DESCRIBES BIG S. A. CONGRESS IN NEW YORK

Adjutant and Mrs. Joseph Heard of the local Salvation Army Citadel returned yesterday from New York City where they have been attending the great jubilee congress of the Army during the past week, and described it as "a gigantic affair, profoundly impressing all who were privileged to witness it."

The proceedings opened with a mammoth pageant Friday night in which 4,000 people took part until which lasted from 8 o'clock until midnight. The pageant portrayed an outstanding quality of every state in the Union as well as various activities of the Army in this and other countries. A huge musical festival took place Saturday night when Lieutenant Colonel John W. Rouse took a prominent part, conducting the massed bands in a rendition of his latest march, "The Salvation Army," dedicated to the commander-in-chief of the Salvation Army, Evangeline Booth. The troupe band took part in the three and a half hour concert, playing the march "Our American Commander," composed by Harold Turkington.

"A feature of the congress," said Adjutant Heard, "was the mammoth parade Saturday from Battery Park, where a great service was conducted commemorating the landing of the first Army contingent on the shores of America. The parade went up through the city to the Hall where a reception was tendered to the delegates by city authorities."

"Another great service was held in the Metropolitan Opera House all day Sunday with addresses by distinguished Army leaders that brought inspiring results. The dedication of the new headquarters building which together with John and Mary Made Home for Women cost two million and a half terms on Sunday afternoon was an epochal event."

Mrs. Heard spoke enthusiastically of the women's meeting in Carnegie Hall with 2,000 women present, and Mrs. Francis D. Roosevelt and Mrs. D. I. Spur, Mrs. Findlay Shepherd and the Commander, Tuesday and Wednesday was occupied with special field affairs, conferences with three sermons daily.

"The biggest thing of its kind ever held in this country and will undoubtedly be a mighty impetus to Salvation Army activities in the days to come."

EX-JAP DIPLOMAT BREAKS SILENCE

Speaks on Our Congress Passing Immigration Law Excluding the Japanese.

Tokyo, May 23.—(AP)—Masanao Hanihara, Japanese ambassador to the United States in 1924, when Congress passed the immigration law excluding Japanese, today broke six years of silence regarding that incident with a dramatic speech at the farewell dinner for William R. Castle, Jr., special American Ambassador to Japan.

Hanihara described before the Japan-America Society the famous episode in which his letter referring to "grave consequences" figured so prominently and ended his diplomatic career.

"One thing must be said to dispel the popular misconception as to the true nature of that regrettable incident. It is not so much a question as to whether one nation should or should not exercise its sovereign rights in regulating matters relating to its domestic affairs, as it is often represented to be. Rather it is a question of whether one people should treat another people sympathetically, fairly or unfairly."

HONOR NEGRO HERO

The grave in Ashby of a liberated negro slave, Black Prince Estabrook, who fought with the Continental Army in the Revolutionary battle of Concord, soon will bear a headstone similar to that which marks the graves of other heroes of that conflict.

The War Department that the petition of Brigadier General James Reed Chapter, Sons of the American Revolution, for the headstone has been granted. Heretofore the grave has been marked only by the small American flag placed each Memorial Day by veterans organizations.

Black Prince Estabrook was in the employ of the ancestors of Representative Henry A. Estabrook of this city at the Concord homestead when the war started. He was wounded at Concord and later served in other Revolutionary engagements. He died in 1830.

U. S. AS A MODEL FOR TURKEY NOW
Foreign Minister, in Interview, Says That Turkey is for All Modern Things.

Angora, Turkey.—(AP)—Turkey is taking the United States as her model in her attempt to develop a prosperous nation.

These policies credited to America—peace on earth, time is money, honest business, no bargaining, women first—were ticked off one by one in an interview by Teyfik Ruchdi Bey, foreign minister, as the mottoes of the new Turkey.

The interview was on the basis of development in American-Turkish relations, brought about by the going into effect of the treaty of commerce—the first between the two countries.

"It took only 30 minutes to elaborate the bases of that treaty," said the foreign minister, "because to the United States and the new Turkey bargaining is distasteful and they can't afford to lose time thereby."

