NAVAL ENVOYS BACK TO WORK ON PROBLEMS

Expect French Delegates Will Arrive on Friday When a Plenary Session Will Probably Be Held.

London, March 4.—(AP)—The naval conference began to get back into stride this morning with meeting of the heads of the delegations at St. James's Palace at which a program was blocked out to be followed when the French returned. Ambassador Pléville represented France and Ambassador Gibson, acted for Secretary Stimson who is ill with a cold. The others at the meeting were Prime Minister MacDonald, former Premier Wakatsuki, chief of the Japanese delegation, and Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister.

Plenary session. It was decided that a plenary session could best deal with the work of the experts which include solution of the problem and a report on the special and exempt classes of vessels upon which agreement has been reached. With this in view the heads of the delegations will meet again Friday and set a date for a plenary session. It is hoped the French delegation will be here by Friday's meeting.

Pending Friday's meeting, the expert committees will be in full swing. Tomorrow the experts will start on the question of submarines. The political side of the humanization of the use of submarines will not be tackled immediately but the experts will devote their energies at the outset to tonnage questions.

Thursday's session. The so-called first committee which includes representatives of all the delegations will meet Thursday to consider the expert committee's report on special and exempt classes. The purpose of this will be to get ready a report for the plenary session.

The next step in solving Japanese problems will be taken this afternoon when Ambassador Matsudaira and Prime Minister MacDonald planned to hold a joint conference at the House of Commons. After this morning's meeting the British prime minister took occasion to have a lengthy conversation with former Premier Wakatsuki at St. James's Palace.

FALLS OUT WINDOW IN ALABAMA HOTEL

Austin Chambers, Son of Local Contractor Badly Hurt; in Mobile Hospital.

Austin Chambers, 20 years old Manchester student at the University of Alabama, narrowly escaped death in a fall from a hotel window in Mobile, Ala., early today, according to meager details of the accident received here. The boy was badly injured and taken to a hospital in Mobile. He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. David Chambers of 68 Hollister street, Mr. Chambers being a well known building contractor in Manchester.

Dean Wires Story. Complete particulars of the accident are as yet unavailable, so it is impossible to give the extent of the injury. A telegram from Dean D. S. Lancaster of the University of Alabama to the boy's father related that Austin, a member of the university band, lost his balance and fell from the window of the Battle House Hotel in Mobile. The telegram added that the boy's life was saved only by striking the roof of an adjoining building. The dean advised that Austin was in much pain but did not state the seriousness of the accident.

It was reported that the boy's father left this morning for Alabama but this could not be verified. No one answered the telephone at the Chamber's home this afternoon. The Western Union reported that they, too, had been unable to deliver the message for similar reasons that the father might have been advised of the mishap previously and left immediately.

Played in Band. Young Chambers is a graduate of Manchester High school with the class of 1928. While in school he was a member of the baseball team in 1926, the school band 1927-28, the orchestra in 1928, the track team and also took part in the inter-class swimming meet in 1928. In the band he played clarinet and his musical talent accounts for his being a member of the University of Alabama band. Austin's brother, Theodore, was also very prominent in athletics, especially in track, while at Manchester High.

This is young Chambers' first year at the University of Alabama, an institution with an enrollment of nearly 4,000, founded in 1831 and located in University, Ala. Stuart Robinson, another Manchester boy, is also enrolled there.

FIRST PICTURE OF REBEL ARMY ENTERING BATTLE RIDDEN SANTO DOMINGO

The advance contingent of the uniformed, untrained "revolutionary army" which was able to capture Santo Domingo, capital of the Dominican Republic, almost without opposition, is pictured above as it arrived within the gates of the island metropolis to be hailed by the populace. Only one fortress, manned by federal forces, held out against the rebel troops, who marched southward across the island to occupy the capital city and demand the resignation of President Horacio Vasquez. Many of the invaders, as this Herald-NEA Service photo shows, were unarmed.

PAINTS GLOOMY PICTURE OF U. S. UNDER DRY LAW

Congressman Sums Up Evidence Given by Witnesses At House Hearing—Asks for Repeal of Act.

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—A summation of testimony given Congress by anti-prohibitionists in asking a change in the dry laws was undertaken today before the House judiciary committee by the field marshal of the wet forces who argued it disclosed a picture of corruption in government; an increase in arrests; crowded court dockets; packed jails; more speakeasies than there had been saloons in the old days; and more than a thousand persons killed as a result of the activities of enforcement officers.

The man speaking was Representative Linticum of Maryland, a Democrat. As head of the House Wet Bloc he has conducted the presentation by the wets of their side of prohibition during the hearings before the House committee. Today, the last to be allotted the floor of the Dry laws, he was the first witness.

The evidence he said the anti-prohibition group had presented witnesses from practically every field of human endeavor. They had revealed, he contended, that liquor could be bought throughout the country; that in

JURY INCOMPLETE AT LALONE TRIAL

Six Men Thus Far Selected for Trying Two Escaped Connecticut Convicts.

Jacksonville, March 4.—(AP)—The task of selecting a jury to try Roland Lalone and Watson Moulthrop for killing City Detective W. D. Smith had not been completed today after an hour of examination of veniremen at the trial of the two escaped Connecticut convicts.

All of yesterday's session was spent in an effort to select a jury, under the panel system of jury selection, court attaches said, it is difficult to estimate the time which will be required. However six veniremen who were in the jury box yesterday were still in their seats today.

Defense Plans. As during yesterday's session, defense attorneys again questioned prospective veniremen carefully as to their attitude toward escaped prisoners but gave no hint of what their defense would be.

Leo Landry, who escaped with Lalone and Moulthrop January 4, is not on trial with them. By agreement of attorneys yesterday, a severance of the cases was granted. Landry is expected to testify for the state.

In a statement to police he said

TREASURY BALANCE.

RIVER FLOODS AID FARMERS, EXPERT SAYS

State Witness Says Three- Inch Reduction in Volume Would Have Material Ef- fect on Our Soil.

Hartford, March 4.—(AP)—Completion of testimony with relation to agriculture and continuation of the presentation of evidence bearing on navigation on the Connecticut river, featured the hearing of the water diversion case of the State of Connecticut against the Commonwealth of Massachusetts before Special Master Charles W. Bunn at the county building today.

In the Third Week. The third week of the hearings, held under direction of the United States Supreme Court, finds the testimony offered by the State of Connecticut in an effort to show possible damage because of a three-inch reduction in the volume of the Swift and Ware rivers by the metropolitan district water supply system of Boston, nearing completion. Following the completion of the agricultural and navigation testimony, Deputy Attorney General Ernest L. Averill hopes to commence the introduction of evidence tending to show the availability of water supply in eastern Massachusetts in expectation of convicting Boston does not need the supplies in the western section of the state, the scheme of water supply for the district being based on preference rather than necessity.

Dr. Mont F. Morgan, soil expert for the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station testified that he had surveyed the lands usually inundated by floods in the Connecticut River Valley from state line to Middletown. Dr. Morgan said a three-inch reduction in the volume of the flood would have a material effect on the productivity of the soil, and lands which are not entirely covered by the floors are inclined to be spotty. He explained the master that while the loss of one inch in the flood flow might not be very important to the individual farmer, it would be a material factor when the acre as a whole is considered.

MANILA'S STUDENTS GO OUT ON STRIKE

10,000 Pupils of High Schools Walk Out Because Of American Teacher.

Manila, March 4.—(AP)—More than 7,000 high school students struck today, joining those of Manila High school who have walked out twice in the last few days through a controversy growing out of their resentment against an American teacher, Miss Mabel Brummitt.

The total number of striking students reached 10,000 as those from West High, South High and East High, joined the original strikers. Other students also were contemplating joining the walkout.

Demanding the striking students broadcasted as the ranks of the strikers grew. The original strike at North High school a few days ago sought the removal of Miss Brummitt from the teaching staff. Miss Brummitt was removed and four students suspended as ringleaders of the walkout.

Strike Spreads. Yesterday the North High students struck again, demanding reinstatement of their four expelled classmates. As the strike spread to other schools today the students demanded dismissal of the acting secretary of public instruction, the director of education and the principal of North High school.

Two students were mobbed this morning for refusing to join the walkout and two were attacked yesterday. Seven strikers were arrested.

Governor in Green Pajamas Receives German Officials

New Orleans, March 4.—(AP)—Aboard the cruiser in formal dress while Coy. Weiss was in full staff regalia.

Governor Long, according to the Times Picayune received the Germans in a pair of green silk pajamas, a blue and red lounging robe and blue paper slippers.

The paper quoted Consul Jaeger as having remarked to Col. Weiss after departing that "the governor's government and I demand an apology immediately. If the apology is given, then the matter ends right here."

SPECIAL BOARD NAMED TO PROBE BRUTALITIES

Workers in America Will Not Accept Dole

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—As he entered the Cabinet meeting today Secretary of Labor Davis said it would be "far better" to devote to public building construction the $50,000,000 which Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa, wants to appropriate to aid the unemployed.

The American workman wants honest employment and a steady job, Davis said, not a dole.

Characterizing the Iowan's proposal as "well intended," the secretary said he did not wish his own views to be regarded as a criticism. The sum of $50,000,000 proposed, Davis added, would not go very far as a dole. It would mean only $1 a week for 18 weeks to the 3,000,000 men estimated to be out of employment.

Brookhart recently introduced a resolution providing for $50,000,000 to be distributed by the Red Cross to the unemployed.

SUPREME COURT FINDS FOR CONN. CO. IN SUIT

Bridgeport Woman Cannot Recover Damages for In- juries—Other Decisions Handed Down Today.

Bridgeport, March 4.—(AP)—Edna V. Cavanaugh, of Bridgeport, can recover nothing from the Connecticut Company for injuries sustained May 18, 1928, while a passenger on a trolley here, it is held by the Supreme Court of Errors in an opinion returned in Hartford yesterday.

A jury in the Superior Court awarded the woman $3,000. This was set aside by Judge Isaac Wolfe upon motion of the Connecticut Company and appeal was taken. No error is found in Judge Wolfe's action in vacating the award.

Judge Samuel C. Shaw of the Common Pleas Court is upheld by the Supreme Court Justice W. Maitlie in a decision in which the rate of interest charged by the Columbus Industrial Bank of this city to Anna Rosenblatt for a loan was usurious. No error is found in a decision returned by Judge Shaw in which he found against the bank in its suit against Mrs. Rosenblatt.

TELEPHONE CO. LARGEST ENTERPRISE IN WORLD

In 55 Years It Has Grown to Four Billion Dollar Cor- poration; Owned by 469, 800 Persons.

New York, March 4.—(AP)—A "scientific toy" of doubted commercial value was the popular verdict of an incredulous world when Alexander Graham Bell invented the telephone.

The scientific toy of 1875 has become the greatest commercial enterprise of 1930.

Fifty-five years later, a generation that regards the telephone more as a necessity than a luxury greets the four billion dollar corporation that was made possible by Bell's creative genius that gave wings to the human voice.

A lineal descendant of the first Bell company, the American Telephone and Telegraph company, parent organization of the present Bell system, became the world's first

BODIES OF FLIERS NOW ON U. S. SOIL

Nome, Alaska, March 4.—(AP)—The bodies of Carl Ben Eielson and Earl Borland, Arctic flyers, rested on American soil today. They were brought across Bering sea by airplane from the motorship Nanuk, icebound near North Cape, Siberia.

The two bodies were taken to Teller, Alaska, yesterday in a plane piloted by Ed Young, Pilot Joe Crosson and Mechanic Sam Macaulay were passengers. The Russian aviators, Commander Mavrik Slipov and Mechanic Farielch, followed in their Junkers plane.

Eielson and Borland, who lost their lives while flying from Alaska to the Nanuk last November, were engaged in removing passengers and furs from the ice-locked ship when disaster overtook them. Their bodies were found only after months of searching.

Three Nations In Hunt. Flyers of three nations took part in the search, which was hampered by accidents, winter blizzards and the long Arctic nights. The searchers will be here to participate in honors for Eielson, who with George Hubert Wilkins, made a flight across the top of the world from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen in 1928.

The aerial cortege will continue as soon as possible its flight to Fairbanks, where Ole Eielson, father of the dead aviator, and Borland's young widow and sons are awaiting the bodies of their loved ones. The bodies will then be taken by train and shipped to Seattle. Lieutenant Eielson will be buried at Hatton, N. D., and Borland at Mt. Vernon, Wash.

FUGITIVE FROM JUSTICE
Hartford, March 4.—(AP)—Charles Crawford, 28, was arrested here today and held as a fugitive from justice. The police say he is wanted in Pawtucket, R. I., for jumping a bond for $1,000 in connection with an embezzlement charge.

Governor Trumbull Takes a Hand in Probing Charges Against Employees of State Institution in Meriden; Ap- points Commission With Full Authority to Look In- to the Entire Situation.

Hartford, March 4.—(AP)—A special commission of three, "with full authority to make a complete investigation into the whole situation" at the Connecticut School for Boys in Meriden, was appointed by Governor Trumbull today, as a result of the recent disclosures of brutalities and old-fashioned methods prevailing at the institution.

Those named are George H. Day, formerly judge of the Hartford Police and Juvenile Courts; Judge Walter M. Pickett of the Common Pleas Court in New Haven, and William A. Hendrick of New Haven, member of the State Board of Finance and Control.

Federal Investigation. This action by the governor, the result of a personal investigation covering several days, is coincident with a new group of charges against the institution, received by The Times yesterday, in the form of a written statement signed by seven former inmates of the school. The accusations against officials of the school revealed in it are more gruesome than any so far disclosed.

