DOMINICANS FACE A SERIOUS REVOLT

Santo Domingo Quiet But Reports of Revolution Received from North; Washington Watching Situation

Santo Domingo, Dominican Republic, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Faced with a revolutionary movement in the north of the republic and disturbed by local trouble yesterday, the city of Santo Domingo was quiet today.

President Horacio Vasquez and Vice President Dr. Jose D. Alfonsea passed the night in Santo Domingo fortress, the commander of which had remained loyal to the government.

President Vasquez, whose term of office expires in May, has not resigned, but it was understood Vice President Alfonsea had resigned his post in the face of the opposition.

CONDITION SERIOUS Port-au-Prince, Haiti, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Reports that the revolutionary movement in the Dominican republic was extremely serious, and that it had spread throughout most of the country, meeting with little opposition, were received in Port-au-Prince today.

At least three deaths were reported at various places with half a dozen wounded while motor vehicles were said to have been commandeered in order to transport insurgents to the capital.

Colonel Joseph Fegan, commanding the Haitian National Garde forces in northern Haiti, today reported the arrival of Commander Bissett, retired naval officer, from the city of Santo Domingo by way of Santiago and Monte Cristi.

The uprising was reported to have been led by a former leader named Estrada, supported by General Frutello, commanding the Dominican Guardia. A concerted movement in the principal cities beginning on the night of Feb. 23 is reported.

In all cities except Puerto Plata, the Guardia disarmed the local police and distributed arms to the revolt. They met little opposition. Two persons were killed and several wounded in Santiago while motor vehicles were commandeered to transport the insurgents to the capital.

An unconfirmed report was to the effect that President Vasquez, held in Fort Ozama while his family took refuge at the American legation, was given one day to abdication.

TARIFF AS ISSUE IN CANADA NEXT

Premier Admits That Much Will Depend on What Is Done in United States.

Ottawa, Feb. 25.—(AP)—The possibility of tariff being an issue in a general election was discussed in the House of Commons yesterday.

R. B. Bennett, Conservative leader, in a speech attacking the government, demanded a general election before the next imperial conference, charging that the present government was not truly representative. In the course of his remarks he referred to the United States pending tariff bill.

Premier's Statement In his reply Premier MacKenzie King said: "My friend states that I have said that an election would depend upon what takes place at Washington. I made no representation of that kind. But I will tell him this, that I can imagine a situation arising in connection with the tariff of this country which might very well be the occasion for an appeal to the people of the Dominion on the part of the present administration.

"The government will reach its own decision with respect to what in the public interest it deems the best time to make an appeal."

Mr. Bennett in his remarks on the tariff protested against Canada being "bullied" by the United States or any other power on fiscal issues. He asserted that Professor Taussig of Harvard, an economist, had written in one of his works that the United States for many years had treated Canada as a bully treated a small boy.

FIVE HUNDRED DANCE AT THE MASONIC BALL

Brilliant Affair Brings Out Record Attendance; Newer Gowns Feature—Orchestra Music Excellent.

More brilliant than ever was the nineteenth annual ball of Manchester Lodge of Masons, held in Cheney Hall last evening. Fully five hundred were on the floor and many witnessed the ever-changing spectacle from the gallery. The dresses of the women dancers were unusual and featured the new styles, with flowing, lengthened skirts. Many wore the popular new shoulder corsages of natural flowers. All the favorite colors were in evidence, set off to greater advantage by all black, all white or the much-favored egg shell shade. A partial list of the lovely gowns worn is given below.

This musical ensemble from the Greenwich Inn is well known to radio fans throughout the country. Its director is Eric Peter Sweden with a violin under his arm. NINE YEARS HUNT CATCHES MURDERER

Italian Who Killed Man In Italy Is Finally Arrested On Pacific Coast.

Los Angeles, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Shortly after midnight February 24, 1921, two men fought in an Italian garden for the love of a girl and one fell with a stiletto in his heart.

Within an hour of midnight last night, just nine years later, Bellomo Scili Baldassare, a gardener, was arrested by Federal authorities near Santa Barbara, Calif., and accused of the murder.

Baldassare was brought here for an extradition hearing before United States Commissioner David Head. The arrest was brought about by representations made by the Italian government to State Department officials in Washington. The name of Baldassare's alleged victim was not given.

Nine Years Search In the nine years since it is alleged Baldassare fled, Italian officers have searched for him throughout the world.

Recently, according to information presented to the State Department, the man was found in California by one who knew him in Italy. Baldassare declared he came to the United States nine years ago, and denied any knowledge of the murder.

RETURNED MISSIONARY TELLS OF QUEER FOLKS

Inhabitants of Loney Island Have Never Even Seen a Bicycle; Ship Stops There Only Once in a While.

Buenos Aires, Feb. 25.—(AP)—There are fourteen girls of marriageable age on the lonely South Atlantic island, Tristan da Cunha, which is so far removed from the rest of the world that a ship comes but once a year.

There are 21 young men of marriageable age from which those fourteen girls may pick husbands. Those not chosen, through necessity, probably will remain bachelors, since few ever leave the island, and few ever come there to live.

Rev. Philip Lindsay, who has just come here from three years spent in mission work on the island, and whose mother lives at St. Albans, Vt., says 157 inhabitants live on Tristan da Cunha with almost unbelievable simplicity.

PARLEY IN LONDON IS MARKING TIME

Delegates Must Await News from Paris Before Continuing Discussions.

London, Feb. 25.—(AP)—A spokesman for the American delegation to the five power naval conference, said today that if the French Cabinet does not get a vote of confidence tonight the conference probably would have to continue in recess until such time as France has a government and is able to send a delegation to London.

Rene Massigli, alternate delegate and technical adviser to the French delegation, arrived in London from Paris last night and paid a courtesy visit to Prime Minister MacDonald this morning. He expressed hope in behalf of Premier Chautemps that the new French delegates would arrive tomorrow ready to take up the work where it was left off last week by the downfall of the Tardieu ministry.

It was understood the conversation was general and did not touch on questions of policy.

Paris Reports. At the same time news reports reaching London from Paris made it appear doubtful whether Chautemps would gain a vote of confidence tonight and these cast a new gloom over conference circles.

Prime Minister MacDonald, has proposed a meeting of the heads of delegations Thursday morning.

The British spokesman today said that a three-power pact—that is, the United States, Great Britain and Japan—has never been considered as a way out of the difficulty arising from the French political crisis. He said such a pact would not be considered constructive, inasmuch as it was recognized that an effective disarmament agreement must include France.

Indeed, he said, such a fact would be a drawback when the disarmament question finally comes up at Geneva. The spokesman added that (Continued on Page 2.)

PREMIER OPENS HIS FIGHT FOR A NEW REGIME

Upon Vote of French Chamber of Deputies Depends Life of Ministry and Perhaps Sea Parley Success.

BULLETIN! Paris, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Darkness closed in upon the Chamber of Deputies tonight with C. Chautemps defending the program of his government stubbornly and elaborately hearing his policies assailed by four successive speakers in one of the hottest fights ever seen in the French Parliament.

Many speakers were still listed at 6 o'clock tonight and a vote was not expected until late.

Paris, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Camille Chautemps, new French premier, today opened his fight before the Chamber of Deputies for a vote of confidence presenting his ministerial declaration which immediately drew heavy fire from the opposition.

Upon the vote to be taken by the Chamber depends the life of the new ministry and the question of naval policy and his economic construction program but promised lower taxes. He specifically asked the vote of confidence in order that Foreign Minister Briand and the (Continued on Page 2.)

A counterfeit ten dollar bill, possibly one of the hundreds circulated by three men captured in Springfield last night, came into the hands of Patrick F. Hannon, well known meat and provisions store proprietor, late yesterday afternoon.

So far as could be learned today, how- ever, no other imitation currency has been discovered in Manchester. At least local banks and the police had heard of only the one case.

Flees Store. The man who presented the counterfeit ten dollar bill to Mr. Hannon became alarmed and fled when Mr. Hannon, unable to change the bill on account of just having made his daily bank deposit, went to the telephone to ask his daughter, Agnes, to bring over two fives from the house.

Mr. Hannon's store is located next to his house on Main street at the north end. The store proprietor had not discovered the fact that the bill was counterfeit, he admitted, until a few minutes ago, when he had given the man his change.

Description. According to Mr. Hannon's description, the man seemed to be about 30 years old and five feet, eight or nine inches tall. He wore a dark blue, square cut suit with no overcoat or hat. He appeared to be an Italian. The man came to the small store about 5:30 yesterday afternoon and asked for a dozen oranges. Mr. Hannon filled the order and the customer then took two or three bills out of his pocket.

"Haven't you got anything smaller?" asked Mr. Hannon. "I just made up the deposit and am short of small bills."

"Sorry," was the terse reply, "but all I've got is tens."

Chicago, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Frank McElrane, whom gangland knows as its "toughest" was shot three times, probably fatally, by enemies last night as he lay already wounded on his bed in a private hospital room.

With his right leg in a cast and swung high with pulleys and weights, McElrane grabbed a revolver from beneath his pillow, and fired back at his assailants as they fled into the corridor. One of the assailants bullets pierced McEl-

SUSPECT IS BOUND OVER IN GREENSHPON MURDER

Hartford Negro Pleads Not Guilty in Police Court; Tells Detectives They've Got the Wrong Man.

Hartford, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mack Sutton, 35, negro, was bound over to the March term of the Superior Court without bail, on a charge of murder after a preliminary hearing in Police Court today.

Barclay Robinson, in Attorney Court today, had established a prima facie case against the accused. Sutton is charged with slaying Benjamin Green-shpon, 50, in his store at 321 Windsor street, Saturday night.

Judge John M. Bonee ordered a continuance to Thursday under bond of $5,000, in the case of Mary Willie Burk, 16, negro, who is the state's most material witness in combating an alibi produced by Sutton. The police, it was said this afternoon, are seeking two more persons, a white man and a negro, who are expected to support the testimony given by the young girl in the Police Court this morning.

Suspect Calmer Sutton, who looked worried when he was subjected to long questioning in the detective bureau last night immediately following his arrest, appeared somewhat calmer when he was called to the stand from the prisoners room today. "Not guilty," he said in a low tone when Harry L. Becker, clerk of the court put him to plea.

The brief testimony of four witnesses was heard by the court. Sutton was informed by the court that he was not required to make a statement in the lower court and that any statement he might make could be used at the trial in the higher court. The accused elected not to make a statement. When he was questioned at police headquarters last night he also refrained from talking except to repeat over and over again, "you've got the wrong man."

HOOVER ASKS ALL TO AID MOVEMENT TO CUT EXPENSES

500 WOMEN AT COOKING SCHOOL Says Only Small Per Cent Of Proposals to Spend Money Comes from Members of Congress—Says They Come from All Parts Of the Country.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover today reinforced his appeal to Congressional leaders to keep expenditures within budget estimates by calling upon the "people back home" to rally to the support of the administration in its program of economy.

At the same time the Senate became embroiled in a discussion of appropriations. Carter Glass of Virginia, a Democrat, accused the chief executive of trying to blame Congress for the expenditure of funds. He argued Mr. Hoover had set up a straw man and then knocked him down.

The President in his remarks at the White House said that only a small per cent of the proposals to spend money emanated from Congress, making clear it was his opinion that such propositions originated from groups all over the country. Mr. Hoover said many of the proposals eventually should be and undoubtedly would be undertaken in future years, but added that this was "no time for general expansion of public expenditures" although there were sufficient resources to meet budget needs and "such necessities as marginal cases of disability among veterans and the speeding up of public works."

Debate in Senate In the Senate the remarks by Glass, a former Democratic secretary of the treasury, drew a vigorous reply from Senator Watson of Indiana, the Republican leader, in defense of the White House breakfast conference yesterday at which Mr. Hoover outlined to Congressional leaders his desire to hold expenditures within bounds outlined by the budget.

The debate attracted a round of Senators. Senator Borah, of Idaho, one of the leaders of the Republican Independents, remarked that "there are some of us who will go the limit in this drive to keep down appropriations as chairman of one Senate committee I am going to start on two bills that have been recommended by the administration."

When Watson expressed the view that the attack today was aimed at the administration, Senator Glass heatedly retorted that he had "never raised this issue as a partisan matter and I have never done any such thing."

"But I don't propose to sit supinely by," continued the Virginian, "when the White House undertakes to raise resentment against this body."

Glass read the recommendations of the President to Congress for appropriations at this session and said that Congress had pared these down by $20,000,000, in enacting the law.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover in what he described as an appeal to the "people back home" today urged that they throw their influence behind the administration in an effort to curtail expenditures other than those contemplated by budget recommendations.

Expanding a statement issued at the White House after a basket conference yesterday between the Chief Executive and Congressional leaders, Mr. Hoover said that only a small per cent of the proposals to spend money was originating from members of the Congress.

On the other hand it was his opinion that the proposals were arising from groups all over the country. Many of the causes, he said, eventually should be undertaken and many no doubt would be undertaken sometime in future years.

"I hope," Mr. Hoover said, "that the people at home will realize that the government cannot undertake every worthy social, economic, military and naval expansion, increase in pay to government employees, expanded pension systems, or public improvement projects, and will support the members of Congress in their cooperation with the administration to hold down these new proposals for additional expenditures."

"We have enough resources," he said, "to take care of the budget and such necessities as marginal cases of disability among veterans and the speeding up of public works that we have undertaken to assist employment and some proposals of lesser importance, but this is no time for general expansion of public expenditures."

About the time of Mr. Hoover's announcement from the White House, Senator Glass, Democrat, Virginia, today renewed his attack from Capitol Hill on the White (Continued on Page 2.)

He served in the Army Medical Corps during the World War.

John Curry's Daughter Becomes Bride of Springfield Man; Notables Attend

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—With a papal blessing, received by cable a few minutes before the wedding, Miss Veronica Curry, only daughter of John F. Curry, leader of Tammany Hall, today became the bride of Edmund M. McCarthy, a young attorney of Springfield, Mass.

They were married in St. Patrick's Cathedral by Patrick Cardinal Hayes in the presence of more than 1,000 guests, including her father's political foes as well as his friends and followers.

Mayor James J. Walker, whose overwhelming victory in the election last fall was the first outstanding achievement of the bride's father after he became chief of Tammany, was among the guests. He came back from Florida especially to be present.

Al Smith Former Governor Alfred E. Smith also was there, wearing a silk hat slightly higher in the crown and a bit more streamlined than Mayor Walker's. And so also were New York state's two representatives in the United States Senate, Senator Robert F. Wagner and Senator Royal S. Copeland.

But it was more than just a Tammany party, this wedding of the big chief's daughter, for among the names of the especially distinguished guests, given out by a representative of the police department, appeared those of Samuel S. Koenig who, as Republican leader of New York county, is Mr. Curry's chief political antagonist, and several more outstanding Republicans. And they were all there, too, in grey-striped trousers, tail coats, wing collars, and silk hats.

PREPARED PLANKS FOR BOTH PARTIES

Lobby Probers Told That Same Man Assisted in Writing Them Both.

Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Testimony that Claudius H. Huston, chairman of the Republican National committee, had assisted in preparing proposed Muscle Shoals planks for the Democratic and Republican National platforms in 1928, was heard today by the Senate lobby committee.

At that time Huston was president of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, which has opposed government operation of Muscle Shoals and advocated the bid of the American Cyanamid Company to lease the power and nitrate plant.

Prepared Resolutions Questioned by Senator Black, Democrat, Alabama, Chester I. Gray, Washington representative of the American Farm Bureau Federation, testified that he and J. W. Worthington, chairman of the Tennessee River Improvement Association, had prepared resolutions on Muscle Shoals after Worthington had conferred with Huston.

The vice president of the American Farm Bureau Federation should send a delegation to the two conventions with the resolutions.

HOOVER ASKS ALL TO AID GOVERNMENT

House statement on expenditures issued yesterday. The president said it was plain that the President had set up a "straw man" to knock down. He accused the Chief Executive of trying to place the blame for expenditures upon Congress.

