

SEELEY, WIKE NOW CHARGED WITH MURDER

Companions of Smith Brothers, Connecticut Men Murdered in West, Are Held Under Guard as Suspects.

Muskogee, Okla., April 29.—(AP)—As a result of an unexpected shift in belief on the part of investigating officers, two traveling companions of George and David Smith, Connecticut capitalists, today were charged with the murder of the easterners found shot to death in a hotel room here Saturday night.

P. G. Seeley and John L. Wike, companions of the Smiths who were brothers, were formally charged with the murders late yesterday. They have not been placed in jail, however, but are under guard in their hotel room. Before the filing of murder charges police announced the prisoners had been released.

Police Puzzled.
Frankly puzzled by the case and at a loss as to a possible motive for the double slaying, officers were still further perplexed by the discovery of a diamond ring in Seeley's possession which they said resembled a ring formerly worn by one of the Smith brothers.

The officers were careful to point out that the ring had not been identified as the property of one of the slain men.

Prior to discovery of the ring, Phillip K. Oldham, assistant county attorney issued a statement saying he was going into the case "with an open mind."

"Probable Cause."
"There is probable cause for these men being implicated, and for this reason I think it advisable that a hearing be held," his statement concluded. He declined to elaborate on the "probable cause" for their being implicated.

Seeley and Wike both were arrested.

LAUDS BUSINESS FOR ITS COURAGE

Head of Commerce Chamber Pays Tribute to Men Who Averted Financial Panic.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—President William B. Butterworth of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today paid tribute to American business for its challenge during the past six months to "rule-of-thumb" economics and its efforts to smooth out the valleys of the business cycle.

In his keynote address before the opening general session of the eighteenth annual meeting of the chamber, Butterworth asserted that "American business has definitely broken new ground."

"Last fall," he said, "A critical situation arose which brought clearly into issue the question of whether the allied forces of business and industry by a close coordination of their courage and experience, could demonstrate that the wayward and fickle economic cycle could be straightened out into an orderly and harmonious progression."

New Forces in Field.
"Though the forces of that mobilization are still being applied, already the first pages of a highly significant chapter of economic history have been written. New forces have boldly entered the field and challenged the rule-of-thumb control of economic conditions which has heretofore too generally prevailed."

In 1920-21, he said, "we tripped and fell and broke a leg," and although "in 1929 we stumbled again and fell," there were "no bones broken."

Speaking of the facts gained and circulated by the comparatively recently established national business survey conference, under the chairmanship of Julius H. Barnes, Butterworth said:

"Through the medium of our Chambers of Commerce and our trade associations this vitalizing current is flowing into every part of the country, stimulating communities and individuals to grapple with present facts, and, with a comprehensive panorama of actualities before them, to plan intelligently for the future."

Future Regulations.
Turning next to possible future government regulation of business, Butterworth said he did not believe the public "would raise the hue and cry for reprisals which will abridge a legitimate business itself now it was on good behavior."

"I am convinced," he said, "that if our future holds in store a season of business baiting at the hands of lawmakers or other governmental authorities, that relatively small part of the business community which breaks the canon of fair play to which the vast majority of the business community gives hearty allegiance, will be responsible."

Lindy at Miami on Southward Hop

OUR NAVAL DELEGATES ARE BACK IN AMERICA

Greeted by Cheers of 5,000 As They Arrive in New York; Morrow is Only One To Make a Statement.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—The American delegates to the London naval conference set foot again on United States soil today at 10:30 a. m., E. S. T., when they debarked at the Battery from the city tug Macao, to the cheers of 5,000 persons.

All of the delegates except Senator Reed departed from the Macao at 9:05. In addition to Secretary Stimson and Adams, Ambassador Morrow and Senator Robinson there were Mrs. Mrs. Stimson and Mrs. Robinson.

Mrs. Morrow who had returned from Europe earlier, was aboard the Macao to greet her husband. Senator Reed is returning on a later vessel. The Macao loaded its way up the lower bay waiting to dock at 10:30 when the parade forms. None of the delegates would make a statement.

FIRE IN HOLYOKE CAUSES BIG LOSS

State Militia Called Out to Handle Crowds; Over Half Million Damage.

Holyoke, Mass., April 29.—(AP)—Fire officials were today investigating the origin of a fire, which last night caused $500,000 loss and necessitated the summoning of aid from three other cities and the calling out of the National Guard.

Six buildings of the Ranger Caspar Lumber Company, in whose yard the fire started were destroyed and sparks, carried an eighth of a mile by a high wind, started blazes at the City Hall, the People's Savings bank, Farr Alpaca Mills, Skinner Silk Mills and Fred H. Frantz's garage.

Call Militia.
Companies E and F, 104th Regiment, Massachusetts National Guard, were called out to patrol the streets when the crowds about the fire lines got too large for the local police to handle.

At the City Hall, which caught on the roof, the members of the Board of Aldermen, who were in session, aided city employees in extinguishing the blaze with hand extinguishers. Water hoses could not reach the roof because of the low pressure caused by the unusual number of water lines in use at the lumber yard.

Patrick O'Leary, night watchman for the lumber company, discovered the fire, which at that time had gained considerable headway. A general alarm was sounded soon after the arrival of the first apparatus and later aid was summoned from Northampton, Springfield, and Chicopee.

HEARING ON MAY 13

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The board of engineers for rivers and harbors has announced a public hearing to be held here at 10 a. m., Tuesday, May 13, on the improvement of Taunton river, Massachusetts.

"PROFITLESS PROSPERITY" NEW PROBLEM

Worcester Publisher Tells Nation's Business Men That Few Companies Are Making Money Now.

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Reviewing major questions confronting American business, John H. Fahey, publisher of the Worcester (Mass.) Post, today urged a study to surmount the problem of "profitless prosperity."

In an address before the opening general session of the eighteenth annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, Fahey said it was "not the worker alone who is restless today concerning conditions which he feels are in some way wrong."

"For some years now," he said, "we have heard business men themselves raising pertinent questions concerning their inability in spite of the exercise of their best intelligence and abilities to secure for themselves and the investors in their enterprises a reasonable return from their efforts."

Little Profit.
"The Treasury Department's analysis of corporation earnings in recent years shows that a large proportion of the business corporations of the country have been making little or nothing for some years. At the same time these figures disclose that a large proportion of all corporate profits of the country are absorbed by a comparatively few institutions."

Fahey also recommended steps to insure that "speculation be kept within reasonable bounds, and that it not be permitted to contribute in large degree toward bringing about business disaster."

Need of Competition.
The Worcester publisher further recorded an opinion that the "enthusiasm for railroad consolidations and for the development of national systems has abated considerably."

"Certainly some shippers are beginning to feel that so far as transportation is concerned there is in fact no competition."

OLDEST BANKER DIES IN NORWALK

Alden Solmans, 95, Took Up Painting at 80 and Made Success of It.

Norwalk, April 29.—(AP)—Alden Solmans, 95, oldest active banker in the United States, and an artist of repute, died here at 4 a. m. today, after a long illness.

Financier, artist, hatter, oysterman and lively stable proprietor at various times in his long life, Alden Solmans at 95 was the oldest active banker in the United States.

At eighty he began to study art and his spare time hobby blossomed into ability which was rewarded in his 95th year, with opinions of Art Center critics that his work shown early in this year at the Art Center in New York City was of fine character.

Mr. Solmans taught himself to produce abstract designs and then he developed characteristic art which drew attention of critics and admirers of paintings.

Born in New York.
Mr. Solmans was born in Milltown, N. Y., July 24, 1834 and was apprenticed at 17 to the hatting trade. He obtained meagre schooling in Danbury and served at his trade under an uncle until he built up his own business. In 1874 he was president of the Norwalk Forming Company. He lived through the strikes in the trade in 1884 and 1885 when the largest hat plant in the city was dynamited and he protected his own plant from danger.

In Oyster Business.
Mr. Solmans had been regarded as the father of the oyster industry in Norwalk. Before 1880 he was interested in the cultivation of oysters and was the first to bring seed from Bridgeport to Norwalk. In early life he owned a lively stable on the site of the present Mahackmp Hotel in which fifty years later he lived and in which he died. His first oyster business was connected with the South Norwalk Savings Bank in 1867, when he was elected a director. He was made president in 1886 and held this office 44 years. His entire connection with the bank was 63 years and the institution grew to be one of the most substantial in Fairfield county.

In November 1878 Mr. Solmans married Miss Marie Constance Hotchkiss of New York City and Derby, at Derby. They had no children and Mrs. Solmans is the only surviving relative. The golden wedding was observed in Norwalk last fall.

GUARDSMEN FIRE ON CONVICTS IN NEW PENITENTIARY REVOLT

Report 192 Drowned When Steamer Sinks

Calcutta, Bengal, India, April 29.—(AP)—One hundred and ninety-passengers aboard the steamer Condor lost their lives when that ship sank in the river Jamuna in eastern Bengal, the ship's owners said today. Only eighteen of the passengers were saved.

The disaster occurred about five p. m. Sunday during a severe storm. The ship at the time was in an isolated district, from which news of its loss travelled slowly. It is now lying in about three fathoms of water.

The Condor was carrying mail from Serajang Ghat to Goalundo. No trace of the postal officials or of the mail bags has been found. The ship belongs to the River Steam Navigation Company. It was built in 1897 and rebuilt in 1926 and left Calcutta last month after being overhauled.

SECURE FINE PICTURES OF ECLIPSE OF THE SUN

Scientists Expose Films 18,000 Feet in Air; Vivid Description of Big Shadow is Given by Plane Pilot.

San Francisco, April 29.—(AP)—Photographs of a celestial phenomenon, the eclipse of the sun by the moon, were available to posterity today thanks to a roaring wind which at the critical moment swept aside a black cloud which had obscured the view.

The black cloud, apparently formed by mist in the frigid air, startled scientists and their aviator assistants along the line of totality, stretching eastward across the Sierra Mountains from just north of San Francisco. Shouts of bitter disappointment greeted the dark blotch but a moment later a strong wind swept the cloud away and scores of cameras photographed the eclipse.

Describes Eclipse.
The swift passage of the moon's giant shadow was described by Captain A. W. Stevens and Lieut. J. D. Corliss of the Army Air Corps experimental laboratory at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio.

"We were high above a layer of white clouds about 18,000 feet over Honey Lake in northern California," said Captain Stevens, "suddenly we spied what we thought was a mountain about 75 miles in the distance. Looked Like Mountain.
"We knew it could not be a mountain for the highest peak in the vicinity was about 9,000 feet. The dark spot appeared to be stationary at first. Then we saw it approaching us and knew it was the moon's shadow."
"The dark spot came slowly at first. We trained our motion pic-

STATE OFFICIAL DIES FROM SHOCK

Thomas Holt, Dairy Commissioner Passes Away Suddenly at Newington Home.

Newington, April 29.—(AP)—Thomas Holt, 67, state dairy and food commissioner, died at his home here this morning after suffering a shock.

Mr. Holt was standing in front of his home on Francis avenue about 8:30 o'clock this morning talking to a friend prior to going to his office at the State Capitol when he suffered a sudden seizure and was carried into the house. He died before medical aid could be obtained.

Mr. Holt was deputy dairy and food commissioner from 1914 to 1918 and was named commissioner in the latter year upon the death of Frank H. Stadtmiller. He served three full terms and was recently reappointed by Governor Trumbull for a fourth, upon which he was to have entered on Thursday.

