

SPOTS ON COAT WORN BY WIFE MYSTIFY COPS

Chemist Asserts They Were Made by Human Blood; Suspects In Smith Case Get Another Hearing.

Muskogee, Okla., April 30.—(AP)—Alleged blood spots found on a coat worn by John W. Wike, one of two traveling companions of George and David Smith, Connecticut capitalists, today added more mystery to the slaying of the Smiths here Saturday night in a hotel.

Wike, whose home is in Sharon, Conn., and P. G. Seelye, of Washington, Conn., the fourth member of the automobile party whose visit to Oklahoma ended in tragedy, are to be given preliminary hearing today on charges of murder. Both deny any implication in the slayings, asserting the Smiths were brothers, who were shot by two robbers who fought with the victims in their hotel room.

Reports from Connecticut that George Smith, whose home was in Cornwall, Conn., and David Smith, who lived in Sharon, had been warned against certain "hard characters" in Oklahoma, today added another new phase to the investigation.

Brothers Warned.
Wike, Connecticut dispatches revealed, had attempted to dissuade the Smiths from making the trip because of these "characters," and had said that "no one could tell what they might do to a fellow."

Announcing that they sought more information concerning the warning, police were trying to check all persons with whom the brothers had come in contact during the trip.

State's investigators last night said that three spots found on Wike's coat had been declared by a chemist to have been made by human blood.

Wike told Philip K. Oldham, assistant county attorney, he was unable to account for the spots, which were on the back of the coat, near the shoulder.

Not in Room.
Officers were particularly interested in the alleged bloodstains because they said Wike previously had denied being in the room when the brothers were slain. Investigators believed the blood came from a wound in David Smith's throat. They said they were seeking to determine how the coat could be stained if Wike was in another room.

Wike has contended, officers have revealed, that he was in an adjoining room when the Smiths were slain. The brothers occupied adjoining rooms, with a connecting door, and Wike's story, which investigators have been unable to shake, is that he was in one of these rooms, with the Smiths, when the two men entered.

Tells of Fight.
A desperate fight started when the two unknown men appeared, Wike said, and the four fought their way into an adjoining room, where he heard shots. Then the two intruders came back to the room where Wike was sleeping and gagged him, robbed him of a

TWO BURNED ALIVE IN OIL EXPLOSION

One Dying and Four Have Narrow Escape in Chicago Refinery Blaze.

Chicago, April 30.—(AP)—Two men were burned alive in oil early today in an explosion at the refinery of the Dabros Products Corporation. Four others escaped unhurt, dragging with them a fifth, so severely burned he is not expected to live.

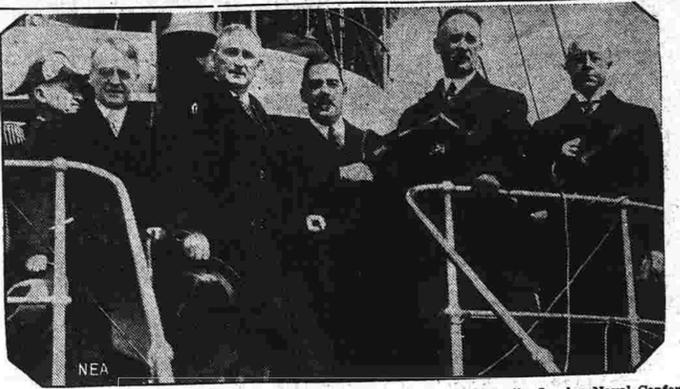

The spread of the blazing oil, following the explosion, for a time threatened a large portion of the clearing industrial district. Officials of the refinery placed the damage at $160,000, including the loss of oil.

Save Oil Tanks.
Several fire companies prevented the blaze from spreading to two huge storage tanks, less than 100 feet away, containing thousands of gallons of highly inflammable crude oil, while on the nearby tracks of the outer belt railroad, switch engines pushed close to the blazing refinery to save a number of oil cars.

Maintained at a refining temperature of 700 degrees, Fahrenheit, one of the 600-gallon stills is believed to have become overheated while oil was being poured into it, causing the explosion, which sent a column of oil through the metal roof and one side of the plant.

James Fleming, foreman of the exploding still, was one of those burned to death. In a laboratory twenty feet away, the body of Walter Eitch, 22-year-old Northwestern University graduate, was found. Eitch had entered the refinery's employ only two days ago. He had been trapped by the wall of fire.

AS DELEGATES REACHED U. S.

DEPLORES NIGHT WORK FOR WOMEN IN MILLS

Manufacturer Says Conditions in South is Challenge To Every American—Is Wrong In Every Way.

Boston, April 30.—(AP)—The employment of women and children for night work in the mills of southern states was condemned today by Eben E. Whitman, vice president of the William Whitman Company of New York, in an address before the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers now in convention here. Whitman's company has interests in mills of both the north and the south.

"The growth of this unfair and selfish utilization of women and children through night employment in the cotton mills of the southern states," Whitman said, "is solely and directly the cause of the down fall of this great and essential industry involving the welfare of hundreds of thousands of Americans."

Wrong System.
Declaring that existing conditions constituted a challenge to every American, Whitman said, there is no place for such a practice in our industrial system. It is opposed to every humanitarian principle; it is wrong in every hygienic premise.

"It is prohibited by law in every important producing country in the world, the only exception being in certain sections of the United States which prohibit women and children from working at night.

"There has been a tremendous revolution of feeling throughout the south against working women and children at night, but it would be fatal for one mill alone, or the mills of any state in that section to discontinue it unless a majority of the others in the section took the same action simultaneously."

Suggests Survey.
To correct the situation, Whitman suggested that the Cotton Textile Institute make a survey during the course of which an agreement would be presented for signature to the mills pledging themselves not to employ women or minors in night labor.

Regarding the Cotton-Textile Institute, Whitman said it has not "been able to dig into the root causes for our deplorable condition, because of the influence brought to bear against such activities by an influential minority group that is committed to the policy of night running by any means and at any cost."

Other speakers included Donald Comer, president of the Avondale Mills, of Birmingham, Ala.; George Sloan, president of the Cotton-Textile Institute and A. D. Whiteside, president of the Wool Institute.

Comer joined with Whitman in urging the elimination of the night work saying, "we should join our friends in the best plans looking toward the elimination of night work for women, for the care of, or pensions for aged employes, care of widows mothers, better compensation laws, sick, accident and death

Capone Arrives In Havana By Airplane From Miami

Havana, April 30.—(AP)—The largest of Scarface Al Capone, Chicago business man and gangster, is winning his friends in Havana, whatever his status in Florida, where state officials are attempting to close his home under the nuisance law.

Arriving here secretly by airplane from Miami yesterday, the gangster chief and seven of his henchmen and only enough, a physician, immediately took a corner suite of an expensive hotel and made themselves at home.

MOVERS CASH IN ON STOCK CRASH

People Who Lost Money in Market Find It Cheaper to Live in Hotels Now.

New York, April 30.—(AP)—The men who, run-the-movers, are feeling the effect of October's Stock Market crash at last—but with reverse English.

The first of May, which has been eclipsed as New York's moving day in recent years by the first of October, is a busy season for the van men this year, for people who lost money in the market are moving now, at the expiration of their leases, from high-priced apartments to hotels.

"Some of our patrons," said one company, "have stored pianos worth $3,500 to $4,000. Some of the furniture going in storage is worth $5,000 to $10,000 a van load. The owners can live in hotels, pay storage bills and reduce living expenses."

UPSET LIFEBOAT CAUSE OF DEATH

Officers on Freighter, Burned In Sound, Say All Men Left the Boat.

New Haven, April 30.—(AP)—The story of the burning of the freighter Thames in Long Island Sound last week, with a loss of 16 lives, was told to the United States Steamboat Inspection Board here today.

Two minutes after fire was discovered in the boiler room, Captain Sherman of Stratford testified that the crew of 25 men went overboard in two lifeboats, one of which capsized immediately.

In their opinion there was no negligence. The cause of the blaze they did not know, but according to Captain Sherman the cargo consisted of highly inflammable material.

Lifeboat Upset.
Unable to reach the throttle in the engine room, the freighter was abandoned at slow speed when the lifeboats hit the water. And this, it was testified, was the reason one turned over.

Only one or two men were lifebelts, but Louis Hubbell of New Haven, the assistant engineer, testified that although he had none, he had ample time to get one had he thought of it.

The fire was discovered when the Thames was abreast of Captain's Island at 7:45 p. m., and those who were rescued were picked up after

FARM BOARD HEAD ASSAILS CHAMBER

Chairman Legge Says Business Men Failed in Pledge To Support Farmers.

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Members of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States today heard Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board sharply rebuke the Chamber for failure to take any constructive action to improve the farm situation after voting overwhelmingly in 1928 in favor of the principle of co-operative marketing.

Legge's address threw into controversy the hitherto serene sessions of the eighteenth annual meeting of the Chamber. An entirely different view had been prepared by Daniel A. Millett, Denver banker and stockman, for presentation to the delegates. In addition, middle-western grain dealers attending the meeting had announced an intention of replying to the defense of the Farm Board by its chairman.

Raps Bankers.
In his address Legge assailed "bankers and business men who met the crisis in the Stock Market last fall with more than half a billion dollars but failed to volunteer any aid when the commodities market faced a like crisis, although by doing so they would have performed as servants if not a more valuable service to the country than saving the Stock Market."

Instead, he continued, "there was criticism of the Farm Board for giving necessary assistance that could not be had from any other source."

Legge declared Congress had definitely committed the country to the principle of cooperative marketing of farm products. The Agricultural Marketing Act, he said, supplies the means necessary to help the farmer help himself out of his major economic difficulties and "the Farm Board is going to give

UNUSUALLY CALM IN INDIA TODAY

No Serious Breach of Peace Reported in the Last Forty-eight Hours.

London, April 30.—(AP)—Unless all news of disturbances is being stopped at the source by British censors, two full days have passed without a serious breach of the peace in India.

Closing to visitors of Khyber Pass, outlet from India to Afghanistan, was unexplained but was regarded as a precautionary act adopted for the protection of Peshawar, which is but 11 miles distant. It was prepared for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and Captain Stuyton, congratulating Connecticut men on having been patient under prohibition until its failure had been demonstrated, expressed the belief that many of the dyes were becoming amendable to constructive ideas, as indicated by their eagerness to claim the modification group of Literary Digest voters.

The new organization has established quarters at Room 602, Hartford-Connecticut Trust Co. building, 750 Main street, which will be in charge of Major Crumb.

The following were elected to the executive committee: William H. St. John of Hartford, chairman; Thomas Hewes of Farmington, vice-chairman; Professor Charles M. Bakewell of New Haven, Goodwin B. Beach of Hartford, William R. Corson of Hartford, John Field of Bridgeport. Dr. Selden B. Overlook

REDS PREPARE FOR MAY DAY CELEBRATION

All Work Is Suspended to Give Residents Chance to Take Part in the Monster Celebrations Tomorrow.

Moscow, April 30.—(AP)—Preparations for May Day celebrations are in full swing throughout the Soviet Union today, all work ceasing at three p. m., to give the workers time to participate in the final plans for International Labor Day.

Millions of yards of red bunting, hundreds of thousands of red electric-light bulbs, and numerous other decorations were placed on all government buildings, shops and homes last night.

Public squares on the larger streets displayed charts and other exhibits of the five year industrialization plan and portraits of revolutionary leaders in crimson frames.

Starts Tonight.
The activities were to begin tonight with meetings in clubs, theaters and conference halls for lectures on the labor movement and labor conditions in capitalist countries, contrasting them with those in the Soviet Union.

Tomorrow huge demonstrations by civilians will take place in all the leading cities of the proletarian republic. They will be preceded by military parades.

Many Dedications.
Formal dedication of newly-built factories, power-plants and other enterprises will take place in Moscow, Leningrad, Khar'kov, Sverdlovsk and other large cities. To insure unimpeded passage to the various demonstrations, all traffic between Moscow and the other principal cities will be suspended between eight a. m. and five p. m.

The May Day committee in Moscow plans to organize so-called national carnivals. Theatrical companies of Ukrainians, Georgians, Tartars and the other nationalities making up the vast Soviet Union will ride through the capital on huge platforms erected on motor trucks, giving performances in different sections of the city.

NOTABLE CITIZENS AGAINST DRY LAW

Ex-Senator McLean and Former Gov. Holcomb Heads the Connecticut List.

Hartford, April 30.—The Connecticut Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment accomplished permanent organization last night at a meeting held at the Hartford Club here, with a Board of Directors including 113 of the most notable citizens of the state headed by former United States Senator George P. McLean and former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb.

The gathering was addressed by Major Henry H. Curran, president of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, who just recently figured so conspicuously in the Judiciary Committee hearings at Washington, and by Pierre S. Dupont, chairman of the executive committee and Capt. William H. Stuyton, chairman of the board, respectively, of the A. A. P. A.

