

GRUNDY'S OPINION OF HOOVER CITED

Senator Said President Did Not Know Anything at All About Legislative Matters.

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Testimony that Joseph R. Grundy, now a Republican Senator from Pennsylvania, had said at a meeting of the National Association of Wool Manufacturers prior to Herbert Hoover's inauguration, that the latter "never ran for even the office of dog catcher and doesn't know anything at all from experience what legislation means" was given today to the Senate lobby committee.

Grundy was quoted in a speech before the wool manufacturers on Dec. 18, 1928, as expressing concern because of the president elect's lack of knowledge of legislative procedure and because his mind "runs on many other subjects than economic subjects."

The Pennsylvania Senator, until he was named to succeed William S. Vare, was vice president of the American Tariff League, and as such gave lengthy testimony before the Senate Lobby committee.

"We have had hard enough times," Grundy said, "when we have had presidents who have never had any experience of that kind. To get what we know is essential for the continuance of our business, and not only for the continuance of it, but for the development and for the expansion of it, and of what has been responsible for the great growth and development of the country to the point of where we are today."

Franklin W. Hobbs, of Boston, president of the Wool Manufacturers Association, was on the stand when Grundy's speech was introduced into the wool association, and he remarked that this view of President Hoover was "not my view."

"They are the personal views of Senator Grundy and not of the association," he added.

The minutes also quoted Grundy as follows:
"In Congress, from my experience, the fellow that makes the most noise and the fellow that makes the most demands, that keeps his problem in

Heads the New Regime in Spain

The downfall of Primo de Rivera's dictatorship in Spain has brought Ocasio Berenguer, his arch political enemy, pictured above, to the premiership. Refusing to accept the role of dictator, Berenguer has announced he will restore the constitution under which Spain formerly was governed, re-establish the parliament, and appoint only civilian ministers to his cabinet.

RIVERA IS RESTING AFTER RESIGNATION

New Spanish Premier and Cabinet Studying Details Of the Various Posts.

Madrid, Jan. 31.—(AP)—While former Premier Primo de Rivera began the first morning of his long-desired rest and vacation from government affairs by sleeping late this morning, Premier Berenguer and his ministers today began to acquaint themselves with the details of their offices and settled down to the task of restoring civil government in Spain after six years of dictatorship.

Spanish newspapers and observers generally are commenting with pride upon the achievement in ending without violence a dictatorship that itself came into being without bloodshed. Some of them expressed the opinion that history affords few examples of the violence.

Studying Details
Premier Berenguer divided his time during his first morning as head of the government between the three departments of which he is the head: the office of president of the Council of Ministers, the Department of the Army, and the Department of State, or foreign affairs.

The Cabinet itself contained no foreign portfolio, but the secretaryship of state, which Primo dropped, will be revived with the Duke of Alba, new minister of public education, probably filling the United States Cabinet system, this post is equivalent to a ministry of foreign affairs.

The duke, however, will have as his first task the straightening out of the educational system and the adjustment of the long-standing differences between the university students and the government authorities, which caused many strikes and much discontent.

SAYS LEGGE'S TALK CAUSED COTTON LOSS

Georgia Senator Declares Growers Lost 50 Millions As Result of Statement by Official.

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—After receiving an explanation by Chairman Legge of the Farm Board on a statement he issued concerning cotton yesterday, Senator Harris, Democrat, Georgia, repeated charges today in the Senate that Legge's remarks had resulted in a drop in cotton prices and a loss of $50,000,000 to southern farmers.

After Harris had assailed Legge shortly after the Senate began its session today, Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, said the Georgian should determine what Legge had said instead of relying on newspaper accounts of the conference. The Georgia Senator then called Legge by telephone in an effort to clear up the situation.

Harris afterward read two communications received from the board chairman and repeated that Legge's statement "was untrue and uncalled for even in the way he put it."

Legge told Harris in one of the communications that the "only foundation for reports carried in the news dispatches yesterday afternoon was an answer that I made to a question of a newspaperman at an informal conference I had with press representatives.

"I was asked as to the truth of a published report," the letter read, "to the effect that the American Cotton Co-operative association was going to buy several million bales of cotton at a price of $20 to $25 a bale above the market price.

"My reply was that the Farm Board was not going to buy any cotton—that the cotton association was going to be ready in a few days to deal in cotton, but that I did not think it would do anything as foolish as that. Later in the day, on being informed that reports of what I said apparently had resulted in a further decline in cotton prices, the enclosed press release was issued making it clear that the board is not buying cotton or any other commodity at any price and that its cotton loan policy is unchanged."

NEW PHONE RATES

Albany, N. Y., Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Public Service Commission today ordered the New York Telephone Company to put into effect at midnight tonight, a new rates schedule which, in effect, reduced by 20 percent the new schedules already announced by the telephone company and which continued four party service, as furnished up-stated at present, which the company had announced would be discontinued.

The commission also ordered the telephone company to make the necessary changes in its rates schedule and to file the revised schedule "forthwith."

PONGO JOE CANTILLON BASEBALL FIGURE DIES

Stroke of Paralysis Proves Fatal to Famous Manager; Many Humorous Incidents Of His Life Are Recalled.

Hickman, Ky., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Joe Cantillon, for 52 years a figure in the baseball world, died here at 9:40 a. m. today.

Death was the result of a stroke of paralysis, suffered several days ago. His sister, Mrs. E. J. Archambault, Los Angeles, and his wife were at his side. Mike Cantillon, a brother and the only other relative, is ill in Los Angeles and was unable to come.

Widespread Regret
There are baseball players, past and present, all over the United States who will shed a tear for Joe Cantillon. In his years as a manager in the major and minor leagues, the veteran "Pongo Joe" came in contact with hundreds of players and they left him with a greater knowledge than they had before they knew him.

INDEPENDENCE FOR FILIPINOS URGED IN BILL

Sen. Vandenberg Wants Commonwealth Established at Once to Give Them Chance to Test Condition.

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A bill to provide for the immediate establishment of the "Commonwealth of the Philippine Islands" under a plan of progressive autonomy looking to complete withdrawal of American sovereignty in ten years was introduced today by Senator Vandenberg, Republican, Michigan.

The measure is patterned along lines suggested by the late Secretary of War Weeks but goes farther by proposing progressive tariff autonomy within ten years of quasi-independence. The weeks plan contemplated complete withdrawal of American sovereignty in 25 years.

"I believe the American people are under solemn promise as a result of an Act of Congress on August 29, 1916 to give the Philippines their complete independence when a stable government is established," Senator Vandenberg told the Senate in offering his measure.

DUKE TO MARRY

London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Duke of Westminster and Miss Loeila Mary Ponsonby, daughter of Sir Frederick Ponsonby, treasurer to the king and keeper of the privy purse, will be married during the week-end at Prince's Row register office.

It had been expected when the engagement was announced early this year that the wedding would take place in the private chapel of the duke's ancestral seat, Eaton Hall, Cheshire, but it is understood that a special license is necessary for the use of such chapels and the church authorities do not grant them to people who have been divorced and whose original partner is living.

(The Duke of Westminster was married twice, both of the unions being dissolved the first in 1919 and the second in 1926).

MANY URGE CONGRESS TO ADOPT KEY'S SONG

Star Spangled Banner is Not Yet National Anthem; Song Is Sung by Noted Soloists.

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The stirring notes of the Star Spangled Banner, sung by two sopranos, rang today in the House judiciary committee room and echoed through the long corridors of the House office building as a group of patriotic organizations descended upon the Capitol to urge Congress to adopt officially as America's national anthem the now famous song of Francis Scott Key.

Although the song, inspired by the staunch defense of Fort Mifflin at Baltimore against the British fleet in the war of 1812, now is regarded through custom as the official anthem to which a mighty national stands at attention, Congress never formally has made it so.

The effort of the patriotic societies today was directed to that end. They urged approval of the Linticum bill which would authorize this action. For years, Representative Linticum of Maryland, has sponsored the measure without success.

The two sopranos who sang the song were Mrs. Elsie Jores-Reilly of Washington, and Mrs. Grace Evelyn Boudoin of Baltimore. It also was played by the Navy band. The women sought to demonstrate to the committee that singing of the song was not difficult as revised. Official recognition of the song also was urged by Captain Walter I. Joyce, of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

During Spanish War
"I stood on San Juan Hill in 1898 and heard four bands play that tune," he told the committee. "All around me in pup-tents men were lying sick with fever but when they heard that glorious old tune every man somehow got to his feet. With all due respect to Congress, no matter what it decides to do in this matter the Star Spangled Banner is our song and will remain so forever."

Joyce presented a petition signed by 5,000,000 citizens asking Congress to make the song the official National anthem. He said he had worked many months preparing it and was assisted by 62 persons. Twenty-five governors of states have signed it.

Sweden's Queen Gravely Ill

Famed in the history of European royalty, Queen Victoria of Sweden, pictured above, now is reported gravely ill at her winter home in Rome, and King Gustav has been summoned to the bedside of his 68-year-old wife. The Queen was the only daughter of the late Grand Duke Friedrich of Baden, and a granddaughter of Emperor William I of Germany. Her condition was weakened by a chronic bronchial affliction.

HITCH AT CONFERENCE SURPRISES DELEGATES

Coast Guard to Aid Sick Man on Vessel

New London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—With a sick man in dire need of hospital attention aboard, the freighter Severance of Boston, hove to east of Winter Quarter Shoal lightship about 60 miles southeast of the Delaware Capes late yesterday while a Coast Guard vessel from New York was plunging through heavy seas to her assistance. It was reported at Coast Guard headquarters here today.

A message from the cutter Champlain to the New York base of the service, telling of the plight of the freighter was intercepted at the Coast Guard base here. The Coast Guard vessel, nearing the Severance about midnight reported heavy seas, a northeast gale and a blinding snowstorm. The relief ship advised that the freighter work toward the Delaware Capes where sea conditions were better.

Further information was not available here. The Severance is owned by the Diamond Steamship Transportation Co. of Boston. She is 366 feet long.

BREWERS ELECTED WALSH TO SENATE

Wet Republicans in Bay State Also Assisted, Say U. S. Attorney Tarr.

Boston, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Brewers and "Wet" Republicans were blamed by United States Attorney Frederick H. Tarr in charges published today for helping to raise $74,000 used to elect David I. Walsh to the office of United States Senator in 1926 over William M. Buzler.

The $74,000, he said in an address at the Boston Art Club yesterday, came from a fund of $338,485 raised by the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment and was spent in Massachusetts by the Constitutional Liberty League, the state Democratic state committee and Democratic leaders.

He also charges, after declaring his belief that the people of the state were not "wet" in their sympathies, that another fund would be raised to elect a Democratic "wet" Senator in the fall. He asserted that a campaign against the policies of President Hoover and the National Republican platform was under way.

Makes List Public
A long list of Democrats who were listed as receiving some of the $74,000 to "get out the vote" in the 1926 campaign was made public. He said the names were obtained from sworn reports of campaign expenditures.

The Democratic state committee, of which Charles H. McGlue of Lynn was chairman, was charged with receiving more than $27,000. The names of Mayor John J. Murphy of Somerville, former Mayor Edward W. Quinn of Cambridge, Democratic national committeeman, Joseph E. Ely of Westfield, and Charles S. Ashley Jr., of New Bedford, were included as recipients of funds.

Continuing, he declared that "wet" Republicans were working with "Wet" organizations and the Democrats to disrupt the Republican party in the state. He said he had a duly certified copy of the record of parties who received money and of those who contributed to the fund.

Tarr made the charges during an address on "What is the Matter with the Republican Party of Massachusetts."

BUILDERS PROMISE TO HELP CHICAGO

Pledge Ten Millions to Pay for Police, Fire and Health Protection.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A pledge of $10,000,000 for the maintenance of police, fire and health protection and other essential public services was handed to the citizens' relief committee headed by Silas H. Strawn today.

The pledge was made by the Building Managers' Association, a group operating most of the downtown buildings.

Further information was not available here. The Severance is owned by the Diamond Steamship Transportation Co. of Boston. She is 366 feet long.

A message from the cutter Champlain to the New York base of the service, telling of the plight of the freighter was intercepted at the Coast Guard base here. ## BROTHERS MEET AFTER 31 YEARS

But That Isn't All—They Lived Within Few Blocks of Each Other for Long Time.

Pasadena, Cal., Jan. 31.—Oscar and Guy Michaels lost track of each other 31 years ago. Today they are reunited.

Guy picked up his new telephone directory yesterday, looked up his own name to make sure it was correctly listed, and found under it "O. B. Michaels," with an address not five blocks from his own. He rang Oscar's number.

"Is your name Oscar Burton Michaels?"
"Yes."
"Did you ever live in Bonner Springs, Kansas?"
"Uh huh."
"Well, are the toes of your left foot out of?"
"What business is it of yours if they are?"
"Well, this is your brother Guy. Where have you been for the last 31 years?"
"Hello, Guy, I've been here."
"Well can you beat that! I've lived here for two years myself."

STYLIST DECREES CORSETLESS YEAR

Skeptics, However, Say Average Woman Will Need Stays to Wear Gowns.

Paris, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The rebels in the style ranks, whose battle cry is "Cancel Corsets!" were upheld in Lucien Lelong's summer display, when modern Dianas—sans a single stay—led the couturier's slim-waisted fashions.

The front row of a musical comedy chorus could be no more gullible of whalebone than the slim mannequins who paraded M. Lelong's new styles, stressing groundlength evening dresses, medium length street clothes, sports dresses six inches below the knee and bodices that snug Milady's waist.

Stylists Skeptical
The achievement of the professional mannequins in displaying the slim models without the assistance of corsets left many professional stylists skeptical, however. They maintain that only exceptional women can wear such styles without the light girdle that is so much worn today. Most of them, they say, will need the assistance of a little whalebone.

The importance of the corsetless mannequins, so far as the stylists were concerned, lay in M. Lelong's evident message, that he has no intention of suggesting corsets for modern athletic women.

Madame Lelong, the former Princess Nathalie Paley, helped her husband receive his guests at the fashion display, wearing herself the type of style that he sponsors. She appeared in a gown-length black satin dress and black and white jewelry, set with modernistic crystal resembling half melted ice.

LEAPS TO DEATH

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Lucille M. Ryan, 25, whose home was said to be in Susquehanna, Pa., was killed today in a fall from her room on the 19th floor of the American Women's Association club house in West 57th street, to a court-enclosed garden at the second floor. Police listed the case as a suicide.

Rival Methods of Measuring Navies Sidetracked Today; Dominion Representatives Have Long Interview With Premier MacDonald and That Might Have Something to Do With Delay, Experts Believe.

London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Plans of the naval conference to let a special committee consider the two rival methods of measuring navies—global and categorical—were sidetracked today at least for the present.

Faced with an apparent hitch in the British effort to choose committee members to speak for North Great Britain and the Dominions, the full conference itself continued today with the work previously assigned the committee and decided to hold another meeting on the same subject Tuesday.

There was no indication the special committee plan had been officially abandoned but neither was there anything to show that arrangements had been made for it to function.

Meaning the two British places on it remained unfiled.

The understanding after adjournment of today's session which lasted an hour was that the whole conference sitting as a committee of the whole probably will fully supersede the special committee.

A long meeting between Prime Minister MacDonald and the Dominion representative who speak for Canada, Australia, India, New Zealand, South Africa and the Irish Free State, preceded the conference session. No announcement was made, but it was less than an acceptable way had been found to represent all British interests through two committee members, the number from each nation to have sat on the special committee.

Come As Surprise

The calling of this afternoon's session was a surprise outside the British delegation.

Henry L. Stimson, American secretary of state, was the only delegation chief who did not attend, sending instead Secretary of the Navy Adams and Hugh S. Gibson, the two delegates he has designated for membership in the committee. It was explained later that Mr. Stimson was in favor of passing the responsibility for the negotiations around any way.

Today's meeting discussed only the general principle of the measurement, the French and others largely repeating what they said yesterday about the French compromise plan which is now the central theme of negotiations. Under it a sliding scale would be provided permitting each nation to come to an agreement in dividing its total tonnage among various classes of ships.

Secretary Adams, speaking briefly for the United States, said the Americans would be glad to study the various proposals but were not prepared to make any declaration at present.

None of the speakers suggested what percentage of tonnage should be transferable from one category to another. On this subject each nation apparently is waiting for the other, but it is likely that Tuesday's meeting will see a definite proposal.

OFFICIAL REPORT

London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The following communique was issued after today's Naval conference session:

"The first committee of the Naval conference at London met at 3:00 p. m. at St. James's Palace under the presidency of the prime minister of the United Kingdom to examine the following resolution:

"Resolved, that the questions of method and procedure included under the heading and title of general questions in the agenda now under discussion by the chiefs of the delegations, and including particularly the suggestion of the French and British governments as to limitation by global tonnage or by categories, and including the method and procedure suggested by the French government, be referred to a committee appointed by the delegations represented in the conference with directions to examine carefully possibilities and probable effects of such methods with respect to the fleets of said respective nations and to report their views to the conference through the chiefs of their respective delegations."

Scores In U. S. Named For Capper Farm Prize

Topeka, Kas. — (AP)—A gold medal and $5,000 await the winner of the first annual Capper award for distinguished service to American agriculture.

Scores of nominations already have been made for the award, which has been established by Senator Arthur Capper of Kansas. The first winner is expected to be announced by the award committee next December.

