Band and Songsters to Take Part in Jubilee Program Tomorrow.

REPEAL AMENDMENT IS MORROW'S PLEA

acter of the people, the size of the community, the extent of the participation of the people in the exercise of their political rights are all important factors in the determination of how far a community can go in restricting individual liberty for human good.

Divided Government. "It is not my purpose to discuss in general the merits of prohibition as a policy. That, as I conceive it, is not the issue. The issue is whether it is practicable and in the public interest to apply that policy to the United States as a whole through the agency of the Federal government. It is a problem in government."

"The peculiar characteristic of the United States is its federal form. Under that form of government we look to our several states to perform certain government functions and to our Federal government to perform other governmental functions."

"Prior to 1919 it was the state governments that bore the principal responsibility for dealing with the liquor question. Such functions were rested upon the Federal government in connection with the liquor question were related to the exercise of its power over foreign and interstate commerce and its system of taxation."

"National prohibition went into effect throughout the whole United States on July 1, 1919, by a special wartime act of Congress and was continued after January 17, 1920, under the power conferred on Congress by the Eighteenth Amendment. We have now had ten years of experience by which to judge the new policy."

State Police Power. "Bear in mind that we had proceeded in this country for 130 years under the theory and the practice that the several states of the union were the government which directly touched the lives of the people. It was the states which had such organization as existed for the administration of criminal law in general. It was the states that had built up police forces which made enforcement of local criminal law possible."

"When the prohibition amendment, however, a vast new criminal jurisdiction was assumed by the federal government. This involved not only an organization of a new police force but what is even more important it involved a new attitude of the people toward the federal government and of the federal government toward the people. The extremely delicate and sensitive problem of interference with the individual liberty of a man for the sake of the social good of the community was thereafter dealt with not in terms of small communities, but in terms of a mighty nation of 125,000,000 people, with great climatic, racial and social divergences."

"In many states, where it is in accord with prevailing popular sentiment, national prohibition is generally believed to be successful. It is successful because of the active cooperation of the people and their officials. In other states, including those with the greatest populations, the system works badly because the people and their officials do not cooperate with the Federal agents and the Federal agents alone are not able to exercise effective control. In these states there exists resentment against the attempt to impose a control which the prevailing conscience of the people does not accept."

No Federal Solution. "It is well that large portions of our people should conceive of the Federal government as an alien and even a hostile power? Is it well to have as a result a lawless, unregulated liquor traffic, attended by a shocking corruption?"

"It is not fair to assume that all resentment against national prohibition is due to a desire for unlimited license to be intemperate. There is no community in the United States which desires that. The resentment is due to the feeling that an unreasonable control is being imposed."

"There are many problems in human living that are not susceptible of a final solution. The attitude of the community toward the traffic in liquor is such a problem."

Concurrent Power. "I am aware that the second section of the 18th amendment gives the Congress and the several states

"concurrent power" to enforce the amendment. I am aware the states can, if they desire, enforce within their own jurisdictions the prohibition which the Federal Constitution now prescribes as the policy for the whole United States.

"The fact remains, however, that the first section of the 18th amendment is operative in every hamlet in the land. It limits the power of all state legislative bodies and state officials. It invalidates every legislative act which authorizes or sanctions what the section prohibits."

"It has thus come to pass that states or subdivisions of states whose sympathy is not with the law, feel themselves relieved of responsibility for enforcement. They leave to an overburdened Federal government, with a wholly inadequate police force, the task of carrying out a great social reform which, before 1920, all the communities of the land in one way or another, were wrestling with."

Attitude Defined. "I bring you no panacea for this deplorable condition. I know of no magical solution. I cannot, however, stand before my friends and neighbors and ask for their suffrage without having them know my attitude toward the problem."

"First, I believe that the way out of the present difficulty is to recognize clearly the fundamental difference between the nature of the Federal government and the state government. I believe this involves repeal of the 18th Amendment and the substitution thereof of an amendment which will restore to the states the power to determine their policy toward the liquor traffic, and rest in the Federal government power to give all possible protection and assistance to those states that desire complete prohibition against invasion from the states that do not."

"If I should be elected to the United States Senate I should be prepared to vote for a resolution submitting to the several states an amendment to the constitution in any form that would accomplish the foregoing purpose. I do not believe that the fundamental difficulty can be reached by an amendment of the Volstead act."

For Generous Appropriations. "Second: The United States Senate, as one of the two branches of the National legislature has a part in determining the appropriations for Federal law enforcement. So far as the eighteenth amendment and the statutes thereunder are the law of the land, I favor generous appropriations for their enforcement."

"I favor the use of such appropriations, in the first place, for that portion of enforcement which is preeminently the duty of the Federal government. This means that the Federal government would first direct its efforts to keeping liquor from coming into the country and from passing into interstate commerce. While there is no doubt of the power of the Federal government under the eighteenth amendment to perform local police duty in the suppression of the liquor traffic, it should be remembered that it has a vast task in the purely Federal field. Until it performs that task it might well leave all local police duty with the states who have concurrent power with the Federal government in the local field. Such a method of enforcement would distribute responsibility where it belongs."

"In the foregoing discussion I have tried to avoid the words 'wet' and 'dry.' It does not help much in a solution of a problem to label men. Men labelled wet may be as much opposed to the saloon as men labelled dry."

Saloon Must Not Come Back. "The saloon must not come back. The people of the United States are rid of the saloon—and well rid of it. But in the process of ridding ourselves of the saloon a wholly unregulated liquor traffic has grown up in this country. One group blames it on disobedience to the law. It is not in such a spirit that a solution will be found."

"The solution will be found when we realize that the issue before us is a government problem. How can the control of the liquor traffic be divided between federal and state governments in a way that will recognize the habits and sentiments and moral principles of the people in distant parts of the country? I see no way of settling that question satisfactory without a further change in the Constitution."

"We hear on all sides that it is impossible to amend the Federal Constitution. It is difficult but not impossible. Four times within the last 20 years the Constitution has been amended. It can be amended again. x x x

"I look forward to the time when the old leaders in the temperance movement—the churches and the schools and the social workers—will appreciate that they have not reached a final solution of a world-old problem by the present eighteenth amendment. I look forward to the time when the great moral teachers of the country will realize that in the battle for a great social reform, there was wisdom in the old system of experimenting in 48 laboratories rather than in one."

TEXACO-ETHYL

THE "DRY" ETHYL GASOLINE

The Texas Company announces that now Texaco, the original "dry" gas, is available with the Ethyl compound. It means the linking of two famous names in motor fuels to produce one of the finest premium anti-knock gasolines ever offered the motoring public—Texaco-Ethyl!

The Ethyl compound in itself cannot perform miracles. It's the gasoline base that makes the difference in Ethyls. The better the fuel you begin with, the better the resulting Ethyl Gasoline.

The new and better Texaco, the original "dry" gas that vaporizes instantly, plus Ethyl, equals the last word in automobile fuels. Texaco, the driest of dry gases, permits complete and uniform diffusion of Ethyl through the manifold into the cylinders. It creates higher standards of pick-up, power, speed and mileage for any car, old or new. This new premium grade is now available at Texaco Service Stations to all motorists who desire a superior anti-knock gasoline. Try it today!

LIFTS FISHING BAN

Portland, Maine, May 15—(AP)—Governor William Tudor Gardner today lifted the ban on fishing which he proclaimed on Monday because of the forest fire hazard throughout the state. The governor's action was taken after he talked with forest commissioners at Augusta by telephone this noon and came close on the heels of rain which started last night and by noon was falling throughout most of the state.

MONARCHISTS BURY THEIR DIFFERENCES

Now United in Portugal to Place a King Back Again on the Throne.

Lisbon, May 16.—(AP)—The wide gap that divided Portuguese monarchists has finally been bridged over.

Followers of Dom Manuel II of Braganza, the last King of Portugal, and those of Prince Nuno Duarte, the 28-year-old Pretender of the other branch of Braganza, have agreed to bury the hatchet in order to build a Monarchist dam against the rising tide of Republican Socialism.