Robinson Heads Board.
Attorney Lucius F. Robinson of Hartford, former president of the State Bar Association, was elected chairman of the Board of Directors at the meeting; Colonel Norris G. Osborn, editor of the New Haven Journal-Courier, vice-chairman; Goodwin B. Beach of Goodwin-Beach & Co., Hartford, treasurer, and Mayor W. Raymond Crumb of Bristol, secretary.

Major Curran, in the course of his address, stigmatized the action of the lobby committee in making public all the private correspondence except that part containing a list of senators and representatives who vote dry and drink wet. Mr. Dupont advised the early adoption of regulatory state legislation in order to be prepared for the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment and Captain Stuyton, congratulating Connecticut men on having been patient under prohibition until its failure had been demonstrated, expressed the belief that many of the dyes were becoming amendable to constructive ideas, as indicated by their eagerness to claim the modification group of Literary Digest voters.

URGES EXTRA SESSION TO PASS ON DRY LAW

Fear May Day Riots All Over the World

By Associated Press.
Police authorities in many parts of the world today made plans to keep May Day observances peaceful and in some cases forbid demonstrations altogether.

In Paris the police, making their usual preliminary roundups, expelled 22 foreigners and arrested 15 persons charged with inciting soldiers to disobey military orders.

Communists in Madrid announced they were planning huge demonstrations and police made preparations to cope with any trouble.

The authorities of Athens and Lisbon prohibited all Communist meetings while in Warsaw special precautions were taken against possible clashes between Socialists and Communists.

Moscow was aflutter with red bunting and numerous decorations as widespread plans were completed for huge demonstrations.

The veterans of foreign wars in New York planned to observe the day as Dewey Day, while the Communists planned to hold a May Day demonstration. Plans were made and accepted by both groups to avoid any clash between them.

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Senator Jones, Washington, militant dry leader, urged President Hoover today to call a special session of Congress in the event that adjournment is taken before the Chief Executive's law enforcement program is not acted upon; Believe President Will Consider Suggestion.

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—President Hoover today received the U. S. official copy of the London naval treaty.

Secretary Stimson, who headed the American delegation to the conference, presented the document to the President on the south grounds of the White House.

Mr. Hoover is anxious for the Senate to act on the pact at this session and was expected to send it to the Capitol soon.

Brief Ceremony.
The ceremony of presentation was brief and unostentatious. In the small audience were Secretary Adams and Senator Robinson, Democrat, Arkansas, members of the American delegation and operators of talking motion picture machines.

The original of the treaty, signed by the delegates of the United States, Great Britain, Japan, France and Italy remains in London.

After the ceremony, the conference delegates were entertained by the President at luncheon Assistant Secretary Cotton, of the State Department, and Assistant Secretary Jahneke, of the Navy, also were present.

Bank Papers Asked by Grand Jury as In Case of Mayor Batterson.

Hartford, April 30.—(AP)—Bank accounts of Edward M. Allen, former state Senator and former chairman of the Republican town committee, are being sought by the Grand Jury investigating liquor conditions in Hartford county, as well as those of Mayor Walter T. Batterson, it was learned today.

John E. Enders, chairman of the board of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Company, said this afternoon that that institution, one of four local banks subpoenaed to turn over the mayor's accounts, has also been subpoenaed to turn over the accounts of Mr. Allen. It is understood that the other banks ask-

HOOPER RECEIVES COPY OF TREATY

Brief Ceremony When Official Document is Presented to the President.

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—The barbed wire stockpile within the walls of Ohio Penitentiary, where mutinous convicts will be confined while their damaged cell blocks are being repaired, was completed this morning and the transfer of about 400 prisoners to this enclosure will be made today.

The Ohio National Guard, under command of Colonel R. S. Haubrich, are riling the prison with an iron hand following the attempted break for liberty yesterday when the convicts were repulsed with shot that wounded two of their number.

Except for minor disturbances in the idle house, where 1,300 revolting convicts still have the run of the cages, quiet has been restored. During the night two prisoners, Jimmie Gordon, alias Edgar Barr, of Wood county, and Charles Hanovich, of Cleveland drew the wrath of their fellow convicts and were badly beaten with pieces of pipe.

Beat New Prisoners.
Both were removed from the idle house to the penitentiary hospital. Rev. Father Albert O'Brien, Catholic chaplain said that Hanovich was in serious condition. Both were entered the penitentiary only a few weeks ago. Gordon is serving 15 to 25 years for robbery and Hanovich, a youth of 22 is serving life for murder of a Cleveland policeman.

Prison officials did not learn that Gordon and Hanovich had done to provoke the beating.

Preparations are under way for complete restoration of prison routine. Colonel Haubrich said today, Work has not actually been resumed in the prison workshops but arrangements are being made toward this end.

ITALY'S WARSHIP PLANS

Construction Program was Decided Upon After a Detailed Report from Admiral Satriani, who was an Italian delegate to the London naval conference. Foreign Minister Grandi, chief Italian delegate, was present.

Rome, April 30.—(AP)—The Council of Ministers decided today to lay down one ten-thousand ton cruiser, two 5,100-ton scout cruisers, four 1,240-ton destroyers, and 22 submarines in 1930.

The construction program was decided upon after a detailed report from Admiral Satriani, who was an Italian delegate to the London naval conference. Foreign Minister Grandi, chief Italian delegate, was present.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for April 28 were $5,417,898.83; expenditures, $17,807,522.88; balance, $172,159,078.95.

Senator Jones, Militant Dry, Asks President to Call Special Session of Congress, If Hoover Program Is Not Acted Upon; Believe President Will Consider Suggestion.

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—Senator Jones, Washington, militant dry leader, urged President Hoover today to call a special session of Congress in the event that adjournment is taken before the Chief Executive's law enforcement program is not acted upon.

The Senator after a morning conference at the White House, said the President should insist on action on his law enforcement recommendations which were re-emphasized in a special message to Congress two days ago. Jones is author of the "Five and Ten Law" stringently penalizing Volstead violators.

He told the President that if Congress failed to act upon his recommendations, the Chief Executive should call a special session the day after sine die adjournment is taken. At the same time Senator Jones expressed hope that Congress would act upon the five measures before adjournment.

The President's five recommendations which he urged Congress to act upon in his recent message and which twice before were transmitted in messages, include transfer to the Department of Justice; measures to provide relief for congested court conditions; expansion of the Federal prison system; reorganization of the border patrol to prevent smuggling and illegal entry of aliens and more effective prohibition legislation for the District of Columbia.

The prohibition transfer bill is before the Senate, having been passed by the House. The other proposals all have been under study of professional committees.

As to Racketeering.
Only yesterday it developed that the Federal government has been undertaking to cooperate with state and municipal authorities to break up racketeering. Special efforts are being directed against organized gangs of criminals.

Violators of prohibition and all other laws are intended to feel the force of Federal authority.

It was believed that the capitol that President Hoover would give serious consideration to the suggestion of Senator Jones for an extra session, in the event action was not had on the administration's law enforcement program. The Washington Senator was formerly assistant Republican leader of the Senate.

Time Enough.
Both the tariff bill and the London naval treaty, Jones predicted would be out of the way by about June 1, leaving the President in estimation, to act upon the law enforcement administration measures.

Regarding the tariff bill the Senator said it would be a "poor reflection on Congress" if after a year of consideration the legislative body failed to act upon it.

Now chairman of the powerful appropriations committee, Senator Jones was formerly assistant Republican leader of the Senate.

Senator Watson, of Indiana, 399 Republican under, voiced opposition to an extra session.

"I am against an extra session for any purpose," he said.

The Indiana said the Senators and Representatives were tired out after the special and regular sessions and that he favored adjournment at the earliest possible time.

He added that he expected the prohibition transfer bill and the one to establish additional Federal prisons to go through without delay.

He said he was "not so sure" about the proposal to establish a unified border patrol, which still is before the House.

Chairman Norris, of the judiciary committee, declined to comment on the extra session proposal but said he thought the transfer, prison construction and border patrol measures would be adopted at this session.

He held out no hope for other legislation recommended by the President.

After considering President Hoover's message and hearing Attorney General Mitchell, the House judiciary committee failed today to act on law enforcement proposals.

Chairman Graham said Mitchell neither approved nor disapproved the proposed trial of minor liquor law violators before United States commissioners.

Committee Set Date.
The committee set next Tuesday to determine what is to be done with the law enforcement proposals. In the meantime, it approved the Graham bill to authorize the President to appoint an additional judge for the Third Circuit Court of Appeals with headquarters at Philadelphia and an additional judge for the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in the southern states.

Stays Aloft in a Glider For 15 Hours, 12 Minutes

San Diego, Cal., April 30.—(AP)—Jack Barstow, sail plane pilot, landed at Point Loma at 3:58 o'clock this morning, ending a flight of 15 hours and 12 minutes duration that unofficially established a new world's record for motorless sustained flight.

Barstow took off at 12:44 p. m., yesterday and took advantage of a favorable breeze to circle San Diego and Point Loma. He also exceeded the American glider mark of 9 hours, 5 minutes and 32.6 seconds established several months ago by Hawley Bowles.

The official glider record is 14 hours and 46 minutes, and was established in Germany. As his flight was unofficial, he carried no paragraph. Barstow cannot claim a new official mark.

Barstow soared into the air in the face of a strong south wind. The take-off made over the precipitous cliffs near the end of Point Loma.

At 9:50 o'clock last night the American record had been shattered and the motorless craft continued through the darkness and on the wings of a cold, rain-laden wind.

Shortly before midnight the pilot shouted to his friends that he was "going after the German record," and then, as the wind shifted toward the west and increased in force, gained altitude and soared from sight.

Absence of a paragraph in Barstow's plan deprives him of all official recognition for the unusual flight. It also prevents his claiming the $2,000 prize offered by the president of a Detroit aeronautical corporation to the first American pilot flying an American built glider ten hours.

HINT AT SUICIDE

Cornwall, Conn., April 30.—(AP)—In this town and in its hilly neighbor, Sharon, which is not easily accessible unless one drives over by way of Hartel Valley, there is but one topic of talk, the slaying of David Smith and his brother George, out in Muskogee, Okla.

There are many who have known the Smith brothers all their lives and both men had had prominent part in the affairs of their respective towns. Their father long kept a store at Cornwall Bridge and after he died the brothers ran it until it passed on to George who later closed it. Both Smiths had had an estate of considerable value in years gone by and both were hard hit by the collapse of the New Milford Security Company and by the tangled affairs of the Valario Construction Company which Edward J. Emmons, the late president of the Security company undertook to finance by using money out of various accounts in the company.

DAVID ANGRY

David, it was said today by persons who were at the stockholders meeting last July, exhibited anger and for a time was feared he would be restrained with difficulty. He showed them, and since that time much resentment toward his brother George. According to friends, David felt keenly the loss of the estate of which he claimed, George had knowledge. There was a sister which had lost money in the concern, it was said.

John Kuc, employe of the Connecticut company, was taken to the Memorial hospital shortly before noon today with injuries suffered while at his work. Kuc, who lives at 109 Bissell street, was struck by a heavy steel trolley rail while engaged in laying new track between Adams street and Love Lane on Twin Hills. The rail struck him in the back and knocked him down and then dropped on his foot. As far as could be learned in the absence of Mortimer Moriarty, section foreman, who went to Hartford soon after the accident, a passing trolley car side-swiped a loose rail knocking it against the man.

NORTH END RESIDENTS IN SUPERIOR COURT

The sections of the north end comprising Union, North, Woodland and Kerry streets, were pretty well deserted today when forty of the residents of that territory were taken before the Hartford Superior Court as a result of action brought by the deposed members of St. John The Baptist Society through their attorney A. S. Campbell of Hartford against Stanley Moskey, president of the organization in an effort to regain money in the society's treasury.

DEATHS ON WAY TO SEE DYING MOTHER, DIES OF SHOCK

Mrs. Minnie Hopfner Passes Away in Front of West Hartford Home—Former Local Resident.

Called to the bedside of her dying mother, Mrs. Charles S. Nyquist of 80 Linden street, at the Hartford hospital, Mrs. Minnie C. (Nyquist) Hopfner of 58 Wilfred street, West Hartford, was stricken with a shock in front of her home yesterday afternoon and died a few hours later without regaining consciousness. She was within a week of her 47th birthday.

At 11:30 o'clock this morning her mother died, unaware of the death of her eldest daughter. A diabetic gangrene operation was performed on Mrs. Nyquist on Friday and throughout the morning of the next day she appeared to be recovering. Saturday afternoon, however, she lapsed into a coma and was unable to recognize relatives at her bedside, except for one or two instances.

A double funeral will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock from the Swedish Lutheran church here, of which they were both members. Other arrangements are incomplete as yet.

MRS. C. S. NYQUIST DIES AFTER LEG AMPUTATION

Prominent Local Resident Passes Away Today; Daughter Died Yesterday Afternoon.

Mrs. Ida S. (Johnson) Nyquist, wife of Charles S. Nyquist, of 80 Linden street, and a resident of Manchester for the past 50 years, died at 11:30 o'clock this morning in the Hartford hospital at the age of 69 years. She was admitted to the hospital on Thursday and on Friday was operated on for diabetic gangrene, her left leg being amputated at the knee. Saturday afternoon she lapsed into a coma from which she never recovered, passing away without knowing of the death of her daughter, Mrs. Minnie Hopfner, of West Hartford, who died yesterday afternoon, after suffering a shock outside of her home as she was on the way to her mother's bedside.