Born in England.
He was born in Littleboro, England, and came to America when 19 years old. He traveled widely about a country before settling in 1895. He engaged in farming in Southington and came to this town in 1918. He was active fraternally, being a member of the Masons, Order of Eastern Star, Odd Fellows, Sons of St. George and Grange. He was also a member of the Newington Fire and Finance Commission and was president of the Newington Junction Water Company. He was married twice, his second wedding taking place in November, 1928. He is survived by his second wife and by three children of his first marriage, all local residents. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

TWO ARE HURT; ONE MAN DYING

Scores of Prisoners in Open Mutiny, Storm Guard House in Mass Attempt to Escape—Governor Says Order Must Be Restored at Prison at All Costs—Situation Quiets Down Quickly When Militia Starts Firing; Machine Guns Outside Enclosure Command All Exits.

Columbus, Ohio, April 29.—(AP)—Open mutiny by scores of Ohio Penitentiary convicts today forced prison guards and National Guardsmen to fire upon a mob of prisoners who stormed the guard house in a mass attempt to escape. Two convicts fell before the bullets of the guards, one being wounded seriously.

The convicts, since the fire when 320 prisoners were killed, had "passively" resisted attempts to control them, but today they dropped their passive attitude and mutinied.

The two wounded convicts were George Tonoff and Jewell Joffa. They were serving terms for larceny. Tonoff is not expected to live. Joffa was wounded in the leg.

Only a short time before Governor Cooper had announced that order at the prison must be restored. Colonel in Command.
When the mutiny provoked firing Col. R. H. Haubrich, in charge of the National Guard troops was placed in command of the situation within the walls. The governor issued orders that martial law was not necessary but that the military would co-operate with Warden F. E. Thomas in restoring order.

The situation quieted as quickly as it had flared up, and within an hour after the shooting started the two wounded had been sent to the hospital and the rioters were in their cells.

Many of the convicts took no part in the rush for freedom. Outside the walls the prison lawn bristled with machine guns commanded by every available soldier. The convicts apparently realized the utter futility of resisting further.

Talks to Convicts.
Protected by leveled machine guns, Colonel Haubrich ventured up to the entrance of the cell block and talked with several of the prisoners for a few minutes. When he emerged he said he was satisfied that the convicts had been subdued.

Governor Cooper announced that he had given instructions to the military to disarm every convict in the idle house and to use such means as were necessary to obtain this end. Colonel Haubrich indicated that he expected to do this work by the afternoon.

"The prisoners have promised me that they will do anything I ask them to do," he said. A report was made by the Ohio Inspection Bureau today indicating that the Easter Monday fire was the result of incendiarism and not defective wiring.

Columbus, Ohio, April 29.—(AP)—Revolting convicts in the White City or idle house at Ohio Penitentiary, scene of the disastrous fire, were fired upon today by prison guards when they made a concerted effort to escape from the cell blocks. The mutineers were driven back from the doors leading to the main entrance by automatic rifle fire. Several convicts were wounded.

When the mass of convicts made their break for liberty they attempted to gain entrance to the guard room. Bullets drove them back. Then the convicts held several guards as prisoners for a short time, but released them when National Guard officers threatened to enter the White City and rescue the men.

The shooting followed a night and morning of comparative quiet within the prison walls. A half hour after the guards had sent bullets streaming into the idle house through small windows and peep holes, the convicts had quieted down, and prison officials ordered guards into the cell blocks to make an inspection.

Barbed Wire Stockade.
The break for liberty came shortly after National Guardsmen started inspection of a barbed wire stockade in the prison yard, in which it was proposed to hold the rioters until the hundreds of cell locks had been repaired.

The mutineers heretofore had continued their activities to "passive" resistance against the wardenship of Preston E. Thomas. They had been in revolt since the fire, when 320 convicts were killed by fire and smoke Monday night a week ago.

Covered by machine gun, Colonel Robert Haubrich, Ohio National Guard, went to the idle house doorway and conversed with three convicts. They reported that practically all the prisoners had taken refuge in their cells, and that all was now quiet within the block.

Columbus police reserves, summoned when the disorder started, were clearing all the streets in the vicinity of the penitentiary. Two of the wounded convicts, were George Tonoff and Jewell Joffa. The former was shot in the right lung and Joffa received a bullet in the right leg. Tonoff was serving from three to 15 years for burglary and Joffa three to 17 years on the same charge.

Convicts Have Clubs.
Glass in the guard room door and in small windows of the cell block was shattered by the convicts who carried such weapons as clubs and bars of iron. Ordered by the warden to go back to their cells, the convicts continued their rush. They retreated at the first burst of firing, but a moment later had remanned and made a second rush. Automatic rifles spat bullets into the mob, and this time they fell back and took refuge in cells.

500 Guardsmen There.
Four additional companies of guardsmen were ordered to the prison, Company A, Marietta; Company B, Marion; Company L, of Athens, and a howitzer platoon, armed with one-pounders from Ironston. There are now 500 National Guardsmen at the prison.

SHOOTING STARTS.
Shooting broke out in the idle house of the Ohio Penitentiary today. The convicts confined to this cell block have been in revolt since the disastrous fire of Easter Monday when 320 men locked in their cells were burned to death. Guards, stationed in the guard room opening into the White City, were shooting into the cell block. The prisoners made a concerted effort to rush the guard room and gain the main entrance. They were trying to break out from other rooms, also. The guards opened fire and wounded convicts made a break for liberty.

200 Rounds Fired.
More than 200 rounds were fired into the block from automatic rifles. It was not known if any of the convicts had been killed or wounded. All prison guards were immediately armed with automatic rifles, shot guns and side arms.

Hold One of the Guards.
Shortly after the guards opened fire Colonel R. C. Haubrich, commanding officer of the Ohio National Guard on duty at the penitentiary, ordered that the shooting be stopped. The convicts were reported to have captured Captain Boyles, a guard, and were holding him prisoner.

National Guard officers, stationed in the guard room, demanded that Boyles be released at once. Practically all the windows in the White City or idle house were shattered by bullets. The convicts were screaming and howling at the top of their lungs. All was disorder within the prison walls.

The convicts released Captain Boyles, but they were reported to be holding guard Captain Jefferson Henderson in the cell block.

Bring in Guns.
National Guardsmen from outside the prison, rushed in a machine gun and it was mounted in the guard room in a position to sweep the white city through the glass partitions separating the cell block from the guard room. The convicts were massing in front of the guard room door, and they refused to go back when ordered to do so.

Guards said they believed some of the prisoners had been wounded or killed by the guards' bullets.

Two wounded prisoners were removed from the cell block and carried into the guard room. All had been quiet in the prison during the night and morning. Then came the sudden burst of firing, and within a moment the situation of quiet had turned to one of utmost disorder.

Captain Released.
Later the prisoners released Captain Henderson. One other guard remained in the idle house and it was not known if he had been injured.

A half hour after the shooting started the prisoners had quieted down to a great extent and guards were preparing to go into the idle house and ascertain just what the bullets took.

In order to prevent the convicts from making another break for liberty, the warden ordered that the cell locks be repaired.

Reform Plans Several states also had enthusiastic advocates of reform.

The New Jersey partnership was characterized as a "part time job, inadequately paid," by Mrs. Andrew J. Steelman, of that state, who remarked that a governor living elsewhere "was in Trenton about one day in three."

Mrs. Virgil Leob, of Missouri, reported 126 boards and bureaus in that state and told of the Missouri League's fight for a survey commission to analyze the present situation and recommend reform.

Ancient Tax System Mrs. R. L. Turman, brightly narrated the "nursery rhyme" campaign of the Georgia League to educate the State Legislature on simplification of government.

Mrs. Leslie J. Tompkins, of New York, gave former Governor Al Smith great credit for reduction of 1,700 boards to 18 departments, but said the women voters had given him "full co-operation."

YOUTH SHOTS GIRL Atlanta, April 29.—(AP)—Jealous, police said, of her friendship with other boys, Max Warren, 18, an invited guest, went to a neighborhood party last night, called Miss Edna Estess, 18, to the porch and shot her in the back with a rifle.

MASONIC ORDERS HONOR VERPLANCK

Grand Patron of Eastern Star Guest at Big Reception Here Last Night.

Fred Ayer Verplanck of this town, well known educator who is equally prominent in Masonic circles, and recently elected as grand patron of the Order of the Eastern Star in Connecticut, was the guest of honor last evening at a large reception given at the Masonic Temple by Temple Chapter No. 53 of this town.

Fred A. Verplanck.

More than 400 attended the reception last evening, including heads of all local Masonic bodies and representatives from Eastern Star chapters all over Connecticut. It was a most brilliant affair perhaps ever held in the new temple.

Plans for the reception were made on an elaborate scale and splendidly carried out in every detail. As the guests entered the temple they were received by Mrs. Elmore C. Packard, Mrs. Donald Grant, Mrs. F. C. Tilden, Mrs. James Richmond, Mrs. Adelbert Clark and Mrs. Ernest Moseley.

GRAND JURY TO PROBE MAYOR'S BANK ACCOUNTS

Orders Four Hartford Institutions to Turn Over Batterson's Papers.

Hartford, April 29.—(AP)—The Grand Jury investigating liquor conditions in Hartford county has ordered four Hartford banks to turn over all books, papers, vouchers and letters including deposit slips from Jan. 1, 1929 to Jan. 1, 1930 of Mayor Walter E. Batterson. This was confirmed today by the mayor, who a few weeks ago stood on his constitutional rights when appearing before the Grand Jury and refused to tell them the name of a friend of whom he bought intoxicants.

ture camera upon it and started grinding out film. Faster and faster the shadow came on the cloud below. It passed beneath us so rapidly we could hardly perceive it. Turning our plane we photographed it as it disappeared.

Luminous Shadow. "The shadow appeared to be luminous and bluish purple and its diameter was about three fourths of a mile, with its edges clearly defined." "A snowstorm was raging below the plane at the time of the eclipse and the exhaust fumes from the plane froze and left long trailing streaks in the sky."

ABOUT TOWN

Clouds of smoke emerging from the woods at the south end of the town gave all the appearance of a big forest fire this afternoon but an investigation revealed that the report was more or less of a false alarm. Goodman Smith, farmer, who lives just over the Manchester town line in Glastonbury opposite the old schoolhouse, was burning clumps of bay-berry bushes on a small hill of his farm surrounded on all sides by a swamp.

The Manchester Fire Department was called out this afternoon to the home of Frank Damato at 24 Homestead street but when it arrived the fire had been extinguished. It started from kerosene spilled on a gas stove. A crowd gathered quickly but its curiosity wasn't rewarded.

All members who are planning to attend the annual banquet of the Fish and Game Club are asked to make reservations immediately as May 3 has been set as the final day on which reservations can be made.

STIMSON'S SPEECH AT N. Y. CITY HALL

Secretary of State Responds To Address of Welcome On Arrival in U. S.

New York, April 29.—(AP)—Secretary of State Henry L. Stimson, responding to the address of welcome given the American delegates to the London naval arms limitation conference at City Hall today, said:

"We are very grateful for this welcome. Some of us are natives of New York, and have the peculiar happiness of being welcomed by old friends and neighbors. But whether native New Yorkers or not, we all appreciate the warmth of a New York welcome."

"It is very gratifying to us to be met at the gateway of home with the knowledge that our efforts have met with your approval. We do not take this welcome as a personal tribute, but as an indication of your sympathy with the great cause of international good will and peace for which we have labored."