The reconciliation is the consequence of King Manuel's lukewarm enthusiasm for the "cause" and his disinclination to take a leading part in the movements for the restoration of the monarchy in Portugal. The ex-Monarchist, it is understood, is happy among his books at his Fullwell Park Palace in London, which was bequeathed to him by the late Duke D'Orleans, his uncle, and has repeatedly rejected the pleas of his adherents to lead revolts against the Republican regime in Portugal.

In contrast to the literary-minded sovereign, his royal relative, the Austrian-educated Prince Nuno Duarte, is consumed with ambition to regain the tarnished escutcheon of his ancestors who ruled over this country for nearly 500 years.

Students His Backers
The supporters of Duarte are recruited from the student class and the intelligentsia. Girls are devoted to the dashing young prince, whose miniature portrait they carry in medallions around their necks.

Don Nuno, who was born 23 years ago at Sebestein, Lower Austria, is a handsome youth. He is the direct scion of the legitimist branch of the Dynasty of Braganza, which settled down in Austria after Dom Joao VI, the Pretender's grandfather, was forced to leave the country.

Is Exiled
Like Duarte, his rival, Prince Nuno is not allowed to live in Portugal, but his adherents say that on a few occasions he ran the gauntlet of the police and presided over their deliberations. Portuguese monarchists who owe allegiance to the Pretender are organized along the lines of the French "Camelots Du Roi," Leon Daudet's Royalist Party. They have their party newspaper, "The Portuguese Nation," and are intensely patriotic.

The last male survivor of the House of Braganza-Coburg Gotha, the present ex-King Manuel, has no heir. Monarchists who stand for him have been persuaded to acknowledge the leadership of the Pretender for the preservation of the dynasty.

Although the Republicans make light of the Monarchist movement, and consider that the Republic is firmly implanted, there have been manifestations lately which lend support to the theory that the Royalist Party is a force to be counted with. A number of Monarchists have been deported to the Islands of Madeira and the Azores.

He will be supported by a concert orchestra under the direction of Christian Kriens.

Chapman returned from Italy in January after 30 operatic performances in the music centers of the peninsula to play the leading role in the American Opera Company's Broadway production of "Faust." His appearances in Italy took place in Rome, Bologna, Venice, Milan, Florence and Turin. He was born in New Jersey, the son of Dr. Frank M. Chapman, dean of the faculty of the American Museum of Natural History. He entered Princeton in 1917, but left that year to enlist in the Marines, where he saw nine months service in France. Returning to college, he distinguished himself both as a football player and as a member of the famous Triangle Club. After three years in an editorial capacity in a well known metropolitan publishing company and on a ranch in Montana, meanwhile studying voice culture, he went abroad, where the great Italian impresario, Enrico Petrone "discovered" him in 1923. He made his concert debut at the American Academy in Rome.

FAMOUS COHAN SHOW PLAYING AT STATE

"Seven Keys to Baldpate" Starting Richard Dix to Be Seen Here Today and Tomorrow.

Richard Dix gives the best performance of his career in "Seven Keys to Baldpate," a screen adaptation of George M. Cohan's famous farce comedy, which will be shown at the State today and Saturday. Thrills, suspense, mystery and romance are a few of the ingredients of the picture, with Dix appearing in the role of Magee, the novelist, who meets with many adventures while spending the night in a deserted tavern trying to write a novel. The eerie shadows of Baldpate Inn, the howling of the wind outside, and the ominous sound of seven keys turning, one by one, in the lock of the tavern door, all create an atmosphere of mystery screen. The surprise ending of the story is one that even the most imaginative minds will not guess. Dix is supported by an unusually strong cast of players, two of whom enact the same roles in the picture that they played in George M. Cohan's original production of the play in New York more than a decade ago.

They are Joseph Allen and Carlston Macy. Miriam Seegar and Lucian Littlefield also have important roles and add greatly to the enjoyment of the production.

The program will also include an Our Gang comedy, entitled, "Cat, Dog and Co.," with all the young rascals at their mischievous best. George Price will be heard in a program of song numbers. The ever popular Screen Snapshots and the latest sound news complete the program.

MORROW'S POSITION

The cause of prohibition reform in the United States took a step ahead last evening when Dwight W. Morrow, noted diplomatist and humanitarian statesman who discarded financial leadership in order to devote himself to the service of the American people, opened his campaign for the Republican nomination for the United States senatorship in New Jersey by declaring his unqualified opposition to the continuance of the Eighteenth amendment.

There is no question but that the utterances of Mr. Morrow on this subject were awaited with greater interest than has attached to the opinion of any citizen since President Hoover compromised on the "noble experiment." Mr. Morrow's answer to the anxious curiosity of the nation is as direct, an uncompromising and as completely satisfactory as it would be possible for language to make it. He is, squarely and openly, for repeal. And meantime he would have the federal government defer interference with the police duties of the respective states until it had first fully performed the primary federal duty under that amendment, complete prevention of the smuggling of liquor over the nation's frontiers and interstate traffic in intoxicants.

Mr. Morrow's Newark speech will not be at all liked by those persons who are utterly committed to support of federal prohibition at any cost, for there is in it not one word of encouragement for them. But it will appeal with great force to those who, in daily increasing numbers, are coming to seriously doubt that the age-old liquor problem was solved by the slipshod expedient of a constitutional amendment.

Several admirable points were made by Mr. Morrow which have not hitherto been sufficiently stressed. Particularly intelligent was his treatment of the "personal liberty" angle of the problem. This is a rock on which many disputants split, one side maintaining that no government has a right to interfere with the personal habits of its people, the other that it has every such right to any degree. Mr. Morrow points out that while there is no question about the right of a government to restrain the tendencies of the individual when they impinge upon the public welfare the determination of the extent of that restraint is a delicate matter indeed, depending on the sentiment, the prevailing habits, the viewpoint of the community. America is too big a country, consisting of too many communities widely differing in their outlook on the liquor traffic, to make any central control practicable. Therefore the problem of intoxicants must be left for solution to the inherent police power of the respective states.

We are particularly struck by one epigram in Mr. Morrow's address, in which he points out that there is far more hope of successful experimentation with liquor control when it is carried on in 48 laboratories than when it is confined to a single one.

SOME JOBS!

Gioacchino Antonio Rossini, whose famous Stabat Mater is to be sung in a Manchester church in a day or two, had a father who was town trumpeter and inspector of slaughter houses and his first harpsichord teacher played the scales with two fingers and habitually was so drunk that he went to sleep while playing. Out of this combination of heredity and environment emerged a great musician. But nothing that the younger Rossini ever did can seem quite so remarkable as the combination of jobs held by his dad. A man with even enough music in him to blow a trumpet, spending his time amidst the blood, offal and stanches of early nineteenth century abattoirs, is a spectacle to ponder on.

THEORY IN PRACTICE

It is not an altogether extraordinary thing for a citizen to be sincerely devoted to some cause advancing public welfare; nor for him to persist courageously in his advocacy in the face of profound discouragement. Almost all progress comes from seeds planted and nurtured by a few enthusiasts.

It is more unusual, however, when advocates of measures of public welfare, in default of their adoption, give effect to their theories by putting them into practice, as far as possible, at their own expense.

The Herald has been impressed by a conspicuous case.

For years the handsome estate of Clarence H. Wickham, lying at the very entrance to the town on the west and fronting the Hartford highway, with the residence occupying a commanding eminence, has conveyed to the stranger an admirable first impression of this town. Lately, extended considerably in both area and frontage, the estate has been made even more arresting to the eye. But all that is incidental. The point is this:

Mr. Wickham has long been known as a firm and aggressive champion of the rights of the pedestrian—almost universally ignored nowadays. He has consistently urged the inalienable right of the person on foot to a safe place on the roads and has sturdily advocated, in the face of skepticism and ridicule, the providing of safe and practicable sidewalks along all public roads. In this he has stood not quite alone but his active supporters have been few. Nobody, probably, could out over this idea at this time. But aside from persistent advocacy of it there was one thing Mr. Wickham could do—and he did it. Along a fifth of a mile, fronting his estate, he laid, at his own expense, an excellent cement sidewalk at a point where there is not another foot of sidewalk within a long distance in either direction and where, in the natural course of events, there might not be a foot for many years.