"My objective," Senator Capper said in explaining his offer, "is to provide a concrete expression of gratitude to some of the people who make contributions of national importance to American agriculture and to assist in stimulating public appreciation of unusually fine service to our basic industry."

Henry Ford and Thomas A. Edison are two industrial leaders who have been nominated for the first award.

Others include Senator Charles L. McNary, Oregon, and Rep. Gilbert N. Haugen, Iowa, co-authors of "farm relief legislation; Gray Silver of West Virginia, first representative in Washington of the American Farm Bureau federation, who was credited with forming the first "farm bloc" in congress; Sam H. Thompson, president of the Farm Bureau federation, and Senator William E. Borah, Idaho, of the Oregon agricultural experimental station.

Mr. Lowden, president of the University of Tennessee, and Walter R. Swingle, plant physiologist of the United States department of agriculture.

Dr. F. D. Farrell, president of ARTHUR CAPPER Kansas State Agricultural college. Dr. John H. Finley, editor of the New York Times.

Carl R. Gray, president of the United Pacific system.

James T. Jardine, director of the Oregon agricultural experimental station.

Mr. Lowden, president of the University of Tennessee, and Walter R. Swingle, plant physiologist of the United States department of agriculture.

front of them all the time, he gets service. If he doesn't, if he depends on somebody else to do it for him, he is going to get what we all get when we don't go after the thing the way we ought to—nothing.

"There is no use of our preparing schedules if we are going to allow Congress to drift along and let somebody get to Mr. Hoover and influence him to let the thing go until fall, and not get it done as quickly as possible, as it ought to be done."

Asked what he thought should be done before Congress, Hobbs said: "I think we should present to the committee of Congress our views of the situation. That's all."

"Everybody will agree with that," Senator Walsh, Democrat, Montana, said, "but they should go home just as lawyers do when they appear before the Supreme Court."

Views on Women
The minutes also purported to give Grundy's views on women as related to the tariff. He was quoted as saying:

"Then we have the electorate adulterated by about one fourth or 40 per cent of the women, who never knew anything about the tariff, and who, I think, from natural instinct, because they have been left to believe that it makes things that they buy cost more, are not sympathetic with us."

Hobbs said the wool association had a representative in Washington, James P. Reynolds, who he said was a close friend of former President Coolidge and a former secretary of the Republican national committee.

"His intimacy with the White House have anything to do with your employing him?" Walsh asked.

"Not the slightest," Hobbs replied.

The witness said Reynolds was paid $4,000 a year but he had done nothing in regard to the tariff bill, being engaged in other matters. He has been with the association 10 years, Hobbs added.

Questioned about the budget of the association last year, Hobbs said about $50,000 was expended, but he was not asked how much was spent on the tariff bill.

Hobbs said he and other members of the association represented in tariff matters.

MAY REINSTATE IOWA TOMORROW

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Western Conference faculty committee will meet in secret session here tomorrow to consider again the reinstatement of the University of Iowa to good athletic standing.

Although members of the committee refused to discuss the subject, it was indicated a favorable vote for reinstatement was probable, to take effect around March 1.

BELIEVE SCHOONER LOST

New London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Consensus among Marine men here today was that the fishing boat Oriole of Newport, unreported since last Friday evening, foundered in heavy weather and carried her crew of two to their death.

The Oriole left Mystic for Newport Friday after having a new engine installed and she was last reported off Block Island.

Coast Guard headquarters here said today that no trace had been found of the boat, despite search by air and sea.

A seaplane chartered by fishermen and their friends, which searched for the boat Wednesday was forced to give up the task because of bad weather conditions yesterday after taking off from Nantucket. The seaplane went to Newport, according to the Coast Guard.

Leon W. Soule of Portsmouth, owner of the Oriole, and Avery LeBlanc of Newport were aboard the boat when she left Mystic.

SEVERAL ENROLL IN HALE'S 10 YEAR CLUB

Self Serve Grocery Patrons in First Days Are Eligible for Membership.

Several patrons of Hale's Self Serve Grocery last night signed the roll at the local store's grocery department as members of the Ten Year Club. All those who were customers at the Self Serve in the first days of its existence ten years ago are eligible for membership in the club.

All those who enroll will receive gifts during the anniversary celebration at the local store February 12, 13, 14, and 15.

The honor roll is placed in the Self Serve near the baskets which await customers' convenience. All who recall having been shoppers at the Self Serve when it first opened are asked to call and register.

OUT OF TOWN PATIENT THANKS THE HOSPITAL

An idea of the favorable impression out of town persons gain from treatment received at the Manchester Memorial hospital is seen in the following letter sent to the institution by a Rhode Island man who is temporarily living at 280 North Main street. The letter follows:

"In rush of everyday business or professional life, very few think of thoughts or words expressed.

"We should not believe that this is intentional but rather one of the briefs of the present century when all is speed and haste.

"However, I should feel unappreciative if I could not at least say a kind word for the wonderful care and attention given me, a stranger in Manchester, in your hospital.

"Since my discharge, my reflections are keen and happy in the remembrance of the bright cheery nurses and the complete comfort and tranquility I enjoyed while convalescing.

"The food, even though I was not well, was so really appetizing, I could not help but eat, and who one thinks of eating hardly anything for over a year, it sure is a source of satisfaction to know the taste and value of good food.

"Again may I express my thanks to your fine nurses and commend you for the efficient service in your hospital.

Very truly yours
(Signed) Robert G. M. Leclerc

DRY LAW DEBATES

Washington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—At times silent and attentive at other times applauding vigorously, nearly the full membership of the House today heard Representative Franklin W. Fort of New Jersey raise his voice in a plea for the correction of "one of the most important evils" which he said, the "law under which they occur is here to stay without substantial change."

At the other side of the Capitol, Senator Borah of Idaho, announced that John F. J. Herbert, prohibition administrator for Montana and Idaho, had been summoned to Washington by Prohibition Commissioner Doran for investigation of the charges the Idahoan has brought against him.

SINGER IS OUTWEIGHED.

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Bronx Singer, pugilistic pride of the Bronx will spot Santislaus Loayza, rugged Chilean lightweight, more than two until about the middle of February, instead of February 1, as at first planned.

Matthew Merz has had his barber shop on North Main street repaired and decorated.

Emil L. G. Hohenthal, Jr., president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce today addressed letters to the membership giving reasons for the increase in dues voted at the last meeting of the body. He points out that Manchester's dues were the lowest per year of 25 towns Manchester's size in New England.

There was no afternoon performance at the State theater this afternoon because the feature picture did not arrive from New Haven on time. However, the reels will be here at five o'clock tonight and the regular evening show will go on as scheduled. Money was refunded to theatergoers after the comedy and News reel were shown and the feature had not arrived.

Berlin, Jan. 31.—(AP)—At the German government's request, the ambassadors conference has agreed to withdraw from Berlin the British and French military experts appointed when the inter-allied military commission was dissolved. Since then these experts have been keeping an eye on Germany's disarmament as directed in the Treaty of Versailles. Their functions ceased officially today.

OBITUARY

DEATHS

Mrs. Adam Schiedge.
Mrs. Charlotte Schiedge, widow of Adam Schiedge formerly of Manchester, died suddenly yesterday afternoon at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Schiedge of 12 Irving street, Hartford. She leaves two other daughters, Mrs. Charles Maughton of Hartford and Mrs. Walter Carter of Wetherfield and one son, Frederick Schiedge of Grandview street in town; a niece, Mrs. Myron Schoonmaker of Danbury and 18 grandchildren.

Mrs. Schiedge was a member of Sunset Reheka lodge. Her funeral will be held Sunday afternoon, with prayers at 2 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George Schiedge, 12 Irving street, Hartford, and from Watkins Brothers, 11 Oak street, at 3 o'clock. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

FUNERALS

George I. Hubbard
The funeral of George I. Hubbard of Hollister street will be held at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon at the funeral parlors of W. P. Quish, 225 Main street. Dr. Rockwell H. Potter of Hartford will officiate.

Funeral plans have been changed and instead of temporary burial in the East cemetery, the body will be sent to Washington, D. C., tomorrow night and a special service held at the home of Mrs. Hubbard's father in that city Monday, following which the body will be buried in the National Cemetery at Arlington instead of the Glenwood cemetery. Friends may view the body tonight at the undertaking establishment if they wish.

HOW TO HAVE A LIVER IN BETTER CARE

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

When glycerine is used as antifreeze in the cooling system, the warning can't be repeated too often, the motorist must make certain that every part of the system is leak-proof. Otherwise, no matter how tight the radiator will gradually will gradually ooze out and leave the motorist with a frozen system some day.

One of the most difficult places to keep tight throughout the winter is at the water pump, where the glycerine must be tight enough to keep the cooling solution from seeping through, and yet not be so tight as to scree the drive shaft. Therefore extreme care must be taken in preparing the water pump properly for the winter.

The pump gland nuts should be set up snug but not too tight, and at intervals during the winter they should be tightened up a bit to prevent leakage. If leakage occurs, however, the pump needs re-packing, or perhaps a special marine grease should replace the regular motor cup grease, or the shaft is scored so that it requires a special plastic packing to prevent further leakage.

The right kind of packing for the water pump is a hemp impregnated with tallow, rather than one that is impregnated with graphite. The reason is that tallow resists water action better than carbon or graphite impregnated hemp.

In order to make the pump packing doubly secure against leakage, the proper kind of grease should be used with it. In the pump, the grease is not such for lubrication as for keeping the pump tight. It is really a packing, not a lubricating, grease.

Ordinary cup grease, intended for lubrication, has an oil base which dissolves or is softened readily by hot water. As a result the hot cooling solution weakens the grease packing in the pump and makes this spot liable to leakage.

Therefore a water-proof grease is recommended for use at this point. This is a tallow base and is used widely in marine motors. Tallow base greases come under various trade names, but any one might be effective.

If the shaft of the water pump is badly scored or grooved, no end of packing with hemp or marine grease will prevent leakage. The cure for this however, is a sort of plastic packing material which might give relief if the scoring is not too severe.

This plastic packing is a composition material which can be pressed into the pump gland housing with the thumb or a small tool, and will fill up all dents, scores and grooves in the shaft.

When this is done, the gland nuts should be tightened up even more than is necessary under ordinary circumstances. The motor should then be run, or the car driven, for a short time, and the gland nuts should be tightened further to compensate for the filling of the grooves by the packing.

All through the winter, this should be watched carefully, more plastic packing added from time to time, and the gland nuts taken up to keep the cooling solution from leaking through.

Philadelphia, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Stanley G. Mortimer and C. C. Pell, of New York, defending champions, were today eliminated from the racquet double championship tourney by Peter Kemp-Walsh and Duncan Cambridge of England in a five set match in the semi-final round. The scores were 15-9, 6-15, 15-13, 9-15, 15-5.

HITCH AT CONFERENCE SURPRISES DELEGATES

Great Britain. System of limitation by categories.

The committee authorized Mr. Colban, director of the disarmament section of the secretariat of the League of Nations to attend this meeting in the quality of observer.

PLANS SUDDENLY CHANGED
London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Changing its plans over night, the five power naval conference went into executive session at 3:00 p. m. today.

The purpose of the session was to smooth out features of the makeup and procedure of the special committee decided on yesterday to discuss the French compromise plan for the measurement of naval power.

As the delegates came together reports were widespread that the British were having difficulty in satisfying the Dominions as to their representation on the conference committees.

Whether this caused today's unexpected full session in place of the agenda committee session originally planned was not officially disclosed.

The only explanation offered respecting a two-hour session prime minister and the Dominion delegates held during the morning was that they discussed procedure.

Comes As Surprise
The calling of the full conference session surprised the other delegations as many of the delegates did not attend. It was announced that Henry L. Stimson, the American secretary of state, would not attend because the subjects to be considered were the same as those referred yesterday to the new committee.

It was pointed out that of the five powers, Great Britain alone had announced no decision as to who would represent her at the committee proceedings.

Reports of disagreement between Prime Minister MacDonald and the Dominions have been printed repeatedly in the British newspapers and once resulted in an official denial.

One of those present at this afternoon's conference session was Eric Colban, chief of the disarmament section of the League of Nations and the League's observer at the naval conference.

THINK REALTOR DEAD

New Haven, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Max Price, 62, realtor, missing since Tuesday, is dead or held against his will in the opinion of police here today. Captain James J. Deegan of the detective bureau said that all efforts to find him have served only to increase the belief he had possible reason for leaving home.

The only clue police has is that Price was seen talking with an unidentified man shortly before his disappearance. Captain Deegan reasoned that Price was a home-loving man who would get in touch with his family if it were humanly possible.

Price had a checkbook with him when he vanished and all banks are being watched. His business was in good condition, police said.

A reward of $1,000 is being offered to anyone locating the body.

SHUTE IN LEAD

Brackendale Park, San Antonio, Texas, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Densmore Shute, Columbus, Ohio, shot a 35, one under par for the first nine holes to lead competitors at the $7,500 Texas Open Golf Tournament here today. Shute, winner of the Los Angeles Open, had eight pars and a birdie going out.

Perfect golfing weather attended the initial day of the meet.

BABY SAVES FAMILY

Southington, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The cries of a five months old baby probably saved the lives of eleven persons early this morning, when they awakened the infant's mother, Mrs. Joseph Banskil, of Bellevue Farm on Berlin street, who found the home filled with smoke and flames in all parts of the structure.

Hastily arousing her husband, they awakened their other eight children and with nothing but their clothing hurriedly left the dwelling which was entirely destroyed, making a loss of $8,000.

HENRY PLANT ILL

New London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Officials at the Lawrence and Memorial Associated hospitals said today that there was no change in the condition of Henry Bradley Plant, Eastern Point, continuing as a year ago. The Studebaker Corporation omitted the usual quarterly stock dividend of 1 per cent but Allis-Chalmers and Sears Roebuck made public excellent sales statements, the latter for the first period of its new 3 month calendar.

American Machine and Foundry was marked up 4 points and H. H. Macy, Columbia Carbon, N. Y. and Harlem, J. I. Case, and Westinghouse Electric sold 5 to 7 points higher.

Public utilities were strong. Peoples Gas and Nohr American both advanced 5 points or more, while Brookman Union Gas, Columbia Gas, Standard Gas and Electric and International Telephone advanced 3 points or more.

Heavy buying of Standard Oil of N. J., which crossed 65 for a gain of more than 2 points, started a brisk demand for other oil shares.

Bans Unwritten Law In Italian Murder Code

BY ANDRUE BERRING

Rome—(AP)—Murder in the heat of blood, murder for "reasons of honor," and murder under "temporary insanity" are stripped of all pretext for defense and made nothing but plain murder throughout Italy by an order which Alfred Rocco, Minister of Justice, directed to the judges and prosecutors of the Court of Appeals and the Courts of Assize.

Sharply inveighing against "morbid sentimentality" in murder trials, the minister ordered the judges to change their judicial point of view so that murderers of the classes mentioned will not be granted acquittals.

This falls another choice fetich of this hotbedded nation. For generations the belief has been cherished that a husband who murdered the lover of his wife should be freed, that murder committed while the blood was up was not murder, even that murder committed during the blowing of a scrocco—a hot, humid, irritating wind from the African deserts—was excusable.

Juries would not convict in such cases, and judges readily freed prisoners, grasping through morbid sentimentalism attempts against the sanctity of human life proclaimed inviolable by religion and by law. Following with close attention the Assize trials for murder, I have seen with deep sorrow that, even in the fascist regime, not only do the citizen-jurors augment the discredit of the institution of the jury, but the judges themselves sometimes do not do what is possible for avoiding such acquittals.

"While the work of the fascist government is intensified to educate the public opinion by destroying superstitions and prejudices and holding up human life as a divine gift, while more vigorous protection is given to human life in the new penal code, it is necessary that the judges make this work efficacious. I recommend to consider jurors maintain the letter and spirit of the legislation, without revealing uncertainty over the culpability of the accused, or, worse, lending themselves to morbid sentimentalism.

"Only by these methods can we avoid acquittals that threaten the moral fibre of the nation."

Although the fascist regime has undertaken a work of vast social regeneration, there still persist some

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Stock Market showed increased activity and strength today, with the oils and the public utilities in the forefront of the advance. Profittaking sales swept the market at intervals but they were generally well absorbed, the best prices of the day, as a rule, being recorded the afternoon trading.

The cotton market, which ran into heavy liquidation earlier in the week, appeared to have studied in today's trading. Further selling developed, however, in the wheat market, an early reaction of 2 cents a bushel carrying active futures to new low levels for the season.

Reversing the procedure of recent sessions, call money opened at 4 per cent, the lowest renewal rate since January 27, 1928, and then advanced to 4 1/2. Bankers Acceptances were reduced 1/4 of 1 per cent for all maturities. Time money and commercial paper rates held steady.

There was little in the day's news to influence the price movement. Bradstreet's weekly review continued to characterize business as "fair to quiet" but sets forth that "taking the month as a whole, industry has shown definite expansion, and there is no question but what employment has likewise expanded from the low levels of December, while, on the other hand, operations are not so active nor is buying so well advanced as a year ago. The Studebaker Corporation omitted the usual quarterly stock dividend of 1 per cent but Allis-Chalmers and Sears Roebuck made public excellent sales statements, the latter for the first period of its new 3 month calendar.

