TOWN TO COLLECT $4,000,000 IN TAX

Hetty Green's Estate Was Not Properly Taxed, Boston Sleuth Discovers.

Rockingham, Vt., Feb. 26.—(AP)—This little town of approximately 7,000 population will become one of the wealthiest in the country if an effort to collect taxes which it is claimed are due on the estate of the late Hetty Green is successful.

According to a group of citizens, who have retained investigators and presented the case to Governor John E. Weeks, more than $4,000,000 is due the town and $134,000 is due the state.

The investigators, H. W. Morgan, a Boston detective, and Louis F. Conant, a Cambridge, Mass., newspaperman, claim they have determined that certain town officials entered into an agreement with Mrs. Green whereby she consented to remain a resident of Bellows Falls, a village within the township, on condition that she be taxed on not more than $12,000 real estate and $100,000 personal property.

The world's richest woman Mrs. Green, who died in New York in 1916, leaving an estate of $67,000,000 was reputed to be the wealthiest woman in the country. She left a daughter and a son, the latter, Colonel Edward R. Green, a resident of South Dartmouth, Mass.

Records of the town clerk's office showed Mrs. Green, when 1890, had been taxed only on the stipulated $12,000 basis. Morgan and Conant said an examination of Vermont laws convinced them that the state and town could collect not only current but back taxes on a full valuation of the Green estate.

A resolution has been prepared for presentation at the town meeting here next Tuesday instructing the lists to collect the full amount of this year's taxes and to ascertain what can be done to collect back taxes.

TAFT GROWING WEAKER, SAY HIS DOCTORS

Former Chief Justice Suffers No Pain But Condition Is More Serious Than at Any Time.

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Former Chief Justice Taft is gradually growing weaker.

His physicians issued this bulletin, at noon today: "The former Chief Justice is not so well as yesterday. He is gradually growing weaker. He suffers no pain but his condition is more serious than at any time."

The Bulletin was signed by Drs. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Clayton.

Earlier in the day Dr. Hagner had said he had no immediate apprehension, but that the weakened condition of the patient and his advanced years made all predictions hazardous.

The noon bulletin was the most discouraging in more than two weeks. After the collapse which forced Mr. Taft's resignation from the bench and his confinement to his home here, he showed some improvement and for a two-week period his doctors reported each day that his condition was unchanged.

Yesterday he was reported not so well. The physicians did not disclose details of the further decline today, but indicated that the sustained attack which the patient's system had undergone was reducing his resistance below the danger point.

SEA CONFERENCE TO RESUME WORK

To Take Up Various Details Until France is Ready to Act.

London, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The chief delegates to the Naval conference today decided to resume work immediately on their negotiations and to continue on the work except where it might be inimicable to French interests.

The delegates decided that the recess which was taken on the defeat of the Tardieu government in Paris should cease today.

Ambassador Fleuriot of France attended the meeting on behalf of the French and explained that former premier Tardieu had been to the Elysee Palace with the view of forming a new cabinet.

The meeting of the chief delegates, which was shrouded with considerable secrecy in advance, was held at the House of Commons late this afternoon. Present were Colonel Stimson, Prime Minister MacDonald, Dino Grandi and Reijiro Kakasuki—all of the big five except Andre Tardieu. Ambassador De Fleuriot acted in consulting capacity.

Discuss Problem. They were faced with the alternative of declaring a further recess to give France a chance to establish a government or of carrying on without their French colleagues until a cabinet was formed. For an hour they debated the problem, which has been causing them grave worry for the past week.

It is believed De Fleuriot told the Big Four that Tardieu had agreed to try to form a cabinet and that it was expected he might be able to present the names to President Doumergue tomorrow. At the same time he made it clear that probably several days would elapse before the cabinet could be before the Chamber of Deputies for a vote of confidence. That would mean the French conference delegates could not return to London before the first of next week at best.

Resume Debate. Despite the fact that they were faced with the continued absence of the French, the big four decided it best to resume conference activity. It was known in advance that the British at least did not relish a further recess but wanted to get ahead with business. That will be done with the reservation that nothing will be decided which can be inimical to French interests.

BUTLER SAYS DRY LAW VIOLATES CONSTITUTION

President of Columbia University and Others Rap Prohibition Before Congress—Doctor Testifies.

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—A university president, a psychopathic physician and a member of the Authors and Artists committee of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, joined today in placing before Congress a discouraging picture of conditions under prohibition.

Two of them—Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University in New York City and long a prominent figure in the educational and political worlds, and Wallace Irwin, of the Authors and Artists committee, urge the outright repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

Doctor's Statement. Dr. Francis J. Gerty, head of the psychopathic hospital in Cook county, Illinois, where he was in charge, testified the stand before the committee, said there had been a material increase in alcoholic cases for both sexes since the dry statute was enacted.

The committee is considering bills and resolutions proposing repeal of the prohibition amendment or modification.

REPORT ON SCHOOL SENT TO MERIDEN

Evidence Collected Concerning Brutality to Boys Will Be Acted Upon.

Hartford, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The charges of unwholesome conditions at the Connecticut School for Boys in Meriden, collected by the board of public welfare, and brought to the attention of the trustees of the institution at an informal conference last Friday, is to be delivered in written form to the secretary of the trustees today. Charges of Brutality. The formal report of the welfare board, it is believed, contains charges of brutality to the boys at the school on the part of attendants at the school and of general incompetency, which is reported to have come to light through complaints made to the welfare board by James Speck.

The cardinal, who is 65, was stricken suddenly ill yesterday and grew worse during the night. Finally an operation was deemed necessary and this was performed by Prof. Bastianelli. The cardinal was resting comfortably this afternoon when suddenly his heart failed.

Cardinal Merry Del Val was one of the most distinguished figures in the modern history of the papacy. He was made a cardinal in 1903 at the comparatively early age of 38 and forthwith was created secretary of state to Pope Pius X. Previous to this he had been secretary of the conclave which resulted in the election of Pius X.

CHAUTEMPS OUT; FRANCE SEEKS A NEW CABINET

President Asks Both Tardieu and Poincare to Form One But They Refuse—Poincare is Ill.

Paris, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Former Premier Andre Tardieu this afternoon definitely accepted the task of forming a new Cabinet to succeed the Chautemps ministry which was thrown out by the Chamber of Deputies last night.

His call at the Elysee palace this afternoon was to enable the president to renew formally his request to Tardieu this morning to form a Cabinet. At that time Tardieu refused and suggested that former Premier Poincare be summoned. Poincare also refused but was entrusted with the message that the president still considered Tardieu as charged with the mandate to form a new ministry.

Paris, Feb. 26.—(AP)—With the Chautemps Cabinet down in ruins, President Doumergue today entrusted the task of forming a new Cabinet to Andre Tardieu, who will seek to form a wide union Cabinet with the aid of Raymond Poincare, veteran French statesman.

The president first called in Tardieu this morning and asked him to form a ministry, but Tardieu refused and suggested that former Premier Poincare be summoned. Poincare also refused but was entrusted with the message that the president still considered Tardieu as charged with the mandate to form a new ministry.

Also Refuses. Poincare, however, also refused the post, pleading that his health would be wrecked if he took the reins now before his strength was restored. He is still convalescent from his recent illness. He advised President Doumergue to insist on Tardieu serving as the new premier.

Later Poincare announced, leaving the Elysee Palace that Tardieu had been charged with the mission of forming a new Cabinet and that he would begin consultations at the Poincare residence this afternoon regarding the membership of the new ministry.

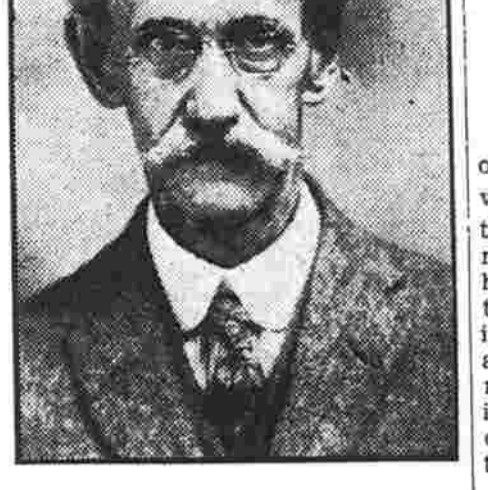

Poincare said he had promised President Doumergue he would help Tardieu form a wide union Cabinet. Such a union Cabinet appears to offer the only possible solution of the present deadlock, inasmuch as the Chamber of Deputies now has defeated in turn a government with Right leanings and one with Left leanings.

Last Night's Upset. After last night's overthrow of the Chautemps Cabinet by fifteen votes on its first appearance in the chamber, Tardieu was marked by

TRIES TO MURDER WIFE, THEN SELF

Attempts Murder Joseph Grimes, Despondent Over Wife's Refusal to Live With Him Slashes Her Throat, Then Tries Suicide at Room in Waranoke Hotel Here.

Joseph Grimes

Thrown into evident despondency or mental derangement because his wife's visit was to be terminated today, Joseph Grimes, attempted to murder Mrs. Grimes, by slashing her throat with a razor and then tried suicide by the same method in his room at the Waranoke Hotel at 8:30 o'clock this morning.

Both missed death by a fraction of an inch and both are in an extremely critical condition at the Manchester Memorial hospital.

Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon obtained a statement from Mrs. Grimes, while she lay on the operating table at the hospital, and on the strength of it, advanced the theory of premeditation, with intent to murder.

Give Up Hope. According to Dr. G. A. F. Lundberg, Mrs. Grimes, who is 68 years old, had a large incision made in her throat with a razor, cutting through the skin and muscles and through the windpipe. Danger of secondary infection is great as she is breathing air through the wound and into her lungs. Hospital authorities did not believe she would last the day out.

Grimes, who is 72 years old, cut his throat from ear to ear, through the skin and muscles down to the jugular vein, nearly to the windpipe. Because of the great amount of blood shed by both victims, Lundberg could not immediately ascertain their exact condition beyond stating that they were "critical."

Woman's Story. The aged woman told Chief of Police Samuel G. Gordon, that her husband had little or no sleep last night but lay awake mumbling unintelligibly to himself, keeping her awake also. This morning, she said, they went to breakfast and on finishing hers she returned to the room. A few minutes elapsed and Grimes entered. Without a word he dashed at her as she sat in the rocking chair, slashing out with the razor. How many times he cut her she did not know. Her screams of agony ended in a gurgle as she lost consciousness.

The scream, however, ringing throughout the hotel, was heard in the kitchen, just across the hallway. Frederick Lellerstedt, employed at the Waranoke, dashed to the closed door of Grimes' room. Opening it, he entered as Grimes whirled with arms upraised, an open knife in one hand, and rushed at him. On the chair beyond sat Mrs. Grimes, blood streaming over her bosom.

Grapple for Knife. Striding quickly forward Lellerstedt grasped Grimes by the wrists, simultaneously calling for assistance. His call was answered by Arthur Pentland, a roomer, who found Grimes on the floor struggling with Lellerstedt. Pentland wrested the knife from Grimes' vice-like grip and threw it into a familiarly known place a cushion beneath his head. As Fred arose and turned his back Grimes sprang up and attempted to reach the razor lying on the bureau only to be thwarted by Lellerstedt, who took charge of the scene.

Calls were put in for a doctor, the police, and Holloran's ambulance. After his examination Dr. Lundberg said the wounds were caused by a razor whereas Grimes was holding a knife in his hands when discovered and also maintained in a statement to Police Lieutenant William Barron at the hospital, that it was the weapon he had used. He refused to give any reason for his act.

