

NAVAL ENVOYS NEAR END OF SEA JOURNEY

Delegates to London Parley Expect to Reach Plymouth Tomorrow Morning; Give Out No Statements.

S. S. George Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The American delegation to London five power naval conference neared English shores today most hopeful of achieving in full measure President Hoover's ideal of curbing sea armaments.

Despite manifest difficulties which are now known to be strewn in their way the delegation still hoped and shaped its calculations on the basis of a five power treaty arising from their efforts.

Finch Consultations

During the voyage begun last Thursday, the delegation has completed its final preparatory consultations in addition to finding time for much needed rest and recreation. Today problems on the conference were virtually thrust aside, while all members of the party occupied themselves in making ready to quit the ship.

Heavy weather upset the plans of Captain A. B. Randall to berth his ship at Plymouth late tonight and it is not expected Plymouth will be reached until Friday morning. The delegation will immediately take a train for London, arriving there about two P. M.

The Americans will arrive in England without having formulated definitely plans of procedure but it was considered likely this would be discussed at the conference tomorrow of Col. Stimson and Prime Minister MacDonald.

TARDIEU'S QUESTIONS

Paris, Jan. 16.—(AP)—It was understood here today that Premier Tardieu when he meets Secretary Stimson, head of the American naval delegation, in London Sunday.

FIVE STATES WANT MURDER SUSPECTS

Two Men and a Woman Caught in Arizona, Charged With Half Dozen Crimes

Phoenix, Ariz., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Suspected of crimes in New Hampshire, Pennsylvania, Ohio, Texas and Arizona, the woman and two men captured near here Tuesday after gun battles with police of two counties were lined up today for further questioning.

Sheriff C. H. Wright announced he was convinced, through comparison of fingerprints, that the prisoners were Mrs. Irene Schroeder, Benwood, W. Va., W. Glenn Dague, and Vernon Ackerman, ex-convict of Oklahoma.

Charges of kidnaping with intent to rob, carrying a maximum penalty of life imprisonment, and assault with intent to commit murder have been filed against the trio officials of Maricopa and Pinal counties, Arizona, as a result of the abduction and shooting of an officer, Joe Chapman, and the shooting of Deputy Sheriff Leo Wright. Neither officer was fatally wounded.

Policeman Killed.

Mrs. Schroeder and Dague are wanted by Pennsylvania authorities in connection with the slaying of State Policeman Brady Paul at Newcastle, and in Toledo, Ohio, where they are charged with slaying an automobile. In addition Sheriff Wright said, Manchester, New Hampshire, authorities telegraphed him that the pair answered descriptions of a man and woman wanted there for a series of crimes, and the trio is suspected of robbing a bank and slaying a patrolman at Coleman, Texas.

Mrs. Schroeder is under the care of a physician, having collapsed after being shown a picture of Donnie Schroeder, said to be her son. She admitted she was the woman wanted in Newcastle, and she denied it. The man identified as Dague declared he was Alfred Winthrop, and denied any knowledge of the shooting of Paul. The third member of the group identified himself as Joe F. Wells, of Texas.

The prisoners denied participating in the Texas holdup and shooting. Neither Mrs. Schroeder nor Dague would admit knowledge of any crimes in New Hampshire.

Sheriff Wright said an officer from Pennsylvania was enroute here to further identify Dague and Mrs. Schroeder.

Grand Jury Indicts Bankers Capital Co.

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Indictments charging use of the mails to defraud were returned today by a Federal Grand Jury against Bankers Capital Corporation, Eastern Bankers Corporation, American Fidelity Corporation and Howard H. Gunder, Roland J. Randall, Everett J. Sturges and Philip Gunder.

Of the four individuals named, Sturges, formerly state banking commissioner of Connecticut, was president of the Bankers Capital Company of Connecticut; Howard

H. Gunder was chairman of the board of directors of Bankers Capital; Randall was president of the Bankers Capital; Philip Gunder is a brother of Howard and one of the directors.

The Bankers Capital failed in November with an estimated resulting loss to investors of $3,000,000.

There are six counts in the indictment, five of which charge the mailing of matter containing false representations as a part of an effort to dispose of securities of the Bankers Capital Corporation, the other defendant corporation and various other allied concerns.

RETAIL DISTRIBUTION OF MEAT BY PACKERS

Head of Livestock Association Says Housewife Would Get Better Meat Then and at Lower Price.

Denver, Colo., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Retailing of meat by the packers as a means of cutting distribution costs and insuring that the housewife gets the grade of meat she pays for, was advocated here today by Victor S. Culbertson of Silver City, N. M., president of the American National Livestock Association.

In addressing the annual convention of the organization, Mr. Culbertson said the association had not been responsible for the consent decree imposed on the large packers requiring them to divorce themselves from activities unrelated to the packing business.

Small Business Needed

The need for retail distribution of meat by packers, Mr. Culbertson said, "appears more urgent than ever."

"In spite of the thousands of chain stores that have opened up meat departments, the spread between the wholesale and retail prices of meat is greater than ever before."

"When we consider the huge amount of low grade beef retailed at a high price, in spite of competition of the cheaper markets, we can visualize what the future of our industry would be, could we not insure that the consumer got the grade of beef he paid for, and at a price providing only a reasonable spread over wholesale cost."

TERRANOVA DENIES CHARGE OF HOLDUP

Says He Was Not Present At Vitale Dinner and Denies He is Artichoke King

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Accused of complicity in the holdup last December 7 of a dinner for Magistrate Albert Vitale, Ciro Terranova, so-called "artichoke king," appeared in the lineup at police headquarters today and denied many things.

First he denied that he knew anything about the holdup, that he had been present at the dinner for the magistrate, that he had ever been in the restaurant where the dinner was held and that he was the "artichoke king." He said he gave up his produce business a year ago and on New Year's day resolved never again to eat one of the delicacies.

Quizzed by Police

After his arrest yesterday police questioned him for several hours concerning his knowledge, if any, of the holdup and of the gang killings of the past eighteen months. They then communicated with Chicago police, giving them certain information they had received from him.

At the police department trial of former Detective Arthur C. Johnson who was robbed of his service pistol at the Vitale dinner December 8, Inspector J. J. Donovan testified that the robbery was staged by Terranova to regain possession of a contract for the slaying of Frankie Yale and Frank Marlow.

Donovan's Charge

Donovan said Terranova had conspired to pay $20,000 to a Chicago gangster for the killings but had only paid $5,000 of the amount and the holder of the contract had threatened to hand it to the police. Commissioner Whalen announced that the contract which police had taken from the gunman while other guests were robbed of jewelry and money was signed "Ciro Morello" and added that "Morello" was an alias used by Terranova.

ASKS FOR REPEAL OF OUR DRY LAW

Senator Blaine Wants Whole Discussion Settled; La Guardia's Resolution.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Prohibition's tenth birthday found the Wet and Dry issue a subject of heated controversy at the Capitol, with members discussing it on the House floor, the Senate receiving the resolution asking repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment, and with Commissioner Doran of the Prohibition Bureau, in a formal statement, announcing that "substantial progress" toward drying up America had been made.

In the House, Representative Oliver, Democrat, New York, broke the quiet that virtually has been maintained on the floor since receipt of the Hoover prohibition enforcement reorganization program. He asserted that if this sweeping reform were carried out it would "smother the resolution no more effectively than a lace curtain will smother a fire in an oil well."

Senator Blaine, Republican, Wisconsin, was the member who interrupted a tariff discussion in the Senate to put forward a demand to do away with the Eighteenth Amendment, added to the constitution, just ten years ago today with ratification by Nebraska as the thirty-sixth state of the amendment.

La Guardia Resolution

Representative La Guardia of New York yesterday presented to the House a resolution declaring the Eighteenth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States inoperative and all laws for its enforcement null and void.

The La Guardia resolution is as follows: "Whereas, A joint resolution of Congress prohibiting the manufacture, sale and transportation of intoxicating liquors was duly ratified by the requisite three-fourths of the states of the Union on January 16, 1919, and

"Whereas, By such ratification the said resolution became a Constitutional Amendment now known as the Eighteenth Amendment, and

"Whereas, Section III of the said resolution, now Section III of the said Eighteenth Amendment, specifically provides that this article shall be inoperative unless it shall have been ratified as an amendment to the Constitution within seven years from the date of the submission hereof to the states by the Congress, and

"Whereas, The said resolution was submitted to the legislatures of the several states, there being then forty-eight states, by a resolution by Congress, passed on December 17, 1917, and

"Whereas, More than seven years have elapsed since December 17, 1917, and

"Whereas, As aforesaid, the said resolution became an amendment inoperative if not thereafter ratified as an amendment by three-fourths of the states of the Union, and

"Whereas, Only ten states, namely, Minnesota, Wyoming, Wisconsin, Missouri, Nevada, New Mexico, Iowa, Vermont, New York and Pennsylvania, have ratified the said amendment, as in section three provided; therefore,

"Be it resolved, That the said Eighteenth Amendment is now by its own provision inoperative, and

DRY PROBLEM IS UNSOLVED IN 10TH YEAR

Close of First Decade Finds Question No Nearer Answered Than Before; Con- troversy is More Bitter.

By Associated Press.

The close of the first decade of national prohibition found the anti-liquor laws figuring prominently in the news from widely separated sections of the nation.

In Washington Congressional commissions prepared legislation to carry out recommendations for improved enforcement sponsored by President Hoover and the law enforcement commission.

Chairman Wickersham of the commission issued a statement supporting the constitutionality of the proposal for trying minor prohibition cases by U. S. Commissioners.

House wets continued, Representative Lanthorn, Democrat, Maryland, as their leader and Representative LaGuardia of New York, to challenge the validity of the 18th Amendment.

Leaders of the Anti-Saloon League met at Detroit and began sessions with addresses declaring for "aggressive, militant fight until country and city submit to the law."

To Use Machine Guns.

An announcement was made at Lansing that Michigan state police will use machine guns and tear gas bombs to prevent rum running.

Gov. Green of Michigan commuted the sentences of five prohibition law violators serving life terms under the state's former criminal code.

Gov. Dillon of New Mexico recommended the use of the army to patrol the border as a test of the dry laws.

Gov. Richards of South Carolina recommended to the state legislature that buyer and seller of liquor be made equally guilty with a jail sentence mandatory on the second conviction.

Seventy-one persons were arrested in prohibition raids at Columbus, Ga.

A Federal judge at Jacksonville, Fla., ruled customs and other officers must have definite knowledge that an automobile contains liquor before the vehicle can be searched.

At Oklahoma City 102 persons charged with conspiracy to violate dry law were sustained in motion for a bill of particulars.

SCIENTISTS NEAR GREAT DISCOVERY

Will Soon Be Able to Ascertain Causes of Magnetic Disturbances in the Air.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The cause of many magnetic disturbances may be ascertained by observations made possible through a new method of measuring more accurately the earth's ozone "blanket," a very thin coat of atmosphere believed to lie about thirty or more miles above us.

The astronomical observatory of the Smithsonian Institution under the direction of Dr. Charles G. Abbot, assisted by F. E. Fowle, is currently using the new method said the ozone contents may be measured every day in which solar radiation observations are made at far flung stations of the department.

It would even be possible, by this method, Mr. Fowle said, to go back to the long series of observations made on Mount Wilson, in California, from 1905 to 1920, and determine from data there the ozone prevailing over that station during the period.

Use the Spectrum

The improved method, based on old methods, has to do with the absorbing power of ozone in the yellow green spectrum. This thin blanket, an unstable form of oxygen which keeps us all from freezing to death by holding the earth's heat, slightly absorbs yellow light waves of the sun as they approach the

TAFT LEAVES FOR REST IN SOUTH

Taking an "enforced rest" under physicians' orders, Chief Justice William Howard Taft is pictured above as he left a Washington hospital, where he underwent brief treatment, to go to Asheville, N. C., for an indefinite stay. The former President, suffering from the strain of overwork and the recent death of his brother, was threatened with the return of an ailment which caused his illness several months ago.

MOUNTAIN MOONSHINERS USING MODERN METHODS

Fire Guns as Signals, Tin Containers, Cheap Autos to Transport Stuff and Much Smaller Stills.

Atlanta, Jan. 16.—(AP)—After ten years of prohibition, enforcement authorities say they find mountain moonshiners on the run—with improved running gear.

Gone, is the old stone jug, hidden in the stump, long a trademark of the hill fraternity. A portable tin container, such as city bootleggers use, has usurped its place.

Changes have come to the entire "mountain dew" industry if the north Georgia hills are an index, according to Howard P. Wright, deputy prohibition administrator here.

Guns for Signals.

Firearms still flourish on many a hillside, but Federal agents aren't targets any more, said Wright. The guns form the moonshiners' cooperative telegraph system to warn of prohibition agents are guests of the countryside.

"In every moonshining district there's a lookout," Wright explained. "When he sees strangers who might be prohibition agents he runs out back of the shed and fires a gun in the air."

"The still operators nearby do the same, and run. In a few minutes the alarm has spread through the whole district and every still is deserted."

"We seldom have any trouble, however, except to catch them on the run."

Copper Stills.

Stone furnace stills are disappearing from the hills and copper, easily moved, is getting the play, said Wright.

Modern distilleries that several years ago ran as high as 250 to 300 gallons capacity have been junked for smaller, more mobile outfits of 50 to 75 gallons capacity.

Even the automobile, stranger to mountain moonshining in pre-prohibition days, has changed.

The runners tried large cars at the outset, but now small cars are vogue, with loads seldom more than 50 gallons.

"That's because they can go farther into the hills with a little car and don't lose so much when we nab a car," Wright said.

But meal and sugar remain the chief ingredients in the mountain "corn feed."

SENATORS RETAIN SUGAR RATES BY VOTE OF 48 TO 38

LEAGUE ADJOURNS FOR NAVAL PARLEY

Members in Hurry to Go to London—What the Council Has Accomplished.

Geneva, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The fifty eighth session of the Council of the League of Nations adjourned this morning shortly after the delegates convened for the morning meeting.

Most everyone was in a hurry to leave Geneva, to attend the naval conference at London.

August Zaleski, president of the council, in his closing address, paid tribute to Woodrow Wilson, and to Quinones De Leon, who, he said, was the only member of the first League Council who was a member of the one just ending its sittings.

Senor Quinones de Leon acknowledged the reference, and spoke reminding the conference and the League of Nations of the men who had a hand in building and strengthening the organization.

Short Session

Throughout the session of the council, which was one of the shortest in its history, it was apparent that the members were preoccupied with the London conference and wished to avoid any subject which might give rise to conflict or delay their adjournment.

Accomplishments of the council session were three:

Selection of a committee of eleven to draft changes in the covenant of the League of Nations to bring it into conformity with the Kellogg pact, and an aggressive warfare altogether.

Second, voting of a conference on February 17 to restrict the campaign to reduce restrictions to international trade.

And third, agreement to appoint a special commission of three persons to determine rights and claims regarding the Walling Wall of Jerusalem.

The Council also summoned an international conference on buoyage and lighting coast for next October. This will be held at Lisbon on invitation of the Portuguese government and all other maritime countries will have an opportunity to participate.

President Zaleski in his closing address contrasted the early struggles of the league with the task it faces today: "While some of us have hoped against hope we now believe because we know," he said.

"We know we are on the right road and have not gone astray. We know we are employing the right methods and we fully realize the

BUILDING BETTER IN STATE, REPORT

Increase Over Year Ago, Survey by Chamber of Commerce Shows.

Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The formation of 65 new Connecticut companies with a total authorized capitalization of $6,500,000 and an increase in the value of building permits of 42.85 per cent, were reported in December 1929 are reported in the business survey for December 1929 made public today by the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce. The survey is conducted monthly by the State Chamber in conjunction with leading local Chambers of Commerce in the state.

The survey shows that while the value of building permits in some cities showed a sharp decline the total value for the state was appreciably greater during last month than during December 1928. The value of those issued in Norwich increased 98 percent over the same month a year ago. New Haven showed an increase of 88 per cent, Middletown 42.85 per cent, Willimantic 22.62 per cent.

Gains in Gas

The amount of electricity and gas consumed showed substantial gains in practically every city reporting, gas consumption increasing by 26 per cent in New London and 24 per cent in New Haven. The number of new telephone installations also was greater last month than during December 1928, Norwich reporting an increase of 114 per cent, Willimantic 41 per cent and Middletown 40 per cent.