In the White House statement which drew the Senator's fire a warning was issued to the leaders of the House and Senate that after contemplated budget expenditures were met there would be about $50,000,000 available for appropriations for other purposes.

Means More Taxes. Interpreting the President's views several Congressional leaders said in their opinion each dollar spent over the budget recommendations would have to be met by a dollar additional in taxes.

The attack by Clinton today followed up a similar attack by the Virginia made late yesterday. It also was in line with an attack emanating from the House side of the Capitol from Representative John Garner, of Tennessee, Democratic leader in that chamber.

After the president's views were set forth today, Director Rupp of the Budget Bureau said that hands of the government departments had been informed that in submitting their estimates for government expenditures for 1932 the president desired to emphasize the need for the strictest economy in Federal expenditures but did not wish to indicate any specific limit to which they must be held.

ate in favor of a provisional president to be elected.

Other Reports. It also was reported that business men at Santiago had requested American intervention in order to end trouble between warring political factions.

Colonel Gonzalez, commanding the Guardia in Santo Domingo, was reported to have been killed while the two sons of the governor of Monte Cristi province were said to have been imprisoned. The outbreak in Santiago and La Vega was regarded as holding special significance as these provinces have long been the principal stronghold of President Vasquez.

Communications between the Dominican republic and Haiti have been severed, but the border has not yet been closed and Americans are crossing. The Haitian border points were closely guarded.

AMERICANS SAFE. Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—President Hoover told newspapermen today that he had no information of any danger to the life or liberty of American citizens in Santo Domingo at the present time.

The President made his statement after a conference of considerable length this morning with Joseph P. Cotton, acting secretary of state. Mr. Cotton himself also said he felt confident that the situation would not prove disturbing to Americans in the island republic.

The State Department said it was uninformed of reports from Santo Domingo that American citizens there had asked intervention by the United States.

Mr. Cotton, however, confirmed reports that the rebellious forces were said to be moving on Santo Domingo by automobile.

Despite the optimism with regard to the safety of American citizens, the State Department is known to be closely watching the trend of affairs on the island.

AGAINST SHORT TIME. Manchester, Eng., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Spinners of American cotton in the Lancashire mills will not revert to organized short time as had been suggested.

He was arrested last December by State Police, who in searching a motor truck he was driving found ten gallons of alcohol and later discovered a still in a garage he had rented.

URGES COMPETITION AMONG OUR BANKS. Washington, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Decentralized banking was suggested as a solution for the banking needs of the country today by John W. Pole, comptroller of the currency, the first witness to testify at the opening of the House banking committee's investigation into group, chain and branch banking.

Pole said, however, that "there seems to be no need for emergency legislation, but rather for an attempt to reach a normal and fundamental solution." He expressed the opinion that there was a "condition in our system of bank organization which appears to require legislation to protect the interests of the public."

Discussing rural banks, he asserted it was his view that "rural communities are not supplied with adequate banking facilities."

"I should like to see the people of every community, no matter how small, have access to more than one strong bank with the banks competing for business," he continued.

"All persons should have the benefit which comes from a competitive banking service. Our present system of independent unit country banks cannot provide it. Would not the system of decentralized branch banking, which I have suggested meet this situation?"

BIG LUNCH CART HAS BREAKDOWN ON TREK

On Way from Warehouse Point to Waltham, It Snaps an Axle on E. Center Street.

A migratory lunch cart twenty-six feet long and wide enough to take up the greater part of the south half of East Center street became stranded opposite Holl street at 9:30 this morning when in turning off the road to allow another cart to pass, the front axle of the lunch cart snapped.

The cart is one familiar to many Manchester people, as it was formerly located in Warehouse Point. It had been exchanged by the owner for a new one. The old cart was to be taken to a buyer in Waltham, Mass. The cart was towed by way of Somers to Willimantic but the roads to the east, proved in such poor condition that the course of the cart was changed and, drawn by a five ton truck owned by the Parker Brothers Trucking Company of New Rochelle, N. Y., it headed for Manchester.

The broken axle was replaced by the side of the road. There was just room for another automobile to pass. Repairs were completed at 11:45 and the towing again started. This time the route will be to East Hartford, thence to Glastonbury and New London, via the Thames and on to Waltham, a much longer route than planned.

PREMIER OPENS HIS FIGHT FOR A NEW REGIME

French naval delegation might proceed to London tomorrow. Paul Reynaud of the Social Democratic Action Party started the onslaught against the new Cabinet, accusing Chautemps of "stealing" Tardieu's program. He argued that it had only been the desire for power on the part of the Left that had caused the overthrow of the Tardieu government by the narrow margin of five votes.

Reynaud charged Chautemps with demagoguery and with holding before the country an allusion of a decrease in taxes endangering the financial and economic structure of France.

The attacks did not only come from the Right, however, for the Communists who are invariably in the opposition, announced that their group, ten strong, would vote against Chautemps.

FIRST STRIKES WIFE THEN KILLS HIMSELF

New York, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Richard H. Jones, a director of Tidewater Oil Corporation of New Jersey, was killed today in a fall from his eighth floor apartment on Park avenue. Police listed the case as a suicide, and said Jones jumped to his death after striking his wife on the head with an electric lamp.

Employe of the apartment house heard the body strike the courtyard and called the police. An ambulance surgeon was called and pronounced Jones dead. The surgeon attended Mrs. Jones for lacerations of the scalp and she remained in her apartment.

Mr. Jones, who was 35 years old, was graduated from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., in 1916 and was a member of the Army and Navy Club, Washington, and the Engineers Club, Mrs. Jones is the former Louise H. Conkey.

the Burk girl related that she had known Sutton for over three years and that she had lived in the same house with him. She declared that she saw Sutton pass the furniture store Saturday evening. He denied, however, that he returned to Windsor street that same night.

Continuing, the young girl said Sutton returned, addressed a word or two to a white man and entered. This was a few minutes before 11 o'clock. At a few minutes after 11, she said, Sutton left the store stopped to talk for a moment to the white man who had remained standing outside. The two parted, Sutton walking away hurriedly, south on Windsor street. The young girl said she observed these movements from a window in her home over the store. Joseph Greenspon, 21, son of the murdered man, found his father's body in a back room of the store at 11:10.

INDIAN GIRL KILLED BY BAY STATE AUTO

Gloucester, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Mollie H. Larson, 22-year-old daughter of a Russian father and an English mother, was killed today by an automobile driven by Albert M. Silva, who was charged with operating so as to endanger the lives of the public. Mrs. Larson had just alighted from a bus which was bringing her home from a night's work at the Gloucester telephone office where she was employed as an operator.

Commander Coffin adopted the girl as a child when he found her in an orphanage after the death of her father. He said she was a native of the island of Unalaska off the eastern tip of the peninsula.

"and I'll see if I can get it changed for you." Mr. Hammon went to the telephone to ask his daughter to bring over two fives, the man went out of the store. The store proprietor thought nothing of the matter, believing that the man had gone out to his automobile to ask a fellow customer for a smaller bill. Instead the pair fled.

Shows Bill. Even then, Mr. Hammon did not discover that the bill was counterfeit, but he couldn't understand why the man took the oranges and fled without waiting until his change. This morning he told the story to a salesman and the latter discovered the fake bill.

It was brought to the Home Bank and Trust Company where it was held. The counterfeit is an exact replica except that the printed copy is blurred somewhat and on a cheaper grade of paper that, while sufficient to pass the ordinary eye, is easily detected by the fingers of an experienced bank teller.

Caught in Palmer. Palmer, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—Three men arrested here yesterday after a police chase pleaded not guilty to charges to possessing counterfeit money when they were arraigned in District Court today and they were held in a total of $12,000 each.

The men, Peter Ballie, alias Vallie, of New London, Conn., Michael J. Settembro, and Salvatore Manzie, alias Tony Mato, both of Springfield were caught here when a tire on the car they drove through the town blew out and they were overhauled by a car containing pursuing officers. They had with them counterfeit bills amounting to $2800 and some $2500 in genuine money. Their arrest was brought about through their passing several of the counterfeit bills in the adjoining town of Monson.

State and local police as well as secret service officers from Boston are investigating the operations of the trio. State detective D. J. Manning said today that it is believed that the counterfeit money was obtained in New York. The bills were poor imitations of the genuine and it is said will hardly be detected except in poor light.

New Britain, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Storekeepers were warned by the police today to watch for counterfeit $10 bills which have been placed in circulation.

The bills are poor imitations and the police say, can be easily detected. The proprietor of a store in the north end accepted a counterfeit bill last night when a youth purchased a package of cigarettes.

BOYS TO FACE COURT FOR DAMAGING HOUSE

Do Injury of $500 to Old Peter Adams House, Unoccupied, on Main Street.

Damage said to amount to over $500 has been done by marauding boys to the interior of the Peter Adams house on Main street, now owned by E. J. Hill, Police Lieutenant Barron has obtained information that has led to securing the names of a number of the boys, some of whom are of advanced grade school and others of High school age.

The house, an old one, has been unoccupied for some time. Entrance to the building was not difficult and it has been visited on several occasions by young vandals. Some of the boys merely gratified their curiosity by exploring the unoccupied house but others did much damage by tearing off electric light fixtures and by general destructiveness. A considerable number of boys appear to be implicated. They will be heard in juvenile court when they are brought in.

the delegates were so hopeful and confident a five-power agreement would be reached in London, that reports of other treaties could be considered only as casual talk.

Mediterranean Pact. Regarding a Mediterranean pact, he said, no formal proposal for such had ever been made. He said, however, that he had been vague references to the political background of the disarmament situation. He emphasized that the only place where a Mediterranean pact could be formally discussed was at a conference attended by all Mediterranean countries, therefore a Mediterranean security pact was definitely outside the scope of the London conference.

The spokesman also stated there was no intention of enlarging the scope of the London conference to all points arising from the sea, neutral rights and related questions. The experts' sub-committee was again in session at St. James's palace today. It was understood to have reached a virtual agreement on all points arising from the question of special ships not included in specified categories. Final touches were being put upon their report this afternoon for presentation to the first committee.

The community, which is self governing and communistic, has but one firearm, an old blunderbuss. There is no currency. No doors have locks and there is no crime.

The principal crop is potatoes. They used to raise wheat but ravages of swarms of rats prevented success of the crop and now islanders eat potatoes and such fish as they can catch. Every man works his own potato patch and does his own fishing. There are some cattle and sheep.

Found Pariahe. When Lindsay first arrived on the island in 1927 he found the potato crop had failed and famine conditions prevailing. There was a good crop in 1928, but this year again the single crop has failed and the islanders are threatened with disaster. Half the population suffered in an influenza epidemic last June, and one died.

Lindsay says the predominant characteristics of the people are their good humor, simplicity, and industry. Though they have greatly intermingled their mental soundness has not been affected. They love sports, and play football and cricket according to their own rules. Running and jumping races also are frequent.

Bartley, Federal agent in charge of corn borer control, located at South Norwalk, and Dr. William E. Britton of New Haven, state entomologist at a mass meeting at Odd Fellows Hall, in Glastonbury last night. The meeting was held to hear the protest of Glastonbury corn growers over the placing of the town in the quarantined area. SWEETEN ACID STOMACH THIS PLEASANT WAY

When people experience distress two hours after eating—suffer from heartburn, gas, indigestion—nine times out of ten it's excess acid that's causing their trouble. The best way—the quickest way to correct this is with an alkali. And Phillips Milk of Magnesia is an alkali, in the harmless, most pleasant and palatable form. It's the form physicians prescribe; which millions have come to depend upon in over 50 years of steady increasing use. A spoonful of Phillips Milk of Magnesia in a glass of water neutralizes many times its volume in excess acid; and does it at once. In five minutes, the symptoms of excess acid disappear. To know this perfect way is to be through with crude methods forever. Be sure to get genuine Phillips Milk of Magnesia. A less perfect product may not act the same. All drug stores have the generous 25c and 50c bottles. Full directions for its many uses are always in the package. "Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1875.—Adv.

SCHOOLS

The Herald has been accused of bitterness in its manner of dealing with the question of the right of the school authorities to involve the town in financial commitments exceeding the appropriations made by the annual town meetings. If to be blunt is bitter, then we must plead guilty; but if to be bitter is to feel rancor or animosity toward individuals, then most emphatically we claim innocence. What the Herald has said in this business of exceeding voted appropriations, it stands by and expects to continue to stand by. But if we have given the impression that we consider the school authorities of this town guilty of anything but a drifting with the tide, we have strayed to that extent from our purpose.

Let this be understood: This newspaper is amply aware that the gradual conversation of the once sound and fruitful educational system of this state into a tangle of fads, jobs and ruinous extravagance is not the work of town or city boards of education or district committees but of the State Board of Education and of the lawmakers of the Legislature who have heaped obligations upon the towns without consideration to their ability to bear them.

Let this also be understood: This newspaper believes that in Manchester, as in far too many other towns in the state, there has been, on the part of the school authorities, a tendency to accept this domination of the State Board of Education as something inevitable, at all points irresistible and even desirable. There has been in evidence no determination to maintain home rule, even to the minor extent to which home rule may still be maintained. There has been a willingness to accept the valuations placed upon fads and gimmicks by these theorists who for years have had their grip on the educational system of the state. Cost upon cost and expense upon expense has been piled on the back of the taxpayer at the behest or even the suggestion of the State Board. The local school authorities have never seemed to think of such a thing as fighting back, as resisting.

And so they have come to sincerely believe that the maximum that can be spent for the schools of Manchester is not established by the town's ability to pay but by the demands, the suggestions and the hints of the State Board. "We simply can't run the schools on a cent less than we are running them on," they declare—and they are utterly honest in their protestation. That is because they can't imagine such a thing as revolt against a system that is devouring the resources of the commonwealth. No other reason at all.

The law requires this; the law demands that; we are helpless. We must comply with the prescribed requirements and we must not fall behind other towns in the quality of our schools. If the town does not vote money enough to meet these absolutely essential expenditures, we are sorry but we will have to commit it to the expenditures anyhow, and it will have to pay. That is the attitude of the school authorities in Manchester, and has been for years.

The Herald is fully aware that the position of school boards in Manchester or any other Connecticut town would be difficult if they were to set their faces resolutely against the extravagances fostered by the State Board and by the Legislature. There isn't the slightest doubt, however, that if the boards and the committees took for their guiding principle the economic well being of the community plus sound rather than ornamental education, and fought as valiantly for their own townspeople as they have fought for the unproductive system of supervision and side issues invented by the state, they could strip the schools in Manchester of no little amount of folderol and a great deal of expense.

Our criticism has not and does not reflect in the slightest degree on the personal qualities, the integrity or the diligence of any school governing body in Manchester nor of any member. It is directed solely against their frame of mind in subscribing to the theory that the expenditures of the town must be governed by the notions of place makers and "experts" in educational fiddlefaddle and not by the length of the town's purse or the willingness or unwillingness of the voters to empty it.

If we or anybody else could convince the present school authorities of Manchester that they must cut the educational garment according to the cloth, we would be very glad indeed to support them to the limit of our ability, for they are a self-sacrificing and public spirited body of men and women with only one fault—subservience to a system that is breeding revolt in every town and city in Connecticut.

"GOOD OLD TIMES"

An article by Samuel G. Blythe, printed in the current issue of a widely circulated weekly magazine, which compares the Congresses of twenty-five or thirty years ago with the present one, much to the disadvantage of the latter, is receiving more applause, it seems to us, than it has coming to it. Mr. Blythe was undoubtedly more impressed, in his earlier acquaintance with senators and representatives, by the dignity and wisdom and patriotism of those notables than he is by the same qualities as possessed by the statesmen of today. But he was young then and he is older now.

He speaks of "Fire Alarm" Foraker as one of the able men of the country, a notable senator; he speaks of Ben Tillman of South Carolina; he speaks of Boise Penrose of Pennsylvania, of Senator Mark Hanna—and we wonder what he would say about any of these gentlemen if they had first burst on the Congressional horizon after Mr. Blythe had had thirty years experience as a reporter of law making instead of when he was new at the game.