Knife Sharpened. Investigation disclosed blood both on the knife and the razor and police believe that Grimes, unsuccessful in his attempt at death with the razor, relinquished it for the knife, sharpened exceptionally keen, with it, it is believed, a fine file. The sharp point and the keenness of the knife strengthened the belief of the police that the deed was premeditated. Doubt is expressed however, that Grimes could have stabbed his wife with the knife, as it was then that Lellerstedt burst into the room.

Police found that unpleasant relationship has existed between the couple for many years. Grimes was employed at Cheney Brothers as a tinsmith from 1895 to May 23, 1919, when he was pensioned. At that time the Grimes family lived on Wells street. Six years ago his wife left him and went to live with her son Charles, in Farmington. Grimes then went to live with his daughter, Mrs. Grace Dougan of Maple street, until her death two years ago.

Nervous. Mrs. Grimes came to Manchester to visit her husband on Saturday and according to Lellerstedt, Grimes evidenced much joy because of it. It is said she was to return home

COOKING SCHOOL PLEASURES WOMEN

Mrs. Katherine Delaney Entertains as She Instructs; Another Session Tonight.

Heral Cooking School session at Masonic Temple tonight begins at 7:30.

Mrs. Katherine Delaney of Chicago, a representative of the DeBoth Home Making Schools, captivated the more than 500 women who attended the first session of The Herald's cooking school at the Masonic Temple yesterday, by her winning personality and fund of ready wit. She made a charming appearance on the platform of the banquet hall, surrounded by the various cooking appliances which are indispensable to the modern, up-to-date kitchen of today.

As her pictures in The Herald would indicate, she possesses the striking combination of dark eyes and prematurely silver hair. She was wearing yesterday a simply made dress in a soft rose color. In a clear, well modulated voice that could be heard distinctly in all parts of the hall, she gave the local women many valuable hints on better cooking, better home management, and prepared before their eyes a variety of oven dishes which were mixed and baked during the progress of the lesson between the hours from 2 to 4 o'clock.

Leaflets on which were printed the recipes used by Mrs. Delaney were distributed to all present. They included bacon and liver loaf, crumb cake, baked fish with cream sauce and green peppers, plain muffins, pear salad with Congress dressing.

She gave a demonstration of India Tea, Bokar coffee and a laundry hint or two, using Rinso. During the course of the lecture she called attention to the local firms who were co-operating, namely the Dewey-Richman Company who supplied the silver for the attractively set dining table; J. W. Hale Company who furnished china, glassware, linens; the Anderson Greenhouses who arranged the beautiful centerpiece of lavender sweet peas and Boston, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Edward A. Filene, leading merchant, today predicted the New England Retail Clothiers' and Furnishers' Association convention that within 10 years the bulk of profitable clothing business will be done by chains of clothing stores.

"By the independent clothing stores still have time to make their own chains," he said, "retaining their private ownership of their own units but banding themselves together under such strong rules that they will have all the advantages of centrally owned chains and some of the advantages that these centrally owned chains cannot possibly have."

Declaring that everyone in the men's clothing industry knows that the industry needs to be stabilized, today and when Grimes appeared for breakfast about 6:30 o'clock he seemed greatly disturbed. He could not eat but merely drank a glass of water. He paced continually back and forth between his room and the dining room, as they are on the same floor. Fred, noticing his preoccupied state of mind and nervous air, admonished him to eat as it would do him good. Instead of heeding the suggestion Grimes went into his room and soon after the scream echoed from beyond the door.

Grimes is a smallish man with gray hair, inclined to curl, has heavy horned rimmed spectacles, and a gray mustache. He is known to many as "Manchester's" Moth Man, because of a habit of being a hobby for more than a half century. He is said to be one of the best experts on butterflies, etc., in this vicinity. One of his collections hangs in the dining room of the Walden Hotel and another in his own room.

At noon today police removed the bloodstained bedsheet to the station to be used as exhibits in case of the death of Mrs. Grimes, expected momentarily. Grimes is expected to pull through. Grimes was evidently a man with a dual personality. Harry C. Jensen, proprietor of the Waranoke, said that Grimes had been there since last July. He described Grimes as a quiet, seemingly lovable man, who spent much of his time entertaining the Jensen children. Others at the hotel said Grimes was possessed of a disagreeable temper, was easily irritated, and an impatient talker.

It was learned today that his family has tried several times to have Grimes enter the Odd Fellows' Home at Groton. Grimes, however, refused to do so, without being accompanied by his wife.

"Tom" is no stranger to Manchester. He has worked on many lofty perches within the town limits in past years including the Cheney chimneys, local flagpoles and at other lofty points in need of repair or freshening up with a coat of paint.

He has been coming to Manchester for the past 26 years due to childhood wanderings to this town from his home in Stafford Springs where he was born 44 years ago.

Continuing, he spoke of the mysterious force that pulls one to the brink when at a great height.

"It is something I had to overcome at first. Something hard to explain—it pulls a person to the edge, then dizziness and a fatal fall. All climbers are forced to fight that feeling off at first. Afterward, it's like being on the ground."

Cleanliness A Big Factor In Sales, Hale's Health Market Demonstrates

Foodstuffs, Neatly Displayed and Handled With Fine Equipment in Spotless Cases, Gives Customer Best Impression; Big Sale Planned at Hale's Market This Week.

The weather may be bitterly cold, swelteringly hot, windy or rainy. Work may be hard or easy. Money may be easy or tight—if one's palate isn't satisfied frequent intervals with a good, juicy steak, a couple of sweet, tender lamb chops or a tasty serving of corned beef, life just isn't worth living. But when your palate commands and you go shopping for the meat it seeks the eye, too, must be considered. If the meat you see on your shopping tour isn't neatly and cleanly displayed your palate loses its enthusiasm.

First Impression
The first impression is always the most lasting, and that's why a roast of beef hasn't the same flavor, doesn't develop quite the same interest in the diner, when one has seen this same piece of beef under not so pleasing conditions. Neat display, clean handling count more towards the full enjoyment of one's dinner than many another factor in the preparation of food.

With this element of the human mind in view Hale's Health Market, an adjunct of the famous Self Serve grocery, was started. Every step in the handling of meats was checked up and each and every one was made as sanitary as is humanly possible. All the necessary equipment to produce meat to the customer under such conditions was purchased and installed. Nothing was overlooked to make this store truly a Health Market.

Compact Store.
Hale's Health Market is located on the Oak street level of the J. W. Hale Company store. Entrance is to the left as one goes towards the Self Serve grocery. Glance into the market and it scarcely seems possible that in one Saturday 1,600 customers have passed through this door. Yet that is a record in number of customers the Health Market has attained. The little market measures only 14½ feet wide by 37 feet long but its arrangement is compact.

The building which houses the Health Market was erected to fill an alleyway that ran between the House and Hale block and the Circle theater. The basement was designed as a butcher shop and refrigerator. Above the market are the executive offices of the Hale company. A red tile flooring and white tiled walls lend admirably to the purpose of the display market—that of cleanliness. The white walls are kept spotless and the red flooring emphasizes the whiteness of the walls and the cleanliness of the cases and the market equipment.

Display Case.
A long spotless case displays all varieties of meats ready cut for the purchaser. This case runs the entire length of the market and keeps under glass and chilled everything from cheeses and delicatessens that are displayed at the left to the corned beef at the extreme end. Every kind of meat in the best quality is at your command in this case, freshly cut and cleanly displayed. Price tags are on each porcelain platter so that the shopper can take his or her time in selecting meats.

Efficiency of equipment almost outdistances cleanliness in the Health Market, however, because through the use of the very latest apparatus the cleanliness factor is raised to the nth degree. Platters upon which cuts of meat are displayed are sterilized daily and after they are emptied during a busy day. Forks and knives used in preparing the meat for the customer are also sterilized daily. The slicing machines and elevator equipment are painted white so that the least bit of dust can be spotted immediately.

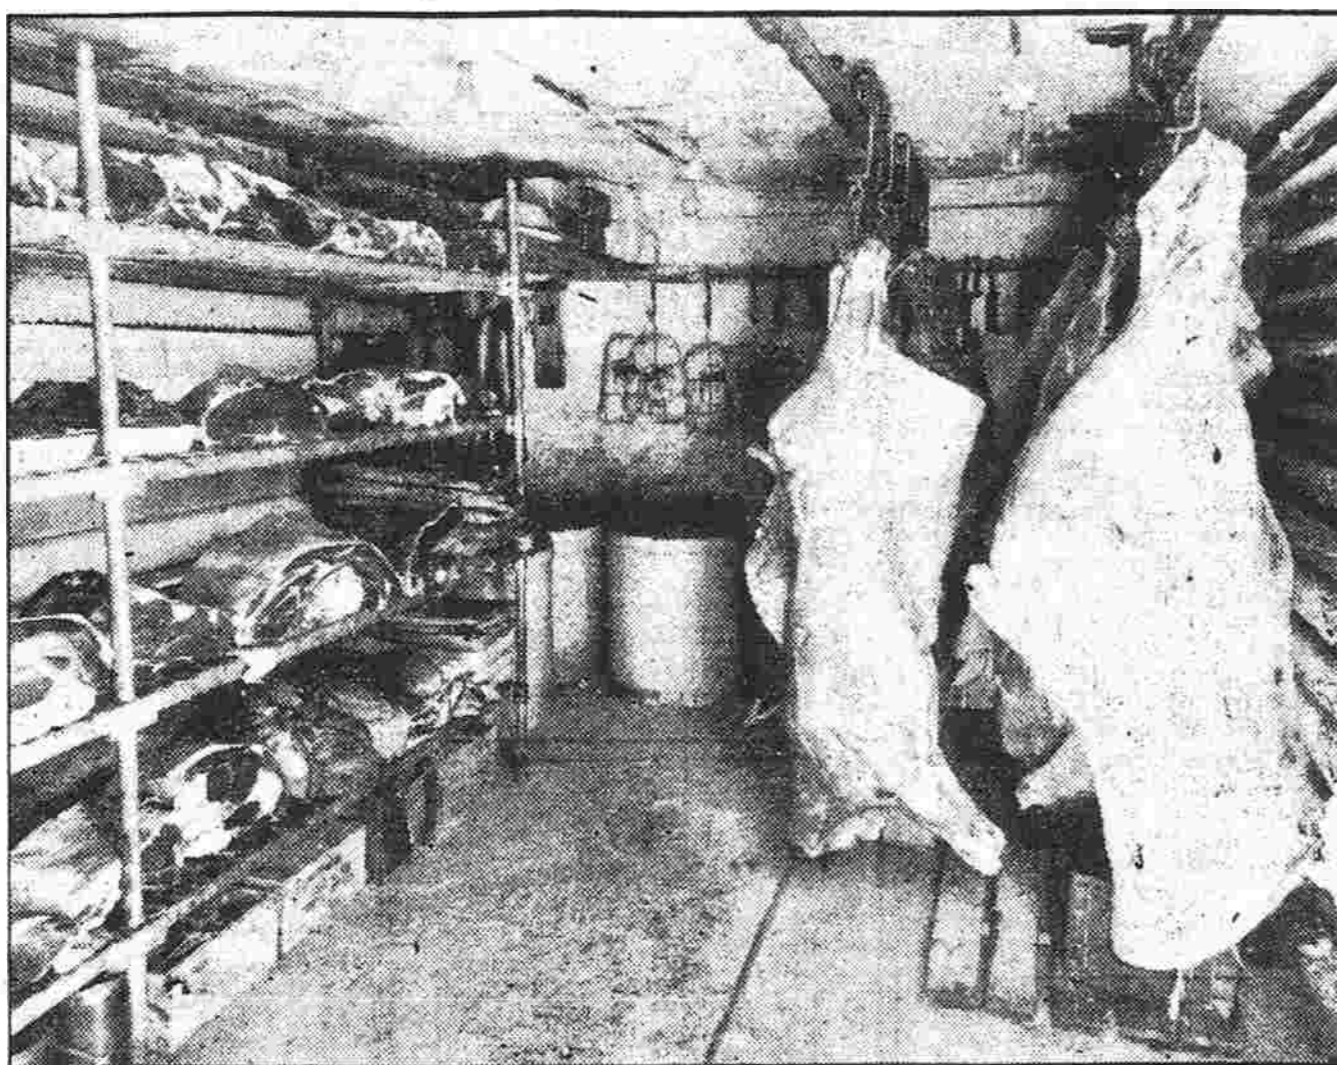

When meats are brought to the market from the refrigerator cars they are carried into the ice box through an overhead runway. An automatic scale weighs each side of beef before it goes into the box. A minimum amount of handling thus keeps the meats absolutely clean. The ice box is neatly arranged and equipped with patented shelves for holding the meats when they are cut.