Postoffice receipts showed gains of 3 per cent to 25.6 per cent while reports on savings bank deposits ranged from decreases of approximately 4 per cent to increases of 12 per cent.

Adopt Proposal by Senator Harrison to Substitute Present Levies for the In- creases Proposed by Fi- nance Committee Repub- licans.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—By a margin of ten votes, the Senate today rejected the Republican proposal for an increase in the controversial sugar tariff.

The amendment of Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, forcing the retention in the tariff measure of the existing rate of 1.76 cents a pound on Cuban sugar was adopted, 48 to 38.

Eighteen Republicans, including some Old Guard Regulars from the east, deserted the finance committee proposal for a rate of 2.20 cents a pound on Cuban sugar.

The House voted a rate of 2.40 cents a pound on sugar and the difference between the Senate's demand for no increase and this advance must be thrashed out in conference between the two chambers.

Form Combination

The western Independent Republicans who combined with the Democrats to knock out of the Republican bill all rate increases except those on agricultural products, split on the sugar duty. Senators Borah, Idaho, and Norris, Nebraska, leaders of this bloc, were among those voting against an increased rate.

However Senators Nye, and Frazier, of North Dakota, and Howell, Nebraska, voted against Harrison's proposal to retain the existing sugar rate.

Senator Howell immediately sought to offer an amendment, extending to sugar producers in this country a bounty.

Senate Galleries were filled for the roll call. The sugar tariff has been a sore point throughout the year of tariff discussion and this week the Senate lobby committee reported expenditures of more than $400,000 of those interested in the sugar content.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Senate today voted to retain the existing sugar tariffs.

The present duty on Cuban raw sugar is 1.76 cents a pound and that against other countries is 2.20 cents.

These were raised by the finance committee Republicans to 2.20 and 2.75 cents, respectively, while the House bill provided duties of 2.40 and 3 cents.

It adopted a proposal by Senator Harrison, Democrat, Mississippi, to substitute present levies for the increases proposed by the finance committee Republicans. The vote was 48 to 38.

Eighteen Republicans voted for the Harrison proposal which denies any increase in the sugar tariff over existing law.

Four Democrats lined up with the other Republicans against the measure to keep duties as they are.

The Roll Call

The roll call on the Harrison amendment, follows:

For present sugar rate:
Republicans—Allen, Blaine, Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Gillett, Jones, Keyes, Follitt, McMaster, Metcalf, Norbeck, Norris, Pine, Robinson of Indiana, Robston, and Schall.—18.

Democrats—Ashurst, Barkley, Black, Blaine, Bratton, Brock, Cawley, Connally, Dill, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawkes, Hayden, Hefflin, McKellar, Overman, Sheppard, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Swanson, Thomas of Oklahoma, Trammell, Tydings, Wagner, Walsh of Massachusetts and Wheeler.—29.

Farmer Labor—Shipstead.—1.

Total—48.

Against present rate:
Democrats—Broussard, Kendrick, King, Ransdell.—4.

Republicans—Baird, Bingham, Cousins, Dale, Densen, Frazier, Goldsborough, Gould, Greene, Grunty, Hale, Hastings, Hatfield, Herbert, Howell, Johnson, Kean, McCulloch, McNary, Moses, Nye, Odie, Patterson, Phillips, Shortbridge, Smoot, Steiwer, Sullivan, Thomas of Idaho, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott, Waterman and Watson.—34.

See Another Dispute

The vote developed another major controversy for settlement in conference with the House, along with the export debenture plan and the Simmons-Norris substitute for the flexible tariff which were written into the bill by the Senate coalition of Democrats and Republican Independents against the wishes of President Hoover.

Had the Senate approved the finance committee rates it would have made certain a higher sugar tariff in the bill finally sent to the President, but today's vote make possible its reaching in conference and approved by both Houses.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for January 14 were $4,158,594.49; expenditures $5,316,380.21; balance $111,444,284.71.

12 MILLION NAMES ON PEACE PETITION

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A brown leather book bearing the pleas of 12,000,000 American women for armament reduction will be presented to the naval reduction conference in London the first week in February along with the 180,000 signatures of Japanese women to a similar petition.

Mrs. Edgerton Parsons of New York, treasurer of the Cause and Cure of War conference being held here, will head the delegation taking the book to London. She will sail immediately after the conference and will be accompanied by Mrs. Caspar Whitney of New York, and Miss Mary Dried of New York, the latter representing the Women's Trade Union League.

Henderson Interested Arthur Henderson, foreign secretary of the British Cabinet has notified Mrs. Parsons through his secretary Philip Barker, that he is gratified and interested by this enterprise of the American women.

In the brown leather book are the resolutions passed by the conference, the combined membership of which includes one-fifth of the adult women of the United States, urging drastic enough a reduction in naval armament to forever end competition in naval building. The book contains also signatures of heads of the various state delegations attending the conference.

Miss Kathleen Courtney, delegate from England, is arranging by cable for the presentation of the petitions from American and Japanese women along with one being prepared by British women.

"Less Talk" Mrs. Chatter Chapman Catt's famous "charitless round tables" got into full swing yesterday and today. Women were challenged to show how much they could say briefly and without meaningless words. Chairmen with gavels presiding over four round tables which embraced all of the 500 delegates made the women keep to a standard in brevity and conciseness.

The round tables were veritable whiz bangs. Blue, green and purple hats bobbed up with machine-like precision and speed while their wearers spun off pungent remarks on war debts, investments in foreign countries, the tariff and economic problems.

This afternoon another of Mrs. Catt's creations, the interruptive round table, gets into action. This method requires speakers to stand their ground uninterrupted in the face of continual interruptions in the way of questions and criticisms. The object is to bring out conservative, liberal and middle ground views.

STRANGLER BY NECKLACE WOMAN IS FOUND DEAD

Medical Examiner Says Drinking Also Was to Blame. Found in Movie Director's Penthouse.

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—An autopsy today disclosed that Mrs. Harriet Adler, whose body was found in a negro maid in the Penthouse apartment of a motion picture director yesterday, died of acute alcoholism and possible postural asphyxia as a result of a necklace about her neck. Police had listed the cause of death as natural causes. However, Dr. Barry Weinberg, assistant medical examiner, said that although death apparently was due to a heart attack, indentations on the throat made by a string of pearls she wore and a slight discoloration of the face hinted strongly enough at strangulation to warrant an autopsy.

Mrs. Adler, the former Harriet Mowry, whose family was listed in the social register, was found dead yesterday in the Penthouse apartment of Dudley Murphy, a motion picture director, in East 41st street. Murphy told police Mrs. Adler went to his apartment early yesterday and that he and John M. Barbour, a friend, left her in the living room when they retired. Several hours later the negro maid found her dead on a couch.

NORTH END CLUB HOST NURSES OF HOSPITAL

Community Club Officials Give Party Last Night; Luncheon and Entertainment.

Fifteen of the young women nurses from the Manchester Memorial hospital were royally entertained at the Manchester Community club last evening by officers and directors of the Community club and their wives.

Following a get-acquainted social in the parlors, adjournment was made to the assembly hall where Miss Grace Robertson gave an interesting talk on her trip to the Hawaiian Islands last summer. The travelogue was illustrated by many reels of fine motion pictures of the scenery, the volcanoes; and native Hawaiians engaged in industrial pursuits and in their favorite sports and dances.

Miss Robertson brought some of these films and had others made as a gift to her friends here. She has shown them to several different groups and always they have been received with pleasure. Mrs. C. R. Burr and W. W. Robertson assisted in operating the motion picture apparatus. During the course of the talk Miss Robertson and Miss Christine Mason, director of the clubhouse, amused the young women by demonstrating the use of the various wearables and curios Miss Robertson brought from the islands. Mrs. R. K. Anderson played several of the tuneful Hawaiian melodies on the piano.

Luncheon was served in one of the lower dining rooms. Miss Mason had arranged the tables very attractively. Red candles and carnations added their need to the decorative scheme. Mrs. R. K. Anderson presided at the coffee urns. Returning to the assembly hall there was dancing to music by Mrs. J. M. Shearer.

It was the first time that any attention had been made by a local organization or group of individuals to give these graduate nurses, all of whom are away from their own homes, a pleasant social time together, and they expressed their appreciation of the party arranged in their honor last night.

The nurses must ever be on their feet in the pursuit of their work among the ailing inmates at the hospital, and the reply made by one of them to Miss Robertson's inquiry as to what they preferred to do for amusement was significant. She said it was diversion enough to be allowed to sit still and let someone else do the entertaining.

Mooseheart Legion WOMEN'S ELECTION Women of Mooseheart Legion at their meeting last night held at the home of Mrs. Margaret Griffin of Hilliard street, elected officers to serve for 1930, as follows: Senior Regent, Mrs. Margaret Griffin; junior regent, Mrs. Margaret Sadorski; chaplain, Mrs. Alice Coleman; recorder, Miss Marguerite Bryant; treasurer, Mrs. Josephine Emonds; guard, Mrs. Sarah Mullen; assistant guard, Mrs. Barbara Hanson; sentinel, Mrs. Edwina Brunelle; argus, Mrs. Catherine Montie.

Officers will be installed at a meeting to be held on January 29 at the home of Mrs. Griffin and a supper will be served after the installation.

DIES SUDDENLY IN A LUNCH CART

Bridgeport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—While a cup of coffee was being served to him at a lunch cart in Fairfield this morning, Peter H. Morgan, 55, manager of the Fairfield Pharmacy, Inc. of Fairfield, fell over the counter dead.

Dr. Thomas F. Davis and the Fairfield ambulance were called and when the physician who is the medical examiner for the town found the man was dead he had the body removed to the morgue in Bridgeport where it will be held until claimed by a brother.

It is learned that Morgan had gone to several stores around the center of Fairfield during the half hour previous to his death and in apparent alarm advised the proprietors and clerks that he was dying.

STEAL $100,000 IN FURS

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Furs, the value of which was unofficially reported to be worth more than $100,000, were stolen early today by four burglars who first bound up George Woods, night watchman of the New York Auction Company, in West 28th street, and locked him in a washroom. Woods finally freed himself two hours after the robbers had gone and called the police. The four were armed and masked, he said.

TAFT FEELING BETTER Asheville, N. C., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Chief Justice Taft, spending a month here for his health, enjoyed a good night's sleep last night and awoke this morning refreshed and in fine spirits, members of his party announced.

The skies were overcast this morning and the day's program called for the chief justice to remain indoors.

CRUSHED BY TRUCK Stamford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—John McMahon, 60, of 36 Meadow street, is in the Stamford hospital in poor condition, the result of being crushed against a wall by a truck loaded with brick in a local coal yard.

McMahon was standing at the rear of the truck, waiting for the driver, James Romanello, of 18 Spruce street, to crank the engine, preparatory to moving the truck back a few feet. The engine had been left in gear and when Romanello cranked it, the truck plucked McMahon against a garage wall.

BODY UNIDENTIFIED Meriden, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The body of an unidentified man, who was found dead of alcoholism and exposure in a yard here Sunday has been placed in a vault at Sacred Heart cemetery in the hope that it may be claimed by relatives within the next ten days.

The man who is believed to have come here from Hartford has been variously identified as Angelo Bisano, and as Angelo Fabio. He was employed by the L. Suzzo Construction company of this city.

DEDICATE NEW PLANT Norwalk, Jan. 15.—(AP)—With service clubs and city officials, and officers of the company, in attendance this afternoon the new million dollar Hodson-Berg Hat plant of Cavanagh-Dobbs, Inc., adjoining their present huge plant in East Norwalk was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies.

GETS COMPENSATION Waterbury, Conn., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Mrs. Alta Robinson, dependent widow of Edgar Robinson, of Oxford, was today awarded compensation totaling $4,880 in an award made by Compensation Commissioner Frederick M. Williams.

Mrs. Robinson while working for the Seymour Commercial Company on December 21, 1929 suffered a fractured skull causing his death on the following day in the Griffin hospital at the rate of $15 a week for 312 weeks beginning last December 22. The respondent also pays the usual $200 burial fee. The award is subject to modification should the widow re-marry.

HAD STOLEN CAR New London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Riding in an expensive sedan which had stolen in Mount Vernon, N. Y., last night, two young gentlemen, believed by the police to be intent on staging a robbery or a holdup in this vicinity, were arrested at gun point by three local police officers this morning. Two loaded revolvers and plenty of ammunition were found in the car and both gunmen reached for the weapons as the police officers halted them, but the pistols of the officers were upon them and they were told that if they made one false move they would be shot.

The youths are William Rochell, 22, of 37 Roslyn Place, and Nicholas Ragnone, 18, 217 North 7th Avenue, Mount Vernon.

MOLDENHAWER DEAD

Hartford, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Word has been received here of the death in Finland last Monday of Julius Moldenhawer of West Hartford, reported to be the only man in America to have heard Christy Anderson recite his own fairy stories.

Julius Moldenhawer, who was 86 years old sailed on May 10 from New York for Copenhagen. During the past few years he had delivered many lectures at schools and libraries on Anderson with whom he became personally acquainted in Denmark when a youth.

RAID SLOT MACHINES Westport, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Two arrests were made today by state police of the Westport barracks in a drive on the mind vending slot machines, when they arrested Frank Salvato of Norwalk and Frank Covino of Greens Farms, seizing equipment and machines in both raids. Salvato's police is charged that he exchanged slugs for cigarettes.

TUCCI REALLY WED

New Britain, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Estrino Tucci, who announced last week that he intended to marry to get work on the city payroll, called today at the office of the city clerk and obtained the certificate which will permit him to wed Miss Grazi D'istefano. He would not reveal when the wedding will take place and he refused to pose for newspaper photographers, declaring that his bride to be objected to publicity.

HEADS YALE COMMITTEE New Haven, Jan. 16.—(AP)—M. F. Hanson, of Duluth has been elected chairman of Yale's class day committee and treasurer of the senior prom committee. The senior prom committee has named J. P. Bent of Harrisburg, Pa., chairman, and R. W. Ellis, Charles City, Ia., floor manager; while A. E. Palmer, of Madison, Wisconsin, was elected chairman of the senior triennial reunion committee.

MIDDLETOWN'S WEALTH Middletown, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The net 1929 grand list for this city was announced as $35,218,520 today by John S. Roth, tax commissioner.

Roth reported the value of tax exempt property as $7,286,378 including property valued at $2,093,875 owned by Wesleyan University, property of the Connecticut hospital valued at $1,809,440 and the Long Lane Farm valued at $205,000.

'OUR GANG' SWEETHEART IS A REAL ACTRESS NOW

Little Mary Kornman Grows Up from Comedy Roles and Is a Beautiful Flapper.

Hollywood, Calif.—Mary Kornman is growing up. You probably all remember little tow-headed Mary, who for five years furnished the entire "love interest" in our Gang comedies. But even if you do, you never would know her now. Mary has grown into a beautiful girl of 14 and at times she might be taken for 17 or 18.

This young actress is the most interesting combination of sophisticated flapper and child we ever have had the pleasure of knowing. The sophistication, of course, is the result of her many years in pictures and vaudeville. She discusses these subjects with the ease of an adult. And the very next moment she will be eagerly pawing over a box of candy to find the exact piece she wants.

Not only in mannerisms but in appearance too the above mentioned traits can be seen in Mary. Being a little tall for her age, she could easily pass for a girl of 18 at a distance. But a close scrutiny of her face reveals the open frankness of a child.

FUNERALS Mrs. Rose Stamler Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Stamler who died on Tuesday were held at St. James' church this morning. Rev. William P. Reidy officiated and Mrs. Margaret Sullivan was the soloist. As the body was borne into the church Mrs. Sullivan sang "Jesus, Savior, Pilot Me," and the full Gregorian mass. At the offertory she sang Bailey's "O, Salutaris," at the elevation "Ave Maria" and at the close of the service "Face to Face" and Organist Packard played Kern's funeral march.

The bearers were George, John and Michael Stamler, grandsons, and Joseph, Frank and George Steiner. Burial was in St. James' cemetery.

BILL COLLECTOR'S CALL STARTS ROW IN FAMILY Ben Baronousky Wants to Throw Him Out; Daughter Won't Let Him and Fights.

