

SMUTS DISAGREES ON FOODSHIP PLAN

Says We Want to Do Away With War Altogether; Here Is In Boston Today.

Boston, Jan. 6.—General Jan Christian Smuts, British war hero, who arrived here today to speak in advocacy of the League of Nations, said in an interview that he disagreed with President Hoover's suggestion of a neutrality status for food ships in war time.

"It is merely another of the palliatives offered against the barbarism of war," he said. "What we want is to have done with war. This idea of making war humane has been tried over and over again and has always broken down on the first occasion. Any future wars will be unspokeably barbarous. They will not be the old fashioned, chivalrous wars but will be fought with bombs and bacteria."

General Smuts is the guest here of Mrs. James J. Starrow. After having received a delegation representing the New England Region of American Zionists he visited Arnold Arboretum and then went to the State House where he received Governor Frank G. Allen. He was a luncheon guest of President A. Lawrence Lowell of Harvard University this afternoon.

He will speak on the League of Nations at Symphony Hall tonight.

BUCKLAND TO HOLD P-T. A. ANNIVERSARY

Monday evening, January 13, is the date set for the observation of the eighth anniversary of the Buckland Parent-Teacher association. It is customary for the members to celebrate each year at this time and to do the catering for the supper which is always an outstanding feature of this annual event. This year they will depart from their custom and have engaged Mr. and Mrs. E. Edgerton of North Main street to put on the supper. They have had wide experience in catering for banquets and weddings and occupy the large house formerly known as the driveway inn.

TWO ALBERT PETERSONS TOO FAST FOR OUR TOWN

Men With Same Name Face Judge Here After Speeding on East Center Street.

Three cases, all having to do with motor vehicle violations were disposed of in the local police court this morning. A strange coincidence was the fact that two Albert Petersons paid a fine of $10 each. Albert S. Peterson of 88 Park Road, West Hartford, was arrested by Patrolman David Galligan on East Center street Saturday night, and Albert Peterson of Broad Brook, was arrested by Sergeant John Crockett on the same street. Both were charged with speeding and paid fines of $10 and costs.

FREE VITALE SUSPECTS

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Three men charged with complicity in the kidnap of a testimonial dinner to Magistrate Albert Vitale last December 7 were discharged today when arraigned in West Farms Court.

MAYOR INAUGURATED

Waterbury, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Rep. Frank Hayes was inducted into office as mayor of Waterbury today, succeeding Francis P. Gulliflow who retired after four successive terms.

State Briefs

FIRE IN WATERBURY

Waterbury, Jan. 6.—(AP)—More than 100 persons were forced to flee their beds into the street here early today when fire broke out in the cellar of a 30-family apartment house in the Brooklyn section. Said to have started with the backfire of an oil heating plant, the fire on the lower floor gave forth huge volumes of smoke and forced complete evacuation of the building. Tons of water were poured into the cellar and first floor of the three story building before the flames were subdued and damage exceeding $25,000 was done.

WATER DIVERSION CASE

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—"The state of Connecticut is technically interested in the diversion of the waters of the Swift and Ware Rivers only when the waters are actually diverted from the Connecticut River," said Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill today, commenting on the Boston metropolitan district, in carrying on the work of building tunnels for the conveyance of water to Boston, even though the matter is now pending in the United States Supreme Court.

SISTERS IN ACCIDENT

Norwalk, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Miss Katherine Palomba, a Waterbury school teacher and her sister, Elizabeth, an office worker in the Brass city, were balanced on the brink of serious injury here today when the machine in which they were traveling from Stamford to Waterbury left the Boston Post Road, tore away a 75-foot section of a guard fence, struck a tree, turned over and then righted itself on the edge of a retaining wall. They were unhurt. A wrecking car salvaged the badly damaged machine while the young women continued their journey by train. Faulty steering apparatus was blamed for the accident.

TO GET COMPENSATION

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Relatives of the National Guardsmen who were killed or injured at Niantic on August 14, 1929 by the premature explosion of a gun while on maneuvers in the vicinity of the provisions of the workmen's compensation act, had the injuries been sustained during the regular course of their employment. The State Board of Compensation and Control has authorized the attorney general to confer with compensation commissioner to determine the nature of the settlements.

FOUND NOT GUILTY

West Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Without having to appear on the stand in his own defense, James M. O'Brien, of 668 Winchester avenue, New Haven, was found not guilty in Police Court this morning of obtaining money under false pretenses after police had traced two checks given to the accused by local police to payment for advertising space in an American Legion year book.

NATURAL DEATH

Middletown, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Coroner L. A. Smith today attributed the death of Emil Koski, 44, of Camden, N. J., to natural causes. Koski, who died at the Middletown hospital last night was admitted to the institution Saturday. At first it was believed he had been afflicted by fumes in a liquid used in refinishing furniture. An autopsy ordered by Coroner Smith, however, disclosed that Koski suffered from influenza.

SIGNS EXTRADITION

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Sam Bushinger, alias "Sammy the Jew," Leonardo and Private wanted by the Connecticut state police for the theft of automobiles and a quantity of dresses in Colchester, has been arrested in Philadelphia and Governor Trumbull today signed an extradition on the governor of Pennsylvania for his return.

HEARING CONTINUED

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The hearing before the Utilities Commission on the petition of the New Haven road to close the West Haven railroad station was continued for another week. The hearing will now be held at the state capitol Jan. 13, at 1 p. m.

MAYOR INAUGURATED

Waterbury, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Rep. Frank Hayes was inducted into office as mayor of Waterbury today, succeeding Francis P. Gulliflow who retired after four successive terms.

TROLLEY CO. PETITION

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The petition of the Connecticut Company for authority to abandon the operation of electric cars and substitute bus service in Stamford in part of its car route known as Summer street to "Stollwercks" so called will be the subject of a public hearing by the commission on Monday, January 13, at 11:30 a. m.

LIQUOR FOUND ONBOARD OF PATROL BOATS

15 with pilfering cargo or having liquor in their possession on Coast Guard reservation. A few of the 15 held for the more serious offense are also being charged with intoxication.

The court is holding open sessions and newspapermen were in attendance today. In contrast to lengthy arguments and pleas for mercy such as may be found in civil courts the court martial is a simple formal proceeding utterly devoid of color or anything spectacular.

Assembled in a small room the court sat around a large table with Commander M. J. Ryan, president of the court at one end and the respective defendants being seated at the other end. To the left of Commander Ryan sat Lt. J. S. Rosenthal, official prosecutor and to the president's right sat Lt. Commander Charles T. Henley and Lt. G. E. McCabe, the other two members of the court.

Records of the proceedings were taken by two yeoman.

Example of Procedure. One of the defendants this morning was Melvin A. Abot, fireman, charged with being aboard the Destroyer Ericsson. A review of the procedure in this case it is pointed out can be taken as an example of the procedure in nearly all others.

Escorted into the room by a pre-vest guard he was instructed to be seated at the far end of the table. He was first asked if he desired counsel, either Coast Guard or civil. Each of the court members and the court reporters then took oaths to perform their respective duties in compliance with regulations and the court members took an oath not to divulge the sentence of the court until it had been reviewed by the Secretary of the Treasury at Washington.

Then followed a reading of the various steps leading up to the presentation of the accused after which the defendant was given an opportunity to object to any of the proceedings as stated or to any members of the court.

Charges Read

The charges were then read to the defendant and his plea taken. Thus far all have pleaded guilty. Each of the defendants was informed that with his plea of guilty he deprived himself of making any efforts to indicate innocence but that he would have 48 hours in which to submit a written or oral statement concerning any circumstances surrounding his specific offense.

Commander Ryan stated that when all of the cases have been disposed of the names of the defendants will be given out. In the meantime no objections were offered to newspapermen sitting in at the court martial and obtaining the names that come up while they are present.

Wolfe's Statement

An official statement concerning the court martial was issued by the newspaper today by Captain H. H. Wolfe commander of the destroyer force, as follows: "When it was found that the cargo on the British ship Flor-de-Mar was being tampered with while in port and his plea taken. Thus far all have pleaded guilty. CHARLES CHENEY TELLS OF ECONOMIC CHANGE

Talks to Kiwanians on Sudden Development of Industry and Resulting Problems.

Charles Cheney, president of Cheney Brothers, when he spoke at Kiwanis today, when he arose he frankly stated that he did not exactly know what he was going to say. He was sure, however, that he had no idea of turning prophet and was not going to talk about 1930. At Christmas time, he said, he had received a Christmas card from Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, which was so different it had surprised the days since Christmas; it called attention to the great change now taking place in this country, that is, the change from the political to the economic.

Practically no attention to some details of this change, Mr. Cheney said he wanted to give his hearers an idea of the job the National Industrial Conference Board had on its hands. This board meets once a month in New York City to take up the problems that present themselves. goods in Middletown and, naturally, it was impossible to connect the affair locally. An investigation disclosed the goods in the gated room and when State Police officers came here today they identified them as similar to those reported stolen from the college fraternity house.

Lee and Mrs. Gribbs are both in California. It is believed, having left this town and Middletown when they became suspicious that the police were wise to their game. An attachment against the college house to collect for the stolen goods first gave Mrs. Gribbs and Lee the idea of service to the people at large, in helping to settle economic problems.

MACCABEES TO SOLICIT FOR "A. L. BROWN CLASS"

Maccabees in Manchester are to honor their faithful Record Keeper, Alvin L. Brown, who has served the tent for more than twenty-five continuous years, by securing a class of fifty new members to be known as the "A. L. Brown Class."

PUBLIC CHECKER TOURNEY TONIGHT

There will be an elimination checker tournament at the West Side Rec tonight to which the public is cordially invited. Tom Weir, in charge of the affair, hopes at least a dozen players will come to take part.

ADMIT 52 ROBBERIES IN TOWNS OF STATE

Norwalk, Jan. 6.—(AP)—George Northrop and Nelson Norton of Norwalk, and Arthur De Mattio and Carmine Chappa of Saugatuck, held in connection with 52 robberies in 10 cities and town in Fairfield county, were bound over for the February term of the Criminal Superior Court, in bonds for $1,000 for Northrop and $7,000 for North and Chappa by Judge Candee in City Court today.

ABOUT TOWN

Miss Carmela Catalano of Center street, was honored with a birthday surprise party at her home Friday evening. About 30 relatives and friends were present from Hartford, East Hartford and this town, and brought with them birthday remembrances. Miss Rose Laria sang and Miss Teresa Dellaferra played the piano. Games were played and a buffet lunch served. The hostesses were Mrs. Mary Catalano and Mrs. Nettie Aceto.

MAYOR INAUGURATED

Pittsfield, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—His inaugural today Mayor Jay P. Barnes recommended that the city adopt a new charter, under which the City Council would be one body instead of two branches as at present. He also said favored election of several councilmen from the city at large, instead of election of all by wards. He recommended a re-adjustment of property valuation.

NO EPIDEMIC

Hartford, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The outbreak of scarlet fever in New Britain, which has been referred to as "an epidemic" by officials of that city, is not regarded in that light by the State Department of Health, but rather as a seasonal outbreak as compared with records of the department for the last ten years.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Anna Carlson. Mrs. Anna Carlson, wife of the late John Carlson, and of 50 years a resident on a farm on Spring street here, died early this morning at Mrs. White's private hospital in West Hartford. Mrs. Carlson had been ill for some time with heart disease. Her husband died but a few years ago.

She leaves three daughters and one son. The daughters are Mrs. Clinton Belcher, of Galatunbury, Mrs. John H. Tanner, of this town and Mrs. Samuel Nyman, of this town. The son is Frank O. Carlson, of Hartford. She also leaves a brother Andrew Wilson, of Torrington. Mrs. Carlson was a charter member of the Swedish Congregational church, on Spruce street.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Samuel Nyman, at 47 Russell street Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and at 2:30 at the Swedish Congregational church. Rev. S. E. Green will officiate and burial will be in the East cemetery.

AUSTRIA IS UNABLE TO PAY HER DEBTS

No Agreement Reached at Hague Over Reparations of the Smaller Nations.

The Hague, Netherlands, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Private negotiations at the reparations conference which have been going on between the Austrians and the smaller reparations creditors thus far have been a failure.

Chancellor Schober of Austria told the non-German reparations committee that the negotiations had been unavailing, because Austria could not possibly pay the sums expected from her.

Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovakian minister of foreign affairs, and George G. Mironescu, Rumanian minister of foreign affairs, nevertheless expressed optimism and asked that the negotiations be continued.

TOWN ALMOST ALONE IN LACK OF AIR MARKERS

No Way for Fliers to Identify Manchester; Nearly All Other Towns Supplied.

The lack of any "town sign" visible from the air for the benefit of aviators distinguishes Manchester as about the only place of any size in Connecticut which has not provided means of identification by which fliers can locate themselves. The authority for this statement is Kenneth Ringrose of Locust street, a former state policeman who is now completing at Brainard Field a course of preparation for a full commercial pilot's license.

Aviators who become doubtful as to their whereabouts while in the air usually pick up a railroad and follow it to the first station in expectation of finding on some conspicuous roof the name of the town done in sufficiently large letters to be read from a safe altitude.

Very few places are thus pointed out nowadays. Mr. Ringrose says. Throughout the states to the north of us practically every little village bears its distinguishing marker and in Connecticut the practice has become general, particularly along the Connecticut river from Middletown to Saybrook and both east and west along the Sound. Manchester, however, continues to be a "dark spot" to the bewildered flier.

It is Mr. Ringrose's idea that the only building in the south end best situated to carry a "Manchester" sign on its roof is the Richards block on Main street, between Park and Locust streets.

PUBLIC RECORDS

Certificate of Attachment of Mortgage. Action has been brought by Sophie Dix, alias Sophie Dzikas against Anthony A. Dix alias Anthony A. Dzikas for $5,000 damages. In action the debt is secured by a mortgage on real estate on Hollister street, Manchester of which Daisy H. Peabody is mortgagor and Anthony A. Dix is mortgagor. The mortgage is for the sum of $2,200. The mortgagee has been garnished.

Finds Much In Historical Interest Out Bolton Way

Contributor Recalls How Notch Was Cut Through—Tells Interesting Stories About Early Life There.

CONTRIBUTED BY "BID"

Owing to the activities of the State Highway Department during the past summer, Bolton Notch has to a certain extent regained its former place on the map. From 50 to 70 years ago a visit to the Notch, which was then looked upon as an engineering feat, by the people of our town with a view of the Notch from all angles and also a visit to the nearby "Squaws Cave" was considered an interesting event. Further up the road was a grove where Sunday schools and temperance societies held picnics.

Polton Quarries
Further up was Cedar Swamp where an occasional clam bake was held. As a fishing pond it was little known. Nearby were the Belden quarries, which over half a century ago furnished many of our cities with their pavements and served to make Bolton a shipping mart. At that period the capacity of a freight car was 10 tons and stone was weighed to see that cars were not overloaded. At one time a blast of one hundred kegs of powder were touched off at the quarries.

The honest Bolton farmer has a knowledge of something besides his onion crop. Before the day of the roads the highways were quite hilly and the boy with the sled took advantage of the fact. On winter they made use of a large sled owned by a farmer. It had seating capacity and speed but no steering apparatus. The only thing to do was to let it follow the sleigh tracks. One night in coming down hill the sled struck an obstacle and jumped the track. There was a hard crust on the snow and the sled crashed through a fence and started across an open lot. Realizing that they were heading for the top of a deep ravine the boys promptly unloaded. Relieved of its load the sled flew across the lot, went over the top of the ravine and landed in the top of a large apple tree. The next summer the owner of the tree spent some time in wondering how it got there.