"The American delegation went to London with the primary purpose of promoting good will between the nations of the earth. We believe that naval limitations is one of the most direct and potent steps toward achieving such good will. For just as naval competition between nations leads to rivalry, suspicion and ever increasing competition, so on the other hand, naval limitation, leads to mutual confidence and confidence in the future. Each process runs in a circle, but one is a vicious circle which leads ultimately to war, and the other is a beneficent circle which leads towards permanent peace."

"I feel that we have accomplished a long step on this road to peace. By this treaty which we have completed between the navies of the three greatest naval powers of the world—America, Britain and Japan; and with the other two powers—France and Italy—we have also reached agreements which though not complete are leading in the same direction. Eventually, we hope, competition will be abolished between all five powers."

"I am glad to tell you that we met with fairness and good will from all the other delegations of the different powers. The spirit of the conference was one of its finest attributes and is one of the most hopeful results of our meetings. Naval limitation is necessarily a continuing process, and we feel that the conference which we have just left will lead to further progress along the same road."

"For the American delegation I need only say that we have tried to represent the United States to the best of our ability. There has been among us no word or sign of party division since we left these shores. So on returning we represent no party in American politics. We went and we return representatives of the desire of the nation for friendship with all the world."

"Having worked on that basis I can tell you, gentlemen, that it is a very happy thing to be welcomed as we are welcomed this morning, and we thank you from the bottom of our hearts."

SPECIALIST DIES

Greenfield, Mass., April 29.—(AP)—Dr. E. P. REC JUNIOR BOXERS HOLD CELEBRATION

Youngsters Eat Apple Pie and Ice Cream as Season at Gym Closes.

Thirty members of the junior boxing class at the School Street Recreation Center today held a party, celebrating the closing of the season from 5 to 6 in celebration of the good times they have had during the winter months. The class has been particularly active and the enrollment unusually large. The boys brought a little gift for each other, this being worked out under the scheme of each one supplying the present for his opponent in the recent boxing exhibition at the gym exhibit program. Apple pie, ice cream and soda was served. Edward F. Taylor, chairman of the Recreation Center committee, was present.

"It is a good treaty, a good treaty for the United States, a step forward in the movement for world peace."

"Secretary Stimson is entitled to the highest credit for accomplishing the aims for which President Hoover sent the delegation abroad. By his high character, his great courage and his constant patience he earned the respect not only of his colleagues and helpers on the American delegation, but of all those at the conference."

At the Macom started up the bay the Levithan tooted its whistle three times in a parting salute, and the two destroyers and the U. S. S. Texas, which had conveyed the Levithan into the harbor, fired up with the same attention along the rails while the Texas fired a salute of 19 guns.

Another salute greeted the delegates as the Macom passed Governor's Island and a formation of six Army planes from Mitchell Field headed which several private planes, maneuvered over the tug.

"I'm glad to be back," Mrs. Stimson said. "This has been a very busy time for all of us. Our husbands worked so hard that we scarcely saw them and we feel as though we'll have to be introduced to them all over again. Our part was just making them as comfortable as possible."

Mr. Stimson is very tired but he's not half so tired as he would be if he hadn't brought back a treaty.

Mrs. Robinson said that the wives of the American delegation had been "very busy entertaining and being entertained." The English people were delightful and entertained us most graciously," she said. "There was little time for sightseeing."

Within a few minutes after they had landed the delegates entered waiting automobiles and the welcoming procession started up Broadway to City Hall. At the head of the procession was a band, followed by several squads of sailors, a police band, the automobiles containing the delegates were made by Secretary Stimson and mounted escorts.

The crowd massed along the sidewalks was silent except for a burst of cheering from a group in front of Trinity church.

There was a lack of ticker tape. Near Wall street, pages torn from telephone books, floated slowly to the ground. At 120 Broadway a long string of ticker tape, curled lazily through the air and settled over Commissioner Whalen's car.

With one or two short halts the parade, which was several blocks long swung through City Hall plaza, and discharged the delegates.

At City Hall the automobiles were escorted to the Penna. Station. Crowds lined the sidewalks along the route, but there was an absence of cheering.

Ambassador Morrow accompanied his colleagues on the delegation to the train platform, where he told them good bye and then, accompanied by Mrs. Morrow, entered his automobile and drove, under a police escort, to New Jersey.

BLOCK ISLAND 1,096

Newport, R. I., April 29.—(AP)—The population of Block Island, which is the town of New Shoreham, is 1,096 persons compared with 1,088 ten years ago. In the same period the number of farms decreased from 76 to 26. Figures were announced today by the local census headquarters.

Miss Eleanor Bradley, of Brattleboro, Vermont, is spending this week with her aunt, Mrs. Thomas Ferguson, of 175 Main street. Miss Bradley is a junior in the Brattleboro High School.

Dilworth Cornell Post, American Legion, will hold its regular meeting at the Armory at 8:15 tonight. The Legion dance held its "On to Boston" corps at the Paragon near New Britain last night and there was a large attendance of Manchester people.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS DISCUSSES AIRPLANES

Geneva, Switzerland, April 29.—(AP)—The possibility of the League of Nations some day owning its own airplanes for use in times of crisis, came before the League's arbitration and security committee today.

The German delegates insisted that the League should not own its own planes, but should employ the ships of commercial lines. The Polish delegate on the other hand, declared himself definitely in favor of the League ultimately owning its own planes, although saying that a provision arrangement for the use of commercial craft might be made.

Lord Cecil of Great Britain, tried conciliation by suggesting there was really no serious conflict between the two views and then threw the committee and spectators into hearty laughter by adding:

"Of course, I suppose fifteen or twenty years hence everybody will own airplanes—we shall all of us be using our own. But I sincerely trust that when that is true, I shall be in another sphere."

TWO DIE IN FIRE

Minneapolis, April 29.—(AP)—Two children were burned to death and five other persons were burned or injured seriously in a fire that swept the Washburn apartment building on the edge of the downtown district today.

More than 100 persons were driven out the streets by the fire, which firemen estimated caused about $50,000 damage.

The dead are Loretta and Lorraine Carlberg, aged 4 and 8 respectively, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Carlberg. They were trapped in their room.

Mrs. Carlberg, severely burned and suffering from shock, was taken down a ladder by firemen and Carlberg, also seriously burned, leaped from the window into a net held by firemen.

PREPARE GLOBE POOL FOR BATHING SEASON

East Hartford Pastor to Address Gathering at Cheney Hall Exercises on May 30

Work was started yesterday on cleaning the bottom of the Globe Hollow swimming pond in preparation for the summer bathing season, the opening of which will depend to a great extent upon the weather, real plenty is often the result. There has been a limited number of openings in the pond this spring. It is the usual custom to open Globe Hollow about the time school closes in June but if warm weather comes much before that time, an earlier opening is often the result. Frank C. Busch will begin his fourth year as life-guard and will be assisted by August Milder who has also been on duty there for two or three years.

Last year a number of major improvements were made at the pond, the principal one of which was the installation of cement stairways along the side of the pond in front of the dressing quarters. This involved considerable cost but proved a worth-while alteration from the previous unsatisfactory embankment which was dangerously steep at points.

It will not be necessary to make any big changes this year. A few extra benches and tables will be set up in the shade of the trees about the shore for the benefit of those who wish to bring lunch. This plan, put into effect last year, proved most popular, hundreds taking advantage of the opportunity during the summer months. Mothers, especially, found it most advantageous. They could stage picnics for their children and at the same time enjoy the benefits of a day out of doors without any expense.

It is planned to erect a pair of horizontal bars on the diving platform near the high springboard facing toward the bathhouse. This will give young athletes an opportunity to try stunts that even seem too difficult with the opportunity of a diving board.

Work on the pond is being improved every year and 1930 being no exception to the rule, it seems that the largest number of people ever will patronize Manchester's only bathing resort during the summer season.

BISHOP OF POLISH NATIONAL CHURCH HERE

Rev. Bishop Gawrychewski of Chicago, Mass., made a visit to the Polish National Catholic church Sunday, April 27. He held services and made a speech on the methods in the National Church. He had come to say good-bye to the parishioners who are going to go to Poland on a visit to see his aged father who was one hundred years old last month. Although he himself is 62 years old he is still in good health. He is well educated and speaks seven languages. On his return from Poland he promised to visit town again and tell the local parishioners all the news from the homeland.

POLICE THINK HUSBAND MURDERED HIS WIFE

Seattle, April 29.—(AP)—Finding of the mutilated body of Mrs. Elizabeth Audrey Lindsay, 50, buried in the garden of her former home here, has resulted in an intensified search for her husband, Frank, 46-years-old, who disappeared several weeks ago in company with his adopted daughter, Pearl, 12-years-old.

The woman had been missing since February 19. Lindsay, maintaining that she had deserted him, had given away her jewelry and other possessions to another of his adopted daughters and the girl's mother, who lives here.

This, Helen McCumber, 11, reported Lindsay and Pearl as missing the day after Easter. The discovery of the woman's body suddenly presented an appalling angle to the case yesterday.

He said that the seized body was recovered. Officers of the police department, a deputy prosecutor, also disclosed that a search was being made for a third girl, 14 years old, who lived with the Lindsays last year.

RECOVER BOYS' BODIES

East Wakefield, N. H., April 29.—(AP)—The bodies of Robert Bradley, 17, and Arthur Rushmore, 16, two Madison, N. J., boys who drowned while canoeing in Great East Lake here last Thursday, were shipped to their homes today. Bodies of both boys were recovered yesterday afternoon. The parents of the victim, and Mrs. Harry Bradley and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Rushmore, left here shortly after the bodies were recovered.

DRY QUIZ DELAYED

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—Unable to obtain a quorum, the Senate lobby committee today deferred until tomorrow its examination of William H. Stayton, chairman of the Board of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment.

Senator Robinson, Republican, Indiana, was the only member of the committee who appeared today. He explained that other members were unable to be present.

Stayton will be questioned about the activities of the association in advocating repeal of the prohibition law. Henry H. Curran, president of the association, has been questioned seven days by the committee.

After the committee finishes examination of members of wet organizations, it is expected to question officials of the Anti-Saloon League and other dry groups.

After Representative Tinkham, Republican, Massachusetts, a wet, had made charges against the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals, the Federated Council of Churches and the Anti-Saloon League, they were promised an opportunity to reply.

PRESENTS CREDENTIALS

Tirana, Albania, April 28.—(AP)—Herman Bernstein, new United States minister to Albania, presented his credentials to King Zog today. The customary ceremony was observed.

WOODWARD NAMED MEMORIAL SPEAKER

East Hartford Pastor to Address Gathering at Cheney Hall Exercises on May 30

Rev. Truman H. Woodward of the East Hartford Congregational church has been obtained as the speaker at the Memorial Day exercises at Cheney hall, it was announced by Charles E. House, chairman of the speaker's committee at a meeting of the Permanent Memorial Day committee in the Chamber of Commerce rooms last night.

The four men registered at the hotel here Saturday, Mike and Seelye occupying a room adjoining that in which the Smith brothers were killed. Mike told officers two men came into the room shortly after nine o'clock Saturday night and that a fight started immediately.

Mike said his was bound and gagged and robbed of $8 he carried in his pocket. Seelye was in his room at the time, but did not hear the disturbance he told investigators.

George Smith whose home was in Cornwall, Conn., was in Oklahoma City checking up mortgages sold here by the defunct New Milford, Conn. Security Company, of which he was secretary. David Smith lived in Sharon, Conn., Mike's home. Seelye lives in Washington, Conn.