That stretch of sidewalk cost a good deal of money. Likely enough no member of Mr. Wickham's household ever walked the length of it or ever will. It neither adds to nor detracts from the beauty of the estate. But it does provide nearly two full-longs of safety for the casual pedestrian who, at every other point on that much traveled road, is in constant peril.

When a citizen sticks to his welfare theories in such a concrete fashion as that, it seems to us that he has a word of recognition and appreciation coming to him.

WATKINS BROTHERS, Inc. 55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

GET CHECK FORGER
AFTER 10 MONTHS

Police Apprehend Talcottville Youth Who Defrauded Local Man.

Additional proof that the law usually gets its violators sooner or later is seen in the case of William Puzines, 19 years old, of Talcottville, who last August forged a check for nearly $15 and after making a small purchase, took the change and left town. Police kept a close watch and were rewarded last night when a tip came that the young man had returned home.

Policeman Rudolph Wirtalla went to Talcottville and found Puzines hiding in a hayloft. Arraigned in court this morning, Puzines was bound over to the next term of the superior court by Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson under unfurnished bonds of $500. The boy went to jail to await trial. It was revealed that he had forged a check for $14.30 in the name of Michael Williams on the Manchester Trust company and bought a $2 shirt at the store operated by Joseph Chizius at 243 North Main street. No such person as Michael Williams is known to the bank.

NINETY PERSONS HURT IN BENGAL RIOTING

Mymensingh, Bengal, May 5.—(Thursday—Delayed)—(AP)—Ninety persons were injured in rioting here Wednesday afternoon growing out of the government's placing a police escort about a cross-town shipment of liquor and liquor supplies. Of 87 persons treated at a hospital 34 are in a precarious condition.

Armed guards were placed about the shipment, which consisted of liquor and ganja—herbs used in making liquor and for smoking—which was transported from the government depot to the retailer's shop in carts.

Civil disobedience volunteers obstructed the carts and came into conflict with the armed guards, who made charges with lathis, or staves, into the crowd. The mob retaliated and the police fired several volleys into it.

The district magistrate and other officers were present.

PEACHES, STRAWBERRIES
HERE HIT BY FROST

Crops Will Be Cut in Half, Is Belief of Local Fruit Growers—Young Trees Touched.

Peach trees were hit so badly in many places around Manchester by the frost that the crop in this section will be about half what was expected. The younger trees, which would come into bearing this year, were hit the hardest. The Pero farm crop on Avery street will be cut in half if not more. There are, however, several of the best peach orchard sections in Bolton that have not been affected.

Strawberries have also been affected and the supply of local berries will be greatly reduced this year. Next month, strawberries, locally grown, will be in the market, but with the frost that struck them the expectations are that native strawberries will be late and the supply diminished.

Chile is encouraging colonization of its lands.

WARD & Co.

SOUTH MANCHESTER

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER.
Washington, May 16.—Gallant Gifford Pinchot, his handsome red-headed wife Cornelia and the late Theodore Roosevelt have been putting on a brave, fast primary campaign which may yet win the governorship of Pennsylvania.

There are no Mellons, no Vares, no Governor Fishers, no Atterburys, no Grundys, no Charlie Klines, no Dave Reeds and no Jim Davises out for the Pinchot candidacy.

Just the trio of Gifford, Cornelia and Teddy.
Gifford has been tearing across the state, blasting the Mellons, the Philadelphia machine, the public utilities and his opponent for the Republican nomination, Francis Shunk Brown.

She Shows His Movies.
Cornelia has been busy picking up votes by the indirect method of exhibiting movies of the recent Pinchot scientific expedition into the South Seas.

Teddy Roosevelt glowers at one from picture frames in every Pinchot headquarters window and every Pinchot office. Gifford's campaign tactics exemplify "the old Roosevelt stuff" as well as anyone has done it since T. R. died.

The combination, at this writing, is considered not unlikely to win. Pinchot has no machine support. There are no monied interests behind him. His organization is spotty. Most politicians don't like him because he didn't play their game when he was governor before. The last time he ran for office he trailed far behind the two rival organization candidates.

But these factors are now in his favor:
Among all the candidates he is the chief exponent of good government. He is the only outstanding liberal, progressive candidate. He is the only bone-dry among the three gubernatorial candidates, having the support of the Anti-Saloon League, and his dripping wet opponent, Phillips, is taking a great many votes away from his principal opponent the moist Brown. His greatest strength lies in the counties outside Philadelphia and Pittsburgh and there is much apprehension in the state over the possible control of the state by the Philadelphia organization through Brown.

He has unquestioned strength among the coal miners. He has substantial political support than when he won the governorship in 1922. He has substantial political support in Pittsburgh, although the main bosses there are for Brown. He has been the beneficiary of Senator Joe Grundy's attacks on the Philadelphia machine.

Furthermore, he is the best slambang campaigner of the six candidates for the senatorial and gubernatorial nominations. And his political philosophy is such that he has more to bang away at than all the others combined.

Making from five to 12 speeches a day, shouting from front porches, motor trucks, courthouse steps and all other convenient objects, he has whaled away at the Morgan-Mellon interests, warned of giant public utility monopolies, flayed the Philadelphia gang, harpooned the Electric Bond & Share Co., predicted that the election of Brown would be followed by the looting of the state treasury, urged the reduction of gasoline taxes and motor fees and promised the abolition of Pennsylvania's notorious coal and iron police.

His platform also promises that he will use the full power of the governorship to abolish the Public Service Commission as a corporation catspaw and replace it with an elected Fair Rate Board, reduce all unjust public utility rates, equalize the present unjust tax burden on farmer, home owner and business man, provide good roads for the country folk, obtain old age pensions, abolish unfair labor injunctions, get work for the unemployed, secure clean elections and enforce the law.

Gallant Gifford had little to say about the wet-dry issue at first, but Brown's declaration for a state referendum gave him an opening for attack. He has been ridiculing Brown as a "straddler" with an absurd proposal.

The Pinchot forces are also making much of his record as governor, pointing out that he found a $32,000,000 deficit and left office with a balance of $11,000,000 in the state treasury, that he recognized the state government and established the first state budget that he settled the anthracite strike, that he built more good roads than any other governor, that he "put an end to the licensed saloon in Pennsylvania," that he led the fight for clean elections and so on.

Also—that he put the first woman in any governor's cabinet and gave women equal pay with men.

The Pinchot campaign has carried an especial to women voters. He will get their support in large mobs.

Mrs. Pinchot's Campaign.
Mrs. Pinchot has been directing her campaign especially at the women, although men are also welcome to see the South Sea movie. She has discussed Gifford's welfare work as governor, schools, health and that sort of thing—in about 40 speeches, but most of her time has been put in with the movies. She talks along as the films are shown and occasionally sneaks in a sly comparison of one of the strange animals with one of the candidates or the Philadelphia bosses.

And in the official Pinchot propaganda—not as voluminous or expensive as other candidates—the voters have not been allowed to forget that Roosevelt wrote to Pinchot:

"You were the leader among all the men in public office and the aggressive hard-hitting leader—of all the forces which were struggling for conservation, which were fighting for the general interest as against special privileges."

ROCKVILLE

Sabra Trumbull Meeting
The meeting of Sabra Trumbull Chapter, D.A.R. was held on Wednesday afternoon at "Beanhurst", Tolland, the summer home of Mrs. Wright W. Bean of Stafford Springs.

There were thirty-nine members present and the Regent, Mrs. Walter H. Skinner presided. Several invitations to various meetings and patriotic exercises in this city and out of town were read and accepted. Four new officers were elected as follows: Regent for the coming year, Mrs. A. R. Newell; vice regent, Mrs. Lester Martin; historian, Mrs. Oscar C. Peterson; chaplain, Mrs. Robert McChristie.