Indian Trail
The road through the Notch was originally a trail used by Indians on their trips from Hartford to the eastern part of the state, the Notch being the lowest point in the range of Eastern hills and on this account was chosen by the railroad. Although by the original survey the road was to start at a point east of Manchester station and run southeast, direction through Highland Park passing through the hills at a point near Andover, this would mean a shorter road and lower grades.

The change in route was evidently made to accommodate the Vermont and Rockville which at that time showed signs of being manufacturing centers. The road was built partly to accommodate the chain of cotton mills extending from Baltic to Providence owned by Gov. Sprague of Rhode Island one of the promoters of the road, and which accounts for the erratic course of the road. Incidentally an old time engine pulling a train over the 89 mile run from Hartford to Providence consumed eleven cords of wood.

Making the Notch
The Notch was made in the days "when gunpowder was used as an explosive and holes were drilled by hand" and it is stated that it took a year to do the job, but probably it did not. The work was in charge of a man named Broadhead who often said that trains should run through the cut at a low rate of

KIDDIES KEEN OVER THEATER'S CONTEST

All of Them Anxious to Take Position as Manager of the State for a Week.

"I wanna be manager".... "And I wanna be cashier".... "Boy, I'd look swell in an usher's uniform".... "Pipe me as door man"....

In such vein ran the remarks of the male half of the younger generation over the week-end following the announcement in the Saturday issue of The Herald that the State Theater was to hold a Boys' Week, during which time the entire theater would be run for a whole week by the boys of Manchester.

The scheme is simple. Starting tonight a coupon will be printed with the regular State Theater ad. Write on it the name of the grammar, parochial, trade or high school boy who is your choice for a position in the theater. As yet it has not been decided where these coupons will be deposited but hold on to your coupon for a day and Manager Hugh Campbell will make the announcement tomorrow.

For two weeks the coupon will appear. Then the returns will be tabulated. The boy receiving the largest amount of votes will be made manager, the next highest, assistant manager and so on down through all the offices it takes to run a theater.

The movie fan of today will be the manager and owner tomorrow. So Manager Campbell believes and takes this means of acquainting the coming civic leaders of the town with the way the "wheels go round." It will be a thrilling experience. And above all, a splendid business training.

How many have not watched the deft fingers of the cashier as she made change for one or ten tickets and admired and envied her skill? How many have not seen a super-thriller or a picture that moved one profoundly and had a desire to be a manager, able to bring fine screen productions to entertain the townspeople?

And now the State Theater brings to the boys of Manchester a chance

RENTS NEEDED BY EMPLOYEES AT NEW PLANT

few of our employees will be interested in purchasing a home when they first come to the vicinity of Hartford. Honestly, would you or any other sane person wish to make the large investment which a home involves without first having lived in a community and learned conditions and values.

"The writer was in Hartford a couple of weeks ago looking for a place to live. While there are innumerable places for sale, the owners act insulted if they are asked to rent with the possibility of selling to the tenant later.

"I suggest that you pass this idea to the Hartford papers, and to the real estate men in the community, for we have been flooded with lists of houses for sale, and with no lists of houses and apartments to rent.

Removal of the Chance Vought Corporation, manufacturers of military airplanes, from Long Island City to East Hartford, with the transplanting of four or five hundred families from Greater New York to this vicinity, presents a housing problem which the builders of the big plant in East Hartford have left, not unreasonably, to the local communities to solve.

Manchester has been keenly interested in the erection of the big Pratt & Whitney factory and the new plant of the Chance Vought Corporation almost on the edge of this town, because it has been obvious that there was involved a not inconsiderable opportunity of obtaining of a desirable quality, it being but a step from the residential districts of the town to the new industrial area in East Hartford.

ALCOHOL IN VARNISH MUST BE DENATURED

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Instructions that alcohol used in making varnishes and lacquers must be further denatured were issued today by Prohibition Commissioner Doran.

It had been reported to the commission that ethyl alcohol used in the manufacture of varnishes and lacquer was being converted by bootleggers and used for beverage purposes.

The new orders provide that to every 100 gallons of ethyl alcohol there must be added four gallons of denatured wood alcohol and ten gallons of normal butyl alcohol, or refined fusel oil or amyl alcohol.

HURLEY FILLING ARMY VACANCIES

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Socially, in the office of Secretary of War which came to him through the death of James W. Good, Patrick J. Hurley is confronted with the immediate task of selecting officers to fill important vacancies in the Army's high command.

Within the next few days selections must be made to fill the post of inspector general and quartermaster general of the Army, while a vacancy in the rank of brigadier general exists already through the promotion of Weing E. Booth, to major general.

Major General William C. Rivers, inspector general, is to retire for age on January 11, while the four year term of Major General E. Frank Cheatham as quartermaster general expires on the seventeenth.

Under the policy of promotion these bureau posts are given every four years to a different officer of lower rank, mostly colonels during the term the bureau chief holds the rank and pay of major general and the assistant chief is a brigadier.

ABOUT TOWN

Mr. and Mrs. Harding A. Stephens and daughters Rita and Claire, of Green Hill street have returned home after spending the holidays in Washington, D. C. and Virginia.

The Chamber of Commerce reports that it is receiving fine cooperation from the various town organizations in regards to its date listing bureau. Hardly a day passes but a large quantity of advance dates are received.

Miss Emily House, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. House of East Center street, returned today to her studies at the Winslow Kindergarten, Charles Avenue school at Boston, and her brother Charles returned to Harvard University in Cambridge, Mass.

Mr. and Mrs. William Ferguson of Brooklyn, N. Y., spent the weekend with friends in town.

Martin L. Gilman of Main street, who has been ill for several weeks, has so far recovered as to be able to return to his work today with the Gulf Refining company at Hartford.

A benefit setback for the Highland Boys club will be given at the Community clubhouse in that section tomorrow evening. The usual prizes will be awarded and refreshments served. All players will be welcome.

DANCE AT CHENEY HALL

The dance that is to be held at Cheney Hall, Friday evening, is creating a lot of interest among the dancing public of Manchester and surrounding towns because of the music that is going to furnish the entertainment.

The band which is under the management of the National Orchestra Corp. of America assures the public a real high-class attraction.

BUSINESS LEADER DIES

Buffalo, N. Y., Jan. 6.—Archer A. Landon, former vice-president of the American Radiator Company, and a business leader in Buffalo for the past twenty years, died inillard Filmore hospital last night at the age of 61.

Born in Detroit, Mr. Landon took an active interest in work of trade unions and served for a time as president of the Associated Labor Unions in that city. During the World War this experience was helpful to him when he became permanent adviser to President Wilson on labor conditions in the country.

H. S. ALUMNI REUNIONS PROVE BIG SUCCESS

Grads of Local School Visit Classes and Attend Pleasant Social Hour.

Practically all of the homecoming Alumni of Manchester High school are back at college or their place of employment today after an enjoyable celebration of Christmas and New Year's. From a standpoint of social get-togethers such as class reunions and the happy reminiscences involved, 1929 went down in history as one period which will be remembered long and favorably.

SHOENFELD RESIGNS

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Arthur Schoenfeld, recently appointed minister to Costa Rica has resigned from the diplomatic service.

The resignation was announced today by Under Secretary Cotton, who said the department regretted losing Mr. Schoenfeld but hoped he would later return to the service.

MOTORSHIP ADMITS

San Francisco, Jan. 6.—(AP)—A towboat steamed today to the assistance of the British motorship Fresno City, which radioed last night that its motors were disabled. The ship, bound from Tyne to Vancouver, was adrift about 60 miles north of San Francisco.

E. M. Halway, representative here of the Reardon Smith line, owners of the Fresno City, said the ship was not in immediate danger and that he had no fear for the safety of her crew of 35.

The Herald Hears

That satisfaction over the change in the style of dresses is not universal in Manchester.
That local wearers of the new uneven hemline affairs cast many a glance downward.

That the old hitching post on Charter Oak street near the corner of Main has seen some rough days. The fact that the chain and snap has remained attached to the post is the big mystery.

That the Manchester housewife is not as "Sunday conscious" as in years past.
That in this connection a dozen week's washes were flung to the Sunday breezes on one street yesterday afternoon.

That a few years back this thing was taboo in Manchester housekeeping etiquette.
That the early 100 yard aerials are fast disappearing. That they have been shortened up or removed entirely.

That a census should be taken of Manchester back yard junked cars.
That there are many aches and pains this morning in the ranks of those who said: "I haven't had skates on for years."

"In a city people would be reasonably safe in going inside of buildings, stopping up doors and windows and shutting off ventilators and putting out fires," he said.

URGES TREE SAVING TO D. A. R. MEMBERS

State Chairman on Society's Conservation Group Speaks Here Saturday.

Mrs. J. E. Jeffrey of Milford, state chairman of conservation and thrift, was the speaker at the January meeting of Orford Parish chapter, Daughters of the American Revolution, held at the home of Mrs. F. A. Verplanck, Saturday.

Mrs. Jeffrey's committee has for its aim the preservation of forests and the broadcasting of the "Living Christmas Tree" idea throughout the state. She urged the preservation of native trees and the planting of wild flower gardens which are called "Rescue the Perishings."

The committee is also trying to discourage the ruthless trimming of trees by telephone and electric light companies. Mrs. Jeffrey also touched on the growing interest in hillboard restriction or removal, a movement which is rapidly spreading throughout the country.

During the business session the following members were elected to represent the chapter at the national continental congress in Washington, April 14 to 19: Regent, Mrs. Lucius M. Foster; vice regent, Mrs. Thomas Lewis; delegate, Mrs. William B. Lull; alternate, Miss Alice F. Dexter; Miss Mary Benton, Miss Ida Holbrook, Miss Emma Hutchinson, Mrs. F. A. Verplanck, Mrs. Frank Spencer, Mrs. Louis E. Grant, Mrs. J. M. Williams, Mrs. Frank Wolcott and Mrs. H. A. Cook.

Those who will represent the chapter at the annual state conference at Bridgeport, March 20 and 21 are: Delegates, Miss Mary Benton, Mrs. Herbert E. House, Mrs. Thomas I. Levie; Alternates, Mrs. J. Howard Keith, Mrs. Byron S. Carrier, Mrs. Gertrude B. Purnell.

A social hour followed the meeting during which refreshments were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Verplanck, Mrs. Gertrude B. Purnell, Miss Ella Washburn, Miss Mary Chancy and Mrs. Frank F. Spencer who poured.

Japan Going Back To Gold Basis After Interval Of Twelve Years

By WILLIAM R. KUHN
New York—(AP)—On January 11 Japan will swing into line as the last of the principal war-time allies to put her currency on a gold basis. In effect, she agrees to redeem her currency in gold on demand. Twenty-two countries preceded her in stabilizing their currencies since the war. Eight were the so-called new, post-war countries of Europe. Lithuania, Russia and Latvia resumed gold payments in 1922. Austria and Germany in 1923. Sweden and Estonia in 1924. Great Britain, Holland, Hungary, Albania and Danzig in 1925. Belgium, Finland and Czechoslovakia in 1926. Denmark, Greece, Italy and Poland in 1927. France and Bulgaria in 1928 and Rumania in 1929.

The Japanese government has been preparing for months to meet pressure on its currency, expected January 11, when the United States and others who hold yen seek to convert their holdings into gold.

On November 20 the Bank of Japan arranged a credit of approximately $50,000,000 abroad, half in New York and half in London. This is something like insurance against fall in the yen and, theoretically at least, may never be touched.

When Great Britain restored her currency to a gold exchange basis in 1925 she arranged a similar back-stopping credit of $300,000,000, or six times as large as that which Japan considered necessary.

The United States removed its gold embargo in 1919. At that time Japan was in an advantageous position had she chosen to restore her currency to a gold basis, some international economic authorities say.

She had gold stocks of approximately $1,000,000,000, almost half of which were held abroad. Two years later, in 1921, the total had risen slightly and half of it still remained abroad.

From that time forward, however, Japan's gold holdings in foreign centers melted rapidly until last March they amounted to only $45,000,000. Meanwhile, with a rising total of unfavorable yearly trade balances, the Tokyo government waited for a favorable opportunity to remove the troublesome gold embargo.

The fact Japan was not willing longer to postpone such action rested on a number of factors. In 1931, for instance, there falls due a sterling loan of which more than $100,000,000 is still outstanding.

With her currency on a gold basis she would be able to refund this obligation on more favorable terms.

RAISE NATIONAL GUARD TO STRENGTH OF 190,000

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—An improved and more tactically efficient National Guard will be brought to a strength of 190,000 during the remainder of the current fiscal year.

Plans for additional headquarters and units were given priority by the House War Department appropriations subcommittee by Major General William G. Everson, chief of the Militia Bureau.

Increases in strength authorized for the fiscal years 1929 and 1930, together with a number of other provisions, he said, improved the organization and tactical efficiency of the infantry divisions and harbor defense troops.

Expenditures kept down
"It should be noted," General Everson pointed out, "that the two increments of 1929 and 1930 have not materially increased expenditures and it is hoped that another increment may be authorized in 1932."

The position of the secretary of war that though a "highly desirable" to make an increment for 1931, it would have to be omitted due to other increases in the department budget, was outlined to the committee.

The National Guard program for reaching a strength of 210,000 in 1933, it was pointed out, would not be endangered through omission of the 1931 outlay.

BRITISH ARE SUPREME IN TANK CONSTRUCTION

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Army tank supremacy was conceded to the British by Major General C. C. Williams, chief of Army ordnance, before the House subcommittee on appropriations which considered the annual supply bill of the War Department.

While the American army has a tank capable of between 40 and 50 miles an hour on open fields, and 70 miles an hour on roads, the general said it was still in an experimental stage. No other country, he said, has developed a tank of similar speed ranges, and he recommended purchase of a number of the new vehicles for complete tests by the ordnance department.

"We are developing the various vehicles that a mechanized force would have to be equipped with," the general said in explaining tank developmental work, "but we have not advanced nearly as far in that matter as the British have advanced. They have been at it longer, and have spent a great deal more money on it than anybody else and they have made more progress than anybody else, I think."

BAY STATE YOUTH CONFESSES HOLD-UP

Philadelphia, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Arrested here for larceny of an automobile, Paul H. Smith, 20, of Mattapan, Mass., broke down under questioning today, police said, and confessed to being implicated in the fatal shooting of a Saugus, Mass., storekeeper during a holdup January 2.

Inspector Murray of Massachusetts state police who arrived here early today with extradition papers, is credited with having obtained the confession in which Smith admitted taking part in the holdup, but denied any knowledge of who killed the man William J. Fendell. Smith refused to disclose the names of his companions.

HUSBAND SUSPECTED

Seat Pleasant, Maryland, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Herman Brady, whose wife, Naomi Hall Brady was killed by a bomb sent to her in the wrappings of a Christmas present was held today by his brother LeRoy Brady by police investigating the tragedy.

Meanwhile the police made known that an uncle of the two men, Clarence W. Brady who was arrested on Friday had convinced them that he was not implicated in the bombing outrage. The latter was closely questioned as to his relations with the dead woman, particularly with respect to assertions that he had sought to marry her before she became the wife of his nephew.