American Machine and Foundry was marked up 4 points and H. H. Macy, Columbia Carbon, N. Y. and Harlem, J. I. Case, and Westinghouse Electric sold 5 to 7 points higher.

Heavy buying of Standard Oil of N. J., which crossed 65 for a gain of more than 2 points, started a brisk demand for other oil shares.

The next meeting of the measurement of navies question will be Tuesday.

GERMANY VICTORIOUS

Chamonix, Switzerland, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Scoring two goals in the final minutes of play, Germany defeated Great Britain 4 to 2 today in the first round of the world's ice hockey championships.

The teams were much more evenly matched than indicated by the score, the Germans' final two goals coming when the English goalkeeper was handicapped by the glaring sun. The championship originally was to be decided by the pool system adopted in the 1928 Olympic championships. Unfavorable weather, however, since Monday delayed the start of the play with the result that ordinary knockout method was substituted.

New Racing Car Hope of Britain Designed On Isle With No Autos

Wolverhampton, Eng.—(AP)—Florida sands will be burned again in March when Kaye Don at Daytona Beach will attempt to wrest the world's land speed record from his countryman, Sir Henry Segrave.

The man-made thunderbolt, sur-named the "Silver Bullet," will have to better a speed of 231.36 miles an hour, an all-time record set up on the same sand course a year ago by Segrave.

Don's attempts will be made between March 15-20 on the twenty-seventh anniversary of beach record trials when a number of cars, mainly stock automobiles, will race against time.

The bullet-like machine which Britons hope will prove to be the world's fastest automobile was thought out and put on paper in the idyllic calm and comfort of an island that has no automobiles.

Without raucous honkings or the staccato of back-firing to disturb his dreams of automotive perfection, Louis Costalen, who designed the car, perched high up in a chalet on the isle of Capri, worked out the details of the 4,000-horsepower racer.

Once in a while he tore himself away from the Italian sunshine long enough to come here to see how well the factory was putting his ideas into metal. What he calls his real work, however, was done on the "flivver-less" isle.

Costalen went at his job like a tailor, basing the measurements of the new car on Kaye Don's physical dimensions. When the racer slips into the driver's seat, the four-wheeled bullet will fit him like a suit.

The total width of the body is two and one-half feet and its total height is three and one-half feet. It has a ground clearance of seven and one-quarter inches and a wheelbase of 15 feet.

Two aircraft, supercharged, 12-cylinder engines will drive the car through two propeller shafts, each shaft driving one of the rear wheels.

Wind brakes, designed for effectiveness at speeds which make wheel brakes dangerous to use, are among the engineering innovations embodied in the design.

Costalen does not confine his imaginative genius to racing cars. He was responsible for the engine and gondola design of most of the British airships during the war, and for those of the R-34, the first airship to cross the Atlantic.

Kaye Don (left), British motorist, will pilot the "Silver Bullet" (above) at Daytona Beach in March to better Sir Henry Segrave's year-old mark of 231.36 miles an hour.

TURKS FACE SACRED MONTH OF ECONOMY

Istanbul.—(AP)—Ramazan, sacred Moslem month of fasting by day and feasting by night, is this year to be Turkey's sacred month of ceremony.

Religious traditions have in general been scorned by the Kemalist government, but now it is turning to religion as an aid in leading the republic out of the hard times wilderness.

During this year's Ramazan which begins with February's new moon, the minarets of all mosques are to be electrically festooned with economy slogans such as:

"Look out for the piasters and the liras will take care of themselves."

Moslem priests will deliver sermons issued by the Chief Mufti at Angora. In them the faithful will be told that economy is not only a patriotic, but a religious duty and the conception of an Allah who helps those who help themselves will be dinned into Moslem consciousness.

These sermons will also explain to the Anatolians that savings in a stocking save no souls, but that savings in a bank give grace both here and hereafter.

Science has given us an unbreakable photograph record. But you can always sail it out the back window at the neighbor's cat.

Central America Indians Hope To Save Tribesmen From Sacrificial Pyre

Here are three of the San Blas Indians who have returned to their native islands off the coast of Panama after six years spent in American schools. Left to right are Andre Hayes, Federico Filos, and Francisco Diaz.

Cristobal, Canal Zone—The San Blas Indians' "human sacrifices" to the civilization of the white man have gone back into the mysterious islands from which they came six years ago. They are entered now in a race against death, these four young semi-civilized men, for they are seeking to prevent the human sacrifice on the pyre of a pagan altar of eight of their fellow tribesmen.

In 1923, two women missionaries, thwarted in their attempt to work among the natives of the San Blas Islands, 60 miles from here, persuaded four of the natives to go to the United States, there to learn the religion and ways of the white man. It was planned that the men should return to the islands and, having themselves been converted to civilized ways, should spread the doctrines of culture and progress among their own people.

Given Christian Names

On their way to the United States, the Indians were arbitrarily given their Christian names by a priest traveling on the same boat. He called them Federico Filos, Francisco Diaz, Andre Hayes and Mingo Guillermo.

For six years they attended American schools in North Carolina, Kentucky and Pennsylvania. They learned to speak English and were greatly impressed with the practice of medicine and sanitation. But they were not converted to the American brand of civilization. When they landed here the other day aboard the Panama Mail steamer Venezuela they expressed themselves as disgusted with morals in general, and particularly with the intermarriage of Americans with other nationalities. Their own people, they said, maintain absolute purity of blood, and intermarriage is discouraged by the death penalty. Their women are kept hidden from the sight of visitors, and no stranger ever has been allowed to remain on the islands after night-fall.

To Combat Human Sacrifices

Idol worship and the practice of human sacrifice still prevail among the San Blas peoples, they declared, and these they will attempt to combat when they resume their life there. Their first great mission will be to halt the great religious festival which is staged each November.

The climax of the rites, according to their story, is the execution of eight youths and maidens of the tribe. To be selected for the festival death is coveted honor, for it means that the sacrifice is destined for a special heaven. So even the enmity of the chosen victims awaits the native missionaries.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of (1) Cars by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Putting A Nut To Work

Watch a mechanic work on the job of replacing a front wheel and you will note that he tightens up the wheel nut until it won't turn, then backs it off slowly until the wheel spins freely. There's a reason for this.

Unless the work is done in this way you are apt to start off with the wheel loose. It is important to set the wheel as far in on the axle as it will go, and the only way to do is to force it in by turning the nut up tight.

The nut, in turning, pushes the wheel in on the axle with considerable force. You could press on the wheel with all your might and perhaps fail to set it in as tight as by turning up the nut with a wrench.

If the wheel does not spin easily after the nut is backed off a little the indications are that the brakes drag.

Only Looks Serious

Owners of external brakes may not have more troubles than their contemporaries with internal brakes but any troubles with the former type show up quicker. They are constantly exposed, and their troubles often are not as serious as they look to be.

The man with enclosed brakes can afford to run on the theory that what he doesn't see doesn't hurt him. But it is a harder rule to follow when troubles seem to be staring you in the face.

For instance, you may worry if you see the inside of a front brake drum starting to show scratches as though something were scraping it. Yet this may be nothing more than the result of a little gravel or a stone catching between the brake mechanism and the inside of the drum. An accumulation of tar and sand will do it.

Best To Know Changes

It has been said repeatedly that it is important to know wherein your new car differs from its predecessor. But car owners are just commencing to take the idea seriously.

This is particularly true of owners of cars with more modern lubricating systems. The man whose former engine had no pressure lubrication to the valve tappets is quite apt to get into trouble. He may remove the covers, drive the car between adjustments of the tappets, and lift the hood again to find oil splattered all over the works.

In one of the new models of a low priced car oil stands in the valve compartment all the time. Thus if the uninitiated owner removes the engine pan he is certain to make a mess of his garage floor.

Selecting Your Wheels

Choosing between wood, wire and disc wheels is not the easiest task for the man who is selecting a new car, especially since there are many out-of-date notions about the advantages and disadvantages of the various types.

One point that is generally overlooked is the effect of balloon tires on wheels. When pressures were high tires absorbed very little road shock so that a more flexible wheel like the wire type was decidedly easier riding. Disc wheels rumbled. Wood wheels were a compromise.

It's different now. Balloon tires take so much of the road shock it is difficult to guess what kind of wheels one is riding on. A wire wheel, however, possesses more radial "give" and is thus preferred for drivers who indulge in sudden acceleration and sudden stopping.

Otherwise choice of wheels should be largely a question of taste and the matter of keeping them clean. Discs are easiest on this score. Wood wheels still are a compromise.

Do More Than Intended

Motorists are just beginning to realize that such efficiency devices as air and oil filters are more beneficial to engines than they were originally intended to be. The air cleaner, for instance, was designed to keep dirt out of the cylinders in order to lessen the wear on the walls. In practice this device is saving the bearings as well.

Oil is not as dirty as it used to be when drained off because breather pipes are capped and dust is kept out of the cylinders. Some engines are designed so that air is drawn off the crankcase constantly in order to ventilate it and minimize oil dilution. Naturally this keeps the oil cleaner by preventing dust from entering.

Jovial Taft Fights Cheerfully To Regain His Health In South

By L. A. BROPHY

Washington—(AP)—With the same cheerful attitude that has ruled his life, William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, is fighting to regain a working portion of the abundant health that carried him through a public career without parallel.

Mr. Taft was perceptibly ill when he entered a hospital here for treatment before going to Asheville, N. C., where he now is making apparent progress.

He was well enough, however, to walk to the receiving room of the hospital, and he said to the attendant, with a chuckle: "Well, young lady, have you a room for me?"

Mr. Taft has been a part of Washington life so long that the capital's concern over his recent acute illness was almost a tangible thing.

He was just 32 when he came here in 1890 as solicitor general of the United States. In the years up to and including his tenure of the White House he was a permanent and semi-permanent Washingtonian, until in 1921 he moved to the capital as chief justice of the United States, under appointment of President Harding.

It has only been in recent years that illness has aided a detouring hand on the Taft activity. The chief justice was forced to give up his almost daily walk to the supreme court.

Pedestrians who had come to know and venerate the man striding along with a smile of common companionship that encompassed the great, the near great and the unobtrusive, felt his absence keenly.

When the chief justice was too ill to journey at all to court, the capital felt another loss, for then it was denied an amiable glimpse of him riding up Pennsylvania avenue in the morning and down in the late afternoon.

The Taft chuckle and the Taft cheer make friends and admirers a legion hard to count.

It was as a walker in Washington—it is a two miles from the Taft home to the supreme court—that his humanness best became publically known. He never became impatient with the curious who spoke to him, and he never failed to salute a friend.

William Howard Taft, chief justice of the United States, striding in the manner that has made him one of Washington's most famous pedestrians.

Salvatore Cortesi, Rome correspondent for The Associated Press, walking down a Washington street, was hailed by Mr. Taft with: "Hello, there! How are you?"

Don't you remember? I met you 15 years ago in Rome.

There is the classic story of the chief justice and a painter. The workman, on a scaffold, failed to recognize the stout pedestrian near his ladder as he dropped a brush. "Hand it to me, will you, buddy?" he queried.

"Certainly," responded the chief justice of the United States.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Breakfast in Bed)
 Question:—Mrs. S. H. J. asks: "What would you advise me to do for my mother 86 years old who has sinking spells every morning when she gets up, although she has her breakfast in bed. What diet would you advise for a person at that age to take all the time?"

Answer:—I would advise your mother to get up slowly each morning and take some light exercise before she has her breakfast. Calisthenic exercises are especially beneficial to one of advanced age, providing these exercises are taken carefully and slowly. The diet should be well balanced, with special care being used to take only small amounts of all of the foods eaten, using half the amount that a young person might be able to use without harm.

(Acne Rosacea)
 Question:—Worried writes: "I have been told by a friend that I have acne rosacea. Kindly tell me what it is and what I can do for it?"

Answer:—Acne rosacea is simply a kind of skin disorder which comes definitely from intestinal putrefaction and the reabsorption of poisons. It can always be entirely cured through the proper diet, with special care to intestinal cleanliness.

Hoover 'Business Doctor' Began His Career At 12

Washington—(AP)—Julius H. Barnes, leader of the Hoover attempt to stimulate American business, hired out 44 years ago as an errand boy in a Duluth grain buying office.

He was 12, and necessarily forced him to leave school.

Barnes insists he has never left the grain business since, although the current of events for him has flowed far afield. The present year finds him dwelling at 2 Fifth avenue, New York City, but commuting to Washington while admittedly practicing the role of business doctor.

As is the case with most of the new men who formulate affairs for the United States today, it was war with Germany which turned Barnes from a reportedly ultra-prosperous grain handler to a practically permanent status as unofficial public servant.

He now is chairman of the board of the United States Chamber of Commerce and intimate business consultant of President Hoover.

Hoover, then war time food administrator, picked Barnes to head the United States Grain Corporation, which bought and sold the continent's export grain crop for nearly three years, enjoying a business volume of some $300,000,000, winding up with a small profit and vanishing soon after the armies demobilized.

But the close association of Hoover and Barnes failed to pass; the Duluth man became an ardent supporter of the nine-year-long presidential campaign that saw Mr. Hoover finally enter the White House.

He entered the national chamber organization as a director in 1922 to help with the Hoover policy of cooperation between business and government.

With an extraordinarily wide acquaintance among important figures of the business world, with a naturally democratic personality and unbounded energy, and with a long-extended intimacy with the President, Barnes almost automatically became "contact man" for the administration when the novel economic conferences were called after the recent stock market break.

He supervised the selection of business leaders called to Washington to survey the outlook for 1930 and Washington gossip—sometimes entirely dependable—credits him

Youths Believe Buffalo Will Finance Schooling

Edmond, Kas.—(AP)—Selling buffalo meat to large hotels is the plan by which Harry and Paul Griffith hope to finance their college education.

The brothers are feeding three buffalo calves for market in the belief that the flavor of buffalo steak will prove attractive to clientele of large hostleries. Through scientific feeding, the boys have fattened the animals from 300 to 800 pounds.

Should their experiment prove successful, the brothers plan to raise buffalo on a large scale. Now Paul has charge of their "ranch" while his brother attends the Kansas State Agricultural college.

"What a difference," says HARTFORD mother

"MY little daughter, Patricia, suffered from constipation until she was very weak and pale," says Mrs. Nicholas Lynch, 162 Withersfield Ave., Hartford, Conn. "She got so we had to force her to eat, and nothing agreed with her. 'What a difference there is since we've been giving her California Fig Syrup. She began to pick up with the first dose. Now she's well, strong and happy, with a splendid appetite and wonderful color.'

When bad breath, coated tongue or fretfulness warn of constipation, don't wait. Give your child a little California Fig Syrup. A child loves it. Headaches, feverishness, biliousness vanish with its use. Weak stomach and bowels are strengthened. Appetite improves. Digestion and assimilation are assisted. Weak children are strengthened.

To identify the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years, look for the word California on the carton.

Pomp And Circumstance Fade In Socialist England

By BATES RANEY.

London—(AP)—Democratic simplicity of dress is one of the quiet reforms going on almost unnoticed in England, reforms which are causing much of the pomp and circumstance to disappear from this land where things frequently are done now because they were so done centuries ago.

Gaudy uniforms are giving way to plain "civies" and lengthy modes of address to the short but respectful "Mr. Secretary." Naturally these changes receive impetus from the socialist labor party government.

One of the latest manifestations of the movement came from King George himself when he intimated that cabinet members might wear ordinary evening dress at court functions instead of the customary levee dress. That costume consisted of a uniform heavily embroidered with gold lace and costing about $600.

There are several heads of government departments who can not afford such an outlay.

The influence has come out openly in the foreign office where Arthur Henderson is now correctly referred to as "Mr. Secretary." Formerly it was the invariable rule that the holders of this office should be called "His Majesty's Secretary of State For Foreign Affairs."

The tendency is marked too in the House of Commons where even frock coats are less seldom seen, even on the backs of members of the late conservative government.

Winston Churchill now wears lounge suits although his attire was chancellor of the exchequer. Sir Austin Chamberlain frequently appears in a lounge suit and button shoes. Stanley Baldwin former prime minister, is seldom seen these days in a tailed garment.

The front bench where the cabinet sits is generally lacking in sartorial glory now. Occasionally J. H. Thomas, unofficial "minister of employment," gladdens the house with a sight of the dress suit which he donned when he became Lord of the Privy Seal, but at other times his sack coat flies widely open and his pockets bulge.

Paradoxically the front bench depends upon "Mr. Secretary Henderson" to maintain the traditions of the tail coat. He has the figure for formal attire and carries it well.

Ramsay MacDonald, prime minister, is so fond of loose, comfortable clothing that he admits an innate incapacity to dress himself "in accordance with the office I hold."

The head of the government prefers to dress in the neat comfortable fashion adopted by the American business man, rather than in the formal attire urged for the House of Commons by tradition and Saville Row. This recently brought upon him the ire of a tailor's magazine which described Mr. MacDonald as "the worst dressed premier the country has ever known."

Hitherto that distinction has been reserved for the late Lord Salisbury. It was facetiously reported and widely believed that his lordship was measured for his clothes while sitting down.

Mr. MacDonald likes best the clothes he wears on unofficial occasions. His normal attire is a dark grey or brown lounge suit. Only when some function outside the House of Commons requires formal dress does he appear in it in parliament.

of Prince Yusupoff, in the basement of which the notorious monk Gregory Rasputin was shot to death. A part of this palace is set aside for a workers' center.