Foraker was a shouter, a bitter partisan. Tillman was almost as violent and as light-weighted as the present senator from his state. Blease, Penrose was an earlier Joe Grundy. Hanna would probably have been denied a seat in the Senate by the same people who excluded Vane and Smith, and for the same reason, had he been their contemporary. Connecticut people will be very slow to admit that their present senators suffer by comparison with Orville H. Platt in anything save an oratory so ponderous that it was majestic.

If we have Brookharts and Heflins now we had Tellers and Hearsts in the old days. If we find here and there a Wild Man of Borneo in the Senate in 1930 we could have found now and then a Wild Man of Borneo in the Senate in 1892.

As for the House of Representatives, many persons with long memories will be likely to entertain the opinion that the average of ability and dignity and devotion to the job is distinctly higher today than it was in that period subsequent to the civil war when a candidate was very liable to go to Congress more through his ability to shine at the "campfire" meetings of G. A. R. posts than because of any special fitness to become a national legislator.

It seems to us that Mr. Blythe was suffering from a severe attack of good-old-times-itis when he wrote that article. They were not all giants in those days.

THE DIGEST'S POLL

The Literary Digest, which has a record of having twice taken straw votes in Presidential election years which forecast the outcome with almost uncanny accuracy, is planning another poll of the country on the question of prohibition; and even before the first of the questionnaires are distributed the dregs are busy with attempts to discredit it.

Two questions are proposed: 1. are you in favor of modifying the Eighteenth amendment? 2. If not, are you in favor of repealing the Volstead act to allow light wines and beer?

Objection to the form of the question comes from that very small element among the dregs which affects to be intellectual in the matter. There are not enough questions; they don't provide for all shades of opinion; they do not cover the ground as to substitute action; they ask for alignment on an impossible issue (the Dregs insist that Congress, which defined intoxicants, cannot change its definition).

The Literary Digest isn't trying to pass a law or enact a Constitution. It is merely seeking the actual state of public opinion in this country on the question of prohibition. It would seem to us that the proposed questions, if answered by a sufficient number of persons, would develop that state of opinion pretty well.

It will be interesting to note whether the dregs who are doing their best to discredit the poll in advance will acclaim it with loud huzzas if, after its completion, it shows that dry sentiment is still in preponderance in the country—or, more correctly speaking, in a majority of the states—which it is likely enough to do.

R. R. PROPAGANDA

Leslie H. Tyler's address to the Lions club here last night was an item in the campaign of propaganda lately opened by the railroad company to offset the activities of Prof. Albert Levitt of Redding who is seeking through court action to compel the road to eliminate grade crossings according to law. As such it should be considered.

As to the accuracy of Mr. Tyler's statistics in general we are not prepared to express an opinion, but when he goes to the length of declaring that 62 per cent of all automobile accidents are attributable to defective brakes he goes somewhere with a whoop. As a matter of fact, Connecticut records show that defective equipment of all kinds, including brakes, steering gear, lights, horns and everything else, are responsible for a little less than 4 per cent of the crashes.

NOT SO GOOD

Henry Ford has intimated that maybe some day he will buy all the navies of the world, junk them and turn the metal into automobiles. We don't think that suggestion is so hot. Our idea in supporting naval disarmament is to keep people from being killed.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 25.—Going places and seeing things—

To breakfast at the Brevort with H. M. Tomlinson, who wrote the elegant book, "The Sea and the Jungle," and, more recently, "All Our Yesterdays." And he fell to telling a strange tale of the part played by chance in the creation of his first named work.

Tomlinson had been sauntering along the London waterfront talking to the skippers of old tramp steamers, in connection with newspaper articles he was preparing. He became particularly chummy with one old fellow who was staking on a fascinating cruise. The skipper suggested that the writer come along. Tomlinson was tempted, but explained that a wife and family made this a bit difficult. Finally the captain suggested that they leave the matter to fate.

A London bus happened to be lumbering down a hill toward the docks. "Tell you what," suggested the ship's master, "if an even number of passengers get off the bus, you may have a home. But if an odd number gets off, you come along."

Tomlinson snapped him up. And three people stepped off the bus. Thus, by sheer chance, did Tomlinson make the cruise that was to place his name high in the ranks of writers.

And so up to Horace Liveright's publishing plant in the Forties where a reception was under way for Arthur Train, the writer, and George Hummel, the ex-writer, who was about to become a member of the firm. And found everyone and his brother there, milling gaily through the oversung rooms. And the lovely lady in the flaming gown turned out to be Florence Reed, the actress, whom I have long admired, but never before met. And the shy fellow who greeted you at the door turned out to be Samuel Hoffenstein, who pens grand verses. And it did seem that everyone turned out to be a notable of some sort or other. Which caused me eventually to put on my inferiority complex and go out into the night.

Dropped in, thereafter, at the very high-hat premiere of Harry Richman's "Putting on the Ritz," and it seemed to me Irving Berlin had written some of his most tuneful numbers for this piece, though his performance left me cold—as it did several others.

Up to chat and smoke with John McCormack, the Irish tenor, who has, perhaps, the greatest following of any singer in the world. And he just back from Hollywood where he made a picture, "Song of My Heart." And each time I meet him I am more amazed at how lightly time touches him. Both in face and spirit, he seems as young as when first I saw him some 10 years or more ago.

And though he has faced millions of people in audiences all over the world, and kings have taken off to hear him sing "Mother Macree," he admitted that he had gone up to the picture stage with a great fear that he would be camera-shy. But he chose particularly to talk of what an elegant actor his accompanist had turned out to be. "For many years Edwin Schneider has been his pianist, and before him Schneider had accompanied many famous ones.

"They cast him in the role of the music tutor—my music tutor," explained McCormack. "It was the first time he had ever had a speaking part. And he's marvelous. Keep your eye on him."

Immediately following an apoplectic attack, the patient's head and shoulders should be raised by a high pillow, and all constricting clothing such as collars, garters and belts should be loosened. Cold or ice applications should be placed at the back of the neck, while warm applications may be used on the lower limbs or abdomen.

The patient will usually recover from the first attack, but he should immediately begin using a fasting regime to reduce his blood pressure and facilitate the dissolving of the clot or embolism. The orange or grapefruit juice fast seems to be especially beneficial in these cases, and it should be continued for from six to ten days and followed by a carefully balanced diet. The one which is outlined every Friday in our newspaper articles is a very good diet to use for this purpose.

No heavy food should be given within several days after the attack or it will retard the cure. If the patient sticks to the fact he can accomplish more good in the first two weeks than can be done for him later on by two or three years of treatment.

Enemas should be used night and morning, using from one to two quarts of plain warm water. The patient should be kept warm, and should be disturbed as little as possible during an attack, and one must be careful not to apply too much heat to the limbs or abdomen as the skin is so sensitive to heat in this condition as in health and may become burned without the patient being able to give warning.

No heavy exercise is advisable, but moderate walking may be recommended at the end of the fruit juice fast. The patient should make a special effort to discourage any habits of worrying, fretting, fuming or anger. A tranquil, poised mind and a happy disposition will do much in preventing further attacks.

By following these very easy rules you can know that you are helping the patient to recover from the stroke in the shortest possible time. In those cases where the paralysis is slow in leaving, a mild massage should be used, beginning about ten days after the stroke. As soon as the patient is able, he should practice active movements to overcome the tendency to muscular contraction.

I can assure you that if one of your family has a stroke and you follow this fasting regime and treatment which I have outlined, you are doing the wisest and best thing that can be done.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.

(Third Set of Teeth.)

Question:—T. J. writes: "Once in a while we read a news item that some elderly persons find new teeth emerging the same place as in a young child. Would it be possible through a special diet and certain gum massage, etc., for a grown person to grow new teeth to replace those pulled?"

Answer: There are occasional instances where one or more teeth will grow after the second set of teeth have formed. This is really an abnormal condition and cannot be treated through anything a person can do. Usually the only way to get a third set of teeth is to buy them from a dentist.

(Beet Tops.)

Question:—H. W. S. writes: "I would like to know what you mean by beet tops and turnip tops do you mean the leaves of these vegetables? If so, will you please tell me how to prepare them?"

Answer: Young beets and turnips have tender tops which make excellent greens if they are properly prepared. They should be cooked in very little water and for only a short time. If the heavy aluminum ware is used and the cover kept on the cooking vessel, it is not necessary to use any water, as they will cook in their own juices. They should not be cooked over ten minutes.

(Dextrinized Cereal.)

Question:—Mrs. H. T. asks: "Is a cereal that is advertised as roasted and dextrinized, and I am wondering if this dextrinizing would have a laxative effect?"

Answer: There are many breakfast foods on the market in which the starch has been completely dextrinized. Those made of entire wholewheat would be bitter from the burning of the bran if the manufacturer did not add molasses or some other sweet. If the cereal is completely dextrinized it tends to produce constipation and is decidedly non-laxative unless some laxative substance is put in with the cereal. Many of the toasted brans on the market are not completely dextrinized and therefore the bran has a stimulating effect on the intestines.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first of three interviews with leaders of the Senate's political factions on the record of the Seventy-first Congress to date. These dispatches are especially timely because of recent White House discussions about speeding up the Senate.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington—Regular Republicans in the Senate, especially the once powerful faction known as the Old Guard, are willing to agree with President Hoover and leaders in the House that the Senate has been moving too slowly and that legislative affairs are in a terrible mess. The present seems to them very black in deed and the only brighter aspect of the future lies in the fact that the tariff battle cannot go on forever. When President Hoover had some of them to breakfast to talk over the possibilities of speed-up, as demanded by House Floor Leader Tilton, they told him sadly but bluntly that he had better keep his shirt on because any executive interference would only make things worse.

Sees "Needless Delay"

The almost general disappointment of the regular Republicans with the result of the special and regular sessions in the Hoover administration's first year is expressed by Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut, whose position is similar to that of other Old Guardsmen such as Smoot of Utah, Reed and Grundy of Pennsylvania, Fess of Ohio and Gillet of Massachusetts. "The action of the coalition of Democrats and western Republicans has caused serious and needless legislative delay as well as business uncertainty," Bingham says. "They are tearing down their own campaign platform as they went almost as far for protection as the Republicans, after condemning the Fordney-McCumber tariff act in 1924."

"The business world had every reason to believe that neither party would attack the existing schedules, but the coalition has gone and lowered them in many cases and it won't listen to the case of the northeastern industrial states at all."

"I am perfectly amazed at the Democrats' reversal of their presidential campaign attitudes, even though they are back to their historic position. I guess they feel that whatever they do they can't be any worse off" and their votes in the past few months will discourage any manufacturers from ever again looking to them for protection.

"This group of western Republicans in the coalition has been try-

MILLER TO ADOPT ANTI-KLAN PLANK

Candidate for Governor in Alabama Will Also Have Chain Store Plank.

Camden, Ala., Feb. 25—(AP)—A seventh candidate for governor of Alabama, E. M. Miller of Camden, former State Supreme Court justice, was in the field today with an announced platform carrying "anti-Klan rule" and "chain store regulation" planks.

In a statement Miller said both of Alabama's United States Senators are Klansmen and declared "the time has arrived for a re-establishment of a government of the people, by the people and for all the people, and not as we have now in Alabama, a government by, of and for the Ku Klux Klan."

He said members of the Klan and their friends control the State Legislature and that Governor Bibb Graves and "nearly all of the state officials nominated in the Democratic primary in August, 1926 and elected the following November were Klansmen."

All Klansmen He added that "the jury commissioners in many, if not all, of the counties of the state, appointed under this administration, are Klansmen."

Miller said he approved of the action of the state Democratic executive committee in barring "bolters" of the 1928 presidential ticket as candidates in the coming primary. He advocated regulation of chain stores by a graduated system of taxation based on the number of stores operated.

Other announced candidates for Governor are Attorney General Charlie C. McCall, William Finch, director of the state highway commission; Probate Judge Jefferson A. Carnley of Coffee county, Lieutenant Governor W. C. Davis, of Jasper, Will Lee, Columbia attorney, and Hugh A. Locke, Birmingham attorney. Lee and Locke are among those barred from the Democratic primary. Locke has said he will run as an Independent.

BOLTON

A very pleasing and entertaining program was given at North Bolton school Friday afternoon entitled "Washington's Birthday." The playlet led by Lillian Veitch was capably carried out by a cast of pupils consisting of Lucy Goodale, Martha Hicking, Lillian Veitch, Ebbie Hicking, Lola Veitch and Robert Veitch. Refreshments were served and prizes given to the children.

BANDITS GET $4,300

New York, N. J., Feb. 24—(AP)—Five bandits in an automobile held up two messengers for the Cellulose Company today and robbed them of boxes containing a payroll of $4,400. As the robbers drove away they fired a shot at the messengers, who were walking to the plant.

WINNING OF NORTHWEST TO BE COMMEMORATED

Vincennes, Ind., Feb. 25—(AP)—Old Vincennes, site of that epic in the winning of the old northwest, soon to be commemorated in the imposing George Rogers Clark Memorial, will be restored so far as its tradition-awakened present day residents can do so.

A year ago today the sesquicentennial of the capture of the British of the Vincennes military post, Fort Sackville, by Clark's militiamen, was celebrated with state and national dignitaries participating. Tonight a banquet attended mostly by the home folks will reveal plans for an organization to be known as the "old post association for the preservation and restoration of historic Vincennes."

A committee, named last December, will report on a survey of sites, buildings, and institutions here which played their part in the northwest's history. These will be marked, preserved, and restored by the association.

The gathering tonight will honor again the heroism of Clark's men who on this mid-winter day, 1779, waded through flooded lowlands to fall on the unsuspecting British and end a serious threat to American rule in what has become Indiana, Illinois, Kentucky and parts of adjacent states.

The contract for the Clark memorial for which Congress has appropriated $1,000,000 and for which it is estimated $750,000 more will be needed if the architects' plans are to be followed completely, is to be awarded in the near future by the Federal Fine Arts Commission, meeting here.

The memorial building of classic Greek design will be erected on the site of Fort Sackville, in recognition of the dauntless soldier whose reward for founding an empire to the young republic was a ceremonial sword voted by the Virginia legislature.

WITCHES OF 1930

London—Even in this day and age there are some people in England who believe in witches. Burning the Clavie, an ancient custom of which the object is to free the inhabitants of the city from witches for another year, was celebrated at Burghhead recently. Blazing embers were carried through the town and flung through open doors of houses to burn up the witches.

The bullet wound caused a nervous disease which has not allowed him to sleep during the past fifteen years. A Berlin clinic has offered to cure him.

SPREADING THE TALKIES

London—In an effort to publicize the talking movies, one organization has fitted up special "talkie" cars. These cars are hauled by trains into towns too small to afford the expensive talkie apparatus. The cars are run on a siding and the shows are given in the portable "talkie" houses.

"ANGEL" ON HONEYMOON

San Francisco, Feb. 25—(AP)—Rheda Crawford, known as the "Angel of Broadway" when as a Salvation Army captain she conducted meetings in Times Square, New York, was on a honeymoon today with her second husband.

She was married yesterday to Raymond B. Spivola, San Francisco broker and polo player, in the First Congregational church. The couple left immediately on a motor trip.

Her application for a marriage license last Thursday followed with three days announcement from St. Petersburg, Fla., that a divorce had been granted her first husband M. J. Harold Sommers, to whom she was married in 1924.

Mr. Schwab says business opportunities are unlimited. And looking back upon what Mr. Shearer did with a shoestring, we almost believe him.

TO COMPENSATE VICTIMS

New York, Feb. 25—(AP)—The New York World says today that the Standard Oil Co. of N. J. will pay in the vicinity of $250,000 in compensation for the 13 deaths and more than 50 injured which resulted from the explosion in the Bayway Refinery plant near Elizabeth, N. J., a week ago.

