TAFT DOCTORS GIVE UP HOPE FOR RECOVERY

In Critical Condition—Any Improvement Will Be Only Temporary, Say Late Bulletins from Bedside.

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Broken by weeks of illness, William Howard Taft had lost so much ground in his fight for life today that his physicians said there remained no hope for recovery.

Confirming for the first time the fears of the family and friends of the former president and chief justice, Dr. Francis B. Wagner said after a morning call at the Wyoming avenue home that it now was a question of days, and perhaps only of hours.

Mr. Taft is in a critical condition, said the physician. "There is no hope of his recovery. Any improvement will only be temporary."

General Breakdown. A general breakdown had followed upon the combined inroads of the various ailments which early in February forced Mr. Taft to resign as chief justice, and since have kept him in bed under the anxious eyes of family and physicians.

All along the battle had been a losing one. He had almost held his own for short periods; sometimes there were signs which gave his attendants some slight hope, although their official bulletins never reflected a confidence in his recovery.

His active life, the exertions and vicissitudes of which kept him a national figure for a generation, had levied heavily on his reserve strength, and left him with less than the normal fighting power of a man of his age. He was 72 years September.

News Spreads. News of his condition today spread sadness throughout Washington. Immediately after Dr. Wagner's bulletin was received at the White House, the president and Mrs. Hoover cancelled the reception which was to have been held tonight for members of the House of Representatives.

"In view of the physicians' statement as to the critical condition of Crowd of 3,000 Start Riot in Los Angeles—Police Arrest 27 Leaders.

Los Angeles, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A riot in which three thousand alleged Communist sympathizers milling and shouting, attempted to storm the Los Angeles City Hall, but were turned back by 300 policemen liberally using tear gas bombs and night sticks, had its aftermath today in the detention of 27 asserted radical leaders.

The police also organized to prevent any possible recurrence of the trouble, which started in the city plaza at 6 p. m. yesterday and ended only after the crowd had been pushed back a second time by the officers.

Wild Scramble. Pandemonium broke loose when police, plain clothes men and reserves at first attempted in orderly fashion to disperse the crowd gathered to stage a demonstration which was to culminate with a march upon the City Hall. Screaming, scratching women and shouting men trampled bystanders under foot and shouldered officers aside in a wild scramble from the plaza into the streets.

USE HERALD EDITORIAL IN STATE FIGHT

Attorney Benedict M. Holden Says This Newspaper's Statement on Water Diversion Case is Convincing

Attorney Benedict M. Holden, of Hartford representing the state in its fight against diversion of the Swift and Ware river waters from the Connecticut by Massachusetts today told The Herald that he is presenting a Herald editorial in court as evidence of the feeling of the people of Connecticut with regard to the river fight. This editorial, Attorney Holden stated, was the clearest and most concise presentation of the facts in the case yet given to the public.

The Editorial. The article referred to by Mr. Holden appeared in The Herald of Monday, February 17 and was titled "Nor Justice Nor Sense." It follows: "Of the various arguments presented by advocates of Connecticut's side in the river water diversion controversy with Massachusetts—or more properly with the Metropolitan District of Boston—none seems to us to be so completely effective as one of those cited by Deputy Attorney-General Averill in an interview on the subject in Boston yesterday—to the effect that neither the Supreme Court nor any other tribunal has the power to grant resources to Boston to insure the growth of that city when the growth of another state is essential to the well being of a nation. We are convinced that exactly the opposite is true.

"The moral, economic and political strength of the United States would in all probability be greater than it is if not a single city within its boundaries had more than a million residents—provided that there was a compensating growth and development of the smaller communities. Of what earthly advantage the piling up of more population in the Boston area can possibly be to New England, we would like somebody to tell us. It would take a century of pretty diligent work to convert the majority of its present population into first class American citizenship, without adding still more to the clutter and the problem.

"Economically, the huge city, anywhere, is a mistake. Industries can be operated to much better advantage in the smaller places; many kinds of business can be conducted more efficiently and at less expense outside the centers of enormous congestion—Hartford's pre-eminence in the insurance business is a case in point. The social life of the smaller cities makes for far more rapid assimilation and far better citizenship than that of the swarming hive of the metropolitan areas.

"There is not only no justice in the notion that the rest of New England must be deprived and handicapped in order that Boston

NEW BRITAIN MAN WAS FIRE VICTIM

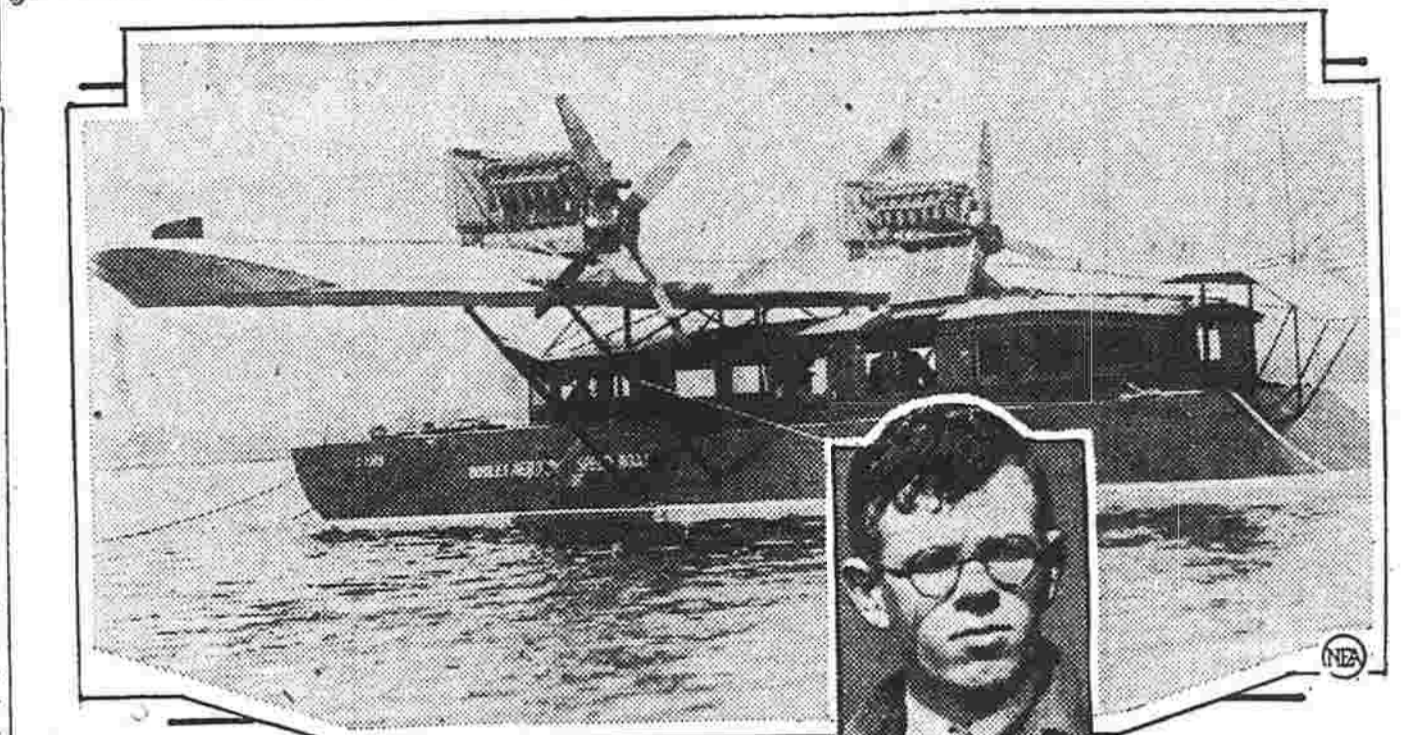

Police Arrest New Haven Woman—Believe Her House Was Set on Fire.

New Haven, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Mrs. Anna Torello, whose house in State street near the Hamden line was burned early yesterday after an explosion and in which fire Vincenzo Lupino of New Britain was burned to death was arrested today. The charge will be based on the report made by Fire Marshal Martin J. Fleming that the house was set afire. He also advanced opinion that Lupino and Pasquale Barbero, who is in New Britain hospital in critical state from burns, were in the house and were using gasoline, and that a sudden blast from the vapor enveloped them.

Body Identified. The police had decided after an all day inquiry that Barbero and a man with him had set fire to the

Inventor, 19, Plans to Skim Over Atlantic

Here is the strange-looking winged boat in which 19-year-old Paul Dudley, shown in inset, of Quincy, Mass., expects to go to sea. ENORMOUS COLLECTION OF MUMMIES DISCOVERED

Coffins Dating Back to 2,000 B. C. Are Found in Egypt; Over Thirty Found in One Tomb.

Philadelphia, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The University of Pennsylvania Museum announced today that it has received a telegram stating that one of the largest collections of coffins ever found in one tomb in Egypt has been unearthed by the university's expedition at Mejdum. The coffins, all of which contain mummies, range from 2,200 years to nearly 4,000 years in age, it was stated.

"Nearly thirty coffins and mummies found in the new tomb," the telegram from Alan Rowe, field director of the expedition, stated. "One coffin contains a mummy covered with head nets, work over a golden flying scarab and a gilded mask. Another coffin dates from the Twelfth Dynasty, about 2,000 B. C., and is covered with texts. Now opening other great tombs."

"The tomb," Rowe continued, "seems to be really a cache of coffins and mummies which had been collected together and stored there for some reason or other. From the bottom of a deep pit, eight chambers with lead netting work over them, broken and unbroken coffins. The cache has apparently never been robbed. This is the biggest find of coffins I have ever seen in Egypt and is of the greatest importance. It is of course yet too early to say what they contain."

Many rare amulets, pendants, great quantities of beads have been recovered, the report further stated. The tomb is guarded day and night until it is cleared out.

TRINITY STUDENT SCORES DRY LAWS

Says Drinking is Done by Wholesale at Both Large and Small Schools.

Hartford, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Wholesale drinking by college undergraduates, male and female, with Yale University and Trinity College as the focus of the larger and smaller institutions was the purport of a letter sent recently to Congressman George S. Graham, chairman of the House Judiciary committee, by Arthur B. O'Keefe, Jr., sophomore at Trinity and former Yale student. O'Keefe, whose letter advocated the repeal of the 18th Amendment has been invited to appear before the judiciary committee for a hearing and yesterday secured, he says, the permission of Dean Thurman L. Hood of the local college to go to Washington.

Father Opposed. The young man, however, will not accept the invitation of the congressman as his father, Arthur B. O'Keefe, a widely known lawyer of New Haven, politically prominent and at one time a candidate for Congress himself, has quite emphatically put his foot down and declared himself definitely opposed to his son's becoming entangled in the question.

"Of course," Arthur, Jr., stated "you hear a lot of talk about how dry the proms and other college dances are. This is true. The boys and girls are too cagey to do their drinking on the floor. They wait until the faculty has gone home and the party is over and then seek out a private rendezvous where their drinking can go on undisturbed."

DRYS AS BOOZE BOSSES IS DUPONT SUGGESTION

Mitchell is Against Drastic Search Laws

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Attorney General Mitchell today voiced approval of an effort to make more drastic the law allowing search of private dwellings in liquor cases. The National Prohibition Act now allows searching of dwellings only on proof that liquor is being sold in them.

The effect of the Howell bill would be to subject the dwellings of persons residing in the District of Columbia to more drastic searches than Congress has authorized in the United States, Alaska, and some insular possessions. I do not believe this discrimination would be justified.

"In my judgment," he wrote, "effort to improve the enforcement of the National Prohibition Act may better be expended, at least for the present, in other directions than in an attempt to make more drastic provisions for searching private dwellings. An attempt which would arouse controversy with doubtful results.

The attorney general also disapproved another provision in the Howell bill, allowing the government to retain seized liquor unless the claimant is able to show that he possessed it legally.

Delaware Industrialist Would First Repeal 18th Amendment and Then Have Anti-Saloon League in Each State Control the Liquor Traffic.

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Control of intoxicating beverages by state commissions composed of Anti-Saloon League members, ministers and "our best citizens" was advanced today by opponents of prohibition at their concluding hearing before the House judiciary committee as a means of eliminating the criminal from the liquor business.

The first step would be outright repeal of the Eighteenth amendment and this was themselves by all of those testifying. Once this was done, the witnesses said, the question of liquor control would be left entirely with the states and the old state enforcement statutes would become operative immediately.

First Witness. Pierre S. Dupont, the Delaware industrialist, and the chairman of the board of E. I. Dupont de Nemours and Co., was the first to take the witness chair. It was he who suggested the state control commissions, saying the solution of a liquor problem only could be brought about by the best people of the nation directing their attention to it.

He asserted many industrial leaders believed prohibition good for the working classes but did not apply that belief to themselves. By all so said it was his opinion that prohibition had not added to prosperity.

Law Is Opposed. After Dupont concluded, H. H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, took the stand. The Delaware manufacturer is a director of this association.

Curran said all know "this mistaken law is opposed, despised and cheerfully violated by an overwhelming majority of the American people."

CHOOSING NEW CABINET, SLOW ARDUOUS TASK

Tardieu Says He Will See President Again Tomorrow But Has Not Yet Completed His Work.

Paris, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Andre Tardieu, premier-designate, saw President Doumergue this forenoon and reported progress in his effort to form a new government replacing the two—his own and that of Camille Chautemps—which have fallen in the last ten days.

When he left the Elysee palace he said he was to call back there at 3 p. m. tomorrow. He was asked if he would have his ministry completed by then, and replied "certainly not."

He and other French politicians recognize that he has a slow arduous task before him to coordinate the many varying views of the heterogeneous Parliamentary groups in the manner necessary to secure a majority which will stand more than a vote or so.