BIGGEST CURTAIN PLANT NEAR HERE

Danielson Has Largest Factory in World; Hale's Buys Curtains There for Sale.

Manchester is boastful of the fact that the largest silk manufacturing plant in the world is located, but it is perhaps unknown to a great many local residents that the largest curtain manufacturing plant in the world is located not far distant at Danielson, Conn.

Charles J. McCann, manager of the J. W. Hale Company, and Elton Johnson, buyer in the draperies department of the same company, have recently visited the Hale and Alexander Company operate the largest factory in the entire world that takes the raw cotton and puts it through over 200 operations to produce some of the finest curtains that can be purchased.

The big curtain mills have grown up in the last few years. In 1919 the plant was started with but two employees. Today 1,500 are working there. Of this number 300 are employed in spinning, 850 in weaving and 650 in direct curtain making. Two hundred operations are required to run the raw cotton through to the finished curtain.

Production has been so carefully managed that the plant produces 40 pair of curtains a minute when running at top speed. They work a 55 hours week. The plant averages 132,000 pairs of curtains a week. In addition to this the plant turns out 60,000 yards of Bullion Fringe each week. This latter material is used in panels.

In order to bring these curtains before the people of Manchester more prominently the J. W. Hale Company is announcing a sale of curtains today. They assert that this sale is the biggest ever conducted in the history of their store. It opens tomorrow. Attention is called to Hale's advertisements on curtains in today's Herald.

FOREST FIRE RAGING.

East Hampton, April 30.—(AP)—The woods fire which started in Colchester in the Bull Hill district yesterday was sweeping this afternoon on a two mile front toward this town. A number of buildings are in line of the fire. The fire wardens and their men in West Colchester and Lebanon who have been working three days at fire fighting this afternoon appealed to Hartford for assistance. The woods through which the flames are sweeping is a much tangled district. The underbrush is dense and the trees are of varieties which will burn quickly, so the conflagration has much menace in it.

FRADIN'S OBSERVES 7TH ANNIVERSARY

Local Women's Apparel Store Announces Special Sale for the Event.

Another year has rolled by for Fradin's, women and misses apparel shop and now they observe their seventh anniversary in Manchester.

Julius Fradin

Again in marking this anniversary, Mr. Fradin has spent considerable time in New York securing fresh new merchandise for the big event. He has secured merchandise at surprisingly low prices for the anniversary sale. Customers of this store look forward to this event for many months because of the values they have received in other years.

The past year has seen several changes in the physical aspect of the store, notable among these the increase in the dress department where considerable alteration work was done to the fixtures to provide more space.

they had been in the water more than an hour.

Fire Reported Captain Sherman told the board that he was in the dining room when the chief engineer ran on deck and reported the fire. He said he investigated and saw the flames and dense smoke coming from the boiler-room. Calling to his men to start the pumps, he hauled the vessel into the wind. He rang the bell for slow speed then rang for it to be stopped. The captain said he sounded the whistle for help.

"When I saw no hope," he testified, he had heard only the "boats."

Not two minutes had elapsed Captain Sherman said.

The fire was burning at their heels as the crew went over the side. As the lifeboat was in touch with the water, it capsized, due he said, to the speed of the moving boat.

When Chief Engineer Clarence Tibbets, of Bridgeport, was called he testified, he had heard only the signal to slow the speed of the Thames, but even had he heard the second bell he said it would have been impossible to enter the engine room again.

Ships Nearby

Captain Sherman said that at the time he blew the ship's whistle to attract attention, various boats including the Lexington were in the vicinity.

Engineer Tibbets told the board that the boiler John MacNamara discovered the fire in the top fire room and warned him. Tibbets said he then ran on deck and spread the alarm. After returning to slow the boat, he went back on deck and took to a boat.

In his opinion, everyone got off the Thames.

In answer to a direct question by Commissioner A. R. Chapman, Tibbets said he knew of no negligence on the part of any member of the crew. The same answer was given by his assistant Hubbell, who gave a graphic account of hanging on the keel of the overturned lifeboat until he was rescued.

Loading of Boats

Hubbell and Wm. De Bore of New York second mate, described the loading of their life boat, saying most of the men got in at the main deck. One man, Otter MacNamara, remained on the top deck while the boat was being lowered. No one saw him after that.

DeBore said there were 13 men in his boat, nine of whom were rescued. The other boat only one of the crew, Tibbets, was saved.

He testified that he went to the forecastle and found that all men off duty had left. He said he believed that every member of the crew escaped.

He too, believed there was no one to blame for the tragedy. Other survivors were to testify this afternoon.

NEW BRITAIN FIRE.

New Britain, April 30.—(AP)—The terrific heat of a cellar fire in the basement of building at 1:40 this morning melted several gas meters and escaping gas prevented firemen entering the building until the main in the street could be shut off.

him every assistance permitted by the law.

Scores Organization "I am sure that most of you will agree that you know more about the agricultural situation and how considerable percentage of your membership have made that quite clear and perhaps the best answer I can make is the statement that, if this be true and you really do know so much about it, the chamber organization, which having full information of the facts has made so little effort to remedy the situation.

"Certainly, none of you have seen any evidence of constructive action on the part of the Chamber of Commerce or any of its affiliated organizations, with the doubtful exception of taking a referendum two years ago, looking to a remedy, and for permanent improvement in the situation which your own investigators had warned required substantial assistance, if not from you, then from the government."

Cites Report Legge cited a report made in 1927 by the Nagel commission appointed by the Chamber and the national industrial conference board which recommended agricultural stabilizing through corporations financed jointly by farmers cooperative, private business interests and the Federal government." Legge said that the Chamber in 1928 went on record in favor of cooperative principles by a vote of member association 8 of 2816 to 117.

"Perhaps I should mention the fact that while your national organization did adopt a policy of silence when Congress was framing the agricultural marketing act, spokesmen of some of your member organizations appeared before the House committee on agriculture and endorsed the principles of that legislation," he said.

"One might find much justification in the statement that your attitude generally has been one of indifference; if indeed not of antagonism; that you regarded the farm problem like the poor as something 'we have with us always' and that you are more fortunate, dismissed it along with the other lines as the ladies who are apt to refer to the household help question—something that had to be endured, if one was to avoid having to do the work oneself."

"It is true that there have been many public expressions of sympathy and feeling for the farmer, but let us be certain that in giving expression to this feeling, that our hand reaches for the dollar in our own pocket and not the penny in his."

Saying that under recent conditions there was nothing to encourage the farmer to improve his property, Chairman Legge continued: "On a moderate scale, the farm mortgage which the farmer has kept strictly up-to-date is the farm mortgage. Most of them have that."

"The farmer's struggle has been one of meeting the payments on the mortgage, a struggle in which he has failed in a very large number of cases, and the record of foreclosures and forced sale of farm property is still running high."

"After many years of discussion and deliberation Congress finally passed the agricultural marketing act, which many of you people are now branding as Socialistic, or Anarchistic, and complaining of interference with, or necessitating some readjustment in the present system of handling certain commodities."

"It is rather difficult," Legge continued, "to see how progress can be made toward improvement in the agricultural marketing situation without necessitating some readjustment of existing conditions."

"The country generally and business men for the most part gave without necessitating some readjustment of existing conditions. x x x."

"The country generally and business men for the most part gave their approval of the agricultural marketing act before it became a law."

"I am sorry to say that there has been considerable evidence the past few months that entirely too many of your members were for the principle of co-operation only so long as it didn't work."

benefits, safeguards against unemployment. Also child welfare and health program.

President Sloan said that "the biggest accomplishment of the cotton textile industry in many years has been the favorable response on the part of mills north and south, representing 22,000,000 spindles, to the 50-50 recommendation (50-hour day week and 50-hour night week.)"

"Analysis of these endorsements disclosed the fact that 90 percent of the narrow sheeting mills have already made this voluntary adjustment in their respective mills. Similar announcements have been made by more than 87 percent of mills manufacturing wide industrial fabrics and by more than 50 percent of the fine goods, wide sheetings, print cloth and carded yard manufacturers."

NOTE SMALL CHANGE IN N. E. BUSINESS

Federal Reserve Bank of Boston Makes Public Its Monthly Report.

Boston, April 30.—(AP)—Little change in New England business activity was reported today in the monthly review of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston.

"During the first quarter of this year," says the report, "there was little change, other than seasonal, in the aggregate rate of business activity in New England, and the level at the end of March was only slightly higher than the low point to which industry declined in December. In comparison with the corresponding period a year ago, business activity in this district during the first quarter was disappointing, the average level during the period being approximately 17 per cent below the record average level a year ago."

Credit Conditions. "Fundamental credit and industrial conditions, however, appear to have been sounder at the first of April this year than a year ago. On April 2, the reserve ratio of the Federal Reserve Bank of Boston was 81.2 per cent, compared with 72.0 per cent on April 3, 1929. Loans to member banks by the Boston Reserve Bank were $72,498,000 a year ago (April 3), and were $19,492,000 this year (April 2)."

"After a sharp decline during the latter part of 1929, the rate of general business activity in New England remained steady, even though at a level much lower than a year ago. Business sentiment has changed considerably more than actual business activity. At the first of the year apparently too much was expected, and in February optimism changed to an attitude of extreme caution. As the year advanced, an spirit of caution still prevailed, but the customary spring expansion in many lines of industry and trade added a more cheerful aspect to the immediate future."

"Preliminary reports for April indicate that more than the seasonal increase took place in the building industry and loadings in this district were running somewhat higher than in March. New England textile activity in March was less than that during February, and when allowance for usual seasonal changes were made, cotton consumption declined slightly, wool consumption was less and silk machinery activity was reduced."

Boots and Shoes. "Production on boots and shoes in New England in March was considerably larger than in February, but was nearly 10 per cent less than in March, 1929. Both in the country as a whole and in New England, shoe production during the first quarter of 1930, was considerably less than in the corresponding period a year ago. The total value of new construction contracts awarded in this district in March, although about 11 per cent under that of March, 1929, was approximately 52 per cent larger than in February."

"The volume (in square feet) of both residential and commercial and industrial building in New England showed larger than seasonal gains in March compared with February. The number of wage-earners in identical manufacturing establishments in Massachusetts during March declined slightly from February. Boston department store sales in March were 9.1 per cent smaller than during the corresponding month a year ago, but for the first quarter were nine-tenths of one per cent ahead of that period in 1929."

Joyous Foot Bath Then Lift Out

CORNS

Root and All—Out To Stay!

Two tablespoonfuls of that amazingly refreshing and foot invigorating Radox to one gallon of water makes a footbath which after 3 to 4 nights' soaking lifts out aching, maddening corns, callouses, toeroots and all.

Radox softens the hard outer layers of corn and oxygen which Radox liberates, enters the pores, each night penetrating further and further, carrying the salts right to root of corn which can be lifted out bodily.

Wonderful to take out pain and burning and refresh tired feet!

To a bottle of Radox at Packard's Pharmacy or any druggate and know the joyous comfort of corn and callous free feet—Radox is the modern, scientific method to remove corns which completely eliminates old fashioned plasters, lanolin, salting, skin destroying acids and obsolete methods.—Adv.

FIRST BODY FOUND.

Stamford, April 30.—(AP)—The first body from the steamer Thames burned off Tod's Point last week, that of Herbert A. Westcott, of Brooksville, Maine, was found on the Long Island shore near Northport.

late yesterday. The body was in good condition and papers in the clothing proved the identity. Sixteen men were lost from the steamer.

Westcott's body was found by Benjamin Chessman, a police officer of Flushing, L. I., who was fishing. He sent word to the Coast Guard station from which a man was sent to pick up the body. After the body had been placed with an undertaker word was sent to the man's family, and a son whose Hoboken address was in a pocket, made arrangements for the funeral.

SOUTH DAKOTA G. O. P. RUMPUS LIVENS POLITICS

Pierre, S. D.—(AP)—William Henry McMaster, finishing out his first term as a United States senator from South Dakota, is the center of a republican party squabble over his candidacy for renomination at the primary, May 6.

One wing of the party has grumbled that he is not an "administration republican." The opposition to his alignment with the republican independents in the senate particularly on the tariff, grew to the point where the dissatisfied home folks brought out George Danforth, Sioux Falls attorney, to oppose McMaster for the nomination.

South Dakota thus raises for settlement by popular vote the same issue of republicanism that split the senate into "regulars" and "independents," that led to the Missouri phrase, "sons of wild jackasses," and that whisked control of the tariff bill from under the noses of the Old Guard.

The "administration" republicans have drawn up a platform and the two groups are going right after each other. McMaster, voting in the senate had not pleased some of his constituents for some time. His vote against confirming Charles Evans Hughes as chief justice of the United States started the search for an opponent.

In the democratic ranks another split appears.

