There are two types of people in the world—those who go away and those who stay at home. We envy the venturesomeness of the prodigals who have their fling.

The best we know about the prodigal is that he comes back. He gets a lot of thrills in going wrong, but the biggest thrill is in coming home and being welcomed to the old reliabilities of faith and life.

"Wets" and "Moists" Lead In the Prohibition Returns

Table with columns: State, Enforcement, Modification, Repeal, Total. Lists results for various states like California, Connecticut, etc.

The vote for Repeal of the Prohibition Amendment continues to lead over that for Modification and also for Enforcement in the second week's returns of The Literary Digest's 20,000,000 ballot.

Of the total of 703,935 votes received and tabulated in the current tally, 287,885, or slightly over 40 per cent, favor revoking the Eighteenth Amendment and the Volstead law.

224,141 favor a modification of existing conditions by legalizing the sale of light wines and beers. The balance, 191,909 votes, are for "Strict Enforcement."

These second returns are from twenty States and the District of Columbia. Last week's returns showed a total tabulation of 291,588 votes from ten States.

Kansas, the home of the late Carrie Nation, is the only State at this time which shows the vote for Enforcement leading over that for both Modification and Repeal.

Georgia, the first representative from the "Solid South" to forward returns in this poll, is rather equally divided on the three questions upon which the "straw" balloting is being undertaken.

One extraordinary feature of the poll, the periodical notes editorially, is the volume of letters it is bringing to us.

COMES FROM WEST TO DEFEND MOTHER

Malden, Mass., March 20.—(AP)—Russell Lovejoy, 27, came out of the west today to do battle for his family. The young man's mother is in a hospital suffering from fractured ribs and hip, and Robert W. Humphries, 33, her son-in-law, is at liberty in $10,000 bail pending trial on a charge of assaulting his mother-in-law with his automobile.

Today Lovejoy, a Detroit airplane mechanic, met Humphries in front of the first Congregational church in Everett. Lovejoy accused his brother-in-law with mistreating his mother and sister and soon verbal argument turned to physical.

Police found the pair rolling about the church steps pummeling each other as a crowd cheered the combat. Police said Lovejoy easily had the better of it, and when they were arraigned in Malden District Court a few minutes later the judge was of the same opinion.

An assault charge against Humphries was dismissed and Lovejoy was placed on probation until June 25. But Lovejoy's arduous was undampened and the court decided to hold him in the courtroom until Humphries had been given a good start out of the neighborhood.

Humphries will be arraigned Monday charged with assaulting his mother-in-law by hitting her with his automobile.

CONSPICUOUS SLUMS PROBLEM IN CAPITAL

Chop Suey Joints and Cheap Hotels Flourish Where Parades Must Pass.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Tattooing shops, chop suey places and dilapidated hotels flourish in one of Washington's most conspicuous places—the lower end of Pennsylvania avenue near the capitol.

Through this area inaugural parades must pass before reaching the city proper and the White House. Senators and representatives daily must wend their way through it before reaching the halls of Congress.

This section of the city is causing the planners of the new and greater Washington no little concern. In fact, it has grown to be one of their most serious problems.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN

On March 20, 1851, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a book by Harriet Beecher Stowe which is said to have hastened the overthrow of slavery, was published in book form for the first time.

When the story first appeared in the National Era of Washington, D. C., as a serial, it attracted little attention, but a few weeks after it was issued in book form it was a universal favorite.

Although "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written carelessly and sensationally, it aroused public conscience wherever it circulated. Critics say the secret of the book's effect upon the issue of slavery was less the story, or its descriptive power, than its sincerity.

Export Debenture Battle Looms; House Conferees May Settle Fate

Washington—(AP)—The mantle of politics closing around the tariff bill indicates that house of representatives conferees probably will shoulder responsibility for the export debenture when the tax measure goes to conference.

Necessarily three republicans and two democrats, the conferees are expected to be Representatives Hawley, Oregon; Treadway, Massachusetts, and Bacharach, New Jersey, republicans, with Garner, Texas, and Collier of Mississippi, the democrats.

Circumstances pointing to their impending battle revolve around the question of whether the house desires a record vote on the debenture.

If it does, there is a probability the conferees will be instructed on the position they are to take when they meet the senate group. If it does not, the conferees must decide for themselves whether to accept the export debenture or demand it be stricken from the bill.