HAVE FRIENDS HERE

New Milford, Conn., April 29.—(AP)—Friends here today rallied to the support of P. G. Seelye and John L. Mike, against whom charges of murder have been filed for the deaths of George R. Smith and David R. Smith, brothers, in a Muskogee, Okla., hotel.

The general belief here is that Seelye and Mike who were associates of the Smiths in the bankrupt New Milford Security Company are innocent and that Oklahoma mortgagors who were indebted to the company may have been responsible.

Ralph Seelye, of New York, a son of P. G. Seelye left for the west last night to aid his father.

Mike telephoned relatives that he did not understand that he was being held for murder but only as a material witness. None plan to go to the western city to assist him unless further developments warrant it.

Willing to Aid. State Attorney Walter Holcomb, wired the county attorney at Muskogee expressing his willingness to cooperate in the investigation. The possibility that Connecticut might conduct a further investigation into the defunct security company was seen here today.

It was said here that Mike tried to persuade the party from making the trip through that section, saying there were many "hard" characters and that "no one could tell what they might do to a fellow."

There also was a report that "some one in Oklahoma" had sought to delay the visit which was to check up on mortgages sold there and in other nearby states.

Trip Postponed. It was originally set for last fall but postponed at the suggestion of Virgil L. Cross, the Muskogee agent of the company.

Relatives of David Smith said he had a premonition of death and as a safeguard had increased the amount of insurance on his automobile. It was also agreed by the men they should carry a minimum of money in traveling checks.

Thirty-five residents of Sharon, Mike's home, have signed an affidavit of his character and telegraphed it to Muskogee for introduction at his hearing tomorrow.

Word was received here that the bodies of the men had been shipped east and plans have been made for a double funeral Friday afternoon in West Cornwall.

SUBMITS NEW PLAN FOR WORLD COURT

Vienna, April 29.—(AP)—Count Richard Coudenhove-Kalergi, founder and leader of the Pan-European movement, has submitted to all European governments a draft constitution of the "European Federated States" for discussion and counter-proposals.

Among the provisions is one stating that members of the confederation are to guarantee mutually the maintenance of the League of Nations and the Kellogg pact and to agree to look upon every attack on any part of the confederation's territory as an attack on the territory of its own state to be defended politically, economically and militarily.

Disagreements between members of the federation are to be submitted to a federal tribunal by difference between a member state and a non-member state are to be submitted to the League of Nations or the World Court at the Hague.

All Equal. Minority races in the federated states are to enjoy equality with the majorities.

All existing exclusive treaties between members and non-members are to be denounced.

The federal revenue is to be drawn from poll tax levies in the ports of the confederated states on all non-European citizens.

Aristide Briand, French foreign minister, has been working on an idea for a United States of Europe and it is expected that he will shortly distribute a questionnaire to the various governments in order to get their reaction to this plan.

SEELEY, WIKE NOW CHARGED WITH MURDER

verely grilled yesterday and last night but officers said they were unable to shake either of their stories. Earlier in the day officers had expressed the belief that revenge and not robbery was the motive for the double slaying but they said they had no foundation for this belief other than the fact that a small amount of money carried by the two brothers, had not been touched when the Smiths were slain.

Mike and Seelye were in Oklahoma City checking up mortgages sold here by the defunct New Milford, Conn. Security Company, of which he was secretary. David Smith lived in Sharon, Conn., Mike's home. Seelye lives in Washington, Conn.

COAST GUARD NABS TWO RUM RUNNERS

New London, April 29.—(AP)—Two vessels, liquor laden, were seized by Coast Guard patrol boats from the local base today.

The seizures were made in the early morning in Block Island Sound. The vessels seized are the motorboat Esther B. and the speedboat Elsie. Both are believed by the Coast Guard to come from Greenport, L. I.

The Elsie was brought to the state pier here. Two men, aboard her at the time of the seizure, were held in custody.

The Esther B. was being brought here in town of the patrol boat which captured her. The number of men comprising the crew of the Esther B. was not known at Coast Guard headquarters here.

Commander L. T. Chalker, chief of staff of the Coast Guard destroyer force, said that the amount of liquor aboard the two vessels was not known. He said that the seized craft was taken to New York to be surrendered to collector of customs there, and that the liquor will be tallied there. It was expected that Coast Guard patrol boats will leave with the seized vessels and crews for New York this afternoon.

TUESDAY, APRIL 29, 1930

THE PARKER CASE

A rather telling point in favor of Judge John J. Parker, whose elevation to the Supreme Court bench is the subject of a somewhat bitter battle in the Senate at this moment, was made when Senator Allen of Kansas issued a statement, intended to refute the charge that Judge Parker is inimical to the rights of Negroes. Senator Allen pointed out that in a decision rendered by him within the last half year Judge Parker proved that any political utterances of his, made ten years ago, were without weight as against his determination to administer the law without regard to racial considerations.

In the case in question a Negro named Deans, living in Richmond, bought a home in that city. Under an ordinance of the city, passed under the segregation statute of Virginia, he was forbidden by city officials to occupy the residence. He sought relief in the courts and the case came before Judge Parker, who promptly decided in favor of Deans on the reasoning that the ordinance violated the Fourteenth amendment.

The significance of this would perhaps be better appreciated if it were known just how few lawyers in the South have ever recognized the existence of the Fourteenth amendment. We must admit that the knowledge of this case gives us a much higher opinion of the much debated Judge than we had before. Just what the utterance of ten years ago was, though it has constantly been referred to, not too many persons know. This is what Judge Parker, in the course of a political speech, said:

The Negro as a class does not desire to enter politics. The Republican party of North Carolina does not desire him to do so. We recognize that he has not yet reached that stage in his development when he can share the burdens and responsibilities of government. Participation of the Negro in politics is a source of evil and danger to both races and is not desired by the wise men of either race or by the Republican party of North Carolina.

Of course this has a strange, not to say ludicrous sound in the ears of Northerners who know anything about the mental attainments of some of the white hillbillies of North Carolina and their fitness for the "burdens and responsibilities of government." But it reflects an attitude that any office seeker in the South must assume, or profess to assume, and Judge Parker, who was not then a judge, was running for governor.

In the light of the Deans case decision the Judge evidently isn't any more violently anti-Negro than any other Southerner would be—not nearly so much so as most of them. However, there may still be some question whether or not the selection of a Supreme Court member at this time need necessarily be made from the South. There is an almost universal assumption that it should be—that a fair measure of geographical balance must be preserved in the makeup of the Supreme Court. There is no constitutional requirement to that effect; it is merely expediency that prompts such a consideration. And if the South is incapable of producing lawyers not liable at any time to permit their racial prejudices to interfere with their legal judgments, it will have no right to be disappointed, if it fails to get representation in a court where freedom from such overmastering prejudices are as essential as common honesty.

COASTWISE SHIPPING

Chambers of Commerce in Connecticut towns and cities seem to be under some sort of a prompting to fly to the aid of the New York, New Haven and Hartford Railroad Company, now that it is threatened with an enforced unscrambling of its maritime lines. Perhaps it might be as well if such bodies withhold action in the way of passing resolutions and memorializing the Interstate Commerce Commission in the interest of continued control by the New Haven over naturally competing water routes—at least until the situation has been thoroughly examined.

Not by the widest stretch of imagination can the history of the New Haven's shipping operations be described as glorious. There are many New Englanders who believe that a very dead hand was laid on the coastwise shipping business when the New Haven, through its maritime subsidiaries, got control of the best and most promising of the steamer lines.

The reason is easy to understand. From the beginning, successive New Haven road managements, completely dominated by the railroad's point of view, saw in the coastwise transportation lines nothing but a nuisance—a sort of competition difficult to meet. When at last, in its maddest expansion period, the New Haven gobbled up many of these fine lines by purchase, it is doubtful if the move had behind it any fixed policy of developing the maritime department to the limit of its economic possibilities. Subsequent events have supported this suspicion. Railroad methods have advanced a long way; land transportation has undergone tremendous changes; but the steamer lines on Sound and River are just about the same old things they were thirty years ago.

It does not require a tremendous amount of imagination to visualize a rapid revival of both freight and passenger water traffic along the Southern New England coast if the shipping lines were in the hands of some live corporation that intended to make them pay and pay well and had no conflicting interest. That the New Haven railroad is such a concern has never been demonstrated.

It is worth considering that no country in all history that neglected to take advantage of its opportunities for waterborne transportation ever held its own in competition with the country that did. Right now, at this moment, the greatest canalization movement ever undertaken in Europe is under way. To what extent the economic stability of New England rests on cheaper transportation probably few of its people realize. But so far as that cheaper transportation depends on the modernization and earnest development of water-borne traffic, there is little in the history of the New Haven's control to encourage the hope that we will ever get it.

COUZENS' THEORY

The theory of Senator Couzens of Michigan, himself a former manufacturer and winner of a great fortune from industry, that the industrial chieftains will have to completely revolutionize their attitude toward workers if we are to avoid long continued distress through unemployment, is too big a thought to be easily received and digested by the average factory head. Couzens' idea that workers will have to be employed by the year, and the operations of the factories conducted with a view to permanency of employment, rather than in alternate rushes and shut-downs; that it is the economic duty of manufacturers to maintain, out of their profits, surpluses to tide employment over periods of depression, and that high-pressure selling of commodities to people who cannot pay for them must be abandoned, reflects inversely the real causes of the present unemployment situation.

Mr. Couzens is entitled to a respectful hearing. It is perfectly obvious that present conditions are not the result of any sudden and quite temporary economic lesion that will speedily cure itself. Every year for a number of years American industry has been doing the business of that year and part of another. We have been discounting the future and eating up the opportunities of times not yet arrived. And even on that basis there has always been some degree of unemployment.

Returning to a saner, more normal basis of production, even after the glut in manufactured supplies has been absorbed, it is unlikely that for a long time industry will again be carried on quite as intensively as in the recent past. It will be governed by the actual economic demand rather than by the number of installment purchases the people can be cajoled into making. In that case there will be fewer man-hours of factory employment provided.

In such event we shall either have to have a readjustment of days per week or hours per day, as one alternative; the return of a considerable number of industrialists to the largely self-contained life of the farm, as a second, or the existence of a larger and chronic class of unemployed.

In other words the economic life of America faces the necessity of a considerable degree of readjustment. It is going to take a large amount of serious thinking by the best minds to map out the future policy of American industry.

SOCIALISM

The proposed motor tollway from New York to New Haven and beyond does not seem to have too many friends among the Connecticut newspapers, some of which don't seem to be able to get away from the notion that such a scheme is a reflection on Connecticut's ability to build her own roads while others seem to be afraid of endorsing something that may prove to be a bubble. It is therefore rather gratifying to find the Springfield Union, as self-respecting a journal as any, subscribing rather freely to the theory of toll roads.

"With our highways becoming more and more congested as they are by trucks, bus and motor traffic, and with the states expanding large sums for further development of through traffic without being able to get ahead of traffic growth, this question of toll roads is a problem that may have to be faced sooner or later." Then it continues to make an excellent point:

"The states chartered private corporations to build railroads to care for and speed up traffic; the states chartered private corporations and even granted these the use of portions of the highways to provide for trolley lines to speed up interurban and through traffic. How much different, then, is it to charter private corporations for construction of such express toll roads?"

Our Springfield neighbor might have gone a bit further than that. It might have suggested that a terrific howl would have gone up, punctuated with wild shrieks of "Socialism!" if anyone had dared to propose that the state ought to own the railroads and the trolleys—and from the very class of people who are now quickest to insist on state ownership of all motorways. Have these folks ever stopped to consider that, in the construction and maintenance of enormously costly motorways for which no charge whatever is made to the user, the state is engaging in one of the biggest and most unremunerative socialistic activities on record?