Governor W. J. Bulow apparently had clear sailing for his party's nomination for the senate until the state's attorney general, in a banking department investigation report, requested removal of the superintendent of banks.

Bulow's refusal to act upon the request aroused the ire of some democrats. At a rump democratic convention, James E. McNamara of Huron was nominated to oppose the governor.

South Dakota is intensely interested in the republican fight for the nomination for governor because a woman is one of five candidates. She is Miss Gladys Pyle, now secretary of state.

The state's three representatives—all republicans—seek renomination. Royal C. Johnson, second district, is the only one with opposition at the primaries. Tom Ayres of Frederick seeks to replace him.

OWNER OF NIGHT CLUBS IS MURDERED IN HOME

New York, April 30.—(AP)—Harry Block, 36 years old, reputed partner in a number of night club enterprises, was fatally shot by two men this morning as he and his wife were about to ascend in an elevator to their apartment in West 73rd street.

Two of four or five shots fired by the men took effect and Block died before reaching the Fifth avenue hospital. Neither Mrs. Block nor the elevator operator, Dan Sullivan, was wounded. The men who were followed by the police to have followed the Blocks into the lobby of the apartment house disappeared after the shooting.

The operator said he was just about to close the door of the elevator when the two men suddenly appeared. He said one of them called Block a vile name and fired. The other then also started shooting. Block collapsed with a bullet wound in his neck and another in the hand. He was carried to the street and lifted into a taxicab by Mrs. Block and Sullivan. Police were unable to assign a motive for the shooting.

LICENSES SUSPENDED

A list of operators whose licenses to drive automobiles in Connecticut have been suspended for one year for driving while under the influence of liquor was given out today at the State Motor Vehicle Department as part of the effort to reduce this highway menace. The department statement advised people to notify the department or the police in case they should see any of these drivers operating motor vehicles.

CHINESE DRAGON IS AIR-MINDED, SPROUTS WINGS

Shanghai.—(AP)—China is becoming air-minded, both for peace and war.

An air line extending over western China through Szechuen province and perhaps connecting with Tibet is one of the Chinese government's major projects.

Six airplanes for the line will be purchased with money now being sought from the wealthy residents of Szechuen by the aviation department of the ministry of war. The sum needed is $500,000 in gold.

An air line connecting Japan with Shanghai and Nanking also is to be launched in May by a Japanese firm under a contract with the national government.

A China-Berlin aviation line to be operated jointly by the Luftthansa interests and the Chinese government is another proposed development. Soviet Russia refuses to let the line pass over its territory until "proper representation" has been made, however.

Meanwhile Chinese military chiefs are realizing the value of air-craft in modern warfare. In Manchuria Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang is developing a strong air force of bombers and scouting planes with the aid of French instructors. He learned his lesson at the time of the Russian invasion of Manchuria, when the Soviet air forces had things pretty much their own way.

In China proper, likewise, Gen. Chiang Kai-shek has met with unusual success in downing rebellions with bombing planes, and this may have been a factor in the Manchurian general's decision to increase his own air armament.

D. O. SELSNICK WEDS.

Santa Monica, Calif., April 30.—(AP)—Irene Mayer, daughter of Louis E. Mayer, film producer, was married last night to David O. Selsnick, motion picture producer, in a quiet ceremony at the home of her parents.

The couple left for New York from where they will go to Europe for an extended honeymoon trip.

BOX FACTORY BURNS

Brentwood, N. H., April 30.—(AP)—An early morning fire destroyed the box factory at the Felloes and Son mill with a loss estimated by the owners at approximately $30,000.

The fire, of unknown origin, was discovered by Night Watchman Draper and help was summoned from Epping, Fremont, Exeter, Manchester, Raymond and Haverhill, Mass., when the flames threatened, for a time, to sweep through the town.

The destroyed factory, a long wooden building, was the original mill, built in 1883, and housed the chief industry of the town. The mill employed 30 hands. The engine room and a warehouse, separated from the fire by fire walls, were saved.

On April 30, 1789, George Washington, after a triumphal trip northward from his home at Mount Vernon, was inaugurated first president of the United States on the balcony of Federal Hall, New York.

Washington was elected in January and was supposed to have begun his term from March 4. But there was such a delay in forming a quorum of Congress that the votes of the electoral college were not counted until early in April, when they were found to be unanimously in favor of Washington.

The delay apparently pleased Washington, for he wrote to General Knox: "The delay may be compared to a reprieve; for in confidence I tell you... that by movements to the chair of government will be accompanied by feelings not unlike those of a culprit, who is going to the place of his execution; so unwilling am I, in the evening of a life nearly consumed in public cares, to quit a peaceful abode for an ocean of difficulties, without the competency of political skill, abilities and inclination which are necessary to manage the helm."

A specialized eye, ear, nose and throat hospital is being built at Washington university at St. Louis, Mo.

"INTERNATIONAL NIGHT" CONTESTS END TONIGHT

Last of Series to Be Held at State Theater; Double Feature Program.

Tonight brings to a close the series of International Nights which have been conducted at the State Theater for the past eight weeks. The winners of the different "nationality" nights will meet in the finals in open competition for the beautiful silver loving cup donated by Warner Bros. and with it will go the distinction of being known as Manches. cr's foremost vaudeville performer. Ten acts of the best vaudeville talent in the town produce will appear. Practically all of the acts have been re-built, as each realized that it would be forced to the limit if it would repeat the success it obtained on the "nationality" night when they were declared eligible for the finals.

The acts appearing tonight—all winners of previous nights, are as follows: Miss Doris Roy, a dainty little Miss will demonstrate her ability as a dancer. Joseph Pietro, who made a decided hit on one of the "nationality" nights as a singer, will be heard in an entirely different program. Miss Ida Wilhelm, will present once more, some ballet dances, a type of dancing of which she is very versatile. Rossana Linde, will be heard in a song program, and she is certain to go well with the audience as she did at her previous appearance. Warnock, Bateson and Johnson, a comedy trio of more than average ability, have a line of comedy ready that will bring many laughs. Raymond Della Ferr, an exponent of the art of tap dancing, is ready to shake his feet as he never did before. Anthony O'Brien will be heard in several selections on the xylophone and he can almost make it talk. Baby Ruth Atkins, a four year old ballet dancer, will step out and meet her older competitors in a fearless manner—and how this little tot can step. Carlo, Carlo and Burt are another trio of comedians who know how to put over "business" that gets the laughs. William Gess, a master of the waltz clog, has several new steps upon which he will depend to carry him through to victory.

As on the previous International Nights, the ultimate winner will be selected by the audience. The State management will have no part in the selection of the winner. A committee of prominent local men will act as judges and determine the winner from the volume of applause.

The picture part of the program will include two unusually attractive productions. Clive Brook and Evelyn Brent will be seen and heard in the melodramatic romance, "Slightly Scarlet", and Buster Keaton will be presented in his first talking picture, "Free and Easy". This one is a riot of laughter from start to finish. You have not seen Buster Keaton until you have heard him.

IN NEW YORK

New York, April 30.—Out from the cob-webbed attics have come suddenly those pocket-marked dresses making "Fashion Idols".

In those midtown brownstones of the mauve decade, these signs can be now seen to any and all passers-by.

For the old-fashioned dressmaker has staged a comeback. Yes, I mean the almost forgotten spinsteresque lady who could hold an entire paper of needles in her teeth, while juggling a set of safety pins and hair-pins.

And these new long dresses are to be thanked.

For a number of years, as every woman knows, any dress that tickled the knees was sufficient unto itself. But, after a brief experience with those new trailers, it became apparent that some fitting might be needed. . . "Just a little tuck there, Imogene," or "a wee bit too long. It might drag on the sidewalk," or "somehow it doesn't seem to set just right."

So, after a period of time, most women folk admitted that one of the new dresses could not be properly adjusted without alterations. Many preferred to have them made to measure.

Thus it has come about that the dear old dressmaker, right out of grandma's time, has taken her fly-specked sign out of the closet and stuck it up in the window again.

And, insofar as New York is concerned, at any rate, she's doing very nicely, thank you!

The "style bootlegger," it seems, has been operating in Paris with such open lawlessness that our local Rue de la Paix have been hearing much about it.

Like the alcoholic bootleggers who put all sorts of pre-war labels on post-war bottles, these gents have been taking the labels of the most famous couturiers, slipping them in their pockets, and sending them back to be placed on garments made in Brooklyn and way points.

This deception, practiced only by a few unscrupulous firms, several of whom are important enough to know better, has become something of a fine art.

The racket is this: the slick "boot-leg" operator gains admission to some exclusive French designer's emporium on the pretext of merely looking over the new styles. A con- federate engages the attendants in conversation. Concealed under a well manured and lengthy thumb nail is a bit of safety razor blade. As a garment is being inspected the blade is deftly run over the designer's label, the label is quickly palmed and added to a general collection of similar labels.

A fair copy of the original is then made and the label of the Paris maker is found sewed in the collar.

So crude for a time because this practice that the French makers not only protested but have stationed guards to watch the thieves. It is said that dozens of such counterfeiters were made possible through the trickery of the clever knaves, and the prices received for the false label in New York shops were—well, considerable.

One more style item, while we're about it: a parasol has appeared which has a detachable handle. When unscrewed the handle becomes a cup just large enough to hold the well-known beach cocktail, so that midday can loll upon the sands of any of the exclusive beach resorts and depend on her umbrella for more than protection from the sun.

PENSIONS FOR MINISTERS

Indianapolis, Ind., April 30.—(A.P.)—More than 3,000 ministers and nearly 1,100 congregations have enrolled in the ministerial pension system of the Disciples of Christ. The Rev. F. E. Smith, secretary of the movement reported today as 300 members of the brotherhood's pension commission opened a two-day conference here. Thirty-six states and several Canadian provinces are represented at the meeting.

The Rev. Mr. Smith explained that under the contributory pension plan being adopted by the Christian churches, both ministers and congregations pay stated percentages of a minister's salary to the pension fund and benefits also are based on salaries.

GANDHI'S NEW PLANS

Billimora, Gujerat, Bombay, April 30.—(A.P.)—Mahatma Gandhi, today laid down a rigorous code for selection of those followers who will march with him to Dharasana to raid the salt depots. The requirements include proficiency in carding, spinning and in the manufacture of miniature spinning wheels.

Prominent women in Gujerat last night dispatched a letter to Viceroy Lord Irwin expressing sympathy with Gandhi's campaign of civil disobedience to the salt laws.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 30, 1930

there is the added tragedy of inadequate or mishandled life-saving equipment; the drama of the lone figure on the blazing deck waving a farewell to the ill-fated boat parties. And yet even in the press reports the big news story is treated almost casually. Obviously there was callous disregard of the desperately imperiled crew by the passing ships; yet nobody seems to care greatly. Even the insurance men carrying the policies on ship and cargo don't take the trouble to go near the stranded wreck for days.

Are we becoming benumbed to all feeling over such events? Are we approaching the condition of savage fatalists through our fast growing familiarity with sudden, calamitous death? Or is this, for some unexplainable reason, just one of those happenings which, occurring on one day attract but slight attention yet which, occurring on another, might set the country agog?

There is something very queer about the public's psychological reaction to tragedies—sometimes violent, sometimes almost quiescent. Perhaps it is the stage of the moon, perhaps the alignment of the planets, perhaps this, perhaps that. We only know that it is past understanding.

INJUNCTIONS

It would seem to be a far cry from Grover Whalen and cheaper taxicabs in New York to Judge Parker and his contested appointment to the United States Supreme Court; but there occurred on Monday, New York an incident in the taxi struggle which has a not distant relationship to the Supreme Court question.

It will be remembered that recently Mayor Walker vetoed a city ordinance intended to support Police Commissioner Whalen in his refusal to issue licenses to low priced taxis. For a day or two thereafter Whalen still adhered to his opposition to the cut-rate service. Then he backed down and announced that presently he would grant the licenses. On Monday he issued just one. Then appeared a lawyer with an injunction issued by a Brooklyn court, restraining Whalen from granting licenses to taxis to be operated at prices lower than those that have been in vogue.

This injunction purports to have been obtained by a woman, acting as a citizen and taxpayer, and is granted on the ground that rate cutting would produce a rate war involving fast and reckless driving to the peril of the public. Not many persons will believe it was not prompted by the existing tax companies.

This is an excellent example of the abuse of the injunction—and the abuse of the injunction, or what a great many persons believe to be its abuse, is what is really behind some of the objection to Judge Parker as a Supreme Court appointee. It is the exploitation of the injunction in business and labor controversies that has stimulated a demand for a better balance between "liberals" and "conservatives" on the Supreme Court. The Supreme Court has never looked on the injunction with as cold an eye as many citizens could wish who feel that it is frequently resorted to in a way that substitutes court-made law for statute and even constitutional law. Such people want to see on the court, in Judge Parker's place, a justice who, for example, would not countenance such use of the injunction as has been made in keeping New Yorkers from getting cheaper taxi fares when taxis are ready and eager to give them. They do not believe Judge Parker to be their kind of a thinker.