The palace contains millions of dollars worth of rare paintings, tapestries, bronzes, sculptures and furniture. Whatever hopes their owner may have had of getting any of these treasures to his present home in Paris, have been squelched by the decree making his home and furnishings a national possession.

Another Leningrad museum of evil report is the former fortress of St. Peter and St. Paul on the banks of the Neva. It is stripped bare, a condition which adds sombreness to the tales of soviet guides concerning the manner in which political prisoners of the czars were allowed to rot in its gloomy dungeons.

Then there is the royal palace in the suburb of Tsarsko-Selo, just as Czar Nicolas and his wife and children left it. The icons which the czarina worshipped under the tutelage of Rasputin, the dolls and miniature furniture of the princesses and the American Teddy bear and toboggan slide with which the sickly heir apparent amused himself, are still where they were that night in August, 1917, when the royal family departed by the rear portals of their home.

Then if one has time and inclination he can travel some 1700 miles eastward into Siberia and visit another museum, the most tragic of all. It is the two-story house in Ekaterinburg in which Emperor Nicolas, his wife and four children were murdered. For a fee of ten cents visitors may even enter a basement room and see upon the walls and floor the dull red stains left by the bullets and bayonets that obliterated the rulers of old Russia.

IRVING MEMORIAL

MUSEUMS SHOW TRAGIC LUXURY OF OLD RUSSIA

By JAMES A. MILLS

Moscow—(AP)—Establishment of museums, one of the chief fetiches of the soviets, continues in all parts of the union.

Palaces, churches, synagogues and other structural relics of the czarist regime are constantly being dedicated to education of the present day proletariat. They usually contain treasures and art objects intact, in order to show the masses the luxury and extravagance in which the aristocrats of the by-gone era lived.

Incidentally the government, in its fight against religion closed more than 450 religious institutions in 1929. These included churches, monasteries, mosques and synagogues but the Anti-Religious Society estimates that there are still 50,000 churches open in the union. The closed institutions have been made over into schools, homes, clubs, hospitals, libraries or museums.

In this last category are included the $11,000,000 cathedral of St. Isaac and the Kazan cathedral, one of the riches in old Russia, both in Leningrad. The Church of the Redeemer, built at a cost of $7,000,000 to celebrate the deliverance of Moscow from Napoleon, and the Petchorsky monastery in Kiev, an eleventh century structure which was claimed to be the oldest religious edifice in Russia.

Another late addition to the museum list is the palace in Leningrad

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Friday, January 31.

Three Hearts Aflame is the name of the drama which WABO and associated stations will broadcast at 9 o'clock Friday night. The story concerns two sisters, both in love with the same man. The younger sister was a dainty blond coquette, the older one the serious Cinderella of the family. Brought up by her parents to take second place, the older girl stepped aside even in love, to make way for the happiness of her more beautiful sister. A question forms the climax of the story. The familiar descriptive piece, "Marche Militaire" by Franz Schubert, will be featured in the program which commemorates the anniversary of this composer's birthday in a concert to be broadcast over the WEAF network at the Works of Donizetti, Weber and Bellini, contemporary of Schubert, complete the concert which will be directed by Ludwig Kurter. The music will be in the form of a dinner concert.

CORN BELTERS LOOK FOR HOT VOTE BATTLES

Chicago.—(AP)—The corn belt is to have some old time politics in its 1930 primaries, with regular republicans in four states itching to oust progressive senators whose terms expire. Five republicans and one democratic incumbent of the prairie region seek to keep "U. S. Senate" on their letterheads. George W. Norris of Nebraska, Thomas D. Schall of Minnesota, William H. McMaster of South Dakota and James Couzens of Michigan are progressives; Charles S. Deneen of Illinois is a regular and Dan Chief of Iowa a democrat.

ANDOVER

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace Woodin and Mrs. Randall Jones, visited the Memorial Hospital in Manchester Monday to see the latter's husband, Randall Jones, who is being treated for a shock he suffered last week. They reported his condition as being about the same. Mrs. George Nelson went to Boston Monday to see her mother, Mrs. Kline, who is in a hospital in that city for treatments. Eugene Thompson has returned home from the Hartford Hospital, where he has been under observation for a few days. The topic for the C. E. meeting Sunday evening will be, "How many true Endeavourers Crusade for Christ?" Guy Bartlett, jr., will be the leader. Wednesday morning sparks from the chimney set fire to the roof of the house owned by E. A. Standish and occupied by Frank Schatz and family. A telephone call was sent out and help arrived immediately, and by quick work they soon had it extinguished. Mrs. Frank Hamilton who has been sick with a hard cold is recovering. Miss Carpenter, one of the teachers at the local school was hurt Tuesday evening while coasting on Long Hill. She was taken to a doctor and then to her home. Miss Dorothy Cook taught in Miss Carpenter's room Wednesday. Thomas Lewis and son Burton, Arthur Savage, Mr. White and Donald Tuttle attended the Farm Bureau meeting in Hebron Tuesday evening. Miss Annie Mathewson has a hard cold and is not able to attend school this week. Mr. and Mrs. Harry Wilburn were callers in Willimantic Tuesday.

LONDON TO ENTERTAIN OUR ENVOYS TOMORROW

London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The social amenities are continuing to play their part in the activities of the naval conference delegations and of their wives and women folk. The principal American delegates and their wives tomorrow will go to Chequer's as luncheon guests of Premier MacDonald and Miss Isabel. Senator and Mrs. Robinson will be guests of the Stimson's at Stanmore, Colonel Stimson's country place, Sunday. The principal Italian delegation, Dino Grandi and Signora Grandi took the opportunity of a little slack time in conference affairs this morning to go sight seeing about London. They visited the Tower of London first and planned later to go to Windsor and look the royal castle over.

THE LAXATIVE WITH HIGHEST ENDORSEMENT

When you get out of bed feeling headachy, sluggish, weak, half-sick, here's a simple measure that will have you feeling yourself again in a jiffy. Take a little Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water—or lemonade. Two to four tablespoonfuls is the usual adult dose. Taken in lemonade, Phillips Milk of Magnesia acts like citrate of magnesia. Take it like this an hour before breakfast. By the time you leave home, you'll be surprised by your improvement. As a mild, safe, pleasant laxative, Phillips Milk of Magnesia has the highest medical endorsement. As an anti-acid to correct sour stomach, gas, indigestion, biliousness, it has been standard with doctors for over fifty years. To know its quick relief in digestive and eliminative troubles of men, women, children—and babies—is to keep a bottle always handy. Full directions for all its uses come with every bottle. All drug stores have the generous 25c and 50c sizes. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co. and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

Danish Premier Would Model European Union On America

(Theodore Stauning, prime minister of Denmark, who has contributed this article exclusively for the Associated Press, worked his way up from a cigar maker's bench. He was born in humble circumstances and has earned his own bread since he was 13 years old. His first political office came 20 years later when he was elected to the Folketing. He soon became leader of the Danish Labor Party and in 1924 formed the first labor government in Denmark. His present official regime dates from April, 1929.)

By Th. Stauning.
Copenhagen (AP)—To this European generation, the idea of an United Europe is by no means distasteful. The chaotic state in which the Great War left Europe calls for sober thought and many of us now look with admiration to the United States of America as an example for Europe to follow.

Over there one finds a systematized cooperation between a number of states. These states do not fight each other by customs restrictions or by armed forces, and on the whole, the conditions of life in these American states are of such a nature that they might well be wished for in this Europe of ours.

What has been possible for the United States of America, so young in their present form, is, however, not just so easy to carry through in the ancient states of a United Europe. There are more, monetary systems, money-institutions in all countries, and there are a number of industrial concerns, which up till now have competed with each other.

Customs walls hamper commercial intercourse between the various states, and these restrictions are not merely of a protective nature. Often they form important factors in the economic life of the various states.

The state of culture and the political and economic interests of the states are conflicting. There are larger states and smaller states.

An informal portrait of Th. Stauning (left), prime minister of Denmark, talking with Dr. Laue Koch, noted explorer, on the latter's return from a voyage to the northern limits of Greenland.

and the economic life of the latter are threatened by that of the former.

There are perhaps a hundred or more problems to be solved, private or national interests to be safeguarded, when some day this question is to be tackled.

To these problems must be added the safe-guarding of the new world-organization which was the result of the Versailles Treaty. The League of Nations comprises interests European as well as extra-European nations, and I consider it to be of the utmost importance for Europe that peaceful co-operation is secured between the European nations and those of the other parts of the world.

In my speech at the session of the League in September 1929, I expressed the opinion that the League of Nations ought to show the greatest interest in the United States of Europe suggestion as outlined by M. Briand of France I still firmly believe that the more intimate co-operation between the various nations must be planned and controlled by the League of Nations.

I do not believe that a more intimate co-operation between the various European nations is impossible, but I will not buy that chance at the cost of destruction of that great organization, the League of Nations. Altogether, I do not expect too great results from the United States of Europe efforts in the immediate future, and would, therefore, be extremely happy to see the organization of the League of Nations further strengthened.

I sincerely hope that the co-operation between the European nations will grow. It is a real necessity. On the other hand, I am not so great an optimist that I am blinded to the many obstacles that must be overcome, before we can arrive at that United Europe about which I have been requested to put forth my point of view.

GERMANY'S BEER SALES FORECAST NATIONAL WEALTH

By WADE WERNER
Berlin (AP)—Beer is more than a beverage in Germany. It is a barometer of national prosperity, and the reading just now is "fair and warmer."

Figures published by the commissioner of controlled revenues operating under the Dawes plan, show that while Germans are not drinking nearly so much beer as before the war, the steady increase in consumption within five years warrants a deduction that the country is getting back into its industrial stride.

In the fiscal year 1924-25, the commissioner points out, Germans quaffed an aggregate of 40,700,000 hectolitres of the national drink. That was far below the pre-war figures of 68,500,000 hectolitres. But in the following year there was an increase of 6,000,000 hectolitres, and by the end of the fiscal year 1928-29 the beer barometer had climbed to 55,200,000 hectolitres.

While some of this growing consumption may have been due to an increase in the national thirst, the commissioner's report refers to it as one indication of a "consolidation of the economic situation" which, in the past few years, has enabled German workers to buy not only more beer but more luxury goods generally.

The rise in beer consumption has been steady too in spite of higher beer taxes with consequent increases in the retail price. The per capita consumption rose from 65 litres in 1924 to 87 litres in 1929.

BUY TERRY FARM
London (AP)—J. P. Morgan of New York has given $1,000 toward a $50,000 fund intended for purchase of Ellen Terry's farm at Small Hythe, Kent. The picturesque farm house would be turned into a museum in memory of the famous actress.

PAINTING RESTORED
Zwickau, Germany (AP)—Lucas Cranach's famous painting showing Jesus washing the feet of the Apostles, has been restored as part of the renovation of the Church of St. Catherine here. In 1522 Martin Luther preached in the church a sermon against too rapid acceptance of new things.

Hollywood Sights

By ROBBIN COONS.

Hollywood—Imagine being literally torn away from the delights of shark-fishing in the waters around Bermuda to join a Hollywood gold rush in which you're not particularly interested!

That was what happened to Polly Walker, little singing heroine, of George M. Cohan's recent New York musical comedies, "Billie" and "The Malones," who was rushed out to play opposite Jack Oakie in the talkie-single of "Hit the Deck."

"I was having the grandest time on my vacation, in Bermuda, when my manager sent for me to come straight on back to New York," she says. "I didn't want to go. He said I'd have to, because all the stage people were breaking their necks trying to get calls to Hollywood."

"Well, I went, and although the idea of Hollywood did not appeal much, as I wanted to stay in New York. I took talkie tests with Fox. While I was still taking them, Mr. Hart—that's my manager—phoned that he had already signed me up for this picture. So, willy-nilly, here I am."

It might have been "nilly" then, but it is certainly "willy" now. Polly has fallen in love with California.

Filler—High and Far.
Miss Walker comes from a theatrical and circus family. She made her stage debut as an infant, a baby "prop." And at 3 she spoke her first lines.

"I was supposed to be dead, and I fell asleep, so they naturally thought I was a great actress—they had to pinch me to get me up later," she laughed.

She likes shark-fishing—she actually caught some of the finny monsters—and one of her ambitions is to fly to Honolulu.

"Atraid? Not if I had a good pilot and a good plane. And why not—why fly to Catalina, don't we?"

At Random.
Ferdinand Schumann-Heink, son of the operatic contralto, has a part in Eddie Dowling's new talkie... And Jose Bohy, who came to star in the Spanish version of the same picture, will remain in star in English talkies as well... He made the grade, and knows English perfectly.

Large numbers of Russians, with businesses of their own in Los Angeles and Hollywood, are on regular call for extra work in motion pictures... They like it... James J. Corbett, one-time heavyweight prize ring champion, is making a film comeback in a new talkie...

That famous "swan dance" of Fannie Brice, used by her in her first talkie, "My Man" will be seen again in her second, "The Champ."

REIMBURSE ALSATIANS

Strasburg (AP)—Frenchmen who were German citizens of Alsace and Lorraine when the war started, are to be reimbursed by France for war damages but there are 7,000 claims and only $500,000 available to meet all of them, an average of $70 apiece after a wait of 11 years.

Several reductions have been made in the income tax this year, among them one by Congress and one by the Wall Street bears.

CONSTRUCTION AND ROADWORK

Warren—Woodville road, steam shovel grading and macadam partially completed. Work suspended for winter.
Westport and Weston, Lyons Plains road, construction stopped for winter. No delay to traffic.
Westport Saugatuck Ave., and Franklin streets, rock being blasted. No delay to traffic.

LIQUOR HEARINGS

Aside from the fact that it is a distinct gain for rationalism that the House Judiciary Committee has consented to hold hearings on seven measures seeking the repeal or amendment of the prohibition laws, no immediate results are likely to follow. If by any chance the committee should report any one of the proposed measures, it would not be considered on its merits by the House, let alone by the Senate.

There are three bills each of which calls for absolute repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, another requires a national referendum on the amendment, one calls for the restoration of states' rights in the control of liquor, one provides for legalizing three per cent beer and light wines and another, introduced by Representative Sabath of Illinois, proposes to amend the Eighteenth amendment by extending the power to Congress to govern the manufacture, transportation and sale of liquor under government permits and in packages.

It will probably be a great many years before the repeal of the amendment is possible, even though the vast majority of the people of the country should soon become convinced of its undesirability. When repeal is talked about it should be always remembered that, even if it were possible to get two-thirds of the members of both houses of Congress to vote for it, less than three million persons living in thirteen unpopulous states could legally defeat the will of a hundred and fifteen million living in thirty-five populous states by refusing to ratify the repeal action of the national legislature. With the huge bootlegging rings, capable of spending millions of dollars, lobbying in those small states against the repeal, it is easy to see the substantial impossibility of getting rid of the Eighteenth amendment, as a whole, by legislation. At least so long as churches and reformers persist in aligning themselves with the racketeers and the illicit liquor interests.

Nor does the proposal to validate the sale of three per cent beer offer the best of all possible ways out of the prohibition dilemma. We agree, in this matter, with the radical dries who insist that the legalizing of light beer and wines would put an end to prohibition because it would leave the laws against heavy intoxicants practically impossible of enforcement and would make it even easier than it now is to violate them. An end to federal prohibition is greatly to be desired, to be sure, but not, if any other way is open, through the restoration of the open saloon, and this wine and beer proposal points directly to that institution.

Just possibly another and better way may open, before a great many years have passed, through such a measure as that proposed by Representative Sabath. Amendment, rather than repeal of the Eighteenth amendment, holds promise of real reform.

Under the Sabath amendment Congress would be able to deal with the liquor question in an intelligent and serious way. Under it Congress could give the states the choice of a dry prohibition or of legalizing the sale of liquor under government permit, in the original way, and under any desired restrictions. It would restore the rights of the states in very large measures and it would remove all reasonable ground for complaint against the tyrannies of Volsteadism. It would, we are convinced, take liquor out of the public eye and the public mind to a marked extent—something that will never in the world be accomplished under the present system.

Of course there is next to no likelihood of the Sabath proposal getting a fair amount of consideration from the radical dries, or of its meeting with the slightest success in the present Congress. But it looks like the best thing in sight, just the same, and it is possible that anti-prohibition sentiment may crystallize, before long, in support of just such a plan.

"MISSING"

The fact that no less than seven Connecticut persons have recently been reported to the police as missing is attracting considerable attention and causing some people to wonder why there should be so many of these cases all of a sudden.

It is always true, in any period of industrial or economic unsettlement, that the number of disappearances of this sort shows a sharp increase. That is one of the most regrettable accompaniments of every period of unemployment and of business depression, great or slight.

In the first place there are always, in the business world, a good many individuals who manage to drift along with the tide and keep their heads above water so long as times are flush and credit very easy indeed, but who, when a pinch comes, not only find it impossible to continue but advisable to withdraw secretly from the scenes of their operations. Then there are the job seekers who take a run out of town for a day or two, and for any one of a hundred reasons never come back and, through sheer neglect or indifference, fail to tell their friends of their whereabouts. Last of all there are the girls who have become accustomed to diversions and luxuries beyond their normal means, whose stamina is not equal to the strain of financial difficulties.