Officials of the company, which is self-insured, and carries group insurance, explained they would pay far more than required under the New Jersey compensation law.

ANOTHER CURSE VICTIM.

London, Feb. 25—(AP)—Death of a worker at the British Museum during the week-end gave the superstitious another bit of evidence that the Pharaoh's curse is still in operation.

Edgar Steele, 57, died after an operation for internal trouble. He had been engaged in lettering exhibits of the various parts of the museum, among them some relics of the Tombs of Luxor.

A museum official scouted the suggestion that there was anything sinister in Steele's death. He remarked that thousands of people had been indirectly connected with the Tut-Ankh-Amen relics and that there was no record of any overwhelming outbreak of mortality.

"I've had to handle Egyptian relics myself many times for years and I'm still as well as ever," he said.

Pharaoh's curse, legend has it, doomed to a quick death to any one molesting tombs of the ancient Egyptian rulers.

BANKER KIDNAPED

St. Louis, Feb. 25—(AP)—Officers of two states today searched for the master minds of a daring kidnaping ring which abducted Charles W. Pershall, wealthy Granite City Illinois chain grocer and banker, within two blocks of his home last week, held him captive two days and released him on payment of a sum reputed to be $40,000.

It was the second gang playing the ransom racket as a means of livelihood to be uncovered here within a week, the other described by police as the "gas-house mob" being broken up through 12 arrests which followed a raid on a St. Louis county resort and the rescue of Jacob Hoffman, a bookmaker.

Three others, all bookmakers and gamblers, have been kidnaped since January and their donation for personal freedom was said to have totaled $73,000.

TALCOTTVILLE

Miss Dorothy Talcott of Boston, Mass., spent the week-end at the home of her father, C. Denison Talcott.

Captain and Mrs. Hugh Ulrich Nisbet of New York City have been visiting for several days at the home of Mrs. Nisbet's parents, Rev. and Mrs. F. P. Bacheher.

Miss Faith H. Talcott, vice-Principal of the Weaver High school at Hartford, is at Atlantic City where she is attending the sessions of the annual convention of the National Educational association.

The Christian Endeavor society met at 7 o'clock on Sunday evening. The subject of the meeting was "The value of the Bible for Non-Christian Nations." The senior leader was Miss Margaret Welles and the junior leader, John Lotus.

The Sacrament of the Lord's Supper will be observed next Sunday morning in the local church.

Mrs. Christine Bacheher Nisbet, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. F. P. Bacheher of this place will exhibit some of her paintings at the Farragut Galleries, 37 East 57th street, New York City, from March 3rd to 16th.

F. Newlin Price, New York art authority, has the following to say about this exhibition: "This Nisbet exhibition has grown from fertile, well tilled soil, mural, fresco painting and composition at the Conservatoire de Beaux Arts, Portraiture in the Academie Colorossi, the Yale School of Fine Arts, study of sculpture and Cragmoor. # CORN BORER PEST BARS MANCHESTER'S PRODUCT

This Town Now Included in Area Under Strict Connecticut Agricultural Department.

The corn borer infestation which has been steadily increasing in the past few years has reached this bank of the Connecticut river on its way westward in the state. Tolland, Bolton, Glastonbury, Berlin and Manchester are the westerly 1920 boundaries of the infested areas according to circular No. 68 issued a month ago showing the revised State and Federal quarantine boundaries. The Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station at New Haven advises that "strict control methods must be practiced by the grower or profit from corn growing will soon be impossible."

At present the European corn borer infests the Eastern portion of Connecticut. In this section the quarantine area is bounded by the western boundary of Tolland and the Northern boundary of Bolton and Manchester and the western boundaries of Manchester and Glastonbury.

Must Be Controlled
The insect, a serious pest of corn and also of certain vegetables and flowering plants, is certain to destroy that branch of agriculture which has been profitable to farmers in past years. The green corn-marketing if not controlled. The insect when in the larval stage is a dirty white in color, an inch or less in length and is marked with scattered white dots. Corn is preferred by the insect through which it tunnels with the result that the stalks are often broken over. The entire stalk may break down when heavily infested and nearby celery, rhubarb, bean, beet, dahlia, chrysanthemum, gladiolus, aster, cosmos, zinnia, and other cultivated herbaceous plants and many of the larger weeds may be attacked.

With a great many insects the matter of combatting them is quite complicated and expensive; the control measures for European corn borer, however, are quite practical and simple. If the work has to be done by the State or Federal Government, the expense would be tremendous, but where each one is required by law to do his share, the cost will be kept down. Accordingly, the general assembly of 1929 passed an act concerning the control of the European corn borer.

Regulations
This act gave the director of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station authority to "issue and publish orders, rules and regulations which shall effect in any town or portion thereof which shall have been quarantined." In furtherance of this act Director Slate of the Experiment Station issued orders as follows:

Corn stalks be disposed of on or before April 10, by feeding to live stock, burning, or ploughing under cleanly, and that all of the larger weeds in and around the corn fields be likewise destroyed." This order is effective January 15, 1930. Violations of this order are punishable by a fine of not more than one hundred dollars.

The following culture control measures are advocated by W. E. Britton in circular 68, entitled, "The European Corn Borer quarantine and cleanup Regulations." These practices must be carried out if it is desired to hold the borer in check as early as possible after maturity and put in the silo or fed to cattle. When fed out, uneaten portions of stalks should be destroyed. If allowed to stand, such stalks furnish a favorable shelter for borers.

1. Corn stalks should be cut just as early as possible after maturity and put in the silo or fed to cattle. When fed out, uneaten portions of stalks should be destroyed. If allowed to stand, such stalks furnish a favorable shelter for borers.

2. If the stalk is cut close to the ground, yet few borers will be contained in the stubble. If it is cut 6-12 inches high, the stubble may furnish enough borers to ruin the crop the following year, and such stubble should be ploughed under cleanly, or pulled and burned.

3. Corn stalks which are not cut and used for silage or fodder should be burned in the fields or cleanly ploughed under. The larger weeds in the field and around the margins should also be burned.

4. By clean ploughing in the fall, a large percentage of the second-brood borers are killed in the winter, fall ploughing is somewhat less effective against the single-brood borers, but against both one generation and two generation borers, carrying spring ploughing (in April) is beneficial, especially if all debris is covered deeply. There are now ploughs and attachments to facilitate the clean ploughing under of standing stalks, and your county agent can advise you regarding them.

5. Small patches of sweet corn in back yard gardens can perhaps be pulled to best advantage. If not cleaned up, such places will produce enough borers to infest the entire countryside.

Stop Moving
In the attempt to hold the European corn borer in check, certain regulations about moving crops from the quarantine area have been set forth by William L. Slate, Director of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station and which have been approved by Governor Trumbull. No movement will be allowed throughout the year of corn on the ear, either green or dry; corn stalks, broom corn sorghum and sudan grass including all parts of leaves and stems. Inspection and permits will be refused.

Certificates must be secured to move the following at any time during the year in this area to the free area: all cut flowers, and entire plants of aster, chrysanthemum, cosmos, dahlia, gladiolus, hollyhock and zinnia (no restrictions on gladiolus and dahlia bulbs without stems); celery, green beans in the pod, beets with tops, rhubarb, oat and rye straw as such or when used as packing must be inspected and certified to be moved from the

"That Married Look" Started Big Business

Nellie Don Dresses Originated in Maker's Mind When She Tried to Take Drabness Out of House Garments.

It wasn't long after her marriage that Nell Donnelly staged a personal revolt against "that married look" most of her neighbors had in the drab, faded, shapeless kitchen aprons nearly every woman wore for housework in those days, and in so doing found herself in a $3,500,000 business.

Today her husband is president of the Donnelly Garment Company employing 950 men and women and Mrs. Donnelly is secretary-treasurer. Their business last year approached four million dollars. The factory occupies five floors of a huge building in Kansas City.

Coming Here
On Thursday of this week, from one to nine o'clock in the afternoon, Nell Donnelly will be in Manchester at Hale's Department Store. She will speak at the Style Show in the garment department, main floor, rear. She will be accompanied by one of her models, who will show some of the advanced styles produced at the factory.

"I had no intention of starting a business when I began to make house dresses," said Mrs. Donnelly. She was twenty when she married and it was fun, both being married and keeping house. But why look like a wife, she asked herself, why not have gay, becoming dresses and give a festive air to dishwashing, cooking, and laundry.

Made Them
Mrs. Donnelly searched nearly every store in Kansas City for the dresses she desired without success. They told her they weren't made. As a result she bought some dainty pink and blue checked gingham and some cross barred dimity, cut newspaper patterns and made them up.

Those dresses proved sensations in her block. The neighbors came and admired but were skeptical. "You'll learn that housework is drudgery and you can't look as if you were going to a party and get it done."

Nell Donnelly, however, went ahead and did it. And her friends spoke often and enthusiastically of her cute frocks, so that one Christmas Mrs. Donnelly gave them all house dresses for gifts. Then one day her friends asked her why she didn't make them up and sell the dresses to the stores.

Seeks Orders
She decided to try the experiment. Showing samples at a store she got an order for 18 dozen. In a month with the help of two assistants and power machines they were ready and sold like the proverbial hot cakes, at a dollar each. The hired help and machines were doubled and still the output couldn't keep pace with the demand.

Her husband, Paul Donnelly, with faith in his wife, backed her financially, and they took a building near their home, put in ten machines, as many workers, and more than quadrupled the output.

Low Cost
Not only were the dresses used for housework but for street wear as well. Nell Donnelly designed flattering little two dollar and fifty cents and three dollar daytime dresses, dimities, and gingham for women to wear to drive their husbands to their suburban trains, for young mothers, for clerks and store workers. Then she branched out into cotton and lightweight wool sports for college girls. Palm Beach morning dresses, shantung silk tennis frocks, garden pajamas, as well as house and beach pajamas.

The secret of the things was that, though inexpensive, they were made in the latest style, fitted well and were pretty printed materials that you did not see anywhere else.

Of her success Nell Donnelly contributes much credit to her having worked a year before going to college and starting housekeeping. "I think girls who work and dress attractively each day, learn to care much more how they look at all times and to dress accordingly, she said. "The difference between the attitude of a girl who has worked and one who hasn't might be likened to the difference in a man who shaves everyday when he goes regularly to the office but who lets his beard go when he is out hunting."

LIONS CLUB BENEFIT AT STATE TWO DAYS

Wild Winnie Lightner's Picture Closes Today—"Sunny Side Up" Feature.

Wild Winnie Lightner will be seen for the last time at the State today, in "She Couldn't Say No." Capacity audiences are expected to greet the musical comedy debut of Janet Gaynor and Charles Farrell when they make their bow at the State Wednesday and Thursday in conjunction with the Lion's Club Milk Benefit performances, in the singing, talking, dancing production, "Sunny Side Up."

This tuneful light comedy-drama has literally swept the country off its feet. Everybody is singing the catchy song hits and raving about the ability displayed by the two old favorites of the silent screen. The dainty, wistful little Janet proves her versatility by playing a comedy role, broad in spots, and again on the border of pathos. She sings, she dances, she talks and she does it all with that touch of genius that has raised her from the rear ranks of extra girls to the front ranks of the greatest stars in the entertainment world. Farrell, too, is called upon to enact an entirely different sort of role than he has ever assayed before, and he does it with a dash and finish that stamps him as a superlative actor. El Brendel, the celebrated Swedish comedian comes in for a large share of the honors. With a little more effort he might have stolen the whole show. Suffice it to say that he injects enough comedy throughout the two hours it takes to show the picture, to last one for several days.

The performances Wednesday and Thursday evenings are benefit performances under the auspices of the Lions Club of Manchester. The money raised from these performances go to establish a Milk Fund, whereby the Lions Club may be better enabled to continue their work of providing milk to needy families. This is a most laudable work and worthy of the support of everyone in the town.

BETTER BREAKFAST BIGGER BUSINESS

Nation's Leaders Require Proper Diet, Herald Expert Asserts.

The better the breakfast the bigger the business—is the new slogan of the untiring businessman.

And this slogan is to be brought home to the feminine heads responsible for the breakfast menu when the Cooking and Homemaking School opens here, according to Mrs. Katherine DeLaney authority on balanced diet and home economics problems, who is to conduct the school.

"While I have never heard of any statistics being compiled on the number of deals that fall through because of the businessman's lack of proper diet, we do know for a certainty that the big business of the nation is built upon the vitality of its founders," asserts this nationally recognized authority. "There is no king in this country but good health and to those who wear that crown goes the royal heritage of happiness." Mrs. DeLaney added.

Every man must have the food which is best suited to his particular needs as well as to the nature of his employment, according to this expert, and thus the homemaker of today is given the greatest opportunity to express her individuality in one of the greatest arts of civilization—the art of cooking. She also declares that her studies of home conditions the country over have convinced her that men are just as interested in balanced diets as are their wives.

"It isn't food consciousness so much as just plain common sense that makes the American husband and father an ardent disciple of healthful meals," Mrs. DeLaney believes. "He knows that his ability to carry on is based on his energy, which is derived from a properly balanced diet."

"If the average business man were to start the day with a meal of roast beef and potatoes, he either would be brought home on a stretcher or would be such an inefficient and disagreeable office companion that he would be sent home. Yet it is not more absurd to start a man out in the morning with a meal lacking in the proper vitamins, minerals and proteins than it is to give him beef and potatoes. The effects of the diet lacking the energy-giving elements might not be so rapid but it would be just as certain to point to his ruin as a businessman."

There is another reason Mrs. DeLaney confessed, why she intends to stress the balanced diet for the businessman's health. She has discovered through her years of observation that nothing makes a man want to hurry home from his work more than the surety that he will be served an appetizing, balanced meal when he gets there.

So it is up to the feminine head of the family to keep up-to-date on the knowledge of kitchen products and how to serve them most advantageously. That her task is not unpleasant is assured by the science of modern invention, which has lightened her labor and given her most interesting things with which to work.

Her biggest job is keeping abreast with the times, Mrs. DeLaney believes. So rapidly is science and invention changing the routine of life that home economics specialists are compelled continually to study new devices and test new recipes.

The results of these hours of research is to be placed before the homemakers of this community by Mrs. DeLaney. The famous home economics expert assures the tired business man that the hours housewives spent at the cooking and homemaking school all will be to his credit and satisfaction in the end.

CHAUTEMPS POLICY TOLD TO DEPUTIES

France's New Premier Outlines Work Facing Chamber; Asks for Confidence.

Paris, Feb. 25—(AP)—Camille Chautemps, new French premier, today presented his ministerial declaration to the Chamber of Deputies and asked a vote of confidence so that Foreign Minister Briand and the rest of the French naval delegation might go to London tomorrow. In his declaration of policy upon the new premier took over Tardieu's naval policy and his economic construction program, but promised lower taxes.

He asked ratification of the Young plan and the Hague accord on reparations and gave his approval to the Briand project for a "United States of Europe."

Economic Crisis. Particularly is the ministry concerned with measures to avert the economic crisis which is manifesting itself in industry, as well as agriculture.

Premier Chautemps described the farm problem as "a painful crisis of overproduction and under consumption which would soon become dangerous," especially in wheat, and in addition he mentioned the "catastrophic" stagnation of the vineyards.

The naval conference was accorded prime importance, the premier's declaration touching on this and anticipating a vote of confidence, said: "Tomorrow our delegates will be present in London to continue with the approval of Parliament French policy at the conference for naval disarmament, faithful to the memorandum of Dec. 20 and the various statements made before the conference by representatives of France. They will try to prepare promising national security to prepare the success of the negotiations which is a necessary preface to a general conference for the limitation and reduction of armaments, at which will be expressed the common will of the peoples to organized peace."

The bulk of the declaration was devoted to economics and taxation. Former Premier Tardieu's plan to devote huge sums to "national equipment," such as roads, ports and grain elevators in order to develop business was taken over by the Chautemps ministry but in a modified form.