Meat Saw
One of the finest pieces of equipment in the market is a big automatic saw for trimming up the larger meats when they first reach the market. This machine is built on the jig saw principle and can be adjusted in many different ways to cut whatever thickness is desired. This machine is operated by Stephen Klein an expert meat cutter who has been in the Hale employ for many years.

At the end of the market is a new hydraulic elevator for delivery of meats to the display cases in the market above. This elevator is equipped with brushes that sweep the sides of the meat cases and the rollers of the elevator are kept constantly oiled. The elevator is so arranged that it can be stopped at any time and the meat cases are kept constantly replenished.

A new display case has just been installed at the end of the Health Market to make a place for fish. This case is constructed of the latest materials and is compact, taking up less than five feet of floor space. However, a great supply of fish is kept in the refrigerator below and the display case is constantly replenished.

MEATS SUPPLY IN HALE'S REFRIGERATOR

This photograph of the ice box at the Hale Health Market shows how neatly the stock is kept. To the left are the racks holding the quartered stock white sides of beef just brought into the box by the overhead runway are shown to the right. Corned Beefs crocks are seen at the further end.

FROM STOCKYARD TO TABLE, 5 DAYS

Almost Incredible Speed in Getting Meat from Chicago to Hale's Market.

When a delicious roast is served on the dining tables of Manchester the diner rarely gives a thought to the industry that has made it possible to bring this meat from the Western plains to his table. A little investigation of the work that is necessary brings out interesting facts.

Only Five Days
The Manchester meat shopper would be astounded if he knew that but five days intervenes between the slaughter houses in Chicago or Omaha, Neb., and Hale's Health Market. Yet that is a fact. Because of the buying syndicate dealing in millions of dollars worth of meats and of which Hale's is a member an unusual arrangement is possible.

How It's Done
Each Wednesday the Health Market manager gives Chicago an order for a week's supply of meat. The meat fresh from the slaughter house leaves Chicago Monday arriving by refrigerator car for the week-end trade. Thus the very freshest of meats are obtainable. Less than a week from slaughter house to the table for high quality Western beef is considerable of a record.

Best Menu Wins Wearever Cooker In Hale Contest

In connection with a special sale at Hale's Health Market this week an unusual contest is being conducted. Balanced menus have become most important in the housewife's daily routine. A balanced menu has just a bearing on good health and is so helpful either in building up weight or reducing that many women have made a special study of the correct combinations of foods at each meal.

Submit Menu.
The Health Market contest will be based upon the balanced menu idea. The one who submits the best menu to the Health Market will be given a complete Wearever cooker. This is a mighty fine prize and one that every housewife would be proud to own. And the contest is such a simple one.

Simply call at the Health market and get a blank to fill out with your simple balanced menu and submit it by Saturday night. A committee of judges will be selected to find the best menu from a health standpoint and the winning menu will determine who gets the Wearever cooker. Drop in at the Health market whether a regular customer or not and get your blank. You may be the lucky winner of the fine cooker.

The average shopper in looking over the Health Market will naturally wonder where the large stock of meat necessary in a store like this is kept. But, the system of quick service from the cutting room below keeps the stock replenished at all times. This system also assures the purchaser of freshly cut meats at any time during the day.

LOANS MANAGER TO OHIO MARKET

Camillo Andisio, Hale's Employee, Organizing Store In Steubenville.

Two brothers are in charge of Hale's Health market here, although one of them has been temporarily "loaned" to the Sulzbacher store in Steubenville, Ohio. Camillo Andisio is the manager of the market and Louis Andisio is his assistant. Both are meat cutters of long experience.

Similar Store
A new Self Serve grocery and health market has been established in the I. Sulzbacher and Company store in Steubenville through the efforts of the American Department Stores Corporation of which F. H. Anderson, general manager of the Hale Company, is president. Mr. Anderson gave Camillo Andisio a leave of absence from Hale's to go to Steubenville to get the new market properly organized.

Louis in Charge
In Camillo's absence his brother Louis is in charge here. Camillo will return to the local store within six weeks. He is in town today making arrangements for the health market's big sale this week-end.

CALINI IS FREED; CHARGE IS NOLLED

State Has Not Enough Evidence Against Man Who Killed Patrolman.

New Haven, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Judge Alfred C. Baldwin today nolleed the charge of manslaughter against Dante Calini, who was on trial for the fatal shooting of Patrolman Raymond Zoller.

The trial collapsed after court opened this morning. Several witnesses were ready to be called when State Attorney Samuel E. Hoyt, and defense counsel went into a conference with Judge Baldwin.

A few minutes later Judge Baldwin returned to the bench and announced that the charge of manslaughter had been nolleed because the state's evidence was not strong enough for a conviction. The trial opened yesterday. A jury was selected and four witnesses were heard before adjournment.

Shot Policeman.
Calini was arrested after he had shot Zoller in the arm when the latter, with two other officers, raided his home in Allingtown, December 26. The officer died the following day.

A Grand Jury refused to indict the 30 year old pastry cook on a charge of murder in the first degree and he was arrested on a warrant charging manslaughter.

Calini contended he thought the raiding officers were members of a gang bent on doing him harm. In summing up the case, Judge Baldwin said: "The circumstances under which this unfortunate incident took place were in my opinion such that the state ought not to proceed. The evidence laid before me by the counsel leads me to the conclusion that according to the law in this state the accused might reasonably have thought that serious injury was contemplated against him, his family and his house at the time he shot, and I feel that the duty resting upon me is to dispose of this case in this way."

The court room was filled at the time, but there was no demonstration. Calini told newspapermen that he stood in the bedroom of his home when he fired the shot with the sole thought of frightening the men away. Zoller broke through the door of the kitchen just at that moment.

The defense it was understood was prepared to contend that the patrolman's death was partly due to the lack of immediate hospital treatment. It intended to show that Zoller lay bleeding in an automobile for nearly a half hour before he was given medical assistance.

ASKS DISMISSAL

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Immediate dismissal of F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, was demanded in the Senates today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska, who complained the official was "a power man."

The Nebraska Senator, long an opponent of private power interests, read into the record a newspaper article reviewing the testimony before the Federal Trade Commission touching on financing methods of the American Gas and Electric Co., in which it was stated that 81 per cent of the stock had been issued as stock dividends.

"All of this is water," Norris said "yet they are charging rates and mulcting the public so the water will be turned to gold."

SLASHES WITNESS

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Crying out that "this is what I always do with squawkers!" Peter Dombkiewicz, self-confessed bandit companion of Sally Joyce Richards, on trial for her alleged participation in a series of hold ups here, slashed David Glickstein, a jeweler in the throat this noon.

Glickstein, who had identified the girl as the leader of a gang that robbed his store, was standing near the witness box at the time.

How a Family Doctor made Millions of Friends

FIFTEEN years after his graduation, Dr. Caldwell became one of the best-known members of his profession. A single prescription made him famous. And for forty years it has continued to make friends.

As fast as people could tell others about the marvelous way this prescription corrects constipation and relieves other troubles caused by sluggish bowels, demand for it spread until Dr. Caldwell was forced to have it filled in quantities; bottled and distributed through drug stores.

Today, Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, as it is called, is the world's most popular laxative. Millions of people would never think of using anything else when they're headachy, bilious, feverish, or weak; when breath is bad, tongue is coated or they are suffering from nausea, from gas, or lack of appetite, etc.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin as you buy it from your drug store is made in accordance with the original formula from only herbs and other pure ingredients. It is pleasant tasting; its action is thorough in the most obstinate cases; gently effective for women and children. Above all, it represents a doctor's choice of what is safe for the bowels.

THREE IMPORTANT FACTORS ENTER INTO THE COST OF YOUR AUTOMOBILE

- 1. How much it costs to make the car 2. How much extra you pay the dealer 3. How much it costs for operation and up-keep

THE PURCHASE of an automobile involves a considerable amount of money and it should be carefully considered from all angles before a final decision is made.

roller bearings and the extensive use of fine steel forgings instead of castings or stampings are additional features that reflect the high quality built into every part of the car.

The lower cost of selling, combined with the low charges for financing and accessories, means a direct saving of at least $50 to $75 to every purchaser of a Ford.

Economy in production THE FORD CAR is made economically because of the efficiency of Ford production methods.

Low dealer charges THE SAME PRINCIPLES of efficiency and economy that characterize the manufacture of the Ford car are applied also to distribution.

Low up-keep costs IT IS IMPORTANT to remember that the cost of your automobile is not the first cost only, but the total cost after months and years of service.

Because of Ford economies in large production and because the Ford organization operates on a low-profit margin, the price you pay for the car is much less than it would be under any other conditions.

momentarily protected by Judge Thomas' order, or not, we don't know; but as almost all of the machines now masquerade as vending devices there probably is no substantial difference. Evidently the Waterbury police are not greatly impressed by the extent of the protection provided by the various court rulings; nor the machine owners.

It is our belief that, in the long run, the police are going to win this fight. The machines which market a penny article for a nickel and occasionally "pay" a bonus of slugs supposed to be redeemable only in more of the same article, are scarcely a sufficiently attractive merchandising proposition to justify their existence; and if the slugs are redeemed in cash, then the operation becomes gambling, the court's protection ceases and the police can step in, with confiscation of the device within their power.

The attempt to employ the federal courts for the purpose of defeating the gambling laws of this state is just the kind of thing that challenges the police to put forth their best efforts. In the long run we pick the cops to win.

A REAL PROBLEM

A particularly vicious murder has, it appears, just happened to call the attention of the authorities of the city of Hartford to the existence there of a peculiarly squalid slum quarter occupied principally by Negroes and which, from published accounts, is as wretched and vile a human hive as could be found anywhere in America.

It is astounding, the extent to which similar Negro quarters have grown up in numberless cities of the North since the World war, and the negligible amount of attention that is given to them either by municipalities or charitable and welfare agencies.

Moralists busy themselves with inference in the lives of millions of people who are perfectly able to take care of themselves, but pay no attention to the tremendous and sinister problem presented by the migration of hundreds of thousands of Southern Negroes, utterly un-equipped for industrial competition in the North, to cities where climate, social and business conditions and the manner of life are not only unsuitable but altogether impossible for them.

If one-tenth the energy, the money and the solicitude for moral uplift that have been expended on procuring and maintaining prohibition had been devoted to the solution of this really tremendous Negro problem, such disgraceful and threatening situations as that disclosed in Hartford—and to be found in a hundred Northern cities—would long ago have been greatly ameliorated if not completely remedied.