THE INDIA TROUBLES

The gravity of the perils which Great Britain faces in the Indian troubles is emphasized by the news that Hindoo troops refused duty during the recent disturbance at Peshawar. No other construction is it possible to place on the words of a government communique issued at London which says that on account of the "unsatisfactory conduct of a small element"—two platoons of the Second Battalion, Eighteenth Royal Gariswal Regiment—the battalion had been transferred.

Disaffection among the native troops of the Indian Army, if it should become at all extensive, would create an extremely serious situation, for at least two-thirds of that army is native. That applies to the regular Indian Army alone. In addition it must be remembered that in India, aside from the thirteen provinces under direct British rule, there are about 150 native states, a few of them large and many of them very small, whose native rulers, though under the suzerainty of Britain, maintain armies or at least detachments of troops of their own. Among these are some of the best fighting stock in India, Mohammedan tribesmen of the North; and it further complicates the situation that Mohammedans as well as Hindoos are said to be following in large numbers the leadership of Mahatma Gandhi.

While the extent of the Indian disturbances as yet are far from showing that the situation is getting out of hand of the British-Indian government, or that any important proportion of the population has yet come under the revolutionary influence, the potentialities are such as to warrant the greatest uneasiness. A general revolt of the Indian troops would make the conditions well nigh impossible.

REMINISCING

Henry A. House of Bridgeport, at 90, is having a wonderful time reminiscing. He is accredited with 300 inventions of appliances, some of which are still in use. Mr. House is not only having a good time with his memories, he seems to be having rather a good time with the newspaper men.

For instance, the Waterbury Republican, editorializing, says that in 1886 "he terrified the populace by speeding through the town at 30 miles an hour in a steam automobile which would carry seven passengers, a performance which considerably surpassed the early efforts of Haynes and other of the motor pioneers."

It happens that we remember that automotive vehicle. The chassis and body were those of an old horse-drawn carriage and it would hold, at a pinch, a dozen or more big boys and girls, which it usually did. Its power plant was a naphtha-fuel steam engine similar to those used in launches in those days. It smoked like a barn ash and if it could make 30 miles an hour our little four-cylinder car can make 200. Possibly it was good for ten miles an hour on the best of roads, but at eight miles it shook up the passengers like a dynamite explosion.

One day Mr. House had a lot of high school girls out for a ride when the contraption caught fire. Several of the girls were rather badly burned. And that was the end of that.

The status of any of the recognized pioneers in automotive development is in little danger from good old Mr. House, whose imagination at 90 seems as active as ever.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer

Washington, April 30.—As white-haired Mother Jones prepared to spend her hundredth birthday on May 1 in what probably is her deathbed at a farmhouse near the capital, other old-time labor leaders recalled anecdotes of her vivid career which illustrated the old lady's flaming spirit, her unflinching wit and her resourcefulness. Mother Jones herself used to enjoy telling them and they can hardly be done justice except in her own rich brogue.

Mother's favorite concerned the time she "blew up the bull." It was after coal strikes in West Virginia. The miners had gained political control of a town of 2000 or 3000 souls and there was factional strife among them, so they sent for Mother Jones to come and settle it. It was early in January. Thirty or forty miles away someone spotted Mother on the train and wired ahead. A private detective in the employ of the miners—a "bull" that is—boarded the train at the next station and trailed her. He followed her to the little hotel at her destination and engaged the room alongside hers.

This hotel had its office in a bar-room downstairs and about a dozen rooms on the only other floor, the second. It had old-fashioned transoms and by listening through hers Mother Jones followed the movements of "the bull." At first he stuck close, all set to trail Mother wherever she went. But he grew tired, went in and laid down on his own bed and soon she heard him snoring.

At that point she tiptoed out, down and across the street to the clerk's room. She told the clerk her little nephew up north didn't believe people exploded fireworks at Christmas time and she wished she could send him some fireworks just to prove it. Maybe the clerk and a few firecrackers still left over from Christmas. So the clerk searched and finally found four small packages of little crackers and six large cannon crackers. The "bull" was still snoring. Mother opened the four packages of little ones and tied them together, making a long fuse. She put a chair in front of the door of the "bull" and mounted it with the crackers. She laid the six big ones out on a row on the edge of the transom. Rapidly she lit the four packages, dropped them on the floor and ran a lighted match along the fuses of the cannon crackers. Then she dashed back and under her own covers.

The explosion sent the "bull" jumping through the window into an eight-foot snow bank. There, according to Mother, he kept yelling "Good God, I'm kill!" until they pulled him out. Meanwhile Mother herself was striding down to the office demanding: "Is this a decent house or isn't it? What's all this noise mean?"

Then there was the time she got into Denver with a mission and was met by a lieutenant of militia with orders to take her in custody to a hotel. She suggested the best over the mountains to help the boys in another town and they'd marched all night. We looked down from the hill and there were the — of militia driving the miners and their families out of their homes in the cold gray dawn and some of them only in their underwear.

"Those boys with me were going to throw dynamite down on those — of militia and I held their hands and told 'em they mustn't."

"But now when I think of what happened afterwards, I know when I get to heaven I'll have to apologize to God Almighty for holding their hands."

In preparing this vegetable, it should be washed carefully to remove the grit. Sometimes a small amount of dirt sticks under the larger scales, and they should be removed, as well as the toughest part of the fibrous end. When serving asparagus whole, it is a good plan to tie the stalks in a bundle with all the tips even and cut off the root ends so that the bunch will stand on its base in the pan. Leave about two inches of water, and cover the vessel. The tips will then be steamed and unbroken. The juice may be used for soups and should not be thrown away.

Asparagus may be served either hot or cold, and if you wish a change try chopping up the raw tips and adding them to salads. Here are a few recipes which I know you will enjoy.

Asparagus and Milk

Wash the asparagus carefully and cut into half inch lengths, all except the part which is too difficult to cut readily. Place in a pot and cover with hot milk, add a pinch of baking soda, and cook over a slow fire for about 25 minutes. Season with a little salt and butter just before serving.

Baked Asparagus

Wash and cut the asparagus into inch lengths. Place in a casserole and add meat broth or milk to cover. Put on the lid and bake for 40 minutes. Remove the lid and add a tablespoonful of dextrinized flour for each cupful of asparagus. Return to the casserole and bake for 10 minutes longer.

Curried Asparagus

One bunch of cooked asparagus cut into inch lengths. Three stalks of finely chopped celery, a sprig of chopped mint or watercress, one sliced apple. Take a frying pan and melt three tablespoonfuls of butter in it. Add a rounded teaspoonful of curry powder, stir well, and add the celery, apple and mint. Cook celery with a cover on it, stirring occasionally for about 15 minutes, then add the chopped asparagus and cook for about 10 minutes longer. This makes a good dish to serve with meat.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Blow on Head)

Question:—C. T. writes: An icebox lid fell on my head a few months ago, making me sick and dizzy at the time. On the 4th day I saw the doctor about it and he said nothing was wrong. There is a small lump on the side of my head and if I massage it, it seems to bring pain to the surface and my forehead aches. I consulted another doctor, and he tells me he thinks there is a small

NATIONAL BETTER HOMES WEEK-APRIL 27 to MAY 3

Manchester's Mothers' Club furnishes a delightful living room for less than $400

HOW would you furnish a living room—complete—if you were asked to do it with $400? The Manchester Better Homes Committee arranged to have a special committee of the Manchester's Mothers' Club furnish and decorate two rooms at our store. We asked that one be furnished on a budget of $400, and the other, $1,200. Here's the way this committee decorated the $400 room... and it is as smart and cozy a room as you will find often furnished for twice this amount! The complete furnishings for this room—actually amounting to $397.35—can be purchased on easy terms. Accessories such as pictures and book-ends are not included.

The center of interest—a Lawson sofa

An English type Lawson sofa, placed against the windows where its covering of tan brightens with touches of rose and green harmonizes with the draperies and rug, is the center of interest in this attractive room. The covering is tapette, and the sofa costs only $69.

An odd chair

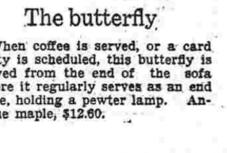

As the color scheme in this north room is generally warm, a dash of contrasting color was used in an upholstered occasional chair. It is in plain green! $37.80.

Chintz draperies

Crisp glazed chintz draperies, "The Antique Shop" by name depicting the merchandise one would find in such a place, is used for overdrapes and for slip-covering the wing chair, $1.50 yard.

Ruffled glass curtains, $2.50 pair.

The butterfly

When coffee is served, or a card party is scheduled, this butterfly is moved from the end of the sofa where it regularly serves as an end table, holding a pewter lamp. Antique maple, $12.60.

Color Scheme

Walls: Almost plain paper having a delicate yellow pencil-stripe plaid design on a cream background.

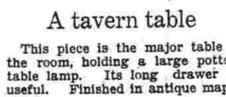

Floor: Axminster rug in hooked design; greens and old red on tan background.

Draperies: Glazed chintz, same general colors as rug.

Furniture: Maple, davenport, brown tapette; wing chair, same glazed chintz as draperies; occasional chair, plain green.

The wing chair

To give height to the room, this authentic Chippendale wing chair was selected, shipped in the same chintz as is used for draperies. With out slipcover; in tapette upholstery, $39.75.

A tavern table

This piece is the major table of the room, holding a large pottery table lamp. Its long drawer is useful. Finished in antique maple, $23.40.

Not illustrated

This $400 price also includes the following: 8x12 Axminster rug as described under "color scheme," maple ladder back arm chair and desk chair to match, a whale-oil bridge lamp, an Italian pottery table lamp and a pewter base table lamp!

Inspect this room this week!

Both the $400 and $1200 living rooms, furnished by the committee of the Mothers' Club are on display all this week. Be sure to visit them for worth-while "Better Homes" ideas on room arrangements and color schemes.

55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

ASPARAGUS AND ASPARAGIN

Asparagus is one of the few perennial non-starchy vegetables which bear year after year. Although the plants are started from seed, they are generally planted into permanent beds which will continue to produce for as long as one hundred years, although the best crops occur between the third and sixth years, and the beds are usually replanted after about ten years, as the stalks become smaller in size after this time.

The young and tender shoots are familiar to everyone. The vegetable

AGAINST PROHIBITION

Though the fruit of obviously incomplete organization, the list of directors of the newly formed Connecticut Division of the Association Against the Prohibition Amendment supplies convincing proof not only of the quality of citizenship now rapidly arraying itself against federal prohibition but of the fact that the day has passed when men hesitate to speak their minds on this vital question.

Here are many of the practical leaders in Connecticut's civic, social and industrial life openly aligning themselves with the active opponents of the condition brought about by the experiment of Constitutional prohibition. They are men of impeccable repute and of the highest standing. Their opinions are not to be flouted. Individually their influence is important; collectively it cannot fail to be enormous.

It is doubtful if there are in the whole state of Connecticut two individuals whose views on public matters carry greater weight with the people of this state than former Senator George F. McLean and former Governor Marcus H. Holcomb. Their deeply considered subscription to the belief that the Eighteenth amendment must be repealed in the interest of the national well being, of temperance and good order cannot fail to bring to thousands of Connecticut people the realization that the prohibitory experiment has failed and that the liquor problem still demands solution—and more desperately than ever before.

In exact line with the constructive purposes of the Association Against the Eighteenth Amendment was the advice at Hartford last night of Pierre S. Dupont, chairman of the executive committee of the association, that Connecticut, as well as other states, should prepare for the repeal of the amendment by adopting well in advance such regulatory legislation as will, in the judgment of its people, best serve the cause of true temperance.

There are of course many who will regard any such action, say by the next Legislature, as premature. We cannot agree with that point of view. The subject is a tremendous one. It has received little study at the hands of those who ought to be most interested in it because many of these have been stubbornly determined not to admit that there will ever be any state regulation again. It is now, however, becoming increasingly certain that eventually the Eighteenth amendment will be repealed. And every good citizen will be anxious that Connecticut, in that day, shall be prepared to meet the exigency with the best liquor code on earth.

NO KICK IN IT

The charge that several Sound steamers passed the burning freighter Thames off Sound Beach last week without stopping to render aid and even without lending the assistance of their searchlights in such rescue work as conceivably might have been going on in the surrounding waters, is, if true, a sad commentary on the state of the sea ethics of coastwise sailors.

Land folks universally have the conviction that the seaman's eagerness to go to the rescue of his imperiled fellows is one of the finest ornaments of civilization as well as one of its most deeply rooted principles. Yet here, apparently, is an evidence of either stupidity or indifference or both which would seem to indicate that those who go up and down in coastwise steamers may belong in a different category from those who sail the oceans.

Strangely enough, an inexplicable lassitude and uninterest appears to surround this tragedy of the Sound in most all its ramifications. Sixteen lives are lost under the most distressingly dramatic circumstances; blood clot. If the x-ray shows this, what do you advise me to do?"

Answer:—If a blood clot has formed on your brain I would advise a fasting regime similar to that outlined in my Cleansing Diet Course. It is possible, however, that you may have injured some of the vertebrae in your neck when the refrigerator lid fell on you. This often occurs in accidents to the head and may result in a sick and dizzy feeling. I would advise you to have a careful examination made by some good osteopathic doctor.