Lowering Taxes. Linked with this was the general idea of lowering taxes to a marked extent. It was asserted that some of this decrease would not affect receipts because the lowering of certain taxes such as those on the Stock Exchange would result in greater business.

The ministry promised bigger pensions for veterans and the execution of the long-disputed and much-debated social insurance plan.

Chautemps gave a firm pledge that the budget would be balanced, but indicated he would utilize some of the treasury's surplus and expected receipts in "constructive" measures designed to increase prosperity. The ministry expressed belief that some of the present high taxes would end by paralyzing production.

Further Amnesty. Further amnesty for political offenses in Alsace-Lorraine and elsewhere were proposed, and Parliament was asked to hasten the approach of a single system of free schools open to rich and poor alike which is one of the tenets of the Left group.

"The United States of Europe" was not called by that name, but got approval in the next to the last paragraph of the 1,400 word declaration. "Turning our eyes toward the future," the declaration said, "France associates herself with sin-ere and ardent will to every constructive effort to direct Europe toward a new order of things founded on voluntary and pacific consideration of productive forces and which will assure to the associated peoples improvement of their physical and mental existence and a durable guarantee of peace."

Approval of the work of the League of Nations was given and would be inspired by the League's principles. Particular reference was made to the Geneva protocol realization of which would be sought with tenacity and confidence.

"Without neglecting the needful attention to her national defense, France will make her active and loyal contribution to the general work of organizing peace in the world," the declaration policy concluded.

RUMBOAT IS PURSUED IN NEWPORT HARBOR

Newport, R. I., Feb. 25—(AP)—Pursuit up Newport harbor and Narragansett Bay of a vessel, presumably a rumrunner, by a 75-foot Coast Guard cutter during which several shots were fired, culminated in the capture today of the craft near Fall River, Mass.

Although confirmation of reports of the chase was forthcoming from Coast Guard officials at the New London, Conn., base, they declined to reveal the identity of the vessel, carried a cargo of liquor. She was being taken to New London, Commander Chalker said.

According to attaches of the government reservations of Rose Island and Gould Island, the chase got underway about 2 a. m. As the vessel went past the islands the fugitive boat was about 600 feet in the lead. It was then that the shots were heard.

The encounter was the first in this vicinity in which shots were fired since the capture of the rumrunner, Black Duck, about two months ago off this port. Three of the Black Duck's crew were killed or fatally injured by the Coast Guard fire.

FOOLED 'EM

Queretaro, Mex.—Mourners who attended the funeral of Jose Lozano were fooled when they got to the cemetery where Jose was to be interred. Just as the casket was to be lowered, Jose broke open the coffin and dashed away. It was found that instead of being dead he was merely suffering from a cataleptic fit.

OVER 60 COUNTRIES NOW TREAT COLDS WITHOUT "DOSING"

Modern Vaporizing Ointment Fast Replacing Old-Time Internal Remedies.

A generation ago, it was the custom to give large doses of internal medicines for colds and almost every human ailment. Then, a North Carolina pharmacist originated Vicks VapoRub, the modern method of treating colds without "dosing." Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

As more and more people adopted this modern external treatment, the fame of Vicks spread until today it is the standby for colds—adults as well as children's—in over 60 countries.

This ever-increasing demand is shown in the figures of the familiar Vicks slogan. Made famous when Vicks reached "17 Million Jars Used Yearly," and later raised to "21 Million," these figures, too, have been outgrown, as there are now "Over 26 Million Jars Used Yearly," in the United States alone.—Adv.

The Grand Jury has been summoned to hear the evidence today, the newspaper said.

The inquiry followed reported irregularities which auditors employed by William H. Malone, chairman of the state tax commission, found in the reassessment figures.

WINTER PARADOX

West Palm Beach, Fla.—Dr. J. H. Pittman sat dozing in the warm sunshine sipping a cooling drink. The telephone rang and a voice at the other end of the wire asked for a treatment for frozen feet. "Is this a joke?" asked the good doctor. "No indeed," came the reply—which proved to be a call from the Radio Marine Corporation's station here which had picked up a call from the S. S. Malverne in the North Atlantic asking for the treatment.

"Most captivating feminine charm is Lovely Skin,"

says
George Melford, famous Hollywood
Director

"PEOPLE take to their hearts instantly the girl who has beautiful skin. Without it no girl can rise to stardom on the screen."

In these words George Melford sums up the experience of 45 leading Hollywood directors. "The public loves the close-up," he goes on, "and only a skin of ravishing smoothness can stand the test of glaring studio lights."

To every actress in Hollywood, then, smooth skin is of supreme importance. And 511 of the 521 important ones (including all stars) use Lux Toilet Soap!

The Broadway stage stars use it, too. And, when they decide to do a "talkie," easily pass the close-up test!

And now the European stars have adopted this fragrant white soap. Certainly you will want to try it. Order several cakes—today.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Junior Cameron, New York typist, marries Arthur Knight, executive of the public house, in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, Tony, 18, and son, Junior, 16. Tony denounces Judith as a gold digger. Her father makes her apologize. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

Andy Craig, a young man Knight has aided, takes a position with the publishing house. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair and, when she fails, tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation with Mickey Mortimer, wealthy and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 5 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has misjudged her.

Tony intercepts a letter which comes for Judith. Later she follows her stepmother on a trip into the city and sees her meet a young man. She threatens to tell her father unless Judith goes away for two weeks. Judith goes, leaving a note for Arthur. Knight's secretary reports that Andy Craig is missing, too. Judith goes to an inconspicuous hotel on upper Broadway. She roams aimlessly about the city, pursued by a sense of guilt. She finally reaches the water front.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLII
None of the men and women about her noticed the girl dressed in shabby black sitting alone on a bench facing the water.

Judith studied her neighbors. There were two old men, white-haired and red-checked, who seemed to be peering at her. She hunched up about their chins to ward off the wind. The two men were arguing, though she could not hear what they said. One old fellow was tall and thin. The other's shoulders were bent and one of his eyes was closed. They moved rhythmically.

Far at the left a girl was scattering crumbs for the pigeons that swirled and fluttered about her head. Standing, gazing off down the harbor, were several sailors. Others in short jackets and gummy caps sat on benches and blinked at the sun.

A party of feminine sight-seers passed Judith, chatting animatedly. Messenger boys, stenographers, women pushing carts and pushing all part of the throng. Each group was preoccupied, oblivious to the girl.

Judith Knight's mind was busy, too. She stared at the water, drawn by its restless lure. Far in the distance great ships were heading seaward. Others, returning from foreign seas, were steaming into port.

Starting out at the hazy horizon, Judith lost herself in reverie. Minutes passed. She remembered what had happened and her melancholy returned.

But the stir, the noise of the river traffic was tonic. It challenged the girl.

For two hours she remained in the park at the water's edge. Then she left her bench and walked to the subway station. Time was no object with Judith. She watched the long express train rumble out of sight, then boarded a local.

Thirty minutes later she emerged into daylight and went back to the hotel and up the elevator to her room.

Judith turned the key in the latch and swung the door open. It was only a little after five o'clock, bright daylight out of doors, but here in the little room with its one window facing the court, everything was black.

She snapped the electric light switch, threw off her hat and coat and dropped them on the bed. She went to the window and gazed out uncertainly. After those hours in the fresh air and sunlight this hideous place was intolerable.

No—it was not the room. Judith faced the truth honestly. It was she who was afraid. For 24 hours she had been terrified by forbidding horrors she had refused to name. She was afraid of what should happen when Arthur Knight knew the truth. She was afraid even of admitting she was afraid.

The whole sickening panorama passed before her mind. Why not admit it? She was beaten! Judith did not know how long she stood staring out of the window. An idea, vague but persistent, was beginning to shape itself in her mind. She considered this idea, discarded it, then went groping in search of it again.

Suppose she should go to Arthur? "No, no, no!" caution argued. "What would you say? What could you tell him?"

"Tell him the truth!" came the answering argument. "Tell him all you should have told before your marriage."

"But I'm afraid!" There it was! Fear of what disclosure would bring on one hand—fear of concealment on the other. The conflicting elements of Judith's nature battled back and forth. Such fights are not settled quickly. In this case too much was at stake.

Judith knew she had given Tony a promise to stay away for two weeks. But what was that promise except payment of blackmail? She had agreed to leave the house for two weeks. She was doing this in order that Tony would not tell her father what she knew.

Was it decent to bargain thus? Was such a promise binding? Other elements entered into the struggle. Why, Judith asked herself, was Tony so anxious to have her leave? What could two weeks' sternity though they seemed to Judith—do to change the situation? How would she feel when at the end of that period she returned home?

The tangle seemed hopeless. Oh, there were points that were clear enough. Judith Knight knew what she wanted—to regain Arthur's love and their former happiness. She wanted this so desperately that she was afraid to gamble.

To see Arthur again—to tell him the whole story—to see the light of forgiveness in his eyes!

But no, Arthur Knight would not forgive. Judith slipped to her knees and buried her head on the bed.

"Oh, God," she prayed, "help me! Help me to know what is right!" Suddenly she knew that was the important thing. Not her own selfish happiness should guide her, but the thing that was right. In pleading for guidance her prayers had been answered.

Judith was strangely pale, strangely stirred as she rose. She caught a glimpse of her reflection in the mirror and stared at it. She scarcely recognized herself.

Her wrist watch told her it was nearly six o'clock. Judith disrobed, bathed and dressed afresh. Then she made ready to leave the room. Habit made her pause on the threshold and glance back over her shoulder. Assured that she had not forgotten anything, she stepped into the hall and locked the door.

A subtle change had taken place in Judith Knight's appearance. The boy in the elevator eyed her curiously, but Judith did not notice this.

Through the hotel lobby and out on the street she moved. Involuntarily she sought the restaurant where she had lunch.

When she had finished her dinner she paid the cashier and stepped into the street.

Glowing electric lights beamed but Judith ignored them. For several blocks she walked without noticing her surroundings. Then she realized that she had passed the corner where she should have turned to reach the hotel. Still she continued.

She was not thinking—at least Judith herself she did not want to think. Subconsciously her mind was in ferment. Should she go back to Arthur? Should she remain here?

The long afternoon out of doors had made her weary. At last Judith turned and made her way back to the hotel.

When she was in her room once more she slipped into the one chair and drew a long sigh. Yes, she was tired, physically and mentally. She turned and she had come no nearer to a decision.

But that was not true. When any problem is stated and faced frankly half the battle is over. Judith was unaware of this.

She was painstaking that evening about her preparations for the night. Cleaned her face carefully with cream, cleaned it with hot water and brushed her hair, 50 strokes on either side. It was as though, by busying herself at these tasks, she sought to forget more important things.

At last, though it was still early in the evening, she turned out the light and climbed into bed.

If Judith Knight had only known her decision already was made. She had reached the turning point in the searing agony of that moment when she had slipped to her knees and cried, "Help me know what is right!"

Judith slept late the next morning. She took a long walk before lunch and again in the afternoon visited Battery Park. It was as she sat watching a glorious white liner with crimson stacks glide slowly out into the harbor that involuntarily her two hands clapped together.

"I'll do it!" Judith said to herself. "I'm going—now!"

In a tumult of energy she rushed toward the subway. Down the steps Judith ran. Oh, she must hurry now! She must hurry before she lost courage!

A train was pulling in. Judith leaped aboard as the doors opened. A good omen—she saw that it was an express, and the right one.

The electric demon could not go fast enough to satisfy her. Local stations flashed into sight, and out again. Yellow lights, green lights, red lights twinkled in the subterranean caverns. It all seemed slow and annoying to Judith's impatience.

She was the first one out of the car when the doors slid back. Up the steps she sped. She was breathless and running when she reached the hotel.

"If I hurry," she told herself, "I can make it 4:10!" She must make it! Otherwise there would be an impossible half-hour's delay and she could not reach the hotel until after five o'clock.

Lucky there was little to pack. Pajamas, lingerie, comb and brush and cosmetics were tossed into the traveling bag helter-skelter. When they were all in and the bag locked Judith grabbed it up and ran.

She chafed at the cashier's delay as he hunted for her bill.

"Taxi!" asked the driver stationed before the door.

No, the subway would be quicker. Without bothering to answer, Judith ran down the street.

The traveling bag was not heavy. She swung onto a train, barely squeezing in before the automatic doors clicked shut. Judith dropped into the first seat and eyed each passing station defiantly. As they neared the railway station she made her way to the door, ready to dash out the minute the train stopped.

Off to the ticket window and down a flight of stairs to the suburban trains. Judith's heart bounded. There, waiting, stood the 4:10.

She entered the nearest car and found a seat. A cold little shiver ran down her spine.

"If he'll only listen!" Judith prayed. "If Arthur will only understand!"

Now that the excitement of catching the train was ended, there was a lump in Judith's throat. She was afraid that Arthur would not understand.

But even her worst fears had not prepared Judith Knight for the moment 30 minutes later when she faced Arthur Knight in the living room of his home.

"I'm back!" she faltered. Knight eyed his young wife coolly and deliberately.

"What have you come for?" he asked.

Breakfast perhaps is the most difficult and the most important meal of the day.

It's the most difficult to plan because there seems to be less opportunity for variety. It usually has to be prepared hurriedly and is often eaten at top speed. The dishes should be easy of digestion and at the same time as nourishing as possible.

The principal work of the day is, as a rule, done in the morning. Whether this work is mental or manual, a supply of blood is needed to give energy to the brain or muscles that are exercised. If the breakfast dish has been hard to digest, the stomach competes with brain or brawn for blood supply and either one's work or one's health suffers.

Breakfast is Problem
Morning lack of appetite makes breakfast a difficult meal for many persons. While lack of appetite may have several causes, sheer weariness of the monotony of the breakfast menu may be the answer in many instances.

If breakfast menus were planned like the rest of the meals, several days or a week in advance, it would be much easier for the housekeeper to get completely away from the backdoor combinations. The menu should be planned so that minimum of time is required in its preparation, but plenty of time should be allowed for serving and eating.

Eating "against time" is not an aid to digestion and may cause serious trouble, particularly for children.

The age, food habits and activities of each person have much to do with the breakfast required. Weather conditions also influence the menu.

With the coming of spring, pancakes lose some of their popularity. Heavy cereals and hot muffins can be replaced by lighter cereals and toast. Rice makes a satisfactory cereal for a spring breakfast. Eggs are specially suited to the spring, since they are less expensive at this season. Fresh fish are plentiful during the spring months and are quickly cooked. Smoked and salted fish always are available and are savory and appealing.

Most households take fruit for granted on the breakfast menu these days, so the housewife usually serves to please individual tastes.

The spring breakfast can be given interest by the introduction of certain salad vegetables. Curly endive served with bacon, watercress with curried or fresh fish, spinach with poached egg, sliced tomatoes with crisp toast and bacon, breakfast radishes and carrot straws are a few suggestions for serving vegetables for breakfast.

ANCIENT WIG.
New York.—Evidently women back 5,000 years ago were as careful of their make-up as they are today. Arthur Weigall, former inspector-general of antiquities to the Egyptian government, tells of the unearthing of a toupee of hair, neatly curled, from the ruins in the Valley of Pharaoh Kings in Egypt. The wig is said to be more than 5,000 years old.

LARGEST SNAKE SKIN.
New York.—The skin of what is said to be the largest snake ever killed on the American continent is at the New York Zoological Park. It is the skin of a South American anaconda, 22 feet long and 3 feet wide. It was killed by a native on the River San Lorenzo in Brazil. It is dark olive in color, with round spots.

Youth—Plus Sophistication

At once youthful and sophisticated in its effect, this chic gown of cell blue panne velvet owes much of its charm to the use of a narrow fringe trim. Like all good gowns for dancing this spring, it misses the floor—but not by many inches. With its daring originality and its graceful princess line, it is one of the smartest of Paris gowns, and is designed by Redfern.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

What is a "built-in" emotion or impulse in child behavior?

It is something a baby doesn't have in his make-up when he is born but which we put there for him. Carpenter work—man-made!