A GOOD SIGN

We can read into President Hoover's dual warnings to Congress and to the people of the country to neither, in the first instance, appropriate money in excess of the budget nor, in the second instance, to demand such appropriation, only one inference. That is that the President firmly believes the business and economic depression, which last fall seemed to threaten the country, to no longer be a danger. It would not have been entirely consistent with Mr. Hoover's plan to meet an unemployment crisis by setting great public works on foot if he were now to admonish the nation against such operations in the face of serious industrial depression. As he is now holding up a warning hand against proposed appropriations for flood control, road building, public edifice construction and harbor development involving hundreds of millions of expenditure beyond budget limitations, it is the inescapable conclusion that he no longer fears a period of business and industrial slackness calling for extraordinary corrective measures.

This is an angle of the situation that is being entirely disregarded in Congress and very generally by the press. Naturally, Mr. Hoover's enemies in the Senate are trying to turn these economy pronouncements against him. We can only see in them the logical results of a conviction on the President's part that business is fast returning to its normal and that unusual expenditures by the nation on the score of unemployment are not now either necessary or justifiable.

SHARING IN BURGLARY

The question suggests itself that when a one-legged burglar is convicted, as was the case in Fairfield county the other day, he ought, by virtue of his physical handicap, to get a correspondingly lighter sentence. And granting that he should, the further problem presents itself of determining just what part of the crime should be attributable to one leg. Obviously, not a half, because it takes two hands as well as two feet, ordinarily, to perform a successful job of burglary. And not even a quarter, because what passes, in a burglar, as a brain, likewise shares in the operation. Even a fifth seems to be an uncertain quantity in the case, because we never heard of a blind burglar, though one with a single eye might make out well enough; patently the eyes or at least one eye has a lot to do with the job.

If, then, the one-leggedness of the burglar got him a sentence abated from the normal by one-sixth, that might seem to be about right. And yet there arises some doubt, because of the element of the getaway. If this housebreaker had had two legs he might not have had to serve any time at all.

Perhaps, on the whole, the subject isn't worth worrying about, because the court seems to have regarded the young man in question not as a burglar at all but merely a bad boy, as it sent him to the Cheshire Reformatory.

ALWAYS WRONG

If there be any who are inclined to take a gloomily serious view of business conditions, we suggest to them that there is one sure proof that we are not in for a long and grave period of depression. Professor Irving Fisher, of Yale, so-called economist, thinks we are.

Unless there are fresh gold discoveries, he declares, we are going to suffer all the evils of deflation, falling prices, stagnation and all kinds of misery.

Professor Fisher has the unique distinction of having never been right about anything in his life. It was he who was loudest and funniest in asserting, early last fall, that the bull market was nowhere near its limits, that values of stocks were going to keep on increasing and that there was to be no end, ever, of the flush times.

We sincerely hope that Professor Fisher will not change his mind and get the idea that a new period of especial prosperity impends. In that case we should get scared and begin to expect a panic.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 26 — Broadway's actors, drifting back from Chicago engagements, bring incredible news of the manner in which the gun-at-the-ribs system is employed in the pineapple center of America.

Several of the most important and notable performers upon our native stage will hesitate twice, at least, before accepting another engagement in a town where success means come across to some racketeer.

Half a dozen of Broadway's favorite folk have learned how it felt to go home nights with a couple of armed guards at either arm.

Both Harpo and Groucho Marx, who have tried to go through life clowning, have been forced to take matters seriously when, with solemn warnings awaiting them, they refused to "kick in" to the shakedown brigade who menace Chicago's loop district.

Being a gallant and courageous bunch of yellow-spines, these three gaugers do not stop with the malcontents of their cast. They have taken to promising "a ride" to some of the most charming women of the theater. I have it from Francine Larrimore that the "chisel" was applied shortly after she appeared upon the stage.

Some of the "loop brigade" insisted that she "come across" with a percentage of her profits or "the works" would be applied. She immediately hired a couple of guards to act as her protectors when she comes and goes from the theater. These are but a few of the complaints of Chicago racketing methods which appear to be striking fear into the hearts of many of the theater managers.

Far up in the Bronx, where slim skyscrapers perch on hills, there is a little valley which they call "garage gulch." It is the world's largest garage collection. Viewed from a distance, it appears to be a huge construction camp made of little tent houses and hastily built sheds. Closer inspection reveals that this is a little city of garages, where the hill perchers keep their cars. It is made up of six long avenues, each one of which is lined with a hundred or more garages.

The cult of the modernistic in architecture and exterior design is being housed in this man's town. The newest building announced will not only try to tip the clouds, but will have huge black stripes varying with the lines of white brick. The result should be bizarre, to say the least.

And in place of that Metropolitan Opera House center project which went floozy, there is announced a skyscraper in which will be contained several movie theaters, a large number of concert halls and will be dedicated to the world of entertainment and music.

It will be the only one building in the world of its kind.

As congestion in New York's highways continues, the medical records show a growing number of traffic policemen succumbing to disorders induced by the daily tension. The percentages give an officer at a particularly busy corner from three to five years, when he must either make a change or begin to show the ill effects of the noise, commotion and strain.

HISTORY OF MASSAGE

Massage is a form of treatment that has been used in some form in every country in the world by scientist and savage alike. Even in the far off parts of the world like the Sandwich Islands, if you wish for a massage you have only to ask for a "romi lom." If you are among the Maoris of New Zealand you ask for a "romi lom," and if you are on Tonga Island you must mention the magic words, "loog toog."

Some say that the word "massage" comes from the Arabian word, "mas'd," meaning to press, while others say that it is derived from a French word, "masser" to shampoo, and others that it comes from the Greek word, "massain," to knead.

Massage is probably the oldest method of treatment in existence. Over 3,000 years ago there was a book written in Chinese, called "The Kung Fu," dealing with massage. The subject is dealt with in the ancient Persians, Venetians, Japanese and Laplanders all made use of this healing art.

The Egyptians first appointed the body with precious oils and then rubbed it. Massage was famous in the baths of both Greece and Imperial Rome. Plutarch relates that every day Julius Caesar had his body pinched all over to relieve his rheumatism. The famous Roman Roman naturalist, employed a masseur to treat his asthma. Roman physicians used a sort of gentle whipping with twigs for the purpose of stimulating the skin and aiding the circulation. This treatment is still used by the Finns and Laplanders. Socrates refers to the beneficial olive oil rub. Hippocrates, the Father of Medicine, and Galen, two names luminous in medical history, recommended massage. Hypocrites "Much rubbing causes the parts to waste; moderate rubbing makes them grow." Massage was used to revive the gladiators of Rome and the warriors of Greece. Massage was also given to the periwinkle attending slaves of Rome to make them rounder and more filled out and therefore easier on the eyes around the Roman households. The Turks and Russians both used Massage. Among the Swedish it has become a part of the national life. "Swedish" massage stands for perfection in the art.

Massage has today become a well developed art, but it is well to remember that the value of the treatment depends upon the knowledge of the skilled fingerprints of the masseur. One man may be able to bring about seemingly miraculous cures with the art of massage alone, and is able to do more good for the patient in a few minutes' treatment than another could do in an hour.

Almost every doctor who uses some form of massage in treatment has developed his own technique. For example, in my own office I have developed a technique for manipulation in cases of adhesions, especially in cases of internal adhesions of the abdomen. The success following this method of treatment is phenomenal. In many cases even severe adhesions can be relieved by skillfully stretching the adhering tissues with the fingers in just the right, scientific way to stretch and break them.

Massage also is of special benefit in cases of paralysis or where a patient must lie in bed for several months as a consequence of a severe accident or disease. During the period of inactivity the muscles lose their power from not being used, and massage keeps them nourished and finally re-awakens the muscular motivity.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
(Emphysema)

Question:—A. S. asks: "Will you have the kindness to let me know if there are any hopes of getting the lungs? In my case the seat of the disease is the right bronchia. While I do not have any secretion in summer, two weeks ago black spit began to emanate from the throat. Is there any hope of getting rid of the troublesome condition? What diet would you suggest, considering the cold season? Is constipation the cause of the described state?"

Answer:—This trouble is due to the presence of air in the alveolar tissue of the lungs. I see no reason why you cannot get rid of this trouble which is apparently chronic in your case, only now appearing in acute form. A fasting and diet regime should have a good effect in making the proper tissue changes to restore the lungs to normal. As you suggest, constipation may be an important causative factor and this should be overcome as in every case with a bodily disorder. A special dieting schedule will be sent you if you will write again sending your full name on a large stamped envelope.

Question:—(Red Arms)

Answer:—A. M. S. writes: "I am asking advice for a friend. Her trouble is her arms and hands which are a scarlet red at all times and on account of them it is impossible for her to keep a position. She seems to be in perfect health. A specialist at New York City has advised a combination of general toxicosis combined with poor circulation to the parts affected. A proper fasting and diet treatment will help if it is combined with vibration or treatment to the upper vertebrae of the spine from which the nerves issue, going to the arms and hands."

WASHINGTON LETTER

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the second of three interviews with leaders of the Senate's political factions on the record of the Seventy-first Congress to date. These dispatches are especially timely in view of the White House discussions about speeding up the Senate.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
NEA Service Writer

Washington—The Republican progressive group in the Senate, whose alliance with the Democrats has upset the program of general tariff revision upward as contained in the bills passed by the House and submitted to act as her protectors when she comes and goes from the theater. These are but a few of the complaints of Chicago racketing methods which appear to be striking fear into the hearts of many of the theater managers.

It looks upon the general achievement of this Congress so far with great satisfaction, contending that the House tariff bill was so inequitable that it is taking a long time to rid it of its more objectionable features and write some new improvements into tariff law.

Defends Long Delay

"The Senate has taken a great deal of time with tariff and protective duties, more than it should have taken," admits Senator George W. Norris of Nebraska, leader of the western progressive Republicans. "But this is the only place in the world where a tariff bill, gets any consideration."

"Every body knows that the House passes a tariff bill as a matter of form—that it must pass it as a whole or not at all, without giving members any opportunity to offer amendments."

"A tariff bill contains thousands of items and affects every portion of the country, so it is not remarkable that its consideration should take a long time here where we have free debate and every member has the right to offer amendments. That is true of every important piece of legislation which contains more than one controversial item."

"It has been worse in this Congress because the Senate Finance Committee majority, which wrote the bill we had before us, is packed with senators from a very few manufacturing states. Only one member of the majority side, Senator Couzens of Michigan, was not one of the outfit which packed the bill with outrageous duties. They made the work all the more burdensome and tedious to those of us who wanted a fair measure. The only alternative to this long drawn-out process is to do like the House and take our tariff laws from the industrial members who take them straight from industry.

"The tariff bill as passed by the Senate won't be satisfactory, but we have some amendments in this bill which will go farther than ever before to provide machinery for making scientific tariff legislation in the future."

"Some unsatisfactory rates will remain, such as that on rayon, which has been kept exorbitantly high. But if we can put in the statute the provision requiring the tariff commission to make separate reports on the facts regarding foreign and domestic production and costs, so that items will be handled separately by Congress, we will eliminate the log-rolling which has been long the curse of tariff legislation."

"We also provide that in the future the tariff commission shall act judicially, disregard politics and act as a court which ought to give us a real tribunal unbiased and uncontrolled."

Entire Bill May Die

"We have also written in the de-benture plan for the benefit of agriculture."

"None of these things is through the conference, of course. That's when the fight will come. But in my judgment if most of these improvements don't stay in the bill, no bill will ever be passed."