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 29.—Manhattan's particular Lilliput is a theatrical boarding house in the west Forties. Here, during those months when the carnivals and circuses are gathering together their performers, come swarms of midgets. Because this particular place caters to the Tom Thumbs of the amusement world, the colonies of ant-like humans invariably take quarters there, being almost certain of finding their fellows there—if they look hard enough.

Unlike the transient actors and freak show folk, whose appetites and bill doings drive landlords in pursuit of the sheriff, the midgets take up but very little room and, so goes the wilese, if they get really hard up, they can go out and steal bread crumbs from the Library Square pigeons.

If worst comes to worst and they begin to take up too much room, the landlady can park half a dozen of them in a top drawer.

Naturally, any number of gags and whimsical nonsense have been spread concerning the goings on in this midget boarding house.

There's the tale of the performer who sneaks a couple of them out in a suit case and thus dodges their board bill.

There's the tale of the janitor who couldn't figure out why his vacuum cleaner wasn't working and, upon investigation, found he'd picked up a Lilliputian.

There's the one about the landlady who complained that the toothpicks were disappearing from the table and was told that one of her boarders needed a wooden leg.

There's still another about the midget whose eye could just reach the keyhole—but I better not tell that one. And there's one about the little guy who got hold of some speakeasy gin and went through the halls looking for a stepladder so that he could get his key in the lock.

There are any number about ways and means by which the tiny boarders evaded paying their room rent; how, on one occasion, three of them walked out under the apron of a stinky housekeeper.

And there's another of the landlady who couldn't account for the disappearance of some moth balls, only to be told that some of her guests had taken up bowling.

Oh well—originate a few of your own! As a matter of fact, the children of Lilliput are considered far better pay than their larger brothers of the show world. They are seldom out of work, since circuses, carnivals and advertising stunts are always open to them. Most of the Tom Thumbs of the circus world come from a certain province in Hungary where, due to some water content which has a marked effect on glandular functions, the average member of the population can be measured with a yard stick. About a year ago it was reported that the midget population was falling and scouts for circuses had great difficulty rounding them up. At one time an actual scarcity occurred and some time passed before any were imported to this country. Their value leaped considerably and the wise gents of the "tiny town" abroad demanded considerable sums of money before agreeing to leave. GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, April 29.—Anyone who hasn't had a chance to vote his or her convictions on prohibition in some kind of a straw vote seems to be getting cheated. Probably never were there so many polls on a controversial issue as in the last few months. Big polls and little polls. The organized dries are finally taking them seriously, especially the big Literary Digest poll, and are issuing carefully planned attacks designed to show that the results are not necessarily representative of the true sentiments of the mass of American citizens. Everybody is wallowing in analyses, poll figures and past comparative statistics.

Your correspondent will not be silly enough to add up all the poll results, but is willing to give a brief review of this straw vote fad.

How the Votes Went The first one of any size was taken by the Pathfinder, a weekly magazine of large rural circulation. Its readers voted 218,000 for prohibition as is and 169,000 for various wet proposals. The Union League Club of New York, conservative and Republican, voted 932 for repeal, 264 for modification and 109 for enforcement. The Yale Daily News queried the university's students and found that among the 2643 who voted, 83 per cent wanted repeal and only 17 per cent enforcement. The Harvard Crimson then supervised a poll of more than 20,000 students in 14 leading universities, which returned 5589 for repeal, 11,006 for modification, 4517 for strict enforcement and 838 for enforcement "as is."

At the time the Literary Digest had counted three million voters it had approximately 915,000 for enforcement, 950,000 for modification and 1,310,000 for repeal, or only 28 per cent for enforcement. Lately the 25 Scripps-Howard newspapers have been conducting a prohibition poll designed as a check on the Literary Digest poll, whose accuracy had been questioned by dries. At this writing wet votes are leading dry votes by more than 10 to 1 and votes for repeal represent more than 70 per cent of those cast. Roughly speaking, the Pathfinder poll might be construed as indicative of rural sentiment and the Scripps-Howard poll of urban sentiment.

The dries, hitting at the Digest vote, at first said their folks weren't voting, but they dropped that in favor of more cogent arguments. They charged that more men than women were receiving ballots and the Digest hasn't adequately answered that one yet. Most lately the Methodist Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals has had its statisticians busy preparing broadsides. It says that nearly 48 per cent of the Digest's vote so far have come from the wet states of New York, Pennsylvania, Illinois, New Jersey and Connecticut, which have but 28.56 per cent of the population, whereas only 3.30 per cent of the poll comes from the five dry states of Texas, South Carolina, Oklahoma, Tennessee and Georgia, although they have 13.79 per cent of the population.

The Methodists admit that the magazine's presidential polls have a reputation for accurate forecasting, but say that its prohibition straw votes are far from accurate. Thirty-two states, they say, have had "binding referenda" on prohibition and 30 returned prohibition majorities. In these referenda they claim 5,828,338 for prohibition and only 4,269,340 against.

Several Dry Votes No table of states and votes is given and the wet argument that there has been a recent pronounced trend of sentiment against prohibition is not met. But it is shown that since the Digest poll of 1922 several states which voted wet in official polls or cast a larger dry vote than the magazine poll indicated.

On the other hand, Collier's Weekly recently published a table going back as far as 1910 showing that the people of 34 states had voted on prohibition. Twenty-six voted dry and eight voted wet, according to these figures, but there were 7,680,859 wet votes against 6,472,953. Both wets and dries, of course know how to make figures do tricks. PLACING THE BLAME People will not permanently be idle and hungry. Widespread want and periodic depression suggest these above measures and will bring them to pass no matter how loudly the cry of state socialism is raised. Senator Couzens told the Michigan Manufacturers Association that business men are responsible for the present depression. Were they, he said, to employ workmen by the year instead of by the hour or the day, they would soon find methods of keeping production running smoothly, and the men earning their salaries. It is because labor has been regarded as a commodity that peak times and depression alternate. Hire them when you need them; fire them when you don't. Build up a reserve in good times, said Couzens, to carry your workmen through hard times. Never again resort to high pressure methods of selling people what they do not need and cannot pay for. And look at unemployment as a human, not as a technological, problem. The cause of depressions is with business men, and the cure is in their hands. But, lacking that cure, another will be sought, the cost of which in taxation will be a sore burden.

A "Phoenix" Out of the Ashes!

HEALTH-DIET ADVICE Dr. Frank McCoy says "The Best Way to Health". QUESTIONS IN REGARD TO HEALTH AND DIET WILL BE ANSWERED BY DR. FRANK MCCOY IN CASE OF THIS BOOK. STRAINS AND INJURED MUSCLES Strains and sprains are terms often used for the same condition but strictly speaking a strain refers to a wrenching of a joint, and a strain to over-exercising or straining a muscle. Symptoms differ slightly in that the pain of a strain is usually far removed from the joint and is in the muscular tissues, while with a sprain the pain is in or around the joint. While a strain greatly resembles a sprain and the parts may become swollen and painful, it is the muscle itself which is injured. Some of the muscular fibres may even have been torn apart. The large muscles of the shoulders and lower back are most often injured by lifting heavy weights or from a sudden twist. The leg muscles may be strained in athletics. A strained back will greatly resemble lumbago sometimes rheumatic toxins steal into the injured muscles and cause true lumbago. In these cases a special treatment is required similar to that outlined in my article on lumbago. If you have not saved this article which appeared a short time ago, I will be glad to send it to you. A frequent place for a strain is the region of the scutum and the ilium. It is usually accompanied by a slight misplacement of the bones of that region, and this can best be corrected by osteopathic and chiropractic treatments. The treatment for sprains and strains is not the same. In strains, where the muscle has been affected, it is better to use hot applications and gentle massage to promote the circulation. Where the deep muscular tissues are involved the electrical treatment with diathermy gives best relief, since the heat can penetrate the tissues better than with any other method. If you cannot obtain this electrical treatment, use hot water bottles or an electric heater directed toward the sore spot. In the sacroiliac strain, hot sitz baths often give great relief and it would also advise a cleansing diet regime to help in bringing about a more rapid absorption of the inflammation. Where the back is involved I do not advise exercise until after the inflammation has subsided. Sometimes it is a good plan for the osteopathic or chiropractic doctor who treats the back to strap it with adhesive tape after the treatment so as to prevent excessive movement. The neck is often affected with strains and may become quite painful, as every movement of the head causes more soreness. Hot applications and manipulative treatments should also be used in this trouble. I have prepared a number of articles on similar subjects to those mentioned in this article and I will be pleased to send them to you if you will send me a two-cent stamp for every article you desire. This is to help pay for the cost of mailing and preparation. T. S. "I would like your opinion about two things that affect me. One is static electricity (?). I don't know that it hurts me in any way. I have never been robust and strong, and I am affected more when I feel tired or ailing. In handling woolen goods in the dark it sparkles, and after rubbing my hands on a piece of paper I force it in two and a ripple of light ran just ahead of the tear-like when a boat out the water. When a friend placed her hand on my back she remarked that she felt a slight shock. We were standing in a wet marshy place at the time. Are many people affected this way, and does it come from 'temperament,' nerves' or what? And is it a condition which drains on the health, rather than promotes strength?" Answer—What you felt is probably static electricity which is often generated by your shoes as you walk across the carpet. This will also occur from rubbing silk, woolen or other electro-positive substances. Some people are very sensitive to electricity and notice it in even small amounts and this is probably your condition, although static electricity may be produced by anyone under the right conditions. The higher a person stands, the less he weighs.

Text of Hoover's Message

President Hoover's special message delivered yesterday to Congress was as follows: To the Congress of the United States:

In my messages of June 6th and Dec. 3d, 1929, I placed before Congress the urgency of certain improvements necessary to effective criminal law enforcement. Substantial progress has been made upon some of the measures proposed, yet we are nearing the end of the present session, and I cannot too strongly urge the necessity of action upon all these recommendations before adjournment.

The most important recommendations made by me were five in number: 1. There should be a transfer of the functions of detection and prosecution of prohibition cases from the Treasury Department to the Department of Justice, and thus an ending of divided responsibility and effort. An act providing for this transfer was passed by the House of Representatives and has now been reported to the Senate by its Judiciary Committee.

2. There must be relief afforded from congestion in the courts. While this congestion is evidenced by the dockets in many courts, its full implications are not shown by them. The so-called bargain days, when light cases are imposed as the result of a backlog, clear the docket, but the result distinctly undermines respect for law.

No conclusion appears to have been reached as to the method of accomplishing this, either by the Judiciary Committee of the Senate or by the Judiciary Committee of the House of Representatives. Overcrowded Prisons

3. There must be extension of Federal prisons with more adequate parole systems and other modern treatment of prisoners. We have already 11,965 prisoners in Federal establishments built for 8,946. The number of Federal prisoners in Federal and State institutions increased 6,777 in the nine months from June 30, 1929, to April 1, 1930.

The Attorney General has stated that we cannot hope to enforce the laws unless we can have some point of reception for convicted persons. The overcrowding of the prisons themselves is inhumane, and accentuates criminal tendencies. Bills providing for this relief were passed by the House and are now, I understand, in course of being reported to the Senate by the Judiciary Committee.