Angered at the appearance of a dry goods salesman calling to collect a bill, Benjamin Baronousky showed up for dinner at his home today in the Beehive and proceeded to usher the salesman to the street but his daughter Alice, 24, objected. Ben had been working all morning removing Christmas decorations and had just enough of some kind of spirit aboard to be in a belligerent mood.

Daughter Alice objected with something else than a verbal harangue, though at least, for neighbors to put in a hurry call to the police. Officers Rudolph Wirralis and John McGinn arrived to find the father a little worse for wear the possessor of a bad finger bruise and several scratches which according to Benjamin himself was caused by a vicious bite given him by his daughter Alice. When the officers arrived the daughter was in the house of a neighbor and one look at the surroundings told the officers that a battle royal had ensued.

Baronousky was booked at 1 o'clock charged with drunkenness and assault.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE OPENS ITS CONVENTION

Detroit, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The policies and aims of the Anti-Saloon League of America were outlined here today by Dr. Ernest H. Cherrington, director of the department of Education, publicity and research, in an address before the convention of the League. "The Anti-Saloon League was created for a definite purpose," Dr. Cherrington said. "That purpose is the extermination of the beverage alcohol traffic."

"We stand today," he said, "for the realization of the announced program of the President of the United States, who, more than any other chief executive of the nation, has definitely committed himself and his administration to the task of securing enforcement of prohibition. We stand for adequate appropriations to meet the demand for making the Eighteenth Amendment fully effective."

Dr. Cherrington said that while the league does not espouse the cause of any specific political party, it is its definite policy to use its strength "in the effort to prevent the election or appointment of officials whose records and attitudes do not insure a sympathetic and aggressive policy toward prohibition enforcement."

"The fortunes of prohibition and the social reform are one," Dr. Cherrington stated. "The major task of the League is to get the truth to the people," with special emphasis to those of the oncoming generations "who never knew at first hand the beverage liquor traffic of pre-prohibition days."

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Christine Borichewsky Christine, 11 months old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Borichewsky of Taylor street, Talcootville, died at the Memorial hospital early today of pneumonia. The funeral will be held at the funeral home of William P. Quish at 225 Main street at 10 o'clock Saturday morning and burial will be in the Buckland cemetery. There are two other children in the family.

FUNERALS Mrs. Rose Stamler Funeral services for Mrs. Rose Stamler who died on Tuesday were held at St. James' church this morning. Rev. William P. EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM PLANNED AT CHURCH

Second Congregationalists Plan to Use Motion Pictures to Portray Animal Life.

An educational program for parents, teachers and welfare workers is to be presented under the auspices of the Child Study Club at the Second Congregational church, Monday evening, at 7:30. The church motion picture apparatus will be used in showing several pictures, two of which have been secured from the Connecticut State Department of Health. One is entitled "How Life Begins" in four reels, illustrating the development of life from the lowest plant and animal forms to the higher animals. The message is carried forward by beautiful nature pictures and photo-micrographs. The first reel portrays plants and animals; the second the sea-urchin and its development from the egg. Number three gives the life history of the frog with the different stages in its development from a water to a land animal. The fourth reel illustrates the development of embryo chicks, kittens and animals that require maternal care.

Another picture entitled "A Fat Chance," deals with the problems of over-weight; still another "The High Road" handles hygienic subjects. A general discussion will follow the pictures. The committee in charge of the coming meeting is Mrs. James Oliver, Mrs. Carl Allen and Mrs. John Hull.

WOULD CONSOLIDATE VETERANS' BUREAUS Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A bill endorsed by Secretary Wilbur to place all veterans agencies under one executive department in charge of an assistant secretary of veterans affairs was submitted today to the House expenditures committee as a substitute for the "Williamson measure" proposing their consolidation in the Veterans Bureau.

Chairman Williamson presented Wilbur's measure without explanation. The interior secretary did not appear. He probably will be called later.

Commissioner Church of the Pension Bureau then presented another substitute bill, "as an individual." It recommended that an assistant secretary of interior for veterans affairs be appointed and that the Veterans Bureau and the veterans hospitals be transferred to the Interior Department under the supervision of such an assistant secretary.

SOLDIERS' HOME POST GOES TO DR. KEATING New London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Walter S. Garde of this city, member of the commission, charged with the administration of the Soldiers' Home at Noroton, today announced the resignation of Dr. Herman A. Tyler of this city as physician at the institution. The resignation becomes effective March 1, and Dr. W. P. S. Keating well known Williamsport physician has been named to fill the vacancy.

OPENING STOCKS New York, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Stock Market headed upward at the opening of today's market under the leadership of the high grade industrial and public utility shares. General Electric advanced 2 1/2 points on the first sale and initial gains of a point or so were recorded by American and Foreign Power, Pennsylvania, Consolidated Gas, Union Carbide and American Telephone.

U. S. Steel Common opened 3/4 of a point higher at 73 3/4. Oils were heavy in reflection of the cut in Texas crude prices yesterday. Overnight news provided little to influence the price movement. Wall Street was encouraged, however, by the reduction in the Philadelphia Federal Reserve rediscount rate, the publication of the annual report of the United Corporation, showing market value of securities well in excess of cost, and the further upturn in steel output.

Contrary to expectations in some quarters, the Bank of England made no change in its discount rate of 5 percent. The American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported a further increase in the world production of copper last month. When the first batch of overnight buying orders had been executed, lifting more than a score of stocks 1 to 2 1/2 points, the market ran into some selling which cut down many of the early gains. Montgomery-Ward, A. M. Ezers and McCrory Stores B each sold 2 or more points higher.

KILLED BY BANDIT Belleville, N. J., Jan. 16.—(AP)—One man of a band of citizens who took up pursuit of a gunman after the robbery of a chain grocery store, was killed today and another was wounded by the fleeing man's bullets. The dead man was Edward W. Maurer, 21, and Paul Bohrer, 40, was the man wounded. Bohrer received a bullet through the stomach. He was taken to St. Michael's hospital, Newark, where it was said his condition was serious.

FIND CARRIER PIGEON New London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Tired and evidently confused by fog, a carrier pigeon dropped on a traveler over by Captain Manuel Nunes of Groton at sea 20 miles off Newport last yesterday. The bird had a band on each leg. One band was inscribed "Y. L. 15-28" the other "23-12". The bird was brought to Groton and released.

Go Into House After Fire and Take Set—Police Recover It—In Juvenile Court.

Evidently sold on the idea that a home—no matter how humble—isn't complete without one, a group of youngsters who own a shack in the Heights section proceeded to furnish their hangout with a radio by way of the second story plan.

Fearing detection through recognition of the cabinet the boys removed the works and placed them in an ordinary wooden box. They hooked up the set and finally began to locate stations.

One of the boys has figured in petty thievery previously. All of them will be given a hearing in Juvenile court soon.

NAVAL ENVOYS NEAR END OF SEA JOURNEY

The premier's projected questioning of the American ambassador, it was felt, was more for the completion of his information than indication of any suspicions of England and the United States.

The French press today gave a place of importance to the interviews at Geneva between Foreign Minister Briand and Foreign Minister Grandi of Italy.

Le Temps is confident that if France and Italy proceed to London from the standpoint of their respective naval needs and national security the Franco-Italian difficulties can be satisfactorily solved.

MacDONALD'S PLAN

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The ultimate abolition of the battleship, indicated by Prime Minister MacDonald yesterday as the high point of the British policy at the five-power naval conference, was the subject of widespread comment in England today.

It was noted in many quarters that Mr. MacDonald only proposed the abolition of this type of warship, if international agreement on that could be obtained, but the question reveals a new one, be of smaller size and gun calibre.

Many commentators today, including the Manchester Guardian, note that the prime minister's remark is a departure from the official condemnation on the highest authority of the ship that has dominated naval thinking for several generations.

The London Evening Star is more emphatic in approval. "If the doom of the battleship as we know it today can be brought about by the navy conference it will be a good business. Unless the life is to be crushed out of us by these juggernauts, something will have to be done about them."

THURSDAY, JAN. 13, 1930

RELATIVE

The Waterbury Republican thinks it sees, in the tragedy of the Chinese famine, indications of a temperamental difference between the people of that country and those of the western nations and a peculiar callousness on the part of the country's rulers. It says:

That China can lose 4,000,000 of its citizens and not miss them only emphasizes the cheapness with which human life is regarded in that country. That she can lose them without much more than a shrug of the shoulders emphasizes it still more. Such an attitude also throws some light on the mental attitude of the rulers of the country and the reasons for the present state of chaos that exists there.

That a marked degree of fatalism has come to be a distinctive element in the Chinese character there is abundant reason to believe, but it has yet to be proved that its source lies in any inherent lack of either humanity or courage on the part of the race and that it is not the logical consequence of a very much longer conscious experience with hardship and shock than lies within the memory of any other nation. Only fortitude has maintained the Chinese people as an entity of civilization through almost countless centuries. And fortitude, deliberately fostered, will manifest itself in many directions, some of them appearing to lead to the goal of unfeelingness.

Here in America we have been developing, within very recent times, a certain fortitude of our own which, it is conceivable, may yet develop to a point where it will be regarded by other and more sensitive peoples as a reproach upon the America character. If the Chinese nation can learn of the starving and freezing of millions of their own people and still go more or less undisturbed about their daily affairs, is this any different save in degree from our own calm reception of the news each year of the killing of twenty-odd thousand of our citizens by automobiles, when we also shrug our shoulders and make no more effort to put a stop to the slaughter than the Chinese do to end the starvation and freezing?

As a matter of fact the Chinese probably regard the failure of crops and the coming of thirty-below-zero weather as something beyond human control, while we, on the other hand, know perfectly well that we could stop the automobile slaughter but, for reasons of our own, do not care to do so.

When the death rate shall have climbed from 23,000 a year to ten or twenty times as much—as it quite well may—shall we still continue to wonder at the Oriental callousness toward human life?

SIMPLE TASKS

If Dr. W. A. Bryan, head of the Worcester State Hospital for the Insane, is correctly quoted he seems to have been doing some picturesque talking on the subject of the factory system, for Dr. Bryan is reported as saying that only a feeble minded person would stand in the Ford assembly line and put identical bolts in place hour after hour and day after day.

Of course no one will have any trouble in getting at the germ of truth in this statement, but standing by itself the declaration is nonsensically overwrought. It goes altogether without saying that in the extreme specialization of the present system of industrial production a very large proportion of the workers are perpetually kept at tasks immeasurably below the limits of their intelligence; but just because these people have no opportunity, in their jobs, of employing any faculty for independent thinking it does not by any means follow that such faculty does not continue to exist. Nor is there the slightest justification for assuming that a person is necessarily lacking either in initiative or self respect because he is employed as a mere mechanical cog in the industrial machine. In thousands upon thousands of cases it is infinitely to his credit that he submits to the boredom and monotony of such work in preference to the vagabondage which is so often the only alternative. We have a suspicion that in the Ford assembly line there may be many an example of sheer heroism, where men who utterly loathe such automatic work stick to the job day in and day out from sheer sense of duty to their families.

Only a few of us, after all, can be masters of our own destinies, even to the extent of selecting the kind of work we shall do. And as between the fellow who puts the same kind of bolt in the same spot in a Ford chassis some hundreds or thousands of times a day, and never puts in a damaged one or puts it in wrong, and the clever lawyer who shows crooks how to dodge punishment or the Annapolis graduate who sells his influence to an armor plate manufacturer, our admiration goes to the plunger in the automobile factory. It may very well be that strength of character, much oftener than feebleness of intellect, keeps the automobile worker in the assembly line.

IMPATIENT

Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, whose blazing ardor for human liberty is as impatient as that of Sam Adams, explodes in picturesque indignation over the failure of the Hoover Commission's report to meet the emergency of tyrannies perpetrated in the name of prohibition.

Dr. Nicky should remember the admonition of the old family doctor about not expecting to cure in a week a disease which has been two or three years establishing itself.

The Eighteenth amendment has been in effect for a decade, to be sure, but it was much more than a decade getting itself into the Constitution. It took a long, long time to bring about the present state of affairs. It is not to be expected that the state of affairs can be corrected in a few hours, a few weeks or a few months.

In his thundering criticisms of the commission's report we should say that Dr. Butler is a bit superficial. The president of Columbia University is not yet so old that he need fear that he will not live long enough to see this rum problem work itself out of the mire. Neither Rome nor the structure of horrors that we call prohibition was built in a day. The point is, are we headed in the right direction? Those who study the commission's report without excitement will, most of them, decide that we are.

THE NEGRO CADET

It may prove to be a little unfortunate that the one Negro cadet at West Point, an appointee of the Chicago Congressman DePriest, failed to pass his midyear examinations, as did sixty-three of his white comrades. It will be just about as difficult to convince the colored people of the country that Cadet Parham had a fair show at the Military Academy as if he had alone been discharged. If Parham had had the good luck to pass his exams and had been allowed to continue his course while three score white boys were dropped it would have been nearly impossible for even the most race-conscious Negro to convince himself that unfair prejudice against Negroes existed among the West Point faculty.

It might, besides this, have been a useful thing to have had Cadet Parham successfully complete his West Point course and receive his commission. An extremely difficult problem lies in this business of demanding military service from Negroes without, apparently, any opportunity for them to receive the customary rewards of military intelligence, valor and integrity through promotion. Some time there will have to be some experimenting done—unless perchance we happen to arrive unexpectedly soon at that happy state of civilization where there will be no more armies—in the elevation of superior Negro soldiers to positions of command. Possibly the graduation of the Parham boy would have made some such experimentation practicable.

However, the young man himself is, we should say, well out of a most unhappy situation. It is quite possible that he is a loser in much less degree than is his country through his premature retirement from the academy.

A BARGAIN

Distress among the shipbuilders and armor plate manufacturers in case naval disarmament on a large scale should be brought about by the London conference provides an argument which even the most pronounced of the big-navy crowd have difficulty in suggesting without blushing. And even when they do employ it they usually do it by indirection, merely dropping in with a pretense of casualness certain presumptive facts; such as the London parley would probably "make it possible" to close half the navy yards of the United States, as a result of which thousands of skilled workers would be discharged.

This sort of thing, allowed to sink in, is supposed to arouse in the mind of the ordinary reader a certain amount of apprehension lest the already sufficiently crowded labor market be still further congested by the presence of all these unemployed ship builders.

As a matter of fact, it would be cheaper by far for the United States government to put every one of its naval ship building employees on a life pension equal to his daily wage than to keep him at work building war ships; because the wastage would end with the payroll, in that event, and would not continue on through enormous expenditures for material, largely consisting of profit, and then on again through the tremendous cost of maintenance for the vessels after being finished and commissioned.

Of course no such measure would be necessary, because the number of skilled laborers employed in the ship yards constitutes only a fleabite in comparison with the whole body of such labor in the country and would be very certain indeed to be directed to other activities; but the country, even if it were to do such a novel thing as putting the ship workers on the pension list, would be making a wonderful bargain for itself.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 16—The tide of change is carrying the future Broadway up into the Seventies.

Within the week another of the grand old playhouses in the Thirties has rung down the curtain and the last word in film palaces has just opened in Seventieth street, indicating that the Columbus Circle limit has been crossed and that Broadway is heading rapidly northward.

When the old Casino gave up the ghost in 39th street, practically all that is left of the theater belt of another era had passed. Meanwhile the Fifties gets gayer and gayer; the racketeers open their catch-penny concerns blocks away from 42nd street and the lights go blazing up the highway.

The Casino died at the ripe old age of 47 years. Sentimentalists tried to keep it alive to the half-century mark, but the inroads of real estate expansion hastened its end.

This, if you please, was the theater in which Lillian Russell first became queen of the stage world. Her beauty became the toast of those dear, dead days and the old grandpas limped across a nation for one look at a figure which today—to say the least—would seem Amazonian.

And this, too if you please, was a day in which the leading ladies were very much ladies and very misleading—they did not dance; neither did they wiggle or jazz-step. They were prima donnas in a big way. And what they may have lacked in prima, they made up in donna.

Perhaps, if you brush up your memory a bit, you'll recall "Floradora" with the sextet that rocked the front pages and gained, not mere publicity, but a historic place in the story of the theater.

Not only did the "tall me, pretty maiden" tune become the big "torch" number of its time, but the Floradora girls are still remembered when half of Ziegfeld's beauties are forgotten.