Still Bargaining
"Bargaining in international relations still unfortunately exists in some parts of the world but the United States and Turkey want to do what is reciprocally just and do it in the fastest way possible. America and Turkey are quick to comprehend needs because both are nations created something new."

The foreign minister pointed out that American goods as well as ideas were gaining rapidly in Turkey.

"Automatically certain American goods are replacing other makes in our market because we find greater utility in them and they are more to our taste, hence American-Turkish commercial relations are becoming increasingly important."

U. S. as a Model
Asked what share America's example had upon the Turkish government's recent extension of the franchise to women, the minister replied:

"A great deal. That example, as well as the proof our women have given of their ability, determined us to give them the vote before they wasted time in useless propaganda."

"The new Turkish government anticipates the desires of its people by handing them new rights and duties, meanwhile constantly preparing them to desire higher things. That is our way of making up time lost by centuries of ignorance and oppression under the sultans."

As a final great bond between the American and Turkish republics, the minister called attention to their mutual striving for peace. He said Turkey had cut her defense appropriations this year and confirmed reports that Turkey and Greece, once considered insatiable enemies, would hold a naval parity conference as soon as negotiations concerning the property claims of exchanged populations are concluded.

JAMES EADS' BIRTH

On May 23, 1820, James Buchanan Eads, noted American engineer who developed and carried out a plan of deepening the mouth of the Mississippi by means of jetties, was born at Lawrenceburg, Ind.

When he was 13 young Eads moved to St. Louis, where, after working in a dry goods house, he became a clerk on a Mississippi steambot. Through his own studies of navigation Eads brought himself into the limelight by proposing ingenious solutions of the problems then existing in river traffic.

At the outbreak of the Civil War President Lincoln called him to Washington to discuss the practicability of maintaining a fleet of gunboats on the Mississippi. Eads obtained a government contract for such a fleet and within the short space of 100 days placed seven iron clads, fully equipped, on the river. Later, they helped capture Fort Henry.

In 1874 Eads constructed the steel-arch bridge across the Mississippi at St. Louis which ranked for many years as one of the finest bridges in the world. The crowning achievement of his career, however, was the construction of jetties for the deepening of the river. In 1884 Eads received the Albert Medal, conferred by the British Society for the Encouragement of Arts, Manufactures and Commerce. He was the first American to receive the award.

DAWES GETS DEGREE

Manchester, Eng., May 23.—(AP)—Charles G. Dawes, American ambassador, this afternoon in Trade Hall was given the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws of Manchester University. He was one of several upon whom the honor was conferred.

The ceremonies were in connection with the jubilee of Manchester University and its eightieth founders day as Owens College.

General Dawes, accepting the degree, said: "This community and country well may rejoice that it has developed a character which, if this were a convocation of the universities of the world to confer degrees, would entitle it to one of the highest."

The ambassador described the degrees as "degrees in the school of life as well as in the university." He spoke for all of the honorary graduates expressing their appreciation.

WOODEN IBIS STOLEN

Cambridge, Mass., May 23.—(AP) Gone from the sanctum of the Harvard Lampoon, undergraduates comic magazine, is the treasured wooden ibis.

The carved image of the legendary bird of the head waters of the Nile, the destroyer of snakes, is in the custody of either the Yale Record or the Harvard Crimson—in the belief of Lampy's editors.

Relations have been traditionally strained with the rival publications. The Yale football fence, stolen last year, appeared mysteriously later at a Lampon dinner to which Yale men had been invited. Only last Monday, a Lampon advertisement was found rubber stamped on every issue of the Crimson, after the issue had been printed but before distribution.

Resentful of suspicion, the Crimson editors immediately offered to pay the expenses of former Police Commissioner Grover A. Whalen to come from New York to investigate.

CONNIE'S PREDICAMENT

State's Attorney William H. Comley has assigned Lewis' trial in this city upon charges of operating a lottery for the same date. He has entered a plea of not guilty here and has elected to be tried by jury. It was announced at the office of the state's attorney today that no change had been made in the scheduled trial here for Tuesday.