Norris remarked that the Senate had passed his "lame duck" amendment to the Constitution, "as usual," and that the House leaders threatening to recess for lack of work might well take that up. He regards the recent opposition to the appointment of Chief Justice Hughes as of great importance in his long fight against monopolies and extortionate public utilities and expects it to have a healthy effect on the court's conservative majority, "including Hughes."

THE PURPOSE OF SCHOOLS
(New London Day)

Cleveland evening high school pupils can learn the rule of eleven as well as the multitudinous rules of grammar and algebra. Free instruction in bridge is a feature of the curriculum. Ely Culbertson and Peter F. O'Shea write in the North American Review that many colleges did bridge an important factor of social life. They point to its popularity in most colleges as disproof of the assertion by Prof. R. E. Rogers of M. I. T. (the Rogers who advised snobbery) that bridge is the lowest depth to which man can fall in his spare time.

Undoubtedly, bridge is useful to millions. After all, we cannot afford to go to the best plays. We cannot afford constant attendance at the movies. Constant reading will wreck the eyes. Constant thinking will wreck the mind.

At Connecticut college, here in New London, the Commuters' club holds bridge tournaments. Our city tournament at the John Winthrop club is a municipal institution comparable to the Yale-Harvard boat race in local interest. And at other places comparable interest is shown. Cleveland has the right idea. After all, a school is expected to fit a person for life. And to live happily, one ought to know the fundamentals of bridge.

St. Vitus would blush for shame if he could see some of the modern dances.

AVERAGE MAN'S LIFE AFFECTED IN MANY WAYS

By L. A. BROPHY (AP Feature Service Writer)

Washington—(AP)—Patterns of broad scale changes in the fabric of the nation's life are glimpsed as Herbert Clark Hoover ends his first year as President.

The average man's pocketbook, his bread and butter, the health of his children and even his thoughts on idealism are all affected by forces the thirty-first president has set in motion.

Of primary interest was the development of a comprehensive extra-constitutional aspect of government—the fact finding commission—upon which the President placed greater reliance than any of his predecessors.

Fifteen such bodies now exist. Attracting most attention was the commission to study law enforcement, designed to defer, at least temporarily, political discussion of prohibition.

Instead, the subject reached greater prominence than at any time in the decade of dryness.

His administration saw a farm relief bill enacted, a colossal experiment without precedent. Its eventual destiny will affect the family budget by working changes in market prices.

DANISH BUSINESS MEN LIKE AMERICAN GOODS

Copenhagen—(AP)—Farmers and business men of Denmark are at swords points over the merits of American and British imports into Denmark.

The farmers want Danish consumers to buy raw materials and manufactured goods from England which is the farmers' best customer for farm products.

The business men want to keep on using a greater part of American goods.

American exports to Denmark are much heavier than the Danish exports to the United States, while Denmark exports nearly ten times as much to Great Britain as she imports from that country.

Britain pointed out this fact and the farmers immediately started a campaign for consumption of more British manufactured goods.

"From a Danish national economic viewpoint," said the farmers' daily paper recently, "a country like the United States is only a consumer of Danish capital. You should buy from your best customer, Great Britain, and leave very much alone the products of those countries that merely want your money."

A prominent importer answered in a Copenhagen journal that the quality of British goods was only partially satisfactory and that British firms did not cater to Danish taste as closely as do the Americans.

ENGLAND A FREE COUNTRY.

London, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Will Thorne, veteran Labor member of the House of Commons, had certain objections to wearing court dress, so in accordance, the king invested him privately with the order of Companion of the British Empire, conferred on Thorne in the New Year's honors list.

"You would be surprised to know the number of subjects the king raised afterwards in conversation," Thorne said after the ceremony. "I ventured to congratulate him on the restoration of his health. At the end of the interview, I added: 'I know something about the American and French republics, but this is the freest country in the world, your Majesty.'"

Young De Rivera of Spain, instead of resorting to the sword for vengeance, used his bare fists on other day. But isn't the use of fists a penitentiary offense in Spain?

'FACT HUNTERS' DIGGING FOR NEW SLANTS ON U. S.

Washington—(AP)—Fifteen special "fact-finding" groups have been appointed by President Hoover.

Headed by 124 men and 17 women who direct the activities of thousands of specialists, they include:

Commission on conservation and administration of public domain, James R. Garfield, Ohio, chairman.

Research committee on social trends, Wesley C. Mitchell, Columbia University, chairman.

California water commission, Dr. Elwood Mead, commissioner of reclamation, chairman.

Federal farm board, Alexander Legge, Illinois, chairman.

National commission on law observance and enforcement, George W. Wickersham, New York, chairman.

National memorial commission, Ferdinand D. Lee, District of Columbia, chairman.

San Francisco bridge commission,

CAMEL OUSTED BY AUTOS AS FRENCH OVERCOME SAHARA

Tunis—(AP)—The camel, traditional "ship of the desert," is rapidly being replaced by the automobile, a faster, more dependable rival which requires even less to drink.

Press agents for the forthcoming Algerian Centenary celebration, which is to celebrate 100 years of progress since the French conquest of Algeria, have emphasized this machine conquest of the Sahara.

It is now possible to cross the Sahara from Algiers to Senegal in automobile. A regular service is maintained with huge six-wheeled motor coaches, each with sleeping accommodations for eight persons. There are comfortable hotels en route.

Automobiles and the radio have made it possible, within a decade, for the French to conquer virtually the entire desert for civilization. A handful of troops, including the famous Foreign Legion and black troops from Senegal, is sufficient to preserve order in an area as large as Europe.

French merchants of Northern Africa vision the time when the regions will be a winter haven for tourists and figures from two agencies here support this hope. One of them carried eightseers 12,000 miles in two coaches in 1920 but last year had 88 buses which traveled 540,000 miles. The other progressed from four coaches and 48,000 miles in 1927 to 25 coaches and 132,000 miles in 1929.

PARIS DEVORCES

Paris, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Three American wives were granted divorces today by French courts from their husbands.

Barbara Guggenheim Waldman was given a divorce from Milton Sylvester Waldman, Marie Wiener Ball, known as Medea Perdzina, was granted a divorce from Theodore Ball. They were married in the United States July 3, 1919.

Gertrude Munde Mausoll was divorced from Otto Hermann Mausoll. They were married in New York April 21, 1925.

MISSIONS BURNED

Hankow, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Bandits were reported today to have raided and burned Catholic missions at Tsenchingiu and Laching-kow, neighboring towns 120 miles up the Han river from here.

The missionaries learned of the bandits' approach and escaped to Shashi, Hupeh. The bandits were said to have looted the missions and then poured oil on the buildings and fired them.

LEAGUE NEEDS NEW DEFINITION OF WAR

Geneva, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Need for a new definition of war was remarked today by the international committee of jurists seeking to amend the League of Nations covenant so as to shut out war entirely.

Dr. F. W. von Bulow of Germany pointed out that in Far Eastern troubles hundreds of persons have been killed and towns bombarded without a declaration of war.

Lord Cecil of Great Britain agreed and urged that "concerted international action" in the interests of peace, should go by some other name than war. To call such concerted show of force by the name that characterizes every kind of armed conflict between nations, he said, was like employing the word "assault" to describe the arrest of a criminal by a policeman.

Discussion today centered on proposed amendments to Article XII of the covenant. This provides, in dispute likely to lead to war, that the parties submit to arbitration, judicial settlement or inquiry by the Council of the League and "in no case to resort to war until three months after an award by arbitrators or judicial settlement or report by the council."

To close the gap left here for war, the British propose to substitute for the last clause "and they agree that they will in no case resort to war."

KANSAS ELECTIONS

Topeka, Kas., Feb. 26.—(AP)—The Kansas Legislature today had seven new faces following yesterday's election to fill vacancies caused by deaths of members, and its roster was complete for the convening tomorrow of a special tax session. Democrats won three of the seats, an Independent-Democrat took another, and the other three were captured by Republicans.

Among those elected was W. Y. Morgan, Republican, Hutchinson newspaper publisher and member of the Associated Press nominating committee. He defeated Aaron Coleman, Democrat, by a majority of 450 votes for Representative from the 75th District.

The closest contest, as shown by unofficial returns, was in the 6th District, where Harry Harris, Democrat, defeated W. L. Severance, Republican, by only 30 votes. The largest majority in any District was amassed by the Independent-Democrat Walter F. Hammel, who defeated D. K. Wheelock, Independent, 1,545 to 772 votes for representative from the 65th District.

A Detroit automobile magnate, Mr. Henry B. Joy, takes a rap at dry hypocrisy. Surely not because there are so many Joy rides!

HEBRON

Another accident occurred on the Marlborough road in the vicinity of the old grist mill, about a quarter of a mile west of Hebron Center, Monday forenoon, when a truck of the Byrly Transportation company of Waterbury, was overturned, spilling out the load of iron plumbing pipes, which the driver, James Farrow of Waterbury, was taking to Willimantic. A relief truck was sent for which came out from Waterbury and took the load on to its destination. The overturned truck was righted up and found to be not badly damaged. The driver escaped injury. The accident was caused by an upheaval in the road, from the working out of the frost.

Christian Endeavor services at Hebron and Gilead were omitted Sunday evening, to allow the members to attend the tri-county union meeting held in Colchester on that evening. The feature of the occasion was an address of a native East Indian missionary, born in Bombay.

Many local Endeavorers were present. Mr. and Mrs. Sherwood Miner had as visitors at their home on Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Ansel Hopper of Ivoryton. Mrs. Hopper is Mr. Miner's sister.

A junior 4-H club meeting, which was scheduled to take place Saturday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Chauncey B. Kinney had to be postponed, owing to the appearance of another case of German measles in the Kinney family.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie F. Ward were Mr. Ward's brother, Reginald Ward, Mrs. Ward and their four children, Blossom, Virginia, Reginald, Jr., and Beatrice, of Norwich, Mr. Ward's father, William E. Ward, also of Norwich, was also a visitor.

Mrs. Carrier I. Burnham entertained her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Tucker of Hartford, her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Martindale of Plainville, her son Earl Tucker of New York, and Miss Florence Farr of New Britain, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Pendleton and daughter, Miss Mildred, and Mrs. Fannie Pendleton, all of Norwich were callers at the home of relatives, including Mr. and Mrs. Everett G. Lord, the Misses Pendleton, etc., on Sunday.

Mrs. George P. Kibbe is confined to her bed, partly from the effects of a fall at her home here recently. She is under the care of a physician and trained nurse. She has suffered from ill health recently and the fall has greatly aggravated her condition. Her nephew, Sherwood Raymond motored to her home from New Britain early in the week, bringing a trained nurse with him.

A rehearsal of the 4-H club orchestra took place Sunday afternoon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Hilding. It is understood that an orchestral program is being prepared for a Storrs round-up soon to take place.

Reports of the bad condition of the country roads in different parts of the town continue to come in. The Andover road is practically impassible, though the milk trucks managed to get through somehow, usually. The mud is very deep and often the cars get stuck and no end of trouble is caused. The children of the family of Claude W. Jones and others who attend school at the center have had to walk much of the time recently to get to school, at least for part of the way. The warm weather and rains have taken out about all the frost in the ground. This will be all right soon if it does not freeze up again and the whole program of thawing and mud come up for repetition. This has been the program most of the winter. Other roads of the town are as bad, perhaps. It took the rural mail carrier an hour to get through a short strip of road in the vicinity of Hopeville and Greyville recently, over which he could ordinarily go in five minutes, while on his delivery route.