FRENCH SEEK BETTER FUEL FOR AIRPLANES

Paris—(AP)—A competition for the improvement of motors and motor fuels for airplanes has been instituted by the semi-official French Committee of Aeronautical Propaganda.

The plan is to stimulate research for fuel offering less danger in use than gasoline. Prizes to the value of 250,000 francs ($30,000) will be awarded. The competition is open to French inventors only.

KILL MAN, BURN BODY WITH GAS SOAKED AUTO

Steger, Illinois, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The liquor racket was blamed today for the death of a youth whose burning body was found yesterday sprawling inside a flaming auto.

Two highway policemen, patrolling a road near Steger, a Chicago suburb toward an explosion and saw the glow from the pyre. Inside the sedan they saw a body piled on eight cans of gasoline. Identification was impossible as the head and shoulders were burned beyond recognition.

Six keys on a ring and an engine number provided by the police with the best chances to solve the mystery. Police believe the youth was dead before burned. A post mortem disclosed a bullet wound in the back of the head while in the roadway, behind the car was a patch of blood.

MISSIONARY SLAIN

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Kenya colonists are pressing vigorously investigation of the death of Miss Hulda Stumpf, American missionary who was found dead, apparently murdered, in a house of the Africa Inland Mission station at Kijabe, 50 miles away.

Miss Stumpf's age was given here as 63.

The African Inland Mission headquarters in New York Friday received a cablegram, unsigned, stating that Miss Stumpf had been murdered. The message was in code and indicated she had first been attacked and then smothered to death.

GEN. MITCHELL'S DAUGHTER LURED BY FOREIGN SERVICE

Washington—(AP)—Caroline Mitchell, daughter of Gen. "Billy" Mitchell, former chief of the army air corps, is studying for the foreign service.

With another Washington girl, Miss Eleanor Wells, she is preparing to crash gates which have proven quite difficult for women.

No women succeeded in passing the most recent foreign service examination, although two qualified in the one held last spring and now are occupying posts in Geneva and Beirut, Syria.

Miss Mitchell lives in Washington with her mother, Mrs. Caroline Mitchell.

SIR ESME HOWARD PREPARES TO LEAVE

British Ambassador to Depart for Home Next Month; To Quit Politics.

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Sir Esme Howard, the British ambassador and wife, Lady Isabella, are busily preparing for the ambassador's retirement next month they will go to a comfortable town house in London, where Sir Esme will bind books, and Lady Isabella will watch over a son getting ready to enter the diplomatic service, just as the father entered it 45 years ago.

The ancient and pretentious house they occupy now, the Embassy that stands on the first ground purchased by a foreign government for its envoys to the United States, also is approaching the end of its career.

Before its occupants leave, it will be brilliant once more with a formal dinner party for Americans. Another famous visitor will be entertained in it, and a few more small, intimate groups will have tea for a last time within the mellowed walls.

But with the departure of Sir Esme and his wife, the Embassy will be turned over to a wrecking crew. Already it has been sold, to a real estate dealer, and a splendid new mansion is nearing readiness for the new ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay, and his American wife. They will come next spring.

Sir Esme and Lady Isabella will leave it with mingled feelings, Lady Isabella's secretary said today.

"They are eager to go home to be with their four sons—sons they have seen so little, they think. But they are sorry to go away from Washington."

U. S. VETERINARIANS "BIG MEDICINE MEN"

Flagstaff, Ariz.—(AP)—To the Navajo Indian, white "horse stickers" from Washington are powerful medicine men.

Sent into Arizona to eradicate dourine, a serious disease among horses on the Indian reservations, veterinarians from the United States department of agriculture were no better than so many scapals until they revealed their magic.

They had to slaughter infected animals and geld uncontrolled stallions, all of which was very unpopular with the Navajos.

To overcome the Indian's natural opposition to having his favorite stallion gelded, the veterinarians willingly performed the usual ceremonial rites of such an occasion and with a little practice soon were able, in the eyes of the Indian, to give the animals with "speed and long wind."

Dr. T. W. Crump, in charge of the expedition, frequently acted "professionally" as dentist, physician, surgeon and "advertiser" for the Indians. He extracted hundreds of Navajo teeth, sutured wounds, removed splinters, set broken bones, prescribed for the sick, vaccinated against smallpox, and made "big medicine" generally.

Frequently the "horse sticker" arbitrated water rights disputes, helped settle estates and decide property ownership.

THE BOOK SURVEY

BY BRUCE CATTON
NEA Service Writer

Georges Clemenceau was a number of things besides the uncompromising, highly-efficient war-time leader of France that gained world-wide fame. Among these other things, he was a philosopher; and after he retired from politics to his seaside retreat, his busy mind had ample opportunity to speculate on the dark mysteries of life, death, and the universe.

The result of these speculations is contained in the huge two-volume work, "In the Evening of My Thought," issued by the Houghton Mifflin Co., at $12.50.

These twin volumes are intensely interesting and revealing. They do not deal with the war, with politics, or with the Navajos. They do not look for it here. What Clemenceau did was simply to record his musings in the manner of a disillusioned, skeptical philosopher. The books attack religion savagely, from start to finish. Clemenceau was a man of wide and solid learning, and his two volumes are devoted chiefly to proving that there is no immortality, no God, no freedom of the will, no absolute knowledge or truth.

Yet these conclusions did not bring Clemenceau discouragement. In them he saw a challenge to mankind—a challenge to prove manhood and nobility by making the best of a bad bargain and, by exercise of the intellect, to turn a bad world into a good one.

His conclusions will not be popular, naturally. But they are highly stimulating. "In the Evening of My Thought" will set you to thinking; and, despite the open-handed abandon with which books are being published these days, there are not many of which that can truthfully be said.

'FLOWER BED' LATEST MAMMOTH CAVE FIND

Louisville, Ky.—(AP)—A subterranean garden of flower-like crystals is the newest find in Mammoth cave.

The formation was discovered by Leo McGavie and Cecil Cutliff, guides, in a chamber with an area of 500 square feet. It is not more than a mile and a half from the famous Sand cave in which Floyd Collins was imprisoned for almost two and a half months before his body was brought from its rocky tomb to the surface.

Pushing their way through a tunnel which almost stopped their advance, McGavie and Cutliff found themselves in the flower garden, their lights reflected by millions of gleaming crystal flowers which rose from the chamber floor much after the manner of cabbages. The clusters varied in diameter from three to 14 inches, but all were the same height.

The crystals are believed to be nature's transformation of some strange underwater vegetable growth left high and dry ages ago. The formation, according to George D. Morrison, resident of the Mammoth Cave Development company, is neither stalactitic, relictitic or stalagmatic and is unlike anything discovered before. He says that it is some kind of gypsum formation.

NEW ORLEANS MAN HAS LINCOLN CANE

New Orleans, La.—(AP)—The ebony cane carried by Abraham Lincoln the night he was assassinated has come to New Orleans along with swords of Lord Nelson, the great British Admiral and Marshal Joffre, of France.

Their owner, S. J. Schwartz, declines to tell how he came into possession of the Nelson and Joffre swords but explains he purchased Lincoln's cane recently from Arthur L. von Dolcke, of Charlevoix, Mich. Dolcke had received it from his father, who in turn had got it from a negro janitor of Ford's theater.

An affidavit accompanying the cane relates that the janitor found it in the theater box the night Lincoln was shot and had given it to Dr. von Dolcke, of Washington.

The cane is a straight, black ebony stick curiously carved and inlaid and was treasured by the president as a gift from a group of friends. Just below the handle behind thick glass is "Abraham Lincoln" then a carved heart and "trail splitter."

Next are nine square dots representing the nine states from which slavery was abolished. Beneath is a miniature carved log cabin, a likeness of Lincoln's birth place.

The Joffre sword has a gold hilt, the figure of Marianne, symbol of ennobled France and bears Joffre's name and the date 1919.

DUVETYN COATS MATCH BRIGHT TWEED DRESSES

Paris—(AP)—Three-quarter coats of gay colored duvetyne are the wrap smart women will wear at southern resorts over colored tweed dresses or skirts and blouses.

Yellow, tobacco brown, green and coral are the colors in which the duvetyne jackets are shown. Tweeds to go with them are multi-colored or have a bright color mixed with white or dark brown or black thread.

DICTATOR WILL RESIGN WITHIN SIX MONTHS

Madrid, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Notedero Del Lunes, Monday's official gazette today carried an announcement by Premier Primo De Rivera that he would resign within six months "if not hindered by intransigent element or troublemakers."

The premier has said frequently during the last few months that he intended to resign shortly, but his setting of a time limit, six months, even if qualified, comprised the most definite word he has yet given to his intentions. He has been dictator of Spain since the military coup de etat of 1923.

New Beauty

FOR THE NEW FORD

THE NEW FORD COUPE

Flowing grace of line gives style and distinction to new, roomy Ford bodies. Now on display at dealers' showrooms

THE NEW FORD CARS, shown last Tuesday for the first time, have been enthusiastically received throughout the country. Everywhere it is realized that now, more than ever, the new Ford is a "value far above the price."

One of the distinguishing features of the new Ford bodies is the carefully planned harmony of every detail of design. From the new deep radiator to the tip of the curving rear fender there is an unbroken sweep of line—a flowing grace of contour heretofore thought possible only in an expensive automobile.

LOOKING at the new Ford you are impressed instantly by its smart style and compact, substantial sturdiness. For there is about it a certain character or personality which sets it apart and gives it a fresh and lasting beauty. You will take a real pride in this beauty just as you find a real thrill in the alert, capable performance of the car.

All of the new Ford bodies are finished in a variety of colors, with new striping and new streamline moulding. Interiors have more leg room. Closed cars have adjustable front seats. The smaller wheels, with larger tires, bring the car closer to the road, with a consequent gain in riding comfort and safety.

An additional feature of importance is the Rustless Steel used for the radiator shell, head lamps, hub caps, cowl finish strip and tail lamp.

This Rustless Steel will retain its bright, gleaming luster throughout the life of the car. It will not corrode, rust or tarnish in any kind of weather. Its brilliance is permanent. There is no plate to wear off, crack or scale, for it is the same bright metal all the way through.

The use of this Rustless Steel on the new Ford is a reflection of the enduring quality that has been built into every part of the car.

At today's low prices the new Ford is unquestionably an outstanding value. Check it over feature by feature and you will see that it brings you everything you want or need in a modern automobile:—beauty of line and color . . . safety . . . comfort . . . speed . . . power . . . quick acceleration . . . ease of control . . . economy of operation . . . low up-keep cost . . . typical Ford reliability and long life.

THAT SEIZED RUM
We have been trying to make it clear that we believe all this clamor against the Coast Guard, and by the same token pretty much all of that against land enforcement agents who make illegal searches, shoot liquor suspects and commit outrages upon the rights of citizens, is completely misdirected. We have said, and we adhere to it, that such things are inseparable from the enforcement of the prohibitory laws, and that it is a sheer waste of energy and a serious befogging of the real issue to attempt to reform these conditions so long as we have Volstead prohibition on the statute books.

Just the same the developments of the last day or two concerning the fate of the rum cargo of the "Flor-del-Mar," seized on the same day and in the same area as the "Black Duck," three of whose crew were killed by Coast Guardsmen, are becoming of more than passing interest. The discovery of "Flor-del-Mar" liquor aboard no less than five vessels of the patrol fleet, in addition to finding some of it at the bottom of a New London frigate among Coast Guardsmen, shows an unexpected general participation in booze loot by members of the service.

Usually in a fleet of any sort there is a great deal of partisanship among the sailors. The crew, not the fleet, is the unit of social solidarity. While Jack will share with every other Jack on his ship, nothing delights him more than to gloat over the Jacks of another crew when his own ship's crew is in any form of special luck and the other crew isn't. So that, while it would be the most natural thing in the world for every man aboard a patrol boat to share in her windfall of booze, if he wanted to, it seems an extraordinary thing for one ship to share her findings with other ships. Yet very evidently this was the present case. Not all those five ships by any means were concerned in the capture of the "Flor-del-Mar." There must have been a general broadcasting of the loot.

Yet there was nothing very unusual about the capture of this particular rum runner. The Coast Guard catches plenty of these ships and seizes plenty of booze. Is it always the case that enough of the liquor falls into the hands of the crews so that there is a general distribution of it among the vessels of the patrol fleet at sea? Is it an established system that accounts for widespread diffusion of the "Flor-del-Mar" rum—or did it just happen in this one instance?

It is rather aside from the prohibition problem, but it is an interesting question, just the same—whether there is ordinarily enough booze aboard these patrol boats, and enough of it under the jumpers of the crews, to account for the frequency with which private yachts, college boat-race tenders and other innocent traversers of the sea are fired on by Coast Guard vessels.

So far as the war between the rum runners and the rum hunters is concerned, that is largely their business. But if the coastal waters of this country are being patrolled by a lot of drunken men armed with machine guns and backed by the authority of the United States government there are some people who would like to know about it, so that when they go to sea they can go with their ships and boats armor-plated.

THE HUBERT ESTATE
The service of three notable Americans, one a former President of the United States and an excellent example of the Puritan type of New Englander, one a former governor of the nation's greatest state and a candidate for the Presidency whose membership in the Catholic communion was a major political issue, one a Jewish merchant of wide celebrity, all administering for welfare purposes the very large estate of a Jewish immigrant, constitutes one of the most picturesque aspects of American life that has presented itself in a long time.

How on earth this trio of wise citizens ever arrived at a conclusion of their labors under the terms of the Conrad Hubert will, it is difficult to see. Not that there was ever any danger of Calvin Coolidge, Alfred E. Smith and Julius Rosenwald scrapping among themselves over the more or less balanced claims of literally thousands of institutions to share in the Hubert millions, but the difficulties of the task in hand must have been enormous. There are such numberless charities in America, each almost desperately anxious to do more and still more in its particular way for the cause of humanity, and each able to make out a perfectly good case in its own behalf.

However, though Conrad Hubert has been dead less than two years the selection of thirty-three institutions to share in three-fourths of his estate has been completed.

What strikes us with particular force in this connection is the celerity with which this result has been attained, the wisdom displayed in the determination of the beneficiaries, and, particularly, a mild degree of wonderment as to how long it would have taken the Congress of the United States, if the task had devolved upon that body, to arrive at a final determination, and whether it could ever have done so at all without spending an amount equal to the total of the bequests in printing the endless flood of acrimonious oratory that inevitably would have accompanied the performance of the job.

IT DIDN'T WORK

Of peculiar significance, in light of the controversy over capital punishment which has recently taken on new life, is the escape from Wethersfield prison of Roland Lalone.

The crime for which this young man was serving a life sentence was as despicable a murder as could be imagined. Out of sheer bravado he and a companion shot to death a State Police trooper who sought to halt their car. They were confirmed and hardened criminals who cared nothing at all for human life and who had deliberately chosen a career of crime and bloodshed. Yet because of a strained interpretation of the law in their favor, when convicted, they escaped the noose and were sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Now, at this writing, Lalone is free after having spent a few months in confinement. That he will continue to be a dangerous criminal and enemy to society, if he eludes capture, is inevitable. We wonder whether any leader of the opposition to capital punishment would care to underwrite a blanket insurance policy for $100,000 to be paid to the heirs of any person who may be killed by this fugitive killer, even at a premium rate of fifty per cent a year.