REDS VICTORIOUS

Amoy, China, May 23.—(AP)—Due to strong opposition of Communists the Anti-Red campaign waged by Chinese authorities here virtually ended today.

The Communists apparently won their attempt to halt an official drive to expose Red activity in South China. Officials were reticent, however, raiding was stopped and no further arrests made.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Long Neck)
Question:—N. C. writes: "My neck is very long and I would like to know if it is possible to shorten it without an operation. I have been using an apparatus I bought, something like suspenders, that fits under the arms and over the head, and is supposed to press your neck down from one to two inches, but I get no results. It only makes my neck stiff. What is your advice?"
Answer: You cannot make your neck any shorter by an operation or otherwise. You can develop the muscles at the side of the neck and also the shoulder so that the neck

In an actress it's Personality

in a cigarette it's Taste

IT TAKES SOMETHING MORE than good looks to hold the center of the stage—and something more than mere mildness in a cigarette to win the popularity that Chesterfield enjoys.

IT'S THE TASTE, of course—and there's a lot of difference between mildness alone and mildness with taste . . . between ordinary tobaccos and quality tobaccos . . . between ordinary blending and the Chesterfield blend.

TASTE A CHESTERFIELD!—Mildness is there, of course, but much more . . . delicate richness, fragrant aroma, and—"TASTE above everything".

We state it as our honest belief that the tobaccos used in Chesterfield cigarettes are of finer quality and hence of better taste than in any other cigarette at the price. LIGHT & MILD TOBACCO.

VON BUELOW'S PLAN IS NOW REVEALED

Germany's Second Bismark Wrote Letter Before His Death, Explaining Theory.

Berlin—(AP)—A letter written by the late Prince Bernhard von Buelow, called Germany's "second Bismark," indicates that he had been chancellor early in the World War, the history of that conflict might have been written differently.

Prince von Buelow wrote the letter to Theodore Wolf, editor-in-chief of the Berliner Tageblatt, with the understanding that his views might be published after death. He died last year.

The prince, who was considered the iron chancellor's foremost disciple and often was described as the only 100 per cent chancellor since Bismark, throughout the nine years of his chancellorship (1900-09) rigidly adhered to Bismark's dogma for Germany to foster friendship with Russia at all costs, on one hand, and always keep aloof from England on the other.

But in 1915 the writer confessed that he had been chancellor early in the war he would have left nothing undone to reach a peaceful settlement with England.

"I should never have approved of the Reichstag's foolish peace resolution nor the Kaiser's whining peace letter to Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg," he said. "But through some serious intermixture like the King of Denmark, the Pope or the King of Spain would have advised the English of our readiness to give up Belgium without any reservations, 'neatly and clearly'."

"If necessary, I should even have been prepared to consider a French-Lorraine combination. And even if there had been no inclination on England's part toward peace, which I doubt, there was no excuse for our blundering into Wilson's plan. On the contrary, it behooved us to concentrate all our forces, all our energies at home and at the front for a fight to a finish. The result could not have been more disastrous than after our capitulation."

"I should never have given Austria carte blanche in dealing with Serbia but should have insisted on knowing the contents of the Austrian ultimatum before its despatch to Serbia."

"In no circumstances should I have allowed the Austrians, after only a hasty perusal of Serbia's reply, to pronounce it inadequate, to sever all diplomatic relations and start military activities."

"Nor should I have had Germany send France and Russia a declaration of war and thereby estranged first Rumania and then Italy from our central European family agreement."

"Heroin von Bethmann and von Jagow committed a grave blunder."

"Of course, I should never have agreed to an invasion of Belgium as long as the Belgian neutrality was not being violated by our adventuraries."

"I doubt whether I would have permitted the submarine campaign, certainly not at the time and in the circumstances in which unfortunately this mode of warfare was introduced."

"And I should have insisted that immediately after the outbreak of war our navy go to action, in respect of the risk or peril involved."

HUSBAND SAVES WIFE AFTER FIERCE QUARREL

Pittsburgh, May 23—(AP)—When Mrs. Gertrude Decars is able to leave the hospital, she is going back home with her husband, John, who she left last Sunday and who rescued her from drowning last night, when she leaped from a bridge in an attempt to end her life.