In announcing the appointment of the special committee, Governor Trumbull said:

"I feel this thing has reached a point where it calls for action on my part. I have therefore appointed a special committee, with full authority to go down there and make a complete investigation of the whole situation, to call witnesses and to take testimony. They will return their report to me, together with recommendations, and I shall take action on the basis of this report, immediately."

Judge Day Chairman. Judge Day who will be chairman of the committee, today emphasized that its work would be carried through with "the utmost promptness." He planned to go over the situation with a view to mapping out a program this afternoon and to discuss it with the two New Haven members tomorrow, he said. Further than that, the course which the committee will take has not been decided.

It is presumed that hearings will be held either at the school or elsewhere, and that those who have made statements exposing conditions at the school will be called to testify, along with the school officials involved in the charges.

One member of the special commission to investigate the situation arising out of charges of brutalities at the Connecticut School for Boys at Meriden who has become an inquisitor is William A. Hendrick of New Haven, as he was on the commission on institutions which investigated conditions at Fitch's Home for Soldiers several years ago.

The report submitted, which was largely written by Mr. Hendrick as secretary, made a keen, detailed report of administration to the soldiers' home and one which gave rise to state-wide discussions. The report, which the home also became subject of legislative consideration. Changes were made at the home as a result.

Before the commission could inquire into administration in other state institutions, a purpose for which it was created, the Legislature abolished it. Mr. Hendrick became a member of the board of finance and control. He was a newspaper publisher for many years.

COOLIDGE TO DEDICATE GREAT DAM IN ARIZONA

Hotels Crowded With Visitors for the Ceremony—Biggest
Day in History of State.

Globe, Ariz., March 4.—(AP)—Where Apache chiefs once met in solemn council, Calvin Coolidge today came to dedicate Coolidge dam, built in 1928 and named in his honor.

The former President and Mrs. Coolidge arranged to make the 35-mile trip by automobile to the dam site, where the impounded waters slowly are creeping over the old Apache capital of San Carlos.

The dedication ceremonies were set for 3:30 p. m.

Practically all state and Federal offices were ordered closed for the day and one of the greatest gatherings for a public event in Arizona's history was looked for. Hotels were crowded to capacity.

Gov. J. C. Phillips and a welcoming party met Mr. Coolidge as his train entered Arizona yesterday at Yuma.

Lieut. Gov. H. L. Carrahan of California, also was aboard the train.

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—The coming of William Howard Taft was described today by his physicians as practically unchanged since yesterday.

The official bulletin, issued by Dr. Francis R. Hagner and Thomas A. Clayton after visiting him shortly before noon, said:

"The condition of the former chief justice is unaltered since yesterday, he is comfortable and continues to take a moderate amount of nourishment."

Dr. Hagner added the former chief justice recognized those in the room about him today and smiled as he murmured goodbye to the physicians as they departed.

NINE ARE INJURED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Bus Crashes Into Auto Near Princeton, N. J.—Smaller Car Wrecked.

Trenton, N. J., March 4.—(AP)—Nine persons, passengers in a Philadelphia-New York bus, were injured early today when the heavy vehicle crashed into a sedan parked off the road on the Lincoln highway outside of Princeton.

The following received lacerations and contusions: Mrs. Hannah Howard, New York City; Mrs. Sophie Marskin, Mrs. Francis Myerson, both of Brooklyn; John Bucanego of Orange, N. J.; and Frank Kien, of Palisades, N. J. They were taken to Princeton hospital for treatment. Mrs. Marskin had a severe gash in her scalp, requiring a skin graft.

George Wilson, of New Brunswick; John Bouglin New York City; William Daley, of Somerville, Mass.; and Thomas Harding, of Montclair, were treated for minor injuries.

Headlights Out. While returning to his home from Pennsylvania in the new car he had purchased, Samuel W. Blake and his wife, of Passaic, had proceeded beyond Princeton on the highway, when Blake noticed that his headlights were out.

He drove the car to the side of the road and attempted to fix them. His wife was helping him when a New York bound bus approached. At the same time a truck came into view traveling in the opposite direction. To avoid a collision with the truck, John Davison, of Philadelphia, bus driver, swerved the wheel to the right, apparently not noticing the Blake car.

Small Car Wrecked. The heavy bus crashed into the rear of the lighter vehicle and wrecked it. The Blakes darted out of danger in time, while the bus continued on for more than 50 feet and halted off the road.

The passengers were jolted against each other and the side of the bus, resulting in injury to nine.

CALLS SENATE TOUGHER THAN A 24 INCH BIT

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—United States senators were described before the Senate lobby committee as much "tougher" than a 24-inch bit, the largest drill used in oil fields.

A telegram to that effect, sent by Earl Calloway, a member of the Independent Oil Producers Association which unsuccessfully sought a tariff on crude oil, was read to the committee. It was addressed to Tex. McIlroy of Amarillo, Texas.

"A 24-inch bit," a tough proposition," it said, "but compared with a United States Senator it is a feather bed."

Wirt Franklin, president of the Producers Association, who was on the stand at the time, said it was just "a telegram from an Irishman to another," adding that Calloway was fond of "cracking jokes."

He said that if the Senators understood what a 24-inch bit was, they would consider Calloway's reference a compliment. Calloway in his telegram spoke of the hard fight the independent oil men were having but said he thought they were making some progress.

NEWPORT NEWS PLANS BIG MARINE MUSEUM

Richmond, Va., March 4.—(AP)—The News-Leader said today that plans for the creation at Newport News, Va., of a vast marine museum to entail the expenditure of from $5,000,000 to $15,000,000 and cover an area of approximately 1,000 acres are behind two seemingly unimportant bills that are now before the General Assembly.

The project, the paper continued, is contemplated by Archer Huntington, Homer L. Ferguson, president of the Newport News Shipping and Dry Dock company and others provides the establishment of the largest museum of the kind ever attempted. The museum would be on a 3,000 acre lake and would contain reproductions of every type of vessel from the earliest days of the crude dug-out canoe, the ancient galley to the modern vessels.

The News-Leader said that the interest behind the proposed museum reported to be headed by Archer Huntington, son of the late C. P. Huntington, are ready to begin the development of the marine museum at once. It was learned on good authority, the paper continued, that approximately $4,000,000 would be spent in the development of the first phases of the project.

The cold weather today has done much towards improving the roads in the country sections as it has hardened up the soft spots that have developed in some of the roads outside of Manchester and also within the town's limits. The warm weather last week brought the frost out so fast within a few hours that traveling was so bad that many did not make any attempt to use automobiles, but resorted to horses. The warm weather seemed to have effected all roads and also helped to dry them up before real bad rains had formed.

STAR'S SON IN COURT. San Diego, Cal., March 4.—(AP)—Henry Schumann-Heink, son of the famous contralto, Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink, was found guilty yesterday of the theft of $2,300 in securities from an investment house which bears his name.

Schumann-Heink is at liberty on $15,000 bail.

EXCESS EARNINGS TO BE COLLECTED

Federal Commission to Apply New Ruling in Order Against Small Railroad.

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—Its first attempt to apply the "excess earnings" clause of the transportation Act overthrown by the Supreme Court, the Interstate Commerce Commission today made a new approach to its problem of collecting from the railroads the "excess earnings" as defined by law.

While there was some doubt whether the new proceedings would fulfill all of the requirements of a new test case, the action instituted today was the first, since the Supreme Court overruled the plan of collection which had been followed in the original test against the St. Louis and O'Fallon Railroad.

New Rulings. The commission today tentatively ordered the Brimstone Railroad and Canal Company, a small line in Louisiana built by the Union Sulphur Company and now no longer in operation, to pay $260,435.61 to the Treasury as excess profits of the years 1920 to 1925, inclusive. The Brimstone Company has voluntarily paid in $42,642.21 on this account, and will be given opportunity to protest against the new charge.

The proceeding against the Brimstone company is based on sections of the Transportation Act which entitle the government to demand from any railroad the payment of one half of the amount which it may earn in excess of a six per cent return on the fair value of its property.

The difficulty of determining the fair value has hitherto served as an almost complete block to collection. The plans followed in the case of the St. Louis and O'Fallon was rejected because the Supreme Court felt there had been a failure to give legal weight to reproduction costs.

GIRLS GROUP PLANNING FOR TURKEY SUPPER. St. Mary's Girls Friendly society will give its annual turkey supper in the Parish house tonight between the hours of 6 and 7:30. The different characters will be taken by Associate Helen Crawford, Evelyn Robinson, Charles Morgan, Harold Harrison and George Fotterson, Jr. There will be vocal solos by John Chambers.

SUPREME COURT FINDS FOR CONN. CO. IN SUIT

Injuries when run over by a cement mixer. He must do this within ten days or submit to a new trial. This was ruled by the Supreme Court of Errors in an opinion at Hartford yesterday. The award was made by a jury in the Superior Court against Andrew Oneglia, of Torrington who sued against the verdict.

John Tumbridge, real estate promoter of Ridgefield, is victor in a suit brought to Superior Court against him by Robert Richardson also of Ridgefield. The latter claims of both parties to adjoining property in Ridgefield. The Supreme Court of Errors in Hartford yesterday upheld the decision in favor of Tumbridge.

Bank Suit. The Colonial Trust Company of Philadelphia recovers the sum of $6,250 from the Joseph Hilton Company, Inc., of this city, through an opinion rendered in Hartford yesterday by Justice Haines, of the Supreme Court, with two associate justices dissenting.

The trust company sued to recover for violation of a lease on Philadelphia property by the local company. Judge Isaac Wolfe found in favor of the local company and an appeal was taken. Justice Haines in his opinion orders the trust company to enter judgment for the trust company to the amount of $6,250 with interest from Sept. 10, 1928.

NOON STOCKS

New York, March 4.—(AP)—The Stock Market was steady by bullish operations in the utilities today, after showing a sagging tendency in the early trading.

Consolidated Gas, Columbia Gas, and the New York traction were bid up sharply. Worthington Pump gaining 5 points and International Business Machines 4. Farm implements were also sent higher, J. I. Case spurring more than 10 points. Standard of New Jersey was a strong spot, advancing 2 points.

Oliv Elevator was conspicuously heavy, losing practically all of last week's gain of 14 points. National Lead declined 5 points, and Nash sagged more than a point to a new low for the year under 49. U. S. Steel was soft, slipping below 180. Call money renewed unchanged at 4 percent.

Women Show Interest In Balanced Menus

Hale's Health Market. A great many more women in Manchester are interested in balanced menus and the food for health's sake movement than one would expect. Judging from responses to progress the majority of housewives now plan their meals in accordance with the standards set by reputable food authorities. The housewife who submits the best balanced menu in the Hale contest will be given a handsome Wear-ever aluminum cooker.

Necessary entry blanks for the contest may be secured at Hale's Health market, the Oak street level of the big department store. Nearly two hundred of these blanks have already been submitted in the contest. When the event ends next Saturday the menus will be sent to the Good Housekeeping magazine institute for judging.

Hale's Health market contest is particularly timely since dietitians are engaged in controversies over the good or bad points of the Hollywood diet fad, and the many diets which have flooded the newspapers and magazines since. Since the Hale market is particularly interested in presenting its stock to the people of Manchester in the cleanest, most healthful way possible it was considered applicable for the market to seek a series of balanced menus from local women.

Hale's food department occupy a commanding position in the town's eating habits. Nearly 300,000 customers visit the Self Serve grocery store, a Rotherham, since Saturday, 1,600 shoppers were served in the health market. Some idea of the size of the food departments may be gained from the fact that 5,000 square feet of floor space are occupied by them.

DOCTOR IS KILLED; MOTIVE A MYSTERY

Cleveland, March 4.—(AP)—The slaying of Dr. Alfred Scully, prominent physician, today threw the hunt for a motive back-tracking to the past. He kept lonely and unobtrusive in the midst of a wide practice among hundreds of families.

The body of Dr. Scully, 62, with a bullet wound just above the heart, was found lying beneath the desk of his west side office last night, but there was no hint as to who his assailant might have been, nor why he was killed.

He had made hundreds of casual friends through his extensive general practice for more than 30 years, but none of them intimate enough to advance any plausible reason why his life should be sought. He was a bachelor and had no relatives here. The resolution proposed by Dr. F. Wood, physician with adjoining offices, when he rushed in after hearing a call for help. Other occupants of the building also heard sounds of a scuffle, but no one heard the shots fired, indicating the possibility that the slayer used a pistol equipped with a silencer.

Robbery was discounted with the finding of $11.90 in his effects and the failure to ransack his offices and adjoining living rooms. He had a splendid professional reputation.

TO POSTPONE ACTION ON FARM BOARD PROBE

Washington, March 4.—(AP)—At the request of Secretary Hyde, the Senate agriculture committee today deferred action on a resolution by Senator Nye, Republican, North Dakota, calling for investigation of Federal Farm Board activities.

Chairman McNary said Secretary Hyde and Chairman Legge of the board probably would be questioned before the committee acted. The resolution proposed inquiry "whether the Federal Farm Board has been fairly interpreting the agricultural marketing act and carrying out its purposes," and "whether the so-called grain trade of America has conspired to destroy the purpose and effectiveness of the act, and to embarrass the Farm Board."

McNary declined to comment on the attitude of the committee, declaring that they unanimously concurred in the suggestion of Agriculture Secretary Hyde that action be deferred "in view of the delicate situation throughout the world."