To Pick Briand. Presence of Aristide Briand in the new Cabinet was accepted as assured in all quarters. He has become a sort of fixture in the foreign office portfolio, and his gifts for persuasive oratory and political maneuvering have led him to be considered as a valuable asset to any ministry.

M. Tardieu has consulted most of his old Cabinet in the last few hours. He also has conferred with leaders of the Radical Socialist group, the second largest in the Chamber, Edouard Herriot, former Chamber and mayor of Lyon acted as his chamber leader in the four days Camille Chautemps, their president served as premier.

Everything Arranged. Andre Maginot, minister of war in the last Tardieu Cabinet, when leaving the premier—designate when the gangster remarked, "everything will be arranged." Others affiliated with M. Tardieu echoed the sentiment.

The Radical Socialists officially maintain their attitude that they will not have M. Tardieu as premier or minister of interior, which office has a great power in swinging an election in France, but the party will meet again and many political commentators remark that their anger at the overthrow of M. Chautemps will subside presently and that they may change their minds.

Loses His Home. M. Tardieu at the moment is not only out of a job, but he is also homeless. He has been living at a fine apartment on the Avenue de Messine, but left it to reside at the ministry of interior. Recently artisans began renovation of the apartment. They would not be hurried so when M. Tardieu was overthrown he went to a hotel and since has been doing his Cabinet building from there. The place today looked

HERALD TO ANNOUNCE RESULTS OF FIGHTS

Expectations are that a large crowd of persons will come to The Herald office on Bissell street tonight to hear the returns of the Sharkey-Scott and Campolo-Risiko fights at Miami.

In addition to the broadcast of the round by round description of these two principal bouts through a megaphone as it comes over the Associated Press wires from the Loughran-Charles and Maloney-Bouquillard, the results of the Loughran-Charles and Maloney-Bouquillard undercard scraps will also be given. Those unable to attend the broadcast may learn the outcome of any of the fights by telephoning the Herald office, 5121.

SCOTCH JOKES TOLD IN COURT

But Mrs. Johnson Sees No Joke in Her Life—She Asks for a Divorce.

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The credulity of Judge Harry A. Lewis was taxed by the case of "Johnson vs. Johnson, divorce." Mrs. Helen Grace Johnson testified her husband, Arthur, was a Scotchman; that he refused her permission to use a vacuum cleaner because it was too severe on the rugs; that he bought all the food, very carefully; and that he forced her to wear magnifying glasses at the table so that food would look like more.

"Surely," interposed the court at this point, "there is a limit, you know, to credulity."

"I am under oath," said Mrs. Johnson, "and I swear it."

She said there was one alarm clock for the whole family. It is superfluous to state that no alimony was asked for or offered.

ONE SHOT SCARES PAYROLL ROBBERS

Policeman Arrives Just After They Have Lined Up Post Office Employees.

Bayonne, N. J., Feb. 27.—(AP)—One bullet put to flight a band of postoffice robbers who made an unsuccessful attempt before dawn today to get registered mail pouches which, rumor said, contained $500,000 to pay off employees of the Tide water and Standard Oil companies.

The gang, whose number included one wearing the uniform of a special policeman and carrying a night stick, leaped out of the darkness upon the loading platform in the rear of the postoffice. John Reid, truck driver, who had just brought the mail from a New Jersey Central railroad train arriving from New York at 3:55 a. m., and Victor Orloff, were ordered into the building and placed under guard.

Taken Unawares. Anthony Kiver, another clerk, found inside the building was forced to join the other prisoners. Both Reid and Orloff were armed, but taken unawares, they reported. "Where's the cop?" the robbers demanded.

"There's no cop around," the three replied. The gunmen thereupon turned to the pouches. Just then Patrolman John Stibler walked out of the darkened building onto the platform, unaware of what was going on. "What's this?" he shouted.

"Put 'em up" the robbers cried, firing three shots at him. Stibler retreated, drawing his gun and firing one shot. The bandits dropped the pouches and ran.

They were seen to escape in a red sedan, expensive and new. None however, obtained the license plates number, except to note that the figures were preceded by an "H" signifying issuance in Hudson county, New Jersey.

Patrolman Stibler was one of a two-man motorcycle escort furnished by the Bayonne police for the weekly trip of Reid to the railroad station. He had returned to the postoffice in the sidcar with Patrolman Daniel O'Connell, who left Stibler on guard at the platform and returned to headquarters. Stibler's place is in a wire cage on the loading platform. He had stepped into the building for a few moments before the bandits arrived.

SCOTT OUTWEIGHS SHARKEY 8 POUNDS

British Fighter Tips Scales at 205; Campolo Has 31 Pounds on Johnny Risko.

Miami, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Jack Sharkey, the first of the principals in tonight's heavyweight fight carnival to weigh in, scaled exactly 197 pounds at the offices of the Miami Boxing Commission shortly after noon. Scott tipped the beam at 205, eight pounds more than Sharkey. The Briton had nothing to say. He wore a heavy growth of beard.

Sharkey ruling a strong favorite at odds of 5 to 1 to whip his British foe, Phil Scott in the 15 round feature bout tonight, appeared in perfect trim as he arrived promptly for the weighing in ceremonies in the City Hall.

Buckley Is Chided. There was some debate between Sharkey and the photographers with the fighter scoring a decision as to how he would pose for them. When the boxer's manager Johnny Buckley accused one of the camera men of being nervous, Sharkey turned quickly and said to Buckley: "You are the only nervous one in this party."

The official examination verified Sharkey's remarkable condition. There was not the least indication

GRIMES COUPLE STILL CRITICAL

Transfusion Aids Wife Victim of Husband's Attack of Yesterday.

A blood transfusion early yesterday afternoon sustained life throughout the night and today in Mrs. Joseph Grimes, age 68, whose throat and windpipe were slashed by her husband, evidently in dependency of mental derangement, at the Waranoke Hotel yesterday morning. Faint hope is held for her recovery. She spent a nervous and restless night and her general condition is unchanged.

Police On Guard Mrs. Grimes is in a private ward, following an operation yesterday, while Grimes lies on the main floor in the men's ward. Officer Lucius Thrall, detailed by Chief Samuel Gordon, sat alongside the bed until midnight and was relieved by Officer Harold Heffron, who in turn was relieved by Officer Jack Cavagnaro this morning. Grimes was well propped up by pillows and demanded much attention. He repeatedly asked that the curtains be shifted as though the lights from the street and in the ward affected him.

No warrant has been issued for Grimes' arrest but it is the usual custom of the police to establish a guard over the person police believe responsible for assault like that of yesterday with possibility of the victim's death.

It is said that Grimes expressed the desire that he might live and then later prayed that his wife might be spared and that he might die in her stead.

May Issue Warrant Should Mrs. Grimes die the police will ask that warrant be issued charging her husband with murder in the first degree. With the evidence already secured sufficient to bind Grimes over to the March term of the Superior Court should the attempt to improve his condition be lost in presenting his case, once in the hands of the state's attorney, an attempt to have Grimes committed to some state hospital for the criminal insane will be made.

The attempted murder and suicide is believed to have been caused because Mrs. Grimes would not live with her husband. Intimates of the family claim Mrs. Grimes left her husband six years ago, because "his incessant talking was unbearable." Misunderstanding this Grimes thought there was a serious underlying cause and threatened to take his own life remarking that some day he would "be vindicated."

Belief is expressed by the police that Grimes used both the knife and the razor in the slashing, the knife on himself and the razor on his wife. Searched at the hospital, another knife, a small penknife, was found in Grimes' pocket and have been used by him in his mounting of butterfiles and moths.

EX-PERSIAN SHAH DIES IN HOSPITAL

Paris, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Ahmed, deposed Shah of Persia, died today in the American hospital after a year's illness.

The former Shah of Persia, whose death today came at the early age of thirty-two, was reputed to be one of the richest men of the world.

After he was deposed in 1925 he spent most of his time in Paris. He occupied two of the best rooms at the American hospital and had four nurses and two Persian servants. He had been sinking slowly to death for some time and the end had been expected by his physicians.

BASEBALL PRACTICE

Middletown, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A call for baseball team candidates has been issued by the new coach in that sport at Wesleyan, Carleton L. Wiggin, and all will be expected to come out Monday. Battery candidates have been working under the coach with Capt. E. L. Coons, assisting.

The playing season will open with a fair number of men from last year—Capt. Coons and Ney, pitchers; Fallon, Hibbard and Webster catchers; Warner, for third base and Carey in the outfield.

MAY COLLECT TAX

Bridgport, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Robert M. Wilcox, tax collector of the borough of Greenwich, can collect a special tax of seven mills from the Davis Helling Corporation of Greenwich, Judge Edward M. Yeomans ruled in Superior Court today. The decision of the judge dismisses a request for injunction made by the company.

It was claimed that the town meeting in which the tax was levied was not legally called, and Judge Yeomans finds that it was not necessary to call a special meeting as the levy was made against repairs of the Davis Helling Corporation and not new ventures in building.

WHITE MAN WEDS NEGRO

Hartford, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Isabel Myers, 22, negro, of 21 Kennedy street, was married last night at her home to Mickey F. Scirica, 22, truck driver, white, of 160 Lawrence street, by the Rev. Dawson Perry of 43 Bellevue street. The couple were annoyed at publicity which has been given to the wedding and refused to comment on it.

SUED FOR $100,000

Bridgport, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Attorney Daniel Keogh, of Norwalk, is named defendant in a $100,000 damage suit brought to Superior Court today by George J. H. Graves, of Stamford, a salesman, and Judge On March 20, 1929, on the Post Road near Darien, Graves was struck by a car operated by Keogh at an alleged speed of 60 miles an hour and Graves sustained severe injuries.

URGES UNDERGROUND WIRES

Bridgport, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Demand is made upon the Public Utilities Commission of the state to adopt a rule whereby all high voltage lines will be carried underground and not overhead to the danger of pedestrians and traffic.

The demand is made by Deputy Coroner Henry C. Stevenson in a finding of accidental deaths in the cases of Carl and Wendell Will, 13 and 8 years of age, respectively, of Danbury, who were electrocuted in Danbury last Sunday. The boys were shocked to death when they adopted a kite string in contact with feed wires of the Danbury and Bethel Gas and Electric Light Company. The wires carry 2,500 volts.

LET DRY ENFORCE LAW IS DUPONT'S SUGGESTION said the only solution of the liquor problem lay in the best people of the nation directing their attention to it.

He said it was questionable whether the Volstead Act could be "honestly amended to satisfy the American people," and asserted "by all means we should do nothing that requires a dishonest purpose."

He argued that state commissions, somewhat on the order of state railroad commissions, might prove a means of placing liquor under satisfactory control.

In this way, he continued, states could control liquor to meet their respective needs.

Dupont was the first witness at the concluding session of the six days hearings allotted to opponents of prohibition. The friends of the dry law still have to be heard.

BODIES OF FLIERS SOON TO REACH U. S.

Eielson and Borland Remains Placed in Plane—Wait on Weather for Journey.

Motorship Nanuk, North Cape, Siberia, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, American aviators killed in the crash of their plane last November 9 while on a flight from Teller, Alaska, to this icebound ship, today were formally in the keeping of their countrymen and ready for removal by air to Alaska after a ceremony in which both Russian and Americans participated here.

Russians at Ceremony. As American and Russian flags flew at half mast, the two bodies taken from the small hut where they had reposed since being brought to North Cape, were placed on two sleds and covered with American flags. The sleds were drawn slowly over the ice toward the Nanuk.

The 10 Americans from the Nanuk formed a line and the procession approached the funeral plane, opposite them were the Russians of North Cape, including Governor Ponomarev of Chukotsk peninsula, who had come here especially for the ceremony, and those aboard the Soviet ship Stavropol, also locked in the ice here. Together with a number of wandering trappers and natives, they formed a line parallel to the Americans.

Turn Over Bodies. When the sleds had entered between the lines, Commander Slipenow relinquished the bodies to the American aviators. Pilot Ed Young received them on behalf of the Americans and expressed gratitude and appreciation to the Russians for the co-operation which they had given.

as if a political convention was in progress.

As the day went on, reports were current in political circles that M. Tardieu was facing considerable difficulty, since the large moderate group of Radical-Socialists were still against him. Without them it did not appear likely he would be able to form a solid ministry.

In some quarters it was thought he might find the task impossible and the crisis might end in the dissolution of the chamber. For this reason, heavy pressure was being put on the Radical-Socialists to join a "broad union" Cabinet rather than face elections which might result unfavorably to them.

may harbor some more hundreds of thousands of persons—there is no sense in it."

In his conversation with The Herald's attorney Holden said that the people of Massachusetts and more especially Boston, which would benefit by the diversion are beginning to realize that Connecticut people are really incensed over the plan of the Metropolitan district of Boston to take water from the Connecticut river. Mr. Holden attributes this to the fight that Deputy Attorney General Ernest Averill is making.

Attorney General Benjamin Ailing is unable to present Connecticut's side of the fight because of illness and according to Attorney Holden his assistant Mr. Averill is doing his state a great service.

Hartford Hearings. Hearings on the Connecticut evidence will be held in Hartford starting next Monday according to a decision of Special Master Bunn who is hearing the case on authority of the Supreme Court of the United States.

TODAY'S HEARING

Boston, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Much of the testimony offered at today's session of the Connecticut water division case before a special master likely that of yesterday, was devoted entirely to offering by Connecticut of tabulations as to flowage in the Connecticut River and the relative sediment and bacterial character of the water. Counsel for Connecticut has been offering evidence based on surveys by experts, much of it highly technical, with masses of figures. One of yesterday's witnesses was Prof. C. E. A. Winslow of Yale University, expert on hygiene and his evidence and cross examination had to do almost entirely with the bacteria count in the Connecticut river water, with comparisons made with water out of various other large streams.