Dear old grandpa may tell you what they looked like, and whether or not they deserved the reputation they achieved. Perhaps by this time half of them are grandmothers themselves. Some married millionaires and some just dropped out of sight.

Well, anyway, this was the spot upon which "Floradora" first saw the light of night.

Then came Marie Tempest, imported from England. The same Marie, by the way, who is at the moment playing in London in "The Second Mrs. Fraser," a part taken in New York by Grace George. But in those days, Marie wore tight-fitting, now her role is that of an elderly housewife.

Arthur Hammerstein came in with musical shows. In recent years one opera after another was born there. It was the home of the big hit "Wildflower"; of "The Vagabond King"; of Cleo Mayfield's "Blue Paradise"; of "The Desert Song"; of Francis Wilson's youthful days in "Ermine"; of Vivienne Segal's debut when she was fresh from school. It introduced Ed Wynn and Francine Larrimore and a dozen others.

Health and Diet Advice

HICCUPS OR HICCOUGH

Hiccups, although usually a passing annoyance, may persist for as long as several weeks in which case it is a very serious affliction, as the patient's rest and vitality are reduced. An intense soreness and pain through the upper chest may result in these cases, and death sometimes results from exhaustion.

Hiccups is caused by a spasmodic contraction of the diaphragm either from an irritation of the nerves leading to it or from a pressure of irritation of the diaphragm itself. The sound occurs as the air is drawn in and is produced by a sudden convulsive gasp of the air as it hits the partly closed glottis.

When hiccupping is started because of too much food being eaten at a meal, it may remain until the stomach is empty, which in these cases often requires eight to ten hours. By this time the diaphragm, a flat muscle, may become so sore and irritated as to keep right on with its spasmodic contractions unless something is done.

When excessive stomach gas produces the pressure upon the diaphragm, the hiccupping can usually be stopped quickly by producing a belching. Hiccups sometimes results as a relapse in the course of wasting diseases or where there is brain irritation, kidney stones, pelvic disorders and, in some cases, hernia. In any of these grave conditions, the principal diseases should be cared for.

Hiccups is considered a very serious symptom with typhoid, appendicitis and pneumonia. In some cases, apparently simple causes will produce hiccupping, such as overeating, overdrinking, swallowing while trying to eat.

Ordinary cases of hiccupping can be overcome by drinking some cold water while holding the breath or by breathing in and out deeply a number of times, as in the so-called abdominal breathing.

A good simple treatment which can be used in cases not relieved by the simple remedies is to produce a pressure upon the collection of nerve centers on each side of the spine about the middle of the neck. This is because the nerve which supplies the diaphragm passes through this region, and the layman can sometimes temporarily deaden this nerve by placing a piece of ice on each side of the neck about half way down between the head and shoulders, or the patient can treat himself by placing the fingers of each hand at the sides of the neck just in back of and below the ears and bending the head back as far as possible, pressing forward with the fingers at the same time. If these treatments do not stop the hiccupping, it is a good plan to call in an osteopath or chiropractor who will make the right pressure at exactly the right spot, stopping the spasms almost instantly.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Epilepsy) Question—Mary asks: "Can epilepsy be inherited? If I marry a man whose sister is subject to these spells, would our children inherit them?"

Answer: There is some evidence that there is a tendency for epilepsy to run in the family, but you should not let this stop your marriage, if your boy friend is willing to put himself in perfect physical condition so that he will not be subject to epilepsy or any other disorder. Hereditary tendencies can always be banished through proper living.

(Syrup on Dates) Question—A. M. P. asks: "Will you kindly advise me if the imported dates have been preserved with sugar or molasses?"

Answer: Most of the imported dates are prepared in syrup which can be washed off and the dates dried in the sun. The California or domestic dates do not, as a rule, have the syrup.

(Shots for Colds) Question—Mrs. E. writes: "My mother is 71 years old and bothered with colds and bronchitis in winter. A doctor wants to give her ten shots of serum for prevention. Do you believe in those kinds of shots?"

Answer: It might be dangerous for your mother to take the shots of serum which have been recommended. They are of doubtful value in any case at any age, and certainly not necessary if one is willing to live carefully. If you will send me your full name and address, I will glad to send you some special articles for your mother, on how to prevent colds and bronchitis.

(Tomatoes and Cream) Question—Dora asks: "Do tomatoes and cream, with salt, make a correct combination?"

Answer: Tomatoes and cream make an excellent combination, but salt should not be used at the same time.

WASHINGTON LETTER By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer. Washington—Mr. Patrick Sullivan, the new senator from Wyoming, first entered politics in County Cork, centering his activities on the cause of Irish freedom. The last of these activities was the beating up of a couple of British officers, after which Patrick Sullivan, then 23, left Ireland in a hurry. He landed in New York with $5, worked on the docks until he had saved a little, decided to go to Butte, Mont., where he had friends, found that he had enough money to reach Rawlins, Wyo., and so got off the train at Rawlins and settled down. He went to work on a sheep ranch, became a foreman of the outfit after one year and a partner in that sheep business after years. Later the sheep business centered in Utah but then Patrick Sullivan and his partner trailed their sheep across the line to Casper, Wyo., and that has been his home ever since.

Saw Exciting Events. Those were wide open days in Wyoming and Sullivan sometimes had to do with Indians and bad men. In 1892 Sullivan ran for the legislature and, once in, stayed 20 years. Once, when he tried for the state senate, he had a strong opponent. Previously he had never done any campaigning because he knew everyone and everyone knew him. But he got into a good-sized town one night and met a political important friend, who invited him to have a drink of whisky out of a bottle. Patrick's eyes observed his opponent's name on a special label on the bottle. He realized that the passing out of these pints by the opponent late in the campaign might well tip the balance against him. He smelled the open bottle.

"Have you drank any of this?" he demanded, and as the friend said he had, asked: "How do you feel?" "Not so good," the man replied, whereupon Pat grabbed the bottle and smashed it in the street. "Rankest poison!" he exclaimed. "Thank heaven I found you in time! You need some good whisky at once. Come on!" Pat went down to the best bar in town and Pat bought two drinks of red 25-cent whisky. "Do you feel better?" he demanded. "Much better!" was the reply. "Do you know who gave me that vile stuff? It was —" "I don't believe it," said Pat. "A man like him would never do such a thing. Did he take a drink of it himself? No? Well, now that's strange."

And so the other gent, saved from an imaginary horrible death in the nick of time, dashed about getting others to smash their pints of perfectly good whisky and persuading them that Pat Sullivan was the right candidate after all. So small was his majority that the importance of those two drinks of 25-cent whisky was obvious. Pat was a wet in the legislature prohibition fights. Once, when a bone dry banker was speaking from the floor on the evils of liquor he asked him whether he had ever taken a drink and the banker replied that he had never tasted whisky in his life. "You take my advice," said Pat in a brief speech still famous in Wyoming, "and go out on a cold, bleak, winter evening and drink 15 or 20 Scotch highballs. You will see the sunny side of life. It will take the cobwebs from your brain. And in all probability you will be able to see your way clear so that you can loan money at less than 12 per cent."

WESTERLY WINDS TO SPEED PLANES

Lindbergh to Work With Weather Bureau to Plan Higher Travel Routes.

Washington, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh will see for himself whether aviation can link arms with the winds in the United States for speedier west-to-east air travel.

That is the way the announcement made in Los Angeles that he would make a number of experimental high altitude flights in cooperation with naval meteorological experts at the Lakehurst, New Jersey, naval air station and the United States Weather Bureau was received here today.

It is understood at the Weather Bureau, which will furnish forecasts of meteorological conditions, that Colonel Lindbergh plans a transcontinental flight in which he will test in his new low-wing monoplane whether aviation advances and knowledge of high altitude currents may be utilized for more rapid transit.

25,000 Feet Ceiling The service ceiling of his Lockheed Sirius racer is 25,000 feet and it may be possible to find in the increased altitude general air currents that will speed the plane to the Atlantic coast.

Surveys made by meteorologists with pilot balloons have established the existence of a preponderant number of westerly winds east of the Rockies, generally averaging 50 miles an hour between 20,000 and 25,000 feet altitude.

In the Rocky mountain region there have been new high altitude soundings but in the east and central parts of the country there is definite knowledge of prevailing westerlies, mostly sweeping in from the northwest.

A New Field While high altitude soundings have generally been meagre, advances in plane and motor designs have made of the upper air a new field for exploitation and Colonel Lindbergh's experiments may point to general high altitude flying for mail and passenger ships.

Meteorologists indicate that the prevailing westerlies may be utilized to speed transportation about one day in four and it is not to be assumed that there is a daily wind with which to speed a plane. Moreover, since they are one-way currents, there would be no such aid in east-to-west flights.

The difficulty of high altitude flying will be the selection of stretches high enough where the strongest favorable currents may be utilized but not so high that oxygen apparatus would have to be employed.

In passenger service it would not be practical to employ oxygen apparatus, it is pointed out, nor would it be possible to use it on flights of long duration without telling effects. Oxygen must generally be employed beyond the 25,000-foot mark.

LOCAL NURSERYMEN AT STATE SESSION

A. E. St. John Again Named Secretary and Treasurer of the Association.

Arthur E. St. John general manager of the Oakland Nurseries, a subsidiary of the C. R. Burr & Co., Inc., was re-elected secretary and treasurer, and several Manchester men were placed on important committees at the annual meeting of the Connecticut Nurserymen's association at the Hotel Bond, Hartford, yesterday.

Following are the officers elected: President, Alexander Cumming, Jr., of Bristol; vice-president, Henry Kelly, New Canaan; secretary and treasurer, Arthur E. St. John, Manchester.

Committees were named as follows: Executive and Legislative committee, F. S. Baker, Cheshire; A. Stovekin, Cromwell; E. Kelly, New Canaan; W. W. McCartney, New Haven; C. E. Wilson, Manchester; C. E. Burr, Manchester; N. Millane, Cromwell; entertainment, F. J. Ripplin of Manchester, chairman; J. Brubaker, George Godfrey, Geo. Graves; publicity and membership, G. H. Harris, Manchester; Garrett Starks, Guilford; P. Marotta, Rockford; F. J. McCarthy, Manchester; forestry and state park conservation, F. S. Baker, Cheshire; Ed. Kelly, New Canaan; J. R. Brubaker, Cheshire; H. J. Zack, Deep River.

L. J. Robertson of Manchester, member of the Manchester Garden club, and secretary of the Connecticut Horticultural society, was voted into the association, and also gave a short talk on the coming Horticultural show to be held in September, requesting all nurserymen to have exhibits, and to cooperate. Among those from Manchester, who were present at the meeting, were F. J. McCarthy, general manager of the Manchester nurseries; C. L. Vanderbrook of C. L. Vanderbrook and Sons, Inc., W. N. Le Clerc, dealer, connected with W. E. Hibbard Co., L. J. Robertson of Manchester Green, C. C. Reuger of the Connecticut Valley Nurseries, A. E. St. John, sales manager of the Oakland Nurseries, C. E. Burr and C. E. Wilson, did not attend, being in Chicago, Ill., attending the Illinois state convention.

CHILDREN'S AID SOCIETY ANNUAL MEETING TODAY

Miss Marjory Cheney Named Vice President, Austin Cheney a Director.

Thomas Hewes of Cedar street, Farmington, Conn., prominent Hartford attorney, was elected president of the Connecticut Children's Aid society and Miss Marjory Cheney of this town vice president at the annual meeting today.

The meeting was held at 36 Trumbull street, Hartford, and was called to order at 2 p. m. by Philip B. Gale, president.

Mr. Gale reviewed his administration of the past seven years, calling attention to the fact that during that time the society has increased its total service to children from 909 children served in 1925 to a high-water mark of 1,223 children given various forms of help in 1929. Mr. Gale pointed out that the society's expenses for caring for these children had increased from $69,510 in 1925 to the figure of a contemplated budget of $106,180 for the year 1930. Kenneth L. Messenger, of Hartford, commissioner of child welfare of the state of Connecticut, spoke of the subject "A challenge," needs of a contemplated budget of the Connecticut state.

Mr. Messenger said that whereas the state of Connecticut has official and voluntary children's agencies that have done a great deal to bring standards of child care to a fairly high plane, there is still much to be done before Connecticut can stand in the front rank. Mr. Messenger laid especial emphasis on the need in the state, as a whole, for a unified plan of supervision for children under four.

Two teams were picked up. They were named the Peewits and Ramseyites. The Ramseyites won the obstacle and potato race. The Peewits were the winners in "Capture the Flag."

The Scout oath and laws were given at the close of the meeting. A prayer was given by Rev. Clarke.

Notes. Troop 4 will meet Troop 2 in an inter-troop contest on January 23, 1930. Troop 4 will also meet Troop 9 shortly. This year it is planned to make all Scouts go up in ranks. Some Scouts expect to get merit badges soon.

POLICE KILL FOUR IN GERMAN RIOTS

Berlin, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Police last night were hard put to cope with Communist demonstrations in three parts of the city, the fashionable west section, in the northeast, and in the notorious Wedding district in the north.

On the Potsdamerstrasse in the west end police fired into the air and clashed bodily with a group of 300 who had attended a mass meeting commemorating the tenth anniversary of the killing of Karl Liebknecht and Rosa Luxemburg during the post-war effort to establish a Communist state in Germany.

Two policemen were badly beaten in the north section. Twenty alleged Communists were arrested there.

Four Deaths. Four deaths were reported at Hartsmandorff after Communist rioting there. Other German cities reported disturbances also.

The rioting continued until a late hour. Police finally successfully dispersed the demonstrators, although to do so they had to make more than 100 arrests.

In the Neukolln district the Communist member of the Reichstag, named Sabettik, was arrested while inciting the mob to attack the police. Another member of the Reichstag, named Koernle, was arrested in the northern district.

GILEAD

The annual meeting of the Hebron Farmers' Exchange was held at the Gilead hall Saturday evening. A supper was served to the members and a few invited guests and the business meeting followed.

The officers elected were: Edward E. Foote, president; Joseph Barraso, general manager, secretary and treasurer; executive committee, L. W. Robinson, R. E. Poote, C. Malnati, C. Daniel Way. County Agent Tucker was present. Business done by the exchange has increased yearly. The books for the past year show that the sale of grain, fertilizer, spray material, gas and oil amounted to $42,000.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Deeter were visitors in Hartford Tuesday. J. B. Jones, R. E. Poote, William Fely and A. C. Poote went to Amston Wednesday morning to see the wrecked airplane which started out from Farmington, L. I., last Friday and crashed into the trees in the woods near Amston lake Friday morning.

The Ladies Aid society met with Mrs. Hart E. Buell Wednesday afternoon. Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hills, Mrs. A. H. Post, Mrs. Ruby Gibson, Mrs. Florence Jones, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Owen and Homer Hills attended the meeting of the State Grange in Hartford Tuesday evening.

Rev. J. W. Deeter and William Owen were delegates to a meeting at the Stafford Springs Congregational church, held Wednesday.

BOY SCOUT NEWS

Troop 4 A hike was held to Glastonbury Saturday, November 11. All the Scouts present had a good time.

Troop 4 held its meeting Tuesday evening at 7 o'clock. Mr. Clarke, curate of St. Mary's church, acted as scoutmaster in the absence of Scoutmaster Chrawshaw. The scribe called the roll. Eighteen scouts and recruits were present. Mr. Clarke told us the use of drills.

Two teams were picked up. They were named the Peewits and Ramseyites. The Ramseyites won the obstacle and potato race. The Peewits were the winners in "Capture the Flag."

The Scout oath and laws were given at the close of the meeting. A prayer was given by Rev. Clarke.

Notes. Troop 4 will meet Troop 2 in an inter-troop contest on January 23, 1930. Troop 4 will also meet Troop 9 shortly. This year it is planned to make all Scouts go up in ranks. Some Scouts expect to get merit badges soon.

SILVER LANE and HOCKANUM News Notes

Dr. Karl Hennig of Germany who is studying at the Hartford Theological Seminary addressed the 3-C club of the South Congregational church Sunday evening, January 12 on the subject of the reactionary movement of the youth of Germany against war. The 3-C club is composed of boys and girls of the community.