Always, the "missing" list grows when there is a let down, even for a little while, in business.

HIT-AND-RUNNERS

There is a disposition on the part of some persons and at least one newspaper in this state to regard compulsory liability insurance as a probable cure for the evil of the hit-and-run automobile driver. While we are of open mind concerning compulsory insurance, with leanings in the direction of such a law, we don't believe that it would have the slightest effect in lessening the number of hit-and-run cases. The motorist who flees from the scene of an accident is simply all wrong morally. He is governed by animal instinct. The fact that he is carrying financial responsibility would make very little difference to him because it is not payment in money that he is evading but the penalties of the criminal law. They have plenty of hit-and-run drivers in Massachusetts, where the financial liability of the car owner is taken care of by the state.

We shall have these creatures with us always until one of two things transpires—the discovery of some way of keeping inhumanly selfish and inhumanly cowardly drivers off the road or until the courts cease the practice of letting off detected hit-and-runners with a slap on the wrist.

When about three people have gone to state's prison for ten years as the price of running away after killing or injuring other persons in automobile accidents it may occur to their kind of driver that the risk in running is greater than the risk in standing by.

ARCTIC HARDIHOOD

Some miles from the point where the plane of Ben Eielson, Arctic flyer, crashed on the dark Siberian littoral, searchers have discovered the hut of a solitary Russian trapper. The man had seen or heard nothing of the plane. It had fallen half a dozen miles inland. The trapper's camp was placed where he could run his lines along the shore and on the piled up ridges of the Arctic ice—close to the edge of the northern sea.

There is something vastly intriguing about that lonely figure, living away up there such an infinite distance from human kind, all through the sunless winter, without companionship save, presumably, that of his dogs.

There is simply no limit to the hardihood, the stark, unconscious courage of some of these hermit-like men of the far north. It would almost seem as if there is something in the polar influence that drives the element of fear clean out of the souls of men.

GOES ADVENTURING

From his pulpit last Sunday a Bridgeport clergyman, departing somewhat from the recognized purposes of the hour, declared that he had every reason to believe that a certain young girl of that city, whose absence from home had been reported to the police, was in the hands of a white slave ring and a prisoner in a place of worse than questionable character. The reverend gentleman related the chain of evidence which had driven him to the very dreadful conclusion which he had accepted. It was all very startling and it was shocking in-meeting with the slightest success in the present Congress. But it looks like the best thing in sight, just the same, and it is possible that anti-prohibition sentiment may crystallize, before long, in support of just such a plan.

It transpired later that the girl was living at the Y. W. C. A. in Hartford at the very moment when the minister's evidence showed her to be in the hands of the white slavers.

Now we wonder how far the cause of religion or morality or good order has been advanced by this excursion of the imaginative person into the fields of police work. Or the interests of the girl in the case. Also we wonder whether the Hartford W. C. T. U. re-lishes the implication upon its respectability. And lastly we wonder what terms the clergyman would have employed to describe a newspaper which printed such a yarn when its accuracy could have been shot all to pieces by a twenty-five cent telephone call.

KNOWS IT ALL

To Senator Brookhart, Iowa dry, goes the palm for accuracy of information on the liquor situation. When he told the Senate that "even the policemen in New York have to go to Canada for their liquor," he stamped and sealed his qualifications to speak as an authority.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Jan. 31.—Of all the smash song that ever came out of Tin Pan Alley, "The Beautiful Ohio" heads the parade. This creation sold more than three million copies at the peak of its popularity. The other day I ran across an odd story connected with this song. It goes something like this:

The name of "Mary Carle" has come dancing down the years. But Mary is a nice fatherly old fellow by the name of Billy King, one of the pioneers in song writing. This might sound as though Mary were two other people. Well, she was. But King started out in life as Bill Kaiser. When the war clouds began to gather, he found himself wearing the moniker of the German monarch, he decided not only to change his name but also to write his songs under another name. He felt it would seem more romantic if a woman appeared as the composer. So when "My Sweetheart Is Somewhere in France" appeared, "Mary Carle" was born. Up and down the Gay White Way and in the show shops of the nation this Mary Carle grew famous.

Meanwhile, a fast grayling old gent sat back and laughed heartily at the success of his invented personality. Only recently did he choose to reveal his little secret.

Speaking of musical things there has been one of those endless arguments going on in the Broadway belt over the inception of the grand old song, "Hail, Hail, the Gang's All Here." Someone traced it to Gilbert and Sullivan and found that the opening notes were those of a Sullivan composition. But now comes Jack Mills with the information that Sullivan had done a little "lifting" in his time and that the tune dates way back to an old English operetta, "Richard the Lion Hearted," and was something of a bawdy tavern song even then.

And here's a little plot, which I hand on a platter to any short story writer who cares to develop papers which are scattered about the outskirts of New York, there was a copy desk of three people. To the uninitiated, it might be explained that a copy desk is the spot where news stories are read, edited, and headlines are written for them.

The three readers include a man, his wife and a second man. Working together over a period of years, they all got to be quite chummy. A few nights ago, the husband appeared for work, but his wife didn't. When the second man came in, the husband expressed himself as worried.

He hadn't heard from his wife for several hours. She hadn't been at the house when he left for work and he hadn't been able to get her on the telephone.

The other sympathized and then ran through some odd sheets of copy upon the desk. After a few moments, the second man suddenly put on his coat and hat and went to the typewriter. After typing, he put his story in an envelope and went out. When he reached the street, he called a messenger boy and told him to deliver the letter to the newspaper copy desk man.

And he never came back. An hour later, the editor walked through the office and found his lone copy reader crumpled up on the desk, his head buried in his hands. Before him was a story, to which he had to write a head. It told him that his wife had eloped with another man.

The couple, by the way, are now in Hollywood. They have married and both write for the films. GILBERT SWAN.

FREIGHT TRAIN DERAILED

Groton, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Thirteen heavily loaded cars of a Worcester to Concord, N. H., freight train on the Worcester and Nashua Railroad, Me., Division of the Boston and Maine railroad were derailed here today after one of the cars had struck a broken rail. No serious traffic tieup resulted. Only two passenger trains ran over the line each day. Arrangements were made to carry passengers around the wreck area in buses to waiting trains. Railroad officials said the locomotive and first three cars of the train went over the broken rail without trouble. The fourth car was derailed, however, causing 12 others to leave the tracks. None of them were badly damaged and wrecking crews from Ayer and Concord came here to place them back on the rails.

By RODNEY DUTCHER
New Service Writer

Washington, Jan. 31.—These are terrible days for political leadership. In fact, there isn't any.

It can't be found in the House, the Senate or the White House. The House is a mere machine, dictated to by a few conservative bosses who are no more to be regarded as political leaders than Secretary Mellon, whose job is to enforce prohibition, is considered the leader of the dries.

President Hoover's leadership is not of the political variety. Some of his best friends say he has always been politically inept, still is and always will be. In view of the way things Republican have gone to pieces in the Senate without presidential interference, that may be true.

Followers Are Scarce
The Senate, of course, is the horrible example—horrible that is, if one believes that a single united majority should be in constant and undivided control, directed by a few hard-boiled, unchallenged leaders as in the House. Every time anyone in the Senate sets up as a leader and starts to charge, he turns around and finds that he has no followers.

All of which is not written with any attempt at superciliousness or with the kind of name-calling that has been little argument on that point for a long time, but it has such a strong bearing on the present situation here as to raise again the question how long the pretense can be maintained.

The Senate situation shows how it is working out. Politicians over the country are divided between the "ins" and the "outs," the "ins" in national political affairs being the Republicans. That's the difference between the two parties. The House also operates on an "ins" and "outs" basis. But although the Democrats in the Senate oppose the administration as a matter of policy and as often as the "ins" variety of politics in the whole house is divided, sub-divided and cross-divided by a jumble of geographical, economic and political lines.

So much has been said about the division of the Republicans because their troubles—as those of the party in power—have been so interesting and important from the legislative standpoint. But one may recall that the Democrats are still far from healing their own serious factional troubles, even though fighting the Hoover administration in Congress may hold them together most of the time.

As soon as one gets a group of Democrats off to one side one finds the same old marked differences between the southern Democrats, the northern Democrats and the western Democrats—the last as represented here by Senator Wheeler of Montana and Dill of Washington. There isn't a leader capable of welding that crowd together, either.

Republican progressives in the Senate seem to be the most important Senate group at this time because they joined with the Democrats to smash the stiff rates in the Howley-Smoot tariff bill. But by themselves they are numerically hardly important among 96 senators and they cut almost no figure as a bloc in national politics. Not one has shown symptoms of political leadership except in the Democratic-insurgent coalition of recent origin.

Old Guard Is Helpless
The Old Guard, which led the party for so long both in national politics and in Congress, is in even worse shape. Its surviving war-horses still represent their old theory of reactionary, high-protection politics, but they aren't even backed by the administration anymore. They can't even use the old reliable battle-cry "Stand by the President!" Having no issue to create leadership or inspire respect for except a drive for sky-high duties for which there was little support, they were easily sunk.

The so-called Young Guard, those Republican senators neither in the Old Guard nor insurgent group, is strong numerically but so up in the air, otherwise that many observers already have announced its demise as a separate faction. Nevertheless, it is strong in numbers and still offers an opportunity for organization and leadership. Someone in the group may grasp the opportunity yet. There does not seem to be any real issue for it to unite upon, but it is friendly to Mr. Hoover and the "Stand by the President" battle-cry is lying ready at hand to be picked up by somebody.

One week, change to a milk diet. The best milk for this purpose is raw certified Holstein milk. Use one large glassful every hour, starting at seven o'clock in the morning and finishing at six o'clock at night. This will take three quarts of milk per day. After ten days the amount can be gradually increased by taking a glassful every half hour during the afternoon. In this way you can use from four to five quarts a day, and if you assimilate this quantity you should gradually increase the amount until you are able to take a glassful every half hour during the entire day. In this way you will consume six quarts of milk daily.

The milk diet should be continued for at least one month and at least one enema should be used daily, even though the bowels should begin to move naturally.

Severe cases of neuralgia may require at least a month of the milk diet. In returning to a regular diet you must be very careful to employ only the right food combinations. In order to do this, you should make a thorough study of food chemistry so that you will know how to supply your body with all of the elements that it requires and avoid creating new toxins. This treatment may seem to be a little bit severe but one who is suffering from neuralgia is willing to undergo anything that will bring relief. Results from this dietetic method of treatment are much more permanently satisfactory than any other remedy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Mice and Food.)
Question—Miss H. J. M. asks: "Can there be any serious impairment to one's health as the result of mice traveling over clothing and foods?"
Answer: Mice and other members of the rodent family can easily carry contamination from one place to another. Many diseases and plagues have been transmitted in this way.

(Cracking in Joints.)
Question—Reader asks: "Is it a sign of rheumatism when the bones crack at the elbows and knees?"
Answer: Yes, it is sometimes a sign of the approach of rheumatism when the ligaments or bones make a cracking sound, but this is by no means a sure sign that the trouble is a forerunner of rheumatism, as an absence of the lubricating fluids in the joints might be responsible for the same cracking effect.

Guatemalan In U. S. Aims At Non-Stop Flight Home

Washington—(AP)—A young Guatemalan whose grand passion is science and aviation wishes to show the world that a non-stop airplane trip from New York to Guatemala is both safe and practical.

He is William F. Samayoa, 24-year-old graduate of Catholic university here, who expects to take off from one of the Long Island fields sometime in the spring, alone in a small biplane.

With the double purpose of demonstrating the practicality of refueling in the air on long distance flights and stimulating aviation interest in his native country, Samayoa says that he has been assured financial support.

It is the theory of this intense, dark-haired Latin, who came to the United States about 10 years ago, that most of the mishaps of long distance flights or and shortly after the take-off have been due to planes too heavily loaded to stay aloft.

Before he leaves New York on his expected 2,400 mile journey, he is to practice refueling in the air.

Every precaution will be taken against mishaps. In addition to safeguarding the plane at the takeoff, it will be equipped with floats. Departing about 3 o'clock in the afternoon, he plans to fly over the waters fringing the Atlantic coast to Miami, where he will refuel in the air, if necessary.

From Miami his route lies over Key West, Havana, along the Yucatan coast, and down to Guatemala City by way of Belize Honduras. He expects to land in Lake Amatitlan, estate of his father near Guatemala City.

He will wear a parachute, but will carry no special instruments to help him. The coast line will be his guide, and he expects to have moonlight at night.

William F. Samayoa (above) Guatemalan, plans to make a non-stop flight from New York to Guatemala in the spring to prove the practicability of the trip.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Los Angeles—Hal Leseur, film actor, who has obtained a divorce, said in court that his wife had gone completely Hollywood by insisting on separate apartments.

New York—It seems that Mary Garden involuntarily has been a cupid. Esther Johnson says that Mary enabled her sister Edna Louise to go to Paris and study drama. Now Edna is Mrs. Dudley Field Malone.

London—One of the richest bachelors has become richer. Sir Phillip Sassoon, 41, grandson of a nabob and formerly undersecretary for air, has inherited $750,000 from a cousin.

New York—Gwen Taylor, actress and daughter of an Army aviator, who says she has parachuted from planes seven times in daddy's safety devices, has leaped into matrimony again. Jimmy Ardell, who was in a show with her, is her second husband. Her first marriage, to James Davis, another actor, was followed by an annulment. Betty Grace Tucker is Gwen's real name.

Brockton, Mass.—Primo Carnera wears size 21 shoes in the ring. They are nine inches beam and 1 1/2 from bow to stern; gross tonnage and draught unrecorded. A pair was made for him here.

Chicago—George Smart, who had been trying to learn to be an automobile mechanic, is dead, a suicide. For years a mighty man was he, a smith, who merrily fashioned shoes for horses.

Tetuan, Morocco—The skeleton of a dinosaur has come to Tetuan via Chicago. A scientific mission has determined that fossil remains which created quite a stir, especially because of long iron teeth, are nothing but the relic of a farmer who was evicted by tribesmen in 1917, to wit, a hayrake made in the U. S. A.

New York—A girl is as safe among some cannibals as in New York, and that doesn't mean that the dangers of New York are great. So says Miss Caroline Mytinger, artist, back from four years painting in the south seas. She was accompanied by Miss Margaret Warner.

Delegates to the naval conference in London were offered punch, sherry, ale, Benedictine and other drinks. The work of a naval delegate must be very refreshing.

GERMANS LOSING 'VERBOTEN' SIGNS

Railroads Using Service Slogans Instead of Don't at All Their Stations.

Berlin—(AP)—Republican Germany is waging a militant battle against time-worn "verboten" which stared one in the face everywhere in the days of Prussian militarism.

A leader in the campaign is the General Federal Railways, the largest public enterprise in the fatherland. "Service instead of don'ts" is the slogan with which this organization is conducting its campaign against the admittedly too many "don'ts" travelers are supposed to observe but which are "more honored in the breach than in the observance."

How determined the railroad company is in its desire to stamp out the "verboten" evil is seen from a recent administrative order to all station masters and other officials. The order requests that all "verboten" signs at railroad stations be subjected to careful revision and replaced whenever they might be a source of annoyance to passengers. The order also suggests that the word "verboten" be substituted, whenever practicable, by a "you are kindly asked not to do so-and-so."

The railroad has even reached the conclusion that signs and proclamations are far too numerous at most railroad stations. It will endeavor to reduce them to a minimum, especially when their text refers to a commonly observed rule or regulation. "Verboten" signs are also disappearing at other places maintained for the benefit of the public—evidence that republican Germans have caught the spirit of democratic freedom after years of imperial rule.

Kentucky 'Lady Sheriff' Will Tame Mountaineers

Barbourville, Ky.—(AP)—Up in the rugged Kentucky hill country, where men are mountaineers, the women put 'em in jail! Knox county, heart of the mountain region, has upset tradition again by electing Mrs. Jennie Lee Mealer Walker sheriff for the next four years. The county already had the nation's only woman jailer. She's a slight little woman, the "lady sheriff," 40 years old and mother of six children. By training she is a bookkeeper and stenographer.

But the quick vigor of her campaign leaves little doubt that she can handle a mountain sheriff's hard boiled job in a fashion few men could equal.

Mrs. Walker, who is a great great niece of Robert E. Lee, got into the race when her husband lost a court contest for the nomination.

Quietly she filed her petition as an independent candidate. She didn't pass out any cigars, but she rolled up her sleeves and made a hurried canvass of the county. She sought out every vote possible and put her plea before mountaintop folk up and down the valleys.

Her opponent discovered too late that he had a whirlwind on his hands, instead of just some of the womenfolk's foolishness, and Mrs. Walker won by more than 300 votes, a big majority.

She is familiar with the sheriff's work. Her husband was chief deputy for seven years and her grandfather was sheriff for seven successive terms.

As soon as she was elected she made her only announcement of policy. It was: Only sober, honest and fearless deputies will be employed. Knox county isn't just sure, but if the "lady sheriff" doesn't make things buzz it will be disappointed.

REDS COMPLETING NEW RAIL ROUTE

Alma Ata, Kazakhstan Soviet Republic.—(AP)—Across the desert sands of central Asia, covering the autonomous Soviet republics of Kazakhstan, Kirgizia and Uzbekistan, and linking Siberia with Turkistan, the Soviet government is completing the biggest railroad construction job in the whole of Russia. Running from Lugovaya, in the Uzbekistan republic, to Semipalatinsk, in Kazakhstan, the new line embraces about 869 miles and will cost when finished more than $100,000,000.