Several members of the Rev. John W. Deeter's Bible class went to Willimantic Monday evening to attend a Bible study class there in which Mr. Deeter took part as lecturer. The class there is held under the auspices of the churches of the city, and there are a number of different lecturers.

Miss Mildred Hough, who teaches in Marlborough, has been unable to motor to and from her home here lately, owing to the bad traveling condition in part of the distance which she has to cover. She is spending the time in Marlborough until the going improves.

Miss Helen Gilbert, of the Unquowa Private school, Bridgeport, is spending a vacation of about a week at her Hebron home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Tennant had as their guests recently Mrs. Tennant's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Kelsey, Mrs. Tennant's brother, also of Montville, was a week-end visitor at the Tennant home.

WOULD OVERTHROW REDS

Kharkov, Ukrania, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Forty-five counter-revolutionists now under arrest here have been accused by the public prosecutor of planning the assassination of numerous high government and Communist officials including Stalin, Kaneneff, Voroshilov, Zinovieff and even Lenin during the latter's illness. The aim of the counter-revolutionists, the prosecutor said, was to overthrow the existing government in the Ukraine and to establish a capitalist regime with the aid of certain foreign governments.

The prosecutor declared that the headquarters of the organization were in Kiev and included in its membership Prof. Serge Efrimoff, chairman of the Ukrainian Academy of Science, former Premier Chekhovskiy and former Foreign Minister Nikovsky of the Pétura government.

The trial of the men will open here next month.

HIGH SCHOOL STUDENT IS KILLED BY LIQUOR

Los Angeles, Feb. 26.—(AP)—
The death of one 16 year old high school student, the blinding of a 17 year old girl and the serious illness of two boys in the metropolitan area were laid to poison liquor today.

Police began a search for "a 19 year old bootlegger" as the result of the story of the five youngsters who survived a joy ride and drinking party in an automobile truck here Sunday night. The sixth member of the party, Donald Ashworth, 16, died in the truck before a hospital could be reached.
Charles Post and Paul Phelps,
each 17, who were in the party, were taken to a hospital in a serious condition. The others who went on the joy ride, it was said, were Annabelle Miller, 15 and Evelyn Cameron, 15, who did not partake of the liquor.

SCHOOL GIRLS STRIKE

West Helena, Ark., Feb. 26.—
(AP)—Sheriff's deputies, summoned after a school girls' quarrel had aroused this town of 3,500, patrolled the streets of West Helena today.

Residents attending a mass meeting yesterday protested the resignation of George Cromwell as superintendent of schools which Cromwell said had been caused by threats upon his life by Lawrence Brown, father of two young girls who were disciplined after a dispute with another girl.

Brown, according to Sheriff J. C.
Barlow, threatened Cromwell's life, unless the latter disciplined the third girl. Cromwell declined to act against the other pupil.

Laboratory tests of Rinso in Miss and Friday at 1:30 p. m.

whiter clothes with less work

EVER had the washday "blues"?
Then come to the DeBoth homemaking demonstration today.

See washday blues turned to joy! See how clothes are washed snow-white, sweet as clover—without scrubbing or boiling!

Miss DeBoth's staff of experts have shown half a million women how to save time and work on washday—how to save clothes—how to get whiter washes safely.
There will be another of these interesting demonstrations today at the time and place shown above. Don't miss it!

The dirt is soaked out In the DeBoth demonstration the famous granulated soap, Rinso, is used.

See how Rinso whips into rich, creamy suds—how these suds loosen the dirt—how the clothes rinse snowy without a bit of hard work! Results are almost unbelievable!

Try Rinso yourself next washday! It's all you need—no bar soaps, chips or powders. Granulated, compact—one cupful of Rinso gives more suds than two cupfuls of lightweight, puffed-up soaps.
Economical!

Rinso is great in washers, too. Endorsed by the makers of 38 leading washing machines—used by more than 32,000 washer demonstrators for best results.

Famous Home-making Expert

JESSIE M. DEBOTH says:

"We discovered by laboratory tests that Rinso soaks out dirt and spots with very little rubbing... washes snowy-white without boiling. Saves clothes and hands, too.

"As a result, we urge women to trust even their finest cottons and linens to its care. We also advise it for dishes and all household cleaning. Rinso is a great work-saver and its rich suds make it very economical.

"We tested it in washing machines, also—and are not surprised that makers of 38 leading washers recommend Rinso!"

WATKINS EXPERT TELLS HINTS ABOUT DRAPERIES

Harry N. Roth Speaks in Local Store Series—Outlines History of Drapes.

"Hints for Making and Hanging Draperies" was the subject which Harry N. Roth of Watkins Brothers drapery shop spoke on at the eighth of the Watkins series of lectures last evening in the auditorium of the local store. Mr. Roth began his lecture by briefly outlining the evolution of the present day fashion of using draperies, telling how the first castles were equipped with high, narrow slits in their walls for lookout purposes in case of attack by enemies. These windows were not planned primarily to let in sunshine or fresh air. Later, he said, as communities grew and times became more peaceful, larger openings were used, which were covered with tapestries during night and cold weather. Here was the first use of drapes at the windows.

Later, as clear glass was perfected and larger windows used, it became necessary to screen off the view from the exterior, without shutting out the view from inside, and at the same time softening the strong sunlight as it filters into the rooms. So, Mr. Roth said, we have the present day fashion in draperies.

The lecture was illustrated by the use of various new drapery rods and new effects in draperies. One particularly interesting arrangement was for draping a French door with both glass curtain and overdrap, and, although the overdrap fitted to the top of the casing, it swung outward with the door. An extension to use where more height is desired was also demonstrated, the French door drape and the extended window overdrapes being a figured Jacobean linen. The overdrapes in this particular group were traversed, so that they could be pulled together, by means of pull cords, replacing window shades.

Another pleasing effect was that of a new glazed chintz. "The old Curiosity Shop" pattern, hung from a wood pole by means of loops of the same material. The window used was a wide one and the glass curtains in this instance were traversed.

By extending the height of the windows, adding a pleated valance and tying back the curtains an entirely different effect was produced. In showing how a room having a decorative cornice trim is treated, Mr. Roth used a beautiful red damask, full width of the window and pleated at the top, and tied back at the sides. This drape extended almost to the ceiling of the room, using the cornice as a valance.

Following the talk Mr. Roth answered drapery questions asked by the audience.

Although the date for the next lecture in the series, "An Actual Demonstration of Selecting and Arranging the Furniture for a Given Room," had been scheduled for March 25th, Mr. Watkins at last evening's lecture informed the audience that a change in the dates might be necessary and to watch the Manchester Herald for further announcements.

DECLARES GANG WAR

Chicago, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The wounded Frank McErlane lay today with three bullet wounds in his body and sounded the tocsin of a new gang war.

From his sick bed at the home of his mother where he was removed last night, police having no charge on which to hold him—McErlane said:

"The war is on—and it won't be any popgun war."

McErlane, credited with having conceived the death strategy known as "the ride" is recovering from an attempt upon his life. The attack was made Monday night at the German Evangelical hospital where he was being treated for a bullet wound. His assailants stood at the door of the hospital room and fired and fled when McErlane replied with a pistol he had concealed. "Never mind who shot me" he said, when police questioned him last night. "I'll take care of myself. McErlane takes care of McErlane. Remember the next time you find some rat dead in a ditch, like a sieve, remember what happened to—never mind."

SEIZING PHOTOGRAPHS

Bucharest, Rumania, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The government has ordered seizure of all photographs of Princess Ileana and Count Alexander Von Hohenberg in which the two are shown together.

Officially, aside from this order, silence is being preserved about the broken engagement of the two. Authoritative circles considered the count's statement that his betrothal with the princess had not been broken as preposterous.

ORPHAN BROTHERS TO CLAIM FORTUNE

Chicago, Feb. 26.—(AP)—In 1852, back in Granard, Ireland, John Flynn, a sergeant in the Revenue Service in Dublin whom George IV had commended for bravery, married Henrietta Goodiff, daughter of a captain of the Royal Fusiliers. The captain, enraged, objected to the marriage; the bride couple fled to Liverpool with the captain in pursuit. A vessel was at dock; it sailed before the captain arrived; the Flynn's came to America. Yesterday, in a Montana home-stand shack, two aging orphaned brothers, John and James Butler, reunited after 32 years, discussed coming to Chicago to claim the $200,000 estate left by the two sons of the Flynn who fled from Ireland 78 years ago. The years between are entwined with misfortune and orphanages, family Bibles and hermits, searches and success. Two years after the Flynn's came to America and Chicago, Mrs. Flynn's sister, Charlotte, married to Alfred Butler, in Ireland, emigrated westward, across the ocean. Settle on Farm. The Flynn's settled on a farm near Park Ridge, a Chicago suburb; the Butlers went downstate to Tuscola. Three sons and a daughter were born to the Flynn. The girl died and the brothers inherited the farm, living in seclusion thereon and avoiding the neighbors, who called them misers. Edward Flynn died in 1820; James and John, the two brothers lived on. In December, 1926, John died from pneumonia at the age of 72; James, 70, waited until the physician had signed the death certificate and then shot himself to death. A fortune in currency was hidden about the house, the whole estate amounting to around $200,000. Several sets of distant cousins have claimed the estate; their family bibles all attested the marriage of Charlotte to Alfred Butler, but insisted there was no issue. Had Four Children. But in Tuscola, the Butlers had reared four children. The mother died in 1864; the father placed the four children in a Chicago orphanage. Two died after adoption; James left when a small boy, wandered for several years, settled in Bird City, Kan., married and fathered four children. John was adopted and taken west; he came at last to a Montana homestead. John C. Vanek, who traces ancestors and clears up estates, was employed to settle up the Flynn estate. He went to Tuscola. There, in the tree-dotted little cemetery on the east edge of the small city, he found an aged man at the grave of Charlotte Butler; it was James, who had come back to his mother after 63 years. They found traces of James' brother, John. To Montana they went; and there the two brothers were reunited. They informed Vanek today they would come home soon to claim the estate.

PROPOSED CONSTRUCTION

Chicago, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Seven billion dollars for public works and construction by utilities and industries, will have a "tremendous effect on all business activity" in the opinion of Dr. John M. Gries, chief of the public construction division of the Department of Commerce. Addressing several hundred construction men and engineers last night, Dr. Gries said that public utilities planned to spend three and one-quarter billions in 1930, while the "reports of governors of states shows total expenditures for public works in 1930 in excess of three billions. "The Federal government program will amount to some $275,000,000 not including eighty or more millions for highway aid," Dr. Gries said, "while especially large capital investments were also reported as contemplated by the iron and steel and several other larger industries." JUDGE FRENCH DIES Collingswood, N. J., Feb. 26.—(AP)—Former Judge William C. French, who for 18 years was on the bench of the United States District Court of South Jersey, died of apoplexy at his home last night. He was 59. He was Democratic Party leader for Camden county and was one of the three men responsible for the nomination of Woodrow Wilson as governor of New Jersey when at the Democratic convention at Trenton. He ran counter to James Smith, then state leader of the party. Smith sought the nomination of the late Supreme Court Justice Frank S. Katzenbach.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, Feb. 26.—For the first week in several months, bituminous coal production fell below 10,000,000 net tons in the week ended Feb. 22, the National Coal Association states, estimating output at approximately 9,600,000 tons. The Bureau of Mines places the tonnage for the week ended Feb. 15 at 10,300,000, and for the week ended Feb. 8, at 10,936,000. The Canadian National Railways plans to spend $9,000,000 on branch construction in western Canada this year, exclusive of the Hudson Bay railway expenditures for betterments on new works on present lines. F. W. Dodge Corp. reports that new building and engineering contracts let in the 37 states east of the Rockies during the week from Feb. 15 through 21 amounted to $33,962,300, an increase of $2,392,300 over the previous week's total, but contrasting with a total of $89,663,800 in the corresponding period last year. It is reported in Wall Street that the Marine Midland Corp., western and central New York state bank holding company, is negotiating to acquire the Fidelity Trust Co. of New York City. The banking chain has as yet no institution in New York City, but it was announced at organization last fall that the Marine Trust Company of New York would be formed as a Wall Street unit.