4. We are in need of vigorous reorganization of the border patrol, in order to consolidate various agencies so as effectually to prevent illegal entry of both aliens and goods. Proposals to bring about such reorganization are before the committees of Congress.

5. The District of Columbia is without an adequate prohibition law. A bill for the purpose has been introduced and hearings have been held before the Senate District Committee. It should contain the safeguards recommended by the Attorney General.

Reforms Necessary We have within the limits of existing legislation improved the personnel and greatly increased the efficiency of the existing Federal machinery in criminal law enforcement during the past year. The above reforms are necessary, however, if I am to perform the high duty which falls upon the Executive of the Federal laws.

While a considerable part of this condition arises from the laws relating to intoxicating liquors, yet the laws relating to narcotics, auto and mobile thefts, etc., which have been enacted by the Congress during recent years, also contribute to create the present conditions. This is well indicated by the fact that less than one-third of Federal prisoners are due to prohibition.

Our obedience to law, our law enforcement and judicial organization, our judicial procedure, our care and method of handling prisoners, in relation not only to Federal Government but also to the State and municipal governments, are far from the standards that must be secured.

These proposals, while they do not comprehend the whole which remains to be done in the nation, are a step toward lifting the Federal standards, which must have a general beneficial influence.

The White House, HERBERT HOOVER.

WOMEN DISCUSS HOME PROBLEMS

Louisville, Ky., April 29.—(AP)—Home problems—unemployment, the woman worker in the southern cotton mills, the pending maternity and infancy legislation—today challenged the interest of the tenth anniversary convention of the League of Women Voters.

From Washington, where the maternity bill was reported favorably to the Senate and now awaits action by the House, Representative William Hanson, South Dakota, yesterday gave this message to the League.

If it ever goes through, it will be because you women are back of it, and for no other reason. An entire session today was concentrated on urging the re-enactment of the bill under which the Children's Bureau administered a fund of $1,400,000 annually for maternity and infancy care in the various states. The legislation lapsed June 1929.

Mill Conditions Dr. Broadus Mitchell, of Johns Hopkins University, Baltimore, Md., appealed to the women voters to better conditions in southern cotton mills through legislation. He said that workers in mill villages were "virtually without voice," either political or economic and that they suffered from "long hours and low pay."

Speaking on unemployment, Dr. William Leiserson, of Antioch College, Yellow Springs, Ohio, advocated a government tax on industries for setting up "an employment insurance fund," thereby, he said, "putting the cost of unemployment on industry. He predicted that industry, to avoid paying this cost, would study methods of, avoiding unemployment as scientifically as it now grapples with production problems.

Conference Action Conference action later in the week was predicted on the London disarmament conference, discussed by Chester H. Rowell, of Berkeley, Calif., and Miss Josephine Schain, New York City, members of the special workmen's deputation officially received by the conference.

Rowell advocated support of the three-power and five-power agreements "as a step forward" and criticism of the London results "to educate the American people to the end of the next step." "There can be no substantial disarmament without political commitments," Rowell argued. The Miss Chain reported: "A begin-

CALHOUN TO QUIT POST

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—W. J. Calhoun will resign as prohibition administrator for New Jersey today.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran announced the impending resignation, saying that Dwight Avis, special agent at Detroit, would be detailed as administrator in New Jersey until July 1.

Doran said Calhoun was resigning to enter private business in northern New Jersey. He added Calhoun had been a splendid enforcement officer.

Calhoun has been in the government service for about ten years. The detailing of Avis to handle the New Jersey situation only until July 1 indicated that the Treasury expects the prohibition enforcement problem to be transferred to the Department of Justice by that time.

LOYD IN COMEDY AT NORTH CHURCH

"Grandma's Boy" to Be Shown Tomorrow Night at Second Congregational Church.

An unusually interesting program of motion pictures will be presented tomorrow evening at Second Congregational church under auspices of the motion picture committee.

The feature will be Harold Lloyd, the well known screen comedian, in "Grandma's Boy." Those who have seen it say it is one of the best pictures and very entertaining. It centers around a cowardly, diffident boy who is enabled to overcome his faults by a charm which his grandmother gives him and which he claimed his grandfather used to overcome his cowardice in the Civil War. The boy finally wins out without the charm and marries the girl of his choice. This is a six-reel picture.

An educational picture of the orange industry will also be shown and another entitled "Leaves from a Ranger's Notebook." Home made candy will be sold during the evening, and the proceeds of the entertainment will be for motion picture equipment.

FORMER LOCAL MAN DIES IN BAY STATE

Francis G. F. Robertson, formerly of Manchester, who died Friday night after a long illness at his home in Williamansett, Mass., was buried in Forestdale cemetery in that place yesterday afternoon. Rev. J. F. Crabtree officiated.

Mr. Robinson was born in Gloucestershire, England in 1879 and during the Boer war was a member of the 13th Hussars cavalry. He also served for seven years in the British Army.

Besides his wife he leaves two daughters, who live at the home in Williamansett, and the following members of his family living in this town: his father, Henry Robinson, sister, Mrs. Louis Klinkhammer, and three brothers, Fred, Herbert and Percy.

Mr. Robinson was also a member of the Manchester Unity of Odd Fellows.

NAME DIRECTORS OF U. S. CHAMBER

Washington, April 29.—(AP)—The nominations of eighteen business men as new directors of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was announced today by the Chamber.

Selection of the men was not finally decided until late last night, after an all day session of the National Council of the Chamber, gathered as part of the eighteenth annual meeting.

Since only 18 vacancies exist, nomination was considered virtually the same as an election.

Ten men were chosen as representatives of business by geographical division.

- Men Chosen They were: Henry J. Harriman, Boston; Chester I. Barnard, Newark, N. J.; William M. Wiley, Sparrows, W. Va.; Oscar Wells, Birmingham, Ala.; Frederick J. Haynes, Detroit; W. R. Dawes, Chicago; William G. Skelly, Tulsa, Okla.; William V. Rodgers, Denver; Asa G. Briggs, St. Paul; Philip J. Fay, San Francisco. Seven were selected as representatives from definite business groups. They were: Fred Lazarus, Jr., Columbus, Ohio; Felix M. Mowbray, Indianapolis; Henry D. Sharpe, Providence, R. I.; Charles W. Gold, Greensboro, N. C.; Carl A. Johnson, Madison, Wis.; Harry C. Abell, New Orleans, La., and Fred W. Sargent, Chicago. Homer Gard, of Hamilton, Ohio, was selected as representative on the board of the civic development department of the Chamber.

Schools in town will open May 5 after a week's vacation. Pupils who are planning to enter Manchester High school in September will visit the High school May 9 in the afternoon chaperoned by their teacher.

Mrs. Reginald Ward's condition seems somewhat worse and her sister Mrs. Samuel Alvord was called to her home in New Jersey.

Much sympathy is extended to the bereaved family of Mrs. Harold Lee. Mrs. Lee will be missed in the community as she was an active church worker.

Fire Insurance a Key to Low Prices

Few have a true appreciation of the far-reaching effect of Stock Fire Insurance in holding down the cost of all merchandise.

No less authority than the Encyclopaedia Britannica contributes a "testimonial" as follows:

"In the United States, as in no other country, has insurance in all its various phases become universally recognized as an essential of commerce and industry.

"Insurance encourages men and corporations to hazard their resources on new developments without fear of loss from natural and unavoidable catastrophes."

At every turn in the processing of materials—storage, manufacturing, transportation, wholesaling, retailing—the protection of Stock Fire Insurance contributes that indispensable element of certainty without loading prices for speculative risk.

By paying a premium which on the average is only a fraction of 1% of the amount insured, business transfers to the Stock Fire Insurance companies what would otherwise be an oppressive carrying charge against the risk of destruction by fire.

The 239 Stock Fire Insurance companies constituting the National Board of Fire Underwriters have rendered their services at an average price that has constantly declined for more than twenty years.

The Husband Hunter

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Natalie Converse tries to conquer her jealousy over her husband, Alan. But when he receives a call to the home of Bernadine Lamont, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He leaves, after explaining that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life.

The actress surprises Alan by saying that her doctor has given her only a short time to live and requesting him to take care of her son, Bobby. He promises and writes to tell Natalie but her rebuffs silence him. He confides in his secretary, Phillipa West, who has been waiting for this opportunity to further her own schemes.

When Natalie next comes to the office, Phillipa manages to tell her about helping pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows a letter from Bernadine in which Alan's visits to Bobby are mentioned. Natalie leaves in a rage without explanation and Alan follows, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to the office.

He is surprised to find Phillipa there. After working several hours, Alan takes her to dinner and then home—where she manages to convey the impression of being the generous Lady Bountiful to the poor neighbor family.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER X.

Over Phillipa's desk, and over Phillipa, a young man was bent in an attitude that struck Alan disagreeably. He seemed to be paying her a flattering attention.

As a matter of fact, Phillipa had been openly encouraging him. And Geoffrey Norman was a young man of high chivalrous character. It made him vastly uncomfortable when a girl encouraged him—especially when she was so young. And Phillipa was far from being the type of girl he cared for. Neither did he like her as an individual.

His ideal was Natalie Converse. He was fiercely, but at all times silently, envious of Alan. Natalie might have guessed he was devoted to her, but he was very young. She called it puppy love—was understanding and sympathetic. Natalie smiled over it at odd moments, and was glad that Geoffrey didn't write notes to her.

There had been a brief period when Phillipa had dreamed of being the right girl in Geoffrey's life. It was shortly after she'd come to work for Alan, at a time when she'd lost faith in her power to attract her employer. Alan and Natalie had made up after a quarrel, and Phillipa began to think that this time it might "take."

She'd turned to Geoffrey. He was a good-looking boy, slender, black hair and blue eyes. He'd turned to Phillipa's interest embarrassed him. He was glad when it subsided. Aside from Alan being his broker, they were friends. Geoffrey liked to drop in occasionally. Phillipa saw where she might someday use him, and didn't quite give up her pursuit. While it was passive, Geoffrey tolerated it.

He looked up now, saw Alan, and turned away from Phillipa with relief.

Alan came over and rather coolly took him into the private office.

"What's on your mind?" he said snippily. Geoffrey regarded him with interest. He was sorry for Alan. He knew he often had a quarrel with Natalie. But he did not know the cause. Natalie's obsession had never come directly under his observation. He supposed the trouble was Alan's fault. Nevertheless, he was sorry for him. To quarrel with Natalie must be a thing, he thought.

Once his mother had observed, after a missing study of him, that she thought it possible he was seeing too much of older women.

"Older women?" Geoffrey's surprise was genuine.

"Yes," his mother had said very soberly; "the wives of your friends, Geoffrey. They all seem to be older than you." She sighed there. "I suppose that's because you were precocious and got on too fast at school. But I wish you would pay more attention to boys and girls of your own age."

"Nonsense, Mother. My friends aren't old."

"Well . . . I don't like to think that you might possibly be disturbing another man's peace of mind, Geoffrey. I think you have too little to do. Perhaps you had better come to France with me this year."

"Meaning?"

"Some of your friends, one in particular, are much too charming, my son. Yes, I think you should come to France with me."

Geoffrey had no difficulty in guessing the friend she referred to was Natalie. Thereafter he buried his attachment even deeper, and tried to hide it from his mother's eyes. She grew more concerned about it, and decided to see them together, if it could be arranged.

It was she who had sent Geoffrey to Alan's office this morning. He lost no time in carrying out her instructions.

"What's the matter, rehearsing for a part in a bear market?" he chafed. "Smoke?"