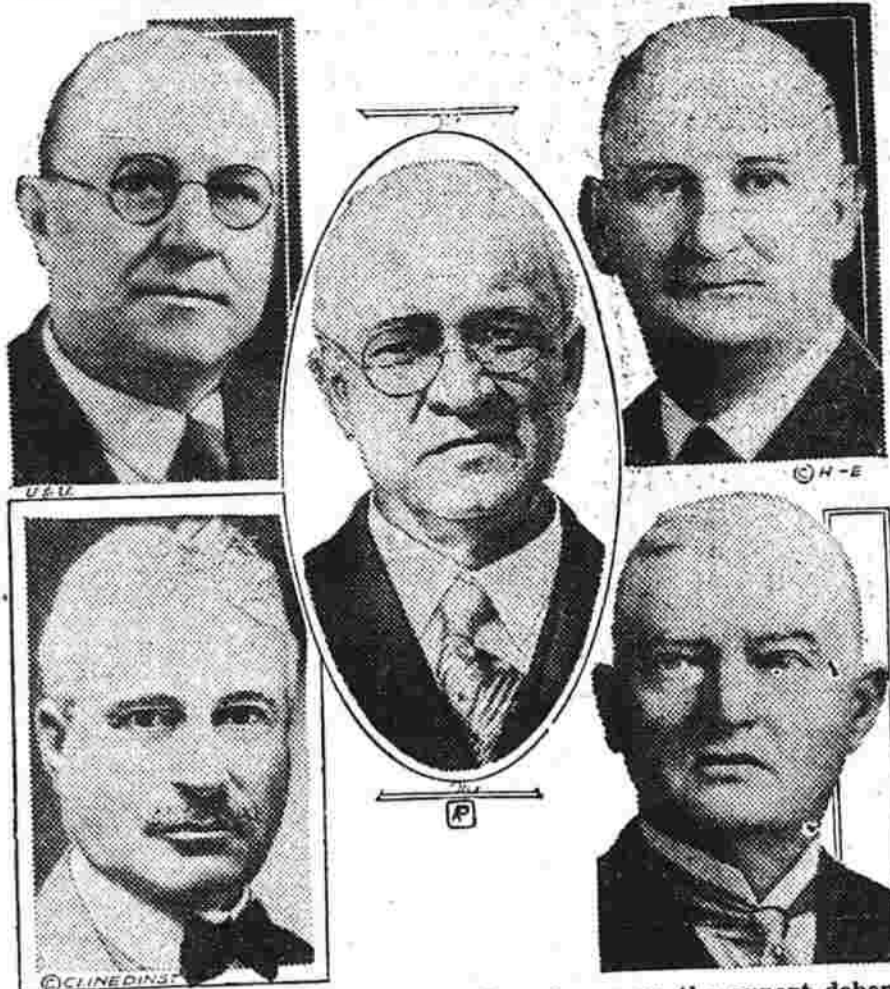

The house sought to escape a record vote during the effort to include the debenture in the farm relief bill. Its conferees were not instructed, but they elected to stand in opposition to it.

The senate refused to surrender the clause until a poll of the house showed a majority of the members against it. A hurried roll call was taken and the debenture lost.

Immediately plans were laid to incorporate it in the tariff bill. Many members of the house insisted it rightfully belonged there.

President Hoover objected to the debenture. The house, controlled by "administration" republicans and a rule from the rules committee providing that no amendment be offered from the floor, kept it out of the tariff bill written in that branch.

In the senate, however, the progressive-democratic coalition had wrested the balance of power from administration leaders. They succeeded, by three record votes, in writing the debenture into the senate draft.

If the coalition retains its strength, there is a probability senate conferees will be instructed to stand by the debenture and for a second time demand a record vote in the house if house conferees fail to acquiesce.

It is yet to be decided whether the coalition will set aside the usual manner of selecting senate conferees and name, instead, conferees from its own members. Usually three ranking republicans of the finance committee and the two ranking democrats are chosen.

SENATOR FAMOUS FOR HAMS-SAUSAGE

Smith of South Carolina Serves Food to Delight Senatorial Palates.

BY HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—Famous among his colleagues, who have dined with him in his Washington home on Euclid street, are Sen. Ellison D. Smith's South Carolina hams and sausage.