Nathan B. Jacobs of Pittsburgh, an expert for the Connecticut side resumed the stand this morning and continued his explanation of studies he had made of the Connecticut river and the volume of its waters at various times.

To Present Experts The hearing will be transferred to Hartford next Monday, although the master, Charles W. Bunn, thought it would have been better to have continued it in Boston until Deputy General Averill said that Connecticut felt it should be held in Hartford that experts in that state might attend at less inconvenience.

POLICE DO QUICK WORK TO AID ROCKVILLE COP

Locate Man Sought for Non-Support Within 15 Minutes Of Neighbor's Appeal.

The Manchester police completed a fast piece of work early this afternoon and topped off the fine piece of work with extra service. Richard Shea of the Rockville police force appeared at the local police station at 1:30 this afternoon bearing a warrant for Feanley Downovitz, a "bush" worker, on the charge of non-support. He appeared at the station asking if any news of the man's appearance in town had been reported and if the Manchester police would aid in the search.

Officer Rudolph Wirtalla was just leaving the station for his north end beat and he took the warrant along, mentally cataloguing the description of the wanted man. Exactly 15 minutes later he was back at the station with his man and the clean up the job properly he took the Rockville officer and his prisoner to the north end to catch the 1:55 car for the latter town.

Open Debate on Duty on Lumber; Jones Talks About "A Russ Menace."

Washington, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Faced by a long grind of night sessions, the Senate today opened debate on an amendment to the tariff bill by Senator Jones, Republican, Washington, to place a duty of three dollars a thousand board feet on lumber, now on the free list.

Chairman Smoot of the finance committee expects to hold the Senate in session until 10 o'clock each night until the bill is passed.

Senator Jones said there had been a 20 per cent reduction in employment making plans for a tremendous expansion of the lumber industry in the next five years.

Senator Barkley, Democrat, Kentucky, asked if a tariff would not increase prices and hinder construction. Senator Jones answered in the negative.

He replied prosperity of the state of Washington, said Jones, "depends largely upon the prosperity of the lumber industry. The lumber industry in Washington is greatly depressed as it has been largely throughout the country."

Jones said the United States should prepare for what he termed the "Russian menace."

"The Russian government," he said, "is making a picture of tremendous expansion of the lumber industry in the next five years. They are taking away our world markets now."

Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, said he would "like to get a picture of this 'Russian menace' in facts and figures."

"While the amount of importation from Russia is small, the figures show a rapid increase," Jones replied.

Senator Steiwer, Republican, Oregon, said Russian imports were merely an earnest of what they might be.

Declaring he had seen no evidence of increased consumption as a result of lumber being on the free list, Senator Jones said that "a tariff will encourage re-forestation, and without a tariff there will be no reforestation."

the former president of the United States, Mr. Taft," said the White House statement, "the President and Mrs. Hoover have regretfully cancelled the reception to be given to members of the House of Representatives."

It was disclosed that Mr. Taft had suffered a severe sinking spell about 9 o'clock today. Both Dr. Hagner and Dr. Thomas A. Clayton were summoned.

By 11 o'clock some improvement had been noted, but the physicians did not regard it as indicative.

His condition showed signs of a final weakening in many ways. Heart trouble and hardening of the arteries had combined with the bladder trouble which first caused him serious difficulty a month ago. His pulse was very low, and respiration uncertain. He had some fever, but it was not excessive.

Scientists have declared that the maximum population the world can support is 6,000,000,000, and that this limit may be reached in two centuries.

JURISTS STUDYING LEAGUE CHANGES

Geneva, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Through conflicting opinions today in the committee of jurists studying amendments to the League of Nations Covenant, Lord Cecil of Great Britain suggested that some members of the committee did not want it to succeed in harmonizing the covenant with the Kellogg pact.

"If that is the case," said Lord Cecil, "it would be natural for them to make all sorts of proposals and we would never get anywhere."

The remark followed repeated arguments that Lord Cecil, the French and Spanish members have had with Vittorio Scialoja, the Italian member, who is chairman. Scialoja today continued his efforts to provide that disputants—war having been renounced—should be allowed to employ "all possible means" for pacific settlement in addition to arbitration, judicial settlement and examination by the League Council.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York.—Alfred O. Corbin, banker, who has played the violin since his boyhood in Holland, has acquired a Stradivarius made in 1717. His collection of instruments is valued at more than $50,000.

Cape Town.—Evidently the sun will shine constantly on women of the British empire at the polls. The sex is to be given the franchise in parliamentary elections in the Union of South Africa.

Paris.—Jean Julien Lemorand, painter blinded in the war, has become a successful architect. Specializing in the designing of homes he dictates the technical details to a draughtsman.

NEW COLLEGE PLAN

Chicago, Feb. 27.—(AP)—An expansion program, revolutionary in some aspects, was presented by President Robert Maynard Hutchins of the University of Chicago to an alumni group last night.

Elimination of freshmen and sophomores as such, and the establishment of a separate collegiate division for them are included in the plan. The purpose of the new system, Dr. Hutchins said, would be to graduate students on the basis of "mental capacity."

Reorganization of the university into three divisions instead of the present two—graduate and undergraduate—is contemplated by the young president. The three divisions would be: Collegiate, where students would begin their work; university division, for formal education; and the graduate school, to remain much as it is now.

HIT BY FARM BOARD

Wichita, Kas., Feb. 27.—(AP)—W. H. Smith, president of the Wichita Board of Trade, has appealed to President Hoover for "immediate steps" to revoke the order of the Farmers National Grain Corporation limiting wheat purchases to grain handled by co-operative elevators.

Smith, in a telegram to the President, said the Stevens-Scott Grain company of which he is president, was put "in the position of being eliminated from the grain business" by refusal of the Federal Farm Board agency to buy wheat from other than co-operatives. The company has ten independent elevators in Kansas and Oklahoma.

REDS TO QUIT MEXICO.

Mexico City, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Because its activities have been restricted by the government, the Red Aid Society affiliated with the Red Internationals, will abandon Mexico, according to a statement issued by the secretary of the local chapter.

collegiate division would be determined, not by the hours of credit gained, but by his "reaction to the university's opportunities and his own qualifications for advanced work."

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

LONGFELLOW'S BIRTH. On February 27, 1807, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, American poet, was born at Portland, Me. Graduating from Bowdoin College at 18, in the same class with Nathaniel Hawthorne, Longfellow was at once appointed professor of modern languages at his alma mater. He resigned in 1835 to study and travel in Europe. On his return he accepted a similar post at Harvard.

Longfellow's poetic gifts, which were apparent in his teens, made him at 34 perhaps the most widely read poet in America. Poems which helped establish him were: Evangeline, Psalm of Life, Excelsior, The Wreck of the Hesperus, Paul Revere's Ride and The Village Blacksmith.

His fame as a poet rests on two points. First, he gave expression to the commonplace emotions of American civilization with charming simplicity; second, he did much to spread European culture in this country.

SAILORS RESCUED

Elizabeth City, N. C., Feb. 27.—Seven men of the fishing smack America, of Gloucester, were taken off in the breeches buoy by men of the Coast Guard station early today.

The America was driven ashore last night while making for shelter within the Virginia capes. If the sea subsides soon, it is believed the vessel can be hauled off intact.

"And O'er His Heart A SHADOW FELL," (Edgar Allan Poe, 1809-1849)

"Coming events cast their shadows before"

AVOID THAT FUTURE SHADOW* By refraining from over-indulgence

Men who would keep that trim, proper form, women who prize the modern figure with its subtle, seductive curves—eat healthfully but not immoderately. Banish excessiveness—eliminate abuses. Be moderate—be moderate in all things, even in smoking. When tempted to excess, when your eyes are bigger than your stomach, reach for a Lucky instead. Coming events cast their shadows before. Avoid that future shadow by avoiding over-indulgence if you would maintain that lithe, youthful figure.

Don't jeopardize the modern form by drastic diets, harmful reducing girdles, fake reducing tablets or other quack "anti-fat" remedies condemned by the Medical profession! Millions of dollars each year are wasted on these ridiculous and dangerous nostrums. Be Sensible! Be Moderate! We do not represent that smoking Lucky Strike Cigarettes will bring modern figures or cause the reduction of flesh. We do declare that when tempted to do yourself too well, if you will "Reach for a Lucky" instead, you will thus avoid over-indulgence in things that cause excess weight and, by avoiding over-indulgence, maintain a modern, graceful form. Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Testing the Oil Filter
Some of the cars equipped with oil filters provide a special plug which, when removed, shows whether or not the filter is functioning properly. The test is simple and never, that many owners fail to derive any benefit from it simply because they do not make inspection at the right time.

The flowing of oil from the opened outlet demonstrates that all is well with the filter, but it is important that the engine be running at the time of the test. Another point to consider is the condition of the oil itself. If it is cold and congealed there may be no exit of oil at the inspection plug.

Unless the owner takes these points into consideration it is a simple matter for him to decide that the filter cartridge needs replacing and that the oil is no longer going through the filter.

Helps Find Leaks
In locating radiator leaks rust serves as a handy guide. At the bottom of the shell there should be rust spots directly beneath any points of leakage.

The rust helps one in deciding whether the leakage originates in the pump or in the radiator, a point that might not be so easy to determine where the pump is at the front of the engine block. If the pump leaks there will be rust spots around any metallic parts beneath it.

Radiator leakage can be so variable as to make it difficult to detect the trouble when the machine is in the shop. The car can be run a gallon of water during a trip or overnight in its own garage, yet never drip a drop while awaiting attention in the service station. The rust spots naturally help here, for they reveal the path over which the water has been passing.

Leaving the Switch "On"
When it comes to caring for cars good luck often turns out to be the worst kind of bad luck, as the following story will illustrate.

Through haste in garaging the car one evening a certain owner left the ignition switch in the "on" position. Returning to the car in the morning he was surprised to find that apparently no harm had been done to the car. Speaking about it to friends he was informed that this should have run down his battery. But nothing so unfortunate happened.

The incident encouraged him in the idea that it was nonsense to think that leaving the switch on would have any serious effects. Not so long after he tried the trick again and found that his good luck on the previous occasion had trapped him into a run down battery.

This time it happened that the breaker points were closed when the switch was on. This closed the low tension circuit and ran down the battery.

High Spots in Adjustments
In adjusting internal expanding brakes of a type that is found on a number of popular cars moderation is the best rule any owner can follow. If he goes to a point where the shoe must do a lot in order to obtain results he will wind up by making matters worse than they were before.

This is due to the fact that the adjustment nut works on an eccentric and has the peculiar faculty of having two points at which minimum clearance can be had. Thus if the brakes are dragging a bit and the owner goes at the work immediately he is apt to go to the extreme of the adjustment and make the shoes fit even closer than before he tampered with them.

The skillful mechanic recognizes what is known as the high spot in an adjustment. It is especially pronounced in adjusting steering gears and is now being nearly equalled in brake adjustments.

Test Pistons Before Using
A new part for the engine isn't of much value unless there is every assurance that it is as good as when it was made. Many seemingly undamaged parts are knocked out of true in being handled.

New pistons never should be installed in an engine unless they have been "miked" for roundness. It is easy to appreciate how a piston can get out of round when the remedy for a damaged one is explained as merely "light" tapping with a rawhide mallet.

If a light tapping is sufficient to bring the piston back to true as to diameter it is evident that not very much mishandling is required to damage it. Just because the part may come sealed in a package is no reason to assume that it is perfect and ready for installing in the engine. The package itself may have been dropped, or perhaps placed under heavier articles.

Clutch Is a Sensitive
There is not, as many drivers believe, a single position of the clutch pedal at which the clutch is disengaged. If this were so drivers would shift gears successfully on almost every trial.

The great variation in gear shifting success can be traced to the fact that drivers do not know that the clutch pedal position for disengagement should be varied according to conditions. When the pedal is pressed out just a little, and if the plates do not drag, the clutch brake does not come into play. This may be the right position to use for shifting if the grease in the transmission is cold and congealed, the grease itself acting as a brake to slow down the clutch gear.

Pressing the pedal out fully brings the clutch brake into maximum play. Sometimes the brake is released without pressing the clutch pedal all the way out, and it always makes a difference what speed the car is going.

Menu Contest Features At The Health Market

Hale's Health Market is this week inviting all women of the town and surrounding places to enter an unusual contest with a fine prize for the winner. A Wearable cooker will be presented to the woman submitting the best balanced dinner menu. Good Housekeeping Institute will be the judge of the menus submitted. Blanks for entering the contest may be secured at the Health Market.

This contest will continue until one week from Saturday. There should be great interest in this type of contest because balanced menus and their effect upon health have been the subject of many an afternoon tea in recent years. Many women have made a study of balanced diets and meals and will be well qualified to select a winner.

That the price of gasoline lowered one cent again yesterday now selling at 17 1-2 cents at most stations. That pussy willows are making their appearance beside the babbling brooks of Manchester and there should be plenty of the pussy willow.

That Manchester housewives take advantage of every opportunity to advance themselves in the culinary art which increases a husband's estimation of his spouse's ability to serve him three square meals a day. Proof: the tremendous crowds at the Herald Cooking School.

MOOSE CHARITY BALL TOMORROW NIGHT

Held in Masonic Temple to Raise Local Quota for Mooseheart Boys Home.

The Charity Ball given by Manchester Lodge, No. 1477, Loyal Order of Moose at the Masonic Temple tomorrow night at 8 o'clock is being held in order to raise the lodge quota for the gigantic building project planned at Mooseheart, Illinois. The committee in charge, has everything in readiness to make the affair one of the finest informal gatherings of the season.