Since the advent of the Pratt and Whitney Aircraft company and the alleged Communist sympathies in this locality, building activity has taken a new lease of life. Three new homes are under construction, one at Station 25 1/2 South Main street by Wm. Lewis, contractor of Glastonbury. B. Lewis, contractor of Wm. R. Dunham. This property was owned by the late Truman Hale.

Emil V. Schultz, contractor, is erecting a six room cottage on the south side of Broad street on property purchased of Mrs. Harriett J. Wadsworth.

Frank Fink of Maple street has a cellar dug at the north side of Broad street and will erect a modern six-room house. Mr. Fink purchased the lot of Otto Kamm. This property was the old Truman Hale estate. Since the death of Mr. Hale 17 new homes have been erected on Broad street.

The Ladies Aid society of the South Congregational church met in the Vestry Wednesday afternoon, January 16 to sew and roll bandages for the hospital. At 6 o'clock the bi-weekly supper was served.

Mrs. Jacob Limberg of Naubuc avenue is seriously ill at her home. Mrs. Limberg recently underwent a slight operation for internal trouble responding nicely for a time. Her many friends and neighbors regret to learn of her sudden relapse. Mrs. Limberg's son Henry, married a Manchester girl.

Mrs. Harry Knickerbocker of Naubuc avenue is very low at her home. Mrs. Knickerbocker has been in poor health for over a year.

Fred. C. Clark has rented his property on Naubuc avenue to a Manchester family who will take possession soon.

WAPPING

Wapping Grange held its first regular meeting in the new year on Tuesday evening at the school hall, Worthy Lecturer, Mrs. Hattie Lane, who conducted the roll call. Doughnuts and coffee were served.

The Board of Relief will meet at the town hall, South Windsor on Saturday, February 1, and at the Wapping school hall on February 14 and again at the town hall on February 28, for the purpose of hearing appeals and adjusting the assessment lists.

It has been decided to postpone the Community supper planned for tomorrow, until Friday evening, January 24, at 6 o'clock, at the Wapping Center school hall. An entertainment will follow the supper.

On Sunday evening, January 26, at the Federated church there will be a service of song, when nine Mount Calvary Colored quartet, of Norwich will participate.

Denver, Jan. 6.—(AP)—The Rocky Mountain west still shivered today under the sting of the most protracted cold wave since 1924. Six deaths were caused indirectly yesterday by the bitter cold.

Temperatures, well below the freezing mark in Denver for nine days, ventured to new low levels, climaxing the performance with a minimum of seven below zero early today. Throughout Montana, Wyoming, Colorado, New Mexico and Kansas the cold held sway.

ABANDONED AUTOS SERIOUS PROBLEM

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The heartaches of property owners whose land is used by the public as permanent depositories for broken-down automobiles were reviewed before the legislative committee on legal affairs today. A bill to penalize persons who abandon their cars on the property of others was under consideration.

Henry E. Schmuck, of West Springfield, who favored the bill, gave an illustration of the situation. He told of visiting a lot he owns in Springfield and upon arriving there "was chagrined to note that someone had abandoned an old decrepit car in the center of it." Being grieved by the sight of it, he said, he later took Representative Scott of his district out to have a look at it. When they got there, he said, "instead of one being dumped upon my property, there were four."

DANCED WITH PRINCE

Aboard S. S. Kenilworth Castle, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Pamela Delande, twelve years old, is the happiest passenger on this liner. Last night she was one of the lucky girls who danced with the Prince of Wales, now traveling back to the African big game field. Pamela and the prince chatted merrily as they trotted on the deck.

Veteran travelers said the fancy-dress ball last night to celebrate the crossing of the equator was the most brilliant ever seen by them on any ship. The ship's decks were thronged with bejeweled maharajas, maharanes, madarins, Indian dancing girls, old English flower-sellers and many other picturesque costumes.

The Prince of Wales wore plain evening-dress and hardly missed a dance.

Stops That Tough Hang-On Cough That Racks Your Whole Body

For simple coughs any simple sweet sugary cough syrup will probably do.

But when you want to throw out of your system one of those old timers, that simply won't be conquered, but lingers on and on causing sleepless nights and days of torment then you've just got to have a real cough medicine.

Then you must ask your druggist for a bottle of Bronchiline Emulsion for the harder and tougher and tighter they come the more joy Bronchiline gets in knocking them out.

Bronchiline isn't a cheap cough conqueror, mind you, for first raters are never cheap. But if you are one of the unlucky ones that a persistent, health destroying cough is pushing towards the grave, get a bottle today and notice how the first dose takes right hold and soothes the terrible soreness. Often three or four doses bring blessed relief and half a bottle forces the most stubborn cough into submission.

"A bottle of magic" one old man calls Bronchiline Emulsion. He was all worn out and ready to give up when a friend brought him the good news about Bronchiline. Don't let a cough hang on—it's dangerous company—Get rid of it quick. Ask North End Pharmacy, Manchester, Magnell Drug Co., So. Manchester or any up to the times druggist for a bottle of Bronchiline Emulsion.—Adv.

Burpee Corps Anniversary

Burpee Woman's Relief Corps held its 44th Anniversary in G. A. R. hall last night, with more than seventy members present.

After the singing of the Star Spangled Banner Mrs. Alice Kingston, who acted as toastmistress, gave a few words of welcome.

The banquet came to a fitting close with the singing of America. Mrs. Mary Brigham, 95 years old, a charter member of Burpee Corps was among those present at the gathering.

The thirty-first annual banquet of the Men's Union was held in the dining room of the Hotel Marlborough last evening, with about one hundred and seventy present.

The meeting opened with remarks by the president, Francis S. Nettleton, followed by the report of the secretary and treasurer.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York—The Queen of the links is looking for new worlds to conquer, Glenna Collett, golf star, who has had a trifle of experience in court tournaments, is taking lessons in tennis.

Tarrytown, N. Y.—Business ethics of parents must meet the standards of the Highland Manor school, a private school for girls, before their daughters will be accepted as pupils.

Vienna—The ideal beauty here is a tall blonde. Such is Ingeborg Grenberger of Kattfeldt, the latest "Miss Austria."

New York—Filmdom is looking forward to a big week-end party at the Long Island home of Gilda Gray in celebration of her marital freedom and is expecting a revelation as to a many-carat diamond it has noted.

Southend, England.—That Rt. Rev. Henry A. Wilson, bishop of Chelmsford, would like to see a prize for girls' gumption established. "It is not people with brains but people with gumption who get on in the world."

London, Jan. 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Kate Meyrick, London night club proprietress whose two daughters are married to peers, probably will be released Saturday from the prison to which she was sentenced January 29, 1929.

Her sentence entailed hard labor, and followed a trial and conviction on charges of corrupting the police. She has earned three months' remission for good behavior.

PEACEFUL PICKETING BEFORE LEGISLATURE

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—A plea for legislation to define peaceful picketing so that pickets in industrial disputes may protect themselves from arrest on subterfuge charges was made today before the legislative committee on labor and industries at a hearing on a bill of Representative Roland D. Sawyer of Ware, and Alfred Baker Lewis, state secretary of the Socialist Party.

The bill would define peaceful picketing in such a way as to preclude the possibility of legitimate picket lines being distributed by police on charges of sauntering and loitering, obstructing the side walk or parading without a permit.

Other speakers in favor of the bill included Thomas Brennan, the New Bedford Textile Council, J. Mohoney, the railroad brotherhoods, George Appel, a labor union representative and George Roemer of the local Garment Workers Union. There was no opposition.

CENTER CHURCH ANNUAL MEETING About 225 Attend Session In Masonic Temple; Officers Are Elected.

About 225 members of the Center Congregational church attended the annual dinner and meeting of the church held last night in the dining hall of the Masonic Temple. A fine chicken supper was served, furnished by the Women's Federation of the church in charge of Mrs. James E. Johnston, chairman of the committee. Supper was served to the large gathering in an able and efficient manner. The tables were decorated with potted plants and candles.

Following the feast, Chairman of the nominating committee George H. Wilcox read the names of the church officers selected for the year which were accepted by unanimous vote. The officers of the Sunday School were read and confirmed retroactive to September 1st, the beginning of the Sunday school year.

Chairman Wilcox announced the retirement of Charles E. House, as clerk after serving in the position for 40 years. His house was warmly applauded for his long and efficient service in church work. Mrs. Gertrude Purnell, assistant to Mr. House was appointed clerk. Mr. House remained as treasurer.

Following the feast, Chairman of the nominating committee George H. Wilcox read the names of the church officers selected for the year which were accepted by unanimous vote. The officers of the Sunday School were read and confirmed retroactive to September 1st, the beginning of the Sunday school year.

Church activities of the present day were reviewed by R. LaMotte Russell who spoke of the new parish house construction and benefits soon to be derived by the added space and conveniences of the new quarters.

Arthur N. Potter reviewed the past history of the church body since its inception in 1772 and pointed out that every 25 and 50 years were "building years" culminating in the present fine addition. Mr. Potter urged greater efforts along the lines of Sunday School activities in preparation for the development of the new church body, as well as continued financial support.

Mr. Johnson again rendered a message followed by the report of Miss Gertrude Carrier, superintendent of the primary department. Miss Carrier assured the members of the continual growth of the Sunday School with a total of 44 children at present enrolled and all departments growing. Interest manifested in the new building was shown by Miss Carrier in the report that the juniors had subscribed $3 and the primary children $18. In addition to class expenses and other expenditures. Forty-four teachers were reported as cooperating with parents in the school work.

Miss Clarice McMinn speaking in the absence of Mrs. Frances Howe urged a greater emphasis to be laid on Sunday School development from the elementary to the adult grades. Likening the church school work to the public schools with all the modern equipment available, Miss McMinn stressed the need of a finer and more appreciative vision of the church in dealing with its young.

Rev. Watson Woodruff the concluding speaker spoke of the good spirit shown and the high average attendance during the nine years of his pastorate, during which the church organization has rapidly advanced in numbers and effectiveness and in the wider range of influence in the community. Rev. Woodruff singled out the new church enlargement as the major development in the last decade and in this connection offered sincere thanks to the Masonic fraternity for the continued use of the Masonic Home. The pastor read the names of the eight members removed by death during the year, the congregation standing.

Pastor Woodruff outlined plans for a special Lenten Institute beginning in March and to continue during the five Lenten Sundays with special services in the early evening at which Congregational Missionary workers will speak.

The Center Church annual report available to all members at the meeting shows a total of 698 resident members, 270 male and 428 female, with a non-resident membership of 185 making a total of 883. The report of the treasurer showed the church to be in an excellent financial condition. The officers elected were as follows:

Clerk, Mrs. Gertrude Purnell; Treasurer, Charles E. House; Assistants, John J. Douglas and J. Rhey Braithwaite; Deacons, James A. Irvine, Ray C. Pillsbury; Church Committee, Mrs. Emma Lyons Nettleton, Miss Mildred Hutchinson, Miss Frances Howe, Sidney Wheaton, Mrs. James C. Robinson; Flower Committee, Mrs. Fred Carpenter, Miss Helen Chapman, Mrs. Samuel Gordon, Mrs. Anseley Trotter, Ushers, Charles F. Marshall, William H. Gardner, Herbert B. House, James Barr, Ray Warren, Roy Warren, Robert McComb, Ernest Chapman, Leslie Dotchin, Howard Turkington, William Braithwaite, Harvey Gould.

Sunday school officers: Superintendent, George H. Wilcox; Intermediate Dept., Clarice McMinn; Junior Dept., Mrs. Watson Woodruff; Primary Dept., Miss Gertrude Carrier; Kindergarten Dept., Miss Hazel Trotter; Nursery Dept., Mrs. Robert Dewey; Secretary, Miss Mildred Porter; Treasurer, Gessie Wickerman.

STUDENTS' STRIKE IN KOREA SPREADS

Tokio, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The arrest in Seoul of student leaders attempting to stage a parade with red flags and banners of the old Korean kingdom was reported today in vernacular press dispatches. The reports said police broke up a demonstration. Five American mission schools, of which three are for girls, were said to be involved in the student trouble at Seoul. One thousand students were arrested during a strike yesterday.

More students struck today, the dispatches said. Nearly all schools in the city were reported closed.

Many Released The majority of those arrested yesterday were released today, although about 200 remain in jail, including those taken into custody in today's disturbances both within and outside Seoul.

Girls' schools involved were the Ewha, Palwina and the Kyungin institutions. The Pichai and Kyungin girls' schools also figured in the trouble.

Japanese police authorities persisted in regarding the trouble as having been fomented by organizations with Communist tendencies but authoritative quarters in Tokio believed the motive was a racial one in which Korean students were protesting against Japanese ruling methods.

HOME OF POLITICIAN BOMBED IN CHICAGO

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The home of "Boss" Eiler, City Collector Morris Eiler, ward chief of the "bloody 20th" ward—was bombed early today.

Eiler and Mrs. Eiler were shaken but unhurt as the blackpowder bomb tore at the rear entrance of the Eiler apartment in a three story brick building. The maid, Anna Seaman, was cut from her bedroom, plaster that fell from her bedroom. The Eiler chauffeur asleep in the basement was not injured.

Eiler's son, Judge Emanuel Eiler of Superior Court who lives in the Eiler homestead in another part of the city, was given a police guard after he learned of the attempt against his father.

Police went back to April 10, 1928—primary election day—in their hunt for a possible motive. On that day, Eiler seeking election as committeeman from the 20th ward was opposed by a negro lawyer, Octavius Roy Granaday. Before the day was over Granaday had been killed. Only a few weeks ago a police captain and members of his squad were tried and acquitted of the Granaday murder.

GENERAL SCORES PROHIBITION LAW

Deplores Regime of Recklessness That Cost Over 1,500 Lives.

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—An appeal for "laws that are promulgated by ballots and not enforced by bullets," was voiced by Major General Clarence R. Edwards, war-time commander of the 93rd (Yankee) Division today, in addressing a 10th anniversary protest and memorial meeting for persons killed in enforcement of prohibition.

The meeting, called by the Liberal Civic League, whose purpose is repeal of the prohibition amendment, was held in historic Faneuil Hall.

Not Happy Occasion "We are gathered here, not in a joyful and jubilant mood," said General Edwards. "We do not recognize the regime of recklessness and ruin of a decade of prohibition as one that calls for a jubilee and jollification. The loss of over 1,500 human lives and the destruction of a huge amount of dollars worth of private property that have attended the enforcement of this law demand the most serious consideration and reflection of all thoughtful and decent citizens. The wanton deprivation of the inherent and sacred rights of you and me as citizens of this great republic must not be ignored any longer."

After declaring his views were "free from the prejudice of any sinister influence" the general praised the temperate conduct of members of the Yankee Division on their recent pilgrimage to Europe. He referred to a beverage list handed him in a dining car upon his return, which contained mineral waters and a well-known head ache remedy as "America's Offering to her manhood."

While stationed at Panama, General Edwards, said he established an Enlisted Men's Club, where light wines were served. "What had been a veritable hell was transformed into a community of sober, industrious men," he said.

Lauds Canada's Law He praised government control of liquor in Canada and Sweden and said it would require annual appropriations of $500,000,000 and a force greater than the present Army and Navy to enforce prohibition in this country. He said he opposed the suggested placing of 10,000 armed men along the hitherto unguarded Canadian border. "Are we to lose the friendship and cooperation of those splendid citizens of the provinces who receive in exchange their emnity, their suspicion and their hostility?" he asked.

Referring to the subject of equal opportunity for all, he said: "I am impressed with the evidence of increasing graft and opportunities for illegal and illicit wealth during these days of prohibition. The riches of the underworld so flagrantly flaunted before us in our large cities, and the retirement of law enforcement officials in possession of enormous fortunes can do nothing but break down the morale of our hardworking, industrious citizens."

Labor's Reward "How can we talk seriously about the rewards of honest labor when on all sides we are encountered with examples of individuals and groups of individuals who have gained a material affluence only rivalled by that of the monarchs of old, wholly and solely by means of violating a law that is absolutely non-enforceable? The time has surely come for America to stop this flow of criminal profiteering, and to use every means possible to remove this cancerous disease that is slowly and surely, knowing away at the very vitals."

