community should turn out for a good time.

John Boyle, chairman of the young people's committee of the Manchester Green Community club, reports that the Saturday evening dances sponsored by the club continue to draw good crowds. Bill Waddell's orchestra is playing for these dances all season and Dan Miller announces the old-time set which take place every third number.

Group 2 of the Memorial hospital linen auxiliary will meet for sewing Monday afternoon at the School Street Recreation Center. Mrs. E. A. Letney, the group leader, is hoping for a good turnout of the members.

Rev. Axel Bergstedt will give an illustrated lecture in Swedish on "Through Picturesque Sweden" Wednesday night at eight in the Swedish Congregational church on Spruce street. Rev. Bergstedt comes here from Brockton, Mass.

The Nights of Pythias setback team retained its lead over the team from Moose Lodge in the fifth sitting at the Home Club last night, 594 to 530. The high score was 109 made by Norman Hills and William Armour of the Knights. There are three more sittings of the tournament scheduled.

All Boy Scouts are requested to be at the St. Bridget's Church on Main street at 6:15 o'clock tonight to march in the parade opening the Christmas holiday season. Scouts should appear in full uniform.

The house committee of the Highland Park Community club which is sponsoring the dance at the clubhouse in that section this evening, hopes for a large attendance of members and friends. It is the aim of the committee to make these dances self-supporting instead of continuing them at a loss to the club.

Owing to an accident and death in one of the bandsmen's families, the Springfield band which was to have come here tomorrow afternoon for the Salvation Army meeting, will be unable to keep the date. The Young People's band of the Army will play.

At the South Methodist church last night the Men's Friendship club and St. Mary's Young Men's club engaged in a volley ball contest. Considerable enthusiasm was displayed. The Friendship club won two out of the three games played. The meeting of the American Legion auxiliary will be called at 7:45 Monday evening on account of the business to be transacted and the Christmas party to follow.

Herbert McCann who has been instructing applicants for citizenship, is much gratified that all those from Manchester were successful and will receive their papers at an early date.

A special meeting of the Buckland Parent-Teacher association is called for Monday evening at 7 o'clock preceding the whist of the Ways and Means committee.

The first in another series of setback games will be held tonight in the Masonic Temple. This tournament will run for five Saturday nights.

St. Margaret's Circle, Daughters of Isabella will hold a brief business meeting Tuesday evening in the K. of C. clubrooms, at 7:30. Bridge will follow and a Christmas party in charge of Mrs. Agnes Quish, chairman. Mrs. Teresa Millikowski, Mrs. Maude Foley, Miss May Barrett, Mrs. Frances McEwitt and Mrs. Viola Corcellus. Each member is requested to provide a 25 cent gift.

Cheney Brothers Girls Athletic association will give a whist, setback and bridge party for local girls Monday evening in Cheney hall. Twelve prizes will be given and refreshments served. This will be the last social the girls will give until after Christmas. Lily Thornfelt has charge of refreshments and Mrs. Edith Rowsell will see to the prizes.

Mrs. Frank Sadleck of 159 Oakland street is a patient at the Memorial hospital, having been admitted last Tuesday.

DANCING
Every Saturday Night
Manchester Green School
BILL WADDELL'S ORCH.
Dan Miller, Prompter
Admission 50 Cents.

Manchester Grange will hold a food sale this afternoon at two o'clock at the J. W. Hale store. Mrs. Irving Wickham, Mrs. Robert Martin and Mrs. W. M. Balch will be in charge.

Daughters of Liberty will hold their annual meeting with election of officers in Orange hall Monday evening. A social will follow in charge of Mrs. Georgina Tomlinson, Mrs. Margaret Coleman, Miss Colby Trotter and Miss Margaret Turkington. The Christmas party for members and their children will take place December 27, with Mrs. Minnie Smith, chairman.

The Manchester League of Women Voters will have a short business meeting Tuesday evening at 7:15, preceding the joint meeting with the South Methodist church when Miss Alice Winsor Hunt will speak on "America's Opportunities." Several of the women's organizations have been invited.

NEW HAVEN BIDDER GETS LOCAL BUSINESS

A. Litvin, Workingman's Store Creditor, Opens Place Here to Regain His Investment.

The Workingman's store located in the O'Leary building on Main street formerly operated by Harry Gans which has been closed by the court to satisfy claims of creditors opened this week by A. Litvin of New Haven, successful bidder at the auction held last week by the referee in bankruptcy. Local bidders were in the minority at the sale although several from Hartford and other towns put in an appearance. The reported sale price was $812.

The store has been open during the past few days in order to dispose of the remaining stock but will close today and stock remaining will be moved away.

FIND $1 HALL RENTAL TOO HIGH FOR SCOUTS

The new system inaugurated by the Eighth District School Committee in charging $1 to all organizations using the Hollister street school auditorium, is regarded as a hardship by the membership of some of the smaller bodies. Using this hall for a meeting place.

Reports from Troop 1 B. S. A. of the Second Congregational church and Troop of the Community club are to the effect that because of the charge made to members to help pay for lights, and janitor service, members are not as enthusiastic in Scouting as formerly.

Plans are under way, sponsored by the Business Men's club, to underwrite the fee required for the use of the auditorium in an effort to keep the boys together, and to forestall any loss in membership in these two Scout bodies.

WOULD ABANDON LINE

Washington, Dec. 7—(AP)—The Bristol Railroad sought permission to abandon six miles of its line between Bristol and New Haven, Vermont, in an application filed today with the Interstate Commerce Commission.

The road, which is now in the hands of receivers, would cease operation entirely as to interstate commerce in this section.

Good Humor and Good Judgment

T. A. DORGAN ("Tad")—three fingers of his right hand missing, and an invalid for years—managed, through his famous cartoons "Indoor Sports", to draw smiles from millions of newspaper readers for many years. Good humor never forsook him.

Good business judgment stayed by him also. In making his will he took the precaution to name an institution like ours to serve as co-executor and trustee under his will.

A co-executorship—of an individual and a trust organization—is often a wise arrangement. It keeps a member of the family in touch with the settlement of the estate, and very properly puts the business steps to be taken in the hands of a corporate trustee.

The duties of an executor are manifold. They demand accurate knowledge of court procedure, legal machinery, valuation of property, taxes, real estate and investments.

This many-sided work, too much to expect of an individual, is one that we, with our many-sided experience, are well equipped to handle.