Mrs. Francis T. Maxwell, in behalf of the Chapter, presented the retiring regent with a beautiful D. A. R. insignia pin.

The two delegates to the Continental Congress in Washington read their reports which were very interesting.

At the close of the program delicious refreshments were served by the following committee: Mrs. W. E. Bean, Mrs. Prichard, Mrs. Carl Brad-Bean, Mrs. Colman, Mrs. Newton, Mrs. Mullen, Mrs. Penny, Mrs. Pat-ten, Mrs. McLaughlin and Mrs. Wildey.

Francis Prichard President
Francis Prichard was named president of the Drum Corps at a meeting held this week. Other officers were elected as follows: vice president, George Sargeant of Broad Brook; secretary, Francis Cratty; treasurer, Harold N. Dowling; business manager, George N. Brigham; drum major, Thomas Ryan; bugle sergeant, Julius Friedrich; drum sergeant, Eldred Dowling; drum sergeant, M. Joseph Webster; bugle corporal, Omer Schook; drum corporal, Arthur Bateman.

The Bugle and Drum Corps has been rehearsing weekly for the past three months and is making excellent progress. It is being instructed by Charles Hatch of Hartford.

Appointment Delegates
Delegates to the National and State Conventions of the United Spanish War Veterans were named at the last meeting of James Milne Camp and are as follows: National Convention delegate, William Schilling; alternate, John J. O'Neill; State Convention delegate, George Weber; alternate, Isaac Sims. The national convention will be held at Philadelphia while the state convention will be held in Rockville.

Arzt Fourth Speaker
Paul Arzt, a Rockville High School senior, has been named fourth speaker on the High School graduation program. The young man took the leading part in the Senior Dramatics and was appointed as fourth speaker by the faculty. The other three speakers were announced previously.

Legions Corps in Broad Brook
The Legion Bugle and Drum Corps will go to Broad Brook on Sunday, May 5, where plans are being made to observe Memorial Sunday. The school children of that place, firemen and others will take part in a parade. The firing squad of the local Legion will also take part.

Thomas Ryan, drum major of the Drum and Bugle Corps is a former Broad Brook boy and will lead the musical organization there, in his home town. One of the five Broad Brook young men in service and killed in the World War was John W. Ryan, a brother of Thomas Ryan.

Frey-Friedrich

Opening Stocks
New York, May 16.—(AP.)—The Stock Market rallied substantially today, ending today, helped by overnight news of a $67,000,000 reduction in brokers loans. American Can and Westinghouse Electric each rose more than a point and Auburn Auto, acutely weak yesterday, rallied six points on covering. U. S. Steel, Standard of New Jersey selling ex-dividend and Texas Gulf Sulphur each mounted 3-4, Radio and New York Central 1-2. Union Pacific lost 3-4, Missouri Kansas Texas 1-2, Union Carbide 1-4.

The substantial further decline in broker's loans, on top of the $200,000,000 drop of previous week, was interpreted as indicating that weakly held stock had been liquidated on the recent rally, and that possibly

The Husband Hunter

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEEN HERE TODAY
NATALIE CONVERSE tries to conquer her jealousy for her husband, ALAN. But they quarrel over EDWARD LAMONT, a night club hostess, who asks him to look after Bobby, whose father had assisted Alan's life during the war. Alan seeks sympathy from his secretary, PHILIPPA WEST, who successfully schemes to arouse Natalie's suspicions, and one day Alan finds her gone. Wounded pride prevents either from seeking reconciliation, and Alan turns to Phillipa, who plays her part cleverly.

Natalie regrets her hasty action, but does not write to Alan, hoping he will beg her to return. Her silence spurs him on with Phillipa, who helps make him feel neglected and abused. They are seen together constantly, and Phillipa, fearing that he does not intend to propose marriage, tells him her parents object to her going to a married man and brings Alan to the point of confessing more than friendship for her.

Phillipa feels her victory partially won without an engagement, and admits to Natalie that she had been waiting for him to propose. She is remorseful at his neglect, allows her to select a handsome ring. Confronting her family with it, Phillipa's father becomes threatening.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV

Phillipa's father came lunging toward her, with clenched fists upraised.

She drew back from him with a scream, which she tried unsuccessfully to suppress. She saw his massive frame quiver from head to foot, as he stopped short before her. Into his eyes came a startled questioning look which Phillipa was quick to interpret as horror of what he had been about to do.

After all the chastising, brutally, of his grown daughter was impossible for him, no matter how angry she was, to his ready temper.

But his manner had been so ferocious, so determined, it nearly frightened poor Mrs. West to death. She collapsed into a convenient chair, and fell to sobbing about her. Her world was turning about her. Phillipa had always been respectable. That she should now be mixed up with a married man.... it was too much for her mother.

Phillipa paid no attention to her, as she sat there with her apron thrown over her head as though with it she would shut out the disgrace that hovered over them.

The girl walked to the door. She had nothing more to say to her parents. Let them come to her, since they had seen fit to insult her! Her father did not protest her going. His knees felt weak and he wanted to sit down. He preferred to have Phillipa out of the room.

She went to dress. She was going out with Alan, and the subject that chiefly occupied her mind was her appearance. While her parents discussed the situation in the kitchen, she hummed softly over her cosmetic laden dressing table without giving them a further thought.

She was a bit concerned about what she should wear. Alan had been a trifle grumpy that day; he hadn't said where they would go. As a matter of fact, and Phillipa was well aware of it, he had wanted to go anywhere. To begin with, he'd been indifferent about the choice of her ring. He told her to pick out what she liked and Phillipa had taken him at his word. Then she suggested that they ought to celebrate the occasion. Alan acquiesced without interest.

Phillipa expected him to be in the same mood when she met him in the lobby of his hotel. It was their habit to meet there now, since the place was convenient to the night life district of the city, and she did not want him to call at her home.

She had misled her parents with a suggestion here and an implied statement there about her engagements. They thought she had suddenly acquired a number of pleasure-loving friends. Never before having given her mother cause to worry, Phillipa's deception went unsuspected. And when, on occasion, she had admitted Alan brought her home, it was always when she could say she had worked overtime, and that he came along with her, because he thought she shouldn't be alone in that neighborhood at night.

It was a bit of a surprise to her to find Alan changed when he greeted her at the hotel. He was clearly in the grip of some excitement, which he did not at once reveal. At first she thought he had been drinking, but she had to give up that explanation. But his face was flushed, and his eyes shone with his secret stimulation.

Phillipa was a trifle piqued, feeling he had no right to keep exciting news from her. She began speculating. When she came to consideration of Natalie, a dark frown streaked itself across her brow, but she had to force herself to look pleasant. Alan's eyes were upon her, broodingly, searchingly; appraising her, it seemed to Phillipa.

It made her nervous. "Oh, let's dance," she exclaimed pettishly.

Silently Alan got up from the dinner table, and took her out upon the crowded floor. He had chosen the place. Phillipa would have preferred one more intimate, but when she was uncertain of the ground beneath her, she made it a practice to step lightly, excepting when she lost her temper completely.

Alan did not hold her tightly, and when she glanced up at him, trying to find the answer for his strangeness in his face, she found him gazing out beyond her, vacantly, as though he looked into great space.

Back at their table, seated and sipping sparkling water—Alan had ordered it without consulting her, another sign of his preoccupation—the smile over at him.

"Of course, you do dance divinely,"

Alan, she said, "but even so, it's much better when you keep your mind on it. What is the matter with you tonight, anyway?"

Here he squirmed a bit mentally. The thought that Phillipa loved him was always disconcerting to him. He wanted to love her, perhaps he would... well, in time.

Only—and this was why he did not like to think of it—the whole thing bored him. Not completely—but in a way. He hoped to be thrust at starting life again, in a sense, but he found himself sinking deeper and deeper into apathy instead.