We wonder, too, if the Connecticut jury that rendered a second degree verdict in the murder of Trooper Nelson would have hesitated long in making it first degree if it had had enough of the gift of prophecy to see one of the killers breaking out of prison within a year.

One of the stoutest of arguments in favor of capital punishment is that a criminal who has been hanged or electrocuted will do no more murders—and that otherwise the question is always in doubt.

JUST GUESSING

For a week we have been reading comment after comment and speculation after speculation, all based on the assumption that the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission is going to pass over the Eighteenth Amendment as beyond its power to either criticize or approve. And all these comments and all this speculation because Senator Jones has announced what the course of the Commission is going to be.

Senator Jones is not a member of the Commission. And while anyone can guess at what the Commission is going to do about the Amendment with a fifty-fifty chance of being right, we seriously doubt whether Senator Jones actually knows any more about that forthcoming report than the man in the moon. He could know, of course, that the Commission will either touch upon the Amendment or it will not. He had an even chance of being right when he made his prophecy. Anybody could have done the same thing. But when and if Senator Jones indicates that he is talking from information given him by George W. Wickersham, head of the Commission, it is our guess that he has placed his own interpretation on what Mr. Wickersham told him and that Mr. Wickersham told him nothing but words.

We say this, not from any displeasure with the Commission's conclusions as indicated by Senator Jones, but because it is quite impossible for us to imagine Mr. Wickersham, who is head and shoulders over Senator Jones' size in both cleverness and dignity, babbling the intentions of his Commission to an individual who comes to him without any authority whatsoever.

Senator Jones may have guessed right. But why on earth his guess should be accepted as information we cannot understand.

BATTLESHIPS AND PLANES
We admire Secretary of the Navy Adams, and want to agree with him on all possible occasions; so we will concur with all readiness in his position on the relative merits of battleships and airplanes. "The battleship," he points out, "could continue to remain at the scene of battle while it would be necessary for the airplane to return to its carrier or base for fuel or ammunition." We believe the battleship not only could but would remain on the scene after its flying antagonists had flown home—at the bottom.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 6.—This is not a happy new year for the lane where the lights burn long and late. Those famous bulbs seem to have taken a sock in the socket. They're beginning to blink a bit.

With the holiday entertainment season at its peak, twenty of the leading theaters are as dark as a Harlem cabaret floor show. More than 100 plays lie gathering the dust of the stage storehouse, and "the road" agony could be depended upon—has been just as bad. Even Old Skinner, who once could draw entire country sides into the theater, was dropped in the midst of his tour by Gilbert Miller, his manager.

Only Ethel Barrymore and the Theater Guild productions have survived the rigors of the road. Thousands of musicians stand out of work and desperate, thanks to the inroads of the talking pictures which brought about the abandonment of scores of theater orchestras. And on "music corner," a spot in the Forties where the jazz handitti gather while looking for work, the crowds grow, and saxophone players look about for some new form of livelihood. Chorines are casting their eyes on Hollywood and Broadway is casting its eyes on Broadway.

The scarcity of music shows on the big street amounts almost to a famine. And three of the most successful have not depended upon the Broadway girls. "Bitter Sweet" has a London company. So has "Wake Up and Dream." While "Fifty Million Frenchmen" turned to the cinema cuties and brought its chorus out from the Golden West. Such conditions put chorus jobs at a premium. The gilded girls are turning to floor shows of floundering cabarets and to modeling for the Fifth avenue style emporiums.

Whenever such dismal moments are at hand, I find myself turning to a department in Billboard, the publication of the show world, and read of the ups and downs of the nation's pitchmen. A pitchman, I assume you know, is one of those itinerant gents who appear on street corners and in doorways and windows selling cheap fountain pens, gadgets for threading needles and digmuges that sharpen razor blades. They put on a quick sidewalk spiel and seek to spellbind the passing crowd. They are, in some instances, real artists in crowd psychology.

One learns, for instance, that Richmond, Va., charges $2 a day for "fitch corners" and that "this is a good Saturday spot." That "Oklahoma is bad land for pitchmen in all lines. Many of the good towns of former years are closed and big in open towns is dull." One can also learn about medicine shows and Indian herb doctors—in fact many interesting survivals of a passing day.

Speaking of pitch stunts, the "word and music" racket has reappeared in the Broadway belt. It's the same as it used to be in those dear old days when we paid 10, 20 and 30 for seats at the "copy house" and the kids came down the aisles between the sets shouting, "word and music to all the songs!" When you bought the pamphlets you found a lot of words and no music.

During the holidays scores of youngsters were to be heard upon metropolitan corners, chanting—"Sing 'em all—here y'are." "The Face on the Barroom Floor," "Gunga Din," "Dangerous Dan McGrew" and "Down in the Lehigh Valley." . . . Sing 'em and recite 'em.

Can this be New York . . . and in the year . . . let's see . . . 1930, isn't it?
At any rate, a Happy New Year!
GILBERT SWAN.

KILLS FATHER SHOOT'S MOTHER

St. Louis, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Obsessed with a desire to kill, Alan F. Schumm, 37, University of Illinois freshman, shot his father, William Schumm, 42, to death and wounded his mother Mrs. Fayette Schumm, 40, in their home here early yesterday.
Police believe he was under temporary mental derangement caused by overstudy. He is being held in the observation ward at City hospital.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Jan. 6.—In the State Department is probably the most complete existing collection of information about the affairs of the outside world.

The Bureau of Indexes and Archives is the liaison section of all government agencies for obtaining and recording facts of every description from all foreign countries. It has at least 10,000,000 papers tucked away in 3000 or 3000 filing cases, dating back to 1906, and most of them mean something or other.

The idea is that if anyone connected with the government asks for any information on whatever on the internal affairs of any foreign nation the Bureau of Indexes and Archives, working with an elaborate but simple decimal index system, can locate it within two minutes.

Lots of Military Facts
Naturally, this is better than any encyclopedia or library because the information is constantly kept up to date by American diplomatic, consular and other agents abroad.

The State Department is especially interested in collecting military, naval and political information likely to be useful in its dealings with other governments, but that's only a part of what it has on hand.
Among the subheadings it uses in cataloguing the rest of the world one observes such items as Domestic Animals, Boy Scouts, Game Laws, Public Health and Animal Diseases. When the State Department knows about such things as those in Czechoslovakia, Afghanistan, Costa Rica, Luxembourg and Iraq you might almost say it knows everything.

There are about 140 persons in the Bureau of Indexes and Archives and last year they handled 1,340,000 pieces of incoming mail, recording, indexing, routing and filing. Much of this mail came in the diplomatic pouches from foreign service officials, guarded by consular locks, but there is always a big influx of American mail following the development of important situations in world affairs—especially anything that concerns peace or disarmament.

Mail clerks take first crack at the letters, roughly classify them for distribution among the bureau's 11 record sections—with titles such as far Eastern, Latin-American, Western European and Administrative—where they are given minute classification. Record clerks in these sections list and make the necessary marks on each communication, determining its routing and often joining it with previous correspondence for the aid of the receiving official. Some of the material is very confidential and is carried in locked boxes.

Each piece of mail then goes through a reviewing desk which checks the classification and sends it direct to its immediate destination. Anything on labor conditions in England goes to the department's division of Western European affairs, anything on Chinese famines to the Far Eastern division, and so on. The foreign service officer who receives the paper then checks whether it requires any action. He may mark it for filing, in which case it comes back to a tally desk which removes the charge. All incoming papers are charged up, as a book from a lending library.

If the letter or report is moved on for the perusal of several officials, the Bureau can always tell, through its check system, just where the paper is. It has to go back there before it can be moved on, carried by messengers who make the rounds, visiting each office every 20 minutes.

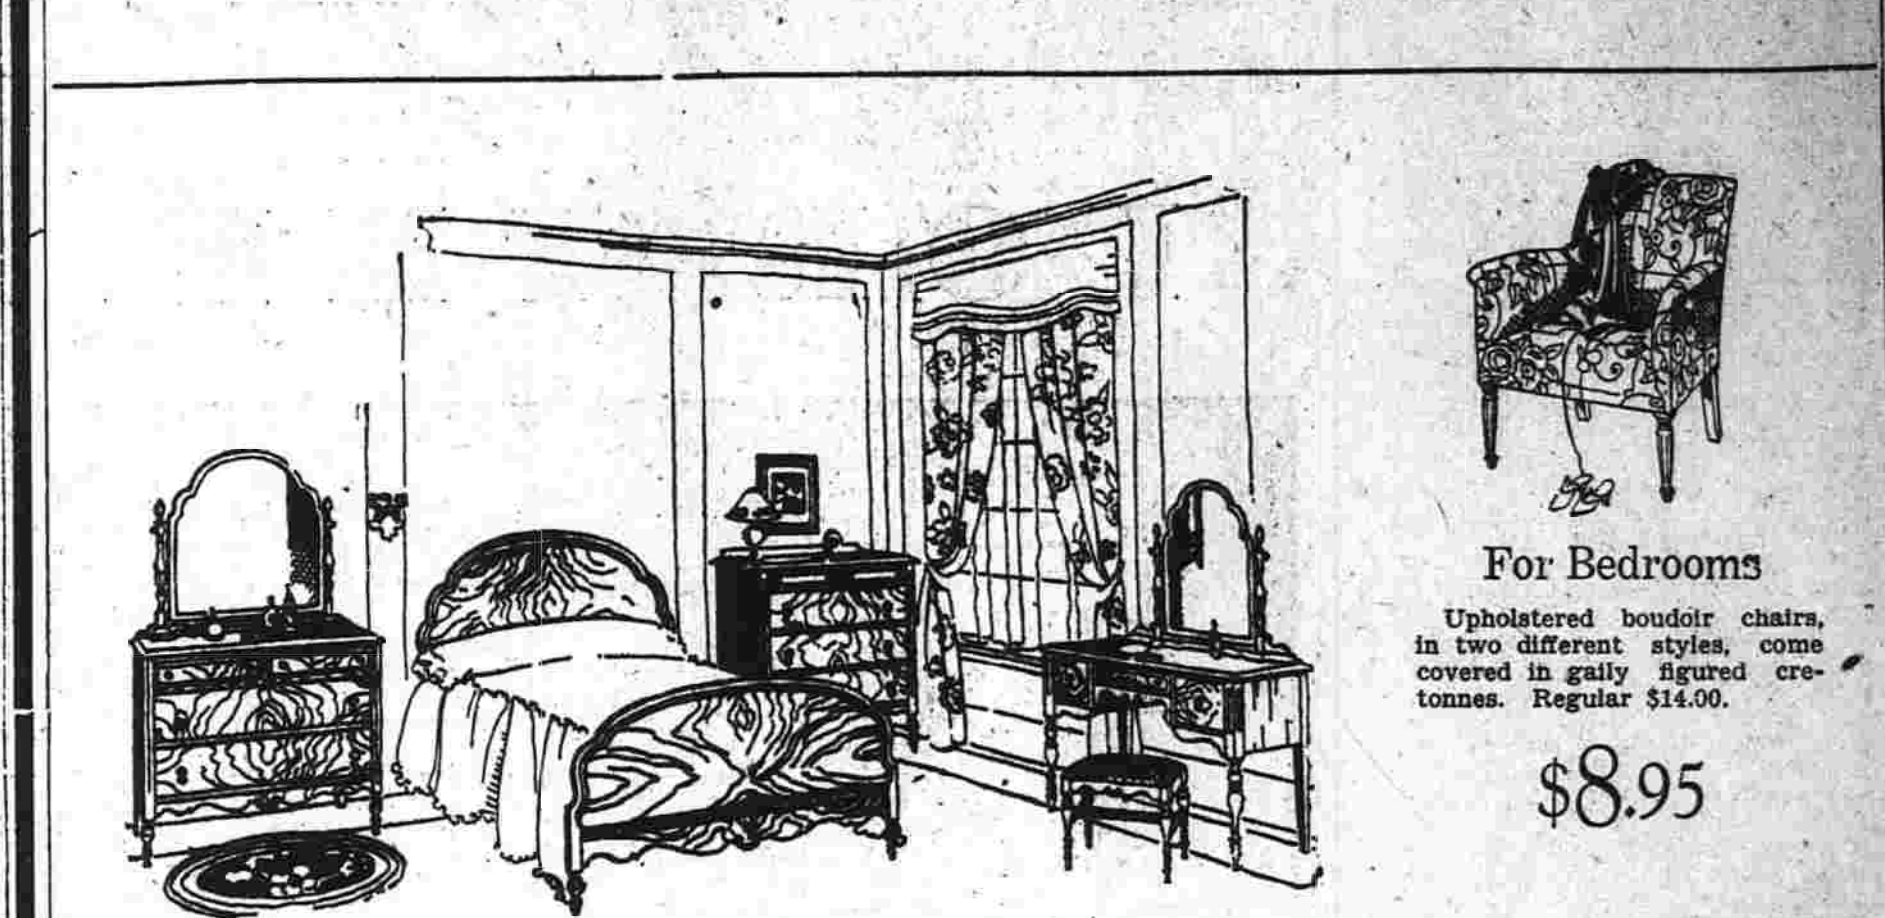

Eventually, of course, everything goes back to filing.
"Doesn't anything ever get lost?" David S. Salmon, chief of the bureau, was asked.
"Papers may be mislaid," he replied, "but I never knew one to be lost."

COLDS—MOST COMMON ILLMENT
Colds are not restricted like mumps and measles to the younger generation, nor are they exclusively for people past forty, like apoplexy and cancer. Everyone is born with the free and equal privilege of contracting colds at any age.
It is estimated that every adult worker in the world loses an average of one to three weeks' work each year from the ordinary cold in the head, and there is undoubtedly an average of two or three weeks' inefficiency from this very plebian disease. It is said that colds cost the city of Chicago more than $20,000,000 a year from loss of work in industries.

Although probably the most common of all the diseases, very little is known by doctors about what causes a cold, since they have never been able to discover that it has any specific bacteria. Everyone, however, is familiar with symptoms of having the head stopped up, the eyes throbbing and hurting, with a hoarseness in the throat, difficulty in breaking through the nose, then the hot burning sensation as the nose begins to run.
Colds may really prove serious by weakening the constitution so that dangerous diseases may develop. Chronic catarrh and sinus infection are the most frequent hang-overs from colds, although influenza, pneumonia and tuberculosis are sometimes developed.
The number of people in civilized countries who have never had a cold, if put together, would prob-

Not every cold is contagious but some that are associated with fever. The non-contagious colds are of two kinds: first, deficiency colds, the result of acidosis or a lack of calcium in the diet; second, irritation colds, caused by dust, pollen, irritating gases, etc.
It is possible for you to build up your health so that you will never have another cold, but since there are very few people who will actually take pains to do this, I will tell you in tomorrow's article about the best treatment for colds after they do occur.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Pyrorrhea)
Question—A. L. asks: "Can Py-rrhea be cured by treatments from a dentist, or would it only save the teeth for a while? Does pyorrhea cause nervousness? I have been very nervous for the last year."

Answer: It is possible to completely cure pyorrhea if it has not advanced too far. Your dentist should be able to help you, but it is also necessary to use the right diet which will increase the alkalinity of your blood stream and reduce your tendency to acidity. Such over-acidity, or acidosis, is a common cause of nervousness, so you should be helped in overcoming your nervousness if you use the right diet to stop the acidosis.