Alan refused to smoke, before answering. "Beg your pardon," he apologized for his lack of courtesy; "didn't sleep well."

"You need a rest," Geoffrey advanced, "or a change. And that's what I'm here for. And that's what I'm here for. We're going up to Lake Placid over the week-end. Mother and I. We want you and Natalie to join us. How about it?"

Alan took a second glance at his nice young countenance, before answering. Maybe, he told himself, it wouldn't be a bad idea to spend a few days in the boy's company. It might be good for Natalie too. The Normans, mother and son, were charmingly regular; being with them would help to put you straight.

"Really, Geoffrey, are you telling the truth?"

And it had come to him in a flash that he needed to be put straight. That moment when he came in—he knew he'd been annoyed at finding Geoffrey with Phillipa. He was still annoyed, for that matter. Well, it

NEW PRINCESS STEP-IN COMBINATION

For the Slim Moulded Frocks

635

A fitted step-in combination is essential to wear 'neath the new slim silhouette frocks. This one is a beauty. The bodice is moulded through the waist and hips, so as not to cause conflicting lines to outer garments. Fitted through bust, it takes the place of a brassiere.

The attached panties that flare toward legs are fitted to the bodice. The sides are opened.

Style No. 635 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40 and 42 inches bust. For the medium size, it takes but 1 1/2 yards of 30-inch material.

It's amazingly simple to make. Flat washable crepe silk wears lovely, and is smart trimmed with ecru lace at upper edge of camisole, at joining of bodice and panties, and along hem and sides of the panties.

Printed dimity, men's striped shirting, radium silk, zephyr gingham checks, crepe de chine, printed voile and chiffon appropriate.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Don't think your child stupid because he can't tell his right hand from his left. One of the smartest little chaps I ever came across (six years old) has convinced his mother that he has a screw loose somewhere because he can't tell his left hand from his right. I thought he gave her a very good answer when he said in great confusion the other day, "Well, if this (holding up his left hand) and even years ago a child is four and again—if this was on my other side would it not be my right hand?"

About the last thing a little child learns is relation—place—abstract location. He won't be able to tell time, either, until old Lady Nature gives him a conception of numbers that do not relate to apples, people or cents.

Time is vague to little folk. They don't know tomorrow from yesterday or today for long months and even years. A child is four and sometimes five before he gets this thing, simple to us, straightened out in his mind.

Children of six or seven often don't know how to tell time, even after it has been explained to them over and over. I've heard teachers say to such children, "The idea! A big girl like you, and can't tell time!" Such teachers don't know all they should about the mental schedule of children or they wouldn't say such things.

Of course, children won't learn themselves. They have to be told again and again with a little mixing up in the telling as possible. I'd say that the sixth year or the seventh is the average age for these things to be earned and understood. If later, that is all right too; don't worry.

A child doesn't realize what a "week" or "month" means until he is well onto eight. And very probably he won't understand measurement such as "inches," "feet," and "yards" until then, either.

I often think the denigrate number problems we wish on tiny children in the lower grades are hard for them because they have not the slightest conception to begin with of what the relationship means. They can't grasp the relative size of pints and quarts, pecks and bushels, inches and feet, clearly enough to build problems on them.

Actual handling of these things by themselves is the best way of teaching them that I know, and day after day at that.

Children don't have much idea of money value until after six. Indeed they are much older, ten or twelve at a good guess, before they see much relationship between actual money count and what it can buy.

Schools that teach such arithmetic problems as "playing store" are away ahead in method, I think, of those who rely entirely upon the printed page and the blackboard for explanation. The children need to be "store-keepers" as well as "customers."

When conceptions come in this seven-to-twelve period they come with a rush. A child will then learn to approximate higher numbers than those with which he is actually dealing.

A hundred, a thousand, five thousand, will mean something tangible to a child of ten or twelve, not a mere vision vaguely out of focus.

North, south, east and west are other sources of confusion. This is relative direction, you see, the same as left and right. All these things come if we are patient.

HEALTH

DEATH RATE IN CHILD-BIRTH CASES IN INDIA FAR ABOVE AVERAGE

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of four stories by Dr. Morris Fishbein, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

SEIGE OF LIMERICK

On April 29, 1890, William III of England was obliged to end his long siege of Limerick, an important river port near Dublin, Ireland.

The following year, however, another Englishman, Ginkel, conducted a more vigorous campaign against the Irish stronghold. After a brilliant defense of several weeks an armistice was proposed which led to the well known Treaty of Limerick. The terms of the treaty granted amnesty, liberty and other privileges to the Irish Catholics and permission to volunteer in the French service.

The Irish Parliament later insisted that the English ignored the terms of the treaty. The alleged violation of the treaty has been the subject of frequent and bitter controversy between political parties in Ireland. Because of this, Limerick became known as "The City of the Violated Treaty."

The Limerick, as applied to a peculiar form of nonsense verse, is thought to have originated with an Irish brigade which was organized in Limerick in 1691 for service in the French army. When the men returned from foreign service they sang and recited the rhymes now known as the Limerick.

So much has been said of the high death rate of mothers in India, that it is valuable to have available actual figures concerning childbirth in at least one section.

Two Hindu physicians, Drs. N. R. Ubhaya and R. Adiseshan, analyzed the records of 7324 instances of childbirth in four cities. In 3 per cent of the cases operative or surgical help was necessary. According to the records, expert assistance was available only for about one-third of all of the cases, since the number of trained physicians in India is not proportionate to that of other sections of the world.

In contrast to the death rates cited in the previous article in this series, the death rates of mothers in this series was 17.89 for 1000 births. This is a rate which compares most unfavorably with that of other countries for which reliable statistics are available. Furthermore, the number of instances in which the child was born was dead was far greater than for other countries. Actually there were 108.7 infants died out of every 1000 in the first month of life.

The number of mothers who died in relationship to infants born dead was five and a half times as great as in the series in which the infant was born alive. As might be expected, in accordance with the customs of India, the deaths were more numerous among the youngest and oldest of the mothers who were undergoing childbirth for the first time.

The problem existing in India approaches more closely the primitive conditions that formerly existed in this country generally and which still exist in some portions.

In Switzerland, for instance, the mortality in childbirth varies from 1.3 to 2.3 for every 1000 cases. Certainly what can be accomplished under conditions in Switzerland should be accomplished equally well in other parts of the world.

CLARA BOW explains what makes a Girl ALLURING

"THERE'S ONE THING that stands out above all others in making a girl really alluring," says Clara Bow, whose vivid beauty and personality have won her world-fame in motion pictures. It's lovely skin.

"You may have marvelously appealing eyes—and a lot of charm—and a beautiful figure.

"But just notice the way people cluster around a girl who has lovely skin! And any girl can have lovely skin if she takes good care of it.

"I got my first chance in the movies, partly, at least, because of what my father calls my 'baby-smooth' skin

"You see, motion picture directors found out long ago that unless a girl has marvelous skin she can never make millions of hearts beat faster when she appears in a close-up. The incandescent lights reveal the tiniest flaw in the skin!

"That's why we motion picture actresses have to keep our skin at its very best every minute.

"Several years ago some of us began using Lux Toilet Soap, and were enthusiastic about it.

"So other screen stars began to use it—until it wasn't long before almost every important actress in Hollywood was using it. Janet Gaynor—Joan Crawford—Billie Dove—Bebe Daniels—Dorothy Mackaill.

"Take Nancy Carroll, for instance, one of Paramount's most fascinating girls. She keeps her fair skin delectable as an apple blossom with Lux Toilet Soap.

"And Mary Brian, too. Her skin is clear and smooth as a little girl's. Jean Arthur, too, keeps her skin lovely with Lux Toilet Soap.

"In fact," Clara Bow goes on to say, "nearly every girl I know in Hollywood uses this soap. And aren't we glad that we have kept our skin in good condition—the talkies have even more close-ups than the silent pictures have!

"When I get letters from girls all over the country—so many of them saying nice things about my skin—I long to answer every one of them and tell these girls that they can keep their skin just as beautifully smooth as we screen stars do—by using Lux Toilet Soap."

Senators Defeat Yankees To Keep Up Their Pace

Stave Off Late Rally to Win 6-5; Red Sox Blow 5-4 Decision to A's by Ragged Work In Ninth.

In the face of expert opinion that would be lucky to finish any higher than seventh place, Walter Johnson's Washington Senators continue to set a dizzy pace to lead the American League.

No one can see of course where the Senators will finish but the fact remains they are playing heads up baseball, taking advantage of every break and winning consistently. The club has been fielding brilliantly, hitting opportunely and juggling hits shown rare judgment in judging his pitchers.

Yesterday's 6 to 5 win over the Yankees was the Senator's ninth in 11 games and their seventh in a row. Washington took an early lead thanks to some spectacular hitting by Shortstop Joe Cronin and then held on to it in the face of a Yankee rally in the later frames. The Yankees drove Marberry out of the box with a two run rally in the seventh but could do nothing with Braxton.

The Chicago White Sox moved up into second place with a 9 to 7 triumph over Detroit. Carl Reynolds hit a home run, triple and single, his homer with Lyons on base in the seventh really deciding the contest.

The St. Louis Browns could get only five hits off Pete Jablonowski. American pastime recruit, and Cleveland won 3 to 1.

Wildness on part of the MacFayden and Morris and fielding errors by O. Miller and Regan enabled the Philadelphia A's to score four runs in the ninth without a hit and beat the Red Sox 5 to 4.

In the National the Giants lost their first game of the season bowing to Brooklyn 6 to 4 when Harvey Hendrick doubled with the bases filled in the ninth.

The defeat broke Bill Walker's string of 11 straight victories run up during the latter part of 1929 and this season. Travis Johnson of the Giants his fifth homer of the year.

Four homers, two by Gabby Hartnett and the others by Charley Root and Cliff Heathcote, enabled Chicago's Cubs to beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 7 to 4.

The St. Louis Cards took advantage of eight bases on balls and whipped Cincinnati 5 to 2.

The Phillies concentrated their hitting in the fifth, sixth and seventh innings to beat the Boston Braves 7 to 4.

A determined attempt has been launched to put baseball back on the map at the West Side, which once boasted teams of considerable repute. During the past few years, the sport has been at a low ebb in this section of the town and plans have been made which may develop in the crowning of a new town baseball champion. The Bon Ami now holds the title but they seem sure to have a hard fight on their hands to retain it.

Any time when a group of more than 50 candidates turn out for a baseball team, it can be taken for granted that they mean business. And there were 51 in attendance at the meeting of the West Side Club last night. Fred Hanson was elected president of the club with Harry White as vice-president, Nick Angelo as secretary and Earle Bissell as treasurer. Bill Brennan has been named consisting of Edwin Jolly, Walter Holland, Helmar Gustafson, Herbert Baker, Walter Wilkinson, Bert McConkey, Sam Hewitt and William Wylie. It is planned to run a four or six team league for a month on Wednesday and Friday night's starting May 7, at the conclusion of which a representative team will be selected. Funds are being raised through a raffle and also by dues of one dollar which nearly fifty have already paid. It sure looks like the West Side means business.

BRUINS TRIUMPH AT LOS ANGELES In Los Angeles, April 29—(AP)—In one of the fastest games of the current season, the Bruins of Boston Bruins last night defeated the Los Angeles Richfields 8 to 3. The Bruins took an early lead, having a 4-1 edge at the end of the first period. One goal was scored in the second period, and Boston entered the last session with a 5-1 advantage. Richfield staged a two-goal rally in the final frame, while the Bruins added three more goals. The Boston Club is matched against the Chicago Blackhawks on Thursday and Saturday nights this week.