He decided to honor Phillipa with the truth; to treat her with the honesty becoming their relations. If, deep in his heart, there was a small desire to escape back of his decision he did not acknowledge it to himself anymore than he would have let Phillipa know about it. Alan could never become a cad; his native gallantry was sufficient to prevent it—but he could, and often was, a very small boy beneath his successful man exterior.

"I've had some very exciting news, Phillipa," he said suddenly.

She drew in her breath and looked at him with an expectancy.

"I had a letter from Natalie. She's coming back."

This time Phillipa spoke. "From Natalie?" she echoed in dismay.

Alan instantly became defensive. "To the house in Hillsire," he explained.

"But, Alan..."

"I can't help it. She has a right to come back."

"She has nothing of the kind!" Phillipa was thoroughly indignant.

"She left you, and she's probably found out they don't want her at home. Surely you aren't going to stand for anything like that!"

"I can't keep her out of her home," Alan protested.

"Her home! Didn't you build it?"

"Well, I built it for her and I'm not an Alan, give it to her!" Alan answered so emphatically. His meekness nearly proved to be Phillipa's undoing. She misjudged him.

"She shan't come back," she said furiously. "It's an insult to me!"

"Well, now, Phillipa," Alan began placatingly.

"If you had any respect for me, you wouldn't permit it," she stormed on.

"But, my dear, I'm not living in the house. There has to be some property setting, you know. Why shouldn't Natalie have the house if she wants it? I know you wouldn't care to live there. We can build another house..."

"And a much finer one, too," Phillipa put in foolishly. Alan paid no attention to her remark, fortunately for her. Had he weighed her attitude, their engagement, in all likelihood, would have been broken on the spot.

He seemed, and this was no easy matter for Phillipa to accept, to be engaged in Natalie's return. Was he glad of it? The thought, in its unpleasant potentialities, served to calm her a bit.

"She asked me to see the agency that supplies her with servants, and she said she'd like to have a cook." At least it seemed to Phillipa that he rambled, for it annoyed her to have him talk of Natalie unnecessarily. But they were on the subject now, and she felt she ought to say something that would help to cover her bitterness.

"Why not a cook?" she asked. "I suppose she knows you aren't living in the house? Alan, she wouldn't expect you to, would she?" Suddenly her voice was vibrantly pleading. Alan had a feeling of helplessness held up to him for aid.

"No, of course not," he answered gruffly. "No doubt she thinks she can manage without a cook."

He reached out and picked up the menu card. "What would you like for dessert?"

"Dessert?" Phillipa repeated in astonishment. "Why, we haven't had anything but hors d'oeuvres and soup!"

"That's right," Alan said indifferently. "What shall we have?"

"Goose, you've already ordered squabs."

"Well, then, let's dance."

Phillipa was about to say she'd much rather talk, but thought better of it. They danced without conversation, and Phillipa guessed that Alan was not even thinking of her. She kept telling herself she had nothing to fear. He had asked her to marry him. They were engaged. Nothing could change that. She could hold him. Alan was too decent for anything else. Better let him alone. Naturally, it upset her to know that Natalie was coming back to occupy their former home.

"She didn't quite like the word 'unset'." It didn't adequately describe his reaction to his wife's announced return. But she preferred not to substitute a word more fitting. Not even in her thoughts would she admit that Natalie had any hold upon Alan, that could eliminate her, Phillipa.

Alan himself could not have analyzed for her what was in his mind. When he received Natalie's letter, he read it with surprise as his paramount emotion. Then he began, almost imperceptibly and unconsciously, to be thrilled.

It was a short letter, little more than a note, but perfect as Natalie was perfect. Beautifully written on pale tinted paper. She simply said she was returning, and made a few ordinary requests concerning the house.

She did not say she was coming back to him. Alan was puzzled over her complete omission of reference to their estrangement. He had never, in fact, understood the silence she maintained about his having closed the house. Of course, they had corresponded very little since he had moved to town, but he had expected her to take some interest in the matter.

What he did not know, to help him understand her attitude, was that Natalie's mother had taken a hand in her daughter's marital affairs about the time the house had been closed.

Natalie hadn't known what to say about it at first. Her heart agreed with what her mother said. She knew she loved Alan. Being away from him had convinced her he was the greater part of life for her. Everything was flat and dull without him. There was always an ache in her heart.

There were moments when loneliness pressed in so hard upon her that she wanted to cry out for relief. The world, in her father's household, seemed to belong to her sister, Florence, and Florence's ubiquitous boy-friend, Andrew. Until Andrew went away to New York. Then Florence pestered her night and day to be taken there too.

There was no time or place for Natalie, except in the dark at night, or under cover of a deceivably collected exterior. At times, she thought her heart would break right before her family's eyes, and they wouldn't know a thing about it. She thought they wouldn't. She didn't know how discerning real mothers are. But she was to learn and be prayerfully grateful for the maternal perspicacity.

They were baking cakes, loaded with fruit and spices, for one of Florence's parties, on a morning when the sun shone brightly through the gayly curtained windows, and turned the kitchen into a place for singing happily.

Mrs. Jayhunter looked at her daughter, and grew misty-eyed. A moment later she slipped into the pantry and wiped the budding tears away, certain that she had put altogether too much nutmeg in the last bowl of batter.

But it didn't seem right to her that there should be anything to weep over in beautiful Natalie's life. Goodness, think of what the kitchen could be like! A roly-poly baby, pounding a silver spoon on the arm of its high chair; a bird in the window, singing to burst its throat; a tabby purring below on the braided rug in front of the radiator; heavenly smells coming from the oven.

"Good gracious, what had she done now? More nutmeg!"

"Mother, what is the matter?"

Natalie was looking at her in alarm. Suddenly Mrs. Jayhunter put down the mixing spoon she had just taken up after her trip to the pantry, and faced her daughter with a degree of finality in her mien that completely awed Natalie.

"I want to have a talk with you," she said firmly.

"Well," Natalie was hesitant about consenting.

"It isn't well," her mother declared stoutly. "Put that pan in the oven and turn the gas down. Then heaven help anyone who interrupts us. I may be making a big mistake, but at least I'm going to do a thorough job."

"Whatever in the world are you talking about?"

"I'm going to talk about you and Alan."

Natalie's hand shook, as she closed the oven door. Her mother saw that it did, but she had made up her mind to be ruthless in the necessary degree.

She ordered Natalie to sit in her own "cooking chair," as she called the little rocker by the window, and Natalie did as she was bid. Mrs. Jayhunter wanted more room, so she remained standing, busying her hands in clearing up the table where they had cooked the cakes.

She tore right into Natalie's trouble as if it were some obnoxious thing that had to be slain. And there was so much the air of a crusader about her, with back of it such an apparent love for both her children, and Alan, that Natalie was half-won.

In time she wrote to Alan, and the day afterward Mrs. Jayhunter dispatched a letter of her own.

IF YOU HAVE BAD FEET

Read What This Grateful English Woman Writes About Radox.

"Fifteen years ago I began to suffer with bad feet and corns, and as time went on they got from bad to worse, thus making life a misery. I was recommended to try Radox (after spending a small fortune in one 'cure' or another). I found very great relief in a very short time. I am pleased to say that my corns, also the hard skin from the soles of my feet have disappeared, and walking, which was a torture, is now a pleasure. I can assure you that I recommended Radox to all my friends."

Mrs. L. P. W.,
 Peterborough, England,
 23rd September, 1929.

When you put your feet into a footbath containing Radox, the salts soften the hard outer layers of the corn, and the oxygen which Radox liberates enters the pores, opens them and penetrates further and further, carrying the corn-softening salts right into the root of the corn, which is thus loosened so that it can be lifted out bodily.

Get a generous box of Radox at Packard's Pharmacy, So. Manchester Agent, Magnell Drug Company, North End Pharmacy or any drug store in America—a 15 minute bath three or four successive nights will rid you of corns and callouses.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Avoid Starches in High Blood Pressure)

Question:—G. McC. writes: "I have high blood pressure, and would like to know if there are any special foods to avoid which may aggravate it more than others."