The road will connect the great cotton-growing districts of central Asia with the vast grain-producing areas of Siberia. It will reduce the long haul from Siberia to central Asia from 1,800 miles to 720 miles. It will be of great importance in the development of the cotton, grain, timber, coal and iron traffic between Siberia and central Asia. More than 50,000 workers are employed in the construction of the road, nearly 90 per cent of which has been completed.

The new railroad stretches into the unpopulated and unwatered desert, and a part of it is built on shifting sands. The workers on the southern and southern sections are competing with one another in speed, quality and economy of their work, which has greatly accelerated the construction of the line.

The first passenger train recently passed through Alma Ata, capital of Kazakhstan. For the first time the natives, who live largely in mud huts and tents, heard the whistle of a steam engine. They poured out of their primitive dwellings and were awe-stricken at the appearance of the giant locomotive and steel cars.

FRENCH TRIO NOT COMING

Paris.—(AP)—Seraphin Martin, Jules Ladoumègue and Edouard Molinès, although very anxious to visit the United States and compete with American athletes at their favorite distance of 500, 1500 and 100 metres, will remain in France during the coming winter.

Pacific Coast Leading Department Store Sales

Washington—(AP)—If department store sales are an accurate yardstick, the Pacific coast is more prosperous than other areas.

Federal reserve board data for November shows that such sales increased 6.2 per cent in the reserve district centering at San Francisco, compared with 1928.

Next in order came the Richmond district, with a 4.3 per cent rise, followed by Kansas City, Minneapolis, Dallas and New York.

Among those reporting decreases are the districts of Atlanta with 5.5 per cent, followed by Chicago, Philadelphia, Cleveland, St. Louis and Boston.

The advice to speed up is O. K.—if you're not going down grade.

THIS is one of the most important store announcements we've ever made to lovers of good furniture and those striving for correctness in home furnishings.

A leading furniture manufacturer has produced a suite of real Early American bedroom furniture that enables any family—no matter how limited its means—to have a bedroom furnished in the height of good taste, with furniture of real character.

The suite is priced ridiculously low, yet durability and attractive appearance have not been sacrificed. It's simply an extraordinary value—a suite that sets a new low-price record among good furniture. Manufactured of selected gumwood.

The color is particularly handsome—antique red mahogany or shaded maple. The finish is dull, antique. The hardware is real antique design—the kind you're used to seeing on suites selling at two or three times the price of this one.

We have just placed this suite on our floor, so come in and see it today! Four pieces (as illustrated).

For That First Purchase

The young married couple who want to outfit their home with nice things but who can't afford to pay prices hitherto prevailing for well-designed bedroom furniture will find this suite exactly fits their taste—and their pocket-book!

PLAINFIELD COMMUNITY CLUB SWIMMERS IN MANCHESTER MEET

Local Team, Strengthened by Eddie Markley, to Oppose Visitors in Rec Tank

The Rec swimming team will hold its first meet at the Recreation swimming pool at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon with the Plainfield Community Club as its opponents. This is one of the fastest teams in the state and the local boys will have to be at their best in order to come through with a victory.

This is the first of a series of such meets which the Rec team will have both here and away. The Rec team comprises the following swimmers: Earl Bissel, Irving Carlson, August Midner, Wes Warnock, Joe Armstrong, Francis Hicking, Vic Taylor, Red Sheridan, Art McKay. Eddie Markley, who is temporarily home from school will swim for the Rec team against Plainfield. This will give the local team a better chance as Eddie won the town championship last summer at Globe Hollow and has practiced regularly at the school pool.

The list of events will be as follows: 40 yard free style, 40 yard breast stroke, 60 yard free style, 60 yard back stroke, 100 yard free style, diving and 160 yard relay.

U. OF P. GRID COACH HAS HIGH IDEALS

Philadelphia, Pa., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Lud Wray, new head football coach at the U. of P., would like to see Yale, Harvard and Princeton on the Red and Blue gridiron schedule. He so declared last night in an address before local sports writers at the Penn. A. C. in which he told of his aims, hopes and plans for the next three years.

His chief aim, he said would be to build up an offensive team in which effectiveness and color would be blended. "We shall play football that gives color to the game. We want to blend effectiveness in coaching with showmanship and to fashion our style of play and develop our elevens on these bases, exactly as Knute Rockne does at Notre Dame. "I don't want just a good football team I want a winning eleven. I want to play Yale, Harvard and Princeton and lick them all. I want to be able to go out to California and beat California right at home."

SONNENBERG DEFENDS TITLE SUCCESSFULLY

Boston, Jan. 30.—(AP)—Gus Sonnenberg successfully defended his generally recognized world heavyweight wrestling crown by taking two out of three falls from Joe Stretcher, former champion, with his famous flying tackle last night here. Sonnenberg won the first fall in 27 minutes. Stretcher came back to win the second fall in 24 minutes with the scissors hold. Sonnenberg appeared when the two wrestlers came out for the third fall but won 12 minutes after the start.

SINGER VS. LOAYZA
New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Lightweights hold sway in Madison Square Garden tonight as Al Singer, 135 pounder from the Bronx takes on rugged Stanislaus Loayza of Chile in a ten round bout. Singer has been established 2 to 1 favorite.

CARNERA FIGHTS AT CHI TONIGHT

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The formal unveiling of Primo Carnera, before a Chicago assemblage will occur tonight in the stadium with Elzera Kloux, French Canadian heavyweight acting as the other part in the ceremony. Ballyhooed as the biggest fighter since Jess Willard, the man mountain from Italy has created tremendous interest among Chicago boxing enthusiasts. The bout is for 10 rounds.

Of the approximately 480 pounds of bone and muscle lugged into the ring tonight, Primo will furnish 270, giving him edge of about 60 pounds over the French Canadian. If Carnera does as the trade expects and quickly stops Kloux, the spectators still will have the fight of the year. Flowers semifinal ten rounder to look at.

HIGHLAND PARK GETS EVEN BREAK

Boys Trim Hazardville 23 to 11 But Girls Are Defeated 12 to 8 Last Night.

Highland Park broke even with Hazardville in basketball last night. The boys team was victorious 23 to 11 while the girls were defeated 12 to 8. The games were played at the South Methodist church gym. The local girls were able to score but two field goals, the teams started the fourth quarter with the score deadlocked at five points apiece. Pentland and Beer starred for the boys. The summaries:

AND THAT BIG BOZO REALLY DRINKS TEA

Beyond a doubt big Primo Carnera enjoys posing for photographers as much as any prize fighter ever did and this layout shows clearly the spirit in which the huge Italian exhibits his "freshness" in Chicago, where his next bout will be staged. To the strains of "The Meagan" Primo and Bull Montana, famous strong man, wrestler and movie actor, have "tea for two" in the Sherman Hotel (upper left). Below, Primo is pictured with his managers, Leon See (left), European manager, and Arthur Duff (right), American representative. At the right from his perch on the huge Italian's knee, Nick Lucas croons and strums the latest song hits.

COBB, SPEAKER AND RUTH GREATEST OUTFIELDERS IN PAST 25 YEARS SAYS EVANS

By BILLY EVANS Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc. In front another great figure in baseball, Babe Ruth, who proceeded to shove Cobb into the background. Ruth since 1920 was a far more valuable player than Cobb. The lively fan and Ruth's ability to hit it farther than any other human being has made Ruth the greatest player in baseball over a period of 10 years, or from 1920 to 1930. The last 10 years have been an era of swat, in which force has proved to be a far greater factor than strategy and brain power.

With the lively ball, Cobb takes a seat in the background in comparison with Ruth because the lively ball has eliminated the value of many of the great assets that made Cobb famous, such as his great speed, remarkable base stealing ability and his habit of stretching his hits for an extra base. His daring and the fear the opposition had any time Cobb came to bat made them hurry their plays because of his known great speed. One run no longer means much in baseball. In Cobb's big days that was usually the deciding factor. However, all things considered, Cobb is entitled to be classed as the greatest player of all time. For, with the exception of being able to get distance to his hits, he undoubtedly had an edge over Ruth in the other departments of play.

This Speaker, I rate a better fielder than Cobb or Ruth. His judgment of fly balls, his knowledge of the batters, his ability to handle ground balls like an infielder and his accurate arm made him a super outfielder. In addition he was a great batter and far from slow. The other seven outfielders selected, all had their outstanding features, like Ruth's slugging ability, Keeler was the master bunter and speed hitter, and so on down the line. Of the 10 outfielders named, eight are left handed, only two right-handed batters, Happy Felsch and Al Simmons. Some may differ with me on the selection of Charley Jamieson, but for play with him for years as an amputee and then having him under me, as general manager of the Cleveland club, for two years I feel that he is deserving of such honor. While far from a slugger, he has every asset and, best of all, the ideal temperament.

Sport Slants

by ALAN GOULD ~ ASSOCIATED PRESS SPORTS EDITOR

Reference was made in these columns recently to the popularity of ring gloves, such as Jack (We) the Gargoyles, the California Irishman, and Art (The Great) Shires, clouting first baseman. The successful debut of the biggest fistic clown of all time, 270-pound, 6 feet-6 inch Primo Carnera, clinches the case without necessity of waiting to hear from the jury. Several fistic wise ones who had passed up chances to get a "piece" of Carnera and become a member of his board of directors shook their heads sadly after counting the "house" at Madison Square Garden. "A few months ago," remarked a manager, "I could have had a 50 per cent interest in Carnera for only five steamship tickets. I passed it up and now I couldn't get a half interest for $60,000."

On the American Walker Cup golf team, going abroad this spring for play with the British, are only three men who have ever defeated Bobby Jones in amateur championship play. Francis Ouimet conquered the Georgian in 1920, Jess Sweetser in 1922 and George Von Elm in the 1928 final. The names of the man that beat Jones in the last national title tournament and man that beat the man that beat Bobby Jones—Johnny Goodman and Lawson Little—cannot be found on the list. Vallejo, Calif.—Jock Malone, St. Paul, outpointed Bud Doyle, San Jose, Cal., 10.

Corbett's Hardest Fight Was With Jeff; His Easiest With Sullivan.

AN OLD TIMER'S SCRAPBOOK BY TIM MCGRATH
Jim Corbett and I have some great fanning bees when we get together. In one of these, I asked him what he considered his hardest fight. "Was it that great fight with Joe Choyneki, on the barge?" I hazarded. "That was a tough one, Tim, and no fooling, but though we just murdered each other, we were two tough, green fighters, who learned those afterward. "No, my worst fight was my first with Jim Jeffries, the Coney Island battle, when he stopped me in 23 rounds. The newspapers of that time say I was having things mighty easy when Jeff 'copped' me. But I wasn't; it was an awful time. "Jeff was tremendous, in size and power. He didn't have to land squarely to hurt. I couldn't get near him, because to have him hug me or lean on me in a clinch would be like trying to handle a grizzly bear. I had to stay away from him and use every trick I knew to avoid those powerful fists. "I hit him far more than he did me. Some sport experts figured I was just playing with him. But when I fought 20 rounds with a man like Jeff was in those days, it was a terribly tiring task." "And your easiest fight?" I asked. "The John L. Sullivan battle," Corbett replied. "If I had fought every man as carefully as I did Sullivan, I'd have been champion a lot longer. "After the match was made, well-meaning friends would tell me that Sullivan would murder me. I didn't have a mark on me after that fight. Col. William A. Brady, then my manager, will attest. Sullivan just couldn't touch me, because I used caution. "I wish they had talked to me the same way before I fought Fitzsimmons. Then I might not have let myself become so fresh or so careless."

MURPHY AND COLE WIN BY 25 PINS

Howard Murphy, former town champion, with "Lick" Cole as his partner, won a special five game match from Johnny Sasela, present town champion, and Arthur Berthold last night at Gamba's alleys by a margin of 25 pins. A large crowd was present. The Murphy-Cole combination lost three of the five games but piled up big enough margins in the two it won to take the match. Sasela and Berthold won the first by four, the second by 21, lost the third by 27, won the fourth by three and dropped the last by 26. Murphy-Cole were trailing one pin when the final game started. Murphy and Sasela broke even at 102 each but Cole threw in 131 against 105 for Berthold. During the match Murphy beat Sasela by one pin and Cole stopped Berthold by 24 timbers. The scores:

Sasela	Berthold	Murphy	Cole
104	116	111	105
122	120	100	121
127	101	132	123

Bushy Graham to Fight In Hartford Next Week

Bushy Graham, claimant of the bantamweight championship, disputing the claim of Al Brown, the colored flash, will appear in the star bout at the boxing show in Foot Guard Hall next Thursday night. Graham will meet Al Racko of Hazleton, Pa., one of the leading bantamweights of the east, in the ten-round feature. Graham, one of the busiest fighters in any class, covers a considerable range in his activities within the ring; Bushy meets opponents in both the bantam and featherweight divisions and in this bout at Hartford next Thursday Racko is allowed to come in at 126. The Utica, N.

TEXAS OPEN

San Antonio, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Somewhat worn from months of constant campaigning, but unwilling to call a halt as long as $7500 in cash prizes is lying around loose, a swarm of the country's leading professionals had taken another hitch in their belts today and were prepared to scrap it out in the ninth annual Texas Open tourney. A few noted amateur golfers failed to show up, but there are plenty of the big guns present to assure competition for the $1500 first prize money in the 72 hole grind. Included in the field are 115 pros and 32 amateurs, the heaviest entry in the meet's history. THREE DIXIE STARS MAKE COACHING WORK AT V. P. I. Blacksburg, Va.—(AP)—Three of Virginia Foly's athletic mentors are making their coaching debut this winter. Bob Warren, All-Southern guard with the conference championship North Carolina State five last year, is basketball coach and is introducing the Maxwell short pass style which he learned from Gus Tebbel, former Badger star. Walter Patis, twice intercollegiate light heavy boxing champ of Dixie, is tutoring the boxing squad. The third new mentor is Tommy Tomko, star in three sports at V. P. I., who is assistant wrestling coach.

Records of Both Teams Show They Are Very Evenly Matched; Both Lost to Bristol and Trimmed Rockville Twice.

PROBABLE LINEUPS: Manchester vs Willmantic

Manchester High rules a slight favorite to defeat one of its strongest rivals in basketball tonight, said opponent being Windham High of Willmantic. The teams play at the School street Rec gym tonight, play starting at 8:30 with "Chick" Hayes of Hartford blowing the whistle. The second teams of both schools meet in the preliminary. The records of the two teams compare favorably. Manchester has won 7 out of 9 contests and Windham has taken 6 out of 7. Bristol beat Windham by a much larger score than it did Manchester but the Willmantic game was the opening one of the season and found the Bell City outfit much better prepared. That Bristol could not duplicate the feat now, seems a certainty. Comparative scores involving Manchester's and Willmantic's two games with Rockville indicate that the two rival schoolboy quintets clashing tonight are very evenly matched. Manchester's advantage over Rockville was slightly more impressive. Manchester High must win tonight's scrap or admit its chances of being selected for the Yale tournament are mighty slim. What makes the battle promise to furnish plenty of fireworks is the fact that Windham needs a victory tonight equally bad. Windham's scoring average is about three points per game better. Last year Windham beat Manchester twice. The records of both teams follow:

WINDHAM'S RECORD vs MANCHESTER'S RECORD

CHENEY GIRLS' LEAGUE

This was a special match for a postponed game. The Weavers Seniors were leading and to get the games to count the Ribbons and Weavers Seniors rolled at Gamba's alleys last night, the Ribbons winning one game of the three but this was just enough to put the Weavers Seniors one game down.

Weavers vs Ribbons scores

Hartford Tuesday and will work out there that and the following day. Racko is also expected Tuesday. Last summer he made his headquarters at Boston and defeated a number of well-known boys in bouts in that vicinity, among them Ruby Levine, Joey Mack, Jimmy Briscoe and Harry Slabine. Promoter Ed Hurley will announce the undercard in a day or two.

Rash Romance

BY LAURA LOU BROOKMAN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

JUDITH CAMERON, typist in a New York publishing house, marries her employer, ARTHUR KNIGHT. He overlooks her fact that Judith is not communicative about her past life. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, in Paris, and a son, JUNIOR, 16, at school.

A honeymoon in Bermuda is interrupted by a cablegram that Tony is on her way to America. Judith and Arthur sail to meet her. When Knight brings his daughter home, the girl ignores her stepmother. Later she tells Judith she must leave the house. Knight overhauls and compels Tony to apologize.

The girl spends much of her time with MICKEY MORTIMER, a blase amusement-seeker whom she met in Paris. Judith is separated from his wife and deep in a flirtation with Tony.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has helped through college, calls on Tony. Craig is to be employed in the legal department of the publishing house. He calls frequently and one evening when Tony refuses to accompany him to a dog show Judith goes. Tony, left alone with her father, tells him she is going to marry and not herself whom Craig comes to the house to see. Knight denies this angrily.