For instance, a baby cries for his sister's doll. We give it to him. Ah! What has happened? We've laid down one good solid brick in our little wall already.

He plays with the doll for a moment and we discover that he's pulled off a handful of hair. We jerk it away. He screams. "No, no, you're a bad boy. You can't have it," we tell him.

But he continues to scream. "The girl is my sister, Sister. It's just your old doll, anyway. Let him have it for another minute—by that time I'll put on his bonnet and coat and take him out and he'll forget about it."

Back goes the doll. Sudden ceasing of sobs and gurgles of delight. A whole row of bricks neatly cemented together in a nice straight line! This wall is going to be a beauty!

After that, every time he sees the doll the baby starts to scream for it—and gets it.

"Oh, you might as well give it to him to keep, Sister. He likes it so well and it keeps him amused."

Half a story up!

Another day baby sees us put on our hat. He gurgles and laughs. He's going for a walk.

We start out without him. He watches the front door closing. Oh, how he screams. We can't leave the poor baby that way. We come back and pat him and talk to him and kiss him and tell him we'll be back soon. We send him into a room where he can't see us slip out. But he knows that hat and what it means.

It's no go. We come back a second time. This time we give in. "Run up and get his things. I'll take him. I am just going to Mrs. Brown's anyway. At's a little lamb! Hims wants to go bye-bye wif him's mums."

Baby all hatted and coated and ready to go is now purring like ten kittens.

Another wall of our smart new pen begun.

The next day we repeat the process of trying to leave baby and failing, and the next, and the next.

Two walls up!

Baby hates a dark room. We forget and left the door open into the night. The next morning we are wakened by the next morning. We are wakened by the next morning. We are wakened by the next morning.

Build the fourth out of anything: there is always material at hand. Something he won't do for instance? Perhaps he won't let his sister touch any of his blocks, "give them back, dear. It only makes him cry."

There! We have it now, the complete structure. What is it we have built in that we're going to have a nice time getting out later on? Selfishness! Selfishness and having his own way—fostered by desire and encouraged by us.

This is just one example. Any emotion can be similarly built in.

HAS MOST GOLD

Paris—With the per capita ratio of gold at $40, France is now said to lead the entire world in the possession of gold. This came about after the Berengaria landed at Cherbourg with $43,200,000 in gold for the Bank of France. The United States ranks second, with $37,500 per capita in treasury gold stock.

TALLER CHILDREN

London—Working under the direction of the Board of Education, children are becoming taller but on the average are not quite as heavy. The Board of Education reports that this increased height is due to health training that the children are receiving in school.

The chief factors they use are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In late years, excess fat has been fast disappearing, as everybody knows.

The method and formula are explained in every box of Marmola. As you gain new slenderness, beauty and vim, you know why. Go try the method which has done so much. Watch the amazing results. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

My little daughter scored 100 per cent in a health contest recently," says Mrs. J. A. Kelly, 2144 Seventh Ave., Astoria, L. I. "And I want to give credit where it is due."

"Nancy was constipated several years ago and I gave her California Fig Syrup. It helped her so wonderfully that I have used it ever since for all her upsets or colds. It has kept her strong, energetic, rugged."

Children suffer when bowels aren't regular. Breath becomes fetid; tongue coated; eyes dull. When these symptoms are neglected, biliousness, feverishness, lack of appetite invariably follow.

The first dose of California Fig Syrup relieves these symptoms and activates sluggish bowels. Successive doses help tone and strengthen weak bowels; improve appetite; encourage digestion and assimilation. Try it with a bilious, head-achy, constipated child and see how it helps!

The pure vegetable product, endorsed by doctors for 50 years, always bears the name California. So look for it when buying—Adv.

In Lightweight Woolens, Crepe Silk and Jersey

By ANNETTE

This swagger tweed coat in straightline with belted waistline in fashionable green coloring, does double duty, for it may also be worn as a separate sports coat.

The sports dress of flat silk crepe in harmonizing green shade may also be worn without the coat.

Style No. 231 includes the pattern for dress and coat. It is designed in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 26, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

The dress is a slip-on type with new short kimono sleeves finished with turn-back cuffs. The collarless neckline has an inset band of white pique. The front of the bodice is decidedly modern in its pointed outline. Kilted platts at either side of skirt below hipline are insets, for this favorite dress is a one-piece affair.

A narrow belt is worn at normal waistline.

The fronts of the coat are under-lapped and rolled with the attached collar into revers. They employ the plain silk crepe which is also used to line the coat and for cuffs of sleeves.

The dress may also be made of wool crepe which is used for lining and trim.

Pattern price 15 cents in stamps or coin (coin is preferred). Wrap coat carefully.

We suggest that when you send for pattern, you enclose 10 cents additional for a copy of our new Spring Fashion Magazine, just off the press.

The Truth About Fat

Science has found that excess fat is largely due to a weak bowels. Now physicians the world over, in treating obesity, combat that major cause. Starvation is not advised.

The chief factors they use are embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In late years, excess fat has been fast disappearing, as everybody knows.

The method and formula are explained in every box of Marmola. As you gain new slenderness, beauty and vim, you know why. Go try the method which has done so much. Watch the amazing results. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box.

The WOMAN'S DAY

I am not prepared to defend the accuracy of this statement, but it comes from a national congressman from New York, Fiorelli J. Guar-dia, who last year ran for Mayor of New York City. Said he:

"Prepared salad dressings have broken up more homes than all the chorus girls in the world."

How much of an authority La Guardia is on divorce, I do not know, but he has the reputation of being the most talented cook in Congress. Men who disagree with him utterly on policy, agree unanimously on the excellence of his spaghetti.

I have no doubt but he is a wizard with cream, lemon juice, paprika, and all the ingredients that go into the making of excellent dressing.

I have nothing against prepared dressings, but I do believe that serving a good salad, with a distinctive dressing that you make yourself, and use your own imagination on, is a social asset within easy reach.

Any waiter in a French cafe can mix a dressing in a spoon that is a real delight, with just such important items would naturally be at hand on the table. He does it in the time he could open a can, and apparently has no sense he is doing anything remarkable.

When you hear the host calling for the materials and know he is going to mix the dressing at the table, you know you are about to sit in on a very pleasant and interesting ceremony.

Carey Insists Miami Bouts Wont Be On Air

Much Pressure Being Brought to Bear In Influential Circles to Make Carey Change His Mind.

By ALAN GOULD

Miami, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Although the strongest kind of pressure has been brought to bear, the Madison Square Garden Corporation today apparently had resisted all efforts to bring about a reversal of its decision not to broadcast the Sharkey-Scott and Campolo-Risiko fight show Thursday night.

The impression that the Garden magnates would change their minds and permit the fight to be wafted out of the arena to all parts of the country as well as to the rest of the world, gained circulation after information was received that the National Broadcasting Company was sending two men from New York.

It was learned in addition that strong influence had been brought to bear, not only by American radio interests, newspapers and listeners-in, but also by foreign broadcasting concerns anxious to obtain hookups because of the international character of the bouts.

William F. Carey, president and spokesman for the Garden, flatly said last night before taking a train for New York, that there would be no broadcast under any circumstances.

"We made our decision and will stick to it," Mr. Carey said. Nothing has happened thus far to alter the one-sided aspect of the Anglo-American fight event.

Anything the impressive character of Jack Sharkey's last workout with the gloves yesterday strengthened the general belief that he will win the fight. The odds have been set at 4 to 1 that Sharkey wins by a knockout inside of four rounds.

"The French fight fans, for instance, are finding out what it's all about. While America still swears along in the Devonian period, the French have started crawling out of the water at least. In a recent fight at Marseilles in which the principals petted rather than fought, the French fans demonstrated clearly they had left the Age of Fishes behind forever. They broke up the ring and then proceeded to burn the auditorium."

On the Race Course. Nor was that all. At the Vincennes track near Paris a short time ago, the race for the Dover prize was not all it might have been. About a dozen of the horses that notion they would not wait until the barrier went up.

The jockeys, of course, wrestled mightily with them, but there was a false start and the spirited steeds ran far.

We have seen the same thing happen in this land of the free at different times; usually the jockeys were reading their favorite serial stories in the newspapers while "wrestling" with their mounts.

The Populace Arises. The race was run over again and an outsider finished an easy winner, the favorites having shot their respective bolts. There was great felicity among the book makers.

Usually when such an event occurs in America the custom of the race-goers is to do great deal of mumbling in their beads. Crowds gather around the judges' stand and voice protests, but it avails them nothing. We have much to learn from the French.

The French merely seized their chairs and flung them onto the track.

They tore asunder the rail that separates the throng from the running course. They pitched whatever they could find through convenient windows.

They had just burned the betting stands around were playing with matches around the corners of the grandstand when the officials of the track relented and announced all bets were off and all monies would be refunded.

Strong Man Guards the White House

If chronic cranks and professional president-pesters could see P. H. McLaughlin in this fierce pose, they doubtless would be less insistent about trying to force their way into the White House. For McLaughlin, erstwhile boxer, wrestler, and circus strong man, now is a guard at the Executive Mansion. He is shown above as he appears at a Washington gymnasium keeping fit for any emergencies which may arise while he is on duty.

"FARMER" LODGE 7TH VICTIM FOR CARNERA

Minnesota Palooka Tumbles in Second Round of Match in New Orleans.

New Orleans, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Farmer Lodge of Minnesota is the seventh victim of Primo Carnera's campaign through American prize rings.

The mammoth Italian knocked out Lodge in the second of what was to have been a ten round bout here last night. Carnera appeared nervous as Lodge clinched repeatedly at the start of the fight, but after the farmer landed one blow, a glancing left to the head, the Italian opened up and floored him for a short count of seven with a smashing right to the body and then ended the encounter with a short right uppercut.

Lodge weighed 235, Carnera, 275.

BABE RUTH'S SUIT GIVEN TO ROOKIE!

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 25.—A deep and dark plot to force Babe Ruth to put his signature to a New York Yankee contract has been scented by baseball reporters covering the Yanks spring training here.

ALAN GOULD ASSOCIATED PRESS, SPORTS EDITOR

Predictions or forecasts are always safer long range. They cannot be disproved so readily, if in fact they are remembered at all. No great risks are being run therefore in making the guess that:

Pittsburgh will be the National league club most likely to upset the Chicago Cubs while Cleveland will have the best chance of any American league entry trying to check the Athletics.

Washington will come East with another fine crew and give Columbia the sternest chase down the Hudson.

Frank Wykoff of Southern California will be the next intercollegiate spring king.

Jimmy McLarnin will be the welterweight champion of the world any time he gets into the ring with Jack Fields.

America will retain polo supremacy and Sir Thomas Lipton will have a sporting chance to win the America's Cup in yacht-racing for the first time since 1903.

France will keep the Davis Cup and Big Bill Tilden will finally yield to youth in the American tennis championship.

Bobby Jones will win at least one major golf championship, if not two or three, abroad and at home.

Jack Sharkey will win recognition as the world's heavyweight champion by beating Phil Scott and Max Schmeling.

Art (The Great) Shires will engage in no fistfights with Manager Donnie Bush of the White Sox.

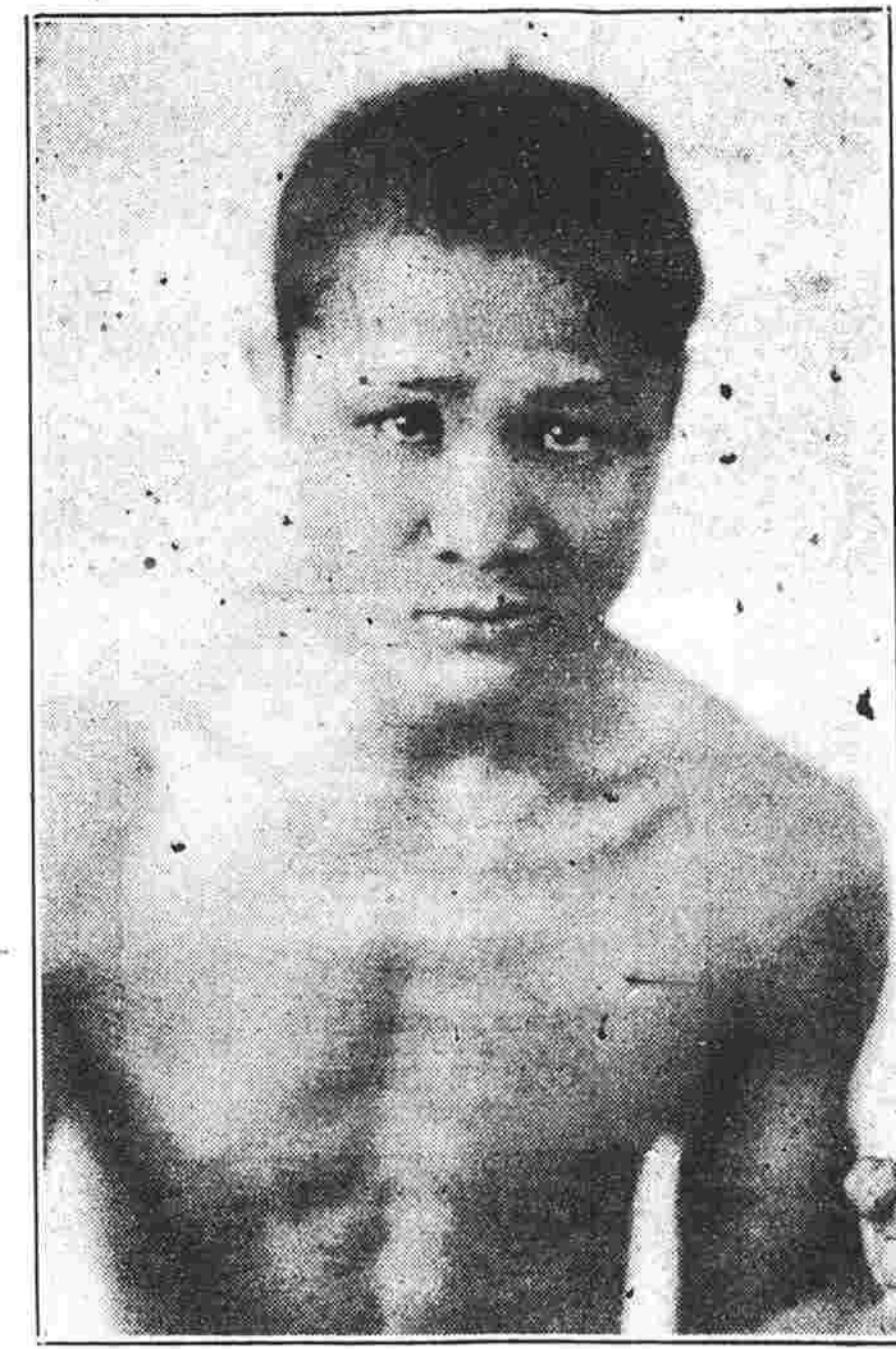

Albe Booth will be an All-American halfback in October, November and December.

The favorite will be beaten in the Kentucky Derby.

Stagg will continue to fear Purdue and so will the rest of the Big Ten. The Braves and Red Sox will each finish last in their respective leagues.

Yale will beat Harvard again on the Thames river.

BAT'S FIRST REAL TEST

IGNACIO FERNANDEZ

Battalino Slight Favorite To Defeat Fernandez

Filipino Considered Most Dangerous Foe Champion Has Ever Faced In His Ring Career.

Star-bout: Bat Battalino, Hartford, vs. Ignacio Fernandez, Philippines, 10 rounds.

Semi-final: Eddie Lord, Waterbury, vs. Mickey Flahive, Hartford, 8 rounds.

Other bouts: Eddie Reed, Hartford, vs. Lou Piquette, Bridgeport, 6 rounds; Joe Hanlon, Manchester, vs. Marty Fox, New York, 6 rounds; Ralph Lenny, Union City, N. J., vs. Joe Pella, New York, 6 rounds; Rocky Rayo, Hartford, vs. Johnny Kop, Norwich, 4 rounds.