Answer: It is better to avoid all foods except the acid fruits for a few days at the beginning of your treatment, as this will reduce the high blood pressure more quickly than any other dietetic method. Sometimes the patient can continue on the acid fruit diet until the blood pressure becomes normal. Following this, it is advisable to avoid the use of starches for some time. Contrary to prevailing opinion, it is not necessary to avoid meat entirely in this disorder.

(Melba Toast)

Question:—Mrs. W. asks: "May Melba toast be used with the fruit and milk combination?"

Answer: Melba toast may be used with any other kind of food, and combines well with milk and fruit.

HEALTH

DISPROVES TALES OF HARM DONE BY ALUMINUM COOKING WARE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHERLIN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Fever is generally considered to be a manifestation of the reactions of the body to disease.

Sometimes heat developed in the body controls germ activity. In the attack on general paresis by the malaria injection method, one of the results of the injection is to produce fever, and it has been suggested that in the treatment of conditions similar to general paresis the production of fever is the important factor.

It is possible to produce fever in the human being by injecting any foreign protein substance. When such injections are made, the reactions are sometimes severe. Attempts have been made by the workers in the Research Laboratories of the General Electric Company to develop some system of raising the temperature of the body without injecting anything into the body.

Doctors C. M. Carpenter and A. B. Page have been developing a method of raising the temperature by the use of short wave lengths in several oscillations. In this method the energy is concentrated between two condenser plates made of aluminum covered with hard rubber to prevent arcing should the patient or any attendant come in contact with the plates.

The person whose temperature is to be raised is suspended on cotton stapes stretched across a wooden frame and surrounded with celotex so that there is a fairly tight air chamber around the body. The plates are placed at each side of the celotex box and the waves produced by the oscillator oscillate through the body from one side to the other.

It has been possible to raise the temperature of a man five degrees in one hour with this apparatus. Indeed, it would be possible to raise the temperature much higher than 104 to 105 degrees, but this has not been done because of the possible dangers.

When the temperature of the body is raised rapidly by such a device, the person begins to have a fast pulse and to breathe more rapidly. Usually the blood pressure falls. In some instances high temperatures were maintained for one hour without apparent distress or fatigue to the patient.

It is believed that the development of the heat in the body is due to the resistance made by the body to the conduction of the current. The evidence thus far available from studies in some 25 human beings and of many laboratory animals indicates that the heat within the body makes it less favorable for the multiplication of germs and that the increased rate of the various chemical processes in the body aids the resistance to disease and infectious agents.

Suez Canal operations showed a gain in 1929. Tonnage totaled 34,528,000 tons, an increase of 5.3 per cent over 1928.

at the close after the match was square after 18 holes and again after 27.

Very Even Match
George Von Elm's battle with Rex Hartley for 34 holes was the most bitterly contested of the day. They finished the morning round all square and were all even again at the close of the nine holes of the afternoon round.

Von Elm became dormie 33rd which decides many Sandwich matches. Hartley was bunkered here.

The Detroit halved the 34th with a 12-foot putt with Hartley's ball well inside.

Moe Big Sensation

Moe had a sensational medal score in his afternoon round getting an approximate 67 for the 18 holes. He holed all putts except at the 15th and 18th holes. He went out in 33 strokes and covered the last nine holes in 34, with two putts conceded.

The medal score for Sandwich is 68, held by Leo Diegel, but Moe's amazing figure today cannot displace that. Here are the afternoon cards:

LYOYD GEORGE'S NOTE AT PARLEY MADE KNOWN

London, May 16.—(AP)—The text of the message sent to A. J. Balfour, chief British representative at the Washington conference in 1922, by former Premier Lloyd George, as made public in the House of Commons yesterday for the first time, follows:

"We welcome your decision to press for the abolition of submarines. Even should you obtain this we wish to be consulted before the final decision is taken, upon any limited scale of construction of small craft permitted to the various signatories. The position of Britain with her world wide possessions and food supplies clearly requires a different standard from that acceptable to the self contained nations. "We cannot, in the face of French freedom to construct a great submarine fleet, to say nothing of submarine and cruiser construction by other powers enter into any agreement fettering our liberty to build whatever cruisers and anti-submarine numbers and classes we may consider necessary to the maintenance of our national and imperial life. We feel sure from our knowledge of your outlook of the whole problem, that you will share this view to the full. Even at the cost of complete rupture we feel certain you will not agree to any restrictions in this sphere without previous consultation with the Cabinet.

STRICTER AUTO RULES

Boston, May 16.—(AP)—A proposal for the impounding of automobiles as an antidote for flagrant traffic violations was in the hands of the Chamber of Commerce today. By the plan, violators of the parking rules would be punished by having their cars removed and stored until they paid the costs of towing and storage charges. The recommendation is made by the traffic control and safety committee of the chamber.

CARAWAY ORDERS PROBE OF CANNON INVESTMENTS

James Cannon, Jr., of Washington, D. C., today's president of the general conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church, South, surrendered the gavel to Bishop W. J. Beauchamp of Atlanta, Ga., "because of certain matters before the conference."

BALANCE OF TRADE FAVORS AMERICA

Washington, May 16.—(AP)—Commodity exports of the United States for April amounted to $334,000,000, compared with imports of $308,000,000, leaving a favorable balance of trade for this country of $26,000,000, as compared with the favorable balance of $14,598,000, for the same month last year.

Exports in April a year ago amounted to $425,264,000, while imports totalled $410,666,000.

The shrinkage in the country's export trade recorded in April brought the total value of foreign shipments of American goods to the lowest point recorded in any month of the last five years.

April Imports
The imports for April were likewise less in value than those of any month in five years, save during the past February.

On the other hand, the April gold imports which amounted to $65,538,000, was only offset by exports of $107,000 and was the largest amount imported by the United States in any one month during the last three years.

Silver exports for April were $4,557,000 and imports were $3,469,000, while in April a year ago silver exports were $5,752,000 and imports $3,957,000.

One of the causes considered by government trade observers to be contributing markedly to the current recession in American exports is the cotton situation. Normally it bulks heavily in shipments at this season but it is not moving in its ordinary quantity. The result has been to sharply curtail the total value attached to it in American trade.

REV. SULLIVAN, WELL KNOWN HERE, DEAD

Miss Catherine Sullivan of 88 Oakland street has received a letter from a relative living in Nashua, N. H., containing a clipping of the impressive funeral services held there recently for her cousin, the late John E. Sullivan. Father Sullivan occasionally visited his cousin in Vermont and other relatives in this town. He was rector for many years of St. Patrick's church, Clayville, N. Y., and a graduate of Holy Cross college. More than 75 priests of the diocese were in the sanctuary at the solemn high mass, the celebrant of which was Vicar General Rt. Rev. Monsignor Doody. The eulogy was preached by Rev. Joseph A. Moore, assistant to Father Sullivan at the time of his death. Father Sullivan was mourned by people of all creeds and races. Public schools, mills and stores were closed during the hour of the funeral in tribute to him. During the night a guard of honor of 100 men of the parish stayed with the remains.

GARDEN CLUB'S SALE LOCATION CHANGED

The Richards building on the west side of Main street, instead of the store at the Center, has been decided upon by the committee in charge of the Manchester Garden Club's third annual sale of plants, bulbs and garden ornaments which will commence at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning and continue throughout the day and evening.

FIREMEN ANSWER TWO STILL ALARMS

Two still alarms were answered by apparatus from the South Manchester Fire department, one yesterday afternoon and another this morning. The former was at the home of Fred Bushnell at 494 East Center street and other at the home of Martina Battista of 109 Prospect street. An overheated fireplace caused the first while the second was a chimney fire.

SCHOOL NURSE HERE TENDERS RESIGNATION

Miss Isabelle T. Moore, school nurse of Districts 1 to 8 for many years, has resigned her position because of ill health, it was announced today. The resignation takes effect immediately. Several applications have already been made for the position which pays a salary of $2,300 a year but no action in this direction has as yet been taken by the School Board.