Tony surprises Judith by asking her to have lunch in town with her next day. Judith keeps the appointment and is met by Andy Craig, who explains Tony asked him, too, to meet her. The two are together when Tony arrives half an hour later with her father. She is artful enough to make Judith's and Craig's protests sound incriminating. After Knight has gone Judith goes to his office to explain. She is told by his secretary he cannot see her.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXIII
It was a long letter that Judith wrote. Afternoon shadows were lengthening and the sunlight had faded from the room by the time she laid down her pen. She folded the note paper and slipped the sheets into an envelope.

She added an address and stamp but she did not seal the envelope. Instead she drew out a card from the desk, dropped the letter into it and shut the drawer.

Then she arose, slipped off her dress and went into the bathroom to repair the damages of her tears. Arthur Knight, arriving home as her later, found a smiling, self-controlled wife waiting to greet him.

Knight was looking tired. Judith noted the lines of weariness in her husband's face; noted, too, that there were shadows beneath his eyes, and that Arthur's step lacked its usual impressive vigor.

"Come in before the fire," she said after he had shed his wraps. "It's cheery in here, Arthur. There's plenty of time before dinner."

Knight followed his wife and sat down beside her on the divan. "Judith, I know that nonsense of Tony's didn't amount to anything at lunch time."

Judith smiled. "Of course not," she agreed. "I knew you'd understand, dear." But neither of them explained just what they meant by that nonsense of Tony's, and the fact that Arthur understood one thing and Judith another meant that the episode was not ended.

"I worried some all afternoon," Judith added as an afterthought. "That was why I stopped at the office."

"You stopped at the office? You mean my office? Why, I didn't know that—"

"Didn't Miss Tupper tell you I was there?"

Knight shook his head in denial. "She certainly did not," he said.

"What time was it?"

"But—why how funny! I was on my way home. I don't know—it must have been about 2:30 I guess. Why, Arthur—Miss Tupper said you were in conference and if I wanted to see you I'd have to wait half an hour."

"Well, of all the—! She told you that?"

Judith nodded. "Confound that woman! That's the second time I've caught her interfering in my affairs lately. I'll not have it. I'll discharge her tomorrow!"

But Judith caught his arm. "Don't do anything so dear. She's really valuable to you, you know. How long has she been with the firm?"

"That's not the point. That's not it at all! The idea of her telling you I was in conference. Why, I was at my desk all the afternoon, the very idea—"

He fumed on for several moments. Arthur Knight's ritual of office discipline had been interfered with and he was aroused.

"But don't discharge her just now," Judith urged. "Think how much she knows about your work and what a trial it would be to break in someone new! She would be here about the morning I'm sure it won't happen over again. We ought to give her one more week, Arthur."

Pity for Kathryn Tupper was not prompting Judith's words. She knew exactly how much effort the private secretary saved her husband each day and that for Arthur's own good Miss Tupper should be given another chance. Besides, she felt a verbal reprimand would be effective.

They had dinner alone. Tony came in for a short while, later disappearing with Andy Craig as an escort. While Knight and his wife were at the table he announced a piece of news.

"By the way," said Andy, "we're going to give a party next week."

"But the house is torn up!"

He smiled good-humoredly. "I know. That won't make any difference. This is going to be a theater party, Judith. Some place in town. Johnstown, our London representative, is getting in Monday. It's just a piece of business courtesy. I'll ask R. G. and his wife and one or two others. Johnstown's typist, I know nothing about and I know nothing would please him so much as seeing an American play and a little night life. Have to find out later what evening we can make it."

Judith and Arthur had been guests at the R. G. Hunter home. Hunter was the present chief executive of the publishing company. It had been a formal, uncomfortable dinner party. Judith was pleased to hear that such entertainment was to be expected in her home.

"All right," she said. "If it's that kind of a party I guess it won't be hard to manage. You'll like Johnstown. He's all right. By the way, get yourself a new dress, why don't you, Judith? I want you to look your best."

She considered this. His formal gown was the black which she had worn to the Hunter's dinner. Perhaps she did need something new.

"I'll get it," she promised, smiling. "That is—I'll look for something." It was Judith who spent a happy and contented evening with her husband. Tony's efforts at trouble-making after all had been unavailing. Arthur's loyalty was proven and Judith felt that she had been silly in getting way to tears.

After she was in her own room that evening and had changed her dinner frock for a soft negligee Judith went to her writing desk, took out the letter she had written and envelope into little bits and dropped them in a wastebasket.

Sandy, the Scotch terrier, arrived next afternoon.

It was the same pup Judith had admired at the dog show, and when he was led into the front hallway the little animal came directly up to the girl, wagging his bit of a tail expressively, and sniffing at her hand to say, "How do you do?"

Judith was delighted. She stroked the dog's head, rubbed his chin and before half an hour had gone by they were old friends.

There was given an elegant bed of soft cushions and made himself at home immediately. Taking the dog for daily airings, romping with him about the house and teaching him new tricks brightened Judith's days immensely.

She really hated to steal time from Sandy to shop for the new evening gown, but shop Judith did. She made three trips and the third day stepped into a Fifty-seventh street shop and there—waiting as it to greet her—was The Gowrie.

It was a lovely thing of slinky, Spanish lines made from glowing dahlia purple tulle. It clung closely to the figure as far as the knees, then the filmy fabric billowed and cascaded exactly like a Castilian dancer's skirts. There was clever banding breaking the simplicity of the bodice and the low-cut décolletage completed the perfect, sophisticated effect.

Judith, with the gown slipped over her shoulders for a fitting, held her breath.

By all odds it was the most becoming, the most exquisite garment she had ever worn. Arthur would be proud of her in this dress. She was sure of that. The rich, dark shade was the perfect complement for Judith's coloring. It made the blue of her eyes seem darker, and her hair more radiant.

The dressmaker's skill was shown to highest advantage over the girl's slim, rounded form.

"I'll take it," Judith announced decisively, and next afternoon it came home.

She untied the wrappings with eager fingers, drew away the folds of tissue paper and held up the beautiful gown. Yes, it was as perfect as she remembered.

That evening after dinner was served Judith disappeared. Knight devoted himself to the evening newspaper until something made him glance up.

There in the doorway stood Judith, arrayed in her new finery. The girl's eyes were starry and her cheeks bright.

"Do you—like me?" she asked, slowly turning to give her husband a complete view of the costume.

"Oh, my dearest!" he whispered. Tony Knight, passing through the hallway, glimpsed the scene. She saw her father lift Judith's lips to his own and press them with a long kiss. She caught the glowing adoration in the man's eyes.

Then Tony Knight went out of the house and neither Arthur nor Judith was aware their moment of affection had been observed.

For Judith that was not the slightest preparation for what was to follow. She entered her bedroom late the next afternoon as usual to dress for dinner. The door of the closet in which her clothing hung was open.

Judith went across the room to close the door. She drew it back, looked at the closet floor and then stopped in amazement.

There on the floor lay her beautiful new evening gown—cut to ribbons!

LOYALTY PENSIONS

Semones, France —(AP)—This city gives small pensions of $6 a year or less to workers who prove their loyalty to the town by winning a government medal for 30 years' continuous service in one establishment. The rewards are designed to check the drift to the larger cities.

BECAUSE

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The following paragraph penned by a prominent educator probably will be a bitter pill for many of us mothers to swallow.

"You must take command of circumstances and not allow circumstances to take command of you. If you are fretful and nervous, your child will be naughty and disobedient. Nervousness is a sign of weakness instantly read by the child and used by him to gain the upper hand. Cultivate strength by using your force. Nothing saves force like silence."

We can believe it or not, swallow the pill or let it lie—but there is a tremendous amount of truth in that little pronouncement.

Peril in Suppression
We might pick the pill to pieces and repudiate that paragraph on silence for instance. Don't psychologists tell us that suppression is a bad thing and that talking it out with someone and getting our troubles off our chest is a very good remedy for nerves?

Are't some women more nervous by this very habit of silence and suppression? That's what we've been thinking, at least. We can't quite swallow that whole.

And are all children of all nervous, unhappy women fretful and disobedient? I'd say, "No," to that, too.

And is it always possible to "take command of circumstances"? Most of us know how easy that is—not!

Yet in spite of the sweeping generality of the whole statement, it makes us stop and think. There really is truth in it.

Is the Home Happy?
Are our homes happy homes? Are our children hearing daily and even hourly complaints? Are we fretting and fuming about the raise father didn't get? About the grocery bill being ten dollars higher than we expected, and now Johnny can't get his new shoes? Or—if we just had a car we could take the baby out for his airing and down the street pushing his buggy? And—well, you know as well as I do the things that worry mothers. It's all right to say, "Take command of circumstances," isn't it? All right to say, "Don't lie awake nights worrying, for if you do you will be nervous and your children will be bad!"

That's grand comfort to say the least.

I never could do it. Always I was a worrier—I still am. And why?

Because like all the rest of my twentieth-century sisters I want things; more comforts, more leisure, better dresses, a ticket to Europe, but, above all, things for the children.

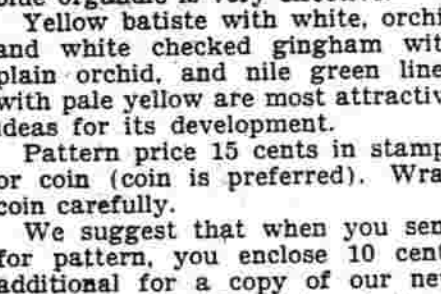

A Lesson in Happiness
But I know that I have more than my grandmother had, and do not work one third as hard. Yet she was happy. She was happy enough to sing as she worked. She was left a widow at 30 with five children and no money. At 65 she was working. She was 65 she was work-worn and weary, but happy. Why? Because she had learned acceptance. I never heard her complain and I don't think anyone else ever did. I recall that character.

The real secret of peace of mind is acceptance. Making the best of things. If we mothers could only learn that! Of course, the greatest cause of anxiety these strenuous days is money. Before we can learn the great lesson of accepting our lot.

Let me believe we have to learn first another lesson, that of self-control, doing without. We really can get along without things if we just make up our minds.

If we keep on comparing our lot with our neighbor's or our closest friend's, ah, there is the hotbed of trouble right from the start, I'm afraid. Remember, our neighbor has a neighbor. The chances are that she is not any happier than we are.

Demure Smartness for Small Folk; Who Follow Paris Mode to Gain Admiration

The WOMAN'S DAY

Much has been written about the modernistic trend in decoration, but no one speaks with greater authority or with more convincing logic than Paul T. Frankl, in his new book "Form and Reform."

"Modern decoration," he insists, "has a heart! It does not merely shout, 'Grow young along with me!' It does not condemn to death everything associated with the past. Every generation has had to face this problem: how to combine the old and the new in home-furnishing."

"There are three kinds of furniture—new, old, and antique. The new is what we want and what we can get; the old, what we have already and cannot get rid of; the antique, the stuff in the barn and attic, in the rough, or those specimens with face lifted and rejuvenated glands in the intiquaire's shop."

"What one generation discards, the next, or the next to the next, picks up and restores. Such is the whirligig of taste. Not inconceivable indeed is a future revival of the early golden-age period. Men surfeited with antiquity have turned to modernity, therefore most Americans seek compensation in antiquity."

In his book he differentiates the New American spirit in decoration from traditional period styles, and defines the underlying principles upon which the new so-called modern furniture is based.

This Modernism as the style of reason.

He defines modernism as the style of reason.

"Its appeal he writes, 'is an appeal to the intelligence. Its emphasis upon simple forms, its return to mathematical axiom and fundamentals of form, confer upon it a classical rather than a romantic beauty."

"Romanticism relies upon associational values, upon the stimulation of suggested memories. . . . Modern forms are simple: the square, the circle and the horizontal line; skillfully and dynamically coordinated—these are a return to the Greek ideal. Their success is due entirely to the correlation and the coordination of elements."

Frankl has no quarrel with antiques, as such, and with genuine styles in furnishing. He sees charm and beauty in the quaint pleasant furniture that is being revived, and in the authentic Colonial furniture associated with our own historical background.

But he believes that beauty resides in other elements than in rarely, or in mere antiquity, and that a good piece of modern art is more closely related to our lives than a fake antique. We should use the new materials and the new media that our generation provides, he believes.

"Ours," he writes, "is the era of the Machine. Machinery is creating our tempo and a new mode of life. To create works in the tempo of the new spirit means to break with old conventions and to establish new aesthetic values. . . . We must accept it as masters, not as slaves."

"Change is the life of style. If for generation after generation man repeated the same architecture, the same paintings, the same music, his world would be like that of the bees—the endless proliferation of bees—lives through eternity. What elevates man in the last analysis, above the bees, is the mastery and the recognition of style."

HEALTH

CLOTHING HAS MARKED EFFECT ON GENERAL STATE OF HEALTH.

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBAIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine.

The Bureau of Home Economics of the United States Department of Agriculture has recently rendered a service to science and to health by summarizing all of the available scientific literature on the relation of clothing to health.

As far back as 1901, a German expert argued that trousers for the growing boy should be looser and that suspenders were not healthful as buttons on a waist.

It has been realized for the last few years that clothing which overheats the body is not hygienic. On the other hand, children must be clothed more warmly than the adult and infants must be watched particularly with this fact in mind.

Most of the weight of the clothing should come on the hip bones rather than on the shoulders. Ira Wilcox, hopes that people will make a special effort to be present as Mr. Ellis comes highly recommended.

A meeting of the Tolland Town School Committee will be held Saturday afternoon at the Hick Memorial school.

The Board of Relief will meet Saturday at the Town Hall.

Mrs. Madge Wilcox of Merrow visited friends in Tolland on Tuesday.

WAPPING
A public whist party will be held at the Pleasant Valley schoolhouse on Friday evening, February 7 under the auspices of the Pleasant Valley Club. Mrs. Helen Tripp will be the hostess.

The next regular meeting of East Central Economy Grange No. 3, will be held with Columbia Grange on Wednesday evening at 6 o'clock. The dinner will be served about 6:30, with invitation of a class in the fifth degree following the dinner.

The Pioneers on Sr. Y. M. C. A. Boys, held their meeting at the Parish House last Wednesday evening, with Robert Sharp as leader, in the absence of Frank W. Congdon who is out of town for a few days.

Mrs. Mae Holden, principal of the Wapping school, took the pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Wapping school to see "Evangelism" at the Majestic at Hartford on Thursday afternoon.

The Federated Workers will give a bridge party at the home of Mrs. Donald Grant, this evening.

James Carroll of Wapping sold his place last week to Mr. and Mrs. Mayo of New Britain who will take possession in the near future.

WEDDING DATE SET
Bucharest, Rumania, Jan. 31—(AP)—April 27 has been set as the date for the wedding of Princess Ileana, daughter of Queen Marie, to Count Alexander Hochberg, second son of the Prince of Pless.

Queen Marie and the princess will travel during February in Syria, Palestine and Egypt. Ileana herself yesterday announced her engagement before a students gathering at Predeal.

The Chatinaka branch of the Alaska Railroad is being operated all winter. Previously, service was suspended during the stormiest months.

ROCKVILLE

Fair Program Announced.

One of the features of the 34th annual fair of the Rockville Fire Department to be held in Town Hall on February 27, 28 and March 1, will be the marvelous escape of Newton from a coffin. He will be placed in an ordinary coffin inside a pine box, which will be tied with rope. The coffin will be secured from local undertaker so no trick coffin can be used.

On the opening night the program will consist of numbers by the Musical Trio, dance numbers by Edith Doyle and a number by the Go-Get-Em Boys. Music will be furnished on this night by Buckmaster's orchestra.

On the second night Miss Veronica Coffey, formerly of Rockville, will give her dance interpretations, with Bert Howe doing a hick comedian act and Pereno Brothers giving a piano-accompanied program. Music for the dancing will be furnished by Stein's orchestra.

On Saturday, the closing night, the coffin act will take place. Tom Stanley, the one man minstrel will also entertain with music and stories. Music for dancing will be furnished by Kabrick's orchestra.

Tickets are selling well this year, and there is sure to be a record crowd at each performance.

William A. Howell of Elm street, merchant tailor, was awarded $5,000 and costs in his civil suit against Robert Zimmerman et als, of Hartford, in the Tolland County Superior Court on Wednesday, after a jury had been out for five and one-half hours. E. P. Butler of Hartford represented Mr. Howell and J. C. Blackall of Hartford represented Mr. Zimmerman.

Mr. Howell was injured in an automobile accident in Hartford over a year ago, when he was struck by an automobile and Trumbull street. He was in the hospital for a long time and is still suffering from the injuries received. Judge John Rufus Booth was on the bench.

Two other cases, resulting from automobile accidents which were on the docket for Tuesday were settled out of court.

The first was the case of Peter Podovani vs. R. Leland Keeney. The suit was the result of a fatal accident in which Mr. Homer of the Homer Ice Cream Company was involved. Shortly afterwards Mr. Homer died and Mrs. Keeney was named administrator of the Homer estate.

The case of Edward C. Miller, formerly of Rockville against Oscar Peterson was settled out of court. Mr. Miller was struck by the Peterson automobile driven by Mrs. Peterson, and he received painful injuries, this being the result of the suit.

Y. G. A. A. Masquerade Tonight. The annual masquerade ball of the Young German American Association will be held on Princess Hall on Village street tonight. The hall has been attractively decorated for the occasion.

Prizes will be awarded the maskers and the Rockville Orchestral Club of which A. H. Stein is director, will furnish the music, with a concert program from 8 to 8:45. A grand march will take place followed by the modern and old-fashioned dance numbers. Fred Einsiedel of New Haven will act as prompter for the latter dances.