The committee chairman talked with Secretary Hyde shortly before the committee met.

WOULD SEND GRAIN TO STARVING CHINESE. Washington, March 4.—(AP)—The Senate agriculture committee today decided to seek the advice of John Van A. MacMurray, former minister to China, and John Barton Payne, chairman of the Red Cross, a resolution which would authorize the purchase of wheat and flour to be sent to China with funds from the Farm Board's $500,000,000 revolving fund.

Chairman McNary, of the committee, said MacMurray and Payne would be heard on Thursday, MacMurray only recently returned from China.

ACCIDENTAL DEATH IS DEFENSE CLAIM

Lawyers Say Mrs. Wiggins Was Killed by Member of Her Own Party.

Charlotte, N. C., March 4.—(AP)—The defense at the Ella May Wiggins murder trial today prepared for an attempt to prove a member of the woman's own party in a Gaston county labor clash shot her to death accidentally.

Mrs. Wiggins, member of an allegedly Communist textile labor union, was slain last September in what has been designated as an anti-Communist demonstration. Five Gastonia textile workers—Horace Wheelwright, Troy Jones, Lowery Davis, O. H. Lunsford and Fred Morrow—are on trial for second degree murder of the woman.

Defense attorneys, launching into the presentation of their case yesterday after the state had rested, indicated clearly they expected to prove the fatal shot was fired accidentally by one of Mrs. Wiggins' own fellow union sympathizers, and not by any one of the five defendants. Six defense witnesses whose testimony tended to support this contention, were placed on the stand before court adjourned for the day.

Before resting, the state introduced witnesses who linked every one of the defendants with events connected with the shooting. Two state witnesses pointed out Wheelwright as the man who fired into the group of union sympathizers the instant Mrs. Wiggins fell mortally wounded.

SEC. DAVIS SILENT ON PHILLY RUMORS

Reports Say He Will Oppose Grundy for the United States Senatorship.

Philadelphia, March 4.—(AP)—Persistent reports that Secretary of Labor James J. Davis would shortly announce his candidacy for the Republican nomination for United States Senator in opposition to Senator Joseph R. Grundy, stood unaltered today.

In political circles here it is generally reported that Secretary Davis will head a ticket on which former State Attorney General, Francis Shunk Brown, of Philadelphia, will be the candidate for governor.

This ticket, it is further reported, will have the support of the Philadelphia Republican organization after William S. Vare announces his withdrawal as a Senatorial candidate. Mr. Vare, who is in Florida, has given no intimation publicly that he would step aside in favor of Davis making the run against Senator Grundy, and word from him in connection with the reports of the Davis-Brown line-up is eagerly awaited.

Secretary Davis, is expected to return here from Washington for further conferences with local Republican leaders. He was here last night for a short time and refused to discuss the political situation in the state for publication.

Meanwhile, the forces back of Senator Grundy who are supporting Samuel S. Lewis, of York, for governor, are saying little.

MARDI GRAS OPENS IN NEW ORLEANS

New Orleans, March 4.—(AP)—The spirit of Harlequin and Columbine today swayed New Orleans in the general masking, costuming and revelry of the annual Mardi Gras.

At dawn on every Mardi Gras day, so tradition has it, a figure clothed in cap and bells, runs down the center of broad Canal street, the city's principal thoroughfare, calling on young and old to don their motley garb of revelry for the day of play that comes but once a year.

Masquerade Parade With the older French inhabitants the spirit of "Le Carnaval" the noon parade of Rex, king of the celebration was formed. The lord of the revelry had a seat on a throne atop a gorgeous float headed by a procession of a score of equally elaborate floats. At the City Hall the city's keys awaited him.

Further in the line of march Rex arranged a stop in front of the exclusive Boston Club on Canal street to salute his queen, Miss Shirley Carter, young daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James P. Cordill. Though masked, Rex was known to his people as Dr. Paul H. Saunders, prominent physician.

Tonight the carnival closes with the parade of the Knights of Comus, and the brilliant and formal balls of the courts of Rex and Comus. At midnight all revelry ceases, and the city figuratively bows its head in Lenten piety.

CHICAGO IS PREPARED FOR RED DEMONSTRATION

Chicago, March 4.—(AP)—There will be no "Red Thursday" in Chicago this week, for the police have made different color arrangements, calling for blue—policeman blue.

Thursday has been designated as the time for an international demonstration by the unemployed. Russian Communists, Deputy Police Commissioner John Stege said, are sponsoring it.

No marching or demonstrations will be tolerated here at all meetings. They will not interfere unless the government is attacked. In that case they have orders to disperse the assemblies.

Stege said that "unquestionably, Communist agents are taking advantage of the present unrest to instill ideas of riots in the minds of the unemployed, who are mostly aliens."

Mean Business "We do not intend to fool," added Stege, "if there are any attempts to disturb the peace."

Circulars from Russia, he said, had come into his possession. The circulars instructed marchers to carry blackjacks and knives.

The office of the Federal district attorney said government regulations did not permit summary dealing with aliens, but that the government agencies here would cooperate with the police.

FLOOD TRAPS 600 IN FRENCH PLANT

Whole Town Submerged; Many Houses Collapse as River Overflows Banks.

Toulouse, France, March 4.—(AP)—While the swirling waters of the swollen Agout river surged about them, 600 workmen were imprisoned today in a flooded spaghetti factory at Villemer, awaiting rescue.

The town itself was like a semi-submerged island in the center of a lake, covering an area of sixty square miles or more. Many of the houses collapsed, under the sudden rising of the river yesterday.

The torrent carried all sorts of debris toward the mother river, the Garonne, which itself a freshet, was believed to have taken more than a score of lives as it deviated the region north and east of Toulouse.

Hundreds of houses and factories collapsed, roads and railways were cut, and bridges swept away. Conditions were said to be worse than at any time within the past half century.

Communications are interrupted from the flooded regions, but the few messages received indicate that the loss of life is near 20 and the property damage more than 100,000,000 francs. The fate of the 600 workmen imprisoned in a flooded spaghetti factory at Villemer has not been learned.

Stoppage of the rain that has fallen continuously four days, gave hope that the worst danger is over. This is supported by word that the rivers Tarn and Correze are falling.

Adults, too, prefer "NO DOSING" for COLDS

When Vicks introduced the better method of treating colds externally it was especially appreciated by mothers because it avoids "dosing," which so often disturbs children's delicate digestions.

Each year more and more adults, too, have found Vicks equally good for their own colds. Today, the whole trend of medical practice is away from needless "dosing."

Just rubbed on, Vicks gives off medicated vapors which are inhaled, and, at the same time, acts through the skinlike plaster.

BANK NOTE PLOT
EXCITES PORTUGAL

National Bank Loses Millions
Because of Unauthorized
Issue of Money.

Lisbon.—(AP)—After five years delay the alleged authors of what has been described as the greatest attempt ever made to debase a nation's currency, are to be placed on trial here this month.

The plot with which they are charged was uncovered in 1925 and the revelations caused the overthrow of the then Portuguese Cabinet. Its ramifications spread into diplomatic channels, involving a South American minister, and also resulting in suits and a counter suit between the Bank of Portugal and the printing firm of which Sir William Waterlow, lord mayor of London, is the head.

Something like $5,000,000 in unauthorized Portuguese notes of 500 escudos denomination were put into circulation in 1925 but the queer part was that the notes were not counterfeit. They were simply unauthorized. The defendants, therefore, cannot be brought to trial for note forgery.

Alves Reis, who claims to be an engineer, and Antonio Bandeira, former Portuguese minister at the Hague, and his brother Jose, together with two dutchmen named Marang and Heines, are accused of being the ringleaders of the affair.

The alleged plot started with the establishment at great expense of the "Bank of Angola and Metropole" in Lisbon for which a special law was passed by Parliament. Stock of the bank was sold to prominent persons, who were made members on the board of directors. A sumptuous building was constructed near the Tagus and everybody connected with the bank appeared prosperous and drew attention to themselves by lavish jewelry, estates and motor-cars.

Flood of Notes
The flood of notes which swamped the country passed unnoticed until the cashier of the Bank of Portugal by chance recognized several numbers of new bank-notes of the "Bank of Angola and Metropole" as identical with some of the Bank of Portugal's notes.

Reis without information as to how the notes were lithographed and numbered by the London firm, headed by Sir William Waterlow, which for many years printed the currency notes of the Bank of Portugal.

The firm, Sir William said, had printed the notes upon receipt of a regular order signed by the governor of the Bank of Portugal. A civil case was brought by the Bank of Portugal against the British firm and a counter-suit for $2,500,000 was instituted by the printing firm for moral prejudice to its reputation.

Loss of Millions
When the situation was cleared up, it was found that the Bank of Portugal was $2,000,000 "in the red," $3,000,000 having been realized by sale of the defunct bank's property and the confiscation of the individual fortunes of its directors.

COLUMBIA

Mrs. J. Henry Lafleur and Francis returned Friday after spending a few days at the home of her daughter, Mrs. John Etheridge, Jr., at Hartford.

Mrs. John Howell, wife of the Columbia pastor, entered the Hartford Hospital and was operated on Friday morning. Mrs. Howell is getting on nicely after last reports.

Mrs. Carleton Davenport and four children who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Davenport's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter, returned to their home in Shelburne Falls, Mass. Saturday afternoon.

The Boy Scouts held their regular meeting Friday evening in the hall, in charge of the Asst. Scout Master, in the absence of the Scout Master, Rev. John Howell.

There was a slight accident at the intersection of the state roads Friday morning. A car coming out from in front of Lewis's store hit the rear end of a car going in the direction of Hebron.

There was a collision between two cars, but it serves to agitate further the feeling that some sort of supervision is needed at the corner, either by police or signal lights, as cars go through at a high rate of speed, and it is impossible to see clearly in all directions as one approaches the corner.

Incidentally the driver of the car going through had neither drivers license or car registration with him so he was taken to the Justice of the Peace and fined for the commission.

Saturday being the first day for the use of the 1930 drivers licenses, State Police were on the lookout for those driving on the old ones.

Car accidents were reported in the Poor Farm, and those who had delayed in getting the new licenses for a few days were out of luck.

Quite a few townspeople were stopped but we have heard of none who got into trouble. Some had just received their new licenses in the mail that morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry Isham celebrated their 45th wedding anniversary in a quiet manner at their home Saturday afternoon.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. F. D. Avery, the beloved pastor of the Columbia Church for many years.

Mr. and Mrs. Isham have two children, Mrs. Ruth Jacobs of Columbia, and Mrs. Adelaide Gillette of Spring Hill, and three grand-daughters, the Misses Hazel, Lois, and Marjorie Gillette.

Among the callers Saturday afternoon were Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Isham, Sunday callers were Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gillette and three daughters of Spring Hill.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Collins, Mrs. Hubert Collins, and Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Schriefer motored to Bridgeport Sunday. Mr. and Mrs. Schriefer went to the home of their son, Henry, to see the little granddaughter there.

On their return they were accompanied by Little Virginia Collins, who spent the past week at the home of her aunt, Mrs. James Grimm.

There was no Christian Endeavor service in Columbia Sunday evening, the society being invited to Gilead to see and hear some of the Chinese children from the Chinese mission in Hartford.

MEXICO NOW MECCA FOR U. S. TOURISTS

Heaviest Trade in 20 Years
Reported by Mexico City
Merchants.

Mexico City.—(AP)—The thousands of American tourists who visited Mexico City for the inaugural of President Pascual Ortiz Rubio furnished the high spot in the heavy winter tourist trade here, which has been unparalleled in twenty years of Mexican revolutionary history.

Benefiting from a year of internal tranquility, increasing international good will with the United States, word by mouth advertising of increasing numbers of visitors, and the work of the recently organized tourist commission, hundreds of tourists and thousands of dollars are flowing in Mexico weekly, to marvel at "discovering" so close to home a country so distinctly ancient, foreign and unspoiled in aspect.

Weekly Excursions
Nearly every week excursions of from fifty to two hundred visitors arrive from various parts of the United States for visits varying from a week to ten days. Mexico City's largest hotel has been filled since November and all its rooms are reserved until the end of May.

The railroads and tourist commission are largely responsible for the increasing numbers of excursionists, but many more tourists are coming to Mexico in small groups, the result of personal "sales talk" given them by neighbors, friends or relatives who have made the trip.

No Big Funds.
The tourist commission still in the process of organization and without extensive funds for advertising, has confined its efforts thus far to promoting good will and friendly understanding between Mexicans and Americans, and to the guarantee of safety to Mexico's visitors.

Since it is at the border gateways that first and sometimes last impressions of a country are formed, the commission has begun an educational campaign among the customs and immigration employees who deal with visitors, stressing the value of understanding courtesy and fair, unbiased treatment of tourists.

Red Tape Cut
Furthermore border red tape has been reduced to a minimum so that tourists can enter Mexico on tourist cards easily obtainable and at a minimum of cost.

Border inspection of baggage now is conducted aboard train, eliminating former long delays, and there has been a general effort to convince visitors that the latch string is out.

The government, furthermore, has cooperated to the point where high-way robberies and bandit attacks are a thing of the past. The principal highways, but of Mexico city to the points of interest are constantly patrolled by troops, and bandit gangs which once thrived have been dispersed.

Mexico City Merchants have awakened to the influx of tourists, also, and it is no uncommon sight now to see window signs in Spanish and English. Practically all the large stores employ some English-speaking clerks.