WAPPING

Wapping Grange, No. 30, P. of H., held its ninth regular meeting last Tuesday evening at the Wapping Center school hall with one hundred in attendance. It was initiation in the third and fourth degrees, of a class of ten. Two of the candidates were from Tolland Grange. There were many present from neighboring Grangers, including Ellington, Tolland, Berlin, Union, East Hartford, Manchester, Plainville, West Hartford, and Good Will. There were four state officers present, Worthy State Master, Louis J. Tolles, Worthy State Lecturer, Mrs. Sarah Curtis, and Worthy State Grange Legislation Committee E. B. Adams.

INDIAN PEACE SEEMS NEARER, REPORTS SAY

The volunteers were undergoing a rigorous course of discipline and given the most detailed instructions of how to conduct themselves. A Congress notice today stated the raid would occur on the appointed day and a general invitation to public to participate was extended.

BURLINGAME TO AID URUGUAY HOSPITAL

spread reputation for executive ability, which proved to be entirely merited for September 1, 1921. Dr. Burlingame resigned his position with Cheney Brothers to become the Executive Officer of the Joint Administrative Board of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center.

Leaves Today
The physician leaves today for Montevideo where he will remain for two months in consultation with government officials and the medical profession of Uruguay returning to New York on August 22.

Mr. Richling, who has consistently impressed his countrymen with the incomparable progress of scientific matters in the United States considers Uruguay very fortunate to be able to avail themselves of the great ability of Dr. Burlingame and his unsurpassed experience in hospital organization.

Government Project
Recently a commission from Uruguay headed by Dr. Eduardo Bianco made a survey of medical practices throughout the world and submitted a recommendation for the creation of a national Medical Center based upon the principles and experiences of the Columbia-Presbyterian Medical Center. It will be incorporated all the elements of medicine, teaching and research in a single unified group. Mr. C. A. Suraco, an architect of Montevideo submitted a scheme based upon the New York Medical Center which won a national competition in which the leading architects of South America participated.

Dr. Burlingame was the Executive Officer of the Joint Administrative Board of the Medical Center during its organization and construction. During the war Dr. Burlingame was the Director of the Medical and Surgical departments of the American Red Cross in France. He was decorated by the government of France on four occasions receiving the Medal of Honor, Palms of Academie Francaise, the French Legion of Honor and is an officer of the Order of St. George and of Notre Dame of Mont Carmel. He was also decorated by the governments of Poland and Czechoslovakia.

OLD BROKER DIES

Bridgeport, May 16.—(AP)—James J. Benelisha, for many years a member of the Boston Curb Exchange, but for the last six years employed as a broker telegrapher by Laidlaw & Co., New York, died at his home in Great Kills, S. L. N. Y., yesterday. He was 60 years of age and had been ill about a week. During the World War he had been caught, like many other brokers, in the great financial slump, and was forced out of business. He returned to old profession, that of telegraphy, and was thus employed at his passing. He was well known as a curb broker and operator both in Boston and New York and was a past Mason and an Elk in Boston.

WAPPING

Next Sunday evening Rev. Elmer T. Thielen of Marlborough will speak at the Federated church service at 7:30 o'clock in the evening, the Christian Endeavor Society meeting which is at 6:30 o'clock.

There were many parents and friends at the exhibition and Field Day program of the Wapping Center school last Wednesday afternoon. The program was given on the parish house lawn, where 222 went through their parts in a very creditable way. The program was as follows—1. March, Salute to the flag. 2. Singing games, "Carrusel is Running" and "Kitty White," Grade 1. 3. Singing game, Hickory Dickory Dock, Grade 2. 4. Ribbon dance, Grade 3. 5. Folk dance by Grade 4. 6. Game, Grade 4. 7. Folk dance, Ace of Diamonds, Grade 5 and 3. 8.

ADAMS

Adams. There were also two Pomona Grange lecturers, Mrs. Agnes Adams of Central Pomona, and Mrs. Laura G. Loomis of East Central Pomona. Worthy Deputy Carl Lane of West Hartford was also present and inspected Wapping Grange. He spoke very encouragingly for Wapping Grange. The following masters were present, Leonard Bragg, of East Hartford, Charles H. Curtis of Plainville, Frank Bushnell of Tolland, Irving Wickham of Manchester, Harry Tomlinson of Good Will. At the close of the meeting all journeyed to the dining hall, where the Harvest supper was enjoyed by all. The Worthy State Master Tolles, installed Arthur Davieau as assistant steward, to fill the vacancy. He was assisted by State Lecturer Sarah J. Curtis.

STUNTS BY BOYS

Stunts by boys, Grade 5. 9. Folk dance, compilation pass ball, Grade 8. 10. Relay races, stunt series, Grade 6. 11. Recitations, "Tomorrow" by Mabel Dewey, "Farmer John" by Eunice Skinner, 12. Gipsy dance, Eleanor Thresher, 13. Field events, running broad jump, standing jump, 100, step and jump, High Grades 6, 7, 8, 14. Athletic dance, by girls, Grades 7 and 8. 15. Irish jig, by Eleanor Thresher and Virginia Burnham, 16. Recitations, "The Enchanted Shirt," by Edwin Hyson, and "Casey at the Bat," by Ruby Marshall, 17. Nimble drill, Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8. 19. May pole dance, girls, Grades 5, 6, 7 and 8. There as a fine exhibition of the pupils work placed in the school hall, where all enjoyed seeing it after the program.

THE SCHOOLS WERE CLOSED

The schools were closed at 12:30 a. m. on Thursday for the teacher's county convention which was held in Hartford, at the Bushnell Memorial at 4 o'clock. The address at 4:30 was by Everett D. Martin, and the subject was "Education" and the Crowded Mind. The dinner was at 6:15 at the Hotel Bond. The speaker was George H. Locke and the subject was "Whither are We Drifting." The prize winners at the schools were Ruby Marshall, first prize, Edwin Hyson, second prize, and Eunice Skinner, third prize. Mabel Dewey and Henry Kupchunas received honorable mention.

A commission on air folding has been created in France. It will give advice on all questions pertaining to development projects.

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 16.—When it comes to the weigh of all flesh, the rotund Paul Whiteman, presents a perpetual problem.

Here's a fellow who works harder than three of us put together, only to enlarge to the size of three of us put together. At the moment he plays five shows a day, makes a half dozen records, runs over to a broadcasting station, takes the road with his band, makes a picture out in Hollywood—and when it's all over with has to call upon his shirt maker to make a few young tents.

It's an amusing fact that Whiteman has to have three sizes of everything from his collar band to his belt measurement. For he puts on and takes off poundage at the most unexpected moments.

Thus at a moment when he's been working a little harder than ever before, he annexes from 15 to 20 pounds. His shirt maker had to get a new cutting board, for the old one became too small.

Anita Loos, the tiny creator of "Lorelei Lee," the blond preferred by gentlemen, has started the "land yacht" vogue.

A "land yacht" is something like a railroad coach, except that it is motor driven. It is a close relative of the motorized moving van, with something of the private railroad car about it. One can dodge about the country at will, stopping where one pleases and cruising as one wishes.

The "land yacht" is equipped with a trick kitchen and carries a cook and a maid. A number of the Manhattan "who's who" have threatened to go about the neighboring countryside in this fashion during the summer.

The other day there came to my desk, via Charles Boni's "Paper Books," an anthology of young American poets.

The editor of this volume was one Charles A. Wagner. And if I mention all this it's because young Wagner was the lad who proved beyond question that poets could also be football heroes.

Born on the East Side, as are so many of New York's important people, Wagner went to Columbia University. A star student and esthetic-minded young man, he was annoyed—at all the fuss made about athletes and the slight attention paid to cultural competitions.

He decided to find out what this hero worship was all about and, facing a skeptical undergraduate body, found himself playing right end before the season was out. He was a star end for three semesters before graduation.