Cured to perfection, with an art peculiar to southern plantation, these two articles of food never fail to delight the senatorial palate and bring forth praise and queries.

They come from the senator's plantation just outside Lynchburg, S. C. And they are prepared by the pride of the Smith family—Miss Anna Brunson, an aunt, 84 years old, and the supervisors of Senator Smith's plantation while his is in Washington.

For 23 years she has been the head of the Smith home. And now, despite her advanced age, continues to supervise the management of the Senator's large plantation in a decidedly efficient and forceful manner.

Good Sport Nothing delights Senator Smith more than to talk of his "business manager" back in South Carolina.

"An old woman? You can't find any one down home who thinks so," he told me. "All her faculties are perfect. She spurs glasses—reads all the latest books and magazines and is enthusiastic about plays and the movies."

"Her interest in life is unbounded. Her two great nieces are her chums. They and their friends confide in her and ask her advice about everything—including love affairs. All regard her as a good sport."

The Senator outlined a few of the reasons why she is so successful in attending to the management of his plantation.

"She has a keen sense of humor, a will that is indomitable, hard, practical common sense, a Spartan fortitude that neither weariness nor illness can conquer, and an unfailing energy."

Since 1747 Senator Smith's plantation is perhaps one of the most historic in the south. Ownership has never been outside his family. He has in his possession now the original land grant given by King George III in 1747 to the first Smith to settle there.

His maternal ancestors were from Scotland—members of a famous clan. Not much was known of the early history of this side of the family, says the Senator, until his brother visited Scotland recently and made an investigation.

When he returned all of the family gathered at the Smith home to hear the report.

"His account of the clan's history was a glowing one," said Senator Smith. "Bravery, daring, chivalry he found everywhere."

"But Charlie," I asked, "what were the first ones like? How did their reputation get started?"

"He looked at me a little queerly before replying:

"Well, Ellison, I didn't intend to report that. But since you ask, I might as well tell you that the first of the clan were about the most astute horse and cattle rustlers Scotland has ever known."

Exhibits by Dashing Army Horses Add Zest for Washington Society

Washington—(AP)—The horse is a big factor in Washington's social life.

Smell of tanbark and sawdust is more agreeable now to powdered aristocratic noses than orchids and roses.

Weekly riding exhibitions of cavalry and artillery at Fort Myer, Va., attract some of the leading people in the capital.

The big riding hall often is filled to its capacity of 1,200. Men in shiny top hats and spats, women in new feathered toques and white fur-collared hats applaud prancing horses ridden by khaki-clad, lithe-waisted men, bronzed by service in far parts of the globe.

Society finds it can take pointers from the army in conducting short, snappy shows full of variety and punch.

WANTED: OWNER FOR ONE OLD WAR FLEET

Bizerta, Tunis—(AP)—This city has in its harbor a fleet of warships which nobody seems to own or to care about. The fleet includes a dozen ironclads which before the war were formidable fighters. They were then part of the fleet of the Russian Czar, and later were captured by General Wrangel.

When General Wrangel abandoned his effort to overthrow the Bolsheviks, the fleet came to Bizerta. This was in November, 1920. They have been here ever since.

France proposed to sell the vessels in 1923. They then were valued at $300,000,000. But the U. S. S. R. notified France that the fleet was Soviet property.

France answered that she recognized this but until she also recognized the Soviet government, the latter could not have the fleet—and in the meantime France did not guarantee to keep the ships in condition.

France's terms for the recognition of Russia included the payment of $600,000,000 Russian imperial bonds owned in France. These negotiations came to nothing.

When France finally recognized the Soviet, there was some doubt whether the fleet was worth moving to Russia to sell for junk. There is still more doubt today.

The ships still float, but are expected to begin sinking soon. Both governments seem to have forgotten about them.

GANDHI TELLS NATIVES TO DISOBEY GOVERNMENT

Jambusar, Bombay, March 20.—(AP)—The river Mahi was in flooded condition when in the dead of night, Mahatma Gandhi crossed to a point near here from Raas. He used a boat, from which he was lifted and carried ashore when it reached this bank.

Other members of his party of 78 devotees who are inaugurating a campaign of civil disobedience of the British government, waded three miles through water and mud, before halting on the river bank for the night.