Overseers Club to Banquet. The Overseers Club of the Hooknum Mills Company will hold its annual banquet and entertainment on Saturday evening, February 3. The members will have their wives as guests.

Dinner will be served at the Rockville House at 7:15 p. m. and then all will adjourn to the Prescott block where there will be an entertainment and dancing.

To Attend Lions Meeting. The members of the Rockville Fish and Game Club are invited to attend the meeting of the Lions Club on February 5, at the Rockville House, when Captain F. Haines, a Hartford business man with a wide background of foreign travel and many years of service on sailing ships in all parts of the world will address the club.

Captain Haines spoke at the Lions Club last year and his thrilling tales of hunting wild animals, were greatly enjoyed. Knowing that his talk would interest the Fish and Game Club, the invitation to the members has been extended and they are invited to be present at 7:15 following the regular supper meeting which will commence at 6:15.

Two Real Estate Deals. Two real estate transactions of interest have taken place the past week through the Edward Kellner Agency.

Thomas E. Regan of Davis avenue has purchased the Thomas Cullen property on Mountain street and will move in soon.

Deeds were drawn up Thursday afternoon for the sale of the Liebman place on North Park street, which has been sold to William Lally, local barber.

To Serve As Judge. Horace A. Deal head gardener of the Maxwell estate, has again been chosen to act as judge at the New York Flower Show, which will be held at the Grand Central Palace in New York March 17 to March 22.

It is evident that the flower show committee has great confidence in the judgment of Mr. Deal, as his services have been required for so many years.

express could use the street. The trolley express discontinued about a year ago.

Notes. There will be a meeting of the Fourth District, American Legion and its Auxiliary at Moosup Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. Many of the members from this city are planning to attend.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Custer of Summer street, South Manchester, are the proud parents of a daughter, born at Mrs. Howe's Maternity Home on Tuesday. Mrs. Custer was formerly Miss Ida Schwarz of Spring street, this city.

Mr. and Mrs. Nicholas Isch of Wethersfield were the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harlow of this city on Thursday.

Thirty men started in at Snipsic Lake Thursday harvesting ice for local ice dealer, Howard West. Mrs. Edwin G. Butler and Miss Marion Butler of Park street left Wednesday for Florida where they will spend several weeks.

ST. JAMES GROUP TO PRESENT PLAY

"Be An Optimist" to Be Given at Cheney Hall February 19—Cast Is Chosen.

The following cast has been chosen for the three-act comedy "Be An Optimist," to be given by St. James' church, at Cheney hall, February 19:

Jimmie Maynard, the poor stiff, Bill Burns. Mildred Clinton, who is in love and likes it, Madeline Woonhouse. Mrs. Clinton, why mother-in-law jokes are true, Arlyne Moriarty. Ray Hudson, a friend in need but scarcely in deed, Ben Radding. Isaac Golditch, antiqueur, of the Golditch Hat Shop, George Balfour. Becky, his daughter, Lokadio Gyrik. Ethel Peabody, who defies love to affect her, Theresa McConville. Beebe D'Angelo Caccialino, expert worm-holer, Frank Daly.

Mike, just what his name suggests, W. A. Lally. Miss Hall, interior decorator, Barbara Falkowski. Spencer, a paid guest, Frank McCann. Madame Gopher, dispenser of spirits, Marie Filere. Maggie, not green, but stupid, Mary Tierney.

The play is being coached by George Boyce of Hartford. Between the acts and for dancing following, McKay's orchestra will play.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The Stock Market opened higher today, continuing the late Thursday rally. The Electric added 1 1/4 points to yesterday's advance of 2 7/8. United States Steel was unchanged. International Telephone rose 1 1/2. Norfolk & Western fell 1 point while Reading Railroad, Radio, Bethlehem Steel, Johns Manville, Union Carbide and Hudson Motors improved fractionally. Standard Oil of New Jersey sold off 3/8.

The market was called upon to absorb a large volume of profit-taking in the early trading. International Telephone quickly losing nearly half of its initial 3 1/2 point gain while U. S. Steel common and General Electric fell back about a point below their opening levels.

Meanwhile, fresh buying operations developed in other leaders, particularly Radio and Westinghouse Electric, each of which were quickly marked up 2 points. General Motors which advanced 1 1/4. American Machine and Foundry sold 3 points higher. Western Union 2 1/2 and J. I. Case 2.

Maintenance of the 4 1/2 percent discount marked up the New York Federal Reserve bank was generally expected, particularly when no change was made in the Bank of England rate, but the prolonged meeting of the directors yesterday aroused widespread interest, and kept many brokers in their offices long after the market closed. In view of the general advance in prices last week, the gain of only $4,000,000 in Federal Reserve brokers' loans was regarded as encouraging.

Foreign exchanges opened irregular, with sterling cables off 9/32 of a cent to $4.86 19/32.

TRINITY'S NEW CHAPEL

Hartford, Jan. 31.—(AP)—The new chapel for Trinity college is now in the process of construction. It is the gift of William G. Mather, Cleveland, class of 1877 and a trustee.

The architects who also designed the Washington Cathedral say they had the opportunity of designing one of the most beautiful and perfect chapels in the world. In total length it will be 180 feet long and the height of the tower will be 163 feet.

The architecture in general is Gothic, after the manner of the English college chapels. Worked into it will be several pieces of ancient stone that will link Trinity, Hartford, with her sister Trinities at Oxford, Cambridge and Dublin, and with the ancient English church.

COVENTRY

Funeral services for S. Noble Loomis who died at St. Joseph's hospital Wednesday evening, will be held at the Second Congregational church in North Coventry, Rev. J. N. Atwood will officiate. Burial will be in the Center cemetery in Coventry.

Paul Giesecke, a student at Tufts college, is visiting his grandmother, Mrs. Lucy Giesecke. Tonight the comedy, "Cyclone Solly" will be presented by Masonic bodies from Suffield under auspices of the Coventry Grange, in Grange hall which has recently been renovated and which now has a seating capacity for more than 200.

DYNAMITE FEATURE AT STATE TWO DAYS

Has Thrills, Humor, Elaborate and Grim Dramatic Settings—Fine Cast.

Cecil B. DeMille, who has been taking his own time about entering the talking picture field, again proves his right to be ranked with the outstanding motion picture personalities with the super-production "Dynamite," which will be the leading attraction at the State today and Saturday.

"Dynamite" is replete with thrills, humor, swanky society settings and grim dramatic settings. It seems that the veteran director has overlooked nothing—not excluding a star-spangled cast—that might make this film one of the great pictures of the present era.

Conrad Nagle, an outstanding player in both silent and talking pictures, Julia Faye, with DeMille for many years, and Charles Bickford and Kay Johnson form an impressive quartette and divide acting honors among them. Bickford's sin-pietate with thrills, humor, and dynamic characterization of the coal miner which he so adroitly provides, and Nagle as Bickford's antagonist for the affection of Miss Johnson, is in a role for which he ideally suited.

The plot itself brings the three central characters to a pass where-in they are trapped in a mine cave-in and where one of the two men must sacrifice himself in order to win safety for the other man and the girl.

The program will also include chapter seven of the talking serial "King of the Kongo," the latest Metro-tone sound news and an entertaining song reel, entitled "Mother Pia A Rose On Me" Joan Crawford in the intensely interesting all-talking picture "Untamed," will head the program at the State for three days starting Sunday night.

PETITIONS PRESENTED BY SENATOR WALCOTT

Senator Frederic C. Wolcott of Connecticut presented the following petitions to the Senate today:

RESOLUTION from the Conn. Auxiliary U. S. W. V., South Manchester, Conn., and from Court Welch No. 84, F. of A., Waterville, Conn., praying for the passage of Legislation granting increased pensions to Spanish War Veterans.

RESOLUTION adopted at the Annual Meeting of the First Congregational Church of Branford, Conn., and a PETITION from the Meriden League of Republican Women of Meriden, Conn., favoring the ratification by the United States of the Proposed World Court protocol.

PETITION from the New Haven Trades Council, New Haven, Conn., favoring the passage of legislation adopting New England granite as a standard to be used in the erection of Federal Post Office Buildings.

NEW CHICAGO RACKET.

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Out of Chicago's money shortage has been a new racket—the sale of city licenses at half price.

The two men who conceived this method of getting money without working for it were arrested after they tried it on a restaurateur at Michigan avenue and 119th street.

They told him they were city employees whom the city was unable to pay. "For that reason, we have permission to get our money by selling you a city cigar license at half price."

The proposition sounded fishy to the restaurateur, who called police.

BRITISH PLAN SPEEDWAY BETTER THAN DAYTONA'S

Boston, England.—(AP)—Plans for an automobile beach speedway in England, longer and firmer than that at Daytona Beach, Florida, are being made by the Automobile Racing association.

The course would be 12 to 15 miles long and 200 yards wide, with a roadway 100 yards wide down the center. Access to the sea would be provided at intervals by gateways.

Captain Malcolm Campbell, one of England's outstanding racers, has given his support to the proposal, saying that the construction of such a speedway would make England the world center of all motor racing activities.

CANADA IS EXCITED OVER MARKET SCANDAL

Toronto, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Suspension of 14 of the 51 members of the Standard Stock and Mining Exchange as a result of charges of conspiracy to defraud, caused uneasiness among margin holders today.

Thousands of persons throughout the Dominion are affected. The suspension of five of the largest brokerage houses in Toronto followed the arrest of nine of their officers. Warrants for the arrest of three other brokers had not been served today.

The affairs of the involved firms have been taken over by the government. Traders wondered whether they could redeem stocks held by the companies by furnishing collateral to purchase the stock outright.

All the brokers involved were charged with violation of the criminal code, which Attorney General Price explained, involved conspiracy in affecting the price of stocks and bucketing. He charged that some of the men involved controlled several companies and traded back and forth. Conviction would carry a sentence of seven years imprisonment.

Yesterday's trading was marked by a sharp decline at the opening with a slight gain later in the day. Out of 68 issues traded in during the day, 56 ended with net declines.

FILIPINOS PROTEST

Manila, Jan. 31.—(AP)—All Manila will join in the observance Sunday of "National Humiliation Day" as a peaceable protest against anti-Filipino demonstrations at Stockton, San Jose and Watsonville, Calif.

Manila today was placarded with posters calling the populace to the services Sunday on the Luneta Public Square. The call to observe "Humiliation Day" said "we must protest vigorously but peaceably."

One thousand students of the University of the Philippines met and adopted a resolution of protest against the attacks upon Filipinos in California. Permission for them to parade was denied by the Mayor who announced that after Sunday's meeting no permits for protest parades or mass meetings would be issued.

KING OF SPAIN HOLDS IMPORTANT POST NOW

Madrid, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Two figures stood foremost in Spain today as that country formally entered upon the regime of the new premier, General Damaso Berenguer, replacing the six year dictatorship of General Primo De Rivera.

The first of these figures was the country's monarch, King Alfonso XIII, who has at no time since the beginning of his reign in 1886 seemed to be in almost complete charge of national affairs, a guiding hand for general policy if not the actual executor of the mass of governmental detail.

The second figure was the Duke of Alba, Spanish intellectual, humanist and social reformer, who was sworn in last night as minister of public education in the new Cabinet. It seemed that the apparently insignificant portfolio was given him to afford the opportunity of making peace with the striking university students of Madrid and other cities. That task completed, he probably will be elevated to the ministry of state, which will replace the old ministry of foreign affairs.

13 INCHES FROM FLOOR SAYS PARIS ON SKIRTS

Paris, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A representative of New York dress manufacturing house today gave the Associated Press the "yardstick" he was cabling his firm with which to standardize length of women's dresses during the coming season. He said it was too early to generalize yet, inasmuch as the fashion shows of the French courtier would not be completed until early next week. However, it seemed to him that sport skirts should be about 13 inches from the floor. Street skirts will be about the same length. Afternoon dresses will fall to within nine inches of the floor while evening skirts will be parallel with the ankle bone or just clearing the toes.

The same stylist expected a compromise on the waistline, with the silhouette straightish, if not even pulled in, to tight normal. The evening silhouettes at yesterday's shows had soft draping around the waistline giving a classical Greek outline to the long-skirted dresses.

Some of the more temperamental French designers have become exasperated at the repeated demands, "how many inches from the floor?"

CAUGHT BY RADIO

London, Jan. 31.—(AP)—Christen Peterson Solem Westergaard, arrested in England early in December on a warrant charging embezzlement in the United States, was committed in the Bow street Police Court today for extradition to America.

Westergaard was at one time employed in the foreign department of the Chatham-Phenix National Bank and Trust Company in New York. He was alleged to have obtained $60,000 through forgery and misrepresentation. A photograph sent by radio across the Atlantic was used to capture him at Harwich about seventy miles from London.

TAXI MURDER CLUE

Chicago, Jan. 31.—(AP)—A party at the home of Robert McLaughlin, president of the Checker Cab Company, 15 minutes before the company treasurer, Barney Mitchell, and a company driver, George Jackson, were killed early yesterday, has given detectives a new, but meagre lead in their investigation of the double slaying.

Everyone at the party is to be questioned. McLaughlin himself was still missing early today. Police believe he may have gone into hiding, fearing death from the same source responsible for the killing of Mitchell and Jackson. The two men were found shot to death in Jackson's cab on Ridge Boulevard in Rogers Park early yesterday.

Police entered McLaughlin's home last night with a pass key. It was unattended, but signs of the party were apparent. The living rooms were in disorder, with glasses and dishes as they had been left by the guests.

Activity Of Lassen Seen As Chance For Eruption

Volcanologists have noticed changes in Lassen peak, California, which indicate that it is far from dead. Inset shows boiling mud pots on the peak.

Mineral, Cal.—(AP)—Lassen peak, officially listed as a dying volcano, may be just playing 'posum,' after all.

It has been 14 years since it erupted, after nearly 200 years of comparative quiescence, but records of the Lassen Volcano observatory indicate that it is far from being dead.

For some time the peak has been under continuous observation by the observatory. During most of this period there has been an accumulation of southwest tilt which is interpreted as meaning a swelling of the Lassen edifice, declares a government observer.

R. H. Finch, associate volcanologist of the geological survey, who has watched at the crater of the volcano as zealously as a nurse at the bedside of a patient, concludes that "the one requirement for such a swelling of the mountain is an increase of internal pressure." Also, that "if the pressure increases enough some form of eruption will follow."

The record of the swellings, in Finch's opinion, "is too short to warrant a forecast of future activity, but they do indicate that Lassen peak still must be called an active volcano. It should be remembered also that steam continually is escaping from many vents in the craters at the summit of the peak."

During his time of sentry duty in the area in 1927, Finch counted more than 260 earthquakes, there being 145 in March alone. This summer the quakes were increased in frequency, the number in July being the greatest for any summer month since the establishment of the observatory.

"The occasional 'swarms' of earthquakes recorded on the seismographs, the instruments which also measure tilt, indicate a restlessness of the mountain," he declares.

Except for the explosive eruptions of 1914 and 1915, when there were two small lava flows, the last outpouring was 10 miles from Lassen peak, at Cinder cone, in 1850-'51. The volcanic activity which resulted in the rebuilding of Lassen peak, now 10,460 feet high, is believed to have begun near the close of the coeque period.

ARREST SUSPECT

Lynn, Mass., Jan. 31.—(AP)—Joseph A. McLeod of this city was arrested in a railroad station here today for the New York City police. He was wanted in connection with the slaying of Joseph Connell in that city early this month. The New York authorities said Connell's widow had identified McLeod, by a picture, as one of a group of men present when her husband was slain.

Something you'd rather be without.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS

(1) Philippine is spelled incorrectly. (2) The clerk should not be handling a pen, point first, to a guest. (3) When meals are included in the rates at a hotel, it is the American plan, not the European. (4) A postcard sent to the Philippine Islands, would take domestic postage and would be one cent, instead of five. (5) The scrambled word is OBLIGATION.

The crow kept eating seeds until it seemed that he had had his fill. "Oh, my, but they are good," said he. "I'm sorry I must stop. I know 'twould be a heap of fun to eat up every single one, but then I'd be so full I'm sure that I would simply drop. "You know, of course, it isn't right to eat and eat with all your might. Take my advice and never do a silly thing like that. Why, I have eaten too much now. I'll have to take a nap somehow. I guess I'll snooze upon this flower. It's something like a mat. Then, as the crow flopped down to sleep, it said, "I wish that you would keep close watch on me and wake when an hour or so has passed. Then I'll get up and feel all right and promptly fly right out of sight. It doesn't take me long to go 'cause I can fly real fast. An hour passed by. Then, Clowny said, "Wake up! Wake up! You sleepy head. We've guarded you for, oh, so long, and you are safe and sound. Now, will you do a favor please? It's something you can do with ease. Just help us find a way that we can get down to the ground." "Well, let me see," the bird replied. "I guess that you all want a ride. Say, I am hardly big enough to take you on my back. I might start off, but then I fear you'd wish that you were all back here. Your weight would surely make me drop and we would land kersmack!" "Aw, shucks," said Clowny. "You're afraid." A sudden jerk the big crow made and grabbed poor Clowny in his bill. It shouted, "You will find that you can't ride a crow. I have you now, and off we go!" It took poor Clowny into air and left the rest behind. (The Tinymites take after the crow in the next story.)