Golf Players Outnumber Ball Fans; That is What Chicago Count Shows

Chicago (AP)—Old Cap. Anson was the author of the philosophy: "I would rather play baseball than see golf but I'd rather play golf than see baseball."

And that generally sums up the situation. In comparison with 1,500,000 persons who watched the Chicago Cubs last year on the home field, nearly a million played golf on the dozen municipal links here, while on 44 fee courses more than 1,000,000 chased the rubber globe.

Add to this 2,000,000 on 155 private courses and the total is 4,000,000 or nearly twice as many as the combined Cub and White Sox attendance.

Many of the 2,000,000 who trooped into Wrigley Field and Comiskey park last year were among the 4,000,000 golfers.

Carnera Much Over-rated Fighter Declares McGrath

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tim McGrath, veteran handler of fighters since the days when he managed Tom Sharkey, the only boxer man was manager of Leon "Bombo" Chevaller, whose bout with Primo Carnera at Oakland, Calif., is being investigated. McGrath, whose series on old-time fights and fighters recently appeared in The Herald, here gives his views on Primo Carnera and the battle at Oakland which ended in a riot after Bob Perry, one of Chevaller's seconds, tossed in a towel without permission from McGrath.

By TIM McGRATH (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.) San Francisco, Calif., April 29.—When my man, Leon Chevalier, the negro boxer, went into the ring against Primo Carnera in Oakland the other night, he was sent in to win.

If Bob Perry, one of Leon's seconds, had not thrown the towel into the ring in the sixth round, we might have defeated the giant Italian.

For the loss of the fight I blame Referee Toby Irwin for not looking to me as chief second for Chevaller before raising Carnera's hand as a signal of victory. Perry had merely been hired for the evening and had no authority to throw in a towel.

Just after Perry surrendered the fight, I attempted to get into the ring to protest, but was pushed back by the mob rushing the ring. Somebody hit Perry in the eye and before I could protest the decision was made.

I have not been able to make myself believe Perry was "in on the fight" despite the claim of Chevaller that he rubbed a burning substance in his eyes. I think Perry probably unintentionally put vaseline in Chevaller's eyes.

McGrath kept in dark. If Leon was approached by others to put the fight in the bag, as he says, he should have told me, his manager. This he did not. Mrs. Chevaller told the boxing commission someone had approached her with offers to frame the fight, but she didn't tell me.

"Bombo" is a good boy. I have managed him for three years and he never has thrown a fight or taken a dive. He is the first man in this country to knock Carnera down and I believe he can lick him yet.

When the fight was so abruptly terminated, I thought Leon was good for several more rounds, as Carnera was in not much better condition than my man. Perry says his conscience caused him to throw in the towel when he thought Leon was taking a beating. Leon got up as strong as ever after that knockdown in the sixth.

No Match for Godfrey Carnera is a greatly overrated fighter. I do not regard him as championship caliber at all. They talk of matching him with George Godfrey, when Chevaller, who was knocked out recently by Godfrey in the fourth round, was giving El Primo just as good as he sent.

Chevaller's speed was making Carnera look slow and awkward. Chevaller's successful defensive tactics reduced my estimate of the Italian giant a great deal. In a return engagement, I believe "Bom" would knock the big stiff out.

Will Broadcast Night Baseball Game Friday

HOUSTON TO PLAY TILDEN IN FINALS Masonic Social Club Pocket Billiards Tourney Comes To An End Tonight.

One of the best pocket billiards tournaments conducted by the Masonic club will come to a close tonight when "Sam" Houston winner of the most number of games in group "A" will play Henry Tilden winner of the most games in group "B" in a 100 point game in the Masonic Social room at 7:30 o'clock. After play supper will be served in the social room, and prizes awarded.

"Sam" Houston won first prize for the most number of games in group "A" also the prize for scoring the highest number of balls. Houston won all of his games, 13 in all and scored 264 balls. Henry Tilden, "Sam" Nelson and Paul Dougan, each won 12 games and lost 2 thereby making a triple tie in group "B" for most number of games won, which was played off Friday night and Henry Tilden won by defeating the two contestants.

The prize for scoring the most number of balls in group "B" was won by "Sam" Nelson, scoring 311. The prize for the winner of the most number of games, and to the player scoring the most number of balls in each group were bought or arranged for by the tournament committee. This money was raised by charging an entrance fee of 50 cents which made a sum of $15.00 to be so used.

The prize for the play off between Houston and Tilden on Tuesday is to be furnished by the Club-committee, of which John McLoughlin is chairman. The tournament committee of which "Bob" Chambers is chairman, who also has charge of the supper, had for assistants "Sam" Houston and L. C. Clifford, Jr.

Following is a summary of all games played in both groups. Some of the interesting notes are: Houston won all his games. George Veitch ran 26 consecutive balls in his game on February 5 against "Bob" Chambers.

Henry Tilden ran 25 consecutive balls on February 20 against "Sam" Nelson. "Sam" Turkington ran 15 consecutive balls on February 20, in his game with McMenemy.

"Garry" Nelson ran 15 consecutive balls in the game with Henry Tilden on February 20. "Tom" Lewis ran 13 consecutive balls on March 1 against MacDonal.

Arthur Olson made four balls on one shot in his game against Clifford. Clifford ran 15 consecutive balls in his game against Walsh on March 20 and Clifford went through this game without a scratch.

Swanson defeated Buckland on April 16 by a score of 5 to 2. Peterson played all of his games (16) scheduled in group "B."

Henry Tilden in the triple tie play-off in group "B" ran 15 consecutive balls twice in his game against Paul Dougan.

Following is the list of players showing, (1) game won (2) games lost, (3) percentages games won, (4) Total balls (5) average balls per game and (6) total balls scored: Group "A"

Carnera Much Over-rated Fighter Declares McGrath

EDITOR'S NOTE: Tim McGrath, veteran handler of fighters since the days when he managed Tom Sharkey, the only boxer man was manager of Leon "Bombo" Chevaller, whose bout with Primo Carnera at Oakland, Calif., is being investigated. McGrath, whose series on old-time fights and fighters recently appeared in The Herald, here gives his views on Primo Carnera and the battle at Oakland which ended in a riot after Bob Perry, one of Chevaller's seconds, tossed in a towel without permission from McGrath.

By TIM McGRATH (Copyright, 1930, NEA Service, Inc.) San Francisco, Calif., April 29.—When my man, Leon Chevalier, the negro boxer, went into the ring against Primo Carnera in Oakland the other night, he was sent in to win.

If Bob Perry, one of Leon's seconds, had not thrown the towel into the ring in the sixth round, we might have defeated the giant Italian.

For the loss of the fight I blame Referee Toby Irwin for not looking to me as chief second for Chevaller before raising Carnera's hand as a signal of victory. Perry had merely been hired for the evening and had no authority to throw in a towel.

Just after Perry surrendered the fight, I attempted to get into the ring to protest, but was pushed back by the mob rushing the ring. Somebody hit Perry in the eye and before I could protest the decision was made.

I have not been able to make myself believe Perry was "in on the fight" despite the claim of Chevaller that he rubbed a burning substance in his eyes. I think Perry probably unintentionally put vaseline in Chevaller's eyes.

McGrath kept in dark. If Leon was approached by others to put the fight in the bag, as he says, he should have told me, his manager. This he did not. Mrs. Chevaller told the boxing commission someone had approached her with offers to frame the fight, but she didn't tell me.

"Bombo" is a good boy. I have managed him for three years and he never has thrown a fight or taken a dive. He is the first man in this country to knock Carnera down and I believe he can lick him yet.

When the fight was so abruptly terminated, I thought Leon was good for several more rounds, as Carnera was in not much better condition than my man. Perry says his conscience caused him to throw in the towel when he thought Leon was taking a beating. Leon got up as strong as ever after that knockdown in the sixth.

No Match for Godfrey Carnera is a greatly overrated fighter. I do not regard him as championship caliber at all. They talk of matching him with George Godfrey, when Chevaller, who was knocked out recently by Godfrey in the fourth round, was giving El Primo just as good as he sent.

Chevaller's speed was making Carnera look slow and awkward. Chevaller's successful defensive tactics reduced my estimate of the Italian giant a great deal. In a return engagement, I believe "Bom" would knock the big stiff out.

In the greatest all-around performance of his career, Bernard (Barney) Berlinger, 21-year-old Pennsylvania athlete, captured the decathlon championship of the Penn relays at Philadelphia for the second straight year. Berlinger scored a total of 7460.608 points, a far greater performance than his 1929 record of 7298.978. In this layout Berlinger is shown winning the broad jump with a leap of 22 feet 6 inches (upper left); taking first in the shot put with a 46-foot toss (upper right); and clearing the bar at six feet one-half inch for victory in the high jump (below).

FLOORED PRIMO

Leon Chevalier, above, 216-pound negro fighter managed by Tim McGrath, veteran coast handler of boxers, established some kind of an American record when he toppled the mountainous Carnera in the first round of their recent fight. Carnera was declared the winner Sunday in the sixth, however, when a phony towel fluttered in the ring from Chevaller's corner.

Carnera is a greatly overrated fighter. I do not regard him as championship caliber at all. They talk of matching him with George Godfrey, when Chevaller, who was knocked out recently by Godfrey in the fourth round, was giving El Primo just as good as he sent.

First Real Test to Be Made At Des Moines, Iowa, Under 42 Million Candle-power Floodlight System.

Des Moines, Ia., April 29.—(AP)—Under the glare of a 42 million candle power floodlight system, the Wichita and Des Moines clubs of the Western League will meet on the baseball diamond Friday night.

Although there has been one previous encounter at night, the Des Moines game is regarded by minor league officials as the most promising experiment in modern baseball. In the New England League, several years ago, Lynn, Mass., experimented with a night game. Engineers pointed out that the park there was lighted by only half the candle power to be used at the Des Moines field.

Lee Keyser, president of the Des Moines club, anticipated a general adoption of night baseball in minor leagues if the experiment Friday is successful. "If unsuccessful," he said, "sooner or later, minor league baseball will go out of business because of deceased patronage."

Keyser expects a notable list of baseball figures at the game, including Kenesaw Mountain Landis, the commissioner, and E. S. Barnard, president of the American League.

Forty stations over a national chain will broadcast the game from the sixth inning on, while a low wave hookup will spread the great American pastime into South America, South Africa and the Far East.

CHESS CHAMPION WILL PLAY HERE

To Meet All Comers at East Side Rec Friday Night; Open to Public.

Anyone in town who has a pretty good knowledge of how to play chess is invited to come down to the School street Rec at 7:45 Friday night at which time Charles A. Pasternack, Hartford's champion, will take on all comers in simultaneous matches.

Mr. Pasternack hopes to have a dozen opponents but states "the more the merrier." All members of the Rec tournament are especially invited to watch the matches.

Players should bring their own sets due to the lack of enough at the Rec to accommodate all. Henry W. Tilden, August Mildner and John Wolcott have already agreed to play against Pasternack and others; are requested to call the Rec and leave their names.

Thursday night Tilden meets Mildner in the quarter finals of the town tournament at 8 o'clock.

THUNDERING HERD WINS. The Thundering Herd have now emerged victorious in six consecutive baseball games. Their latest win being scored over the flashy Oakland team in a twilight tilt last evening at Community field.

Sachschuck starred for the victors while Cubold copped high honors for the losers. The summary: THUNDERING HERD (11), OAKLAND (6).