Bat Battalino tonight goes forth to war over in the Hartford State Armory for the third time since he won the title from Andre Routsis and against the most dangerous opponent he has ever met.

The champion will square off against Ignacio Fernandez, the hard-hitting Filipino whose record is diamond-studded with knockouts over Al Singer and Abe Attie.

Both are terrific hitters. Battalino's prowess as a puncher is well known in these parts; it was his uncanny talent for sending opponents to sleep early in his battles as an amateur that first drew attention to him. Then Bat stepped up to Boston for the National A. A. U. tournament and knocked out three contenders in five minutes to win the national amateur featherweight crown.

Fernandez is one of the hardest hitters the featherweight class has ever produced. He hit Al Singer so hard and so accurately last May in their bout in New York that Al was dragged to his corner and wasn't revived for five minutes. And he gave Goldstein a beating that ended Abe's career.

Battalino is favored to win, but even his most ardent rooters concede that Fernandez will be dangerous every minute. These boys are singularly well matched physically, being built on almost identical the same lines. Fernandez has just a slight edge in height and reach.

This scrap tonight promises to be one of the most vicious, one of the most sensational ever staged between small boys in any New England ring. Many predict Bat's Waterloo.

LEADERS UNABLE TO BREAK AWAY IN BOWLING RACE

Night Hawks and Majors Continue In Dead Lock With Charter Oaks Close Behind.

The Majors and Night Hawks continue neck and neck in their race for the Herald Bowling League pennant, last night's matches having no change to bring. Both league leaders won the maximum four points. The Charter Oaks continued close on the heels of the pace setters by winning four from the Centers, a noteworthy feat. The west Sides took four from the Construction, the Night Hawks four from Shell Gas, the Majors four from the Pirates and the British Americans three from the Herald.

HARVARD TRIUMPHS IN BIG TRACK MEET

Vanquishes Cornell and Dartmouth With Ease; Competes for Title.

Boston, Feb. 25.—(AP)—Harvard's well-balanced track team today loomed as one of the outstanding contenders for the I. C. A. A. A. indoor championships through its top-heavy victory in last night's triangular meet with Cornell and Dartmouth. Eddie Farrell's performers ran up a total of 63½ points in the 13 events to Cornell's 30 and Dartmouth's 22½.

The Crimson track team took first place in nine of the events and tied for first in the pole vault, both Oscar Sutermeister of Harvard and E. E. Colyer of Cornell going over the bar at 13 feet, 2½ inches. Sutermeister had inches and Colyer an entire foot to spare as they worked the bar up to the 15 foot mark.

They will meet again in next Saturday's intercollegiate title games at New York.

The Harvard mile relay team, which broke the meet record by turning in a performance of 3 minutes, 27 1-5 seconds, in the three team race, was not pushed hard by Dartmouth but showed enough promise to bother many of the quartets that will strive for the I. C. A. A. A. relay honors.

Two other meet records, besides the relay and pole vault marks, were bettered during the night's competition. Tommy Mason, Harvard track captain, improved the time for the "300" with a 33 1-5 seconds race and Lawrence Levy, great Cornell shot-putter, heaved the 15-pound ball to a new mark of 47 feet, 8 1-8 inches.

Cornell scored most of its points in the field events, making a clean sweep of the shot-put and taking second and third in the 35-pound weight event.

The best Dartmouth performance was turned in by Burton Crandell, who ran a great "1,000" and had speed enough to pass Joe Fobes, one of the best of the Harvard middle-distance runners, on the last lap and fight him off the tape.

Another Red Hot Tilt Expected; Youth and Speed Combined With Veterans and Experience on Visiting Aggregation.

With cool weather back again, it is expected that there will be a good sized crowd at the Rec-Meriden Endeeds basketball tilt to be staged in the Rec gym this evening.

Meriden is sending a very strong team here and in all probabilities another thrilling battle will take place. It doesn't require much courage to make such a prediction inasmuch as practically every tussle the Rec had had this season has been featured by a whirlwind finish.

With Ray Marchinek, star Holyoke player, back in town, it looks as though the Rec will be able to give the visitors from the Silver City plenty of opposition, but one never can tell. The Endeeds are to be represented by a team that compares with the best of them in the state outside of the All-New Britains.

Among their star performers is Adolph Zythwicz who played with the Endeeds last year. He is expected to give Marchinek plenty of opposition. Al Smith and Jimmy Mastriano, former Meriden High school sensations will be on the outposts and may give Messrs. Dowd and Madden plenty to think about. The ability of Eddie McCarthy and "Red" Linger, Meriden's backcourt performers, is too well known for mention. They have appeared here many times before.

The Nut Cracker

If there is ever a Bok prize to be given for the most conspicuous defensive effort, we recommend that it be divided up among the wrestlers. There never yet was a wrestling match in which some great honor was not being defended.

Dan Howley says Leo Durocher, in two years, will be one of the greatest shortstops of all time. And with the new all-talkie attachment, too.

The Walker Cup matches will be played at Sandwich, which is one of the world's toughest courses. When they announced the affair would be held at Sandwich, they certainly said a mouthful.

Most of those battlers down there 'neath the palms seem to be doing their roadwork in pretty classy limousines.

They booked that Sharkey-Scott thing in Florida so they could palm it off.

Sparring partners are being mangled regularly in the Florida boxing camps. The ballyhoo boys are using the new typewriters with a special mangling attachment.

Mr. Baker of the Phils probably realizes by now that he has collected the hardest hitting outfield in the business—when it comes to hitting for mere money.

They used to punish people in New England by putting them in stocks. A man can still take plenty of punishment in stocks—if sticks around Wall Street long enough.

Alie is 20 cents a bottle on the Cunard liner that will take Phil Scott back to Jolly old England. And, championship of no, "Scott" can't be said to have lost everything.

Barney Dreyfuss is strictly neutral. He sends his Pirates to California and goes to Florida himself.

We have a vague recollection that somewhere in the doughy marching song, "Parlez Vous," the French are called a "Frenchie". The course of recent sporting events in the republic confounds that slander. They are not funny at all; they are noble.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Feb. 25-(AP)-The Stock Market was confronted with a heavy accumulation of selling orders at the opening today, and prices moved lower.

U. S. Steel, Common, opened with a block of 6,000 shares at 178 1-2, off A. M. Byers dropped 2 1-4 points and Missouri-Kansas-Texas, New Haven, Consolidated Gas and International Harvester yielded a point or so.

The crash in commodity prices, which sent wheat and cotton futures to new low levels for the season yesterday, had a disturbing effect on speculative sentiment. Wall Street was concerned over its effect on agricultural purchasing power as well as on the elections this fall.

The announcement that the banking consortium, organized during the Stock Market collapse last fall by J. P. Morgan and Co., had dissolved and that all its securities had been sold, apparently was without market influence.

Atchison quickly fell 3 1-4 points, Allied Chemical 3, Eastman Kodak 2 3-4 and Canada Dry. Among the many issues to lose a point or more were American Woolen Preferred, J. I. Case, Davison Chemical, DuPont, American International, Simmons Co., North American Co., National Lead and Westinghouse Electric.

U. S. Steel rallied nearly a point from its low level of 177 1-2 at the end of the first half hour, and Republic Steel was marked up more than a point above last night's close.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables unchanged at $4.86 5-16.

MOTHER AND SON DIE. Peiping, China, Feb. 25-(AP)-Mrs. Margaret Gorman Rupertus, of Albany, N. Y., wife of Major William Rupertus, second in command of the American Marine Legion Guard, died today, ten hours after the death of her son, William, Jr., aged eleven. Both deaths were from scarlet fever.

The boy contracted the disease a fortnight ago and Mrs. Rupertus went to the hospital with him and helped in nursing him. She too contracted the disease a few days ago.

Today's deaths marked the third in the Rupertus family since its coming to Peiping last fall.

South Main St.-Prentiss homestead, eight rooms, a fine old home well situated on a hill-trees, shrubbery, garden. Price $6,000 to settle an estate.

Brand new Colonial of 6 rooms, all up-to-date and well worth the price of $8,000 on easy terms.

Poultry farm, seven room house, seven acres, all southern slope, small barn for cow, some fruit, $5,500. Yes, it is close in town, convenient to trolley.

SAVE TRAPPED MINERS.

Wath-Upon-Dearne, Yorkshire, England, Feb. 25-(AP)-All those trapped in the shafts of the Wath main colliery after an explosion and fire yesterday, have been brought to the surface. Groups of miners and relatives waited all night in the snow at the mouth of the mine as the groups came from below.

Three miners were killed and seven injured in the explosion.

Behind the scenes of a chain store system, particularly a food chain, there is a world of romance and particularly interesting to the public. This was aptly emphasized today by Mr. Comstock head of the local A & P stores. He pointed out that transportation of the veritable mountains of foodstuffs to the store from point of production or gathering, is one of the greatest single items in the matter of price to Mr. and Mrs. Ultimate Consumer, since the latter must pay the cost of transportation.

All of the vast purchases of food that are uniformly displayed in 15,000 A & P stores go as direct from field or factory to store counter as human ingenuity can make possible. There is nothing lost in mileage or time between these two points. This matter of routing goods is of prime importance for extra mileage and extra hours in transportation mean added costs. So these routings are worked out in the most minute detail to save that extra few cents per pound that might cost for smaller food cargoes that must therefore be routed less directly with the invariable addition to original cost.

Because of carload and even shipload lot purchases the chain store organization can command not only the most direct routes and the greatest speed in transport, but the lowest cost per mile, it was explained. It is also obvious, Mr. Comstock added, that this direct routing from production point to sales counter eliminates the frequent handling to which goods otherwise routed are subjected. This elimination of frequent handling naturally results in lower prices to the ultimate consumer. Proof of such saving is given in the fact that chain food distributors today sell forty percent of all foodstuffs consumed in the United States.

A graphic picture of this mass gathering and distributing with every possible "middle cost" eliminated is seen in the volume of business done by the A & P stores alone. For instance, this concern operates more than thirty offices in South America for the single purpose of buying coffee literally by the ton. It sells one-seventh of all the tea sold here, which, translated, means American housewives and hostesses last year poured about two billion cups of tea bought at A & P stores. And imagine what minute figuring it takes to get the minimum of transportation costs on a million and a half loaves of bread, a half million pounds of butter and 3,000,000 eggs which are the average daily sales of those commodities in A & P stores. This remarkable picture of buying foods at the source and distributing them by the most direct route and at the lowest possible cost can be visualized if one looks about on the shelves and counters of the chain store where only the immediate supplies for that unit are stocked, and then multiplies the picture by 15,000!

It is most interesting to note that the A & P organization is perhaps the greatest single advertiser of foods in the world. Approximately $6,000,000 annually is spent to inform housewives on food prices. Again the chain organization keeps costs down in this service of furnishing important information to housewives the actual cost per customer per day being the infinitesimal figure of less than one half a cent daily. By far the greater portion of this is spent in newspaper advertisements, and officials of the company attribute much of their tremendous growth to this newspaper advertising, which is really an important listing of foodstuffs prices to householders just as the daily market reports on stocks, bonds, crops, and all commodities tell the business man, merchant and farmer what are fair prices and what actual conditions are. These messages appear almost daily in more than 1,300 newspapers throughout this country and Canada.

It was with that principle always uppermost in his mind that the founder of the great A & P grocery store chain built the organization from a single shop in Vesey street into a close-knit but far-flung organization that today comprises 15,000 stores in 34 states and in the Canadian provinces of Ontario and Quebec, and whose customers number more than 5,000,000 daily.

Founder's Week has been annually celebrated by the A & P organization for some time. It has a peculiarly significant phase this year in view of the recent announcement by John A. Hartford, that this oldest of chain store systems has decided to open a chain store in Los Angeles, thus bringing to a realization the dream of its founder of a chain of stores whose links actually stretch from the shores of the Atlantic to the shores of the Pacific. The dozen stores to be opened at Los Angeles eventually will be followed by other units to be established all up and down the west coast of the continent.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below--and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS (1) "Ball Masque" should be Bal Masque. (2) The man who says he's a pierrot is in harem costume, not pierrot. (3) Sombrero is spelled incorrectly. (4) The spur is missing from the cowboy's right foot. (5) The scrambled word is SITUATION.

SENSE and NONSENSE

Decent
How is this for a Creed?
I will be decent—not particularly pious, nor good, nor superior—but just plain decent.
I don't like dirt.
I don't like soiled clothes, nor muddy shoes, nor coarse speech.
I am not proper, nor fussy. I am decent.
I like clean things: a white tablecloth, a clean plate, a tidy desk.
I like a man who sticks to his legal wife.
There are plenty of unclean and foul things and deeds and thoughts in this world of ours; but why cultivate them? Why not be decent?
I don't like dealers in scandal, ugly hints, "stab-in-the-back" gents.
I don't like anybody who talks against Uncle Sam. If he doesn't like this country, let him go to another.
Nor the fellow who is disloyal to his firm. Let him get out, then talk.
I like clean anger better than a grumpy frown.
I may be poor, but I can be clean.
I may be ignorant, but I can be polite.
I may be wicked, but I don't know how to be coarse.
I can put up with almost anything but—dirt!
I will be decent.

Just A Smile
A cherry smile will often prove a most contagious thing;
It spreads and scatters happiness
Like blossoms in the spring;
And when things all go crookedly,
And everything looks blue,
A cherry smile is well worth while,
And always helps you thru.

A Cow Story
They strolled in the twilight together
The heavens were blossomed with stars;
She paused for a moment in silence
As he lowered for her the bars.
She cast her soft eyes upon him,
But he spoke no loving vow—
For he was just a rustic laddie
And she was a Jersey cow.

Now that we have moving pictures that talk, we wish that they had patrons who didn't.
We don't know much about the future except that a part of it will be devoted to tariff debates.

Irate Theater-Goer—Usher, Usher, I can't find anything about the play in the program.
Condescending Usher—Sorry, sir but we had to make room for two new ads.

First Gob—Tell me about it. Get it off your chest.
Second Gob—I wish I could. I've

A people that build many houses have many troubles.

First—Does the blonde ever go out on a party?

The fellow who really has inside information usually keeps it that way.

Customer—You're sure one bottle will cure a cold?
Druggist—It must, sir. Nobody ever came back for a second bottle.

Cousin Tiny is so hard to understand that when you meet her you never know whether she's going to embrace you or bawl you out.

The reason there is plenty of room at the top, is because so many who get there fall off.

Boss—What do you mean by coming in late?
Boy—I thought you said you wanted a boy who would not be always watching the clock.

CLOTHES QUARREL

Paris.—Mme. Violette Morris, French sportswoman and captain of a football team, liked to dress in male attire. The French Women's Sporting Federation didn't like her actions, so it withdrew her license. Mme. Morris, claiming that she could dress any way she pleased, entered suit to regain her license.

TOWER OF BLUE

New York.—Color seems to be hitting the skyscraper architects. The recently planned Fashion Building will be a light blue, with gold, green and purple trimmings. Gold and yellow will predominate in the lower stories, progressing to a light blue and green band, and a central tower of light blue. The building will house "fashion clinics."