LARGEST GRANITE BLOCK
Brattleboro, Vt., March 4.—(AP)—The Presbrey Leland Company, Inc., today notified the United States Geological Survey of the quarrying at its west Dummerston quarry of what is believed to be the largest single block of granite ever quarried in the world.

It is pure white and is in exceptionally good condition. Its estimate weight is 8,181,000 pounds, and its dimensions are: 125 feet long, 35 feet wide and 11 feet in average thickness.

The Presbrey Leland officials said their block weighed five times more than the Assuan obelisk in Egypt.

DAVIS KEEPS SILENT
Washington, March 3.—(AP)—James J. Davis, secretary of Labor, declined today upon his return to Florida to discuss reports that he would be a candidate for governor or Senator in the Republican Pennsylvania primaries.

At the time Mr. Davis accepted a place in the Hoover Cabinet it was announced that he would serve a year but in some circles it is believed that he will continue to hold his present post.

NO MORE FRUIT FLIES IN FLORIDA, IS REPORT

Orlando, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—R. A. T. Baker, entomologist for the Department of Agriculture, in charge of Mediterranean fruit fly research experiments in Florida, today told a Congressional sub-committee that in his opinion, "not a single larva, pupa or living fruit fly is in Florida today."

He said he believed the pest had been entirely eradicated, and added that even the fruit flies kept in cages at the government's experimental station here for experiment purposes have been destroyed during the past few days because they are no longer needed.

Chairman W. R. Wood, Republican, Indiana, asked Dr. Baker how soon the Department of Agriculture should raise the quarantine regulating the shipment of fruit out of the state.

Dr. Baker said he could not give the exact date, but if no flies were found by July 1, or after the time of ripening of surian cherries then "I would have no hesitancy in recommending to the Department of Agriculture that the regulations be lifted."

GOOD JUDGMENT

Only one legal voter for every hundred enrolled in Manchester was physically represented at the adjourned annual and special town meetings here last night. The less than one hundred present took but a little part in the transaction of business excluding a few who hold elective offices. The body of voters merely said "Aye" two or three times and the job was done.

It might be argued that such is not a healthy condition—but, isn't it? A prominent citizen of the town, one who has been a taxpayer for years, was asked yesterday afternoon if he intended to go to the town meeting. He replied that he was not going to the meeting because he knew that whatever the Selectmen recommended was for the best interests of the town.

That's a mighty high compliment to pay to a group of seven men elected to exercise the prudential affairs of the town. It proves that Manchester puts great trust in that small board. And, after all, isn't that why those seven men are elected? They are known to the great bulk of voters as men who will use the best judgment in handling the town's affairs.

Some of the small group who attended last night's meeting were there professionally because they had heard that an attempt would be made to vote through a "big park appropriation" or to "put East Center street across." Those few who believed that such strategy would be resorted to by the Selectmen do not know the seven who comprise the board. The Selectmen had no idea of attempting any such move. They realize that it would be untimely to saddle the town with more expense at the present, and are further proving their sound judgment by shelving needless costs for the time being.

TWELVE

The jury system, pro and con seems to be the subject of many controversies these days. The local Lions club heard a budding young lawyer give an interesting historical background of juries and the jury system last night. There is one angle of the controversy we would like to hear developed and that is—why twelve on a jury? Did you ever consider the import of the figure "twelve" with particular relation to justice? Why did Christ have twelve disciples rather than eleven or thirteen? Was it mere circumstance in those ancient times? We would like to be enlightened on the figure "twelve." It would prove interesting historical research for some ambitious student seeking a subject for a thesis.

WHY NOT USE THE RACK?

Michael Fiaschetti used to be in charge of the Italian squad of the New York City police force. Now he is at the head of a private detective bureau; and he believes that any American city can quickly clean up its underworld problem if it will only let its police use the stool pigeon and the third degree in unlimited quantities.

The stool pigeon, as you know, is an underworld informer; a member of the criminal class who secretly passes out information to the police.

And the third degree, of course, is the business of taking a prisoner and hammering the living daylight out of him until he confesses.

Fiaschetti defends both of these systems. He has found, he says, that they work; and he can't see any sense in handling gangsters with kid gloves.

Several years ago, he says, a little boy was kidnaped and murdered in New York. The police for a long time got nowhere in their investigation. Finally Fiaschetti got a stool pigeon, who told him who the murderers were. There were five of them. Fiaschetti arrested them, but he didn't have enough evidence to take them to court. They refused to talk. "Then," says Fiaschetti, "I went to work. I put the five men in a room and walked in several minutes later armed with a sawed-off baseball bat. When I came out there was blood splattered on the walls and ceiling—and I had five signed confessions. All the men went to the electric chair."

The end is usually justified by the means, and the murderers of a small boy hardly deserve much sympathy, no matter what happens to them. But just suppose that in some similar case the stool pigeon might make a mistake, or lodge a false accusation to work off a personal grudge, so that the police should become convinced that five utterly innocent men were guilty.

Is there anything very agreeable about the thought of a burly cop wading in, with a sawed-off baseball bat, using it until "there was blood splattered on the walls and ceilings"—when all of his victims were innocent?

That's the sort of thing that can and DOES happen when third degree methods are used. Men have confessed to crimes they never dreamed of committing, just to escape from being beaten to death.

Besides, if we are going to make human torture a part of our police methods, why use baseball bats and fists? The police of the middle ages had better ideas. Why not go back to them? If we must torture prisoners to get confessions why not install the rack and the thumb screws and the other devices of the inquisition?

The third degree, after all, is only a substitute for brains. The police of London do not have to use it—yet they manage to convict a far higher percentage of criminals than our American police do. They are able to get their evidence in legal ways. Are we too dumb to do likewise?

ANSWER TO PESSIMISTS

If the development of America's machine civilization has ever bothered you, you might do well to spend a little time with Michael Pupin's little book, "Romance of the Machine."

Prof. Pupin, one of the foremost scientists in the country, undertakes, in this book, to answer those European and domestic critics who believe that this nation, because of its dependence on machines, is giving way to a sordid, soul-killing materialism.

The whole development of the machine, from the invention of the steam engine down to the latest refinement of the radio, is nothing at all—says Prof. Pupin—but the development of man's understanding of nature. Every machine that is used is simply an adaptation, on the part of mankind, of some natural force that has always been in existence.

The "invention of the steam engine," he writes, "gave man a crude copy only of the cosmic engine. The mind of man, and his awkward hand, can never do more than make a crude copy of nature's subtle ways. The energy of a flame under the boiler of the engine is a morsel of the solar energy stored up in the carbon of nature's scrapped machines—wood, coal, oil. The flame is a tiny terrestrial offspring of the solar flame of the cosmic engine."

This truth, as Prof. Pupin sees it, holds good all along the line. "Moving matter in the steam engine and in its offspring, the gas engine, and moving electricity in the electrical machines, supply the propelling force to our modern civilization," he says. "The energy of their motion feeds upon the energy morsels which solar radiation brought from heaven to earth, and which the earth stored up as coal and oil in the guarded depths of her bosom."

These stored-up treasures waited millions of years until nature's lessons taught man how to use them. It is unthinkable that man, aided by these heaven-born machines, and by the celestial energy which drives them and guided by the loving hand of nature, should use all these heavenly gifts for the purpose of creating a civilization which will fill the soul of mankind with sordid materialism.

Prof. Pupin's book is rather important. It sounds a note that we need to have struck again and again. For our machines have put us to traveling at a rapid clip. A great many people are busy assuring us that we are only rushing down a steep place into the sea. We need a strong voice like Prof. Pupin's to assure us.

The present age, above all others, ought to be characterized by hope, optimism, expectancy. Our prophets of gloom are the bewildered holdovers from a former generation. It is time we let our scientists speak.

IT'S EXCITING, ANYHOW

It is a little bit hard to tell just how seriously one is to take this news of a dreadful plot to blow up the Senate chamber in Washington. There seems to be a certain amount of evidence on the matter; yet the whole business has such a moving picture melodrama sound that one's tendency is to dismiss it as a hoax. However, true or false, the plot at least provides a bit of excitement for a dull winter. Nothing of this kind has been attempted, as far as we know, since Guy Fawkes laid his memorable plans for blowing the British Parliament into the Thames. It would be fearsome to learn that our senators were really in danger; but pending the confirmation of such a suspicion, we can at least sit back and enjoy the turmoil.

Washington.—President Herbert Hoover's first year in the White House having ended, it now becomes in order to look ahead and hazard a few guesses as to what his second year will be like.

Only the briefest survey is necessary to convince one that the president faces many grave problems in his second year.

Troublesome developments in politics, legislation, foreign affairs, business conditions and certain domestic issues seem certain to try the president's powers to the utmost during the next 12 months.

An outstanding example is furnished in the field of foreign relations by the London naval conference.

Reduction Not Likely. When this conference was announced, on the heels of President Hoover's call for international naval armament reduction, peace advocates cheered loudly. Now, however, reports from London indicate that chances for real naval armament reduction are remote. Persistent reports say that the American delegation has acted without advice from Hoover, making such suggestions as the one for a new $50,000,000 battleship. At any rate, if the conference fails to bring about reduction the administration will be robbed of its outstanding chance for prestige.

Then there is the political field. Congressional elections are coming, and if the election of a wet Democrat in Calvin Coolidge's strong Republic balliwick in Massachusetts is any omen there is mighty little encouragement in it for President Hoover. Nor is there any other light on the horizon.

In addition, Chairman Claudius Huston of the Republican National Committee finds his resignation being predicted quite frequently by amateur critics. First he was made defendant in a mysterious $80,000 suit for repayment of a loan, and then he was disclosed as a former lobbyist for one of the big corporations in connection with Muscle Shoals. None of this, of course, makes Mr. Hoover's political outlook any rosier.

And, incidentally, you might notice that Mr. Coolidge's cross-country tour is arousing considerable political gossip of an unsettling nature.

The legislative situation is also cloudy. The rambunctiousness of the Senate progressives, coming as it does in an election year, indicates that they believe their people back home support their views. The traitor bill is still pending, with Hoover's position still undisclosed. Old Guard Republicans, who never did love Hoover, were further riled by his failure to consult them on the Hughes appointment. Hoover, the Old Guard and the progressives, in fact, make a rather remarkable political triangle.

Aside from the tariff, the leading issue would seem to be power, prohibition and farm relief. "The power issue is apt to grow thornier. Senator Couzens, chairman of the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee, says the Federal Power Commission offers "one of the rottenest exhibitions of government I ever heard of," and Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur, seems headed for trouble through his apartment policy of delivering Boulder Dam power to private utilities instead of municipalities.

Prohibition is an equally troublesome issue. Three such prominent dregs are Senator Borah, Senator Norris and Senator Wheeler are demanding an investigation of the prohibition enforcement organization from top to bottom. Congress is virtually ignoring Hoover's Crime Commission's enforcement recommendations, except for the old plan to transfer enforcement from the Treasury to the Justice Department. This commission, too, seems to be sinking back into obscurity.

Farm Issue Not So Bad. Farm Relief is a brighter issue than the others, even though the prices of wheat and cotton are still falling. That, of course, isn't Hoover's fault, although some farmers may blame him.

The business situation likewise is gradually improving, and though the slump of last fall damaged a special prop of Hoover prestige, the effects of this are not apt to cut much figure during the second presidential year. The prospective deficit in governmental finances, however, is not a cheering sign.

On top of all this, various of the president's appointments have met with opposition—including, for example, the appointment of an army man, Major General Herbert Crosby, as District of Columbia commissioner.

So there are the president's prospects for his second year. All in all, it promises to be a rather troublesome period for him.

HAND SURGERY FOR ADHESIONS

When the adhesions have become tightly formed, the most satisfactory way to loosen them is by means of deep manipulations with the skilled fingers of someone who has learned the technique of this particular work. If you have been told that you have a serious case of adhesions, I am sure that you will appreciate the knowledge that most adhesions can be separated bloodlessly by stretching them loose with the special manipulations that have been developed in the last few years.

As the well trained fingers of your treating doctor work to separate these organs that have joined together, you can notice the improvement as the connecting tissues are gently severed, and the beauty of this treatment is that it can be done without the need of serious surgical adhesions forming. The bloodless treatments for adhesions is practically painless and even in severe cases a few guesses as to what his second year will be like.

(Do Nerves Rebuild?) Question.—Mrs. W. asks: "Is it true that nerves do not rebuild themselves when once destroyed?" Answer: Some cells are completely destroyed through injury and never rebuilt, but with the ordinary changes taking place in the body the cells are rebuilt as fast as they are destroyed. Wood alcohol destroys cells, often causing blindness, but grain alcohol is a stimulant and does not cause poisoning except when used in excess. Nicotine is a violent poison but only small amounts are taken in through chewing tobacco and smoking. Phosgen and chlorine are poisonous in large quantities.

IN NEW YORK New York, March 4.—Things you may not have known about more-or-less celebrities: Belle Baker, the film and stage warbler, came from a ghetto tenement destroyed through injury and never rebuilt, but with the ordinary changes taking place in the body the cells are rebuilt as fast as they are destroyed. Wood alcohol destroys cells, often causing blindness, but grain alcohol is a stimulant and does not cause poisoning except when used in excess. Nicotine is a violent poison but only small amounts are taken in through chewing tobacco and smoking. Phosgen and chlorine are poisonous in large quantities.

when he changed his mind. And Fred Waring, of Waring's Pennsylvanians, left college with an architect's rating in his pocket. Today he makes around $60,000 a year. "But if I had stayed in an architect's office, I might be making $100 a week," he murmurs.