Approximately three-quarters of a million dollars are being raised by the Moose throughout the world for the boys' village, which will be constructed within the child city at Mooseheart, Illinois, and will provide thirty cottages as homes for the younger boys. Seven of the cottages have been assured and already the first unit has been begun.

Mooseheart is a city complete in itself—for the rearing of upward of 2,000 Moose orphans. There is nothing about the child-city to give the air of an institution. Such atmosphere has been eliminated. The children are even allowed to select their own clothes at the Mooseheart store in order that no two of them may be dressed alike. The success that the child-city is attaining as an educator of heart, mind and hand and a producer of sterling men and women fully equipped to meet life, is being watched with approval and amazement by educators and social workers the country over. With the growth of the Moose as a fraternity, the child-city also is expanding and a vast building program is under way to meet the needs of this growth. Aside from the boys' village project, a new school system is being planned that will involve $300,000. The more than 700,000 members of the fraternity throughout the world have enthusiastically agreed to support these two vast movements and are at work to raise the necessary funds.

LAST WELLES LECTURE HERE NEXT SUNDAY

Professor G. R. Welles of the Hartford Theological Seminary will give the final of his series of ten lectures on the religious psychology next Sunday morning at the Center Congregational church.

Contrary to apparent general impression the weekly Sabbath meetings of the Men's League are open to all church members, but others as well. In fact outsiders are cordially invited to attend. Professor Welles talks have aroused a marked interest and a large audience is expected to hear his concluding talk.

Roy E. Buckler will be in charge of the meetings for the next three weeks owing to the absence of John L. Reinartz, who leaves Saturday noon for New York City where he will remain 15 days in connection with naval matters.

CHURCH ENTERTAINS WITH SUPPER, MOVIES

Members of the motion picture committee who gave the supper and entertainment at the Second Congregational church last evening, were warmly congratulated on the success of their undertaking. A delicious meal consisting of grapefruit, chicken en casserole, mashed potatoes, baked sweet potatoes, cabbage and beet salad, celery, cranberry sauce, rolls, coffee and dessert of sponge cake and pineapple with whipped cream, was prepared and served under the direction of Mrs. George F. Borst, of the committee. The waiters were all young men. The tables looked springlike and attractive with tulips, daffodils, roses and lighted tapers in floral holders. The decorations were in charge of Mrs. A. B. Homewood.

Radio music was provided during the meal, and promptly at 7 the diners were amused to hear the familiar strains which always precede the famous blackface entertainers, Amos and Andy, and to hear the pair just as if they were listening in at their homes. The generous meal was full value for the money, but for good measure the motion picture committee arranged for a showing in the auditorium of "Stand and Deliver," a stirring aviation picture featuring Rod La Rocque. Organist Wilbur played appropriate music during the showing.

HIT-AND-RUN

The Meriden Journal on Tuesday made a very earnest demand that the police strain every effort to find a hit-and-run driver who killed a boy on the Meriden-Middletown road Saturday night.

The boy was walking on the shoulder and facing traffic. The hit-and-runner crossed to the wrong side of the road, struck the boy, momentarily halted and then, despite the cries of a witness, fled at top speed.

Nobody, at this writing, has been arrested.

Now there are some cases of this kind where it is substantially impossible for the guilty person to be found. But in the present instance there was a clue—it was learned that at the corresponding time an automobile with a badly damaged headlight was seen heading toward Middletown.

A sufficient amount of police activity would make it extremely difficult for the driver of that car to escape identification. He might not be the hit-and-runner, but the chances that he was were sufficient to warrant any amount of effort on the part of the authorities to find him.

But that would probably involve the application of many officers in various towns and cities to the job. It would be a big task. Too big a task to get itself done, in a majority of cases—one that would cost too much and interfere too much with regular routine.

The truth of the matter is that the state, the municipality, society as a whole, is no longer capable of the deep indignation which alone can supply the driving force necessary for the pursuit of such criminals when the pursuit is difficult. If we can catch a hit-and-runner without too much trouble we are glad to do it. If he can only be caught by creating a disturbance or spending a great deal of money we shrug our shoulders and content ourselves with a few hard words about him.

Besides, if he were caught, what chance is there that he would get any adequate punishment?

ATTERBURY

While the quality of the protests against prohibition appearing before the House Judiciary Committee hearings at Washington must be something of a surprise to the drowsy, none other of these witnesses seems to us to bring to the wet case quite such a degree of significance as W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania railroad. This is not so much perhaps because Mr. Atterbury is at the head of an immense corporation employing many thousands of men upon whose sobriety depends the safety of the traveling public as because Atterbury is Republican National Committee man from the state of Pennsylvania and a figure of great importance in the councils of the Republican party.

The effect of Mr. Atterbury's appearance as an open and determined advocate of the repeal of the Eighteenth amendment marks an epoch in the history of prohibition. It commits his great Republican state, with its regular and magnificent contribution of majorities to Republican victories in Presidential and Congressional elections, to the policy of throwing off the influence over the party which the drowsy, shepherly by default, have been permitted to exercise nationally for years.

The utmost significance attaches to the Atterbury appearance for two distinct reasons. As a politician he represents the majority party in the strongest citadel of the Republican party in the country; but first and foremost he stands at the very top of the ladder in the railroad world and is consciously responsible for the security of more passengers and more property than are carried by any other railroad in America. When a man of this quality, after ten years of experimentation with prohibition, goes before the country and condemns the experiment as a failure and demands that it be abandoned it is clear that we have arrived at a point where mere chatter is ended and definite action is not only possible but at hand.

DISBARMENT

The disbarment of a lawyer is a subject with which the bar and the courts are presumed to be exclusively concerned. Nevertheless the case of Attorney Edward W. Broder, now under reservation by the Hartford County Superior Court, has its points of interest to the public.

Mr. Broder's fitness to practice law is attacked because he was found guilty of an offense against sexual morality. His integrity as a lawyer is otherwise not in question.

Whether the contention of State's Attorney Alcorn that a man who will steal another man's wife is unfit to practice law be supported by the court, or whether the court will sustain the contention of the defense that such an offense has nothing to do with the attorney's professional fitness, is a matter which the public will be willing to leave to the profession itself. What it will concern itself with is the relative merits of a fast-living lawyer who is honest with his clients and ethical in his professional conduct and of a lawyer who observes the so-called moral code but sticks at no pettifogging trick, labors under no ethical inhibitions so long as he keeps within the pale of the law's letter and who oppresses his client with heavy charges.

The public, when such a topic comes up, will wonder why, if disbarment proceedings are to be brought, they are not brought against the shysters who serve thievish bankrupts, who sell their services to racketeers and teach them how to dodge the penalties of the law, who disgrace a fine intellectual profession not by personal loafing but by prostituting the profession itself to the most sordid and contemptible ends.

We doubt very much whether Mr. Alcorn would care to state his belief that there are none such in the state of Connecticut or even in Hartford County.

UNCLEAN HANDS

Offhand, we should say that the town of Bellows Falls, Vt., is not very likely ever to have the spending of the several million dollars it is trying to get, in lieu of unpaid taxes, out of the estate of the late Hetty Green.

If Mrs. Green lived in Bellows Falls under an agreement with the selectmen that she should be taxed only on a certain insignificant proportion of her actual wealth, the illegality of the agreement is obvious enough. But it is a cardinal principle of the common law that a plaintiff must come into court with clean hands, and it is extremely doubtful if the hands of the town of Bellows Falls are clean in this case. The selectmen of a Vermont town, just as much as those of a Connecticut town, are the competent representatives and agents of the town. Therefore it was the town of Bellows Falls that entered upon this arrangement with Mrs. Green. The town conspired with her, contrary to law. And it is very doubtful indeed if it can now maintain, against the estate of its fellow conspirator, a suit handed in to the court with hands of a very sooty hue.

THE LONG BOW

Some of the freak crime stories that come from Chicago are hard to believe. We are told that while a wounded gangster was lying in bed in a hospital with his leg in a cast, three enemy racketeer gunmen climbed into the room through a window, one of them at least being armed with a shotgun, and that all three opened fire on the patient on the cot. We are told that the sick man pulled a gun from under his pillow and returned the fire with such effect that, though hit by three bullets, he drove his assailants off; that they fled through the corridors, brandishing weapons and causing a near-panic. And then we are told that this bedridden gangster had somehow or other been able to keep a gun under his pillow for days—without his nurses knowing anything about it.

Anybody who wants to believe that last can do so. Also anybody who wants to can believe that anybody, not blind or stiff drunk, could shoot at a man from across a hospital room, with a shot gun and not kill him.

That was a lovely story—but we don't believe most of it.

READY FOR BYRD

Somewhere down on the southernly edge of the Antarctic ocean the Byrd ship City of New York is making herself free from the last of the ice pack and squaring away for New Zealand. In a few weeks, either in their own ships, the New York and the Eleanor Bolling, or possibly in some faster craft to which they may transfer, the members of the Byrd expedition will come into New York harbor amid tooting of whistles and shrieking of sirens—and once more Broadway will have opportunity to get rid of its surplus telephone directories and ticker tape.

It is quite a while, now, since there was a typical Broadway welcome to anybody. For a time they came so often that the supply of telephone books ran low and the stunt seemed to pall a bit. But Byrd and his polar companions bid fair to arrive at a time when, with its appetite for ovals renewed by long abstinence, the little old canyon will feel just like tearing loose.

SANTO DOMINGO

Santo Domingo or the Dominican Republic, just now attracting attention through an almost bloodless revolution, occupies about two-thirds of the island of Haiti. Since the Spaniards withdrew from its control more than a century ago it has been a republic and it has had a good many political disturbances. They have been, however, markedly less bloody than the constant outbreaks in the neighbor Republic of Haiti. The population, hardly more than half a million of people, is largely mulatto, with a sprinkling of full blooded Negroes and a considerable number of whites, mostly of Spanish descent. Spanish is the prevailing language. The natives are lazy, sun-loving folks who are much inclined to drift through life and political affairs are mostly in the hands of the whites, though they are in a small minority.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Feb. 27.—In so far as years and time are concerned, many might refer to her as a "nice old lady."

But the Broadway belt holds no more chipper nor downish personality than the white-haired, silver-haired May Irwin, that grand old trouping comic who got many a laugh from our daddies and granddaddies.

She comes bustling in like some kindly grandmother, but the matted beard she clutches under her arm and the rapid patter of her talk lift the years quickly from her shoulders.

"Well," she winds up, "I've just got to be getting along now. Have to be at the prize fights tonight. I just couldn't miss a good fight."

I encountered her the other day at a reception they gave for Louise Dresser, who "came home to Broadway" after 11 years. One of the very popular light comedienne of a dozen years ago, Louise Dresser announced that she was "retiring" and went out to California to settle down in one of those Beverly Hills mansions just outside of Hollywood.

But it wasn't long before she was giving one of the finest character impersonations of the silent drama days. It was "The Goose Woman" in the picture of that name. Soon, so she tells me, she'll have her first talking picture part in "Three Sisters."

The reception was the occasion for a turning out of a score of the theatrical old timers, who rarely are to be found wandering about at so-called "teas."

There was Nellie Revell, who was first of women circus press agents in America, and who has followed the show world affairs for half a century of generations. There was Jack Hazzard, the perennial comic, and over on a couch—just as though she was about to pick up her knitting—there was Mrs. Ring, mother of Blanche Ring and Mrs. Thomas Meighan, like someone lifted out of a charming cameo into modern life.

Speaking of things pertinent to the stage and screen, several recent events have caused a few of us old die-hards to change our tune concerning the talking pictures. Our own particular medals of honor go to John Ford, for his direction of "Men Without Women"—a truly gripping and exceptional picture; to Eeryl Mercer, for her portrayal of the old lady in a most touching and human film, "Seven Days Leave," with kind words for Gary Cooper as the lad of this adaptation of Barrie's play; "The Old Lady Shows Her Medals" to the direction and staging of the best of the musical films to date, "The Vagabond King"—and finally to a forthcoming film I managed to see in preview, "The Case of Sergeant Grisham," from the best-selling war novel.

This last has classic elements, and if there is a better picture during the coming year then indeed will the talkies menace the legitimate theater.

The latest and most expensive vogue to be noted hereabouts has been introduced by the ultra-titanic-haired Hope Hampton, late of the pictures and the opera. I observed her at a recent opening in a coat, the ermine collar of which had been dyed to match her hair.

FAREWELL OLD CAR?
(Waterbury Republican)

Under the banner of a "Highway Safety Plan" the automobile manufacturers of this country will spend $15,000,000 this year to bolster up the automobile business. The primary purpose on the part of the manufacturers, is, if one is to judge from the title of the campaign, a disinterested, altruistic, noble dispensation of a fortune to compensate for the highways of this country as many old cars as that sum will buy at junk, which is to say, trade-in, prices. The secondary purpose of

TECHNIQUE OF MASSAGE

Local massage of the skin causes it to be nourished by that most marvellous of all skin foods, the blood, since during manipulation the blood is caused to flow more freely to the skin's needs. Massage also aids the lymphatic circulation through the body and in this way helps to eliminate the wastes.

Through massage the nutrition of the muscles is increased, the nerves nourished or stimulated, internal congestion can be relieved, adhesions removed. Swellings and thickened tissues may be restored to normal. Massage also assists in removing fatigue poisons and usually leaves the patient feeling rested and refreshed. A heavy massage stirs up the stagnant material just as one may stir up dirt in a stream, causing it to be lifted by the water washed on.

After massage, the number of red corpuscles is increased in the blood. The actual number may not have been increased, but those corpuscles which were lying down on the job in some out of the way place are thrown back in the circulatory stream.

Massage has been termed passive exercise, as it helps to mobilize and tone up the tissues manipulated. Massage may help digestion and can be used to assist in removing the deposits that have accumulated around the joints. It may be used as a sedative for the nerves and should be used in cases of obstinate and long standing constipation. It is singularly useful for its toning action on sluggish abdominal organs.