Which proves something or other, even if it makes little difference.

Among the great assortment of odd personalities to be found driving taxis—some of whom I have introduced previously—is Monsieur Wolfe Antzelewitch.

On and off duty as a driver, he's a "mathematical marvel." Which means that he's one of those nimble-witted bozos who can multiply 2867 by 5698 in 20 seconds without needing to resort to paper or pencil. And his answer will be correct.

As he drives about the city, so he will tell you, he amuses himself by guessing the number of people to a block and multiplying this by a few thousand which he then divides into 865,432.

WALKER-SWIDERSKI

Louisville, Ky., May 16.—(AP)—Mickey Walker, one-time "toy bulldog" of the prize ring and long-term holder of the world's middleweight championship, furnishes the prederby fistic attraction in a 10-round match with Paul Swiderski of Syracuse, N. Y., tonight.

Swiderski was a substitute for George Cook, Australian boxer, barred by the Kentucky ring solons as unsuitable to meet the 160-pound king. No title is at stake.

STOP CONSTIPATION AT THE START

You May Pay If You Don't

When you realize that about 90% of all sickness begins with constipation, you won't want to take chances. If you have the symptoms—bad breath, coated tongue, always tired—put a stop to them now!

But do it the natural way. Not with pills and drugs, which give but temporary relief and must be taken in increasing doses. Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN—an appetizing deliciously flavored cereal.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN sweeps the system clean of wastes and impurities. Its action is natural; the roughage carries with it the poisons which clog your system.

In addition, ALL-BRAN is rich in iron. Scientific research shows that nearly all this iron goes into the blood, making it give the rich glow of healthy color.

You'll like ALL-BRAN. Ready-to-eat with milk or cream—fruits or honey added. Physicians recommend it. And we guarantee it to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation. Two tablespoons daily—with every meal, in recurring cases.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is sold by all grocers in the red-and-green package, served in hotels, restaurants and dining-cars. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

WILL HOLD SCOUT CONTEST TOMORROW

Event to Take Place at Charter Oak Street Grounds Instead of West Side Field. The annual outdoor contest of Manchester Council, Boy Scouts of America, will be held tomorrow afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the Charter Oak street grounds instead of the West Side Playgrounds as formerly announced. George Joseph of Hartford with two assistants will act as judge.

Attempts will be made to break three records set last year when Troop 6 won the meet with 47 points and Troop 1 was second with 30 points. Records were set in friction fire and water boiling by Francis Burr of Troop 6 in eight and a half seconds; by Troop 5 in Patrol Knot Tying in 33 seconds; and by Troop 1 in Rescue Race by 12 seconds.

The events will be: Scoutcraft, semaphore signalling, staff relay, first aid, rescue race, Morse signaling, knot tying, friction fire and water boiling, Paul Reverse race, tent pitching, and obstacle race. The latter for juniors under 100 pounds.

MEDILL AND KAPLAN TO CLASH ON MAY 26

Joey Medill, the Chicago lightweight, who fights Kid Kaplan at the Hurley Velodrome in East Hartford Monday night, May 26, has a style recalling that great batter, the late Harry Greb.

Medill is travelling at whirlwind style these days in the ring and through enough gloves from every angle to baffle the ordinary boxer. Of course, in this instance the Windy City boy will be meeting a ringman just as relentless so it should be a match of speed, aggressiveness and the will to fight.

Medill's list of victims includes several of the best known boys in his class, among them Tommy Grogan of Omaha, whom he beat twice, Billy Wallace, "Spug" Myers, over whom he has three wins; Joey Kaufman, Mike Dundee, Doc Snell, Billy Rome and Stan Loayza, the latter two came to the pro ranks from the amateurs where he had a career as sensational as that of Bat Battalino when Bat was a simon pure. He compiled a list of 73 wins when he was campaigning in the game where watches and the like are supposed to be the sole reward.

Kaplan is one of but three men who have been able to take Medill's measure in the pro ranks. The skirmish at the big 'Drome across the bridge a week from next Monday night shapes as the real battle.

SOUTH AMERICAN "Y" HEAD AT CONVENTION

Charles J. Ewald of Buenos Aires to Tell of His Work in the Argentine.

Charles W. Holman of Manchester, President of the Hartford County Y.M.C.A. announced today that Charles J. Ewald of South America will be the principal speaker at the 12th Anniversary Convention of the Hartford County Y.M.C.A., which is to be held in the East Hartford Congregational church next Monday afternoon and evening, May 19th. Mr. Ewald's subject will be "Understanding Latin America."

Charles J. Ewald.

Republic to become Associate General Secretary of the Y.M.C.A. of the Eastern League as a catcher last winter returns to that club now as an outfielder.

New York, May 15.-(AP)-Bill Karlon, drafted from Springfield of the Eastern League as a catcher last winter returns to that club now as an outfielder. The N. Y. Yanks have sent Karlon back on option to Springfield to get more experience in fielding flies.

KARLON RETURNS.

Foreign Committee's Traveling Secretary for South America and under his leadership the Associations developed in all departments and enlisted the active co-operation and substantial help of leading officials, business men, and educators. In 1914 the first Convention of all the South American associations was held in Montevideo, Uruguay, and they organized the South American Federation of Y.M.C.A.'s and elected Mr. Ewald as General Secretary. In 1925 Mr. Ewald was appointed Administrative Secretary for Latin America which area includes the twenty Latin American Republics and Porto Rico.

J. P.'S TAXES

Glen Cove, N. Y., May 15.-(AP)-J. P. Morgan's attorney and the mayor of Glen Cove, have agreed that Mr. Morgan's taxes for the last three years on his Long Island estate shall be $646,100, instead of the $1,342,200 assessed against him.

When Mr. Morgan's property on Long Island Sound was assessed in 1927 at $450,000, the banker, wealthiest individual taxpayer in Glen Cove, called the figure excessive. While his suit has been in court, taxes for two more years have been levied, making the three year total of $1,342,000.

The court must approve the compromise arrived at by Mr. Morgan's attorney and Glen Cove officials.

ERRORGRAMS

T99's Scrambled on OFFRESH Art arresting personality.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 30 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS (1) Babe Ruth bats left-handed. (2) The girl should say two-bagger, instead of "two-begger." (3) "Empires" on the scoreboard should be UMPIRES. (4) Three innings should be marked up for New York, when but one is marked up for Chicago. (5) The scrambled word is SHERIFF.

HEY!—WHAT HAPPENED TO TH' LIGHTS?—THEY WENT OUT ALL OVER TH' HOUSE!—WHAT IS THIS A SURPRISE ATTACK ON WALLETS AN' WATCHES?

I KNOW WHAT IT IS—AN' I'VE BEEN EXPECTING THIS FOR TH' LAST FEW DAYS!—TH' MAJOR BLEW OUT TH' ELECTRIC LIGHT FUSE WITH THAT MOTOR ROCKING CHAIR OF HIS!

AN' THAT BIG SEA-TURTLE WOULDN'T LET ME SIT IN HIS ELECTRIC ROCKIN' CHAIR!—I SAID I'D BE TOO MUCH STRAIN ON TH' MOTOR!

AND NOT A SPARE FUSE IN THE HOUSE!

WASHINGTON TUBBS II

On the Run

By Crane

OH, WHAT A FIGHT! WASH AND EASY SWINGING RIGHT AND LEFT, DUCKING, DODGING, TRYING TIME, AND AGAIN TO REACH THE GAINS—GRADUALLY LOSING. THEN A LUCKY BLOW—THE CHIEF IS KILLED.

THE TABLES ARE TURNED. THE SAV' ARE WITHOUT A LEADER. I'VE KEPT BACK, DEMONIALIZED.

EASY PICKS UP THE RIFLE WASH DROPPED—BEGINS SHOOTING. THE SAVAGES RETREAT INTO A ROUT, A PANIC! WITH WASH AND EASY CLOSE BEHIND, THEY RACE MADLY FOR THE BEACH WHERE HELP IS COMING.