John Golden, the drama producer, began life as a bricklayer and once helped build a theater wherein some of his plays now appear. And Flo Ziegfeld, the gloriator, was manager for Sam Lowy, the strong gent. And the old-timers should remember when Edgar Selwyn, who also puts on shows, played the sheik in that latter day production of "The Arab."

George Kelly, who has written prize plays, was a bridge engineer, stationed in South America. Jed Harris, said to be the fattest pursed of the new drama producers, worked his way through Yale.

B. A. Rolfe, whose daddy made millions operating bands and orchestras, literally lifted Jesse Lasky, the movie magate, from the orchestra pit, where Lasky was a musician. The two became business partners in later years but split and Lasky went to the gallufing celluloids in a large way. Rolfe, incidentally, was leader of the orchestra at the time.

Maurice Campbell, the prohibition director, who gets his names in the papers quite frequently, used to put other people's names on the front pages, became a theater man and married Henrietta Grosman, the actress.

Louis B. Mayer, the MGM picture magate, started with a little film house in Haverhill, Mass., and Lewis Selznick, another cinema potentate, was a jewelry salesman in Pittsburg. Wilson Mizner, who rags talkies out in Hollywood these days and is one of the major wits, ran a shop where they sold imitation oil paintings. And Frank Harris, whose books finally had to be censored, admits at great length in his latest "Paper Book" that he was not only a cowboy, but got tied up in the early day cattle business through a chance meeting in a Chicago hotel, where he was a bell hop.

When the Ponselle Sisters (Rose and Carmel), of Metropolitan Opera fame, were getting their start in vaudeville, they "teamed" under the name of "Ponsello Sisters."

Constance Bennett was the "wow" of the undergraduate dance brigade. Irving Berlin often tells how, frightened beyond all hope, he made his first stage appearance at the London Hippodrome and announced that he was going to sing his own composition, "Alexander's Rag Time Band." And a voice came from the gallery, "Ya big liar, you can't sing." And you know, of course, that

Al Jolson was an end man in Fields' minstrels.

Lester Allen, the revue wisecracker, started as a circus clown. Mae West, who produced "Diamond Lil" and later got herself arrested for putting on a shady play was once a vaudeville acrobat and did a "strong woman" stunt.

And Arthur Hammerstein, the big music and theater man, wanted to be a pugilist, to the extent of becoming sparring partner for Kid McCoy.

GILBERT SWAN. "MANHATTAN GOAT" (Meriden Journal).

Gents who are domiciled at Sing Sing prison in New York must feel a bit sheepish now over having called our poor Fred Edel the "Manhattan goat." It seems that he was to be the first slayer from Manhattan in many, many months to burn for a killing, and in seeming derision he was nicknamed goat in the understanding that some convicted murderer had to die and he, alone and penniless, was to be the goat.

Mr. Edel has fooled 'em, completely. The luck that carried him through his well-known Connecticut experiences did not desert him after he had been convicted of the brutal murder and robbery of an actress in New York. Four times the execution of the death sentence has been put off and now he does not face the chair again until the week beginning March 31. As Al Fools' day comes during that week perhaps Edel can fool his fellow prison inmates once more.

Residents of Edel's former hunting grounds cannot understand the legal turns in New York State and they were the more puzzled when a judge asked the governor to grant an indefinite stay of execution, notwithstanding defense lawyers have had many weeks in which to gather "new" evidence. The governor had to remind the learned jurist that the law would not permit a reprieve without a definite date for execution. But, as past events have shown, there is no law to prevent continued reprieves.

ROBBERS GET $2,000

Radio Turns Theater Into a Movie Studio

The glass-enclosed stage of the new NBC studio in New York. The "curtain," which weighs six tons, shuts off noises of the audience.

New York (AP)—Radio has gone on the stage. In fact it has advanced a few steps further and has turned an entire theater into a broadcast studio.

To do that it had to overcome many obstacles, including the installation of a six-ton glass "curtain," which can be lowered and raised by one man, to make the stage soundproof.

Listeners long have wanted to see as well as hear their favorites in action. Broadcast studios are not large enough to accommodate all of them. The result was the decision to change a theater into a studio where fans could sit comfortably watching a broadcast program go on the air from a station studio.

The stage studio is a realization of an ambition of officials of the National Broadcasting Company. They have taken over the theater, with accommodations for an audience of 600, on the roof of the Amsterdam theater building in the heart of New York's Times Square district.

To make the stage into a studio, innumerable alterations were necessary. The seating section was unchanged, except for the installation of loudspeakers at various points of vantage.

The audience had to be shut off from the stage, yet be able to see. Numerous microphone outlets were installed about the stage, each one leading through a separate conduit to the control room in the rear of the balcony. There the operator can watch and hear the entertainers and gauge the output accordingly. From the theater, the programs are fed to the local NBC stations and chains by special wires.

The audience at these broadcast "shows" really watches with the curtain down. It does not actually hear the voices of the performers, as they address only the microphone. The music and other entertainment is conveyed to the immediate listeners by loudspeakers just like it is to those using radio receivers far away.

Another thing. Tickets for the shows will not cost a cent. Listeners will be admitted up to the limit of the seating capacity upon the presentation of "pastboards" which are to be distributed free on request. Aside from the present apparent features of being such a studio, there is the future possibility that it might come in handy in the production of television broadcasts.

ARCHDUCHESS GOT $7,000 FOR JEWELS

Her Agent Sold Necklace for $60,000 and Kept the Remainder.

New York, March 4.—(AP)—Further action by the district attorney's office in the recent sale of the historic Napoleon necklace of Archduchess Maria Theresa today awaited questioning of her grand nephew, the Archduke Leopold who was present when the necklace, valued by the archduchess at $400,000, was sold for $60,000.

Assistant District Attorney Harold Hastings said he would make no prediction as to what action he would take until he heard the archduke's version of the affair. The archduke has already said he knew of the sale, was present when it took place but had no financial interest in it.

Got Only $7,000. Vienna police in a cablegram to Laurence Steinhardt, counsel for the archduchess, said she received only $1,270 from Charles L. Townsend, her former agent, who sold the necklace to W. M. Michel, Fifth avenue jeweler for $60,000.

They said Townsend in a letter dated Chicago, Feb. 13, inclosing the check, explained the balance of $52,730 had been retained to cover expenses incurred in the sale. Steinhardt said he was still looking for Townsend whom he traced to Palm Beach from where he departed without leaving a forwarding address on or about Feb. 17.

Walkers Control Autos By New Persian Stunt

Paris—(AP)—"Press a button and stop traffic" is the latest way to get across a Paris street.

It's a new system being tested on the Quai du Louvre, at the end of the Pont des Arts, one of the less used of bridges over the Seine.

When a person wishes to cross the street, he presses a button, which lights a red traffic signal and electrically stops traffic. Jokers who wish to amuse themselves by stopping the vehicular stream have been given due consideration by the engineers. They can keep the lamp lighted 15 seconds, but there follows an interval of 45 seconds before the light can be lighted again.

Steamer Pulls Itself Apart in Irish Yard

Belfast—(AP)—Thirty feet are being inserted into the good ship La Mare, a 8,689-ton steamer of the United Fruit Steamship company of Glasgow.

The ship was cut in half to make the insertion. Rivets were drilled out around the four decks, and around the shell tank on top and bottom. The interior was cut away in the same manner, and the ship's winches and windlasses were connected to mooring pawls on the dock by wire hawsers.

When the winches were started, the bow of the boat was pulled along the launchway. Within five minutes the bow and stern were separated by the necessary 30 feet.

Wing Slots Enable Ship to Land Almost Vertically; Reversible Propellor Acts as a Brake for Pilot.

IT DOES ALMOST EVERYTHING BUT FLOAT—Here's the unique plane which J. S. McDonnell, Jr., of Milwaukee, inventor, hopes to win first place and $100,000 in the Guggenheim Foundation's safe aircraft competition at Mitchel Field, New York. Largely because of the wing slots (indicated by the arrows) it climbs sharply into the air after a short run, flies almost as slow as a blimp and lands almost vertically stopping within 20 feet.

REVERSIBLE PROPELLOR ACTS AS BRAKE—And now they have airplanes with reversible propellers, enabling the pilot to "apply the brakes" when landing, or even taxi backward on the ground. Here's a novel design that A. K. McLeod, above, exhibited at the Western Aircraft Exposition at Los Angeles. The pilot can change the pitch of the propeller blades by the chain drive shown in the picture, to accelerate or decrease speed and also to aid in many stunt flying maneuvers.

Minaret Jacks Trade Dying Out Of Turkey

Istanbul—(AP)—The trade of steeple-jack, or rather of minaret-jack, is dying out of Turkey. So little attention is paid to mosque repairs under the new regime, that about fifty apprentices have attached themselves to the six master jacks who remain to carry on a flourishing trade of the old religious days.

Upon the three apprentice scalars of Istanbul's slender, dangerously pointed minarets there will rest, as death claims the old masters, the entire burden of repairing the harm that snow, wind, and lightning bring upon these "fingers of stone that point to God."

But as only the largest mosques are kept in repair nowadays, the three will have long waits between climbs. The minarets of lesser mosques crumble unheeded.

It Is Easy To End Fat

That is, in the right way, used by modern physicians. No abnormal exercise or diet, but help to a gland that is weak. The recent large reduction in excess fat has been largely due to that method.

This modern method is embodied in Marmola prescription tablets. People have used them for 22 years—millions of boxes of them. In almost every circle you can see the amazing change it brings.

If over-fat, you owe yourself a trial of Marmola. Don't remain abnormal. All druggists supply Marmola at $1 a box. Each box states the formula and tells the reasons for results. Start growing thin, as your friends have done, at once.

SWEDEN'S QUEEN WORSE. Rome, March 4.—(AP)—Queen Victoria of Sweden, who is ill at the royal villa here, had suddenly grown worse. Her condition again is grave. Her personal physician, Doctor Axel Munthe, who had been accorded a brief rest, was summoned hastily and administered oxygen. The Italian royalties are keeping informed as to her condition and a direct telephone to Stockholm has been installed at the Villa Svezia, where the queen is confined.

Doctor Allows Carnera One More Round at Completion of Fifth and Ambling Alp Comes Through.

Philadelphia, March 4.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, the man mountain from Italy, had another knockout victim to his growing list today and was some $10,000 richer by reason of his victory over Roy (Ace) Clark, towering Philadelphia negro.

Clark, an inch and a half taller than the ambling Alp, though 37 pounds lighter, was rocked to sleep in the sixth round last night when Primo's ponderous right crashed against his jaw. Twice in the fourth Carnera had thrown a range and Clark went down for counts of 8 and 9.

Carnera found Clark tougher than any of his seven preceding opponents in the United States all of whom he knocked inside of two rounds. Primo took a considerable pasting himself from the hard-hitting negro and in the fifth and early part of the sixth when the battle seemed to be going against him, kept boring in with both fists flying.

Two vicious rights closed Primo's left eye completely, but he merely grimaced and kept on trying. Between the fifth and sixth rounds the club physician examined the damaged optic and said he would let the fight go one more round, despite Carnera's protest that he was all right.

Half blinded he shook off Clark's heavy blows when the sixth opened and as the fans shouted to stop the fight, he waded in and smothered Clark with pledriving blows.

Ace willed under the attack and a savage hook knocked him off his feet. Clark was through and the vast Venetian, battle-scarred for the first time since his American invasion, showed that he could "take it" if necessary.

BIKE RACE

New York, March 4.—(AP)—A very dull session of riding was exhibited from one a. m. throughout the 2:30 a. m. sprints until 5 a. m., the closing time for the customers, at the international six-day bicycle race today.

Not one jam was started, nor one lap gained by any of the riders. The slim crowd diminished to a handful of spectators during the dull riding.

The three favorite teams of the race, McNamara and Winter, Bellono-Debaets and Lefourier-Brocato, were in a triple tie for leadership, two laps ahead of their nearest rivals.

ODDITIES IN THE FIELD OF SPORT

Jack Britton Arrives For Bout On Thursday

Jack Britton, former world's heavyweight champion, who meets Alf Schell, formerly of Germany, in the star bout at Foot Guard hall Thursday night, arrived in Hartford today to wind up his training. Jack will work out at the St. Nicholas gym. He is comfortably past forty, is this crafty veteran, but he looks several years younger than that and he is in fine shape.

Britton returned to active work in the ring two years ago after his comfortable fortune had vanished in Florida where the hurricane did a lot of damage to real estate holdings in which he had substantial interests. Since that comeback essay he has met and defeated a lot of promising youngsters. Most of his bouts have been wins in the past two years, but he has dropped a few decisions, Frankie O'Brien, rugged Hartford boy, being among the battlers who forced the veteran to the losing end.

Jack is confident that he can keep the aggressive Schell at bay and keep him from landing with that hard right which has done so much damage along the waterfront since the German started campaigning on these shores. The Joe Howard-Joe Smith bout is on again. It appeared that Howard would be off the card and that Eddie Elle would take his place, but Joe remains on the card, a trivial difference having been adjusted.

Joe Smith and Howard are two former amateur stars, each owning a rugged stock. Joe is employed by the Hartford Gas Company and Howard at the post office so this brings a battle between two of the many agencies that supply the general public with a daily need. They are down for six rounds and there will be four other bouts.