(Singing and Eating)
Question—T. T. writes: "Kindly tell me what foods I should eat before going to the singing choir. I am taking also voice, and find it is a little hard for me."
Answer: It is much better for you to eat your dinner after you have had your choir practice. Most famous singers eat very lightly before a concert, and many do not eat anything after breakfast on that day, finding they have better voice control and clearer tones when singing while their stomachs are empty.

(Change of Climate)
Question—H. G. S. asks: "Is it dangerous for a person born and bred in the sub-arctic or cold zone to leap out and settle down in a South Sea Island?"
Answer: It does not seem to make difference whether one moves from the arctic to the tropics providing the diet is regulated accordingly.

Wedding Gifts to Belgian Princess Include Sealskin Wrap From Hoover and Choicest Fabrics for Trousseau

By ROSETTE HARGROVE

Brussels—With all the courts of Europe buzzing about the Belgian-Italian royal wedding, the bride herself, the Princess Marie-Jose, is quite detached and calm, and has left most of the important details to her mother.

The marriage on January 8, with its attendant program of pomp and pageantry, and marked by the full participation of church and state, will be the most colorful Europe has seen in many a year. But in these facts pretty Marie-Jose is but passingly interested. Here is a live-match, and whatever the ceremony concerned, she is marrying the man of her choice—tall, handsome Prince Humbert, whom she has known since childhood.

Her former governess, Katie Hammersley, who she went to visit while plans were being made for the journey to Rome, said of her: "All this fuss and furor has not touched her at all. She is the same sweet, unaffected girl she has always been."

"When I asked her to tell me about her wedding clothes and her gifts, she said she would rather talk about something else. Her mind was not on herself or her trousseau. But I quickly gathered she was very much in love with Prince Humbert, her future husband, and that she had a keen sense of her responsibilities as the possible queen of Italy."

"It was with her when she was in school in Italy, and I know how dearly she loves the country and how well she understands and appreciates the people she eventually will lead."

Had Varied Education
Miss Hammersley said that the education of the Princess had been academic, and that she had had great interest in nursery work and thorough courses in the rearing of children.

In accepting her mother's judgment rather than her own in matters of clothes, the Princess has put her sartorial responsibilities in capable hands, for Queen Elizabeth of Belgium is an expert on style, and an artist in line and color who deserves her reputation of being the best dressed queen in Europe.

In the clothes that have sentimental value, the Princess has shown much pleasure, and the favorite article is her "manteau de cour" or court cloak, which was designed for her by none other than Crown Prince Umberto himself. It was made in Milan, according to his specifications, and presented as the proud contribution of Italian dressmaking art to another Belgian trousseau.

This garment is made of white velvet, lined with snowy ermine and decorated with the emblems of the House of Savoy. It has a train six yards long.

Least excited of anyone in the royal families of Belgium and Italy, apparently, is Princess Marie-Jose herself, who is pictured upper right. Her mother, Queen Elizabeth, lower left, has assumed most of the responsibilities of planning the trousseau. Even Crown Prince Humbert of Italy, upper left, has shown considerable interest in his bride's clothes, and personally designed the rich court cloak which will be one of his gifts to her.

less gowns are compelled to wear gloves covering the entire arm. Incidentally the Princess seldom if ever wears black, and there is only one black gown in her trousseau. She has always preferred light colors.

Prince Humbert is taking an active interest in his bride's clothes and she has agreed to confer with him as to what dress she will wear for various important functions which they will both be called upon to attend.

PARLEY AT HAGUE CONTINUES DEBATE

Weekly Review of Foreign Affairs by the Cable Editor of the A. P.

By Associated Press

The first of the three big international conferences that lead the political procession in Europe for 1930 began at the Hague last week.

The second Hague conference opened in an atmosphere of calm that contrasted sharply with the tenseness of its predecessor.

Through the work will probably be long and slow, some delegates hoped to finish it before the opening of the five-power naval disarmament conference January 21.

Pick Committees
Committees were appointed to consider the question of German and eastern European reparations.

Germany is asking about credits for former enemies and about balances resulting from the overlapping of the Dawes plan and the Young plan.

The Japanese delegation to the London naval conference re-affirmed their policies in a press interview.

Japan's Claims
M. Kakatsuki, chief of the delegation, said that the world demand seventy percent of the American and the British strengths in cruiser tonnage, would insist on retaining submarines for her defense.

Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy, who will lead the Italian delegation, affirmed that the American and the Italian attitudes towards the conference were in harmony.

In the Orient there were signs of increasing restiveness under western domination. The India National Congress, a powerful body led by Mahatma Gandhi, and other influential natives, voted to seek independence for India instead of being content with dominion status in the British empire.

A minority group held a rump meeting after the adjournment of the Congress and established a left-wing party within the Nationalist ranks.

Russian and Chinese managers of the Chinese Eastern Railway got to work again, and the trans-Siberian express will soon be running again over its old route.

Princess Marie-Jose of Belgium went to Rome with King Albert and Queen Elizabeth for her marriage on January 8 to Crown Prince Humbert of Italy.

Royal and noble society from all over Europe has gathered in Rome for the wedding and the ceremonies will be splendid.

A fire and a panic that resulted in the death of 72 children in a cinema saddened New Year's eve festivities in Scotland.

NICKY WEDS AGAIN
New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Several newspapers today told of a second marriage of Nicky Arnstein, former husband of Fannie Brice, comedienne. As related by the New York Daily News, he was married by a civil ceremony in Quebec Oct. 1 to Mrs. Isabella McCullough, a divorcee worth $2,000,000.

The news said that the new Mrs. Arnstein had obtained a divorce at Chicago from Charles McCullough, a Chicago promoter. Her mother is Mrs. John C. Matlack of Great Neck, N. Y.

There were reports of a slight earthquake in the east the other day. But then you never can tell. It may have been merely a family moving out of an upstairs apartment.

MEETS JAP ENVOYS
London, Jan. 6.—(A.J.)—It was understood here today Prime Minister MacDonald returning Thursday from Scotland will confer with the Japanese delegates to the forthcoming naval conference on matters connected with the parity.

Tonight Ambassador Dawes will entertain the Japanese delegates at dinner at the American embassy.

BAY STATE MAYORS TAKE OFFICE TODAY

Boston, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Mayors were to be inaugurated in 17 Massachusetts cities today.

In simple ceremonies at Symphony Hall, James M. Curley, elected to the Boston mayoralty for the third time, was to assume office this morning.

Mayor-Elect Richard M. Russell, successor to the chair held in Cambridge for the past 12 years by Mayor Edward W. Quinn, was to be the third generation of his family to assume the office.

Former Mayor John J. Whalen was to succeed Mayor Lawrence F. Quigley in Chelsea and another former office holder, former Mayor Patrick J. Duane, was to become the mayor of Waltham again.

Other incoming office holders were: Worcester, Michael J. O'Hara; Lynn, J. Fred Manning; Woburn, Philip J. Gallagher; Marlboro, Amedeo A. Martel; Holyoke, William T. Dillon; Northampton, Homer C. Bliss; Brockton, H. A. Bent; Lowell, Thomas H. Braden; Lawrence, Michael A. Landers; and Newburyport, Andrew J. Bossy; Gillis.

Only 12 per cent of the operating cost of a car goes toward gasoline.

NEW MEXICO ADMITTED

On Jan. 6, 1912, New Mexico was admitted to the Union.

Although the state legislature was strongly Republican, the first governor to be elected was a Democrat, William C. McDonald.

The legislature, on March 12, 1912, elected Albert B. Fall and Thomas B. Catron United States senators.

MIRRORS FOR CADETS
Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—West Point cadets would be provided with mirrors to show them how they look on horseback under a request to the House War Department appropriations sub-committee.

Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the academy, asked for funds to install mirrors in the riding hall to enable the cadets "to see what he looks like on his horse, and get an idea of what he is doing."

"Sometimes," he added, "you can tell him about it but he cannot see it himself very well."

WEDDING PARTY HUNTS IN ITALIAN PRESERVE

Castel Porziano, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Princess Marie Jose of Belgium and the guests who Wednesday will see her married to Prince Humbert of Italy partook today of the largest hunting party this famous old estate has ever known.

After shooting in the morning the guests, who included princes of the blood of Belgium, Italy, Great Britain and Bulgaria, and others of station only less imposing, sat down to a sumptuous hunt breakfast to congratulate each other on their marksmanship and make merry with pre-nuptial fervor.

The party enjoyed excellent hunting weather, clear and sunshiny with just a touch of warmth to the air.

The guns of the kings and princes brought down a number of stags and deer and boars. All of which were distributed to Roman charitable organizations for Eppiphany tables of poor families.

The hunt lasted a little more than two hours. All the male guests were in sporting costume. The preserve was reached by automobiles, and its approaches were zealously guarded by plain clothed men and carabinieri.

At the gate Count Guerrieri, whose title is "The Great Huntsman of the Court" welcomed the party.

Ramblers 22-19 Winners Over Warriors In League

Phantoms Tounce Original Taffys 38 to 16 in Rec Junior League Saturday Night; Taffys Lead Circuit

Two more basketball games were played in the Rec Junior League Saturday night at the Rec. The Ramblers took the measure of the Warriors 22 to 19 and the Phantoms tounced the Original Taffy Five 38 to 16.

The Phantoms outclassed the Original Taffys but at times the latter looked like a real threat, the score at one time being 12-10. These boys, the Original Taffys, are putting up a good stiff game considering that most of the team has had little or no experience in the game. Much credit is due them for sticking together regardless of a win or a loss. The Taffy's now lead the league, being undefeated with the Phantoms a close second.

The Ramblers showed a nice offensive, coming up from behind with a sustained attack in the third quarter. The Warriors were handicapped by making so many personal fouls, both Healy and Reid being forced out by this route. A total of 19 personals for the Warriors against 10 for the Ramblers tells the story.

Wednesday the Warriors play the Original Taffys at 8 and the Taffys play the Ramblers at 9 p. m.

HILL MANSION BURNS

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Nothing but the walls were standing today of the $200,000 mansion occupied by the family of George W. Hill, president of the American Tobacco Co. The home was destroyed with its contents of valuable art objects and furnishings. Sparks from the burning mansion were blown in the direction of the New York Orthopedic hospital, 200 yards away, where 300 crippled children were being cared for. Firemen poured water on the hospital roof, preventing it from catching fire.

PREDICT TROUBLE FOR THE LEADERS

Both Night Hawks and Majors Have Tough Assignment in Herald League.

There is apt to be plenty of trouble for both the Majors and the Night Hawks in the Herald Bowling League tonight and the joke lies in the fact that neither of the league leaders can afford to be jostled about about in their present predicament. The Night Hawks saw a point whittled off their lead by the Majors last week and who knows but what they will be displaced this evening.

"SAFE SAM" HOUSTON MAY MEET WATERLOO

Worshipful Master Tenney Hopes to Spring Upset Tonight But Must Have Patience.

The third round of the Masonic pocket billiards tournament will be played this evening with three matches. Seven survived the second round and Bob Chambers was the lucky man regarding the third round by.

Herbert L. Tenney, worshipful master, is liable to have kingly aspirations humbled this evening when he tries conclusions with the "Safe-Sam" Houston, the chap who gets more enjoyment out of tying up his opponent than in scoring himself. Tenney beat Mac MacDonald 30 to 18 Saturday night so maybe it won't be all gravy for Sam tonight after all.

Sam Nelson, another chap of the happy-go-lucky sort, may find his rival on the Board of Assessors, Tom Lewis, too much for him even though he (Nelson) did beat Art Olson 50 to 38 in the second round. C. Clifford, the darkhorse candidate who believes actions speak louder than words is all primed for his match with Ernie Benson after quietly and convincingly disposing of Mr. Holgar Bach of contracting fame, 50 to 35 Saturday.

Interest in the tournament increases with each match and tonight is sure to see a large gathering at the temple.

Olson's Terrible Swedes Playing Here Tomorrow

Missouri Quintet Seeks Revenge for Defeat Administered Here Last Season; Pro Rule Preliminary.

C.M. OLSON MANAGER

One the banner attractions of the current basketball season in Manchester will take place tomorrow evening at the school street Recreation Center when the Rec Five endeavor to take a fall out of Olson's Terrible Swedes hailing from Joplin, Mo., now barnstorming this section of the United States.

In anticipation of a banner crowd, Director Lewis Lloyd has made special arrangements for a large crowd through the installation of extra seats. The doors will open at 7 o'clock. The admission will be fifty cents straight except in cases of children accompanied by their parents.

Olson's Swedes played before a capacity crowd in New Britain the other night and were defeated by the narrow margin of four points, 30 to 28. They were pitted against the big New Britain team, not the one which broke even with the Manchester tribe. Last year the Rec beat the Swedes by a score of something like 48 to 46 in one of the most exciting games ever seen on a local court.

The preliminary game tomorrow also promises to be a humdinger. The West Sides will oppose the strong Plainfield Buddies and professional rules will prevail. Local fans who love this style of basketball seem in store for a real treat. Tomorrow's Herald will carry many more interesting facts about the stellar attraction of the season and also more pictures of members of the Swedes.

Shires Denies Dangerous Dan Fell From Anything But Blow

Chicago, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The only interest Charles Arthur (the Great) Shires had in the boxing business today was to clear himself of charges of having participated in a fixed fight and attempting to fix another.

The great one, with a yearning to sign a contract to play first base for the White Sox and withdraw from boxing, awaited a summons from the Illinois State Athletic Commission to give an explanation of charges that Dangerous Dan Daly of Cleveland had "taken a dive" for him in Shires' first professional fight at the White City Arena, Dec. 9.

Already under the ban of the Michigan Boxing Commission and the National Boxing Association, pending investigation of a charge that a representative of his had attempted to fix his scheduled engagement with one Battling Cross of Detroit last week, Shires' misery was increased by a claim purported to have been made by Daly that the latter had taken a dive.

The latter charge was made by Daly, according to an interview printed in the Ohio State Journal at Columbus, Ohio, yesterday. Daly, the story said, had "gone into the bank" for Shires because he feared being "taken for a ride" if he failed to yield to a request made by Shires' representative.

Promoter Jim Mullen, Shires and Eddie Meade, of Cleveland who brought Daly to Chicago for the fight, all vigorously denied knowing anything about attempts to fix the bout.

Shires agreed that Daly had taken a dive, but insisted the plunge was induced by a stout right to the chin.

"I never imagined I'd be willing to fight again for nothing," Shires said "but if I ever meet Daly or Gerry or whatever his name is, I'll slap him down without mercy and there won't be any admission charges."

Major General John J. Clinlin, chairman of the Illinois State Athletic Commission indicated life suspension for the promoter, fighters and managers involved in the affair if the charges are proven.

Promoter Mullen said he would ask the commission to request a warrant for Daly's arrest, then if the fighter wished to repeat the charges, he would be compelled to make affidavit.

BRIDGEPORT GOLFER TAKES 3RD HONORS

Kirkwood and Dutra Tied for First in Long Beach $3,500 Open Tourney.

Long Beach, Cal. Jan. 6.—(AP)—Olin Dutra, Santa Monica, Calif., and Joe Kirkwood of Philadelphia today held jointly the championship honors for the fifth annual Long Beach $3,500 open golf tournament. The two pro's scored 218 each for the 54 holes of medal play.