They met on a street in McKeesport, a suburb and renewed the violent quarrel which caused their separation. In the heat of the controversy, Mrs. Decars turned and fled toward the bridge. Decars sensed that she might hurt herself from the bridge, he told police afterwards.

He ran to the river bank when he saw it would be futile to attempt to head her off. Mrs. Decars hurried to the middle of the bridge and plunged into the water. Decars made a dive at almost the same instant.

Pedestrians who saw the woman leap cheered as the husband carried his wife from the river.

At the hospital today, it was said that aside from shock, Mrs. Decars was none the worse for her experience.

BOY SMUGGLER DROWNED

Buffalo, N. Y., May 23—(AP)—As the result yesterday of the drowning of a boy rumrunner, Federal officials of the western New York district have revived a campaign against liquor barons, who hire lads in their teens to row liquor across the Niagara River from Canada. Boys have been employed extensively in this practice during the past year, their presence alone in boats leading to less suspicion on the part of the border patrol.

IN NEW YORK

New York, May 23.—The calendar of the week—
Sunday—Over to a party given by Harriet Hoctor, who has been acclaimed our leading dancer. And more than ever am I amazed at how little fame and fortune have affected this young artist. Every time I pick up a national magazine I see a new picture of her; her name is in the big lights and she is "billed" in big type all over the city of New York.

Yet she lives quietly in a nice old-fashioned brownstone home on Murray Hill, works hard and remains unspoiled. If you didn't know her you'd swear she was the nice girl you took to your first fraternity prom. There are, sadly, too few of her type around this man's town.

Gals with one-hundredth her ability go about with arched noses, play the rackets until dawn—and get nowhere, but make an awful noise getting there.

And at the party was chic Bobbe Arnot, as cute a youngster as Broadway has on display. And though a favorite, she too is living proof that you can go right on Broadway.

Monday—and away on the most thrilling and scariest flight ever I have taken. For, thanks to the hospitality of Mrs. Helen Dahlberg, I found myself in an amphibian driven by a former army pilot who was bent on making this an unforgettable event. So he picked on the 1080-foot Chrysler tower, by way of demonstration. And had the aerial cops been out that day we should all have been pinched for aerial misconduct.

And for all those who have a stomach for such things, I recommend a few loops, dips and turns around a New York skyscraper, with aerial plane wings all but scraping the sides of the building.

As for myself, I still wake up toward dawn with nightmares clutching at my throat.

Tuesday—Up to a literary tea given for Alice Waugh, who was brought over from Lunnon by the Literary Guild, which is broadcasting his book, "Hot Countries." But so hot was the day that Waugh apologized to Tahiti and Sues and other warm spots.

But there I encountered Idwal Jones, who writes of books and editorial matters for the American, who told me he had found time to turn out two novels on the side. And so ashamed of my indolence did this make me that I took an oath to lead a better life.

Wednesday—Over to watch Paul Whitman getting measured for his shirts. And upon asking if I couldn't borrow one for an evening, got a nasty look.

So I wandered in on a luncheon for Rens Fulop-Miller, the Austrian writer who wrote a fine biography of Rasputin and, more recently, penned a book about the Jesuit priests. But my linguistic accomplishments being what they are, our conversation consisted largely of "Nein" and "Yah."

Thus out into the street where, near Fifth avenue, I was attracted to a crowd of small boys, only to find that they had found a daring soul abroad with the first straw hat of the year.

Another crowd in front of the Palace theater had been drawn by two urchins who, stripped to the waist, were giving their own version of how a kooch dance used to be wigged by "little Fatima" in tent back of the side-shows.

NEW LONDON CASE

The New London episode which resulted in the shooting and killing of a citizen by a police officer is not purely local concern but the affair of other communities as well.

NOISY AIR MOTORS

The rising tide of indignation over the multitude of raucous noises amid which urban Americans live has reached to the gates of the aviation fields and many are the protests that are being entered against the devilish clangor set up by airplanes.

DIVERSIFICATION

The newspapers continue to speculate as to the significance of the lack of population growth among the larger cities of the state and most of them accept the more or less obvious explanation that these cities haven't really failed to grow rapidly but have, so to speak, done their growing beyond their arbitrary geographical limits.