This is the balance of the card: Six rounds: Sammy Kraft, Bridgeport, vs. Billy Smith, Yonkers; 10½ rounds: Holyoke vs. Mike Toronto, Bridgeport. Four rounds: Tony Cicento, Hartford, vs. Marty Martino, Hartford; Jimmy Pasternack, Newington, vs. Tony Balintony, Bridgeport.

Chicago Cubs Predict Everything Their Way

Both Wrigley and McCarthy Say National League Race Is Already Over; Praise Bell.

By PAUL R. MICKELSON

Santa Catalina Island, Cal., March 4.—(AP)—When two such conservatives as William Wrigley, Jr., and Manager Joe McCarthy come out with flat statements that the Cubs will repeat their National League championship in 1930 it looks as if the Heydier circus will be a one ring show this year.

Never before have these two baseball minds been so certain of winning and from past performances and the successful raids they have made over the winter on the ivory markets they have just cause for their unbounded optimism.

"It will take a world war with plenty of conscription to beat us out of the pennant this year," said Wrigley. "My players have everything that makes a super-championship club — pitching, batting, fielding and a fighting spirit seldom seen in baseball. They are all youngsters too, averaging around 25 years. We are 20 percent stronger than in 1929."

In addition to the fact that they won the championship last year by a large margin, two big developments came in favor of the Cubs over the winter. They were the purchase of Lester Bell, who is expected to make the club several games stronger at third base and in the batting lineup and the return to form of Leo "Gabby" Hartnett, whose loss all but wrecked their pennant hopes last season.

If McCarthy has any worries this

Charlie Kebart makes his bid for the town bowling championship tonight at Conran's alleys.

Entries have been obtained from numerous colleges in this section of the country, among them, Holy Cross, Dartmouth, Fordham, Wesleyan, Yale, Trinity, Springfield, Manhattan, New York University and others.

Seven entries have been received for the two mile event in which McCluskey is entered. Three of these are from Yale. McCluskey's last appearance was in a medley for Fordham and he was forced to accept a handicap of 105 yards upon starting the mile. Naturally this was too much to overcome, but he made a great attempt and came within 15 yards of overtaking the leader. Joe's time was 4:19. McCluskey passed six men in the final lap as 17,000 persons cheered loudly.

McCluskey is looking forward with eager interest to the race in Hartford Monday.

TRAINING CAMP NOTES

Pensacola, March 4.—(AP)—Although a few of the Red Sox squad have experienced the usual spring ailment of sore arms, it appeared today that one of them would suffer from nostalgia. The weather here the last three days has been as cold as an April day at Fenway Park and consequently sons of Heinie Wagner's boys is homesick.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Billy McKeechie of the Boston Braves was upset at other things than the unseasonably cold weather today. Gene Robertson, former Yankee third baseman who was expected to put in a strong bid for Lester Bell's position has yet to be put in an appearance, although he was due Friday.

Clearwater, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Wilbert Robinson, manager of the Brooklyn Robins has separated the sheep from the goats for practice purposes and the high priced Pacific coast league recruits Mickey Pina and Gordon Slade find themselves in the latter category.

There is no law however to prevent either or both from becoming regulars as time goes on. That may depend largely on how Glen Wright and Jack Fowers hold forth at shortstop and second base.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—If Babe Ruth's first baseball workout of the year was something of a flop the weather man can be held responsible.

Although still unsigned Ruth reported for practice at the New York Yanks camp yesterday and that's usually a sign for big crowds. So cold was it however that only the hardiest of fans were on hand. The Babe was taking no chance of injury, especially to his hands and he tried for no long drives.

San Antonio, Texas, March 4.—(AP)—Inclement weather has slowed down training activities of the N. Y. Giants ever since manager John McGraw hit camp but he has seen enough to venture the prediction that Roy Parmelee, Toledo recruit, is quite some pitcher.

Parmelee and Carl Hubbell pitched for the regulars against the rookies yesterday and won a six inning tilt, 7-1.

Winter Haven, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Manager Burt Shotton of the Philadelphia Nationals was in a happy mood at the Phillies training camp today.

"See that smile?" he said. "Well I've just got word that Pinky Whitney has signed his contract. I consider him one of the best third basemen in the game and I just had to have him."

Lefty O'Doul and Klein, slugging outfielders are the only other regulars who have not signed their contracts.

Fort Meyers, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Whether Al Simmons is a holdout or merely prolonging his stay at Hot Springs continued to be a topic of discussion among the Philadelphia Athletics today.

All the other regulars are on the ground with the exception of Max Bishop who is recovering from lyp-poinsoning and the regulation two day workouts are now in order.

Bradenton, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Only nine faces were missing as the St. Louis Cards began their second day of unkninking muscles to day and all of the absentes will report in a few days according to Manager Gabby Street.

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Fresh uniforms were ready today for the second contingent of the St. Louis Browns as the outfielders and infielders were due to join their battery mates in spring training.

Paso Robles, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—The boys in the Pittsburgh Pirate training camp here still are talking today about the one Al Boud soccer over the fence yesterday. Al's drive was by far the longest thus far of the training season.

Orlando, Fla., March 4.—(AP)—Now that his athletes are down to work, Dan Howley, manager of the Cincinnati Reds, is going to look for more catchers. Howley feels he must have another catcher and more pitchers.

Mcerrito, Calif., March 4.—(AP)—Willis G. Butler said to be a baseball scout for the St. Louis Browns in charge of hit and run driving after his automobile crashed into another at an intersection. Bail was fixed at $500.

San Antonio, Tex., March 4.—(AP)—There is more than a suspicion in the camp of the Chicago White Sox training camp that Bill Kamm, leading third baseman, in point of fielding, for the last two seasons is a holdout.

Kamm is one of four athletes who have not yet appeared and no word has been received from him concerning intentions. Smead Jolley, Art Shires and Alex Metzler, are the others yet to arrive for work.

Night Hawks Take Lead When Majors Drop Point

Shell Gas Gets Honor of Smashing First Place Deadlock in Herald Bowling League Race.

The tie in the Herald Bowling League which has existed for week after week has finally been broken and it remained for the weakest team in the circuit to bring about the long awaited break.

While the Night Hawks were taking four points from the Herald, the Majors stumbled in their second game with the Shell Gas. The football artists dropped to 494 but the gasoline men clipped the commendable total of 522. The defeat must have enraged the Majors for they came back with 596.

The defeat of the Majors enabled the Night Hawks to step out one point in front of the parade as the third lap of the final round went into history. The Charter Oaks kept on close on the heels of the leaders with a four point victory over the Construction.

The Charter Oaks meet the Night Hawks next Monday in a match which will probably eliminate either one or the other, if not both, from the race providing the Majors make the most of their match with the British Americans.

The West Sides took three from the Centers last night and the British Americans beat the Pirates by the same margin.

Local Sport Chatter

Nino Boggini is playing basketball on the New York University Freshman team according to reports received here by his friends. "Sugar" Hugret of Bristol is on the same combination.

Jimmy Spillane has fully recovered from the effects of a broken leg suffered in the town football series as attested by the fact that he will be in the lineup of the Community Club basketball team when it tackles the Alumni tomorrow night at the Harding School.

Roy Norris says his injured foot makes it impossible for him to play basketball again this season. "Ding" Farr, another Rec Five member, will not see service again until next season either, as a result of an injured foot he suffered while playing.

AMERICAN UNCLE IS ITALY'S HOPE

Youngsters Always Hoping That Rich Relative Will Leave a Fortune.

Rome. (AP)—"Zio D'America," which means "American Uncle," has become a favorite phrase in Italy.

Whenever an Italian hitherto of modest means suddenly blossoms out with new clothes and perhaps a little automobile, the Italians, instead of saying that he has taken to bootlegging, shrug their shoulders and murmur "Zio D'America."

Custom Dying Out. Those who have been in the United States for some years gradually feel their attachment to their fatherland lessened, and their wills are more concerned with their relatives in their new country than with those left behind them.

But America continues to be a land of hope for Italian relatives of emigrants who have gone to try their luck. They look toward the west and dream of the time when "Zio D'America" will mean something enormous in their lives.

Hoover Observes 1st Anniversary. Washington, March 4.—(AP)—President Hoover who today reached the end of his first 12 months as chief executive of the nation, paused not at all to celebrate the anniversary of his induction into office and with his characteristic energy swung vigorously into the work of his administration's second year.

Work. The one word formula which he advised several months ago as the solution for the nation's business problems he prescribed for himself as the principal feature of the day's observance.

His subject for the anniversary hardly differed from those of other days. Exercise with the "medicine ball cabinet" on arising, a hearty breakfast and arrival at his desk by 9 o'clock constituted the morning routine. An hour for lunch, conferences with department heads and the regular Tuesday press conference completed the day's program.

A few lines about his eyes and a fifteen pound reduction in his ample figure are the only changes that have come in the White House since his year in the White House. His smile is as warm and spontaneous as ever and his affability, his kindness say, if anything increased.

The Cyclops Mystery. On March 4, 1918, the U. S. collier Cyclops, whose disappearance with 300 human lives aboard has remained a mystery to the naval department, left the West Indies on its ill-fated voyage to this country.

One of the most baffling features connected with the mystery is that the ship, equipped though it was with a superior wireless, should have failed to send out one signal of distress. Another bewildering fact is that no bottled messages or driftwood were ever found.

A theory was advanced that a German submarine had either sunk the vessel or towed it across the Atlantic to a German port where officers, crew and passengers were held prisoners. This was later disproved.

The most acceptable view to date was advanced by a navy man who declared that the ship, buckled, broke in two, and sank almost immediately, an accident which later befell the Cyclops' sister ship, Orion, almost sinking her.

Are They Downhearted? No!

Unique Vets' Post at Minneapolis, Every Member of Which Lost Arm or Leg in Battle, Works to Aid Wounded Buddies.

Above is the scene enacted recently when members of Minneapolis' "Amputation Post," Veterans of Foreign Wars, gathered around the bedside of little John Newton, who had lost a leg in the Argonne and at the right is Andrew Rainey, who lost a leg in the Loraine sector. Their accidental meeting at an artificial limb shop resulted in the unique post being formed.

Minneapolis, Minn.—There are half a hundred of them, and they are fine stalwart young men except that every one of them is shy either an arm or a leg.

Crippled soldiers—50 of them, maimed for life on the battlefields of France—they have formed what is probably the most unusual services men's organization in America: Minneapolis Amputation Post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

Their regular post meetings are exactly like the meetings of any other group of veterans, except that the members come in on crutches, or stumped gamely along on artificial legs, or display empty sleeves pinned to their breasts, or have mechanical hooks where their hands ought to be.

But—downhearted? Never! Boy is "Associate Member." They have one associate member, these wounded soldiers, who never saw France, but who's a real bud, just the same. He's John Marshall Newton, the small son of Walden Newton, one of President Hoover's secretaries. John was run over by a street car and lost a leg last spring. The members of Amputation Post, admiring his plucky fight against death, and the brave spirit which he accepted his misfortune, gathered at his bedside and took him in as a member—so now he's the youngest V. F. W. in the country.

The post was organized as a result of a friendship that grew up several years ago between Kimon Karelis and Andrew Rennes. These two war veterans, each of whom had lost a leg in France, met by accident one day at the saleroom of an artificial limb company which, Karelis learned, was buying limbs from that particular store, and decided to get in touch with some of them. Rennes had lost his leg while serving in the First Trench Mortar Battery of the First Division in the Lorraine sector.

So, two years ago, they got together some 50 maimed veterans and organized Amputation Post. Karelis, incidentally, is a real war hero—the holder of a Distinguished Service Cross and a Croix de Guerre, a doughboy who is entitled to a salute from General Pershing himself.

He was with a machine gun outfit in the Argonne forest in November of 1918. He came of Greek parentage; both his father and grandfather had been decorated for bravery under fire by the Greek government, and Karelis wished that he, too, could get a decoration. But the war was almost ended; in fact, it was then the 10th day of November. The armistice, if Karelis had only known it, was less than 24 hours away.

Then a big shell came down out of nowhere and exploded in the midst of Karelis' platoon. It killed 18 of his buddies and blew Karelis straight up in the air a matter of 40 feet—so his buddies told him later, anyhow—and he came down with only one leg left.

"It seems funny, now, but my mind was just as clear as ever," Karelis recalls. "I felt myself going up, up, up in the air and the world turned crazy. I was whirling around—rather, the earth was whirling around. I came down and fell in the soft dirt in the bottom of the hole. I tried to move, and, it wasn't until then that I noticed my left leg was shot off below the knee."

Karelis says that at first he didn't feel any special pain—he was just thirsty—terribly thirsty. He took a sip of water from the shell hole, saw a buddy grinning down at him—Corporal Joe Phillips, who had been singing a song about Mademoiselle from Armentieres when the shell exploded.

"Hey, Joe, toss down your canteen," called Karelis. But Joe kept grinning down at him. It wasn't until Karelis that Joe was still sitting on his back, that Karelis saw him—Corporal Joe Phillips, who had been singing a song about Mademoiselle from Armentieres when the shell exploded.

What was left of Joe's shell down into the hole. Joe had been blown completely in two by the shell. Karelis fainted.

He woke up two weeks later in a base hospital with one leg neatly amputated. Then, after he had told him that the war was over, they notified him that both the French and American governments had declared him dead. Shortly before that, he had been in the trenches. He had lost his leg while serving in the First Trench Mortar Battery of the First Division in the Lorraine sector.