EDWARDS TO BE MAYOR

Seattle, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Breaking the long chain of close mayoralty elections, Mayor Frank Edwards, candidate for the nomination to succeed himself as mayor of Seattle, overwhelmed his two opponents in the primary election yesterday, polling more votes than Otto A. Case and former Mayor Edwin J. Brown combined. The complete unofficial returns from 406 precincts in the city gave Edwards a vote of 32,716 to 17,868 polled by Case and 13,377 obtained by Brown. Edwards and Case will oppose each other in the general election March 11. The election was conducted on a non-partisan basis. A vote of 63,959 was cast out of a registration of 117,969.

Taking first and second place respectively former Mayor M. G. Tennent and Fred Shoemaker led the field of five in the non-partisan primary election in Tacoma yesterday to go into the finals at the general elections March 11. TO DISCHARGE ALIENS Detroit, Feb. 26.—(AP)—The city council adopted a resolution directing heads of departments to make a clean sweep of the 748 aliens whom a survey showed to be on the various city payrolls. A loophole for reemployment was left however, by the addition to the original resolution of a clause which ordered the department chiefs to "make an investigation and study of each individual case with a view of reemployment should there be circumstances warranting such action."

SENATORS THREATENED

Washington, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Lots of laughter and a little uneasiness make up the Senate's response to a series of threatening letters recently received by several of its members. Most of the Senators are inclined to regard the missives as the work of some harmless crank and scoff at the possibility of danger. One member, however, grew apprehensive at a letter threatening to toss bombs into the Senate chamber and suggested that several buckets of water be kept at hand for this emergency. Vice President Curtis, Republican leader Watson and Senator Copeland are among those who have received letters. Copeland's warned him to stay away from the Senate for a couple of weeks. Senator Watson laughed and tossed his letter into a wastebasket. However most of the epistles have been turned over to the Department of Justice for investigation and there is some evidence at the Capitol of the activity of its agents.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Cameron, New York typist, marries Arthur Knight, executive of the publishing house where she works. Knight is a widower with a daughter, Tony, 18, and son, Junior, 16. Tony denounces Judith as a gold digger. Her father makes her apologize. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

Andy Craig, a young man Knight had seduced, takes a position at the publishing house. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair and, when she fails, tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation with Micky Mortimer, wealthy and married. This is revealed when they are arrested at 3 a. m. for reckless driving. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes dangerously ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home and before he leaves admits to Judith he has misjudged her. After Knight begins to recuperate he seems to prefer Tony's company to Judith's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XLV
The husband and wife eyed each other and for an instant the room was oppressively still.

Arthur Knight stood erect, waiting coolly and impersonally for Judith to continue. He was thinner since his illness. His cheeks added age had come into his face. Knight was first to speak.
"Excuse me," he said politely. "Won't you sit down?"
Judith could not find her voice. She stood, a slight miserable figure, in the doorway. Then, because she did not know what else to do, she moved toward a chair. She wanted to cry out but could not.

Knight remained on his feet, looking down at the girl.
"If you'll just tell me what you've come to," he went on, still in the cool formal tone, "perhaps I can be of assistance."
"But, Arthur," faltered Judith. She did not know what to say or how to begin. The man before her seemed a stranger.
"Don't you understand?" she went on, her voice rising with a timid, frightened inflection. "I've come—home!"
"Yes, of course. So I see. I suppose there are things which will be able to pack them."
Judith shook her head.
"No," she said. "There is no need to pack anything."
Her husband smiled cynically.
"You're not looking unhappy, happy, my dear. I hope you've enjoyed the little vacation. Be sure to give my regards to Craig."
"Why do you say that, Arthur?"
"Why, I—I want to do the right thing. I hope you understand that I am trying."
"But what about Craig? Do you mean Andy?"
Arthur Knight lost some of his composure then.
"Judith," he said in a tense voice, "do you mean to deny to me that you came down the street just now with Andy Craig and only left him just before you turned into the yard?"
"Why, no! I mean—yes, of course I walked down the street with Andy. He was on the same car as I was, only we didn't either of us know it until we got off at the station here. It was—rather amusing."
"No doubt. Quite a coincidence. Quite a coincidence indeed."

Now Judith was thoroughly alarmed.
"Arthur," she said appealingly, "there's something I don't understand. Everything's wrong. Oh, I knew you'd think it was queer the way I left in such a hurry. I couldn't explain then. There didn't seem any other way. Now I've come back because I want to tell you."
Knight shook his head impatiently.
"There is no need to tell anything."
"Oh, yes, Arthur, but there is! I must! That's what I've come for. I want you to understand just why I did it."
"Judith," said the man wearily, "we're not getting anywhere with all this. It only makes it more embarrassing for both of us. If you will tell me where to have my lawyer reach you I think arrangements can be handled through a third party with much less—annoyance."
"What do you mean?"
"It is perfectly obvious now that our marriage was a mistake."
"Oh!"
Judith stared, not believing that she had heard the words right. A glance at Knight's face told her there was no mistake.

"Oh!" The little cry escaped from her lips again. She had been very white-faced when she entered the room. Now a deep rose flush crept into the girl's cheeks.
She was on her feet.
"So that's what you want!" Judith spoke rapidly. "I'm sorry I didn't understand. Of course, I'll go at once!"
There was a pause. Under the dark lashes her blue eyes sought Arthur Knight's. There was no retreating in the man's face.
"You understand," he told her,

"I am doing this because I think it will make us both happier."

Knight was quoting the letter which Judith had left for him before she went away. The girl did not realize this. The whole room (she had furnished it with such delight and care) was dancing before her. Judith railed at her own weakness. She must not weep now, she would not! She brushed one hand away, hoping Knight would not notice. He gave no sign that he had.

Judith was about to turn into the hallway when footsteps sounded on the stairs. Little, clicking heels which pattered on the steps. Oh, Judith knew those footsteps all right! Tony's, of course.

She might have rushed into the hall at once, but she could hardly have avoided meeting the girl. Judith hesitated and in that moment of hesitation her fate was sealed.

Tony Knight, smiling brightly, appeared in the doorway. She was wearing the scarlet and white satin lounging suit which was one of her favorites. Her short dark hair hung in ringlets about her neck. In her fingers was a lighter cigarette.

"Well!" she said archly, and halted as she saw Judith. Tony stopped back and leaned against the doorway. A cruel smile flickered about her lips.
"What an unexpected—pleasure!" Tony finished her sentence, still gazing at Judith.

There was amazing contrast between the two girls. Judith wore the dull, cheap black coat and hat she had bought in her days as a typist. Tony's scarlet satin was luxurious. Tony smarted in the older girl's eyes but she would not give way to them. Tony looked cynical, sophisticated and at ease. Judith was miserable.

"Hello, Tony," she said.
"The other girl raised her cigarette to her lips and blew a curling wreath of smoke ceilingward. 'Where've you been?' she asked bluntly.
"I've been—away."
"Oh! Well, it's awfully nice to see you again, darling. Be with us for dinner, I suppose?"

Did Tony Knight know what torture it was for Judith to answer that question?
"No," said the other girl. "I won't be here. I'm leaving."
"Oh, I'm so sorry! Why, father, isn't this a shame to think that Judith's just came back and now she's leaving again? Can't you persuade her to stay?"

Tony moved to where her father stood and drew his arm about her. "Oh, I don't know," she said in a little above his shoulder. From this position she gazed at Judith.
"I think—Judith knows what she wishes to do," Arthur said stiffly.
"Oh, of course."
Judith Knight looked about her. The traveling bag she had brought was still standing in the hall.

"Goodbye," she said thickly. She went into the hall, picked up the bag and rushed out of the house.
Without a single backward look she ran down the walk and disappeared down the street.

Once again Judith was on a train. The car jugged and rumbled but the girl took no notice. Her eyes were glued on the window though Judith did not see the landscape they were passing. One or two of the passengers looked at her curiously.

So it was all over now! She had entered Arthur Knight's life mysteriously, and as mysteriously she was leaving it. Some day, years ahead perhaps, she would be able to look back on what had happened and understand. She could not understand now. She would not even think.

The guard called a station, lifting his raucous voice above the clatter of the train.
Judith shook herself. What was the name of this place? She glanced out of the window. No—they were not more than half way to their destination.
She kept hearing Arthur's voice over and over again as he said, "It is perfectly obvious now that our marriage was a mistake." That was the thing that could never be erased!

There was one thing, and one thing only, for her to do.

With set lips Judith turned and made her way down into the "subterranean" man of their boarding train. She went through the subway gates and paused on the platform for her downtown express.

Trains thundered to right and left of her. The long express slowed and stopped.
Judith entered the train. There were no seats and the aisle was crowded with strap-hangers. She set her traveling bag on the floor and wedged in between two other passengers. Men and women crowded in behind her. The train rumbled forward.

She got off at Fourteenth street, and climbed to the entrance of the stairway. There her strength was spent. There were only a few blocks now but she signaled a cab and gave the driver the address. Judith sank back into the seat and closed her eyes.

"This place, lady?" The taxi had halted and the driver had slid the glass door back which separated chauffeur and passenger.
"Yes," said Judith, "this is the place."
She stepped from the cab, handed the driver his fare and went up the steps of the brick building. Without ringing the bell, she entered.

The hallway was dark, odorous and like a hundred other boarding house hallways. The ceiling was high with an old-fashioned mirror built into the wall. Directly ahead was a long, circular stairway.

Judith trudged up the stairs. Before a door on the second floor, rear, she paused and knocked.
"Yes—who is it?"
A man's lusty bass answered the knock. A moment later the door was thrown open.

"JUDITH!"
Sobbing, the girl felt herself drawn into strong, protecting arms.
"Oh, Dan," she murmured, "I've come back and I'm going to stay—always!"

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY
During the mid-season when our appetites are beginning to crave fresh green vegetables, many housewives are faced by the problem of satisfying this longing without overstraining the pocketbook by buying the new but highly priced vegetables which are being shown in the markets.
Cabbage, crisp fresh and inexpensive, is one of the vegetables that always can be depended upon. It not only satisfies the appetite, it also provides vitamins and minerals in abundance.
When cabbage is cooked, there are a few precautions which must be observed if it is to retain all its food value, stay white in color and be delicately flavored.
Don't Over-cook Cabbage.
The first rule for cooking cabbage is to cook it only until tender. Finely shredded cabbage cooked in water to cover needs from ten to fifteen minutes. New cabbage cut into quarters should not be cooked longer than 35 minutes and 20 or 25 is better. Prolonged cooking develops a dark color and strong flavor.
The second rule is to cook cabbage in an uncovered utensil. This allows the odor to escape and prevents the vegetable from reabsorbing it. Raw cabbage is not strongly flavored. It is through the heat of cooking that certain compounds are released. Incorrect cooking methods develop unpleasant taste and odor from these substances.
Raw cabbage combines well with many fruits and vegetables in salads. Cabbage and grapefruit, cabbage and pineapple, cabbage and apple are all delicious combinations that are commonly used. Cabbage and orange with an orange dressing is unusual but equally good. A salad of shrimp and cabbage with threads of sweet green pepper is colorful and very good.
Braised Cabbage.
One small head cabbage, 1 cup diced celery, 1 cup boiling water, 4 tablespoons olive oil, 1-3 cup lemon juice, 1 teaspoon salt, 1 tablespoon sugar, 6 peppercorns, 2 bay leaves, 1 teaspoon powdered thyme, 1/2 teaspoon white pepper.
Cut cabbage crosswise in slices about one inch thick. Let stand in cold salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and put into a shallow sauce pan with remaining ingredients. Cook 15 or 20 minutes until tender. Do not cover while cooking.