WILD LIFE COMMITTEE

The United States Senate Committee on Wild Life Resources, of which Senator Frederick S. Walcott of this state is chairman, is likely to become a wholly unique institution as being the one committee of Congress in which several millions of Americans will take a friendly, if not an affectionate interest.

a suspension or serious curtailment of activity in those two or three industries. But how it particularly affects population one way or the other we fail to comprehend.

ORGANIZED MINORITY

Apparently we are about to have in Connecticut a demonstration of that power of organized minorities which, in federal affairs, was responsible for the adoption of the Eighteenth amendment.

NEW WICKERSHAM REPORT

There will be considerable curiosity during the next few days as to the character of the communication to be addressed by the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission to the House Judiciary Committee next Monday.

WASHINGTON LETTER

BY RODNEY DUTCHER, NEA Service Writer

Washington, May 23.—The good old American conscience, which has caused so much misery, shows no signs of wearing out.

vast multitude of nature lovers are bound to understand each other well and Senator Walcott's group will command the eyes and ears of untold thousands who don't give a hoot what the Foreign Relations Committee does—or any other committee of either house.

There are a great many persons who have always believed that the Hoover Commission is not really as dry-minded as it superficially appears to be—that its recommendations to Congress were more in line with giving the "noble experiment" every chance than with the conviction of its members that the experiment could ever succeed.

Washington, May 23.—The good old American conscience, which has caused so much misery, shows no signs of wearing out. For more than a hundred years an average of about $5000 annually has been dribbling into the treasury's "conscience fund."

HELP YOURSELF TO GOLDEN SUNLIGHT

If you never have taken sun baths you should resolve to begin this year; if you are accustomed to taking them you will not need to be told, as you no doubt already know the benefits and pleasures of sun bathing.

FIND HIDDEN GEMS.

Bryansk, U. S. S. R. May 23.—(AP)—Nearly twenty pounds of rare gold coins, jewelry, precious stones and antique firearms, believed to have belonged to the late General Trepo, Czarist chief of police, today were discovered hidden in the garden of his former estate here.
General Trepo was the official held responsible for the massacres of "Blood Sunday," Jan. 22, 1905. The Harvard Club bridge team twice defeated the players from Yale. And probably because they had better training in tackling the dummy.

DAILY RADIO PROGRAM

Friday, May 23.

For many years soldiers of all English-speaking armies have bid farewell to each other by playing music. It is "I Left Behind Me," which will be featured by the male quartet and a string foursome in the hour which WEAF and associated stations will broadcast at 9:30 Friday night. The program will present old-time favorites for male groups including the roundelay, "McDonald's Farm," a comedy skit about the animals on the farm, and "My Heart Belongs to the Girl Who Belongs to Somebody Else." The love of a great artist who lived only of wealth and comfort in the present, will be dramatized for listeners of the radio by Ed. Heelan. When Richard Wagner was twenty-three years old he married Minnie Fisher, a pretty singer and actress. Wagner was totally unreciprocated as a composer, and before long she herself seemed to dreggery and poverty in order that her husband might wait for her, which she always "just around the corner."

NICARAGUAN ELECTIONS

Washington, May 23.—(AP)—Three hundred enlisted men and ten officers of the Navy are to be transported to Nicaragua in July to supervise the November election. The men will be assembled at Coco Solo, Canal Zone, early in June and moved to Corinto and Bluefields, Nicaragua, the next month. They will be distributed throughout the country to prepare for the election. The naval personnel already is being trained under the direction of Captain Andrew S. Hickey. He will be an assistant to the president of the Nicaraguan National Board of Election, for which post President Hoover has suggested Captain Alfred W. Johnson of the Navy.

DURANT NOT TO RUN

Hartford, May 23.—(AP)—The population of New Britain was placed at 67,843 according to a preliminary announcement of figures for that city released by William M. Farley, supervisor of the census for the second district of Connecticut today. The city has shown an increase of 8,527 or approximately 14.1-2 percent since the 1920 census, when the total population amounted to 59,316 persons.