Today Jawaharlal Nehru, president of the All-India National Congress, met Gandhi and they walked together at the head of the column to Kareli, where the party will halt all day.

Before the crossing river the Mahatma addressed villagers at Kankapur: "This will be the last religious pilgrimage of my life and I have undertaken it on foot according to tradition."

He added that it was fashionable nowadays to make pilgrimages by airplane, but that by making their foot he and his followers would gain much more. He exhorted the villagers to be ready to manufacture salt as soon as he reached Jalapur and he directed them to do so.

AMENDMENT REJECTED.
New Delhi, India, March 20.—(AP)—The Assembly today rejected an amendment to the finance bill for suppression of the government's salt monopoly.

Warren. The term begins in December and ends with the adjournment of Congress on March 31, 1931. He also will be a candidate for the full six year term.

Robert D. Carey, former governor of Wyoming and Charles E. Winter, former representative in Congress later have announced their candidacies in Republican senatorial aspirants.

SUMMER COTTAGES BURNS

Winsted, March 20.—(AP)—Four summer cottages and a small garage at the Highland Lake resort were destroyed today by fire of unknown origin. The loss, partly covered by insurance was estimated at about 10,000.

The cottages located on the west side of the bay, were owned by Frank Whalen, who occupied one of the buildings, while R. G. Lawrence was the owner of the garage.

The other three cottages were vacant.

The unoccupied buildings were ablaze when the fire was discovered. Firemen were unable to get their pumper in operation in time to save the buildings.

BOXING TOURNAMENT.

Chicago, March 20.—(AP)—Amateurs, competing in the finals of the Golden Gloves tournament, have shattered all attendance records for indoor boxing shows.

Twenty-three thousand spectators jammed the Chicago stadium last night to watch the Chicago team defeat New York's team, 10 matches to six. The previous indoor record was established by Mickey Walker-Tommy Loughran light heavyweight championship match a year ago when more than 18,000 fans were present.

Receipts for last night's inter-city finals were estimated at $50,000, which will be turned over to charity.

Fourteen of the sixteen matches were decision affairs, one ended in a knockout and another in a foul.

It was stated that the president did not believe those he released were any menace to the government.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Hand Brake Speeds Stop
Use the emergency brake in addition to the service brake if you are obliged to make the quickest possible stop, even if the former uses the same rear brake shoes as the latter. Some drivers seem to think that the use of the hand brake under such conditions and with this type of brake layout doesn't help to stop the car.

With the hand brake you can obtain excellent leverage. Our modern brakes work so easily we are tempted to lose sight of the fact that the amount of pressure on the pedal or the pull on the lever still has much to do with the effectiveness of the stop.

Even in cases where there are two sets of brakes on the rear wheels the use of both of them in an emergency is an excellent way to guard against a skid, since any unbalance of one pair of rear brakes is certain to be offset by the action of the other pair.

Battery "Pop" A Warning
Perhaps fewer motorists would be caught with run down batteries if they knew why it is that a battery often will appear to be unusually lively just before its last gasp.

During the breaking down of cell plates through old age, overcharging and defects, a battery usually runs down because it does not get the attention it needs. Adding water to the cells every few weeks is not a just part of the process of maintaining the electrolyte in proper condition. As water boils or evaporates out of solution the electrolyte becomes more concentrated, the effect of which is to make the battery peppy as if treated with some dope.

When this concentration reaches a point where the plates are half out of solution the latter are apt to buckle, thus causing an internal short circuit.

Brakes Cause Sidesway
Much that passes for lack of balance in cars on curves is the result of the front brakes not working properly.

Some cars are designed so that the outer brakes release when the car is going around curves and the driver is slowing down. In other cars there has been no provision for this, and it is a hotly debated question among engineers as to whether this detail in brake construction is necessary. Now and again, however, we get cases where the outer brakes are more effective than the inner ones on curves—and that is always dangerous.

A handy way to check up on the front brakes is to jack up the front of the car and spin the wheels. Then turn the steering wheel so that the front wheels cut first one way then the other. If you cut to the right and the left wheel stops, or vice versa, there is something wrong.

Saving Lifting the Hood
It isn't always necessary to raise the hood in order to know what's going on under it, for there are a number of cues which can be used very profitably.

A snapping noise, for instance, invariably means that an ignition wire has come loose and is allowing a spark to jump between the end of the wire and the top of the spark plug. This can happen even if the engine continues to run smoothly.