(Anemia)

Question:—O. D. asks: "What special food if any should predominate in the diet of an anemic person?"

Answer:—Anemic patients should use plenty of cooked and raw non-starchy vegetables together with a fairly liberal supply of protein food, such as lean meat, eggs, etc.

(Forty Not Too Late)

Question:—G. C. writes: Kindly print in your column if it is safe for a woman of forty to bear her first child.

Answer:—Only in exceptional cases is it unsafe for a woman to have a first child after forty. Usually there is no danger if the prospective mother will train herself properly for this important event. I have prepared a special series of articles dealing with the care of the prospective mother, and I will be glad to send them to the one who has asked this question, or to any others interested.

ENVOY'S DAUGHTER MARRIED IN PARIS

Colorful Ceremony in Famous Notre Dame Church; Historical Coincidence.

Paris, April 30.—(AP)—An historical coincidence which recalls the story of Mary Queen of Scots, contributed today to give unusual glamor to the marriage at the famous church of Notre Dame de Paris of Miss Anne Tyrell, daughter of Lord Tyrell of Avon, British ambassador to France.

It is several years since a social event brought such an outpouring of the high lights of international society. The French government was represented by high officials, all the members of the diplomatic corps attended, and leaders of French, English and American society were present in large numbers.

The bridegroom was one of the secretaries of the British Embassy, Mr. Adrian Holman, the bride, like her father, is well known in the United States. A business-like girl in the early twenties, a trained secretary who can run a typewriter and keep a letter file in perfect order, Miss Tyrell has twice visited the United States, once with her father when as a member of the staff of Lord Grey of Fallodenan he stayed at Washington on an official mission from August 1919 to June, 1920.

Historical Coincidence.—Mary Queen of Scots enters into the story because Miss Tyrell is the first British woman to be wedded at Notre Dame since the romantic Scottish queen was married there to Francis, the second, the sixteen year old King of France.

Camilla and Mary Esther, the two little daughters of Walter Evans Edge, the American ambassador, were among the little company of children who held the long train of the bride as the bridal party moved slowly up the aisle of stately Notre Dame.

The marriage ceremony was performed by Father Gabriel Meade, rector of St. Joseph's church for English-speaking Roman Catholics. They left shortly afterward on a honeymoon to Morocco.

SCORES FARM BOARD

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—The Federal Farm Board and the agricultural marketing act were attacked as part of a fantastic dream of stabilization and the repeal of the act was urged today by Daniel A. Millet, Denver stock man and banker, in addressing the Chamber of Commerce of the United States. The program for the day also included a speech by Alexander H. Legge, chairman of the farm board.

The law creating the board, Millet said, violates in its intent and purpose "the sound and proven rule of business that penalty or loss must rest on the loser." This he termed an ever present controlling factor tending to promote efficiency. "The men in the great marketing and distributing businesses of this country with their enormous investment of capital, in plant and organization, fear the workings of this act," he said.

"It is evident that in the long run they cannot compete with their government which they support and supply with funds through taxes— which taxes are used to their undoing."

BED CLOTHING AFIRE

Brockton, Mass., April 30.—(AP)—John Condon, 23, was nearly suffocated early today, when he fell asleep while smoking in bed. The bed clothing smoldered for some time before he wakened, nearly overcome by the fumes. Condon threw the sheets and blankets from his bedroom window on the second floor and went back to sleep, while Emeria Pigeon, under whose window the bedding landed, called the fire department.

Queer Twists In Day's News

New York — Douglas Fairbanks, who is fairly proficient with drive mashie, niblick and the like, may be expected to improve his game. For the next few days he will watch Bobby Jones and Walker cup teammates hitting golf balls into the Atlantic ocean and perhaps assist them. He's going abroad on the same boat as the team. He played a pre-voyage practice round with George von Elm and Leo Diegel.

Paris—Colored dresses for tennis are disapproved by the queen of the courts. Some girls intend to wear pastel shades at Wimbledon, but Mrs. Helen Willis Moody says: "After all, white's best."

Great Neck, N. Y.—Until a real spring day, a novelty this year, tempted here recently, Thyra Samter Winslow, writer, had not been on a bicycle since her girlhood in Fort Smith, Ark. Now she is laid up at home, her right foot in a plaster cast. She fell off and broke her big toe.

Westfield, N. J.—Mrs. Elizabeth Bellingrath, 73, has had her first airplane ride, all the more enjoyable because the pilot was her grandson, Robert Neal Buck, 16, who made his first solo flight March 15, got a license April 10 and then took dad up.

Wilmington, Del.—A 125-foot all steel diesel-engine yacht is to be built for Edsel Ford. The pilot house will be removable so the craft can go to Detroit from the Atlantic ocean, clearing all the bridges in the New York state barge canal.

London—A hobo of other days is prominently mentioned for poet laureate. There are indications of the possibility that John Masefield, who has been a tramp, seaman, ship's cook and farm hand, will succeed the late Robert Bridges.

Millville, N. J.—A committee of the school board has decided to dispense with the services of teachers who smoke cigarettes.

Philadelphia—State subsidiary of early marriage is favored by Judge William E. Lewis, who for four months has been hearing disputes between husbands and wives in which economic condition has been a large factor. "The average young man cannot afford to undertake the responsibilities of home life," he remarked. "Why not then assist-

The "Run-down looking" Factory is a poor Advertisement for its Products.

A great deal is said on the subject of keeping homes attractively painted, but less is said about business buildings, industrial plants, etc.

Side by side, you will see one spic and span, well kept, well painted production plant, and just across the street, an unsightly one that hasn't had a coat of paint as long as anybody in town can remember.

Here's a subject that deserves greater consideration! People judge the product by the appearance of the factory—pass judgment on the success and prosperity of the firm as well, and the manner in which it conducts business. By all means, have that shabby plant Painted Up.

FISHING BOATS COLLIDE

Moston, April 30.—(AP)—A mishap today delayed the departure of the schooner Gertrude L. Thebaud on her maiden voyage as a fisherman when she rammed another fishing vessel at the Boston fish pier.

The Thebaud, prospective challenger for the fisherman's trophy, now held by the Bludnose of Lunenburg, N. S., apparently was seriously damaged, but the other vessel, a small power craft, was kept afloat by the big Gloucesterman on whose stern she was impaled.

The mast of the smaller vessel, the Saint Joseph, was snapped off, close to her deck, and 35 to 50 feet of her starboard side crashed when she was jammed against the pier. Her crew unloading fish when the accident occurred escaped injury.

GYPSY KIDNAPERS

Boston, April 30.—(AP)—The kidnaping of a young wife and her 11-months-old daughter and two holdups netting a total of $870 by four gypsies, who traveled in an automobile with Illinois registration plates, were reported to police today.

The kidnaped mother was the wife of Pette Marks, of the West End, who police said was a member of a gypsy tribe, and from whose home the quartet was reported to have stolen $400. The other holdup, which occurred a short time before, was in the home of Ephraim Marks in the North End.

Three persons were taken into custody by police as suspicious persons in their search for the kidnapers.

PHONE TO AUSTRALIA

Canberra, Australia, April 30.—(AP)—The official opening of the London-Canberra wireless telephone was entirely successful today.

Prime Minister Scullin of the Australian commonwealth and William Hughes, wartime premier in Australia, heard every word of Prime Minister MacDonald and David Lloyd George, the Liberal leader, whose remarks from London were broadcast all over the commonwealth.

After Mr. MacDonald had finished, the connection was switched to the residence of David Lloyd George, coalition premier in war days, who talked to William Hughes, wartime premier in Australia.

39 SAILORS DOOMED

Tokyo, April 30.—(AP)—The Japanese freighter, Luzon Maru which drifted on the rocks near Cape Inubo, Ibaraki Prefecture, was breaking up today under the pounding of high seas which felled the attempts of rescue ships to remove her crew of 39.

The wreck was only a quarter of a mile off-shore and the distress signals displayed by the men aboard the freighter were easily seen in nearby villages. Fishermen tried in vain to approach the wreck in small boats. A naval plane from the Kasumigaura base circles overhead, unable to help.

The Luzon Maru, which ran aground earlier in the day while enroute from Otaru to Yokohama, has a net tonnage of 2,969 and a length of 345 feet.

To Address Mothers

Mrs. Francis T. Maxwell of this city will address the Congregation of Union Congregational Church at a special Mother's Day service on Sunday morning, May 11, at 10:30.

This year's service will be the most interesting celebration yet held and every mother of Union church is sure to be present if at all possible.

Mothers will have a prominent part in the entire program and the executive committee of the Union Church Mothers' Club of which Mrs. George Herzog is president, has kindly consented to make arrangements for this unique service.

There will be special music and special cars will be provided for transportation. The little children will be cared for during the hour in the church social rooms by competent attendants.

Perch Season May 1

The Tolland County Game Warden announced today that all ponds throughout the country would be open for perch and pickerel fishing, Thursday, May 1. Many local fishermen are getting prepared for the big day.

Memorial Day Speaker

Rev. Edward L. Nield, pastor of Baptist Church will be the speaker at the Memorial Day exercises to be held in Talbot Park, Thursday, May 1.

Combined Merchants Meeting

There will be a combined meeting of the merchants of Rockville who co-operated in the recent exposition and fashion show in Town Hall and the Rockville Chamber of Commerce at "The Rockville" tonight.

The meeting will be preceded by a supper, which will start promptly at 6:30 o'clock and will be served in the main dining room.

At the supper, there will be a discussion which will center on the subject of holding another merchants exposition and fashion show, as the one previously held was a complete success. It is expected a merchants division of the Chamber of Commerce will be organized tonight.

Following the supper, beginning at 7:30, reports will be read and new officers named.

Mass. Veterans Here

Massachusetts veterans of the World War have been in this city this week selling what is known as the commercial rose, and the local Legion members feel it is conflicting with the annual sale of poppies.

The proceeds of the local poppy sale which starts in this city on May 24 goes for the benefit of relief for departing needy World War veterans and their families.

The money derived from the sale of the flowers sold by the out of town men, goes in their own pockets and the local men feel the money should not be taken of the state, as each state cares for its own disabled veterans. Local people are asked to wait until the official sale of poppies start in this city before they purchase from out of town veterans. It is but fair to the local Post and its Auxiliary.

To Entertain Grand Chief

The regular meeting of Damon Temple, Pythian Sisters, was held on Monday evening and announcement was made that Grand Chief, Mrs. Nellie Bailey of Durham and her staff would make an official visit to the local Temple on Monday evening, May 12. A supper will be served on that evening at I. O. O. F. Hall at 6 o'clock, to which all members are invited to attend.

Following the meeting on Monday night there was a social hour and refreshments were served. The social prize was awarded, Mrs. Freda Scheiner.

Damon Temple degree team initiated a class of candidates and it is expected another class will be taken in at a near future meeting.

Lions Meeting May 7

The annual meeting of the Rockville Lions Club will be held on Wednesday, May 7, at the Rockville Hotel. Election of officers will take place and reports for the past year will be read. At the close of the past year will be read. At the close of the business meeting the members will hear H. B. Baldwin of Hartford, a study technician in the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Department. He has been making a study of local traffic conditions at the request of Mayor A. E. Waite and has submitted a report with blue prints, which is now under the consideration of the city government.

Mr. Baldwin will speak on "Phases of Motor Problems." The club has for some time been interested in traffic conditions here and have discussed the matter with Mayor A. E. Waite and Alderman Murphy early in the winter.

PLANE LANDS ON ROOF, FLIERS ARE UNINJURED

Le Bourget, France, April 30.—(AP)—Drienne Bolland, French girl who flew over the Chilean Andes in 1923, today landed her plane on the roof of a big shed when telegraph wires tossed it out of its course as she made a forced landing.

Her motor failed during the air baptism of a woman passenger and she was unable to clear the wires. She steadied the plane sufficiently to set it down on the roof and in order to avoid rolling off maneuvered to turn the machine on its nose.

Meanwhile she threw her arm around the frightened woman beside her to prevent her falling or jumping out. The plane was wrecked but the pilot and passenger, uninjured, descended on a ladder.

SEES GLIDER RECORD

San Diego, April 30.—(AP)—Jack Barstow, glider pilot, was soaring above San Diego in a sail plane today, bent upon unofficially breaking the world's record for motorless flight.

At 1 a. m., Barstow had been in the air 12 hours and 16 minutes. The world's record, established in Germany is 14 hours, 45 minutes.

Taking off shortly before 1 o'clock yesterday afternoon, Barstow unofficially broke the American record at 9:50 o'clock last night when he passed the mark of 9 hours 5 minutes and 32.5 seconds established here several months ago by Hawley Bowles.

Barstow's flight was an unofficial one and he carried no barograph.

ATTACK CRIME RINGS

Washington, April 30.—(AP)—The Department of Justice has adopted a policy of co-operating with local authorities in the campaign to break up criminal rings throughout the country and is supported in its action by the administration.

United States attorneys acting under orders have joined local state and municipal authorities and other government departments in attacking members of criminal rings from every possible angle.