All of that is a long way behind him, now, however. He and his buddies in Amputation Post spend a good bit of time talking over their war experiences, but they're looking mostly to the future and not to the past. They're working, as a Post for a uniform compensation law, under which the government will pay all men equally for the loss of an arm or a leg instead of ruling that a bricklayer's leg, for instance, is more valuable than a bookkeeper's leg.

In the post are such men as Magnus Kjelgren, who lost his left leg in the Meuse-Argonne; Frederick Ebyer, who left a leg in the Toul sector; Christ Behnen, whose right leg was shot off at Chateau Thierry; Elmer England, who lost a leg in the Argonne; Lewis Heaten, who stopped a bit of shrapnel at St. Mihiel—and dozens more.

TRY TO BURN JAIL

Boston, March 4.—(AP)—Two inmates at the Charlestown state prison, William McManus of New Bedford and Thomas Galligan of Cambridge, were in solitary confinement today after discovery of an attempt to set fire to the hooley shop last Thursday.

Secret investigation by Warden James L. Hogsett revealing the facts of the fire became known yesterday. The blaze, which did little damage, was set by the use of a lighted candle in a cardboard box in a closet of the shop and was quickly discovered by two errand runners.

McManus was sentenced to a 21 to 24 years term last June at New Bedford in connection with a hotel robbery and Galligan is serving an eight to 10 years sentence for a series of robberies.

WANT TO LOOK YOUNG?

The secret of keeping young is to feel young—to do this you must watch your liver and bowels—there's a dark ring under your eyes—pimples—a bilious look in your face—dull eyes with no sparkle. Your doctor will tell you ninety per cent of all sickness comes from inactive bowels and liver.

Dr. Edwards, a well-known physician in Ohio, perfected a vegetable compound as a substitute for calomel to act on the liver and bowels, which he gave to his patients for years.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are gentle in their action yet always effective. They help bring about that natural buoyancy which all should enjoy by toning up the liver and clearing the system of impurities.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are known by their olive color. 15c, 30c, 60c.

Uncle Sam's Planting Pointers

GARDEN ROSES. By FURMAN LLOYD MULFORD.

Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture. Roses thrive best when planted early. Order plants now so that they may be set out as soon as the ground is fit to work. Early orders insure the best plants and the best chance of obtaining the kinds desired.

If the plants should arrive before the ground is fit for planting they can be "heeled in" in some sheltered nook until the ground is ready. "Heeling in," consists in temporarily covering the roots with soil. The plants are set close together so that the roots are in contact with the soil and are thus prevented from becoming dry.

Varieties selected have an important bearing on the success of the proposed rose garden. In the warmer parts of the country those listed in catalogs as tea roses or hybrid tea roses are usually selected. In the colder regions the more hardy hybrid perpetuals are the satisfactory plants even though they do not bloom so continuously.

Only about one variety in 10 of the tea and hybrid tea roses is satisfactory outside the garden of the rose expert. Among the pink kinds satisfactory to the average gardener are Radiance, Mrs. Wakefield Christie-Miller, Dorothy Page-Roberts, La Tosca, Mme. Caroline Testout, Killarney, Killarney Queen and Konigen Carola.

Red kinds are Red Radiance, Gruss and Teplitz and Laurent Carle. Some white varieties are White Maman Cochet, Kaiserin Auguste Viktoria, and White Killarney; while Mrs. Arthur Robert Waddell, Marquise de Wellington, Ophelia and Duchess of Wellington are copper colored ones.

142 ARE INDICTED

Scranton, Pa., March 4.—(AP)—Sheriff Homer C. Davis and police officials of seven boroughs in Lackawanna county were among those involved in 37 additional indictments returned by the Grand Jury investigating graft and corruption in connection with the operation of slot machines. All were charged with conspiracy.

The 37 true bills, which were returned yesterday, brought the number of indictments on similar charges to 142. They were brought in shortly after Sam Graubart, alleged leader of the slot machine syndicate, had testified before the Grand Jury. Graubart appeared before Judge E. C. Newcomb for a hearing last Saturday and was released under $40,000 bail.

"Oh, this is a terrible party, and something tells me it's to be worse before it's over."

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Detective Bonnie Dundee, secretly a member of the Hamilton homicide squad, accepts an urgent invitation from a former Yale classmate, Dick Berkeley, to spend the week-end at Hillcrest, the millionaire Berkeley's estate.

His landlady, Mrs. Rhodes, tells him that Mrs. Berkeley, formerly a nobody, is trying to crash society, and that she has fortified herself with a social secretary, Mrs. Letitia Lambert, formerly a society leader in New York and Newport.

At the Berkeley home he meets Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley, Clorinda, 15-year-old Gigi, who annoys her mother with her frank criticisms and unbridled comments, and gracious, well-bred Mrs. Lambert, the social secretary. But it is Seymour Crosby in whom the detective is engaged to be married to Seymour Crosby, New York guest in the Berkeley home. For reasons of his own Dundee has a strong professional curiosity to see and study Seymour Crosby.

At the Berkeley home he meets Mr. and Mrs. Berkeley, Clorinda, 15-year-old Gigi, who annoys her mother with her frank criticisms and unbridled comments, and gracious, well-bred Mrs. Lambert, the social secretary. But it is Seymour Crosby in whom the detective is engaged to be married to Seymour Crosby, New York guest in the Berkeley home.

Yes, it was a strange and rather terrible dinner party. Dundee decided before the fish course was removed. In the first place, the dining room was too stuffy grand for words. And the dinner service was atrocious. If this magnificence was trotted out for what Mrs. Berkeley called "a dull little family party," what in heaven's name would tomorrow night bring forth? Dundee wondered gloomily.

And what a merely assorted group they were! The Benjamin Smiths overawed into silence, or brief little spurts of gassy gaiety. Mrs. Berkeley had made it quite clear that her full duty to the undesirable Smiths was being discharged tonight; they would not have a chance to commit their faux pas on Saturday night when "a very interesting announcement may be expected."

Mrs. George Berkeley, darkly somber, but perfect host except for the odd fact that he never addressed a single remark to the honor guest of the evening. Indeed, when his black eyes flashed a covert, measuring glance toward Seymour Crosby, the nature of his thoughts might easily be guessed by the tightening of his lips and the fanning of his nostrils.

Clorinda Berkeley, aloof, arrogant, apparently almost as determined to ignore her reputed fiancé as was her father.

Mrs. Berkeley, voluble, effusive, ridiculous "No, I don't like Mrs. Berkeley." Dundee told himself fiercely, "after she had subjected him to another barrage of questions, compliments and comments upon 'bourgeois' Hamilton."

"Considering that the jolly old town made us so lousy rich, I think you might lay off of it, Abbie," Gigi suggested in her strident young voice.

"Gigi, I must insist that you show me more respect!" Mrs. Berkeley burst out in one of the fishwife rages which Gigi engendered in her mother almost every time she opened her frank mouth.

"I've heard that every day of my life, when I wasn't away at camp or school," Gigi reminded her mother cheerfully. "For a change, please you show me some respect, Abbie! I honestly think parents should respect their children, and then take awfully good care that they themselves are worthy of their children's respect before they demand it!"

"Gigi! Mr. Berkeley commanded sternly, and the girl dejectedly fled into her chair beside Dundee's.

"I should think you'd be rather expert at winding any male around your most adorable little finger!" Dundee assured her gallantly.

"Do you really think so?" Gigi was almost pathetic. "I can't do it. It's terrible to be only 15, and I don't know whether you have a right to appeal. But I do think I'm going to have quite a lot, don't you? I've only tried it out on Arnold—the chauffeur, and he's disgusting, in love with Doris, the lady's maid."

Dundee did not laugh. "I'm completely bowled over—if that helps!"

"Oh, it does, for I've been trying to sex-appeal you all evening," she assured him shamelessly. "You see, I'm rather hard with Clorinda around. She's so simply gorgeous, and I'm just a sun-burned, leggy kid."

What do you think of Mr. Seymour Crosby? she asked suddenly, her wide, childish eyes of clear topaz blazing up at Dundee.

He had been dodging that question, every time the detective part of his brain had presented it to him. Now he raised his blue eyes and studied Seymour Crosby for the third or fourth time. Clorinda engaged in conversation with Mrs. Lambert. And suddenly it came to him, with a little shock, that Crosby and his fiancée were enough their own to be too closely related for their marriage to be legal. Both were tall and slender and very dark as to hair and eyes. Both looked like thoroughbreds, the product of centuries of blue-blooded ancestors. But where Clorinda Berkeley was arrogant, Seymour Crosby merely had that indefinable air of pride in birth and position.

"If he were not so young, I believe I should characterize Mr. Crosby as a gentleman of the old school—and I mean that in the best sense," Dundee answered Gigi in all sincerity. Looking at Seymour Crosby, those dark speculations upon the mystery with which he was connected seemed impertinent and absurd. Still—

"So young?" Gigi echoed. "He's 34! Dad's simply wild!"

They were interrupted by Mrs. Berkeley, who was calling: "Clorinda! . . . What is the child brooding over, to make her deaf?"

"Clorinda-darling," he leaned close to Dundee. "Listen to Abbie! Doesn't she sound exactly like one of the bugle horns on a car? Ta-ta-ta-ta!"

"You little fiend!" Dundee chided her, but he laughed as hard as he dared. And then he looked curiously at Clorinda Berkeley.

"I'm sorry, Mother," she was saying stiffly. "What is it?"

"Your Aunt Lily has been trying for ages to attract your attention, darling," her mother soothed her. "Oh, it's really nothing, Clorinda." Mrs. Benjamin Smith twittered apologetically: "Ben and I were just wondering if you knew John Maxwell in town. You remember John Maxwell? . . . But how silly of me!"

"I don't know," Clorinda said clearly, curiously, her nostrils quivering and her black eyes blazing briefly upon her mother.

The most chivalrous-acting thing I ever saw—and if there's one of those electric currents vibrating between them, like you read about in the novels, I can't feel it!"

"Neither can I," said Mrs. Benjamin Smith's tactless remark explained at least half of the situation. And, undoubtedly, the Berkeley millions explained Seymour Crosby's conduct quite fully. And Dundee was sorry, for he could not help liking that tall, slim, exquisite with the sad, genteel, brown eyes. Gent? That might be a strange word to apply to Seymour Crosby, if certain whispered things were true.

The butler, at an imperious signal from his mistress, was advancing from the sideboard, with the napkin-wrapped champagne bottle in his hands, when Dundee to his surprise, saw George Berkeley countermand this wife's order by a stern and unmistakable gesture. Wickett hesitated and involuntarily looked toward Mrs. Lambert for guidance.

Dundee switched puzzled blue eyes to the social secretary and saw her move her silver crumpled head lightly in the negative. Perhaps Clorinda Berkeley had failed to see her husband's gesture; at any rate, it was upon poor Mrs. Lambert that she opened the vials of her easy wrath.

"Obey me instantly, Wickett! Fill the champagne glasses all around. And kindly remember in the future that I, and not Mrs. Lambert, am mistress in this house!" Of course I realize, dear Mrs. Lambert, that it may be natural for Wickett to forget that you are no longer my employer, but I really must ask you not to forget again!"

"Fill mine to the brim, Wickett!" yelled Dick Berkeley, his voice reckless with disgust.

"I hate you all!" Gigi whispered fiercely to Dundee. "How Mother dares speak like that to Mrs. Lambert! I know the poor darling would leave in a minute if she weren't so poverty-poor! And Wickett would walk right out, too, if it weren't that he adores Tish. He was her butler for years and years before she lost all her money, you know. . . . Oh, this is a terrible party, and something tells me it's going to be worse before it's over!"

And Bonnie Dundee silently agreed with her.

STIMSON HAS COLD

London, March 4.—(AP)—The cold from which secretary of state Stimson has been suffering, for several days has grown much worse and will necessitate his remaining for two or three days at his temporary country residence at Stanmore. A physician went there today to examine him.

Ambassador Gibson was designated to act for Mr. Stimson at a meeting of the heads of delegations to the naval conference at St. James Palace this forenoon.

Captain J. E. Higgins, American naval doctor who has been treating the illness of the delegation, made a special trip to Stanmore today in connection with the secretary's illness. Captain Higgins treated Admiral Hilar; T. Jones prior to his departure last week on the Berengaria for the United States.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
©1930 by MEA SERVICE INC.

We are really still in the experimental stage concerning the complicated of complexes. We might learn something, I think, by studying our own reactions.

Suppose you are very much afraid of a height; perhaps you can't look down from a precipice or pass a high bridge without your heart skipping its moorings and floating up into your mouth.

Say you have to cross a narrow bridge some 200 feet high, the very thought of which makes the marrow freeze in your bones.

Knowing your weakness about heights, a kind friend offers to go with you, holding your arm and uttering words of encouragement and cheer. "Don't be afraid! It's all right," he says over and over.

You concentrate on him, stare straight ahead, and try to forget the yawning chasm beneath your feet and the fact that only an inch of ancient planking lies between you and instant destruction.

When you are safely over, something has been accomplished. But how much? You're over the bridge all right, but are you over your fear by doing that? Are other women who are out there trying so hard to find out in psychology.

So many people quickly answer "yes" to this. But I'm not so sure.

There is another point. Would more have been accomplished if you had gone alone without the presence and comforting words of your companion? Suppose again, either with or without company, you must bridge every day; at the end of a month are you braver than you were before? Perhaps it is easier for you to cross that particular bridge, but isn't the terror of great height still in your heart? Have you not yourself of the complex?

Would the result not have been better if you could have graduated your bridges, working your courage up a bit at a time? And would it not have been better still if your fear was "set"?