Many owners can tell whether or not the cap on the oil filler pipe has been put on tightly simply by the smell of gas and oil fumes entering the driving compartment from under the hood.

Recently a motorist surprised his friends by demonstrating that he could tell how much oil there was in the crankcase of his engine without raising the hood. He accomplished the trick by looking through the hood louvers on a slant, obtaining by this simple method a clear view of the oil level gauge.

Floorboards Must Fit
Floorboards are the cause of a lot of perplexing trouble if not replaced carefully and in their original positions.

Consider the case of the man who replaced the upper front floorboard of his car in such a way that it was too high. Not only did he disturb the accelerator which was hinged on the board but the clutch pedal as well because the latter could not return to its usual position. The effect of the change in the position of the accelerator was to prevent the engine from idling, while the change in the clutch position was equivalent to "riding" the clutch pedal.

Constant slippage of the clutch, combined with the trouble in throttling down the engine for gear shifting, resulted in burning the clutch plates. The experiment taught the owner the importance of replacing all parts carefully, even though they appear to be unimportant.

Handier Plan For Heater
Whether or not your engine heater is of the permanent or portable type you can make it permanent and more handy to operate by the following method:

First attach the heater to some convenient place around the engine as near the radiator as possible. See that it is secure and that it does not interfere with the action of any moving part.

Next run the wiring to the driving compartment and attach the plug at some handy point under the instrument panel. Thus when you put the car in the unheated garage at night you have only to connect the plug to an extension from the electric light socket. Without raising the hood or making any further adjustments the heater is started and the cooling system is conveniently protected for the night.

NEARLY 400 HOUSES BURN

Teheran, Persia, March 20.—(AP)—Several lives were lost and many persons injured in a fire reported from Banbarjaz on the Caspian Sea in which 394 houses were destroyed. Figures as to the exact number of casualties varied.

COTTON REPORT

Washington, March 20.—(AP)—The 1929 cotton crop of the United States was placed at 14,544,084 running bales, exclusive of linters, today by the Census Bureau in its final gaining report of the season.

That compares with 14,296,549 running bales in the 1928 crop and 12,783,112 running bales in the 1927 crop.

Round bales, counted as half bales, included were 872,082 compared with 674,596 in the 1928 crop. American-Egyptian cotton included was 28,771 running bales, compared with 28,313 in the 1928 crop. Cotton remaining to be ginned, included in the total, was 33,479 bales, compared with 71,869 in the 1928 crop.

The average gross weight of bales for the crop was 509.5 pounds, compared with 506.3 pounds for the 1928 crop.

Included in the total crop were 86,970 bales ginned prior to August 1 which was counted in the supply for the 1928-29 season, compared with 88,761 bales of the 1928 crop so counted and 162,283 bales of the 1927 crop.

GARRETT TRIAL DELAYED

Boston, March 20.—(AP)—Public hearings in the investigation of the poisoning of Oliver B. Garrett, retired Boston police liquor raider, today stood suspended subject to call after two days of sensational disclosures.

During the day Attorney General Joseph B. Warner will appear before the legislative committee on rules to ask additional powers, time and money to complete the inquiry. Speaker Leverett Saltonstall of the House of Representatives said yesterday following a conference with President Gaspar Bacon of the Senate that the committee would report out a measure embodying the attorney general's request.

The demand for additional powers was precipitated by the refusal Tuesday of counsel for Alfred Brissenden, brother-in-law of Mrs. Garrett, to permit him to testify on the ground that the hearing was unconstitutional.

OLDEST RAILMAN DIES

Columbus, Ohio, March 20.—(AP)—Oliver D. Hevey, reputed to have been the oldest railroad man in the United States, who began his career as a train boy on a woodburner in 1851, died last night at the age of 81.

For 79 continuous years he was on the active payroll of various roads, during a period which witnessed the perfection of the "iron horse."

In 1868 he assisted in bringing soldiers and supplies to and from the battle fields of the Civil War. He was in several wrecks, but each time escaped uninjured.

He was retired on full pay by the Hocking Valley in 1916.

BALFOUR FUNERAL HELD ON SATURDAY

Tributes Continue to Pour In Today from All Parts of the World.