The department seeks to extend and develop this system.

While the Federal government has failed to lodge sufficient charges against Al Capone to send him to prison, for instance, the campaign has resulted in the conviction of his brother Ralph in Chicago on charges of income tax fraud.

The Department of Justice, while aware that criminal rings are not composed exclusively of prohibition law violators is planning an especially extensive drive against that form of law violation as well as against all known criminal rings in the larger cities of the country.

Britain's longest bridge is the Tay Bridge, which is over two miles in length.

The Husband Hunter

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Natalie Converse tries to conquer her jealousy over her husband, Alan. But when he receives a call to the home of Bernadine Lamont, a popular night club hostess, she demands that he refuse to go. He leaves, after explaining that Bernadine is the widow of a war buddy who had saved his life.

The actress surprises Alan by saying that her doctor has given her only a short time to live and requesting him to take care of her son, Bobby. He promises and tries to tell Natalie but she rebuffs his silence. He confides in his secretary, Philippa West, who has been waiting for this opportunity to further her own scheme.

When Natalie next comes to the office, Philippa manages to tell her about helping pick out toys for "darling Bobby" and shows a letter from Bernadine in which Alan's visits to Bobby are mentioned. Natalie leaves in a rage, without explaining to Alan, hoping for a reconciliation, but her accusations drive him back to the office.

He finds Philippa there and, after working several hours, Alan takes her to dinner and then home. The girl drops a syncretistic pose, and to arouse Alan's interest, indulges in a flirtation with Geoffrey Norman, who has come to invite Alan and Natalie for a week-end at their Lake Placid camp. This trip to camp renews Alan's love for Natalie and they forget their quarrels.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XI.

Monday came. It didn't matter if you were going to be married or hanged, it came just the same.

For Alan Converse, it brought a rush of work. But he found a moment at the beginning of the day to wonder if he hadn't over-estimated Philippa West's attractiveness.

He was observing her closely while she took dictation from him. Accurate as ever. Her efficiency coming close to defeating its own purpose by being so perfect it almost escaped notice.

For it was her work he was comparing with anything of Natalie's. It was her appearance. Not a touch of glory about her. Natalie—the memory of her beauty hung round him like a fragrant scent. It was unbelievable that she should doubt her allure—should be jealous of other women.

Those hours when her loveliness had been less than nothing to him had slipped out of his mind before their week-end at Lake Placid with the Normans in their $30,000 "hut," was over.

Philippa sensed his mood, knew she was at the nadir of her appeal for him. She could cheerfully have throttled "that high hat Mrs. Norman," whom she blamed for taking Alan away and throwing him into the intimate company of his wife.

Unwisely, she held her anger intact until she reached home. Betsey felt her to have expended it in some way that would have compelled her to exercise a measure of self-restraint toward her parents. They could not compete with her in a battle of words. Thus, by letting herself go against them, she deprived herself of discipline, permitted a dangerous habit to grow—that of speaking her mind fully, once she got started.

"Will you, Philippa darling, just run up and sit a minute with Uncle Frank, while Mammie delivers some work?" her mother asked her when dinner was finished.

"I will not," Philippa answered shortly. She did not even honor her mother with a glance. "I'm going to do my nails."

"Do your nails?" her father snorted. "I suppose you're gonna put more of that bloomin' red stuff on 'em. It would do them more good, and you too, young lady, if you'd stick 'em in the dishpan once in a while."

Philippa answered with unbridled disrespect. "Oh, shut up," she said.

"Philippa," her mother began, only to be cut short instantly.

"Don't 'Philippa' me," the daughter cried, pushing back her chair until it banged against the radiator, and getting to her feet in preparation for an exit on the last word. "Do you think I've nothing to do but sit up there in that stuffy hole with a mummy like Frank Switzer?"

She laughed harshly. "What do you know about the grind in a business office? What, I'd like to know? And just because I've got to keep myself looking decent, I'm insulted." She glared at her father.

Both parents were silent, shocked by her violent temper. "You might be somewhere in the world today if you'd kept your nails clean," Philippa raved on, "instead of being stuck here in this beastly place."

Her father gasped. "Beastly."

"Say, who pays the rent for it, me fine father." His wife pulled at his arm beseechingly. She knew where Philippa got her temper. The father wasn't so unreasonable. Philippa always got the best of him, but he could say bitter things too; she didn't want them quarreling.

Again because of her mother's misguided interference, Philippa missed the discipline she should have received. She turned and left them as if they were too contemptible for further notice from her.

"She's tired," her mother apologized for her; "guess she does work hard at the office."

"Wouldn't hurt her to help you a little with the dishes," the father grumbled. "Where's me pipe?"

Mrs. West washed the dishes and wiped them too. Her husband took peeps at her over his evening paper book his head. Martha'd been prettier in her day than her daughter was now. Too bad she'd had to work so hard. But wiping dishes was no man's job.

"I'd go up and sit with Frank," he volunteered at last; "only I can't smoke me pipe."

Mrs. West came over and put an arm around his thick shoulders. "I know," she said softly. "It's too bad the smell of a pipe makes him sick; it might cheer him to smoke one. But wouldn't you enjoy yours just as much if you didn't call it 'me pipe'?"

Mr. West looked up teasingly at her. "No half," he declared.

Martha sighed. "It's such a little thing," she said, and patted his shoulder; "but I expect it means a great deal to Philippa."

"Philippa, huh? Has she been complainin' of my grammar again? What ails that girl, anyhow? Is she just plain contrary? Mammie tells she took a box of cigarets up to Frank. She knows well enough he's got no use for tobacco."

"No, she didn't know," Martha said; "she thought it was just a pipe he couldn't stand."

Mr. West snorted. "Me eye! Why didn't she take him peanuts? She was up to something, that's why, and she didn't give a continental damn about Frank Switzer."

Mrs. West kept silent, remembering what Mammie had said. But why couldn't they believe that Philippa had had a kindly impulse?

Had she seen Philippa at the moment, polishing her nails with a tury fairly burned them, and had she been able to read the girl's mind, she might have agreed with those who doubted Philippa's kindness.

By morning Philippa was still resentful of Alan's evident change of heart, but she had brought herself to a much calmer regard for it. Natalie's hold upon him wouldn't last, she believed. But how about her own? That was what troubled her. Had she missed her moment? Should she have tried harder to bring matters to a crisis?

That night he had come home with her. "You little fool," she said to herself before her uncertain mirror; "he wanted you then. He wouldn't have gone away with Natalie if he'd let her kiss you."

She said this, but she wasn't absolutely certain of it. Neither was she convinced that Alan was lost to her. She took a little extra care in dressing.

At breakfast her mother noticed she had on her newest dress, one that hadn't been bought for office wear. She undertook to offer some advice on the subject of clothes.

"Honey, I don't think you ought to wear that dress," she said heartily. "It's too... too fussy."

Philippa frowned, but she bit back the sharp retort that rose to her lips.

"You said it was a dinner dress, didn't you?" her mother went on, "right? It doesn't look good going to an office."

Philippa laughed, a short contemptuous laugh. "It's all right," she said; "no one's going to notice. And if I don't wear it at the office, I probably won't wear it at all."

She was detecting the bitterness of disappointment behind her remark, said nothing more. She wanted to offer sympathy, but did not know how.

Once Philippa had brought a girl from the office home with her. Mrs. West had heard them talking, heard what they said. The girl was from the west. She was frankly bemoaning the dearth of men friends in New York.

"Men are the right of us, men to the left of us, and not a man to buy us a drink," she complained.

Mrs. West, taking the girl seriously, had been proud of Philippa's reply. "You're wrong, Nan," she said; "there are plenty of that kind."

"Yes?" Nan had drawled. "Well, how do you meet 'em?"

"You don't. That's why you're here gabbing with me. You want something different, and so do I."

"Yes?" she said. "Well, I'll have to go back home for it. All the hombies I meet here are in the office, and they're married, or just out of college—equally hopeless in either case."

To that Philippa had not replied. But her silence hid a feeling of secret superiority over Nan. If a girl hadn't sense enough to pick out her man... well!

Mrs. West recalled that conversation this morning, as she watched Philippa eat her bird-like breakfast. She felt sorry for her. It was hard on a girl not to have plenty of boy friends, she mentally agreed.

Philippa, on her way to the office, felt sorry for herself. But the new thing was very becoming. It ought to be a revelation to Alan Converse—make him realize that she was not an office grub, but a butterfly in the chrysalis stage. Perhaps it would even... her hopes soar high, and stopped in the lobby florist shop to buy a gardenia.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

By SISTER MARY

When eggs are plentiful, there is no more attractive way of serving them than in an omelet. No matter what time of day it is wanted, it appears to good advantage.

There is no mysterious secret or indescribable trick connected with omelet making. Anyone who is willing to measure accurately and take the trouble of cooking carefully can make a perfect omelet.

An omelet must never be allowed to stand at any stage of its preparation. It must be mixed quickly, cooked at once and served on a hot dish as soon as done.

With two types of omelets and their numerous variations the hostess has a wide choice. The French omelet is made by beating the whole eggs while the puffing omelet is made separately. The French omelet usually is served with a filling of some sort spread over it just before folding. The puffing omelet often is served with jelly or a sauce and is poured around it after folding. However, there is no "set" rule and the types are used interchangeably. The puffing omelet seems a bit more impressive and interesting when served, but it is no harder to make than the plain one.

The addition of tapioca to a puffing omelet helps to keep it from falling and is a modern innovation.

As in all egg and milk mixtures, the cooking temperature is important. Too intense heat will cause the omelet to be watery, leathery and tough. The omelet pan must be hot enough to begin to cook the mixture at once and an even heat must be maintained. The pan is not enough when the butter used to grease it begins to bubble.

French Omelet

Four eggs, 4 tablespoons milk or hot water, ½ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon white pepper, ¼ teaspoon butter.

Beat eggs together until well mixed but not light. Add milk and seasoning and turn at once into omelet pan or iron spider thoroughly covered with butter.

Pour Omelet mixture gently into the pan, taking care not to scatter the butter. As bubbles form, prick them with a fork and stir the top lightly to keep smooth and insure even cooking. As omelet becomes firm on the bottom, lift edges gently with a fork and tip pan slightly to loosen omelet from the bottom. Cook over a low flame until firm. Place in a hot oven or under the flame for one minute to dry the top. When done, hold the pan by the handle and make a cut with spatula through the center at right angles to the handle. Be careful not to cut through the omelet. Run spatula around edges to be sure they are free from pan. Place spatula under section of omelet nearest handle and fold over other half, tipping the pan the same time and sliding to a hot platter.

Puffing Omelet

Four eggs, 2 tablespoons minute tapioca, ¼ cup milk, ¼ teaspoon salt, ¼ teaspoon pepper, 3 tablespoons butter.

Add salt and tapioca to milk and cook in double boiler for 15 minutes. Remove from heat and add yolks of eggs beaten until thick and lemon beaten until stiff and dry. Pour into hot buttered omelet pan and cook and fold as in preceding recipe.

HEALTH

DANGER OF LEAD POISONING LESS IN INDUSTRY THAN FORMERLY

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Lead is associated with most modern industries. It is one of the most valuable and at the same time one of the most dangerous metallic substances.

In an attempt to study the relationship of lead poisoning to occupation, Dr. F. L. Hoffman found that during the two years (1925-1927) there were 393 deaths from lead poisoning in the United States registration area. Of these, 216 were in painters, 35 in laborers, 22 in lead workers, 13 in metal workers, 13 in farmers, 12 in printers, 7 in paint manufacturing, 6 in miners, 6 in carpenters, 6 plumbers, 5 in electric storage battery workers, 3 in glass workers, and 1 in potters.

It is obvious therefore that the painting industry leads all others as a hazardous occupation in relationship to lead poisoning. More than half of those concerned were painters. The small number of deaths among electric storage battery makers was surprising and is taken to indicate that death from lead poisoning in this industry is common, whereas some absorption of lead is common.

Formerly the pottery industry was one of those most seriously concerned with lead poisoning, but reforms introduced into the trade have reduced the hazard to practically nothing.

It should be possible to lower still more the number of deaths from lead poisoning in all of the industries. The rate today is from one-half to one-third what it used to be. In the meantime, new industries develop with new lead hazards, such as occurred for example when tetra-ethyl lead gasoline was first introduced into trade.

However, modern industry has learned the value of investigating hazards in the research laboratory before undertaking practical application or use of any new device, substance, or method in modern life. It is reasonable to believe that the number of cases of poisoning

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

To talk to a mother nowadays about nice manners in children is like carrying coals to Pittsburgh. Nearly every mother now realizes that courtesy and politeness are essential in children.

Civilization has reached the stage where the people who count won't tolerate rudeness, and innate gentleness can't be learned in later years. Like all the virtues it must be taught young, very young. Otherwise it is likely to be a guess, a veneer, instantly discernible by the discriminating.

Everybody likes a child who is mannerly. No one can stand a selfish, impudent, or rude one. But the important thing is that the child's success in every walk of life later on is going to depend largely on the early training he is given in this respect in his young years. This is paramount. It is then, the reason why I urge every mother who is jealous for her child's future to do everything in her power now to develop in him that essential thoughtfulness and courtesy to others that marks the gentleman—and needless to say, the lady.