TO QUESTION SAILOR ABOUT DOUBLE MURDER

Tom's River, N. J., May 23.—(AP)—When the U. S. S. Overton docks at Providence, R. I., tomorrow morning, a sailor will be questioned about the killing of Robert Evans and Albert Duffy. Evans, who was discharged from the Overton last week, and Duffy were killed in the Evans home here, Lester Underdown, a Marine from the naval air station at Lakehurst, was arrested on a charge of murder. Mrs. Evans was held as a material witness and search was begun for Jiles Bagwell, another Marine from the air station who was absent without leave. Officials were informed that the sailor who will be questioned on the Overton has information that Bagwell boarded the ship at New York the day of the killings and asked for Evans, who he told had already left for his home. It is considered possible that the sailor may have heard the Marine say something which would supply valuable clues to the prosecutor. Mrs. Evans first said that her husband and Duffy killed each other in a drunken brawl but later said that three Marines did the killing, the named Underdown as one of them.

SYRIA NOW A REPUBLIC

Paris, May 23.—(AP)—France today gave a republican constitution to all of mandated Syria except the state of Lebanon, which already is a republic. The action sets up a regime previously fashioned by the Syrian Constituent Assembly but limits it by retaining for France the full authority of maintaining order, defending the country and regulating foreign affairs. High Commissioner Ponsot, at Beirut proclaimed the constitution today and will call elections shortly at which all male citizens of legal standing and twenty years old may vote. The president will be elected by the Chamber of Deputies for a three year term. He must be a Mussulman, but full religious liberty, modern standards of living and property rights are guaranteed by the constitution. There now are two republics in mandated Syria, Lebanon, established in 1927 and the new state of Syria. This latter has within it three somewhat autonomous regions. One of these is Djebel Druze, whose wild tribes have long ago captured so much trouble for the two republics form a sort of federation under a coordinating agreement which the French high commissioner also promulgated. The Syrian Assembly was adjourned indefinitely by resolution when the constitution which it had drafted, adding the single article reserving to France her authority over various affairs while the mandate continues.

Queer Twists In Day's News

Harrisburg, Pa.—In a desperate defense of his realm against an invader a bald eagle has perished in Buffalo valley, Perrin county. Farmers saw him make a furious swoop at an airplane as it appeared over the mountains. He hit the propeller head on. The farmers found the decapitated body. The wing spread was six feet. Montreal—Why do lady frogs croak? Dr. John Tate and W. J. McNally have answered the question in papers read to the Royal Society of Canada. It is because they are in love. Mlle. Frog's typical noise is equivalent to a sigh. She is heart and makes known her affection. Emerald, Northern Queensland—Bitten by the head of a snake entangled in his bullwhip, Joseph Smith, drover, has recovered after hospital treatment. He flicked the head from a death adder and the head struck him in one shoulder. Noting two small red punctures, he cut them with his knife and galloped to a hospital where he collapsed.

SAVE WILD LIFE
WALCOTT'S SLOGAN

Connecticut Senator Chairman of Committee Now Investigating the Subject.

Washington, D. C. — A special committee of the United States Senate has been appointed to investigate all matters pertaining to the replacement and conservation of wild life (including aquatic and bird life) with a view to determining the most appropriate methods for carrying out such purposes, together with its recommendations for the necessary legislation.

The committee has been instructed to report its findings to the Senate as soon as possible and not later than the beginning of the first regular session of the next Congress. It has been given full power to call witnesses and take testimony under oath and also to conduct the production of all data in connection with the subject. This action by the Senate is the broadest and most comprehensive yet taken to conserve the birds, fish and wild animals of our nation.

The activities of the committee will necessarily cover a vast range of subjects, including federal game reservations, bird sanctuaries, wild life in our national parks and forests, the problem of migratory birds, of upland birds, of predatory animals and of fishes of the Atlantic, Pacific, gulf and inland waters. The study will also have to deal with the seal industry, the fur industry, the fur industry and all others connected with wild animal, aquatic and bird life. The plan of the committee is to make an exhaustive study of all of these problems and the laws connected with them. To do this they will call upon the Biological Survey and the commissioners of bird sanctuaries and game reservations of the Department of Agriculture; the Bureau of Fisheries of the Department of Commerce; the national parks and national monuments of the Department of the Interior; the state departments of game and fisheries and all national organizations in any way connected with the subject.