Because massage may sometimes stir up too many of the toxic substances, it is not advisable in acute inflammation, in tuberculosis, or in skin diseases such as acne and eczema.

The different movements of massage, which may seem simple and simple to the layman, are really quite complicated, consisting of friction, rubbing, kneading, wringing, slapping, stroking, rolling and pressing. The principal movements practiced by masseurs are as follows: No. 1.—Effleurage, meaning to skim over, which is the light stroking affecting the skin and blood vessels just underneath it. No. 2.—Tapotment, meaning to tap. This is done by the tips of the fingers, the clenched fists, or the sides of the palms, according to the part of the body treated. No. 3.—Deep friction, which extends to the muscles just underneath the skin. No. 4.—Vibrating and shaking. No. 5.—Squeezing along the blood and lymph toward the direction of the heart. No. 6.—Stroking to quiet the nerves with gentle stroking of the skin after each treatment.

Massage may also include pressure of the toes to cause them to become deadened or inhibited, or

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Crossed Eyes)
Question:—O. E. asks: "Have you any articles on tumors on the brain? I have a little boy who has one eye out of focus and it may be that he has a tumor."
Answer: I have written many articles on the subject of brain tumors but would not attempt to advise you through this column about your boy's treatment, as such cases are so serious for anything but personal consultation and treatment. It is more than likely that your boy's trouble is simply caused from the muscles of one eye being stronger than the other. You should surely take your boy to an optometrist and have a careful eye examination made; he should be able to tell you exactly what is causing the trouble.

(Toast)
Question:—P. H. asks: "Is bread after it is toasted or baked very hard as fattening as it is when fresh?"
Ans.: The caloric value of bread after it is toasted is not very much changed. However, the starch is changed to dextrin, in which case it does not ferment as readily, partially because the yeast cells in the bread have been killed. If you are on a strict diet to reduce it would be better to leave out the bread or toast entirely and if you feel the need of anything in its place take a small dish of some non-starchy vegetable, even in place of the usual breakfast toast.

Question:—I. D. writes: "I have an enlarged, diseased uvula. I want to know what damage if any and how it would affect me if I have it cut out. Is it a dangerous operation? I am afraid if I don't have it removed it will affect my whole throat. I have already consulted doctors, and I want your opinion."
Answer: The removal of the uvula by surgery is a very simple operation with rarely any bad results unless the trouble is caused by tuberculosis or cancer.

Dean Mendell finds after careful examination of facts and figures that fraternity men of Yale stand higher in their studies on the average than non-fraternity men. Indeed, he shows that with one exception the average of the several fraternities is so high that they enter the list of quality ratings, while the single exception is so very near that level as to be worthy of special commendation for scholarship. This should at least put to rest the claim that fraternity men are as a rule lazy, careless of the scholarship standing and generally below par intellectually.

The sponsors of the plan did well to admit that there were some other factors in the accident situation they hope to remedy. They mentioned such things as reckless and careless driving, for instance. Just how little old cars figure in the accident toll is revealed by a study of state accident reports. For Connecticut during the past several years the percentage of accidents caused by old cars was from 3 to 4 per cent of the accidents. Defective equipment is not confined, as every car owner knows, to old cars, and the percentage of accidents which can be laid at the door of old cars must be scaled down to even a lower figure.

If the automobile manufacturers succeed in eliminating a large proportion of old cars from the market a considerable number of people will be faced with a choice of alternatives heretofore non-existent. They will either have to mortgage their home or their income to buy a new one, or they will have to do without.

TRY VEAL CUTLETS FOR SUNDAY DINNER

Oscar of the Waldorf, right, supervises the trimming of veal cutlets.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veal cutlets, Milanese, feature the following menu which Oscar of the Waldorf, writing for The Herald and NEXT Service, suggests for your next Sunday dinner.

- Crabmeat Cocktail
  - Barley Soup
  - Veal Cutlets, Milanese
  - Deviled Tomatoes
  - Orange and Grapefruit Salad
  - Apple Tapioca
  - Coffee
- Veal Cutlets, Milanese
Trim the cutlets neatly to about the same size. Boil two ounces of macaroni in salted water; when tender, drain, and stir in one ounce of butter, two ounces of grated Parmesan cheese, and one teaspoonful of tomato sauce.

Mix one teaspoonful of finely grated bread crumbs with one teaspoonful of grated Parmesan cheese, and season well with salt and pepper. Roll the cutlets in warmed butter, and then in the bread crumbs, and leave them for a few minutes; then dip them in beaten egg and again in the mixture.

Place a large lump of dripping or lard in a flat stewpan and place it over the fire; when blue smoke rises, put in the cutlets and fry them until nicely and equally browned.

Move the macaroni away from the fire, and stir in the beaten yolk of an egg. Pile this in the center of a hot dish, arrange the cutlets around it, garnish it with fried parsley, and serve.

PRINCE'S MESSENGER REPORTED OVERDUE

Nairobi, Kenya Colony, British East Africa, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Campbell Black, British air force aviator, who left here yesterday in a Moth airplane to drop a message from Governor Sir Edward Grigg into the camp of the Prince of Wales at Selengai, has not returned. No anxiety is felt as yet inasmuch as it is believed the aviator found a landing place near the camp, where he is staying for the present.

Sir Edward's message contained a request for cars to be sent from the Royal camp to the river bank between here and Selengai to convey Sir Edward and Lady Grigg. Lord and Lady Delamere, and others who left Nairobi by car to the royal camp as the prince's guests.

There have been heavy rains since the prince left and it was believed possible that the river might be so swollen that it would be impossible for the Nairobi cars to go across.

An Investment that does not fluctuate in value— Life Insurance

OWNERS of life insurance have had occasion recently to compare the stability of this form of investment with that of even the highest grade securities.

A chart of the market price averages of leading stocks for twenty years shows an irregular line that rises and dips, sometimes vertically, with "peaks and valleys".

There are no "depressions" in the investment values of life insurance policies. They do not fluctuate with business cycles. From year to year, the 44 million Metropolitan Life Insurance policies show a steady increase in values to policy-holders.

The man who regularly invests part of his earnings in life insurance can go to sleep each night with the knowledge that he is building an estate of the greatest security and with a sure investment return for every dollar paid in.

Life insurance is an investment whose value constantly increases the longer it is kept in force.

ICE DEALER KILLED
New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A cut-rate war among wholesale ice dealers in the Bronx is believed by the police today to have caused the fatal shooting of Gaetano Reina, who is credited with having amassed $1,000,000 in the last few years.

Two other dealers already have lost their lives in the rate war, victims of racketeers allegedly hired to prevent dealers from under selling.

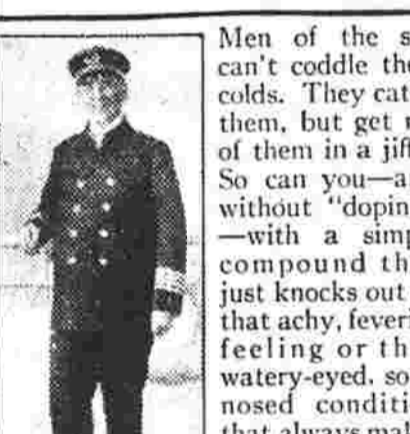

Reina, who was 40 years old, was slain by a charge from a saved-off shot gun as he was about to assist a woman companion into his automobile last night in front of an apartment they shared in the Bronx.

The shooting was done by one of twelve men who leaped from another automobile and after the shooting sped away.

REDS PLAN NEW LOAN.
Moscow, Feb. 26.—(AP)—Izvestia, organ of the Communist Party, today attempted to allay the fears aroused by the government's decision to issue another huge internal loan which will absorb the existing first, second and third industrialization loans and the so-called peasant loan.

The existing loans total nearly 2,000,000,000 rubles (about $2,000,000,000). The new plan gave rise to fears that the government intended to abolish money altogether, and caused depositors to withdraw accounts from banks.

Most building materials are low priced now. Not every thing is as cheap as lumber but by the time the other things have dropped probably lumber will rise. So all in all this is a good time for building. Hit the nail on the head!

SCHOOLS FOR AUTO DRIVERS OUTLINED

Commissioner Stoeckel Describes German and Holland Instructions.

A school for prospective vehicle drivers, where instruction is so complete that the graduate should be able to "fix a tire or deliver a traffic lecture," is described by Commissioner Robbins. E. Stoeckel in the February bulletin of the State Motor Vehicle Department as part of a discussion on traffic management in Germany and Holland.

Schools of this type, says the commissioner are operated in many places in Germany under a central by controlled supervision, and the training lasts several weeks. Because the poor condition of cars provides one of the greatest traffic problems, instruction is pointedly about mechanism.

"Teaching, in part, is by the use of motion pictures, showing car parts and functions," the commissioner's article explains. "It begins with a picture of the radiator cap and an explanation, progresses to the performances of the radiator, the water pump, and all other parts of the machine. The course is elaborated to bring before the candidates for licenses all the probable and most of the possible difficulties which can arise in connection with car mechanisms and traffic situations. The course is given to a small class, ten to fifteen persons. The room is similar to a schoolroom with blackboards and desks. Questions are put in rotation, or in any order which suits the examiner."

Commissioner Stoeckel's article deals mainly with conditions in Holland and Germany and is a continuation of an earlier published discussion of European traffic as observed during a recent motor tour. He finds that discipline in Germany contrasts somewhat with the lack of it in Holland, but that both systems seem to work well and to the evident satisfaction of the people in both countries.

Holland has fewer traffic problems, because of the small number of automobiles in use, transportation being largely confined to waterways and canals. German traffic is heavier, says the commissioner but compares, away from the big cities at least, with that of America's about 1910. "On the open highway," he says "one meets only the peasant on foot, or with his cow hitched to a cart, an occasional pushcart, bicycles, and with comparative rarity another automobile. Care has to be exercised when passing through the little towns, for there everything is crowded together, and one may expect anything that moves to come into the roadway without warning.

"Discipline is more an expression of the police idea of going where and when needed than a systematic attempt to manage, and management is mainly for participants other than automobiles. The cities, however, do provide safety contrivances for pedestrians, the main feature being numerous isles of safety, which dot the main streets and allow comparative safety in crossing for walkers. The participants in traffic too are prompt in obeying rules and the orders of policemen. Germany particularly is looking ahead in its parking problem and educating car owners to understand that a private car cannot own a section of the road for standing purposes."

The commissioner concludes that

American traffic managers can learn from those in Europe. "We ought to emulate their spirit of research," he says "and to study so we may know all there is to know about every automobile subject. Then we would have that knowledge on hand, if and when needed, and finally we could copy the spirit of foresight which so surely exists there. We in America can and must look ahead, even though this look be from our advanced and complicated traffic position of the present, and we can and must prepare for the future."

There is an alabaster mine in Italy that has been worked continuously since it was opened by the Etruscans more than 2,000 years ago.

SUBS DISCUSSED

London, Feb. 27.—(AP.)—The American delegation to the five power naval conference met this forenoon to continue discussions begun yesterday within the delegation on a treaty "humanizing" submarine warfare. The American ideas will be submitted other delegations as soon as possible.

The American attitude is that approval of such a treaty would be possible soon after the return of the French to the conference, and would have a good effect on public feeling toward the conference abroad.

All the rooms at the Ritz which the delegation uses were open and employed today in contrast to the semi-holiday appearance during the conference recess. Secretary Stimson, who during the recess seemed to fret away hours, today talked cheerfully with his colleagues as he walked from his rooms to the offices.

BISHOP HALL DIES

Burlington, Vt., Feb. 27.—(AP.)—The Right Rev. Arthur C. Hall, bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Vermont since 1894, was dead at his home today. He was in his 83rd year. Injuries received in a fall in December at the St. Albans rectory were not overcome and he had been in poor health, being confined to his bed the last 10 days. Bishop Hall was born in Binfield, Berkshire, England, on April 22, 1847. He graduated from Christ church college, Oxford, England, in 1869 and received the Master of Arts degree in 1872. In later years he received honorary degrees from the college and from the University of Vermont. He served as minister in the church of St. John the Evangelist at Boston from 1882 until 1891 and came to Vermont three years later. He was the author of numerous books. He was unmarried.

LAWYER MURDERED

Detroit, Feb. 27.—(AP.)—Underworld shotguns were turned last night on Alfonso Sirica, 31, attorney who defended James Fernandez in the Jackie Thompson kidnaping case and who appeared at police headquarters a few days ago as counsel for the estate of an Italian cafe owner who was shot to death on February 19. Forty slugs were poured into his automobile. A dozen or more of them tore away part of his face. He was taken to a hospital in a dying condition. Detectives sought the connection which they believe exists between the shooting and killing of two other members of the loyal Italian colony. A few hours before the lawyer was attacked, detectives had established that the slain cafe owner, Arthur Califano, was an associate of Roy Gennaro, who was fatally shot last Monday night and died clinging to the underworld code of silence. They learned Gennaro, of whom there was no local record, often had been seen with Califano in his cafe.

AMBUSH BANDITS

North Attleboro, Mass., Feb. 27.—(AP.)—A police ambush worthy of fiction has led to the capture of two men who will be arraigned in District Court today on charges of robbery while armed. Traced to a woodlot three hours after two stores here had been held up at gunpoint and $100 taken from the cash register of one, Stanley Clayton and Joseph C. Dolan, both of 115 East avenue, Pawtucket, R. I., fell into a police trap yesterday. An officer in civilian clothes acted the part of a perplexed automobile beside a stalled car. The men came up to him and police in nearby bushes surrounded and arrested them. At Providence, R. I., where the men were taken last night, police said they confessed to two store holdups there.