Tolerance is Manners

Now there is one underlying principle of good manners that is seldom mentioned in books on the subject but which I believe to be priceless. It is called by other names than good manners, but it may surprise some to hear me call it "tolerance."

Tolerance is responsible for more rudeness, unkindness and cruelty among children than almost any other of the imperfect complexes. Prejudice, too, often begins at home.

You, dear mother, may heartily dislike your neighbor and consequently your neighbor's children.

It is no secret from your family, of course, for dislike spreads like small-pox and it is a well-known fact that the greatest group-binder on earth is this very thing. We're never so patriotic, for instance, as when we are hating another country.

It is the same with the home. Your hatred as the children's hates, your disapprovals theirs; your jealousies, prejudices, quarrels find instant sponsors in the children.

Is it fair? In common parlance, I ask you.

Leave Their Minds Open

Absolutely not. Give the children their chance to be open-minded and tolerant. Don't clutter up their souls with the fotsam of your own. Leave them clean.

If you and your little boy or girl on friendly terms with your enemy next door, go into conference with yourself. Try to figure it out this way. "I can't stand that family, but which is more important to me: To satisfy personal spite or dislike, or have my son grow up with a few distillations about people as possible. Shall I shake his faith in humanity?"

All this, of course, with the reservation a mother is entitled to as the real fitness of these companions.

Tolerance of race, of color, of nationality, of religion! Never let

NEW LOCK OPENED

Amsterdam, Holland, April 30.—(AP)—Queen Wilhelmina, by simply pulling a handle, today opened the gates of a new lock at Ymuiden in the ship canal which connects Amsterdam with the North Sea enabling the biggest liners to proceed to the Dutch port.

The lock which took ten years to build at a cost of 18,000,000 guilders, (about $7,000,000) is said to be the biggest of its kind in the world and capable of accommodating the largest vessel yet built or contemplated.

The Queen, with other members of the royal family, traveled to Ymuiden by the new liner Johan Van Oldenarneld and later took a short trip on the North Sea.

TO COMBINE BUREAUS.

New Haven, April 30.—(AP)—The outstanding feature of today's session of the 20th annual meeting of the Connecticut Conference of Social Workers were the amalgamation of the Connecticut Company on social legislation with the Connecticut Welfare Association and demand for a repeal at the next Legislature of the present law empowering loan companies to charge 3½ per cent. interest per month, amounting to a total of 42 per cent. per year.

MINISTER, RUN-DOWN IN HEALTH, GAINS 7 LBS. IN 3 WEEKS

Rev. W. H. Taylor writes, "After a 7 weeks' revival campaign I was entirely run-down and losing flesh rapidly. I decided to give Ironton Yeast a 3 weeks' trial. After 2 weeks I found my strength returning and the tired feeling gone. In 3 weeks I had gained 7 lbs. and was myself again."

Imagine just 3 weeks to change from a "skinny" tired person to a strong, well-filled-out man or woman. Ugly hollows vanish. Broomstick limbs become round and chubby. Tired feeling disappears. Bleached skin clears.

Only when Yeast is Ironton is it more effective—for Ironton is used to bring out the weight-building and strengthening values of Yeast. Pleasant-tasting Tablets. Safe for everybody. Never cause gas or bloating, no harmful drugs. Go to any druggist today and get a full size treatment of Ironton Yeast. If after this generous trial you are not delighted, money back instantly from manufacturer.—Adv.

GILEAD

Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Hutchinson and daughter Miss Lydia of Manchester visited local relatives Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Hibbard called at E. E. Foote's Monday morning. Mr. and Mrs. Hibbard spent the week-end at their cottage at Black Point and while there, Mrs. Hibbard fell down the stairs and received painful injuries, fortunately no bones were broken.

The time of the church service will remain on Standard time. Morning service at 10:30 a. m., church school at 9:45 and the evening Christian Endeavor service at 7:30. The rural mail carrier is on daylight saving time now.

The Ladies Aid Society will meet with Mrs. W. N. Hill's, Wednesday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. James Moran of New London were Sunday visitors at Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Lyman's. They took Mr. and Mrs. Lyman for an automobile ride to Willimantic where they called upon Mr. and Mrs. Alpaugh and Mrs. Wood.

Mrs. Hart E. Buell is visiting in Talbotville with Mrs. Anna Moore and in Somers with her son Myron Gilbert and Mrs. Gilbert.

About three hundred attended the meeting of the Tri-County Christian Endeavor Union at the local church Sunday evening. The Hartford County Choral and Orchestral Society under the leadership of Prof. Munson presented a very excellent program and the good music was a great treat to the rural folks.

Mrs. Arnold Foote was the substitute teacher at the Hill school Monday. The teacher, Miss Fisher, was called home by the serious illness of her mother.

Miss Lovina A. Foote was unable to accompany her class of the Manchester High School on the Washington trip as she received an injury to her foot at the school Friday which incapacitated her for the time being.

HUSBAND WINS SUIT.

Paris, April 30.—(AP)—Nelson Morris of Chicago today won his suit against the managers of the Palace Music Hall who had disregarded his statement forbidding his wife, Jane Aubert, French actress, to appear on their stage.

The court awarded $2,000 damages, rejecting the manager's plea that the Morrises were married in the United States where the wife is not obliged to obey the husband.

Georgia has approximately 1,500,000 hogs.

CHILD'S GOES BACK TO OLD BUSINESS New York, April 30.—(AP)—William Childs is back in the restaurant business, beginning over again at 63.

The man who put his family name on the windows of 113 eating places, only to lose control of them a year ago, opened the first of a new chain of restaurants on Broadway last night.

He hopes to add 15 eating places a year. Forty years ago he and his brother started their first lunch room on Cortland street, in downtown New York.

There was a short business meeting of the Congregational church which was called at the close of the church service last Sunday to appoint the delegates for the sixtieth annual meeting of the Hartford East Association of Congregational churches.

The choir rehearsal will be held this evening at 7:30 o'clock instead of Thursday evening and will be held at the parsonage.

The Sunday school board will meet at the church next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss Edith Walker of Hartford will be present and demonstrate the teaching of a junior class in Sunday school.

Mr. Childs still lives on the 600-acre farm at Bernardsville, N. J., where he was born. Presumably he will follow the vegetarian diet attributed to him in the past, but his new restaurants, he says, will be neither meatless nor have calories and vitamins of each dish computed on the menu as they once were.

Seattle, April 30.—(AP)—Although disappointed because she failed to break her own world's record of 100 4-5 seconds for the women's 100-yard free style swimming event, Helen Madison of Seattle will start training immediately for the national outdoor championships in Los Angeles next July.

In the century distance of the Pacific Northwest swimming championships held last night, Miss Madison established a new Pacific coast record of 61.25 seconds, but failed to lower her world's mark.

8 Acres on Car Line 8 room house, barn, city water, sewer on street, 8 acres of land. This is a good bargain at $6,500.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below--and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 30 for the word if you unscramble it.

SENSE and NONSENSE

THE GAME. By Melville Sloan. This life's a grand and thrilling game. In which we all compete; Where some win wealth and honor and name; And others meet defeat. Aye, play the game and play it fair! Meet setbacks—with a smile! It is the traps and hazards, there, That make the game—worth-while!

The Sunday school teacher was patiently explaining the story of Noah and the ark to her small pupils. After a while she began asking questions concerning the story, and several questions were satisfactorily answered. Finally she asked: "Sue, for what purpose did Noah erect an altar and build a fire upon it?" "To burn his trash," was the prompt reply.

PREPARE FOR BIG HOP.

Paris, April 30.—(AP)—Reports at the Villacoublay Field today were that Dieudonne Coste, noted French flier, tomorrow will begin trial flights in his renovated plane Question Mark in preparation for a trans-Atlantic trip to New York. It was said Coste hoped to take off shortly after full moon May 12. Coste's test flights were said to have been spurred on by a report that the airplane Southern Cross, commanded by Captain Charles Kingsford Smith of Australia, was expected in Le Bourget from Amsterdam in a few days and would be ready to take off for New York at the same time as Coste.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

Not far away from the Times found a very pretty eating ground. It was an open garden where the tables all were free. "Course Clowdy then began to tease. Said he, "Oh gee, now can't we please sit down and eat right here. "Twill be as comfy as can be." The Travel Man just smiled a bit. "Sure! 'Tis a dandy place to sit," said he. "I'll buy you all a glass of milk. That will taste great. And then, with cheese and crackers too, that ought to tickle all of you." "You bet it will," one Tiny cried. "Oh, I can hardly wait!" A waiter waited on the bunch and helped them have a dandy lunch. Wee Scouty cut the Edam cheese and passed big shares around. They all made sandwiches real quick with crackers that were crisp and slick. Soon birds flew down and ate the crumbs that fell upon the ground. "Oh, I am going to find a pet,"

FRIENDS GIVE FAREWELL PARTY FOR PROCTORS

Vice Principal Here Leaving for Wellesley, Mass., May 10—Honored at Dinner.

Vice Principal and Mrs. Ralph Proctor were given a farewell dinner and bridge by several of their friends, at the home of Dr. and Mrs. John J. Allison, on Monday evening. When the couple arrived at Dr. Allison's residence thinking to take dinner alone with them, they were surprised to find there: Mr. and Mrs. Roy Buckler, Mr. and Mrs. William Stevenson, Mr. and Mrs. William Halsted, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Burch.

The Allison home was beautifully decorated for the occasion with cut flowers. The guests enjoyed a delicious steak dinner, catered by Mrs. Belcher.

During the dinner Mr. and Mrs. Proctor were presented with a two-candle burner pewter table-lamp, and a bouquet of spring flowers. It was very hard for Mr. and Mrs. Proctor to find appropriate words of thanks. They deeply regret leaving the many friends in Manchester. After dinner a very enjoyable evening was spent in playing bridge. Mrs. Roy Buckler won the ladies' prize and Arthur Burch the gentleman's prize.

Mr. and Mrs. Proctor are moving to Wellesley, Mass., May 10, where Mr. Proctor will assume the principalship of the Wellesley High school two days later.

GIVE SURPRISE SHOWER FOR MISS MAY BROWN

Miss May Brown, daughter of Mrs. Margaret Brown of Arch street, was pleasantly surprised last evening, while absent from her home for a short time to find that a party of her friends and neighbors had gathered with the purpose of giving her a kitchen shower. During Miss Brown's absence they speedily decorated the home with pink snapdragons and white lilies and adorned the dining table with pink flowers and crepe paper. The time following passed quickly with the aid of games, music, and unwrapping the useful gifts of pyrex, aluminum, and other wares.

Miss Brown will be married in June to John Porter of Hartford, who is also a native of "Bonnie Scotland."

JOHNSON-JOHNSON

Miss Anna Johnson, daughter of Andrew Johnson of Willimantic, was married this afternoon at two to Rudolph Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fritz Johnson of Clinton street. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Julius Hulteen at the parsonage of the Swedish Lutheran church in Hartford. The attendants were Miss Ellen Johnson, sister of the bridegroom, bridesmaid, and John H. Johnson, brother of the bride, best man.

The bride wore a gown of Alice blue georgette with hat to match and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies of the valley. The bridesmaid wore Duskey Pink chiffon, with black horse hair hat and old-fashioned bouquet.

The ceremony was followed by a dinner for the bridal party and parents of the young couple, served at Brigham's Inn, Mansfield. Mr. and Mrs. Johnson will leave early this evening on an unannounced automobile trip. On their return they will make their home in Rockville where the bridegroom is an agent for the John Hancock Insurance company. The bride has been honored with a shower here and several others in her home town, where for several years she has been a member of the office force of the Willimantic Thread company.

LOCAL AUTOIST HITS WOMAN IN PORTLAND
Evidently confused by the backing of a bus as she was crossing the road in Chidsealeve, at the sharp turn before entering Portland, an aged woman stepped into the path of an automobile driven by Mrs. Jane Aldrich, head nurse and acting superintendent of the Manchester Memorial hospital, shortly after two o'clock yesterday afternoon. Taken to the Middlesex hospital by Mrs. Aldrich, the woman, Miss Louise Hall, age 90, of Portland, was given a cursory examination by Dr. Charles B. Chedel, who said she suffered mostly from shock and bruises. Dr. Chedel said that two X-rays had been taken of the shoulder and foot but no fractures were disclosed. Her condition was not considered serious.

Mrs. Aldrich reported the accident to the Middletown police but was informed that it was not within their jurisdiction. In her version of the accident, Mrs. Aldrich said that a bus was immediately in front of her Chevrolet coupe as she was about to take the curve. The bus backfired, and Miss Hall, crossing the street, seemed to have her attention riveted on the bus, unaware of the oncoming automobile, which struck her to a glancing blow and knocked her to the ground.

Miss Myrtle D. Davis of 1180 Main street, new assistant public health nurse, from New Bedford, Mass., was riding with Mrs. Aldrich at the time of the accident.