Dark Horse Mudders found the puddles and soaked greens to their liking and Clarence Clark, young Tulsa, Okla., pro, ploughed into second prize money with 218. Henry Cucci of Bridgeport, Conn., took third place with 219 and Johnny Rogers, Denver, Colo., fourth with a total of 220.

Young Charles Seaver, 17 year old Los Angeles prep school amateur beat George Von Elm, Detroit, for the amateur prize, and tied with Johnny Farrell of St. Augustine, Fla., for fifth place in the medal play with a 221.

CHAMPION PENN FIVE STARTS WITH VICTORY

Quakers Overcome Three Point Lead in Second Half to Out-point Yale Quintet 27-23.

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Once more it appears that aspirants for the eastern intercollegiate basketball championship will have to stop Pennsylvania.

The Quakers began defense of the title they won in 1928 and 1929 on Saturday night by downing Yale 27 to 23 in a hectic battle in which McNiff, sub guard was the outstanding performer.

Pennsylvania lead 14 to 13 at the end of the first half, but Yale took 19-16 lead early in the second half. The Quakers rallied to tie the count at 21 all and McNiff, entering the game in place of Magner tossed in two fields goals and a foul to give the Red and Blue a safe margin.

Yale presented a formidable front throughout the battle. Penn trounced the Elis 35-19 in the opening of the league season last year and beat them by eight points at New Haven in a later engagement.

Three other league members will make their first starts of the season on Saturday. Dartmouth tackles Londonberry, South Londonderry and Williamsville, Vermont.

National Circuit Leader Anticipates Closer Race as Result of Changes in Personnel.

By JOHN A. HEYDLER, President National League.

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—It is too early in the year to review the teams in our league for the 1930 pennant race and it is too early to predict what kind of a season we may expect but judging from the growth and progress of the game the past three seasons and the general strong trend of the public to all sports I am impelled to predict 1931 will prove another great year for baseball in general and the National League in particular.

It is a fact that attendance in our league championship games the past three years totalled 15,900,000. During the three years prior to this period our attendance was about 12,000,000.

Now last season for the first time in about a decade our race was over about Sept. 1. I do not anticipate such a runaway by any club this year. Both the Boston and Cincinnati clubs will present a much stronger front at the start of the next race. Both teams will have new managers who proved their capacity to develop and lead the first division teams. Then the Phillies only developed its real strength toward the end of last season. This club should prove a feature of the 1930 pennant race. So here are three second division teams upon which we can count to put up a real battle with the contenders from the start.

A better balanced league means a closer race, keener competition and as natural result greater interest and attendance. It looks as though we should have the best balanced league for 1930 in major league history and therefore we have every reason to look forward with confidence to another great year.

It is a curious fact that the best-tasting cigarette is the one in which no single taste quality is too evident. Over-mildness, for example—or over-richness—shows lack of "balance" just as plainly as harshness or bitterness.

On this basis, test Chesterfield. Aroma, smoothness, satisfying goodness, flavor, mildness, all present—but none emphasized at the expense of others. The one goal is taste—better taste, balanced taste—

LAWYERS OWE FIRST DUTY TO STATE IN ITALY

Home.—(AP)—A new conception of the duties of the Bar and the relationship between the lawyer and the client has arisen in Italy and made official by an opinion of Alfredo Rocco, minister of justice. The idea obtaining in America and in England that the lawyer should defend his client's interest to the last ditch falls to the ground. The new idea is that the lawyer owes his first duty to the State and his second to his client, and that when his duty to the State conflicts with that to his client, the State comes first.

FRENCH RIVIERA SEES ROSY WINTER SEASON

Cannes, France.—(AP)—Despite the trouble in the financial world, leading hotel proprietors and casino directors believe that this winter's tourist season will be the best in five years. They contend that British and American travelers will not cancel their vacation plans because of any stock market losses, but will tend to select one spot instead of attempting to include several countries in their itinerary. Egypt and the Near-East will suffer most, they contend.

CAIRO BUILDS AUTO ROADS TO PYRAMIDS

Cairo.—(AP)—The development of motor traffic in the land of the Pharaohs has necessitated the speeding up of road extension. Alexandria has completed a large part of the road to Abu Qir and Corniche, and they provide an excellent surface for the motorist. Cairo also shows its willingness to adapt itself to the era of automobiles by improving the roads to Helopolis and the Pyramids. But these efforts do not keep pace with the needs of the traffic. Parking conditions in Alexandria are anything but satisfactory. Cairo is better off in that respect owing to its wider streets.

DILLON NEAR DEATH

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 6.—(AP)—Luke Dillon, 80, Irish patriot who was once sentenced to life imprisonment in Canada for his activities in behalf of the Irish cause is near death at his home here. He was visited yesterday by Eamonn DeValera, former head of the Irish republic. Mr. Dillon was born in England and most of his life was spent in Philadelphia. In 1906 he was arrested in Canada in connection with the dynamiting of the Welland Canal in an attempt to halt shipment of grain to British armies fighting the Boers in South Africa. He served 14 years and then was released and went to Philadelphia.

There was a large and appreciative congregation out to greet the pastor and his family. The sermon was very impressive and appropriate for the new year.

Police Ball Notes

It was announced by Captain of Police Stephen J. Tobin on Saturday, that Probation Officer Kenneth E. Sullivan and Lewis Chapman, clerk of the court, will act as ushers and floor directors at the annual police ball to be held in the Town Hall on Thursday night. Tickets for the ball are selling fast and there is sure to be a record breaking crowd at the Second Annual Ball of the Rockville Police Department.

Superior Court

Ten cases are listed for the short calendar session of the Tolland County Superior Court of the winter term, which opens tomorrow morning, with Judge John R. Booth on the bench. The session is the first to open here in January, resulting from action by the last session of the General Assembly. The cases for the short session are: Nicola Tressi et al., vs. Mina Flower et al.; Monach Realty Corporation, motion to restore docket, motion to withdraw appearance for plaintiff; F. S. Apuzzo vs. Michael Ficarra, motion to transfer to the Litchfield County; Joseph Tomchin vs. Jennie Rosenberg, acceptance of committee report; approval of deed; Delta Abostes Company vs. Benjamin R. Boer War Hero on Mission in U. S.

Famed in Britain's conquest of Empire, the Rt. Hon. General Jan C. Smuts, Boer War hero and former premier of South Africa, now is in this country to speak in the interests of the League of Nations. Pictured above as he arrived in New York is the man who led a tiny Boer army against Great Britain in 1902, then patriotically became one of Britain's staunchest patriots after the Boer defeat, and in the World War was the conqueror of German East Africa, Germany's last Colonial possession.

perintendent made the presentation in behalf of the superintendent, foremen and executive force of the company. Employees in Mr. Huan's department expressed their esteem by giving him a traveling bag. Briefly he expressed his appreciation, thanking his benefactors for their loyalty to him as foreman and voicing the hope they would be loyal to his successors. Mr. Huan has many friends in Rockville who will be interested in the above news.

Fined in Court

Mathew Purroy, 18, of Ellington, was fined $10.31 including costs, in the Rockville City Court Saturday morning on charges of violating the trapping laws. He was brought before the court by Game Warden Edward Wright and Henry Meyers, charged with having illegal traps. The fine and costs were paid.

After Delinquent Tax Bills

Water Zalinski who was arrested by Deputy Sheriff John J. Connors for failing to pay his personal tax, has been released from Tolland County Jail, upon payment of his tax and costs of the court, by friends. Another man was placed under arrest of a friend who paid the tax, saved him from going to jail. Mr. Connors stated on Saturday that he had several more delinquent tax bills to collect and if not paid, the persons must go to jail.

Three Rounders at Jail

Albert Hill, 38, of Providence, R. I., was fined $17.10; John J. Gerard, 37, of Westfield, Mass., $18.10 and William Rand of Southbridge, Mass., was fined $19.10 in Rockville Police Court, following their arrest on Friday at the Peavee boarding house on Vernon avenue. They were charged with intoxication, and being unable to pay were sent to Tolland County Jail. The arrests were made by Officer Alfred Say.

To Teach Dancing

Miss Evelyn McCarthy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles McCarthy of West Main street, who has several dancing classes in this city, has been engaged to teach dancing at certain hours the next three days of the week at the Manchester Community Club. She succeeds Miss Preciosa Jack, who has gone to the West Coast.

To Observe C. E. Week

The Rockville C. E. Union, of which Harold Hincks is president, will observe C. E. Week, which is being observed throughout the world from January 28 to February 2, with a union meeting, which will be held at Ellington on Friday evening, January 21. An appropriate program is being arranged.

D. A. R. Meeting

Hon. Charles Phelps of Ellington avenue, will be the speaker at the meeting of the Sabra Trumbull Chapter, D. A. R., to be held at the home of Mrs. Emily Bissell Swindells on Wednesday, January 8. Mrs. A. E. Waite will be the soloist. A social time will follow the meeting.

K. of C. Open Meeting

Rockville Council, No. 1155, Knights of Columbus, will hold an open meeting and smoker in Knights of Columbus Hall on Tuesday evening, January 14. The committee in charge is planning to have several speakers present.

Notes

Louis Edwards of Pawtucket has returned to his home after a short visit with relatives in this city, turned to her home on Union street, has returned from several days visit with friends in Bar Harbor, Maine. Miss Constance Brookes has returned to her home on Union street, from several days stay in Boston, Mass. Rev. George S. Brookes, pastor of Union church spent several days in Philadelphia last week. He occupied the pulpit at Union church on Sunday. Mrs. Edward Pethybridge of Union street is convalescing from her recent illness. Mrs. and Mrs. James Coughlin and son of South Manchester, were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mead of Union street on Sunday. A candle light service was held at the Union church last evening and the motion picture "Goo-e Hange High" was shown, there being a large audience.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Stock prices displayed a firm undertone at the opening of today's market. General Electric advanced 1-4 points on the first sale. Underwood Elliot Fisher 1; U. S. Steel, American Can, Anaconda, Nash Motors, Union Carbide and Westinghouse Electric improved fractionally. The market gathered strength as trading progressed, with short covering an important factor in the advance. A few pools resumed operations but the buying was of a cautious character and early gains were generally held to a point or two.

FEWER ARRESTS

Westerly, R. I., Jan. 6.—(AP)—For the past 17 years police records of Westerly as made public today in the annual report of the Westerly Town Council have shown that during the no licensed saloon days before the war there was an average of 168 arrests each year. Since the war, during the prohibition amendment days, there was an average falling off of 22 arrests each year. In these "dry" years there was an average of 146 arrests each year. In these 17 years there has been a growth in population of nearly 25 per cent and the regulation of the automobile has caused many arrests which did not take place in 1913.

ROB WEDDING GUESTS

Revere, Mass., Jan. 6.—(AP)—While a marriage ceremony was being performed in the auditorium of Revere City Hall today thieves looted the check room and departed with hats, coats and pocket-books to the value of $500. Eight wedding guests reported losses. In Turkestan, a wife can be bought for as little as a box of matches.

Queer Twists In Day's News

London.—If there's another war, the Royal Air Force expects to be able to go into battle with fighting planes that will do 200 miles an hour with full military loads. It has tested at new planes of such speed capacity that has landed and taken off from the decks of battleships.

Oakland, Calif.—What if planes are in as general use as autos? A plane piloted by a student flyer landed squarely on top of a closed auto, injuring four of its occupants. The pilot was unhurt.

Rome.—This is the last day till Easter that Italian children expect gifts. They receive them at Christmas, New Year's and the Feast of the Epiphany.

New York.—Boy Scouts know what to do with Christmas trees after Christmas. A headquarters announcement tells them to plant the trees in back yards and erect in them feeding boxes for birds.

San Juan, Porto Rico.—The little Porto Rican, today is happy. It is Three Kings Day. The kings are the Porto Ricans' triple version of Santa Claus. Governor Roosevelt asked well-to-do to play the kings for poor children.

New York.—About 2,000,000 persons more than 65 years old are partly or wholly dependent for support on others in the United States says Abraham Epstein, secretary of the American Association for Old Age Security.

Washington.—A bulletin issued by the United States Women's Bureau says that a large proportion of families living in cities depend largely upon the earnings of women, and in many homes the entire income is earned by wife or daughters.

Paris.—The French have licked the Germans again, but no peace conference is necessary. There was not even one warning for rough stuff in a soccer game. The score was 6 to 4.

ARMY BILL ASKS FOR MORE FUNDS

Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Lacking definite conclusions from President Hoover's economical survey of the War Department, the house appropriations committee today reported the supply bill for the fiscal year 1931 for the executive branch, calling for an expenditure of $435,231,000, an increase of $442,000 over the current fiscal year.

With the idea that economies may be effected through the survey, however, the committee wrote into the bill a provision that would prevent the usage of any of the money appropriated for any other purpose in the event that President Hoover decides upon curtailment of the activities provided for in the measure.

Less Than Estimates.—Although carrying an increased appropriation, the supply bill is $2,767,000 less than the budget estimates. It sets aside $337,058,000 for military purposes, an increase of $6,019,000 over the current year, and $117,173,000 for non-military activities, including the Panama Canal, a decrease of $5,777,000 as compared with 1930.

The permanent appropriations amount to $9,627,000, of which $1,374,000 is for military purposes and $8,253,000 is for non-military activities, with this, the total outlay for the next fiscal year is brought to $463,855,000.

The reduction in the budget estimates partially was effected by curtailing the appropriation for the Army housing program to the extent of $2,000,000.

The decrease in the non-military activity outlay largely resulted from the lack of an appropriation for the inland waterways corporation and for return contributions on flood control work. The increase for military purposes was due to greater outlays for the quartermaster corps amounting to $2,021,000 for improved uniforms.

CHAPTER I

With sharp, grating violence Judith Cameron slipped a fresh sheet of paper into her typewriter. Her head bent lower and the keys, like vicious little hammers, began mad dance, jumping back and forth. Judith told herself she would not look around.

She knew exactly as well as if she had been watching that the four other girls employed in this particular office of Hunter Brothers publishing house were clustered about Carla Morrison's desk. She had heard Carla's half-suppressed whisper (purposely pitched to reach Judith's ears) "Oh, don't bother Miss Ritz! She wouldn't be interested!"

Judith fully appreciated the sarcasm with which these girls had labeled her "Miss Ritz."

She went on with her typing. Giggles and whispers came to her. All of these other girls seemed to be good friends. They chatted about dates and "boy friends" and the shows they had seen. They gathered frequently—as they were wont—to exhibit new purchases of silk rib sticks, handbags and the dozen and one other objects which New York's army of girl employees find time to buy during hurried lunch hours.

Judith Cameron thought that she might have been welcomed by the other girls had it not been for Carla Morrison's scorn. She didn't honestly mean to act superior to her fellow workers. She just hadn't chosen to answer Carla's questions, making them seem so hateful. That was the beginning of her ostracism. Now, after two months in the employ of Hunter Brothers, Judith was still an outsider.

"Hey—Miss Cameron!" The sandy-haired, freckled-faced office boy grinned down at the girl.

"Why ain't you in the hen party, Miss Cameron?"

Judith smiled. "Lots of work to do."

"Gee, Miss Cameron! Gee, you know I think you've got awful pretty hair."

Bless Tim Mulligan's 14-year-old heart! He was a friend in need if ever there was one.

The reason Judith slightly livened up her expression which had clouded Judith Cameron's face as she pounded her typewriter keys was gone. Something happened in the dark blue eyes as she raised them, making them seem so hateful. Tim, eldest of the youthful Mulligans, watched her in idolatry.