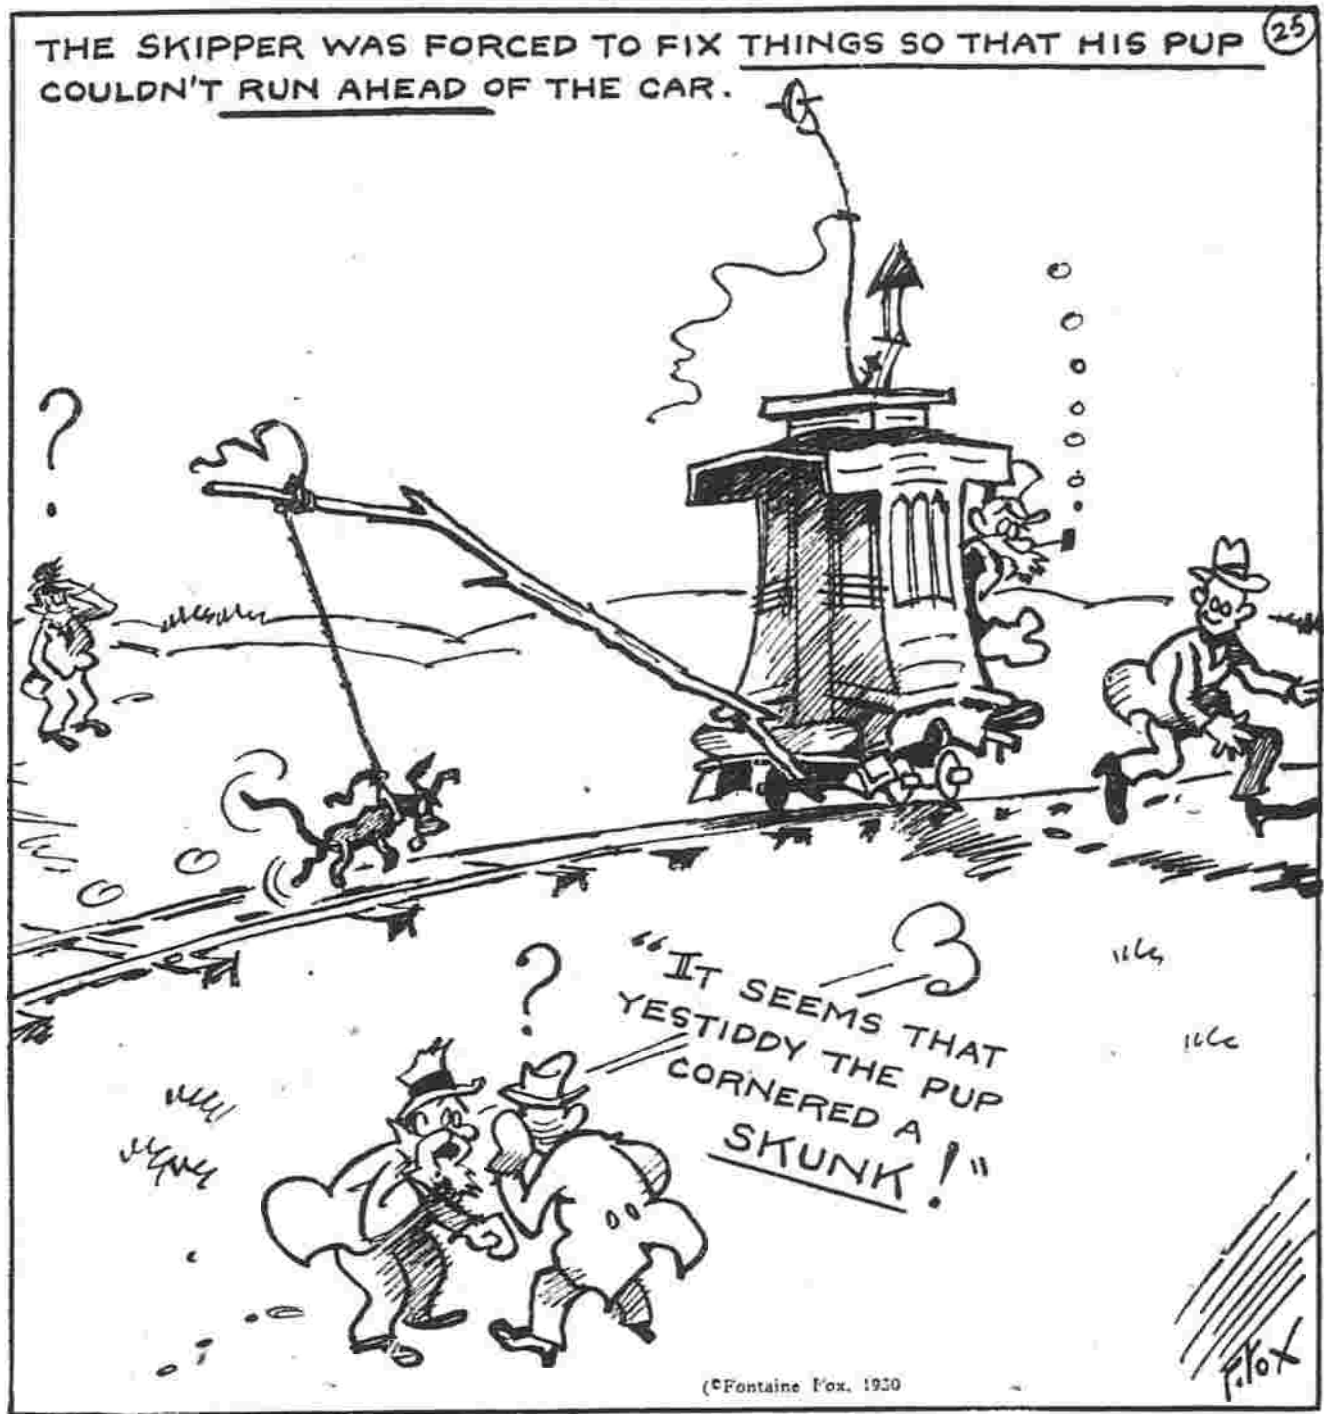

ARRESTS HER SON

Webster Springs, W. Va.—Duty is duty no matter whether it consists in arresting your own son or not, is the belief of Sheriff J. B. Skidmore. He recently arrested his son Donald, 21, on a charge of fighting in the street. He fined the youth $5 and costs. "The only interest I had in the affair was as an officer of the law," the sheriff said.

THE TINYMITES

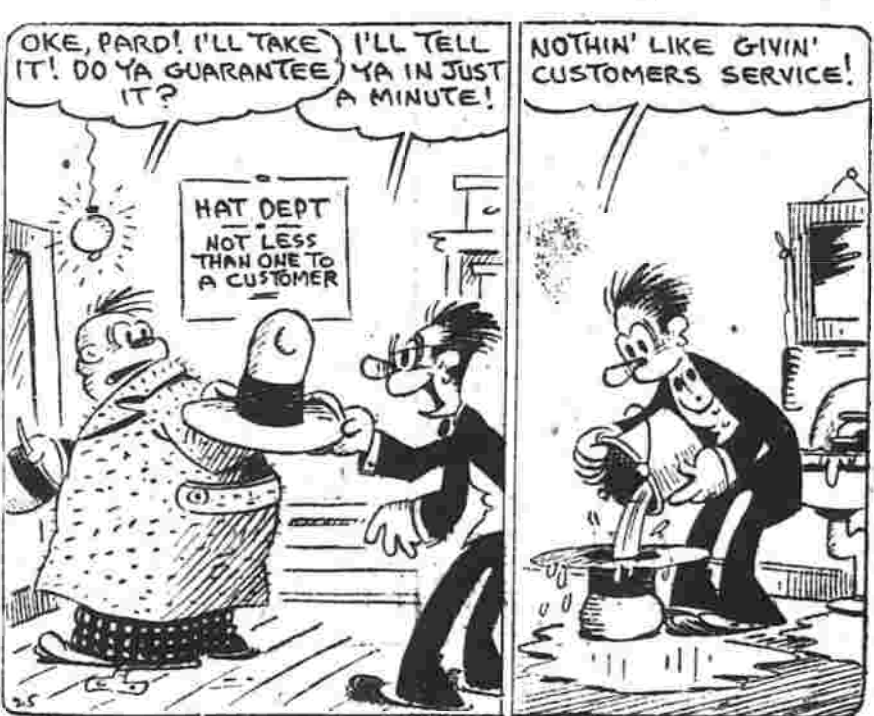

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
The animal crackers jumped from sight and every little Tynymite stood, wondering just what to do. They were sure in a fix. Said Scouty, "Well, we are to blame for what has happened. 'Tis a shame, I fear the boy will think that this is just one of our tricks."
"Instead of feeling rather glad to see us, he'll think we are bad. Perhaps he'll even spank us. I am almost scared to stay. Within that box, I have a hunch, the lad was carrying his lunch. And we're the ones who let the little crackers get away."
Then Clowny jumped and said, "I fear it isn't safe to stay right here. Let's run and get away before the little boy awakes. We cannot bring the crackers back. The power to that we all lack. It's almost night. We can get far before a new dawn breaks."
"Oh, no," snapped Scouty "Mercy me, we cannot act so cowardly. If we've done wrong, it's our own fault. I will not run away. You all can do as you think best, but I'll not leave till I've confessed. No matter what may happen, I, for one, am going to stay."
"Me, too," cried Coppy. "I'll not run! That's something I have never done." Then Carpy said, "I think it's best to wake the little lad and say we're sorry as can be. How he will act we'll shortly see. By playing fair, I know that, after all, we'll feel glad."
"Course Clowny stuck there with the rest, although he didn't think it best. The Tynies shook the little boy and made a lot of noise. At last he rubbed his eyes and said, "Oh, my, but I'm a sleepy head!" And then he eyed the Tynies and exclaimed, "Who are you boys?"
(The little boy becomes friendly in the next story.)

Following the lecture Mr. Roth will answer questions about drapery hanging problems. This is the eighth in the series of lectures and recitals being presented by the local store.

The warm weather of the past few days has put a crimp in winter sports, including skating. Yesterday the hockey rink was removed from Center Springs pond and the water drained off. Children are warned not to venture on the ice at Center Springs because of the soft ice and mud underneath.

Temple Chapter, O. E. S., will hold its regular business meeting tomorrow evening at the Masonic Temple. Members will be welcome to remain and play bridge. There will be prizes for the winners but no refreshments or charge for playing.

A public card party will be held tomorrow afternoon at the Elk's home in Rockville. Mrs. J. R. Morin of that place is chairman and Manchester members on the committee are Miss Annie Paganl and Mrs. Christopher McHale. Play will start at 2:30. At 2 o'clock a special meeting will be held.

Indoor sports are being played under a heavy handicap because of the unseasonable warmth.

Manchester Grange will hold its regular meeting in Odd Fellows hall tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock. It will be "Neighbor's" night and delegations are expected from Coventry, Columbia, Wethersfield and West Hartford Granges. The visitors will put on the program. Refreshments and a social time will follow.

"Stand and Deliver," the motion picture starring Rod LaRocque, which will follow a chicken supper at Second Congregational church, will be shown at 7:30 tomorrow evening. The committee has received so many inquiries from people who wish to see the picture only that they have decided to admit all who wish to do so at a nominal fee.

N. H. R. R. SPEAKER BACKS CROSSINGS

L. H. Tyler Tells Lions Only 1 Per Cent of Auto Deaths Are On Railroad Tracks.

Speaking before the Lions Club at the Hotel Sheridan last night on "Railroad Grade Crossings," Leslie H. Tyler, special representative of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad company, stated his belief that over-emphasis was placed on hazards, that more attention is paid to accidents at grade crossings than anywhere else and quoted statistics for 1929 which proved that out of 1,372 persons killed in automobile accidents in the states of Connecticut, Massachusetts and Rhode Island, only 18 were at crossings; out of 66,315 injured, only 106 were at crossings. All types of problems confront the railroad, said the speaker, but the problem of grade crossings is a mutual one, it involves the public's automobiles and the company's trains. Secondly it is an expensive problem and in eliminating crossings the money comes from the public.

Suppose, he said, that prior to last year all crossings had been eliminated, 1,354 people would still have been killed. The same figure, said Mr. Tyler, who got killed at crossings would get killed somewhere else if the crossings were eliminated.

Largest Percentage The New Haven now has 1,703 grade crossings and has eliminated 45 per cent, the biggest percentage any road in the country. To eliminate the remaining number would cost half a billion dollars. Before settling this expense on the community, said the speaker, he should discover the results in increased safety.

Mr. Tyler said he believed there were other ways of bringing about safety with smaller expense, namely directing funds towards the 99 per cent of automobile accidents instead of the one per cent at the grade crossings. This can be accomplished, he said, by enacting more stringent automobile laws, license examinations and by policing the highways.

The speaker pointed out that Motor Vehicle Commissioner Robbins Stoeckel listed thoughtlessness, inattention, carelessness, drunkenness and incompetence as the five major causes of all accidents. Mr. Tyler quoted several newspaper clippings telling of the case of a man who had an automobile license who could neither read nor write, and that 62 per cent of cars in accidents had defective brakes. He cited many peculiar accidents at crossings where drivers hit the 30th or 40th car in a train and told of one engine standing at a crossing that was hit on both sides at the same time.

In Good Times Mr. Tyler told of 287 grade crossings being eliminated in Connecticut from 1894 to 1912, at the time when the New Haven road was earning big money. In 1913 the road petitioned to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to re-locate 17 more that year, though only 17 were required by law. Then came the financial crash and the company was forced to appeal to the Commission to relieve it of its obligation.

In the poor years that followed, he said, the work of eliminating crossings still went on. In the six years from 1918 the company earned no net income, but in spite of this eliminated nine additional grade crossings, which proves, he said, that the company was not falling down in this matter. The company has so much money to spend each year, said Mr. Tyler, and it is the public's money that is handled. So much is budgeted for safety and it is not an unlimited amount.

Want Expensive Method Mr. Tyler said that at times he believed that the only kind of elimination the public wanted was the expensive kind and told of a crossing which the Public Utilities asked the company to eliminate altogether without erecting a bridge, as another road ran just a short distance away. When the company took it up with the town officials they would hear nothing of it. The speaker compared the grade crossing with the street crossing and said that if the driver would exercise the same caution at the former as he does at the latter there would be fewer accidents. He said that 16 per cent of the company's crossings are protected by gates, 10 per cent by watchmen, 19 per cent by audible or visible signals and there is no crossing that is not marked as such. In closing Mr. Tyler emphasized again the three points: That over-emphasis is placed on accidents at grade crossings while we look with complacent indifference on the other 99 per cent; that the company has just so much to spend for eliminating crossings; that by exercising care and caution danger of accident will be lessened.

HOPE TO SETTLE LODGE SCRAP OUT OF COURT

Embezzlement Case Continued Until March 3—Only $20 Missing.

Julian Wiltanski of 59 North street, arrested early yesterday morning on the charge of embezzlement did not go to trial this morning, as scheduled, an adjournment being taken until Monday, March 3.

Julian was the treasurer of the Holy Trinity Lodge, a local branch of a national organization which confines its members to Roman Catholic Polish people either by birth or extraction. Back in December Julian was the treasurer of the organization which now has nearly 100 members of the order in this town with Charles Lucus as the chief solicitor for members in Manchester and also an officer. It was on his complaint that the warrant was issued, it being charged that Wiltanski had taken $63.40.

In court this morning Wiltanski was represented by Judge William S. Hyde and during the conference that preceded the court session it appeared that there was a dispute as to the amount involved and that if there was any money missing it was in the vicinity of $20. By a continuation of the case, Judge Hyde told Judge Johnson, he expected that a settlement would be reached. This was satisfactory to the court and the continuation granted.

WHITON FUND GOES TO TOWN MEETING

Called by Selectmen for March 3; Damages to Motorists Paid; 16 Mill Tax.

The Board of Selectmen, at a special meeting held at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, signed a warrant for a special town meeting to be held Monday evening, March 3 at 8:15 in High school hall for the purpose of accepting the Whiton bequests left in trust to the town for library purposes. The total of these funds is about $157,000. The amount of the combined Whiton trust funds is much greater than had been anticipated by town officers and library trustees because of the fact that the will of Mary H. Whiton contained a separate trust fund, created in conjunction with and for the same purpose as that set aside by her late husband, Dr. Francis H. Whiton, in 1921. At her death last December it was disclosed that a trust fund amounting to $49,000 was to be used in conjunction with the nearly $120,000 left by the Manchester physician.

Pay Auto Judgment The Board voted to pay judgment and costs of $2,927.34 in the suits of Charles Stepnowski, Lawrence A. Lavoie and Leo Berube, three Hartford men who were injured in an automobile accident May 13, 1929, on Oak street by their car coming in contact with a raised culvert in