UNUSUALLY WARM IN HUB.

Boston, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Despite colder weather today the past week's warm spell has been just like May.
"All former February temperature records have been exceeded by several degrees," George W. Windling, meteorologist of the Weather Bureau, said last night. "The average for the seven days is 52, which is within one degree of the 46 year average for the first seven days in May."
"Records of the most outstanding warm winter months have been examined," he continued, "without finding a seven-day period with an average as high as that of the period of February 19-25, 1930."
A new high temperature record for the day of 65 degrees was established yesterday.

WORLD BEAUTIES TO PARADE RIO'S BEACH

Rio Janeiro.—(AP)—Rio plans to put Galveston in the shade by staging a beauty contest on the beach at Copacabana, at which will be represented Latin-American countries, the United States and Europe. It is sponsored by a leading afternoon newspaper here.
The trip of Olga Bergamini da Sa as Brazil's representative at Galveston last year aroused unbounded enthusiasm in Brazil, columns being printed daily of her doings in the eastern United States and in Texas.
Cut cabbage crosswise in slices about one inch thick. Let stand in cold salted water for 15 minutes. Drain and put into a shallow sauce pan with remaining ingredients. Cook 15 or 20 minutes until tender. Do not cover while cooking.

Those in charge of the arrangements have decided that the beach at Copacabana, an aristocratic suburb of Rio where mile-long rollers of the South Atlantic beat upon white sands, shall be the setting for the parade of comeliness.
The contest will be staged in September, the beginning of spring south of the equator. The winner will receive $10,000. There will be a second prize of $1,000 and a third of $500.

BOOTLEGGER KILLED

Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 25.—(AP)—The shooting of Charles R. Hackling, 32, of Cranston, R. I., declared a bootlegger by police, whose body was found tossed beside a road last night was being investigated today.
With a single small calibre bullet wound in the chest and head badly bruised, the body was found near the state line by automobilists who thought he was a hit and run automobile victim.
He had been dead less than an hour. Medical Examiner Jesse W. Battershall was summoned and said he believed the man had been murdered.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

The patriotic days of the late winter season are over and a good time was had by all.
Every little American boy is hoping to grow up into a Washington or a Lincoln and every little girl thinks it would be nice to be a Betsy Ross or a Molly Stark.
We've sung the "Star Spangled Banner" and "My Country 'Tis of Thee" and saluted the flag, and recited our oath of allegiance, and marched, and hung out banners—and now we're all set up for another year, our patriotic house in order, and our consciences satisfied.

But I wonder if we always get the ideal reaction from these outward manifestations of loyalty.
Aren't we drawing squares and circles for the children to step around in, in our stereotyped methods of teaching patriotism?
Just how much of it all soaks in, I wonder.
Not a Young Patriot
This little incident may or may not be typical, but it makes us think:
A teacher was marching her roomful of children to a nearby auditorium recently where all the different schools were congregating for a patriotic rally.

In front of the building on a great bronze pole floated a bright flag. As the children came up the wide concrete path toward the building, each with a tiny flag over his shoulder, the small army was stopped, turned its eyes aloft toward the beautiful emblem billowing overhead in the breeze, and at a signal began to recite the oath of allegiance.
One little fellow didn't lift his eyes; head down he pivoted out of line, and his teacher caught him whacking at a stone lion with his own particular flag in anything but a patriotic manner.
"Why, Walter, you mustn't do that. Get right back into line. Hurry! The children have almost finished."

But Walter pulled away again. "Aw, I feel silly doing that," he blurted. "I just hate it!"
Is This Case Typical?
There it is! How many reactions are there like that?
Perhaps Walter is a very, very black sheep. But suppose he isn't. His father and mother and Walter himself may be very excellent citizens who not only love their country but work for it and would protect it to the last ditch.
I am just wondering if we are going at this patriotic business wrong end first, or granted we're on the right track, are we going far enough?
To fire children with a real and deeper sense of patriotism by trying to instill in them two priceless things, to my mind is paramount: First, appreciation of one's own land, and second, duty to it. We need to teach patriotism more than ever, but with less fanfare perhaps and a greater earnest effort to instill in young America deep-rooted and serious thoughts of this business of being an American.

HEALTH

BODY CAN STAND EXTREME COLD BETTER THAN IS SUPPOSED
BY DR. MORRIS FISHBURN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine
Death from exposure to cold occurs fairly frequently in the temperate zone. The mortality ranges anywhere from 200 to 400 deaths per year in the registration area of the United States. In Canada and Alaska, illnesses and deaths from cold may be even more frequent.
Recently, Dr. S. W. Britton has made a special survey of the relationship of cold to life and has discovered some extremely interesting facts. It has been found that some fish can survive exposure to sea water at temperatures from 10 to 12 degrees below zero for several hours.
Frozen, But Not Killed
Under such circumstances, the fish gradually lose all sensibility and finally appears to be frozen stiff. The heart itself stops. The animal may be practically frozen to death for a brief period, then the temperature of the surrounding water increased and it comes to life.
As the animal returns to life, the heart beat appears first, and then breathing, and then the ability to maintain a proper position in the water, and finally the ability to swim. It has even been found that the heart of a fish can be frozen for several hours at a temperature of 4 degrees Fahrenheit and yet after slowing thawing, it will recover to natural rhythm.
The human body is likewise able to withstand extreme degrees of cold under certain circumstances. Records have been made in instances in which drunkards have been exposed to extreme degrees of cold air and water for hours and still recovered. One drunkard whose body temperature was 76.4 degrees Fahrenheit and who had been exposed all night to air at 21.2 degrees Fahrenheit, completely recovered.
The individual's temperature may fall considerably, and Dr. Britton provides records varying from 78.4 degrees Fahrenheit to 83.1 degrees Fahrenheit, with recovery after treatment. Recovery in cases of exposure while drunk depends in large measure on the amount of alcohol taken, the resistance of the individual generally and the particular amount of cooling that he undergoes.

Artificial Respiration Is a Help
Just as in cases of unconsciousness due to other causes, such as gas poisoning, sunstroke, and many instances in which the circulation and respiration are greatly interfered with, artificial respiration may frequently be practiced with success. Warm baths or packs gradually increased to higher temperatures and the drinking of warm fluids are valuable aids to resuscitation when unconsciousness occurs due to freezing.
For this reason, persons who seem to be dead from the results of freezing should not be permitted to pass away without any attempt being made to restore them to life. Just as people have responded to relief after electric shock or drowning after several hours, so also in freezing the attempt to resuscitate should be prompt and long continued.

POLAND SPEEDS UP TREK TO AMERICA

Warsaw.—(AP)—A Polish Emigration Syndicate to give emigrants information, provide them with tickets, and generally take care of them, has been established with a capital of $11,000.
The government has kept 60 of the 100 shares, while the remaining forty have been sold to steamship lines serving North and South America. The United States lines has joined the syndicate and will be allotted quotas of emigrants.
The government has reserved the right to give 25 per cent of the traffic to a Polish line in case such a company is formed for the direct transportation of emigrants from Gdynia to the United States. It is possible that for this purpose the government will enter into an agreement with the Danish owned Baltic America line to operate under the Polish flag with a subsidy from the Polish government.
Such arrangements were made with the Ellerman-Wilson line, resulting in the Polish British company, which operates a regular service between Gdynia and England, and the French Chargeurs Reunis, which has established a direct service from Gdynia to South America.

Way To Get At a Cold Is Through the Bowels

Dearly beloved, I beseech you as strangers and pilgrims, abstain from fleshly lusts, which war against the soul.—1 Peter 2:11.
Lust is a captivity of the reason and an hindering of the passions. It hinders business and distracts conduct. It sins against the body and weakens the soul.—Jeremy Taylor.
As soon as you catch cold, the pores close; perspiration is checked. Gases and waste can't escape through the skin. That's why your doctor's first advice in case of colds is a mild laxative like cascara. Medical authorities agree it actually strengthens bowel muscles. You get cascara in its most pleasant form in candy Cascalets.
Remember this when you catch cold; whenever breath is bad; tongue coated; or you're headachy, bilious, constipated.
Why resort to harsher tonics when Cascalets activate the bowels so quickly, so harmlessly and pleasantly—and cost only a dime!—Adv.

Vienna.—The carcass of a giant rhinoceros, thought to be more than 100,000 years old, has been unearthed in an oil field in eastern Galicia. It was found about 300 feet underground. Examination of the remains showed the hide and the hair of the animal to be in good condition.

LITTLE JOE

SOME PEOPLE KEEP OUT OF FIGHTS AND OTHERS ARE KNOCKED OUT

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)
The Tinies hemmed and hawed a while. The boy then broke into a smile. "Don't be afraid of me," he said. "Why, I am glad you're here. I'm fond of little lads like you and there are things that we can do to have some fun, so there is not a thing that you need fear."
The others then heard Scoutly say, "Well, we are glad you feel that way, but maybe you won't like us when you find what we have done. You see, we're little Tinymites, just out to play and see the sights. A little trick was played on you while we were having fun."
The little boy replied, "Well, well! What was it, lads? You'd better tell. It may not make me mad at all, but we shall shortly see. I usually am a friendly sort and also quite a real good sport. I seldom mind it very much when folks play tricks on me."
So Scoutly told him, right away. Said he, "While we were at our play

We opened up that box of yours. Your crackers all jumped out. That's why we have a real good hunch that we have likely spoiled your lunch. Of course we all feel sorry now. Of that there is no doubt."
The boy laughed loud and also long. Said he, "Well, maybe that was wrong, but, gee, I think it's funny and I'm not the least bit mad. The animal crackers, I would say, were very wise to run away. I'm willing to forget it and I hope that makes you glad."
The Tinymites all jumped for joy and promptly thanked the little boy. Then Clowny said, "If you are going to leave, take us along." "Why, sure," replied the friendly lad. "Your joining me will make me glad." He hoisted Clowny to his back. Oh, my, but he was strong.
(The Tinymites help the boy build something in the next story.)

TO BEGIN COMMUNITY BIBLE CLASS HERE

Get Aid in Organization from Popular Congregational Church in East Hartford.

Sunday, March 9, has been definitely set as the date for the institution of the Community Bible class at Second Congregational church. This is the outcome of a visit of local men a few weeks ago to the Men's Bible class at the Congregational church in East Hartford of which Rev. Truman Woodward, formerly of Wapping, is pastor, and of a visit here from the class leader, James Johnston of East Hartford. The group of local men, who were from the two North Main street churches, were so impressed with the East Hartford meeting, and Mr. Johnston's talk, they immediately took steps to start a similar organization in this town.

The class which meets every Sunday morning at the white church in East Hartford has a membership of upwards of three hundred men, composed largely of non-church members. The purpose is not to study the bible principally, but to hear well known speakers discuss religious topics. These talks are usually preceded by the singing of a group of spirited songs. As a send-off to the project, an "everyman's banquet" is scheduled for Friday evening, March 7 at Second Congregational church, details of which will be announced later.