"Thank you, Tim," the girl said. "I'm glad you like it. You'll be spoiling me with your flattery, though!"

"Huh!—guess not!"

The boy moved away.

The fact that Judith Cameron was by far the most attractive of the five stenographers who worked in the office outside Arthur Knight's private quarters in the big publishing house may have had something to do with her fellow employees' disapproval. It may have had a good deal to do with it. Arthur Knight, executive of the book division of Hunter Brothers, was said to have shown favoritism toward the girl. This also may have worked in her disfavor.

These facts alone do not explain the situation.

To understand fully you must have a look at Judith.

The hair upon which young Tim Mulligan feasted his eyes so extravagantly was neither chestnut nor golden. It was somewhere between the two shades a lovely hiding place for sunbeams which seemed perpetually entrapped. It curled softly and ever so becomingly in waves which were loose and gave her clipped head distinction. In the distance when four out of every five girls seemed to be in the "growing-out" stage between long and short tresses, Judith Cameron's neat bob was a glory to behold.

Waxy tendrils touching her forehead called attention to the delicate oval molding of the girl's face. The eyebrows were dark, sweeping well backward as though drawn with one swift stroke. There was a faint, glowing pink which waded and then came back quickly to Judith's cheeks if she were surprised or, as she had been at Carla's remark, annoyed. Her lips were coral shaded and could be either sweetly childlike or resolute.

These details, while worth noting, are still not the key to Judith Cameron's personality.

That was to be found—or rather to be sought for—in a pair of blue eyes very dark in coloring, fringed by heavy lashes and slightly elongated in outline. Those eyes were the arresting feature of the girl's countenance. They looked at you, they measured you, and they gave back not one suggestion of their owner's thoughts.

Judith's eyes were enigmatic and so was her character.

The eyes were very beautiful. They had attracted Arthur Knight from the very moment his glance had first fallen upon his new employe. On a sudden whim he had wanted to know more about the girl. Knight was not the sort of man to "carry on" with pretty stenographers who struck his fancy. He was, on the contrary, the sort of man whose private correspondence and all secretarial duties were performed by a feminine assistant well beyond 35 years of age, 15 of these spent in the employ of the publishing company.

To satisfy his interest in Miss Cameron, the girl with those odd, unusual eyes, Arthur Knight summoned his secretary, Miss Tupper.

"I notice we have a new girl in the outside office. Is she going to make out all right?"

"Why, yes, I think so, Mr. Knight. She's a beginner, recommended highly, though, by the Baldwin school, Mr. Edwards said. He hired her. Has there been anything—?"

"No, no! No criticism. Will you get me her office record, please?"

Kathryn Tupper had elevated her

He looked up. "Oh—Miss Cameron. Won't you have a chair?"

brows a bit she went for the desired card. Odd that Mr. Knight should be making such inquiries! Kathryn Tupper thought that she knew employer's mind and his moods better than anyone else in the world. She had thought that even two years ago before Mrs. Arthur Knight's sudden illness and death.

Aged 37, sallow-skinned and too thin, with spectacles projecting her weak eyes and indigestion sharpening her disposition still the eternal feminine in Miss Tupper, made her watch over Arthur Knight's well-being with hawk-like jealousy. She was a confidential secretary. She attended to personal letters and allowance checks to Knight's son and daughter, both now being submitted to expensive "educative" systems.

Each year Miss Tupper bought the larger portion of Arthur Knight's Christmas gifts—always all those for the employees. Each year she thought it pity that he seemed so lonely, so dependent upon her judgment, and then brought her thoughts up abruptly! There was no use, of course, indulging in day dreaming. Miss Tupper, wife of a Hunter Brother, cherishing the memory of his first wife, "would never look at another woman."

Meekly she snuffed out her own smoldering hopes and told herself it was a great thing to be associated in a business way with such a fine man as Arthur Knight.

Something about Knight's inquiry concerning the new girl the day he first saw her stirred up this hornet's nest in Miss Tupper's mind. She was—surprisingly—24 years old. And she had been hired 10 days previously, said her salary was $22 a week. According to the card, Judith Cameron was "single" and her residence was in one of the city flats.

Knight could visualize the sort of rooming house that address would be, and his visualization was accurate.

It was an old brown stone front on one of the biggest streets but a wrong block! The sort of dim and dismal long row of rooming places, all much alike, which crowd in between the neat spic and span, elegant brick edifices with swinging entrances and impeccable door men.

"As a matter of fact, Judith sacrificed almost one-half of her monthly income for the doubtful privilege of climbing to the fifth floor of her dingy rooming house and calling a little back room there her own. Knight didn't know, of course, that Judith Cameron lived entirely alone. Most of the young women employed in the publishing house shared "furnished apartments" with one or two other girls. It was the only plan which made possible fur coats paid for in weekly instalments, cheap little copies of satin and velvet frocks bought on Seventh avenue while the original gowns were still being exhibited on Fifth, new high-heeled pumps every three months, and oh, so many pairs of fragile chiffon hose.

The prosperous publisher, leaning back thoughtfully in his comfortable desk chair, studied the card in his hand. There was such incongruity between this lovely young woman—24—she really wasn't just a girl any longer—and the tawdry rooming house of his imagination. Strange, the way her appearance had taken his fancy. Twenty-four! Arthur Knight's face sobered. He brushed one hand backward against his grayed temple. Knight had been 48 on his last birthday. The touch of gray in his dark hair increased his well-tailored athletic good looks. No matter how old, Arthur Knight generally won feminine attention for his handsome chin and level, friendly brown eyes.

Another glance at the card. Miss Cameron had never been employed before. She had come to Hunter Brothers on the recommendation of her business training school and it was one of the best in the city. Hunter's made rather a specialty of training on inexperienced workers—providing their recommendations were satisfactory—and training them in the business. Old John Hunter himself had established the policy because he said it was harder to retain a man after he had learned wrong habits than it was to teach him in the first place. Also, of course, beginners take low salaries.

There was a two-inch space at the bottom of the record card and above this blank there was the word "Remarks." Evidently in Judith's case, the employment department had found no remarks worth setting down.

A vision of two shadowed, narrow blue eyes rose before Arthur Knight. He pushed an electric button on his desk and summoned Miss Tupper. She came in for an hour or two. If Cunningham calls from Boston ask Mr. Fisher to talk to him. Oh, by the way, here is that record card—

Then as casually as he came and left the office each day Arthur Knight took his hat and departed. He did not walk through the outer office where Judith and the four other stenographers were pounding their typewriters. He had nothing in that morning's happenings to dark, abiding resentment against Judith Cameron. And just as certainly that is what had happened.

Since Miss Tupper, in addition to her secretarial duties, supervised the five girls in the outer office, this was unfortunate for Judith.

There are so many ways a woman executive can make life miserable for a girl who works under her direction. Judith, who was not quick at transcribing shorthand or swift at typing, had to bear the brunt of this ill-will.

Miss Tupper would step into the outer office at 20 minutes after 11 and say, "Oh, Miss Cameron, will you get off at?"

Judith was resentful herself but she couldn't show it to Tim. "Oh—I don't mind," she said, thinking down in her heart what a liar she was.

"Well, you'd ought to mind! Gee, she picks on you all the time. Person would think these other dames are just around here for scenery. Too bad they couldn't help you a little!"

Tim's little gray eyes were directed in sharp reproach toward Carla Morrison's desk. Carla, inspecting her lips with a honeyed smile and hummed panchalantly:

"I can't give you anything but love, baby!"

It was something, of course, to have even little Tim, Mulligan champion her cause. But it didn't help out much. Judith for a moment considered the pleasant prospect of telling Miss Tupper "where to get off at." It would be pleasant! But she wouldn't do it. Oh, no—indeed she wouldn't.

The reason Judith Cameron couldn't object when overwork was piled on her shoulders was one of the securities of her existence which she guarded so very, very closely.

Nobody at Hunter Brothers knew anything, really, about Judith Cameron. It was Judith's firm intention that nobody there should ever learn any more than they already knew.

It hurt quite a lot to be left to herself so completely. It hurt still more to listen to Carla's sneers and the sly, half-swallowed giggles of the other girls. Carla was the leader in everything which happened in that room. She was a dark, vivid creature without attractive features but an animated manner which attracted interest. Carla talked about "sugar daddies" and was forever flaunting cheap jewelry and other bits.

Shrewdly Judith Cameron suspected that most of the talk was for effect and that the bold, restless Carla was not nearly so wild as she pretended.

Carla had been at Hunter's now for three years. A long time, she said, and without hesitation she volunteered "the low-down" on all the other office workers to her companions. Though Judith was never included in these gossip sessions, she heard most of them—which was as the speakers intended.

The three other girls were Adelaide Conway, Stella Williams and Mitzl Kraft. Mitzl's name wasn't really Mitzl. She had adopted it from a favored actress and all of them thought it "cute." Mitzl, when the others were not about, frequently made overtures toward Judith. She asked her one night to make a fourth on an expedition to Coney Island, and was offended when Judith refused. After that the rumors about Judith Cameron's "high hat" ways multiplied.

"You know there really is something funny about that girl," Carla Morrison confided to her friends one day in the wash room. "Gosh—wouldn't I like to get the dirt and dish it!"

"Do you really suspect—?" Stella ventured.

"Sure I do! Only nobody knows anything. Miss Tupper doesn't want to reply for a week."

Since Judith's lunch hour was from 11:30 until 12:30 and the afternoon's schedule was already filled with work, such tasks meant that her lunch time was cut in half and often, that when the others filed out of the office at 5 o'clock Judith Cameron was still at her desk.

Tim Mulligan was the only one who sympathized.

Once he came over to Judith's desk after Miss Tupper had departed, leaving fresh tasks, and delivered himself:

"Say, that old skirt's got a crust bringing you all the extra work. Why don't you tell her where to get off at?"

Judith was resentful herself but she couldn't show it to Tim. "Oh—I don't mind," she said, thinking down in her heart what a liar she was.

of the library. Guess you must have been reading last night."

"Yes," Judith's voice answered humbly. "Yes, I did read last night."

A quiet came over the room. Quiet which lasted nearly 10 minutes, until Judith, holding a handkerchief to her face as though about to sneeze, arose and left the room.

Buzzing set in at once!

"Did you see that?" gasped Adelaide. "Did you see it! Why, she was white as a sheet. Honestly I thought for a minute she was going to faint or something."

"Me too" chimed in Mitzl. "Gosh—I was scared!"

"But, girls—" Carla held the floor. "Girls, I didn't see her! I only wanted to know what she'd say to me. Don't you see that proves it? Don't you know how guilty consciences act? That girl's got something on her chest, believe me!"

The four girls hovered together. Their voices were quieter now. The sound of footsteps came from the hall, and when Judith was again in the room all of them were deep in their afternoon tasks.

The rest of that day Judith Cameron was a trifle paler than usual and she was absolutely silent.

Silence was one of the girl's distinctive qualities. It is true that there were certain facts about which she had made up her mind not to speak and which no one—least ever Arthur Knight himself—could have dragged from her. But aside from these matters, in normal every day life Judith was a quiet girl. She had a way of sitting for long moments at a time without speaking and yet without giving any sign that there was constraint in the air.

Judith knew the precept of the French philosopher: "Speech was invented for the concealment of thought." She approved of it.

Two persons knew the true story of Judith Cameron's private life. There was, she assured herself, not the slightest likelihood that either would ever reach the office of Hunter Brothers.

For two months now she had been leading this dreary existence. Up at 7 to make toast, dress and catch the 8 o'clock subway. Hot, stuffy, nauseating ride, and then the cool air and tramp to the Hunter building. Ten flights by elevator and into her office chair by 8:30. Work, work, until 5 o'clock in the afternoon. Home again. Supper. "ed

All of them were listening with both ears when, near the middle of the afternoon, Carla deliberately arose from her desk, walked over toward a window on the side of the room where Judith sat and stared for a moment at the street below. Then she turned about, saw that three pair of eyes were watching her and moved quietly, "Miss Cameron—"

Judith looked up.

Was Carla Morrison's smile mockery or friendliness? "I happened so very quickly! Each of the girls watching saw the change and yet each doubted her own eyesight. They saw Judith Cameron, the poised, the unapproachable, go suddenly white as marble, saw her tremble as though struck a blow, and clutch at her desk. The next moment color was flowing back into the girl's cheeks, her voice was at least half-steady and she was saying:

time. The whole wearisome routine to do over again.

Of course there were brief intervals which broke the routine. There were trips to a dingy west side address occasionally. There was now and then a dinner with a foreign-looking young man who wore a mustache. There was nothing gay, nothing bright and nothing exciting in the dull monotony into which this girl with the glamorous eyes of mystery had permitted herself to be caught.

Now and then Judith Cameron wondered. Sometimes she averted. Too much of solitary monotony will do that.

Twenty-four, she told herself, is no age to be a pouting child. Still, at 24, Judith Cameron cried herself to sleep on more than one night.

Go, bless Tim Mulligan for his friendliness!

Judith was feeling rather "up" in spirits one November afternoon when Miss Tupper opened the door of the large office and came over to the girl's desk.

"Darling," thought Judith to herself. "More night work."

It might have been better if it had been. Instead, looking like the avenging angel herself, Miss Kathryn Tupper paused long enough to remark:

"Mr. Knight would like to see you Miss Cameron."

"Mr. Knight—?"

"Yes. That's what I said. At once. In his office."

Nine out of 10 stenographers summoned without warning before their office superior would have stolen at least a second or two to pop open the mirror of a powder container and dab surreptitiously at nose and chin.

She arose, carrying her shoulders very straight and her chin very high. She moved quickly and gracefully toward the door of Knight's office.

A gentle rap.

"Yes. Come in!"

She heard him calling from the inside of the room, opened the door and stepped across the threshold. It was the first time that she had ever entered Arthur Knight's study.

That was what the room really appeared to be, so comfortably and artistically it was furnished. There was a thick, dark carpet on the dark stained floor. Walls, half wainscoted with walnut, were lined with volumes, and more were stacked above. Over near the window, the afternoon light streaming across his shoulders, sat Arthur Knight before a desk.

He looked up.

"Oh—Miss Cameron. Won't you have a chair here?"

He indicated with a wave of his hand the one which was nearest to him. Judith silently came forward and took the chair. Then, having settled herself, the blue eyes met his, waited instantly.

"You wanted to see me?" Judith asked quietly.

"Why, yes. Yes!"

There were traces of roseate color rising in Arthur Knight's cheeks. He looked away from the girl, clasped his hands together on his desk and then looked back at her again.

"Yes, I wanted to see you," he said slowly. "I wanted to ask you, Miss Cameron, if you would do me the honor of taking dinner with me."

NOT ALL BLACK

The black dress that is not all black but has a lace yoke, lace bodice, a silver or gold lame yoke and sleeves of some other contrasting touch is new and stylish in this elegant age.

PURSE FRAME

A black antelope purse has the left half of its frame red enamel and the right side stepped up slightly and done in green enamel. The ornamental clasp is green and red, outlined in crystals.

LONG GLOVES

Slip-on gloves in grey-rose suede have no buttons but are 16-inch length. They are worn extending above the elbow, though wrinkled slightly at the wrist.