Pinehurst, N. C., Feb. 27.—(AP.)—Samuel Lamport, of the Lamport Company, New York cotton exporters, a visitor here, issued a statement today in which he blamed what was described as "inhuman and unfair" wage rates in certain sections for previous ills of the textile industry. Overproduction and disorganized marketing methods were described as the "besetting sins" of the industry. Mr. Lamport asserted that the former "had its roots in an unfair situation that maintains in different parts of the south, where there is a great disparity of wage scales between the different states of the south." He predicted a crisis in the situation.

UNUSUAL LUNCHEONS ARE EASY TO SERVE

Mrs. Delaney of Herald Cooking School Says a Few Tips Are Also Necessary.

That talent for serving an unusual afternoon tea or luncheon over which guests exclaim in delight may be but a matter of a small amount of time plus a few common ingredients mixed with a knowledge of modern culinary secrets.

Such is the definition of a successful party, according to Mrs. Katherine Delaney, nationally known expert in home economics. Mrs. Delaney demonstrates some of the culinary secrets which make for distinguished party menus at the cooking and homemaking school here.

Declaring that every woman can prove a magician in her kitchen if she masters a few fundamental rules, this charming, vivacious expert promised to initiate every housewife in the community into the tricks of the trade.

"Pulling a rabbit out of an empty hat is no more of a magician's trick than making a fascinating and delectable dessert out of a few simple ingredients," Mrs. Delaney asserted. "It is the unusual combination of usual materials which make for the surprises in a menu."

And the least expensive ingredients may often be made into as attractive sandwiches, canapés, entrees, salads and desserts as the most expensive things on the market if the advice of this expert is followed.

"It isn't the money a hostess spends which makes her party a success or the lack of money which makes it a failure," Mrs. Delaney declared. "The talent for producing expensive-looking dishes lies within every cook, if she uses her knowledge of basic recipes and her imagination to dress them up."

Not only does Mrs. Delaney demonstrate in her model stage kitchen some of the secrets which make for party success, but she intends to show the homemakers of this community how quickly a party menu may be prepared if modern short cut methods of cooking are utilized.

Cooking with today's methods and today's scientifically-concocted ingredients makes menu planning, whether for parties or family meals, an entirely new procedure, this authority has discovered through years of experience and experiment. Not only does she plan to introduce dishes into her cooking demonstrations which may be used in planning for parties, but she intends to show the homemaker how to make her own family meals more interesting as well as more nourishing.

"Party planning," Mrs. Delaney believes, "should not be confined to the times when a woman entertains her friends. The same interesting dishes should be served to her own family on every possible occasion. For that reason I include in my demonstrations new ways of preparing old dishes which fit into the balanced diet for the entire family. Many of these are interesting enough to be the main dish at a party."

New recipes as well as new ways of serving old recipes are being featured at the cooking and homemaking school. And every homemaker may enroll free of charge for this instruction in the modern magic of cookery.

Lillian Roth and Joe Wagstaff, guest artists on the Paul Whiteman-Old Gold Hour.

Stepping out of her latest role in the new Paramount talkie, "Honey," Miss Lillian Roth, young and vivacious star of many a Broadway operetta, will grace the Paul Whiteman-Old Gold Hour, Tuesday evening, March 4, on the Columbia coast-to-coast network.

With her at the microphone will be another screen favorite in the person of Joe Wagstaff, aristocratic star of the latest Fox films, "Song of Kentucky" and "Let's Go Places."

Accompanying this duet will be Sam Coslow, Tin Pan Alley's prolific song writer, composer of

"Bebe," "Wanita," "Not Yet Suzette" and other hits.

Miss Roth, actress practically from her cradle days, enjoys the reputation of having been featured by the Shuberts, Flo Ziegfeld, Earl Carroll, Texas Guinan and now Jesse Lasky. She is still in her teens, yet she boasts successes from the early age of 6. Having won honors through the length of Broadway, she now finds herself the star of Paramount's latest picture, "Honey."

Both cases were continued to March for further hearing, the defendants being held without bail.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The recovery in stock prices was resumed at the opening of today's market, with the high priced industrials and specialties again in the forefront of the advance.

Eastman Kodak and J. I. Case quickly ran up more than 2 points each, the former touching a new high level for the year. American Telephone, American Smelting, Bethlehem Steel, General Electric and Union Carbide Improved fractionally.

U. S. Steel Common, Selling ex-dividend, showed a slight recession on the first sale. Contrary to expectations in some quarters, the Bank of England made no change in its discount rate of 4-1-2 percent. Few bankers look for any further reduction in New York for at least several weeks, or until such time as it is needed as a real stimulus to business.

The sharp recovery in wheat prices from the record low levels established a definite turning point in that market, and has contributed to a better speculative feeling on the Stock Market. Commission houses continue, however, to advise caution in the making of new commitments.

Initial gains in the stock market were extended as trading progressed. J. I. Case was quickly marked up 7 points. Eastman Kodak extended its gain to nearly 4 points by touching another new high at 221 and Beal's Creamery moving up 3 points. Dupont, Chesapeake & Ohio and May Dept. Stores all moved up 2 points or more before the end of the first half hour.

Public utilities gave one of the best demonstrations of group strength. American Telephone, American Water Works and Stone & Webster quickly advanced 2 points or more while Pacific Lighting, American Power & Light, Standard Gas & Electric, North American and Western Union were among the many issues to sell a point or so higher on the first outburst of buying.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables quoted 1-32 of a cent higher at $4.86 1-16.

STORE EMPLOYEES GUESTS OF HEAD OF KEITH FIRM

Dinner and Theater Party Held in Hartford Last Night—25 in Party.

Believing that all work and no play makes Jack a dull boy, George E. Keith invited the employees of the G. E. Keith Furniture Co. to be his guests at an informal dinner and theater party last evening in Hartford. And in accordance with Mr. Keith's usual good judgment that if a job is worth doing at all, it is worth doing well, he invited also their wives and sweethearts.

At 6:00, the party, about twenty-five in number, motored to Hartford where a sumptuous dinner was awaiting them at the Carolyn Mitchell Shoppe on Elm street. The committee had anticipated rather staggering appetites. Accordingly, the hostess was admirably prepared and served the following menu: fruit cocktail, celery and olives, planked steak, baked potato, vegetable salad, peas, hot biscuit, strawberry parfait, pie and coffee. Each lady present was presented with a corsage bouquet. Immediately after a social get-together, the party then left to attend the Capitol theater. Every one boasted of a splendid evening's entertainment and conceded Mr. Keith to be an ideal host. The committee assisting Mr. Keith, included Mrs. Russell Potterton and F. Wallace Prelle.

Those included in the party were as follows: Mr. and Mrs. George Keith, John Gill, Edward R. Kratt, Mr. and Mrs. William Murphy, Frank Chamberlain, Mr. and Mrs. Warren I. Keith, F. Wallace Prelle, Anne Fluckiger, Beatrice Clulow, Mrs. Everett T. Keith, Helen Rankin Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Whitehouse, Clarence La Coss, Stillman Keith, Frank Linnell, Helen Keith, Mrs. McPherson and A. Pond.

AERIAL PLAYGROUNDS

Buffalo—Schools of the future will have their playgrounds atop the buildings if the plan of Frank C. Perkins, city council president, is adopted. Perkins plans to plant trees and shrubs atop school buildings. Then he would fix recreational devices there and let the children take their recesses there. It would offer more sunlight and air, he says.

A greyhound is known to be able to run 525 yards in less than 30 seconds.

JAPAN STANDS FIRM

Tokyo, Feb. 27.—(AP)—A growing feeling is apparent in naval circles here that Great Britain ought to try to prevail on the United States to accede to the Japanese claim for a 70 per cent. cruiser ratio with America, lest the naval conference break up without a single concrete achievement.

It was feared failure to reach an agreement would have a very bad effect on the international situation and damage British prestige as it would be regarded as showing that the world is not yet ready for limitation and disarmament.

Indication of Japan's determination to secure the 70 per cent. ratio or nothing is a report that Admiral Kanji Kato, chief of the naval staff, is prepared to resign on grounds of inability to hold himself responsible for defense of the country if Japan accepts less.

BEGIN HERE TODAY
JUDITH CAMERON, New York typist marries ARTHUR KNIGHT, executive of the publishing house in which she is employed. Knight is a widower with a daughter, TONY, 18, and son, JUNIOR, 16. Tony denounces Judith as a gold digger. When Junior comes home for Christmas holidays he is equally unfriendly.

ANDY CRAIG, a young man Knight has aided, takes a position with the publishing firm. He is in love with Tony and calls on her frequently. Tony tries to convince her father that Judith and Andy are carrying on an affair. When this fails she tricks the pair into a compromising situation.

Tony is carrying on a flirtation with MICKY MORTIMER, wealthy and married. Tony and her father quarrel over this but the girl is finally forgiven. Knight becomes dangerously ill with pneumonia. Junior comes home on a stay until his father begins to recuperate. Before leaving the boy admits to Judith he has misjudged her.

Tony intercepts a letter intended for Judith and later follows her into the city where she sees her meet a young man. With this information Tony forces Judith to leave the house for two weeks. Judith goes into New York, and finds a room in an inconspicuous hotel. After days of misery she decides to return and tell Arthur the truth. She arrives at the house. Arthur asks coldly why she has come. He refuses to listen to explanations and says their marriage was a mistake. Judith rushes from the house and goes to a young man named DAN. She tells him she has come to stay.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY
CHAPTER XLVI

The man's arms tightened about the girl.

"Don't cry," he begged. "Please don't cry." He stroked her hair gently.

Judith clung to him. "Oh," she murmured between sobs, "it's all been so—dreadful. Dan, I had to come to you. I couldn't stand it any longer."

"Here—let's sit down. Everything's going to be all right again. You mustn't cry this way. Honey, please—"

There was a dubious-looking, faded divan across the room. Dan led her toward this, seated her beside the girl and slipped an arm around her. All the while he was comforting her with soft, endearing phrases.

The strain had snapped and with it had gone Judith's reserve strength. For several minutes she wept hysterically. Gradually she became quieter. She lay still in Dan's arms and her sobs ceased. Finally she raised her head and looked at the young man.

"Dan—you're so good to me. You've comforted a white handkerchief and handed it to the girl. Judith wiped away the tearsdrops which still stained her cheeks.

"You're so good to me and you'll feel better."

She disappeared behind a screen at the end of the room where there was a lavatory. He came back with a cloth moistened in cold water. Judith held this to her eyes.

"I'll be all right," she murmured. "Please don't bother."

Then she stood up and let him help her off with her coat. The felt hat she tossed aside on the divan.

"It's all over!" she told him bravely. "I'm never going back again. Arthur said—said our marriage was a failure!"

"Listen, Judy, don't try to tell me about it now. Wait until you feel better. Had anything to eat?"

"But I'm not hungry," she added quickly. "I couldn't eat. Really I couldn't."

"Well—you're going to just the same! Listen, you plaster some powder on your nose and put your hat back on and out we go to Louise's."

"No, Dan—really I couldn't possibly—"

"He clapped a hand on her shoulder. 'See here, young woman, who do you think is boss here? I won't eat anything.'"

Judith very nearly kept her word. When they had reached the restaurant and were seated at a table she tried to choke down food because she knew Dan wanted her to. It was a painful effort.

"Louise's" was one of the innumerable Italian eating places where the bill of fare listed spaghetti as well as steaks and chops and half a dozen varieties of American desserts.

They sat at a table for two and the young man addressed the waiter as though their acquaintance was of long standing. There was a haze of smoke in the room. The diners were beginning to thin away from the tables. Not half of the places were filled.

Judith tried to eat the soup. She tasted it, took another mouthful, then put down the spoon.

"Dan," she said, trying to keep her voice firm. "I don't know what I'm going to do. I tried—oh, I tried so hard!"

"Listen, kid, you know how I feel about this. Well—leave the worrying to me. Besides, you're in no condition to talk now."

Most casual observers would have said the young man across the table was good-looking. His hair and eyes were dark brown. The cast of his face was slender, something like Judith's. The mustache he wore added age to a distinctly youthful face. He had a straight nose, broad lips which suggested humor, but his eyes were serious.

"You're not eating anything," he complained.

"I'm trying to eat."

"How about coffee? Wouldn't you like some coffee now?"

Judith agreed. She must bolster up her strength somehow. Perhaps coffee would help.

The young man ate heartily. He told Judith it was fortunate she had come just when she did.

"Ten minutes more and I'd have been gone!" he said. "You timed things just right, Judy!"

Then he saw that this brought the troubled look back to Judith's eyes. Immediately he tried to turn her mind from herself. There was an interesting new smuggling case in the evening newspapers. Dan had read the story and related how several unnamed social celebrities were believed to be operating with underworld characters in bringing fabulously priced jewels into this country.

The girl tried to listen. Her head ached and the coffee did not relieve her nerves. She barely tasted the dessert. When she saw that Dan had finished she said:

"Can't we go now?"

"Yes of course!" Dan arose and helped her with her coat. Ten minutes later they were back at the rooming house.

There was a faintly glimmering electric bulb to light the dark hallway. Dan led the way up the stairs and Judith followed.

When they were in the young man's room again he closed the door carefully.

"Make yourself at home," he told Judith.

The room was not large but there was a high ceiling to be found in all the old "brown stone fronts," degenerated nowadays into everything from laundries and rooming houses to professional offices.

The furniture was incongruous and the wall which had been better day—the landlady's taste apparently ran to color. Black and white cretonne, vividly spotted with red roses, curtained the windows. The cot which apparently served as the same fabric.

Judith threw off her hat and coat and sank into a chair.

"Well," she said dreadingly, "Arthur's going to get a divorce."