Referring to the state enforcement act, he said: "Get rid of that useless, unnecessary and ineffective piece of legislation. In doing so you will save notice that Massachusetts stands convinced that prohibition is a failure and that some immediate remedy must be obtained to eliminate the entire prohibitory structure. Government regulation strikes one as the most effective remedy we can work for. Let us enjoy laws that are promulgated by ballots and not enforced by bullets."

Two Feature Bill Including Irene Bordoni in "Paris" Ends Run Today.

The dancing, singing, talking, color sensation "Paris with the famous French musical comedy star, Irene Bordoni, in the leading role, and "Darkened Rooms," with Evelyn Brent in her first starring production, will be shown at the State for the last time today.

The all-talking picture with all the elements of perfect entertainment—pathos, romance, comedy and drama, heads the new program for Friday and Saturday. The picture is based on the popular novel, "Children," written by Edith Wharton, and concerns the revolt of the younger generation against the divorce-crazed, thrill thirsty beards of their elders.

The surrounding program will include "The King of the Kings," featuring a young woman, is featured in the leading female role. Co-starring with her as the young American who befriends the unfortunate "The King of the Kings" is the French actress, Huntley Gordon.

Lillian Tashman are the featured parents. It is an answer to the oft asked question, "What becomes of the children in this world of marriage and divorce?" The picture, since its premiere in the large metropolitan centers, has created a world of critical comment, and is really one picture well worth seeing. It is the inside story of society's smart set.

The fascinating people you read about in the rotogravure sections. You live with these thrill hungry sons and daughters of millionaires in the playgrounds of Palm Beach, Deauville and the Riviera.

The surrounding program will include chapter four of the talking serial, "The King of the Kings," the latest sound news, a talking comedy and movie-tone vaudeville acts.

TRAPPED MINERS DEAD

Dixon, Ky., Jan. 16.—(AP)—The two miners entombed Saturday in mines of the Melton Coal Mining Co., near here met death from lack of air, probably the following day. Desperate efforts yesterday by scores of relatives and neighbors to reach them, in the hope that somehow they had survived the fire and the sealing of the mine, resulted late last night in the finding of the bodies of the men, Aaron Bridwell, 31 and Dorris Woods, 40, in the small chamber.

The mine had been sealed Saturday when hope for the men first was abandoned so as to smother the fire. The fire was started by a gasoline engine in the shaft.

BEST FOR INDIGESTION

Thousands With Poor, Weak Stomachs Now Taking Pepsin in New Liquid Form. PHARMACISTS PRAISE IT Stops Acute Kind in Few Minutes—What a Blessing

Here's a delightful elixir with plenty of real pepsin, some Menthol and just enough of several other stomach correctives to make it capable of putting almost any weak, rundown, abused stomach in first class shape—and it tastes like the most palatable nectar.

The men who created this supremely good formula know their business—they don't believe in nasty tasting medicine and the people are with them for Dare's Mentha Pepsin—that's the name of this having a tremendous sale all over the country. They have passed along the word to every druggist in the country that if Dare's Mentha Pepsin doesn't bring serene comfort to any worn-out, rundown, sickly, aching stomach that the owner of that most important internal organ can have his or her money back.

Stubborn indigestion of years standing is hard to get rid of, but Dare's Mentha Pepsin will do it; one enthusiastic druggist asserts.—It's real pepsin in liquid form—the right way to take pepsin. Any druggist always has a big supply on hand.—Adv.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Why The Gears Stick Difficulty in pulling gears out of mesh usually can be traced to the fact that the engine is acting as a brake. If the driver would press on the brake pedal and then pull on the gear shift lever he would have no trouble.

Often the car is on a slight grade when parked and the gears are left in second or reverse. Not noticing the grade the driver releases the holding brake the minute he gets at the wheel and then tries to shift to neutral. Of course the gears stick because they are under a slight load.

If he would press on the brake pedal the load on the gears would be removed and no trouble would be experienced shifting back to neutral.

Very often owners drive into the garage and leave the car in low unconsciously, experiencing trouble with "sticking gears" when they try to start off in the morning.

Which Do You Prefer? A better understanding of the way cars are designed, to handle shock from rough roads helps materially in leading a motorist to prefer that sort of ride he prefers. Most people have only a vague idea of why they like the riding qualities of certain cars and why they do not like that of others.

It is obvious that when a car goes over a bump in the road or into a chuck hole the shock has got to be absorbed in some way or other by the car. This shock absorption may be concentrated or drawn out into installments or, to put it another way, may be a sharp jolt or a series of gentle disturbances of the car.

Some people prefer to "have it over with" as in having a tooth pulled. Others like to sway up and down and take their shock in easy doses. Thus, we have cars that appear to ride hard and those that ride soft, with a great variety of compromises in between.

High Pressure or Low When trying to get along with a slow leaking tire the average owner often is puzzled to know whether to inflate to a fairly high pressure or simply to put in enough air to keep the tire from sagging. Free air pumps are convenient along the highway and he appreciates that if he stops occasionally he may be able to save himself the trouble of changing to the spare.

The first thing to determine is the nature of the leak. If the trouble is due to a leaky valve, it is best not to use too high a pressure since this overtaxes the valve. But if there is a nail in the tire higher pressure often will stop the leakage temporarily.

When the inner tube is at higher pressure it holds the shoe tighter and prevents the nail from moving about and letting air leak past. Inner tube patches will hold better and cease their own leaking if pressure is higher.

Checks Accuracy of Job Owners who earnestly want to do a good job of servicing their cars frequently do not know just when they can consider the work as being completely and satisfactorily done. As one owner puts it, "Poor guessing often undoes much of my efforts." This is well illustrated in the case of valve grinding. Many owners do not work long enough on the job for best results while others grind too much. Lacking some way to know when they have struck a happy medium they often do a poor job without meaning to.

SERVICE for the MOTORIST

Valves are properly seated if they will bounce back when dropped into their seats. If the valve drops with a thud the indications are that the work can't be called finished.

Either the grinding is incomplete or the valve stem is bent. Before spending more time grinding it is best to see that the stem is true.

Steering That's To Easy It does not seem possible but a number of motorists who try new cars complain to salesmen that steering is too easy. This is especially true of men who are accustomed to keeping a firm grip on the wheel.

If you have been shopping for a new car and have noticed this about steering, here are the facts: Salesmen usually carry an abnormally high pressure in front wheels. First of all, it makes for easier steering which appeals to women drivers. Second, it makes any car ride steadier. Third, it prevents shimmying at high speed. The salesman figures at high speed, the car is steady, and for fast driving higher front wheel pressures are imperative.

To get a good compromise in steering it is merely a matter of carrying a normal pressure in the front tires.

Reveals The High Spots When dragging of a brake cannot be cured by more careful adjustment of the band, the indications are that the brake drum and band are not concentric with each other. This sounds a bit technical, but it means that either the band or the drum is a little out of round.

The next question to decide is which of the two is at fault. This is easier than it seems. First let us consider the possibility of the band being out of shape enough to drag. Is it evident that this dragging, this scraping, will be constant as the wheel spins round? Now consider a high spot on the drum itself. This will scrape only at those points where the band happens to be tightest.

Where there are two bands to each drum the situation is a little more complicated but the method of deciding the point is the same.

Adjust On The Road Like carburetor adjusting, spark timing should be done out on the open road and not in the service station. This is particularly true of engines with higher compression ratios.

Timing has to be very much more accurately with high compression. Since a motor can be timed faster as it runs faster the only thing to do is to go out on the road and set the spark to match the sort of speed you ordinarily indulge in. Spark is not set so far advanced

Rash Romance

By LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY
After a whirlwind courtship JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing office, is married to Arthur Knight, executive of the firm, Knight is a widower, father of two children, TONY, his 18-year-old daughter, is in Europe, and JUNIOR, 16, is attending school.

Judith has no intimate friends, though on several occasions she keeps mysterious appointments with a young man known as DAN. The first week of their honeymoon in Bermuda is a paradise of sunny days and moonlit nights. Then comes a cablegram, forwarded from New York, in which Tony Knight, who is sailing for home, Knight says he and Judith must return to meet Tony's boat. They depart two days later. Since neither of Knight's children has been told about the marriage, Judith is skeptical of her welcome.

Knight has no such worries and begins making eager plans for Christmas which is only one week distant. Immediately after landing they drive to Knight's Long Island home. Judith steps from the car, sways and is about to fall when Knight catches her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER X
Judith put one hand to her head. "But it's nothing," she insisted, smiling shakily. "Just dizziness, I guess, from the car. Hard to realize I'm on land again."

Arthur regarded her anxiously. "Sure you feel better?"
"Of course, I'm all right now."
They went up the walk to the house. A woman in gray morning dress stood waiting in the doorway. "Mrs. Wheeler, the housekeeper," Knight explained. "Been here for years."

As they came up the steps Knight spoke heartily:
"Good morning Mrs. Wheeler. Fine to be home again. Judith, this is Mrs. Wheeler, who will tell you everything there is to know about the house. Mrs. Wheeler, Mrs. Knight."

Judith took the housekeeper's hand and smiled. She saw a large middle-aged woman with an air of capability. Mrs. Wheeler was florid-faced and wore glasses. Her dark hair was piled into a neat knob at the top of her head. She seemed aggressively alert.

"Good morning, Mrs. Knight," the woman said. "I hope you had a good voyage, Ma'am?"
"Oh, yes, a fine voyage, thank you."

They had stepped into a broad hallway which seemed to be the center of the house. A winding stairway arose in the background. Doors at each side led into larger rooms. Judith caught a quick impression of dull, unobtrusive furnishings. Nothing stood out as being anything but there was a huge bouquet of red roses in a hideous vase upon a table. Everything glistened and shone with polish. It must all have been put in readiness hurriedly and the girl felt she should be appreciative.

"How nice everything looks!" Judith said, turning to Mrs. Wheeler. "Oh, I shall have to ask you a great many questions and have a long talk this afternoon with Mr. Wheeler. I know you can tell me much."

A younger girl in a maid's uniform stepped forward to take Judith and Arthur's wraps.
"This is Harriet," Mrs. Wheeler introduced the maid. "She will show you to your room. How do you do, Harriet?" Judith answered, offering the girl her hand. Knight murmured a greeting, half of which was not heard.

Mrs. Wheeler followed Judith and Arthur into the living room where logs were crackling in the fireplace. It was a long room with windows on the east and north. Morning sunlight came streaming through the ornate curtains. Heavy over-stuffed furniture and several chairs of mahogany stood about. There were innumerable footstools, small tables and occasional pieces. Two Chinese rugs covered the floor, very good ones. Nothing was radically wrong with the room, Judith told herself. Everything there was in good taste. The whole simply failed to fit together. Its atmosphere (if there could be said to be a trace of such a quality) was stolid, unintelligent wealth.

More red roses bloomed on the mantle and large reading table. Judith was determined to be cheerful.
"The flowers are lovely," she told the winking maid. "How thoughtful to have ordered them."

"We always have flowers when the house is open, Ma'am," the housekeeper said primly, but Judith was certain the praise had pleased her.
"When would you like luncheon, Ma'am?" the housekeeper continued.

Knight had drawn a cigar from a humidor and was lighting it.
"Have it any time you want, dear," he told Judith. "You won't mind if I don't wait, do you? Thought I'd like to run in and get hold of R. G. (R. G. Hunter) before he gets off to the club. I'll be back quite early but I'd rather not take time for lunch. Sure you don't mind?"

"Not in the least!" Judith assured him, smiling. What else could she say to a husband so eager to be off?
"You can serve me in about an hour and a half," she told Mrs. Wheeler. "I'm going to want to rest a bit."

"Would you like to go upstairs now, Ma'am?"
"Why—I—" Judith hesitated. "Yes, I suppose I would. You're going to leave right away, aren't you, Arthur?"

He had already summoned Harriet and was putting on his top coat. "Be back by four o'clock sure," he told Judith. "Rest up. Mrs. Wheeler'll attend to anything you want. Goodbye, dear."

They kissed. Then Knight pulled the front door open and was gone. Judith felt lost in the big house. "Let's look about down stairs a little before we go to my room," she said to Mrs. Wheeler. She was going to add that it seemed to be a very large house, then changed her mind, remembering that servants must be properly impressed.

The Knight residence was a large one. Architecturally it was attractive, but furnishings and draperies throughout lacked brightness and modernity. On the first floor there were the living room, dining room, library, a smaller room where Knight kept a desk which was known as "the study," and on the west side of the house, half-enclosed in glass, a "sun room."

Upstairs Judith found another central hallway corresponding to the one below, and six bedrooms. Somewhere at the back of the house there were quarters for the servants.

Harriet, the new maid, had been hired only a week ago, Mrs. Wheeler said. Then there were two other maids, one of whom had been dismissed after the house was closed. Mrs. Wheeler felt that she had been extremely fortunate in obtaining Cora's services again. Bert, the chauffeur, took care of the walks and lawn and did the odd jobs that needed a man's hands.

"And here's your room, Ma'am." The housekeeper drew back the door and Judith entered a bedroom. It was not the largest of the six, but it had three windows and an air of freshness and sunlight. The furniture was old-fashioned walnut and the girl looked at it instantly. A quaint, sedate charm pervaded the room which had a doorway leading into another chamber.

"Mr. Knight's," the housekeeper volunteered demurely.
Judith looked into the room beyond. It was much like all the others which she had seen.
"I think it's beautiful," said Judith.

The triumph of the big house was yet to come. Judith supposed she had seen all of it, but no—
"You'll want to see Miss Tony's room," the housekeeper urged.

"Here—down the hall." Wondering Judith walked after her. Mrs. Wheeler threw the door open and stepped back. Judith looked into a lavish French boudoir.

The room was very girlish—that is, it was exactly what the taste of a 17-year-old school girl would be likely to dictate if she had been told to instruct a decorator exactly how to furnish a bedroom, sparing no expense.

"Her father gave it to Miss Tony on her last birthday," the older woman explained. "My—ain't it elegant though?"
"She's coming, you know, tomorrow morning," Judith said.

"Yes. So my message said. Well, we'll have plenty going on all right with Tony here!" Judith scarcely heard. She was still marveling at the lavish rose and blue taffeta curtains, the velvet chair lounge with its innumerable lace pillows, the bed, dressing table and other pieces of Louis XIV furniture. Genuine woods, delicately constructed and prodigiously expensive! There was a lace coverlet thrown over the bed. A whole family of French pierrot and pierrette dolls languishing together upon the coverlet. Souvenirs of a dozen parties were cluttered about.

"Tony never would let me change any of those things," Mrs. Wheeler was quick to defend herself. "She said she liked things sort of careless. My—all this cost a lot! But Mr. Knight's such a good man. And he never has the heart to deny Tony anything. She could have the moon if she asked him for it."

Tony—Tony—Tony.
"Do you want to see Arthur Junior's room?" the housekeeper asked.

"Thank you," Judith spoke up quickly. "I do want to rest and freshen up so I think that can wait. I want a very simple luncheon, Mrs. Wheeler. Just soup and an omelette, if you can manage it."

"It'll be ready in half an hour, Ma'am," Mrs. Wheeler assured her. Judith returned to the room which was to be hers and shut the door. She looked about. The charming old walnut was beautiful but it would have to go. She felt like an interloper.

She slipped off her garments, picked up a silk robe and stepped into the severe white-tiled bathroom. The ceiling was the only touch of luxury the bedroom afforded.

She splashed in warm water and soapsuds and the steamy moisture crept up from the tub and curled her wavy locks tighter. Then she slipped on her frivolous little leather mules, pulled her robe about her and returned to the bedroom to dress.

The afternoon was devoted to household duties. Judith pulled the beige crepe frock over her head again, paused before the dressing table mirror to take an inventory of her appearance and then went down stairs.

She found Mrs. Wheeler in the reception hall.
"Luncheon's ready, Ma'am. I was just going to call you."

Judith followed into the big, square dining room. It was rather dark, and mahogany furniture added to this impression. The table linen was exquisite and showy and there was a low bowl of roses. At the head of the table a chair was placed in front of it was service laid for one.

Judith sat down. A moment later Harriet appeared bearing a tray with a bowl of steaming broth. It was chicken soup with rice, rich and well seasoned. Judith ate it slowly.

She was here in Arthur Knight's home, a bride, and she was having her first meal alone.

Reflects Newest Tendency in Wrap-Around; That Gives Figure Smart Slenderness

By ANNETTE

A pebble finished wool crepe in dark green tones that answers many requirements for casual daytime wear, in its smart wrapped flaring skirt treatment, and even hemline that falls just below the calf of the leg.