WHITE BOWKNOTS

Bowknots of white fur are high-lights on black costumes. Bowknots of white lace adorn the cuffs of many dark, flat crepe frocks that use lace collars.

It's the Shirt Waist Two-Piece Sports Dress

By ANNETTE

It shows French chic in its simplest new lines, and has been found so entirely practical for classroom, it is now the favorite with all the smart juniors.

The skirt is rough surfaced tweed in rather vivid blue tones while the blouse chooses blending shade in Kashmir wool persey. The turn-over French collar is completed with bow tie of grosgrain ribbon. The front band of blouse stitched at either side gives tailored-air. A wide blue suede belt placed at normal waistline makes this jaunty outfit one of the smartest ever.

Style No. 224 comes in sizes 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. In the 8-year size, the skirt takes 1-2 yard of 64-inch tweed and 1 5-8 yards of 55-inch wool jersey.

Hunter's green wool jersey used for the entire dress worn with matching leather belt is sportive. Cover cloth in self-checked pattern in beige and brown skirt with blouse of beige wool crepe, navy blue flannel skirt, with orange-red wool crepe blouse and cocoa brown sports-weight linen skirt with sheer linen in same shade blouse are most attractive.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coin carefully.

We suggest that when you send for pattern, you enclose 10 cents additional for copy of large Fashion Magazine.

UNIFORM MAKES MAN

A BETTER SOLDIER
Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The American soldier must be well dressed to be a good fighter, in the opinion of Major General Summerall, chief of the Army Staff, who believes the time will come when the Army will have to be supplied with blue dress uniforms.

Discussing the Army uniform before a House appropriations War Department subcommittee, he said the lack of a ceremonial dress uniform put American soldiers at a great disadvantage in comparison with the Navy and Marine corps and with foreign troops, when they came in contact with them.

Military Spirit
"The training of an army for war consists of a number of elements," the general stated, "and one of them is the military spirit that makes a man fight. Through all history one means of cultivating that military spirit is discipline and morale. You cannot make a soldier self-respecting unless the people respect him.

"They estimate him very largely by the way he looks. If he dresses badly, he looks badly, and he is very apt to behave less correctly than if he were well dressed. Those are psychological factors that are inseparable from the military life. We have always dressed them well until now.

BETTER FOOD KEEPS

SOLDIERS IN ARMY
Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Better food is credited by General Charles J. Summerall, chief of staff, with resulting in a decreased desertion rate in the army.

Testifying before a House appropriations sub-committee on the War Department's annual supply bill, he said the decrease in the desertion rate from 7.39 per cent in 1925, before the present ration was established, to 5.20 per cent in 1929, was "very largely due to better feeding and care of the men."

"The prospective housing program also contributed to the lowered rate of desertion," he added, "because where men were not well housed, they knew they were soon going to be housed." The improved ration, he continued, will cost about 51 1/2 cents a day in 1931, as compared with 50 cents when it was established.

CURRENCY IN CHINA

TAKES ANOTHER DROP
Shanghai, Jan. 6.—(AP)—China moved another step toward a devalued currency crisis today when Mexican dollars were quoted at 35.5 gold cents, a drop of 2 1/2 cents since Saturday.

Today's quotation is stated to be the lowest in the history of the exchange in China. A year ago the Mexican dollar was worth 49 cents.

Much hardship already has been felt among merchants, both foreign and Chinese, on the declining value of silver. Bankers have predicted that the price will slump to 30 cents and possibly even less than that.

Since the commitments of merchants are payable in gold, some importers are refusing to accept shipments. This has placed many banks in a difficult position. Five Chinese banks are said to have failed in Peiping and ten others were reported in a precarious condition.

REDS START ATTACK

ON ALL RELIGIONS
Moscow, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Atheistic and anti-religious services generally throughout the Soviet Union today began a three-day onslaught against the Russian orthodox Christmas celebration, which begins tomorrow.

Communists wish to suppress Christmas entirely as a holiday and to make it an ordinary working day. In factories, theaters, clubs, schools and schools, vigorous attacks against the church began.

Thirty-six thousand atheists will march through the streets of Moscow tomorrow in a procession headed by a black hearse carrying the "corpse of religion" which will be burned and scattered to the four winds.

STRICTER EXAMINATIONS

FOR MILITARY ACADEMY
Washington, Jan. 6.—(AP)—Entrance requirements to the West Point military academy will be made stringent for the class which enters in July.

Major General William R. Smith, superintendent of the school, told the House War Department appropriations sub-committee that while improvement has been noted in the general efficiency of the institution, that losses aggregating $250,000 have been occasioned in the past ten years through admissions of students who have failed.

The revised entrance requirements provide a validating examination for those who heretofore have entered by certificate.

A slight increase in appropriations covering the general activities of the institution, was asked of the committee.

REGULAR POT PIE

London, when the Prince of Wales held his dinner for the Empire's Victoria Cross winners, three heroes attended who, when they met, made a human pot pie. The last names of the three men were Vesale, Sage and Onions. Vesale is a corporal, Sage a private and Onions is a lieutenant.

This will stick you.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. They look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) Amalgamated is spelled incor rectly. (2) Stock, when bearish, goes down, not up. (3) Ninety-one and two-thirds is incorrect because stock fluctuates by eighths. (4) The cuff-button on the right arm of the man at the left, should be turned down instead of up. (5) The scrambled word is MUCHLAG.

SENSE and NONSENSE

One Way Traffic.
There is only one road to the town of "Success."
The name of the road is "Work."
It has room for only honest guests.
Traffic's blocked to those who shirk.

The road is open all hours of today,
It leads neither time nor date.
And now is the time to start on your way
For tomorrow will be too late.

Nearly all of the way is an uphill road;
It will seem like a tough old fight,
But once on your way just bear up your load
And keep going with all your might.

You will pass thru many towns each day
Such as Failure, Gloom and Despair.
At each of these stations just keep on your way.
For "Work" do: not tarry there.

After you have entered the town of "Success,"
Tho your load may have been hard to bear,
Once inside you will find both comfort and rest,
Just be thankful you started for there.

Traffic Is Only as Dense as the Drivers.

MURDER CONVICT KEEPS CAROLINA PRISON ZOO

Raleigh, N. C. —(AP)—To North Carolina state prison convicts William Campbell is the greatest showman in the world.
Campbell, serving 20 years for murder, has a private zoo that includes white rats, a Texas ant bear, chinchillas, monkeys, a groundhog, snakes, foxes, a goat which shares its pen with an airedale dog, rabbits and cats.
He bought the animals with profits from a delicatessen for prisoners in which Otto Wood, also a murder convict, is a partner.
Campbell was sentenced to die in 1923 after he was convicted of killing a nurse in Oteen hospital near Asheville. The sentence was commuted to life imprisonment which later was reduced to 20 years.

THE TINYMILERS

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

While Mister Bear kept riding round and making snow tracks on the ground, his owner kept right after him a-shouting, "Hey, there, stop! The wheels will slip in that deep snow and, if they do, right down you'll go. Don't ask for sympathy from me if you do take a flop."

The Tinymilers still behind a tree, decided they could safely be right out where they could plainly watch the very funny chase. "Come on," said Scouty, as he ran. "I think we can help the man. We might as well join in this funny race."

So, out they scampered, one by one, to take part in the thrilling run. The bear man saw the happy lads and shouted, "Hi, there, boys. Please help me make my big bear stop. Excite him so he'll take a flop. Perhaps he'll get befuddled if you make a lot of noise."

"You bet we will," one Tiny cried. "We'll gladly help you end his ride. We want the bike because it's ours. 'Twas good old Santa's gift. Your bear is riding round in play, but we must soon be on our way. In order that we get the bike, we'll gladly give a life.

But, ere they had a chance to run the big bear stopped. His trip was done. His master ran right up to him and caught him by the nose. "I ought to spank you now," said he, "but if you'll do some stunts for me I'll let you go. Please do the sort of tricks you do in shows."

The bear said, "Anything you like!" And soon hopped right back on the bike. He then did very funny tricks. The whole bunch laughed in glee. Said Clowny, "Goodness, he is good. I never really thought he would do tricks like that. Why, honestly, he's better, far, than me."

(The Tinymilers meet some monkeys in the next story.)

CHRISTMAS LIGHTS HERE BEING REMOVED TODAY

Cost of Seasonal Decorations Including Both Sections of Town About $2,000.

Workmen were busy today taking down the electric wiring material used to beautify Manchester's business section both at the north and south ends of the town. They began their work at the lower end of Main street. E. J. McCabe, secretary of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, said this morning that the expense involved would run about $2,000. The expense for the Main street lighting was $1,675 and the cost over north ran about $300. This was delayed by the business and professional men in the main although there were many contributions by public spirited citizens.

Manchester's wide Main street, one of its most attractive features to out of town visitors, was brilliantly lighted by 45 strands of various colored electric light bulbs extending across the street at every electric light pole. In all approximately 5,000 bulbs were used. Many of these had to be replaced from time to time either through being burned out or broken by storms. The street was lighted from 4 until 11 p. m. from December 7 to January 3 inclusive and all day and night Christmas and New Year's.

BRODER, MRS. HASTINGS WED HERE SATURDAY

Five Day Ruling Waived by Judge W. S. Hyde—Married by Justice Stuart J. Wasley.

Completing his county jail sentence for misconduct on Saturday morning, Attorney Edward W. Broder of Hartford, prominent in legal circles, in company with Mrs. Lillian Spencer Hastings, divorced wife of R. Cleveland Hastings of Hartford and another unidentified couple drove to the office of Town Clerk Samuel J. Turkington and obtained a marriage permit in the late afternoon. Leaving the town clerk's office, Attorney Broder waved the necessary slip of paper jubilantly to the couple remaining in the car. In the application Broder gave his age as 45 with birthplace, Rockville, and Mrs. Hastings as 31 and birthplace, Suffield, Conn.

Waiver of the necessary five day notice was granted by Probate Judge William S. Hyde and shortly before 5 o'clock the party drove to the office of Stuart J. Wasley, the first Justice of the Peace available and were married without attendants. The party left for Hartford soon after the ceremony.

REBEKAHS TO INSTALL

Sunset Lodge of Rebekahs will install its officers for 1930 tonight in Odd Fellows hall. The work will be in charge of District Deputy Gertrude Zerver of Glastonbury and staff. A supper will be served in the banquet hall at 6:30 under the direction of Mrs. Emma Dowd, chairman. Mrs. Annie Smith, Mrs. Agnes Seidel, Mrs. Elizabeth Wright, Mrs. Eliza Chapman, Mrs. Sarah Davis, Mrs. Annie Knofske, Mrs. Lillian Helm, Mrs. Alice Martin, Mrs. Anne Trotter and Mrs. Lillian Christianson.

COLORFUL GATHERING ON ICE AT CENTER

Springs Park Rink Attracts 2,500 Skaters—Planning for Annual Carnival.

With a frosty tang in the air that plainly said, "keep moving" some 2,500 skaters enjoyed the near perfect skating on Center Springs park pond yesterday afternoon, perhaps the most colorful and enthusiastic gathering of the season. If there are more skating costumes or sporting habiliments than were seen on the town rink during the early hours of the afternoon it would be hard to conceive of them. Whether skating costume consisted of muleskin breeches, leather coats with huge roll top wool collars or encased in the sweater of the dear old alma mater and bare knees the result was just the same—all had a bang up good time. Manchester skaters of all ages from 60 to just a few summers were there.

"Woody" Wallett, Manchester's fancy skating champ and backer of local ice doings said yesterday that interest in mounting in the sport locally with many private parties present yesterday afternoon from New Britain, Williamantic, Bristol, and Hartford. At one time in the early afternoon several fancy skaters put on an impromptu skating exhibition in the middle area of the rink. During the early afternoon so crowded that those carrying speed skating were forced to use the upper section of the ice.

Included among the crowd yesterday were many ice-hockey enthusiasts and meetings are planned for this week to select a tentative hockey team to represent the town in the forthcoming ice carnival. Plans will be made during the week for the winter carnival to be held later in the season which is expected to eclipse the successful event of last season. Much credit is due the town highway department for the present condition of the skating surface.

HALF REQUIRED NUMBER SUBSCRIBE FOR CLOCK

Electric Time System May Be Installed Here If Chamber Plan Succeeds.

Half of the total subscribers required by the Western Union before this service would be that housewives and others may call the Chamber of Commerce and obtain the correct time free of charge and all connected with the service can be sure of having the most accurate and reliable time there is, according to the Chamber.

Letters have been sent out to many who would likely be interested in the proposition and it is hoped that the response will be immediate as the sooner the service is installed the sooner it will follow suit and become users of the Western Union clocks.

CHANGE BUS SCHEDULE DURING THE MORNING

Without previous announcement the Connecticut Company has made changes in the handling of the early morning rush traffic due to leave the north end at 7:45 a. m. The bus leaving Depot Square at 7:45 a. m. until further notice, will carry passengers upon arrival at the Center transferring to the 7:52 car for the south end. The 7:45 bus will return to Depot Square immediately.

Passengers for all points will return on the car from the terminus and will transfer for their respective buses at the center upon arrival. This change has been made to remedy the overcrowded condition that has existed at this time, especially during stormy weather.

The Carpenter's Union, Local 757, will hold its next meeting in the Home Club on Brainard Place tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. All meetings will be held at the Home Club thereafter.

NORTH METHODISTS' ROLL CALL SERVICE

More than 100 attended the annual New Year's fellowship and roll call service at the North Methodist church yesterday. The vestry was beautifully decorated by Mrs. LeVern Holmes and Miss Lucille Clarke. Candles were placed in the windows and evergreens predominated in the decorative scheme. There were appropriate speeches by Pastor Stocking and others, and vocal and instrumental music. Mrs. C. G. Tyler and her committee served delicious sandwiches, cake and coffee.

PROMINENT KIWANIAN IS SUDDENLY DEAD

Major E. E. Philbrick, Frequent Visitor Here, Dies of Heart Attack.

George H. Wilcox, secretary of the Manchester Kiwanis club, yesterday received word of the sudden death of Major Edward E. Philbrick at his home in Portland, Maine. Mr. Philbrick was well known to the Kiwanians of Manchester because of the fact that he was governor of the New England district for a year and had visited Manchester on several occasions. He attended the district officers' convention at Worcester last Friday and met the Manchester delegation at that time. He returned to his home where he died Saturday night of heart disease. His funeral will take place tomorrow.

MANCHESTER CLUB MEETS WEDNESDAY

To Dine at 6:30 and Business Session Will Follow—Ask for Reservations.

The Manchester club will have its regular monthly meeting at the White house Wednesday evening of this week. A dinner will be served at 6:30, under the direction of Miss Christine Mason, director at the Manchester Community club. The cover charge will be one dollar and in order that the committee and Miss Mason may know how many to cater for, it is desired that all members make their reservations tonight at the latest. The meeting is an important one and those who are unable to be present at the supper are urged to attend the business session. The committee includes Mark Holmes, Thomas Conran and Maathew Merz.

TO RESUME ST. JAMES HALL CARD PARTIES

Build It Now!

This funny looking little guy with the big nose and bald head has got to face the music. The determined attitude of the Mrs. tells us that she is absolutely through seeing rent money handed over to Mr. Landlord. She wants a brand new home of her own. She's got the plans, and she knows where the lumber is coming from. Us!

There's another bald-headed man in this town who said he was going to build this year. If he doesn't get busy pretty soon we'll set his wife on him!