The man eyed her without making a reply. Moments passed. Then he said huskily, "Judith—can you forget about him?"

She had turned her head so that he could not see her eyes. Suddenly she faced about and flung her arms about the young man.

"Of course I can!" she cried. "I have forgotten about him. Dan, Darling, let's begin over again. Will you let me stay here?"

"You're coming here with me to." Again in Dan's arms she found comfort.

Tony Knight had been mistress of her father's home for 10 days. She held court with a queenly air and her authority. Not even Knight, for he spent his mornings at the office and Tony seldom saw him before late afternoon.

Nevertheless, Tony Knight, on this particular April afternoon, looked a little crestfallen.

It was nearly three o'clock and Tony was in her own room. She had just jammed the French telephone down upon its stand and was tapping one foot angrily on the floor.

The roached for the instrument, seemed about to pick it up again but left it. Tony's drawn lips and flashing eyes were ominous.

With a bound she was out of the chair and across the room.

"Oh," she cried, "if I really believed it! If I could be sure—"

She stood perfectly still as though an idea had come to her. A crafty look entered the girl's eyes.

"Why not?" said Tony, addressing herself because there was no one else to hear. "Why not do it?"

The answer was a sudden scramble toward the closet which held her gowns. Off came the rose brocade negligee, hurried over her head to land upon a chair. Mules were next. Tony pulled at a row of frocks, selected one of them and donned it. She jammed her feet into pumps, searched for a hat and perched one on her head at an outlandish angle.

With one arm in her coat sleeve and the rest of the garment trailing, she rushed from the room.

By the time she reached the downstairs hall she had the coat properly about her. Mumbling incoherently, Tony pulled open the front hall door and ran from the house to the garage.

"I want my car!" she demanded. "Get it out right away. I'm in a hurry."

"Right away, Miss." Bert answered and disappeared.

The seconds which passed before the roadster stood in the driveway irritated the girl. As soon as the chauffeur stepped down she was in the seat, her hands on the wheel.

Bert Callahan, the chauffeur, watched the roadster plunge into the street and disappear. He gave a long, low whistle, then resumed his work.

It was a good 30-minute run from Arthur Knight's suburban home to the section of Manhattan Tony was headed for. Thirty minutes was a minimum, allowing for luck with the traffic signals. That afternoon Tony made the distance in 28 minutes. She was cautious where experience prompted caution. The rest of the trip she let the roadster out. Wind blew her hair and her cheeks were flushed when she finally waded the car's speed through the city streets.

No place to park! The expressions that ripped glibly from Tony's tongue certainly have no place in the books of etiquette. A seaman would have listened and probably grinned.

At last she brought the roadster to the curb, halted and jumped out on the sidewalk. Tony faced about and walked rapidly down the block.

A stolid-eyed doorman glanced at her as she turned to enter an impressive gray stone apartment. She ignored him, hurried through the doors and across the lobby. At the end of a long corridor she stepped into an elevator.

"Fifteen," she told the uniformed operator.

She emerged into a carpeted hallway. Now Tony seemed to hesitate.

She advanced, then paused. Impulsively she moved down the corridor and stopped before a doorway.

After an instant she rang the bell.

There was no answer.

Tony rang a second time and waited. A small youth with Oriental features opened the door a few inches and looked at her doubtfully.

"I want to see Mr. Mortimer." The boy shook his head.

"Not here this afternoon." "But I must see him!"

"Mr. Mortimer not here," the boy repeated.

The flash in Tony Knight's eyes should have warned him. All at once the girl rushed past the servant and through into a room beyond the first.

"Oh!" she cried shrilly, halting on the threshold, "this is your business engagement, is it? I thought so! This is why you can't keep appointments with me. How dare you lie like that? You—!"

It was Mickey Mortimer who interrupted. The blond young woman on the doorstep from which he had arisen stared at Tony.

"Now that you've found out," said Mortimer coolly, "what do you think you can do about it?" He laughed ever so casually.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

Perhaps no vegetable gives larger returns for the money than the colorful carrot. It's always in the market and usually very cheap in price, but it stands well toward the top of the list in food value.

Carrots are rich in the minerals especially needed at this time of the year. Their vitamin content is high, comparing well with spinach. They are easily digested, raw or cooked. Such an array of virtues surely makes this vegetable worthy of more popularity than it now enjoys.

There are innumerable delicious ways of cooking carrots. They make attractive boats or cups for the merest suspicion of onion. Or cut in small dice and creamed, they serve as an appetizing filling for other vegetables.

A little imagination and experimenting with seasonings will go far toward making this vegetable appreciated and liked. Lemon juice, the merest suspicion of onion, a few gratings of nutmegs, a tiny bit of mustard, paprika and parsley, are a few of the seasonings that can be used to give a faint, illusive flavor to carrot dishes.

When carrots are to be reheated, they can be scrubbed clean and cooked without scraping. Dip into cold water when taken from the stove and slip skins. This saves time as well as stained fingers for the cook.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

WORKER IN ASBESTOS VITNE FACIES PECULIAR OCCUPATIONAL PERIL

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

As the great industries have called a scientific medicine in to assist them, it has become realized more and more that workers with various substances undergo special hazards.

When postmortem examinations are made on barbers, the lungs are found not infrequently to contain numerous short hairs which have been inhaled during the course of the trade. Workers in dusty trades of all sorts have a possible hazard due to the inhalation of such materials.

Recently the Journal of the Canadian Medical Association has called attention to the fact that a considerable part of the world's supply of asbestos is mined in the Black Lake Distr. let between Quebec City and Sherbrooke. Because few complaints were heard as to any special types of illness occurring in asbestos workers, little attention was given to the subject. However, reports have begun to appear in various publications throughout the world which indicate that there is a special hazard associated with the handling of a asbestos.

Thus a British physician has pointed out that the inhalation of asbestos fibers produces fibrous changes in the lungs which represent perhaps an attempt of the tissue of the lung to wall off the foreign substance.

Asbestos contains about 41 per cent of silica and 2 1/2 per cent of iron oxide. The lungs seem to react particularly to the silica with a fibrous inflammation that is called silicosis. In addition to changes produced in the lungs, workers with asbestos develop warty growths on the skin which are called asbestos corns.

The human body has factors of safety which are sometimes perhaps equally factors for harm. Thus the tissues are able to take care of a great many serious reactions or inflammations by walling them off or by eliminating them in other ways. If the danger to the body is not too considerable, workers are likely to pay little attention to the difficulty.

As more and more scientific studies are made in the field of industry, these conditions are brought to light and it becomes possible for industrial medicine to protect the worker even though he himself has not realized the hazard.

HORIZONTAL TUCKS SUGGEST HIGHER WAISTLINE

Filled Collar and Cuffs Smart Detail

BY ANNETTE

The pleated collar and flaring cuffs adds to feminine theme - street dress of navy blue silk crepe.

Horizontal tucks at either side of the long-waisted bodice nip the normal waistline and hold the garment closely to the figure. The pointed treatment at front gives impression of length, and places the circular fullness of skirt low so as to keep the silhouette slender.

The collar and cuffs in the original model were white crepe de chine. They are equally as smart made of the self-fabric, crisp organdie or lace.

This unusual model Style No. 247 comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust.

It's lovely in black canton crepe with lace in eggshell shade. Printed silk crepe with plain crepe in blending tone is effective and may be worn all through the Spring.

Orange-red flat silk crepe self-trimmed denotes youthful smartness.

Purple chiffon, chiffon print, sapphire blue crepe, Elizabeth Patou's green wool crepe and flat silk crepe in dark purple shade are chic.

Caruso's Child Loses Her Suit.

Little Gloria Caruso's share in the $1,000,000 property of her father, the late Enrico Caruso, famed Italian tenor, in New Jersey, won't be the two-thirds which she was originally awarded by a lower court. The decision granting the child, pictured above, this large portion of the singer's royalties from the Victor Talking Machine Company has been reversed by the Court of Errors and Appeals at Trenton, N. ### For any BABY

We can never be sure just what makes an infant restless, but the remedy can always be the same. Give old Castoria! There's comfort in every drop of this pure vegetable preparation, and not the slightest harm in its frequent use. As often as Baby has a fretful spell, let Castoria soothe and quiet him. Sometimes it's a touch of colic. Sometimes constipation. Or diarrhea—a condition that should always be checked without delay. Just give Castoria handy, and give it promptly. Relief will follow as surely as day follows night.

M. H. S. Quintet Must Win Tomorrow Night's Game

SHARKEY TOP HEAVY FAVORITE TO DEFEAT PHIL SCOTT TONIGHT

Interest Runs In Risiko-Campolo Bout; Arena Will Have Many Vacant Seats; Loughran on Card, Too.

By ALAN J. GOULD
A. P. Sports Editor
Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Today was fought day along the Palm fringed boulevards, with crowds and chatter, the balmy breezes and the twittering of the ballyhoo birds that flock to the mid-winter carnivals of fistian.

Behind all the gaiety and glamor of tropical scenes, the boys associated with the second annual battle of the cocoanut palms were hoping for the best but fearing the worst—hoping an eleven hour rush for the turnstiles would materialize but fearing a financial flop; hoping that Phil Scott, the London fire laddie, would make a gallant fight of it all, but fearing that the rough and rugged American, Jack Sharkey would turn the main event tonight into a one-sided punching bee.

Thirty-six years ago in Jacksonville, Gentleman Jim Corbett, American holder of the world heavyweight championship, knocked out the pride of England, fiery little Charley Mitchell, in three rounds, in a fugitive prize fight that resulted in the arrest of all concerned as law violators.

Jack Heavy Favorite.
Tonight in the Miami arena built by the Madison Square Garden Corporation of New York, Jack Sharkey enters the ring an overwhelming favorite to repeat the Anglo-American boxing history by knocking out Phil Scott in the 15 round feature of an all-star heavyweight card of five bouts. Although there is no chance whatever of a sell out, the show appeared certain to attract a notable gathering of wealth and fashion, of talent and celebrities to the ringside.

No title was at stake tonight but the championship aspirations of the principals were involved, for the winner whether Sharkey or Scott will be within a stride of a decisive match for the world heavyweight crown put aside by Gene Tunney 3 years and a half ago. Only Max Schmeling the German champion, is considered to stand at present in the path of the survivor. And Max who is in perfect health in spite of an alarming report circulated yesterday that he had been injured, is prepared to meet either Sharkey or Scott in June at New York under the terms of an agreement already reached.

Depends on Reach.
There has been little or no debate over the final bout, with Sharkey at five to one favorite and picked to score a knockout inside of four or five rounds. Scott's most enthusiastic supporters, if any, concede his only hope to be the adoption of strictly defensive tactics at the outset, designed to weather an early storm, and with the recovery of some poise and boxing ability to advantage.

It seemed reasonable to most observers to expect not many more than 25,000 customers, if that many, and a "gate" not much beyond $200,000. Garden officials stuck to a prediction of $300,000 or more.

The Campolo-Risiko affair, regarded as more of a fighting magnet than the main event promised the most exciting action of the evening with the Argentine a slight favorite to whip his American opponent. A six rounder between Paul Bianchi, of Argentine and Bill Darling, heavy-weight protégé of E. F. Hutton, New York and Palm Beach sportsman, was scheduled to open the fistuffs at 8:15 p. m., to be followed by a ten round preliminary between Jimmy Maloney of Boston and Moise Bouquillon of France.

SASELA-KEBART MATCH CANCELED

The scheduled Sasele-Kebart town title bowling match set for this evening, has been indefinitely canceled. Sasele, champion, objected to plans for the match as made by Jack Saidella, who claims to be Sasele's manager. The champion wants the first half of the match over north and Saidella had arranged it vice versa. Sasele also wants to bowl for games and not pinfall. And so, for the present, the match is off.

PHANTOMS, WARRIORS WIN AT BASKETBALL

Former Scuttles Original Taffys and Warriors Top Ramblers; Taffys Idle; Need One Win for Title.

The Phantoms and Warriors were victorious in Junior League basketball tussles played last night at the East Side Rec gym. The Phantoms took the measure of the Original Taffys by a score of 43 to 20 while the Warriors scalped the Ramblers in a less convincing manner, the final score being 29 to 18. Renn and Maloney were the big guns for the Phantoms while "Pit" Healy and Welles put the Warriors on the winning side of the ledger.

The Taffys, with only one victory, were needed to cop the league pennant, were idle. They will swing into action next Saturday night. Here are last night's scores:

GENE TUNNEY WILL WATCH MIAMI BOUT

Former World's Champ, Convalescing from Recent Operation; Now in Florida

BY BRYAN BELL
AP Sports Writer

Miami, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—Gene Tunney, retired undefeated heavyweight boxing champion of the world, plans to "get well" he said today and then go into "some business." Convalescing from a recent operation performed in New York, the man who left the ring and the championship behind 18 months ago, looked forward with keen anticipation to seeing the heavyweights, who seek the honor he has discarded, do battle tonight.

After a man has been knocked down, said Tunney, the most important thing for him to do is to get up. After a man has an operation, his most important consideration should be get well. With the cares and annoyances of the championship behind him, Tunney was the "old Tunney" of speculation and Stroudsburg before he won the title from Jack Dempsey. The same bright twinkle was in his eye and as he talked of boxers and boxing, he suddenly became serious as he concentrated on driving home the exact shade of meaning he wished to emphasize.

"A really game boxer never hears the count of ten" he said. "If he can hear he will get up." And again "the boxer who knows his business, after he has been knocked down remains until the count of nine. That second belongs to him, not to his opponent. It is his and his alone and he has the right to it to clear his head. Only a foolish person, with perhaps some false pride, comes bounding to his feet before he has had his nine seconds rest. Probably he will be knocked down again and then he may not be able to get up."