The collarless neckling is caught with pin inverted tucks at end of V-opening at side. Shirring at either side of moulded bodice at normal waistline creates a slight blousing above. The lower part of the bodice below waistline accents hip yoke.

The circular skirt is in three sections and is seamed and stitched to lower edge of bodice.

It's all so simple, even for the woman who hasn't ever sewed before.

Style No. 144 is obtainable in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. In the medium size, 4 yards of 38-inch material with 1/2 yard of 35-inch contrasting for n/w bow is sufficient.

GIRL SCOUTS Council.
The Manchester Girl Scouts Council met Tuesday afternoon, January 14, with Mrs. J. Clarke Baker. The following members were present: Mrs. W. M. Brownell, Mrs. Jessie L. Winterbottom, Mrs. Frederick Snow, Mrs. C. I. Balch, Mrs. Louis Grant, Mrs. Nelson Smith, Mrs. Stephen Hale, Mrs. Fred H. Norton, Mrs. Earl Seaman, Mrs. Clarence Quimby and Mrs. Baker. Mrs. Lawrence Case has accepted an invitation to become a member of the Council. Much Girl Scout business was transacted, following which a social hour with refreshments was enjoyed after adjournment of the meeting.

Officers' Association.
The January meeting of the Girl Scout Officers' association was held at the home of Mrs. Johnson on the eighth. A buffet supper was served before the meeting. The meeting opened with repeating the Girl Scout promise. After the reading of the secretary-treasurer's reports, Mrs. Johnson reported that E. J. Holl has offered the Girl Scouts of Manchester the use of his land in Bolton for camp purposes. It was decided to accept the offer of Mr. Lapp to use a booth at the annual show of the Manchester Poultry association. At the February rally the contest will consist of second class first aid, taking two girls from each troop who are not members of the first aid course. The March rally will be in charge of Troop Four. The February meeting will be held on the fifth at the home of Mrs. Hawley.

January Rally.
This rally, held at the Hollister street school January 10, opened with the bugle call "assembly," and an exhibition by the drum and bugle corps. The playing and appearance of the corps showed much improve-

The WOMAN'S DAY

When you feel utterly unselfish and finds all the mussels and pathetic with the machine age and the relentless routing of modern life—when you feel you can't keep up with the procession any longer, and yet you dare not drop behind because you could never again catch up—

When you wonder why you do all the things you do, and realize it is probably just because everybody else is doing them—

Then, if you can't take a trip to the South Seas, set in shining blue water, with cocoanut palms and pandanus trees, and quaint huts—perhaps you might like to think about the life there.

No Food Problem
According to Lillian Eichler, little is expected of the Samoan housewife. Such modern conveniences as sewing machines, electric washers, telephones and trolleys never have troubled the smooth calmness of her days.

Outside the door of her hut is a nice cocoanut tree which supplies her with material for coconut pudding, cocoanut bread, and milk. Hard by is a breadfruit tree or two, insuring food 365 days out of the year, because the breadfruit can be chopped up, cached in a convenient corner, and will keep indefinitely.

Other trees that help solve the food problem are the banana, the mummy apple and the mango, and all the encouragement they need is just to be allowed to grow on the place.

And when the Samoan housewife wants a shore dinner, she wades out knee deep in the sea, ment. Mrs. Hawley presented the following badges: scholars, Roberta Hanson, troop 1; cook, Jane Grant, Ruth Cheney, troop 7; observer, Captain Agard, Captain Johnson; gold attendance stars, Thelma Jackson, Suzanne Batson, troop 7; 150-hour home service ribbon, Suzanne Batson, troop 7; second class badge, Jane Bandy, Captain Burch, Sarah Potts, Maud Armstrong, Esther Pickles, troop 1, Bernice Scolsky, troop 7; home service badge, Pearl Martin. The signaling contest was won by the team from troop 7, and the January banner was presented to Captain Buckland.

Mrs. Mary Taylor of the Manchester Evening Herald gave a short talk on various phases of a reporter's work and experiences. A special song by troop 2, the rally closed by formation of a circle and singing of "We're all together again," followed by the bugle call "taps." The meeting was in charge of Troop 2. The next rally will be on February 14, in charge of Troop 1.

First Aid Course
A course of about six lessons, preparing for examination for the first aid badge and first class first aid, will be given by Captain Johnson at her home, 20 Wellington road on Saturday mornings from 9:30 to 11, beginning January 18. Only second class scouts are eligible to take this course.

Drum and Bugle Corps
The corps will meet for practice at the Franklin school Thursday evening, January 16, at the usual hour.

Troop 5
The meeting was held Monday at 4 p. m. Dorothy Petersen, Grace Legg, Julia Converse, Lois Agard, Evelyn Foley, Eleanor Schrieber, and Agnes Shearer passed their table setting tests. The registration cards were given out at the last meeting. Eunice Brown received her registration card for the position of second lieutenant. Mrs. Norton was a visitor at our last meeting. Doris Petersen was elected patrol leader of patrol 4 to take Eunice Brown's place. Several of the second class scouts are planning to attend.

The first aid given at the home of Mrs. Johnson. Catherine Patten, scribe.

Troop 6
Our meeting this week opened with the Promise. We practiced signaling, and judging. They had our patrol corners, Louise Berggren and Doris Gibson were invested as tenderfeet last week. We played indoor baseball. The meeting closed with the good-night circle. Evelyn Peckham, scribe.

Troop 7.
At the January 6 meeting of the following girls passed a point of the star of the nature quest: Thelma Jackson, Beulah Quinn, Marguerite

Button Trims.
A new hat of natural neora straw, in a mushroom shape, has a couple of dozen little buttons marching up over the crown from one side to the other for trimming.

Dead Whites.
Many Palm Beach types prefer dead white to off-whites. It is an indication of the general appreciation of dead white with suntanned skins.

Easy Housework
The Samoan man has been trained to ask for vegetables and fresh fruits; he does not expect much cooking, so there is no provision for it. Some cooking is done over a fire in front of the house. There are no tables to set nor dishes to wash, because flat leaves of the ti plant are used for plates, and knives and forks have never been allowed to take precedence over fingers.

There are no beds to make, because the Samoans sleep on mats, and no sweeping to do because the floor is of gravel or ground stone, and the dust doesn't make any difference.

Like to Try It?
As a matter of fact, housekeeping and living are reduced to the minimum, and clothes are just about as intricate as Mother Hubbard's, social obligations are few, and life is as simple and uncomplicated as it could be.

Of course, you might ask, what do the Samoan women do with all the time they save, and the answer would be that they do not use it for the contemplation of life, for the pursuit of the arts or for useful toil. But doesn't it sound rather marvelous? And wouldn't it be a great life—for a month or so?

Today is the ANNIVERSARY
EIGHTEENTH AMENDMENT

On Jan. 16, 1920, the 18th amendment to the United States Constitution went into effect.

The amendment provided, in part, that:
"The manufacture, sale, or transportation of intoxicating liquors within, the importation thereof into, or the exportation thereof from the United States and territory subject to the jurisdiction thereof for beverage purposes is hereby prohibited. The Congress and the several states shall have concurrent power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation."

Today, also, is the anniversary of the recognition, by France, of the independence of the United States, on Jan. 16, 1778.

On Jan. 16, 1872, Congress passed a general amnesty law.
And on Jan. 16, 1754, George Washington returned to Virginia after a trip to Lake Erie as envoy for Governor Dinwiddie.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority
PROPER HEALTH PROGRAMS VITAL TO MODERN FACTORY SYSTEM

By DR. MORRIS FISHBKIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

More than two hundred years have passed since a famous Italian, Bernardino Ramazzini, wrote a book in which he considered particularly the diseases that effect workers in various industries.

He surveyed the metal workers, glassmakers, potters, painters, dyers, tanners, bakers, millers, masons, barbers, wrestlers, and other occupations and called attention to the various diseases that afflicted people because of their trades. Modern physicians, reconsidering these facts, find little new to add to what Ramazzini observed.

Of course, we have such new occupations as steamship building, airplane, of which he could not write because the occupations simply did not exist in his time. Chemistry, too, has made tremendous strides in the last two centuries, and there are new chemical hazards, particularly in the nature of toxic gases which the ancients did not even dream.

With the coming of the machines and the building of the great industries, more and more industrial plants have seen the wisdom of having special departments devoted to health and safety of the workmen. The saving in hours of labor, in payments made as compensation of disease and injury and in more efficient work, more than compensates for any sum that may be spent on the health and safety departments.

In one factory changes in illumination increase the output. In another factory the provision of adequate safeguards to machinery lessens industrial accidents. The provision of rest periods may increase greatly the total output.

In a recent survey of the work of a department of industrial medicine the Journal of the American Medical Association points out four specific ways in which the industrial surgeon may be of benefit to the plant and to the workmen.

The first duty is to fit every worker to the type of employment and to the quantity of work that is suited to his health and his ability. Furthermore, he must be able to carry on his work without danger or impairing himself or his fellow workmen. Second, the industrial surgeon studies the conditions in the plant as they concern the individual workman, the group and the employer and makes every adjustment possible in the interest of health and safety. The department of industrial medicine also educates the workers in personal hygiene and in accident prevention.

Finally, the industrial surgeon makes a study of time lost through illness, through accident or for other reasons and endeavors to save such time for the employer and the employe by getting at the cause.

When Babies CRY

Babies will cry, often for no apparent reason. You may not know what's wrong, but you can always give Castoria. This soon has your little one comforted; if not, you should call a doctor.

Don't experiment with medicines intended for the stronger systems of adults! Most of those little upsets are soon soothed away by a little of this pleasant-tasting, gentle-acting children's remedy that children like.

It may be the stomach, or may be the little bowels. Or in the case of older children, a sluggish, constipated condition. Castoria is still the thing to give. It is almost certain to clear up any minor ailment, and could by no possibility do the youngest child the slightest harm. So it's the first thing to think of when a child has a coated tongue; won't play, can't sleep, is fretful or out of sorts. Get the genuine; it always has the H. H. Fletcher's signature on the package.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
© 1930 by NEA Service, Inc.

I saw a painting one day that struck me as having a strong under-surface meaning.

It was a fisherman in a heavy boat in a rough sea, pulling enormous oars through the waves.

In the end of the boat was a tree and beside the man, both tiny hands on the heavy timber of one oar, sat a little girl. They were taking a tree home to the little cottage on shore—an evergreen tree.

The child had no hat and in her thin little dress—one wondered. The grizzled seaman was dressed for weather. The boat was built for storms and the oars thick and dependable. The very tree had an appearance of strength, for pines grow slowly and they grow strong. The only delicate thing in the picture was the child. And yet—she was the reason for the whole affair. It was very obvious that she was responsible for the expression of happy contentment on her father's face.

The child was helping to row the boat, but not in the way she suspected. Aren't our children helping us to row the boat? Do we realize just how much they are helping? We are so accustomed to thinking that we are doing it all for them—doing everything for them and getting nothing back—that we don't stop to think what they are giving us.

Children are the greatest powers for good in our lives. We probably derive a greater, richer reaction from our daily contacts with them than from any other force that touches us in a day's journey.

A mother in a house with a family of little children is in the richest environment a human being can have. Life may be rough, like the sea; she may bear the scars of storms; the boat may be none too comfortable, yet the young hands beside her on the oars are symbolical of something sure and certain—guiding her to sanctuary like the hands of unseen angels.

We can't reach perfection without trial. We are likely to question the justice of that trial sometimes. The sea gets too rough—the waves too high.

And yet the reason for it all, the little child beside us, gives us more courage and strength than we think.

Official Averages Show Simmons Drove in Most Runs With Babe Ruth Second and Alexander Third; Foxx Whiffed Most.

BY PAUL R. HICKELSON

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Al Simmons performed his duty as cleanup man for the champion Philadelphia Athletics in championship style last season, leading the circuit in the important business of batting in runs. Official 1929 averages revealed today.

The heavy swinging Philadelphia participant in 143 games and drove in 157 of the 901 runs scored all season by Connie Mack's team. Thirty four times he scored himself by home runs and came home with 80 more runs through the assistance of his mates.

Babe Ruth playing eight less games than Simmons was second with 154. Dale Alexander, husky Detroit rookie, finished third by driving in 137 runs, in 155 games while Gehrig was next sending 128 runs across in 154 games.

The best harvester of bases on balls for 1929 was Max Bishop of the Athletics. He was given 128 passes to first base in 129 games. Blue St. Louis was second with 125 in 151 games. Joe Sewell retained his title as the hardest man in the American League to strike out, tying his own world record of four strikeouts in 152 games.

Jimmy Foxx, possessing a hit or nothing complex, was the easiest man to strike out among the regular batsmen, churning the air seventy times or two more than Gehrig and ten more than Ruth. As a club, St. Louis received the most bases on balls, 589 while the Yanks struck out collectively 518 times.

Local Sport Chatter

East Hartford continues to lose. Last night Coach Johnny McGrath's squad took its ninth successive beating at the hands of Weaver, 32-20.

This nearly approaches Manchester High's record for last year of ten straight defeats, ended by a victory over Rockville.

Meriden High came back into the victory column with a startling win over Bulkeley High of Hartford yesterday, 17 to 13.

West Hartford comes to Manchester Friday evening for the first home game since the Alumni encounter. West Hartford is confident and it is up to Manchester to do some tall stepping and win for a victory means a better chance of going to the Yale tourney.

Bristol High meets the undefeated Middletown team in Bristol this week, the outcome of which will have quite a bearing on the C. C. I. L. title. The victor gains possession of first place in the league standing.

RUNNER IN "DUICH" New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The rigors of a warm New York winter for one who is accustomed to Finland's cold, are threatening to cause trouble for Eino Purje this year just as they did for his famous countryman, Paavo Nurmi, a year ago. Purje scheduled to make his first appearance of the indoor track season at the Pastime A. C. games last night withdrew at the last minute because of a case of tonsillitis and promptly found himself in bed with amateur athletic union authorities.

Dan F. Ferris, of the A. A. U. said the failure to compete would be investigated today.

COLUMBIA BEATS PRINCETON, 38-25

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Judging by its first league game, the Columbia basketball team must be reckoned with in the eastern intercollegiate league race. The Lions played last night and trounced a strong Princeton quintet by a 38-25 score.

The victory put Columbia in a tie with Yale which also has won one game. Pennsylvania remained on top of the standing with two victories and no defeats. A victory and a defeat put Princeton third, ahead of Cornell and Dartmouth which have yet to win a game.

TRAFLETON TO FIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—George Trafletton, only known conqueror of Charles Arthur Shires will make his second stand in the ring tonight by tackling Rudy Hoffman, Chicago life-saver and physical culture instructor in a four round bout at the Jal Al Fronton.

The big football player will outweigh Hoffman by 80 pounds.

Battalino To Risk Title On Chocolate

Considerable surprise was created in boxing circles today with the news that Bat Battalino of Hartford, world's featherweight champion, has agreed to risk his title plying the famous undefeated Kid Chocolate who is generally recognized as the best boxer for his weight in the world not even barring Mr. Battalino himself.

The contest, one of 16 rounds, is slated to take place at Madison Square Garden on Monday night, March 10. On January 31, Battalino meets Al Singer in the Garden in Singer and Chocolate, many think Battalino has bitten off more than he can chew, but a victory over these two men, especially by a knockout which, after all, is the most probable, would establish the Hartford boy beyond reproach.

Monday night Bat goes against Lew Massey down in Philadelphia.

FOUL LINE BOWLING HANDICAPS SASELA

Games-Gallivan Team Beat Manchester 17 Pins and 4 Out of 5 Games.

The Gallivan-Games bowling team of Hartford won four out of five games from Berthold and Sasela of Manchester at the Charter Oak alleys here last night chiefly through the inability of Sasela to roll foul line.

Three of Sasela's scores were under the century mark which is something very unusual for a chap who sports an average of over 117 to lead the town league. The visitors finished seventeen pins ahead of Manchester.

The teams will meet again Friday night at the Wooster alleys in Hartford. Games, champion of Hartford, rolled very impressive scores last night but Gallivan, like Sasela, dropped below 100 three times.