I have a bridge complex. There is a certain substantial one over a deep valley which I try to compel myself to cross on my daily walk. I still have to "lick" myself over. I hate that bridge. It is very high. A strong wind usually blows over it. I have a "wind" complex, too, by the way.

The fact is, it's too late to build up my courage now. Perhaps they used to say to me at home, "Don't be afraid! You won't fall!" That was the way they used to talk to the children of all fears, talking to them or reading to them, or ridiculing them; it had no effect on me. I had been accustomed to heights gradually from day to day there is little question that the fear is still very young. I believe that is the secret of curing children of any fear complex. Do it gradually and do it while they are young.

Hints on How to Keep Well by World Famed Authority

INABILITY TO EAT CERTAIN FOODS CAUSES PAINFUL DISTURBANCES

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

For some time it has been realized that human beings may develop strange symptoms following the eating of certain foods. Everybody knows about strabismic nasal hives, which is a form of such sensitivity.

Few people know that such conditions as asthma or severe inflammation of the nose with secretion of a great deal of fluid may occasionally be due to such a sensitivity. The direct response of the sensitive reaction has to do with spasms of the muscles in the body that are called involuntary muscles, with the exudation of fluids from mucous membranes.

Many Parts of Body Involved
The bronchial tubes, the digestive tract, the organs of excretion and the eyes are primarily concerned in smooth muscle reactions. The blood vessels are also involved.

In a recent survey of the subject, Dr. Warren T. Vaughan emphasized the fact that the abdominal symptoms of sensitivity to food nausea and possible vomiting and severe activity of the muscles of the bowels. It is not infrequent that people mistake these symptoms for serious infections, and the physician must differentiate them from other abdominal disturbances.

The child who is sensitive to certain foods reacts by becoming irritable when he eats even a small quantity and is generally weakened by the reaction.

Among special symptoms that have been noted in a considerable number of cases are itching of the roof of the mouth, such as occurs sometimes with an acute cold, swelling of the lips and also other localized swellings.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

The homemaker who must use the same fundamental foods over and over and over again will find that clever seasoning will do much to break the monotony of the necessary repetition.

Although "high" seasoning should never be used to cover up poor food or proper cooking, the right use of spices, herbs and condiments will add zest and give additional relish to good wholesome foods. Many famous cooks rely on the wise use of these ingredients as one of the secrets of their art.

The natural piquant flavoring properties of certain foodstuffs stimulate appetite, create a desire for food, and in starting the flow of digestive juices are very real aids to digestion.

Many seasonings are available in the dried state. Some of them may be used green as fresh herbs or relishes in salads as well as in cooking. Success in their use depends more on the right combination of flavors than on any artful or painstaking preparation. The one exception is curry powder, which must be carefully added thoroughly cooked in a special way to bring out its full flavor.

Season With Care
Restraint always must be practiced in the use of seasonings. Only enough should be used to bring out the flavor of the food being seasoned.

As one studies and enlarges the list of seasonings, many new uses for condiments will be discovered. The leaves of tarragon have a hot, pungent taste. They are commonly used to flavor vinegars for salads, but a few finely chopped leaves are very good in tartar sauce.

The leaves of dill are a flavorful addition to fish, egg, cheese or meat salads. Cooked with fish, they give a pleasant pungency.

Fennel has a hot, sweet flavor reminding one of anise. A few seeds add spiciness to fruit pies and baked often used for seasoning fish. Fresh fennel sometimes is served as a substitute for celery.

Marjoram is used either fresh or dry for flavoring soups and meats and in the stuffing for all meats and fish.

Sage ordinarily is used in poultry and meat dressings, but it is also good in cheese dishes and vegetable combinations. The flowers sometimes are used in salads, especially in those made with cheese.

Thyme and summer savory are used much the same as sage. Savory combines particularly well with horsedradish in sauces.

Sweet basil has a flower much like cloves. It may be used in salad dressings and soups and sauces. Fruit punches are given a refreshing spiciness by the addition of the crushed leaves.

These condiments all are very inexpensive and practically nothing to the cost of cooking. The occasional use of them will impart a new flavor and interest to everyday dishes.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

Footwear

Milady's footwear this spring is elegant and distinguished. Evening footwear is entrancing. For suit wear there are very attractive russet brown lizard pumps, trimmed with matching calf, with high Cuban heels. As the season advances one of the most popular sports shoes will be the white buckskin with brown toe and heel and perforated calfskin trim. Suede will be popular in the plain shades and will continue to emphasize color in costume quire as much as bags, belts or scarfs. The new long skirts may hide the silken hosiery but they seem to heighten the importance of shoes.

Hosiery

Mrs. Anna Kellum, who as buyer for the hosiery at Hale's handles more silk stockings and perhaps is better qualified to discuss the subject than any other woman in Manchester, gave a talk yesterday at the store at an informal get-together of the women clerks, in view of the fact that this is Hosiery week at the J. W. Hale company's store, and the saleswomen are out to sell as many pairs as possible. A special way to bring out its full flavor.

which some of the women who were not able to attend all four seasons missed. Then, too, so great was the interest that the supply provided in advance for each day of the school ran out. We have run off an extra supply of Herald's today, and I would suggest that you not only clip them for your own use, but buy an extra copy to mail to some friend who will appreciate your thoughtfulness.

Herald Patterns

Orders for the Herald patterns have been coming in bunches with every mail. People like them for their simplicity and low price. One or two complaints have been received lately of unreasonable delays. As we have explained before, the orders are sent on by us to the manufacturers in New York City, and we cannot know of delays or failure to receive patterns, unless customers fail to notify us. The pattern people who handle many of our orders every day from papers all over the country. That is why they are able to furnish the patterns at such a moderate figure. We keep a record of all orders received and forwarded to the manufacturers, and if customers will acquaint us with delays or non-receipt of patterns, and the date ordered, we will immediately take it up with headquarters.

Ambassador Also Leaves Queen of Spain $100,000; Mrs. Caruso Silent on Report.

Pittsburgh, March 4.—(AP)—The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph in a copyrighted story today said that the late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore willed $25,000 to Mrs. Enrico Caruso, widow of the noted Italian tenor, in addition to a bequest of $100,000 to the Queen of Spain.

New York, March 4.—(AP)—Mrs. Enrico Caruso today declined to comment upon a dispatch from Pittsburgh that she is named a beneficiary in the will of the late Ambassador Alexander P. Moore.

Mrs. Caruso referred all inquiries to her attorney, who said that the report probably is true, but he knew nothing about the particulars, and won't until the will is read.

Discoveries in Jerusalem Interest the Scientists

Jerusalem, March 4.—(AP)—Remains of a child sacrifice discovered by Sir Marston's expedition in the walls of the ancient Biblical city of Jericho, are believed to throw a significant light on a curious Bible verse not thoroughly understood. The verse, found in I Kings, 16:34, reads: "In his days did Hiel the Beth-Elite Jericho; he laid the foundation thereof in Abraham his first born, and set up the gates thereof in his youngest son Segub, according to the word of the Lord, which he spoke by Joshua the son of Nun."

TALCOTTVILLE

The Ladies of the Vernon Center, Vernon Methodist and Talcottville churches are to unite in the observance of the Annual Day of Prayer. They plan to meet in the assembly room of the Talcottville church Friday morning, March 7th at 10 o'clock, to sew for the Madura hospital. At 12:15 dinner will be served. A devotional service will be held at 2:15 o'clock. The churches have been very fortunate in securing Mrs. William E. Oliver of Lynn, Mass., to address this meeting. Mrs. Oliver was formerly chairman of the Council of Women for Home Missions and is now a member of the woman's committee on Social Relations.

A solo will be sung by Mrs. Franklin Welles, Jr., and a duet by Mrs. Raymond Elin and her daughter, Miss Ruth Elin. The sewing committee, Mrs. William Lee, Mrs. James Wood and Mrs. Carrie Allen have ready an abundance of work and it is hoped every one will attend prepared to sew for Madura. Any ladies who do not find it convenient to come earlier in the day will be most welcome at the devotional service. Mrs. C. O. Britton is at the Hartford hospital for treatment. The Christian Endeavor Society met on Sunday evening at 7 o'clock. The subject of the meeting was "What Faith in God Can Accomplish." The senior leader was Rev. P. P. Bachelor and the junior leader, Master Vincent Koch.

Miss Belle McKone was very pleasantly surprised at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Beebe on Saturday evening, the event being held in honor of Miss McKone's birthday. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Myer and children, Evelyn, Catherine and Calvin; Mrs. Arthur Duggart, Miss Alice Duggart, Miss Florence Alney, John McKone, Elmer Riverburg, Mrs. Jessie Trueman, Miss Beatrice Trueman, Miss Lillian Prentiss, Miss Sarah McNauly, Earl Beebe, Samuel Prentice, Jr., of Manchester Green, Miss Florence Reid of Rockville, Mrs. Mae Collins and Mrs. James Johnston of South Manchester. SENSE and NONSENSE

The Fighter
Your nose may be battered, your jawbone nicked, But always remember you're never licked! While still you can stand and fight; No matter how badly they mess up your map. It won't be beyond repair, And there still is a chance that you'll win the scrap As long as the punch is there.

You'll make mistakes and you'll do things wrong. The best of us always do. But as soon as you get to going strong Your grit will see you thru. They smashed Paul Jones to a fare-you-well But he didn't observe, "good-night," He merely paused in his tracks to yell That he'd just begun to fight.

There'll be plenty of folks to peddle gloom. There'll be plenty of folks to say That they see the terrible day of gloom. Hurry on its way; But the fellow who knows that the fight is hard And still has the nerve to grin. And never gets rattled or drops his guard. Is the fellow who's going to win.

Couldn't Blame Him Either!
Bobby (in the presence of family and visitors)—No, I don't wanna kiss Miss Long—she slapped daddy for doing it.

Anybody ever hear a flapper sing: "Home, Sweet Home?"

As a general thing, you will find ten people willing to get you into trouble to every one willing to help get you out.

Live to be happy—nothing else matters very much.

Cultivate that courtesy in the eye which overlooks your friend's broken gateway but sees the rose that blossoms in his garden.

Time is capital which costs nothing to get, but everything to lose.

When they pulled the Professor, half drowned, from the water, he spluttered: "How exasperating! I've just recalled the fact that I can't swim."

Success is very often failure with a new coat of paint.

takes a trip on a flat tire . . . He ruins his tire and doesn't go far . . . Plenty of air in a good tire and plenty of money in a good bank will last you long and take you far . . . Think it over.

Customer (in Record Department)—I want a record with that song, "Father Swallowed the Black Comb" on it. Puzzled Salesgirl—I don't seem to remember that one.

Customer (Whistling well-known tune)—It goes like this— Salesgirl (no longer puzzled)—Oh, you want "Follow the Swallow Back Home."

It is said that astronomers can tell whether a star is young or old by its color . . . but they can't do that with some of the Hollywood stars.

Youth—Your daughter, sir, has consented and made me the happiest man in America. Prospective Father-in-Law (with a sigh of relief)—Pardon me, the second happiest.

AMERICAN WOMEN CLAIM BIG FORTUNE

Leeds, England, March 3.—(AP)—There have been many claimants for the estate of Helen Sheridan Blake, and the latest are three Massachusetts women who sailed for England Saturday to bring court action.

The American claimants—Mrs. Annie Mithan and Miss Ella Leonard, both of Charlestown, and Mrs. Mary Flynn, Winthrop—were expected to enter suit in Chancery Court against the treasury on arrival. Their solicitor, William Wade, has been authorized to bring proceedings by royal fiat.

Mrs. Blake died intestate in 1876 and her fortune of £500,000 (about $2,500,000) went to the British treasury. It is now reputed to be worth in the neighborhood of £1,000,000.

She was a member of an Irish family named Sheridan and many claims have been put up by Irish persons on the grounds that they are descendants of the Sheridan family. Recently there have been many claims from the Blake side, but all pleas from both sides have been groundless, because of lack of documentary proof of descent.

THE TINYMITES STORY BY HAL COCHRAN—PICTURES BY KING

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Up went the plane, just like a streak. The Tinymites could hardly speak. It seemed to take their breath away because it traveled fast. Of course it brought a trilling fright and each one hung on good and tight. 'Twas wonderful the way the ground below went whizzing past.

Wee Scouty had the steering wheel and shortly he exclaimed, "I feel just like a wondrous pilot. I can take us where I please. All I need do is give a swing to this big wheel. The crazy thing just makes the plane go here and there and does it all with ease."

"Well, please be careful," Copy cried. "Don't turn us over on our side. And, also, don't go too high up. I fear we might get lost. Let's just play safe and travel 'round, not too far up above the ground. Of course we want to have a lot of fun, at any cost."

Then Clowny broke right in.

Said he, "I'll tell you frankly, as for me, I like this riding in the air as long as we don't flop. It's my suggestion that we take precautions, no the plane won't break. My good-friend, what would happen if we took a sudden drop?"

A few short moments after that brave Carry almost lost his hat. "Oh, gee, the wind is blowing hard. I bet a storm will come." And, sure enough, at front and back the clouds closed in and grew real black. The plane sailed on real swiftly as the wind began to hum.

All of a sudden, right nearby, a big face formed right in the sky. "I am a wind cloud," it exclaimed. "Just watch how I can blow." The more it blew, the more it tried. The plane tipped almost on its side. "Oh, my, oh, my," cried Clowny. "Now I wonder where we'll go."