The former champion talked freely and authoritatively of his only knockdown in the seventh round of the second fight with Dempsey. "I had often thought, of course, that I might be knocked down some time and I had considered ways to offset this moment when and if it came. Usually there are two courses to pursue. Get up, grab and go down again for another count after the blow to the body which is sure to come. And again, if necessary, the other is to take advantage of a likely carelessness in your opponent and try to get in a telling punch at once. I could do neither. Dempsey kept his chin against my chest and I could not hope to land a blow there. In 20 rounds I never struck him on the chin. So I adopted a third solution. I circled and got in two terrific punches, one of them the hardest I landed in either fight with Dempsey."

"What were your thoughts when you found yourself on the floor?" "How pleasant and comfortable it was there, and this mind you, with one leg twisted up under my back." The former champion turned to talk of game fighters. "Two of the gamest men I ever knew stand out in my memory," he said, "Bartley Madden and Harry Greb. You could hit them again and again and know they would keep coming back trying to land blow for blow with you until they could land no more. And there are many others. Of course there never has been a question of Dempsey's gamestness."

Tunney has never seen Phil Scott, the British challenger and could offer no forecast of tonight's bout. "From the information I have of his style I would say he will be knocked out," was his guess.

AGGIES' REQUEST GRANTED

Gladiators In Tonight's Combats

Tip Scales At More Than A Ton

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER

When John L. Sullivan fought Jim Corbett in New Orleans, a fight didn't have to have a name. The vogue for naming fights was started, we believe, with the struggle between the Lily Han of France and Jack Dempsey, in Boyle's Thirty Acres. That was bally-hood as "the Battle of the Century," and since then a fight must have some sort of a name.

Writers called the last battle in Florida—the Sharkey-Stribling affair, we mean—the Battle of What-fo-it, the Battle of Nothing Much and various other names conveying the spirit if not the scent of Limburger. We have come now to another battle down there among the palms, and for the life of it, let us call it the Tussle of the Tin-Eared Ton!

The almanac tells us that 2000 pounds is one ton—one short ton, to be exact—though in this case how short it is you'd never guess. Quick now, the almanac! How much is 2008 pounds?

Let us call this the Tussle of the Tin-Eared Ton!

NELSON AND HOUSTON LEAD POOL TOURNEYS

The Masonic pocket billiards tournament now in progress has shown that several of the contestants have improved in their skill in the first or elimination contest.

Sam Houston is leading group "A" with six games won, and none lost, while Sam Nelson is leading group "B" with eight games won and one lost.

Henry Tilden won from Nelson by a score of 50 to 31. In this game there were very bad runs. Tilden, "the quiet man" ran 25 consecutive balls, which is the second highest run in this tournament. Nelson's high run in this game was 15.

Some of the classy players have not struck their stride yet although Sam Turkington says let's go and in his game with John McMenemy which he won 50 to 42, ran 15 in a row.

Bob Chambers says he is going to wait for the new pool table but that will be too late to win in this tournament.

Local Sport Chatter

Don't forget that The Herald is broadcasting the results of the Scott-Sharkey heavyweight bout down in the sunny southland tonight. The Campolo-Risiko semi-final is included in the program. The results, round by round, will come over the Associated Press wires to the Herald's office on Bissell street and will be megaphoned to listeners outside by the Herald sports editor.

Somehow or other we have gotten the idea that the fight isn't going to produce very many fireworks. Like the majority, we look for Sharkey to win but would not be surprised if it was on a decision rather than by a knockout.

The garrulous Boston gob is seldom at his best unless his ire is aroused by his opponent as was in the Loughran case. Certainly Fouling Fil has done nothing to irritate Jack. Therefore it would be no big surprise if the Sharkey-Stribling fight was duplicated. If there is a kayo, however, it seems sure that Sharkey will turn the trick.

The semi-final ought to be well worth listening to. Risiko is the chap who the New York Boxing Moguls decided was too small to meet Campolo despite the fact that he had licked about every heavyweight in the game at some time or other. It will be interesting to see what the Cleveland baker will do in bearing out the argument one way or the other. The fight was barred in New York but the Garden sensed the drawing power of such a decision and immediately put the scrap down on the second annual "Battle of the Palms."

With radio broadcasting of the fight prohibited in effort to stimulate the gate, fans will have no other way of learning the outcome except to come to the Herald plant and hear the returns from the shelter of the State theater. The semi-final is due to start about 9:15 with the main go beginning about 10. The results of the other bouts will also be announced.

Tommy Happenny, star guard on the Cubs' football team last season, who recently underwent an operation for acute appendicitis at the South Norwalk hospital recently, has been recuperating at home here and is now able to be around again. He will return to his work Monday.

Manchester High has but one more basketball game to play this season after tonight unless selected for the Yale tournament. That will be with Windham High up in Willimantic next week Friday.

Tentative arrangements have been made to bring the speedy Knights of Lithuania Five of Hartford here to meet the Rec Five in the third and deciding game of their basketball series next Tuesday night.

President William H. Cowles of the Manchester Green Baseball club has called a special meeting of all the members of last year's team to be held at his home, the Greenwood Fruit Farm, Saturday night. He will provide a rabbit supper to be served at 6:30. All planning to go must make reservations with Manager Samuel J. Prentice not later than tomorrow night.

IN YANKEE CAMP

St. Petersburg, Fla., Feb. 27.—(AP)—The New York Yanks evidently are trying to outdo one another in training camp stunts. The catchers failed in their attempts to snare balls tossed from an airplane so yesterday some of the other players called in a blimp for the stunt and caught a few balls thrown from heights up to 380 feet.

The appearance of Robert Walsh, the second pitching son of Big Ed Walsh of Chicago White Sox fame, aroused most of the interest in the regular workout. Rob took a ten minute turn on the mound and showed about as much stuff as any of the hurlers.

TRIUMPH FOR MIDDLETOWN WOULD KILL YALE CHANCE

ZORILLA TO ENTER YALE UNIVERSITY

New York, Feb. 27.—(AP)—Albert Zorilla, the young Argentine swimmer who defeated many of the world leading stars in winning the 400 metro olympic championship at Amsterdam in 1928 has announced his intention of entering Yale next fall. He will be eligible for varsity competition a year later.

FIRST TELEPHOTO OF MIAMI BATTLE

BY JOE O'GOOFTY

Sports Editor, Bologna Welders' Bulletin

horrible action between Philip (Souffle) Scott and Jack-the-Clam Sharkey. The clawing became so terrific in this round that the fans cried "Can it!"

Sharkey had just lashed out with a wicked claw and Scott is pictured turning to the referee to squeak "Foul play." The referee is telling the lads not to be clinching so much. You can observe the disgusted expression on his flippers.

When Phil (the Souffle) turned to plead with the referee, the fans noisily endeavored to grab the act. There were shouts of "What is this, a hard shell game?" and similar amenities.

Both the contestants were in the pink of conditions, as lobsters dote on being, but most of the spectators flew into a red rage. Several bottles of mayonnaise dressing were flung into the ring. I was very sad.

The man-eating Sharkey finally knocked the Souffle clammy and the folks went home, agreeing that it was the promoters who were the most crustaceous.

GROVE CITY DROPS TWO OUT OF THREE

Grove City lost two of the three games on its trip last week. Grove opened by losing out Geneva 30 to 28 after trailing 19 to 7 at half-time.

Next Grove lost to Waynesburg 23 to 27 the following night, and then to Duquesne 31 to 27, the following evening. George Stavitsky, local boy, tossed eight baskets and two fouls in the three games.

Practically Sure of Selection for State Championship at New Haven Next Month.

Tomorrow night's game is the most important one of the season for Manchester High school. The Clarkites must win from Middletown if they expect to be selected for the Yale tournament. Even then their choice is not a certainty, although a probability. A defeat, however, would probably eliminate their hopes beyond measure.

Middletown, although admittedly out of the running not only for the state tournament but for the C. C. I. L. pennant as well, has already beaten Manchester and only last week gave the highly touted Bristol team a real scare. Manchester has dropped three league tussles this season, two to Bristol and the other to Middletown. One more setback means disaster.

Middletown's record isn't particularly impressive. The down state aggregation has won only nine of its 14 games to date but it is far from a certainty that Manchester will win tomorrow night as much as it needs to. Nevertheless, Manchester will be the favorite, notwithstanding its 24 to 22 double overtime period defeat in Middletown several weeks ago. The local players are fully cognizant of the importance of the Middletown game and are determined to win at all costs.

Last Friday Middletown jumped into a fairly commanding lead in its tussle with the state champion Bristol quintet and for a time it looked as though the Bell City crew was in for a totally unexpected reverse but the Monahanites braced and staged a counter attack which enabled them to eke out a 17 to 12 winner. In the exciting closing minutes of play Middletown missed enough shots to win a dozen close tilts, due largely, no doubt, to nervousness.

How They Figure
Providing Manchester can turn back the invader at the State the Silk City quintet will have won eight of its eleven games. This would give Manchester a percentage according to the Yale selection system of 83.1. So far as can be gleaned from an outside view of the situation, without the various records to consult, Manchester with its three defeats is in as good a position as most every High school in the state.

Very few have lost less than three games and those that have played the most games will have a slight advantage in percentage. The chances are, however, that when the final ratings are made, the eight teams selected for the Yale tourney, will be closely grouped, somewhere between seven and eight hundred percent. A rough guess at the eight schools to be selected is as follows: Central and Warren, Harding, of Bridgeport, Torrington, Bristol, New Haven Hillhouse, Willimantic, Meriden and Manchester.

A definite decision will not be made until March 8. Games played later than this week, however, will not be considered as all schools must tender their records next Monday. This means that Manchester's scheduled tilt at Willimantic will have no bearing whatsoever on the Yale selections.

LONDON FACING CRITICAL VOTE ON COAL MINES

If Labor is Defeated Present Government Will Resign; Would Affect the Naval Parley.

London, Feb. 27.—(AP)—The MacDonald government today was facing a critical vote in the House of Commons on the pending coal mines bill and there was some perturbation in political circles where it was predicted a defeat might cause resignation of the government and precipitate a general election.

The situation was somewhat the same as last December on the second reading of this controversial measure when the government just slid through with a majority of eight. Now there is the added complication arising in the midst of the naval disarmament conference which already has been crippled by the political uncertainty in France.

So far as could be determined nobody wants a British political crisis at this juncture but it was recognized that circumstances might conceivably produce one.

May Vote Today. A vote on the bill is expected tonight.

The issue between the government and its critics is the scheme contained in the coal mines bill for the compulsory regulation and limitation of output which is opposed by both the Conservative and Liberal parties except for a few dissenters in each camp. The Laborites regard this scheme as the heart of the measure which is designed to improve the condition of the coal industry which has long been in bad plight.

There were some factors which suggested that the government would be able to defeat whatever combined opposition is mustered against the bill. The Conservatives are proverbially plagued in divisions by absences among their members. It also is understood that a number of Conservatives are known to be sympathetic to limitation of output and therefore will likely abstain from voting deliberately.

A few Liberals who wish to avoid injury to the government, it is reported, will either vote with the Labor party or abstain.

The Labor rank and file is declared to be strongly in favor of an immediate election if the government is beaten. The prevailing opinion around Westminster, however, appears to be that the government will not be defeated but will have a margin of safety so small that there is always the possibility of a serious Parliamentary "accident."

TELLS "WHY" OF LATE UNUSUAL WEATHER

New York Writer Explains the Winter "Hot Wave" and Resulting Thunder Storms.

The extraordinary weather conditions of the last ten days are explained by an editorial article in today's New York Herald-Tribune, which will be of as much interest to people in this vicinity as to New Yorkers, for we have been having the same climatic experiences. Hereabouts a February thunder storm isn't such an unusual phenomenon as the Herald-Tribune writer seems to think it, but otherwise the article is interesting.

"The record heat of Tuesday and the almost equally unusual event of a thunderstorm that night were signals of a vast conflict raging in the heavens above this part of the continent, the battle maps of which, like those by which commanders of armies on a contested front, were to be read in the government's weather maps for Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. One of the week's contenders for control of weather hereabouts was a vast mass of cold, high-pressure air which rested on Monday and Tuesday over Central Canada, west of another air column, warm instead of cold, which formed a second 'High' on the weather maps north-east of Bermuda, where the famous 'Bermuda High' of hot-weather memory are wont to lurk. From every such mass of high-pressure air winds tend to blow outward as blasts do from the more local conditions of high pressure created by an explosion. Where they meet these winds contend for mastery.

In No Man's Land and the cold, and she gave you two-thirds back, what would you have? Father: The doctor found to see her, my son.—The Humorist.

OPEN FORUM

THE PARKS.

Editor, The Herald, In looking over your Herald last night I was very much pleased to see the warning Park Superintendent Horace F. Murphy issued to all school children. It is very true about the condition of the ground at the present time, but the harm that would be done to the park perhaps would not be half as bad as it would be if we sent our children to the school play ground. In the first place the few children that use the park for a play ground when out for a few days are children attending school at the Lincoln school and they are just out of luck as there is no play ground when they attend school or when they are out.

I am glad to see that Mr. Murphy is beginning early to look after the parks but perhaps he has not been up early enough to see where the harm is done. For the last ten years more or less we have had a beautiful park at the Center and every year the same thing happens, a great path is made by heavy traffic through the park that is there for the rest of the summer. Now I wonder if the children do more harm than that.

This winter the children of the town have been stealing a slide in between the traffic, because they have no sliding place to go to and the result has been this, there have been many narrow escapes, for the children. It seems to me there could be many more things done for the children of the town to protect them and not find fault with a few that do know enough to stay out of the highway when they are out of school a few days. The harm they would do would be nothing compared to what has been done all winter and for the past ten or twenty years.

Children will be children. Signed, A MOTHER.