GROVE CITY WINS 2 GAMES IN A ROW

Coach Bob Thorn has shifted George Stavitsky, former Rec Five star to a forward berth on his Grove City College team. It was learned today, that Thorn had desired to make such a move at the outset of the season but was handicapped by a lack of guards.

Grove City cleaned up both of its games last week, by defeating Adrian 32 to 30 on Tuesday and St. Francis 35 to 19 on Friday. In the latter game Stavitsky played left forward and scored five baskets from the floor.

"Hank" McCann played part of a game at Stavitsky's berth but didn't happen to get in the scoring column.

Saturday night the Grove quintet meets Carnegie Tech on the latter's home floor.

INJURED ARM PUTS DELANEY ON SHELF

Former World's Champ Will Never Fight Again; It May Cripple the Limb.

Bridgeport, Conn., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Jack Delaney, retired light heavy champion of the world has fought his last fight. Dr. George W. Hawley, bone specialist, wrote "Amis" to Delaney's ring career last night when he declared that injury to the right arm which has bothered the former champion for two years threatened to cripple the arm permanently unless Delaney abandons boxing. With tears in his eyes, Delaney heard the doctor's decision after an x-ray examination and hung up his gloves in Andy Parker's gym.

FIRE SWEEPS BASEMENT OF CHICAGO HOSPITAL

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Fire swept the basement of Mercy hospital early today, alarming many of the 350 patients and resulting in six firemen being overcome by fumes from burning paint.

While firemen were extinguishing the flames below, nurses moved silently through the hospital rooms, restoring quiet. It was not necessary to remove any patients.

The condition of the six firemen overcome by fumes was not serious, although all required hospital attention. Other firemen had to be led from the fume-filled basement.

During the excitement incident to the fire a child was born to Mrs. Veronica O'Neill in one of the wards.

The X-ray films of the hospital were stored far from the blaze, in a roof penthouse.

STUDENT KILLS SELF AFTER HE'S SUSPENDED

Corinth, N. Y., Jan. 16.—(AP)—Suspended from high school for drinking home made wine in the school building, Eugene Clothier, 14 years old, committed suicide last night.

Principal Herbert A. Beckman of the Corinth high school said he found young Clothier and another boy drinking home made wine in the cloak room yesterday, and suspended Clothier when investigation disclosed he had brought the wine to school. The boy was in his first year at the high school.

Clothier was found in bed in his home in Saratoga avenue this morning, with a discharged .22 calibre rifle beside him and a bullet wound in his chest corresponding to the calibre of the rifle.

In the absence of a coroner, Dr. A. J. Parmentier examined the body and declared the wound was self-inflicted.

JUSTICE IS SWIFT IN MASSACHUSETTS

Boston, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Criminal justice in Massachusetts has never been more swift or sure than during 1929, the annual report of Attorney General Joseph E. Warner says. A total of 17,534 cases were disposed of in the state during the year and only four homicide cases are pending.

The attorney general lauds the work of the district attorneys and their assistants. "Violators of a law in this state can find no comfort in any reliance upon a congested docket either to delay trial or to barter the riddance of a case for a plea to a lesser offense," he said.

The report was issued yesterday. A revision and clarification of the criminal statutes by a commission of wide practical experience in criminal law to be appointed by the governor is recommended.

OIL PRICE DROPS

New York, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The Standard Oil Company of New Jersey, through its subsidiary the Carter Oil Co., has made price reductions ranging from 19 cents to 41 cents a barrel, depending on gravity, on crude oil in Oklahoma and Kansas.

The minimum price under the new schedule is 66 cents a barrel for crude oil of 25.9 degrees, a reduction of 19 cents. The maximum price for 44 gravity and above is $1.44 a barrel, a reduction of 41 cents.

These changes are the first made since May 20, 1929, and follows closely those announced yesterday by the Humble Oil Co., another Standard of New Jersey subsidiary, in the various light oil fields of Texas.

BANK OF ENGLAND REPORT

London, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The weekly statement of the Bank of England shows the following changes in pounds: Total reserve increased 12,418,000; circulation decreased 10,979,000; bullion increased 1,439,000; other securities decreased 7,500,000; public deposits increased 10,498,000; notes reserve increased 12,284,000; government securities decreased 8,835,000.

The proportion of the bank's reserve to liability is 46.74 per cent compared with 36.02 last week. Rate of discount 5 per cent.

FREEZE HALTS FLOOD

Chicago, Jan. 16.—(AP)—The central Mississippi valley was the land of freezing waters today.

Near zero temperatures choked rivers into vast rough mirrors of ice and slush and made misery rampant among those driven from their homes in the flooded regions.

Unseasonable mildness filled the valleys of Mississippi tributaries with melting snows; rivers ran wild beyond flood stages—but the freeze today halted a further rise.

None of the river towns reported loss of life. Boats were necessary in many areas to remove marooned residents.

At Ottawa, Ohio, near Cleveland, more than 200 people were safe today only after being removed from second story windows as the Blanchard river crept up the banks.

REID JOINS SEARCH FOR CARL EIELSON

Nome, Alaska, Jan. 16.—(AP)—Captain Pat Reid, Canadian flyer, and two companions were in Nome today after having spent eleven days in flying here from Fairbanks, a distance of about 800 miles.

Reid and his colleagues, William Hughes and Jim Hutchinson, expect to participate in the search for Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, who have been lost since November 9, as soon as their cabin plane can be put into shape.

The Reid plane, one of three sent from the United States to participate in the Eielson-Borland hunt, was forced down Jan. 4 at Ungalik river while on its way here from Fairbanks, and was damaged in landing. The flyers made temporary repairs and reached Unalakleet a week later. They flew here from Unalakleet yesterday.

A campaign for continuing the search for Eielson and Borland will be mapped out at a conference to be held here soon by Alfred J. Loemen, manager of the relief expedition and pilots who are to engage in the search.

MUST SELL STOCK

Washington, Jan. 16.—The Baltimore and Ohio railroad was ordered to divest itself of the capital stock of the Western Maryland railway in an order of the Interstate Commerce Commission today holding that the Baltimore and Ohio had violated the Clayton Anti-Trust Act.

The Baltimore and Ohio was ordered to dispose of its holdings in the smaller road within six months, and none may be sold or transferred to any stockholder, officer, director, or any one otherwise connected in any way with the B. and O., or any of its subsidiaries or affiliated companies.

A total of $18,673,049 has been invested in stock of the Western Maryland by the Baltimore and Ohio. In ordering the divestment the commission held the Western Maryland to be a competing road.

Commissioner Farrell dissented from the majority view holding that the Clayton Act was erroneously interpreted.

ERRORGRAMS

IT'S A BACTRIAN CAMEL. I COPIED IT FROM A PICTURE.

WHAT HAVE YOU DRAWN, ALFRED?

ABCDEFHIJKLMNOPQRSTUVWXYZ

THAT'S J.C. Campbell's

MTRLSEUB
Found in the buffet and on the stage.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) One of the sails is missing from the windmill. (2) The boy's name is Alfred, as indicated by the signature on the drawing board, and it is spelled incorrectly in the girl's conversation. (3) The camel is an Arabian dromedary, which has one hump, instead of a Bactrian alpaca bet on the drawing-board. (4) The scrambled word is TUMBLERS.

QUESTION!

SHOULD NELLIE CHERRY SACRIFICE HERSELF BY MARRYING HER SWEETHEART, DICK WILEY, NOW THAT HE IS CRIPPLED FOR LIFE?

ANSWER!

WHAT SOME OF OUR READERS THINK.

Mr. Beck, when it comes to thinking around people, you can't beat a deeply problem in life, such as Nellie is facing. Keep up the good work. Give her the marrying Dick.
—Doyl Bennett.

Dear Mr. Beck: I have read your article on the subject of the girl who is crippled. I think it is a very interesting and timely one. I hope you will continue to write on such subjects.
—Mammie Caberly.

Let 'em marry. It looks more befitting than a lady pushing a chair? Women were made to serve us mortals.
—Selma J. Amelmann.

Nellie Cherry. I think it would be unfair to Dick if you loved him now.
—Tim B.

Dear Nellie: If you love Dick, marry him regardless of any handicap. You will be happy and he will be happy. You stand in the way of your own happiness.
—A. L. Wood.

All that rot about you marrying Dick is nauseating. A woman gets the worst of it marrying a healthy man, let alone one who is crippled.
—A Woman Who Knows

SENSE and NONSENSE

IN THE GOOD OLD DAYS How dear to my health were the germs of my childhood. When thoughts of infection present them to view: The coccus, the microbe that, running so wild, would suggest prophylaxis, if anyone knew; The wide-spreading pond with malaria by it. The bridge and the stream with the typhoid as well, The cot in the woodshed with everything in it. The tainted old bucket that hung by the well. The old noxious bucket, Septiferous bucket, Bacteria bucket That hung in the well.

"Tommy," said the teacher, "I wish you wouldn't come to school with such dirty hands! What would you say if I came to school with dirt and ink all over my fingers?" "I wouldn't say anything," answered the child promptly. "I'd be too polite."

Flu or no flu, lovers will continue to render each other lip service.

Gay Bachelor: "Well, how do you find married life?" Equally Gay Benedict: "Great fun. My wife cooks, and I guess what the dish is."

To be good natured is to be imposed on.

"If you had to travel for a year, what ten books would you take?" Ten check books, thank you.

Perhaps you have noticed the exceedingly small space allotted on the income tax return blank for explanation under the item "Other deductions authorized by law."

Nothing is quite so bad but boosting makes it worse.

The chaperone said to the young folks: "Now everyone choose his partner." One young flapper said: "Gosh, this is going to be a necking party after all."

More people to show us how and fewer to tell us how.

Travel broadens, and thickens the desire for more.

It's pretty hard to manufacture conversation immediately following an introduction to a person you never heard of and who never heard of you.

Mail Pilot: One who risks his life to make a circular letter look important enough to get a reading.

HOW TO GET IN BAD 1. Become obsessed with one idea

FLAPPER FANNY SAYS

A long, lanky girl, upon inheriting money, becomes stately and tall.

- 1. Always boast of your accomplishments.
2. Flaunt a few dollars.
3. Consider no person your equal.
4. Follow extreme fads and fashions—always up to the minute or about two jumps ahead.
5. Have an opinion on every subject under the sun and never fail to express it.
6. Be "different" everywhere, every time in everything.
7. Never lose an opportunity to argue your religious or political prejudices.
8. Show your snobbishness by believing everything you have, or do, or say is a little better than anything else of its kind in the world.
9. Treat others in a way to show that you are judging them by the color of their skin, the cost of their automobiles, or the line of their ancestry.

Do you remember the old-fashioned woman who could rock a cradle, mend stockings and read a book at the same time?

The rain falls on the just—the unjust have their umbrellas.

START AND FINISH The colored gentleman went for a ride in an airplane. When he came down he said to the pilot: "Thank you, guv'nor, for dem two rides."

"Two rides?" said the pilot. "You've only had one!"

"No," said the Negro: "two. Ma first and ma last."—Tit-Bits.

TOO LATE TO REPENT "These photographs of my husband," began the woman, banging a racket down on the table.

"They're simply a disgrace. Why, he looks just like an ape!"

The photographer's pride was wounded.

"Indeed," he replied, icily: "but you should have thought of that before you married him."—Tit-Bits.

A SURE SIGN. An aged man, after electrical treatment for rheumatism, called at the hospital some days after his discharge to report.

"How are you feeling, sir?" inquired the nurse.

"Oh, I am never so well," was the reply. "I can't tell now when it's going to rain."—Moustique, Charlerof.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN PICTURES BY NEWMAN

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The sun kept blazing very hot. It shouted, "Well, as like as not, 'twill soon be fairly dry 'round here and you can ride your bike. I like to help you Tynmites so you can ride and see the sights. I hope I'm doing something that you all will really like." "Oh, to be sure," one Tyn said. "We're glad to have you go ahead and make the snow piles disappear. We've had enough of snow. It's funny, when your heat is felt, how all the snow just has to melt. I guess you are the only one with power to make it go." Their snow house soon was out of sight. "Oh, my," cried Cloway. "It's a fright to think that we all worked so hard to build that little house. "Hush, hush," snapped Scouty. "Do not kick! It all will turn out very slick. The best thing you can do is keep as quiet as a mouse." By now most of the snow was gone. The Tynies saw wide spreads of lawn. "Ah, this is so much better," shouted Copy, with a grin. "I love the pretty green grass so much better than the chilly snow. If we are going to ride our bike, 'tis time that we begin." "Just then the sun cried out, "Good-by." A cloud then floated over the sky, and Mister Sun was out of sight. The Tynies waved their hands. Then Carpy shouted, "Come on, bunch. Just follow me. I have a bunch that we'll enjoy a ride into some brand new wondrous lands." The happy tribe began to shout. Then, suddenly, one cried, "Look out! A monstrous tree is tipping and I think it's going to fall. Now comes new cause for us to fret. Don't go up to our bike just yet. The tree is falling right that way. It isn't safe at all." (A woodpecker helps the Tynmites in the next story.)

ABOUT TOWN
 The Army and Navy Club's pinocle players are planning for a turkey supper next Saturday night at 6 o'clock, which is open to friends or those interested in the game. A contribution will be taken to make up a small deficit in the expenses for the feed.

Chapman Court, Order of Amaranth, will hold its usual business meeting Friday evening in the Masonic Temple. Each member will be expected to respond in some way to the roll-call. A treasure for the court will be elected and Mrs. Adelaide Pickett will be installed as Truth, also the newly elected treasurer. Honorary members from all over the state have been invited. Refreshments will be in charge of Mrs. Pauline Grant.

Miss E. M. Stanley in her Open Forum letter yesterday made an error of one figure in typing. In the lower half of the article $459,000-000 should read $450,000,000.

The Woman's Home Missionary society of the South Methodist church will meet tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 with Mrs. Ada McCue of 237 Center street.

The Manchester Green Community club will run the usual fortnightly whist and dance in the assembly hall tomorrow evening at 8:15. They will give all-money prizes to the winners at cards, with $2.50 gold pieces for the man and woman running up the highest score. There will also be two attendance prizes, refreshments and dancing.

Miss Therese Garvey of 19 Locust street gave her annual dinner party to nine roomers last night, serving a splendid turkey dinner. The dinner is held at her rooming house annually, generally near Christmas-time.

Be sure to attend the dance Thursday night at Bascom Lodge located on the New London Turnpike.—Adv.

LOCAL AUTO KILLS DOE IN DASH ACROSS ROAD

Robert E. Seaman Runs Down Fleeing Animal Driving Along Highway Last Night.

A big fat doe made the mistake a little after midnight this morning in trying to cross the Providence road just in front of the car of Robert E. Seaman on his way to Manchester. Bob was traveling about 40 miles per hour in the vicinity of Phoenixville and struck the 130 pound deer head on, breaking both hind legs and apparently killing the animal instantly.

Seaman continued on down the road some two or three hundred feet and on returning to the scene, found the deer dead. He loaded the deer on the running board and was showing the unfortunate animal in front of F. T. Blish's store this morning. At the time of the crash the doe was in company with a big buck who narrowly escaped the car being a little in advance of his mate. The deer killed was not blinded by the car's lights as she was struck while in full flight. Hair and blood on the radiator showed that the animal had been hit head on by the new Seaman coupe which escaped without damage other than a slight dent on the apron of the mudguard. The headlights escaped damage in a mysterious manner although receiving the full force of the impact. The deer will be turned over to the State game warden for his disposition.

Eye shadow is used extensively for evening. This is for sale at The Weldon Beauty Parlor. They also carry a complete line of crems, powders, mascaras for eyebrows, and manicure necessities.—Adv.

OUR PART IN THE BIG JOB.
 Representatives of the great nations are gathering in London in an effort to reduce the world's war making machinery. This is one of the manifestations of the world-wide trend to good will—the growing desire of peoples for international good will. Back of it lies the growing desire of individuals everywhere for mutual good will—to get away from the old cat-and-dog conflicts which have handicapped the growth of civilization. The desire for mutual good will is coming to be keynote of American business. Square shooting, candid relations, are replacing, between buyer and seller, the ancient system of striving for petty advantage. Pinehurst predicates its entire business policy on good will—permanent, increasing good will. It is trying to do its part, it's small but essential part, in the creation of universal faith and friendship.