London, March 20.—(AP)—Memorial services for the Earl of Balfour will be held at Westminster Abbey Saturday, the day set for the funeral of the Victorian statesman at his Scottish home, Wittingehame.

Many Tributes. Afternoon newspapers give prominent position to tributes from Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes of the United States, Vice-President Curtis and extracts from American and French newspapers.

"In behalf of the Italian government and in my own name I present Your Excellency sincere sympathy in the loss sustained by Great Britain in the death of Lord Balfour, but to the cause of peace, and international co-operation will not be forgotten."

"Little Joe certainly caught a man-size cold. He coughed and sneezed—he felt grippy and cross. The druggist advised Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup. I could remember using Smith Brothers' drops since I was a little girl, so I didn't hesitate to let some take the syrup. That very afternoon he was getting better. His nose cleared, he coughed less."

"In two days he was completely restored, went back to school. I thought he would have to be in bed for at least a week. Smith Brothers' helped him so quickly!" Mrs. M. PAIGE

Smith Brothers' Cough Syrup ends coughs so quickly because it has Triple Action: 1—it soothes, 2—is mildly laxative, 3—clears air passages.

Try this on your Telephone

Make a few calls to people in out-of-town places—calls for social purposes, or for business reasons. Notice how quickly each connection is made and how clearly you can hear—and be heard. Make a note of how much information you can pack into these conversations.

Check the cost of the calls in money—in time saved—in satisfaction in being able to transact business or social matters instantly—in convenience—in the saving of energy that would be necessary to make the same visits in person.

Make this test— And you will realize how great a boon out-of-town telephone service can be to you in your every-day affairs.

UREMIA APT TO BE FATAL UNLESS QUICK RELIEF IS GIVEN

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygeia, the Health Magazine

A person with Bright's disease or inflammation of the kidneys in an advanced stage, or with a severe inflammation of the kidneys due to a poisoning of some sort, finds it impossible to get rid of the secretion of the kidneys, and develops a serious condition called uremia, leading toward death.

Apparently the damaged kidney not only allows material to be excreted which it ought to retain, but causes the body to retain products which should be excreted. These retained products produce the poisonous effect on the body which is manifested by the symptoms.

When a person has a uremic attack, he becomes very weak and drowsy and his eyesight begins to fail. Sometimes there are convulsions, difficulty with breathing, severe headache, twitchings of the hands and face, and even paralysis.

There are thousands of people in the world who have no job or title of character, as we know it—who have no regard for the morality, who are selfish, craven and unkind, but who are as full of personality as an egg is of meat.

On the other hand, there are heroes galore, grand souls all of them, who measure up to the very last millimeter on our character rule, but who are as lacking in personality as the pillars of the post office.

That is why I should like to warn mothers in all this great business of shaping and training their boys and girls, to avoid crushing out of them this fragile but of—what shall we call it? Oh, yes, it's personality, of course, but in children we seldom recognize it as such. We'll say "difference."

Suppose you have three children and they're all different. Well, as far as possible I'd keep them different. Each child has a way of his own. Don't crush that out of him and try to make him conform to a pattern. Unless it is something unusually objectionable I'd cultivate it and train it and above all things keep him himself.

Too many children are carbon copies of an idea—our idea—of what they should be. Make over people are not interesting. They aren't outstanding examples of personality.

ERVENING SCARE. Ermine is used for the newest evening accessory, a little cape collar to top a diaphanous gown of pale green chiffon. The ermine is really a modern version of the old collar.

ERVENING PLEATS. Patou endorses pleats for evening and makes a printed chiffon gown high waisted with long skirt pleated right from the waistline.

THREE-QUARTERS SLEEVE. A new black broadcloth coat for spring, with three-quarter sleeves that flare slightly. Long gloves are worn with it.

PERSONALITY AS THE PILLARS OF THE POST OFFICE

There are four fundamental principles of character: observation of the ethics or keeping the ten commandments; self help; courage under adversity; and a responsibility toward other people.

Other things of course follow in close order—self respect, steadfastness, loyalty, cheerfulness, gratitude, sympathy and so on.

To go back to personality, that elusive quality that seems so necessary to success. We are told that no one can get over on the stage or in the movies without it. A business man or woman lacking it may as well quit. The professional man must have it. The teacher must have it. But what is it, this "open sesame" to fame and fortune?

Is personality character, is character personality? Can the person with character "sell" himself to others. Does that measure up to all that personality means?

We all want to know the answer so we can begin on the children when they are young enough to benefit by our training.

There's a Distinction You may not be pleased with the answer. Personality is not character.

Fifteen minutes in a hot pack is a considerable strain on the body, and hence it is necessary to have the patient watched constantly to prevent collapse. Uremic attacks have occurred in people without very much advance warning and the disease is listed among the causes of sudden death.

Last year it was the Golden Arrow. This year it is the Silver Bullet. Nineteen thirty-one may see the Copper Cannonball flashing down the sands of Daytona Beach at a speed anywhere from four to five miles a minute.

The present straightaway world's record is close to four miles a minute—231,362 miles per hour, made last year by Sir Henry O. D. Seagrave in the famous Golden Arrow.

Next year, if J. M. White develops his plans for a 48-cylinder thunderbolt for the purpose of bringing the record back to America, 300 m. p. h. may be attained.

Nevertheless the Red Sox have spirit and a number of redeeming factors in player talent. Unable to compete financially with a number of their rivals, they have stuck to the task of rebuilding slowly.

It seems that Leo Durocher, sold by the Yankees to the Reds, talked himself out of a contract with the former world champions for 1930 and, as a consequence, out of the American League.

Carrigan Hopes To Pull Red Sox Out of Cellar

Boston Club Handicapped by Lack of Finance to Cope With Other Clubs But Players Have Plenty of Spirit.

Pensacola, Fla., March 20.—(AP)—The glories of the old Red Sox have departed, but their spirit carries gallantly on.

When Connie Mack in 1922 gave up his long term occupancy of the American League cellar for better things, the Red Sox took over the season in the past eight the Boston entry has finished last, a far cry from the halcyon days of 1903 to 1918 during which the Sox won six pennants and were seldom out of first division.

Nevertheless the Red Sox have spirit and a number of redeeming factors in player talent. Unable to compete financially with a number of their rivals, they have stuck to the task of rebuilding slowly.

ERRORGRAMS MADAMESELLE'S HUSBAND WILL LIKE THIS TURBAN, I'M QUITE SURE.

OH, THE ONLY TURBAN I'VE EVER HEARD OF IS THE KIND THAT RUNS BY WATER POWER.

TOYMAN Any body.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot.

CORRECTIONS (1) "Mademoiselle" should be applied only to an unmarried woman.

(2) The hat the salesgirl holds is not a turban.

(3) Turbans, not turbans, is the way to spell the kind that runs by water power.

(4) The ornaments at the top of the mirror posts do not match.

(5) The scrambled word is ANATOMY.

Rastus—Not guilty, suh.
Judge—Ever been in jail?
Rastus—No, suh. I never stole nuthin' before.

A good many of us who partake of a big meal are like the old colored woman who told the doctor she was suffering from "acute indiscretion."

Rastus—Say, nigguh, how come you so banged up?

ATHEISM INCREASING

Boston, March 29.—(AP)—Atheism is increasing not only in Russia but in this country as well. Mrs. Archibald C. Jordan told the 36th state conference of the Massachusetts Daughters of the American Revolution.

Declaring that the founders of the American government did not include Atheism in their ideals, Mrs. Jordan said the "Pattern they set was an enduring faith in God." She named several American societies which she said were spreading the philosophy of Atheism among the youth of the nation.

It is figured that there are 15,000,000 persons in this country with defective hearing.

The Herald Hears—

That tomorrow is officially the first day of spring, also the 80th day of this year.
That the ground hog did not see his shadow six weeks ago.
That an infallible sign of spring is to see the benches at the Center occupied.
That speculation is rife whether or not the Cubs will open next season with its personnel intact. There is at least one halfback who will not be with the Majors.
That fully three-fourths of the rental books at the library are detective murder mysteries.
That the price of gasoline is dropping steadily, if you will excuse the pun, sent by scent.

No Maintenance Cost
The initial cost of a second-hand car is less than that of a new machine.
But any man who has ever bought such a car knows well that a low purchase cost is sometimes misleading.
The initial cost of certain automobile insurance policies may be lower than the reasonable price we ask for a Travelers policy.
But that initial cost of your Travelers policy for the car you now own is the entire cost of your automobile insurance for the year; it is not subject to a policy assessment.