This is a research work of very large proportions and will probably require a year or more to assemble, classify and digest the facts. After all recommendations from governmental, individual and private sources have been assembled and studied, it is the intention of the committee to recommend to the United States Senate any changes or additions that they consider necessary in or to existing laws pertaining to conservation.

Not Partisan Board
The committee is strictly non-partisan. In the appointment of it, Vice President Curtis chose not only those Senators whom he considered best qualified, but he also endeavored to distribute his selection geographically. The Pacific states, the Atlantic states, the mountainous states, the Central and Southern states, and those adjacent to the Canadian border are all represented. Senator Frederic W. Walcott is chairman. He was for seven years president of the Connecticut State Board of Fish and Game and was chairman of the State Water Commission. He has been a leader for many years in investigations having to do with the conservation and preservation of game in various parts of the country.

Senator Harry E. Hawes, vice chairman, has been a widely known authority on fish and game for twenty-five years. He is the author of the Upper Mississippi Wild Life, Fish and Game Refuge Bill, which was the first constructive measure involving the direct expenditure of government money for reclamation and conservation of the waters of the Upper Mississippi River. He is also the author of various other bills relating to the preservation of fish and game and is a member representing the Senate on the Migratory Bird Commission. As a member of Congress he was spokesman for the Isaak Walton League.

Authors of Bill
Senators Hawes and Walcott are the authors of the present bill on wild life resources. The other members of the committee are as follows:

Senator Key Pittman, who is now beginning his 18th year in the United States Senate, has been identified with national legislation in relation to fish and game conservation throughout his career. Part of his early life was spent in Alaska where he took prominent part in the gold rush as prosecuting attorney at Nome. He is thoroughly familiar with the national park, national forest and game sanctuaries of America.

Senator Charles L. McNary has uniformly supported wild life conservation. He is the author of the Fish and Wild Life Refuge Bill and the amended Alaska game laws. Senator McNary is chairman of the Committee on Agriculture and has in this capacity become an authority on the farmers' needs in the matter of conservation.

Senator Peter Norbeck is likewise with Senator Hawes on the Migratory Bird Commission. He is author of the bill creating this commission. He was also the author of the Game Refuge Bill, the Protection of the American Eagle Bill and the Predatory Animal Control Bill.

Its Secretary
The committee has chosen as its secretary, Morris Legendre, a graduate of Princeton and a Rhodes scholar to Oxford. He has made extensive studies of wild life not only in the United States but also as a member of scientific expeditions to Africa, Asia, Alaska and the South Seas.

The committee hopes that the exhaustive study it plans to make will enable it to form a national legislative policy for the replacement and protection of the wild life resources of the nation that will endure for many years, a policy which has for its purpose the perpetuation of the wild life of our nation so that the future generations may enjoy it. Organizations and individuals who are interested in this matter should address their inquiries or suggestions to the committee, Room 207, Senate Office Building, Washington, D. C.

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

By RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Natalie Converse, jealous of her husband, quarrels over Bernard Lamont. Alan seeks sympathy from his secretary, Philippa West, who successfully schemes to arouse Natalie's suspicions, and she leaves Alan. Wounded pride prevents her from seeking a reconciliation, and Alan turns to Philippa who plays her part so cleverly that they soon become engaged.

Natalie writes Alan, informing him of her return. Philippa, fearing of losing Alan, tells him she is obliged to leave home, because of trouble with her father. Alan's meeting with Philippa, who brings her young sister, Florence, with her, leaves Alan hopeful, but baffled as to Natalie's intentions. Ashamed of his neglect of Philippa, he goes to her apartment the next day, and without direct words, she agrees to pay for the furnishings. Natalie asks to talk to him, and he invites himself to dinner. He goes home to dress and is about to leave when Philippa telephones. She appears distraught and hurt when she tells her he cannot take her to dinner.

After an evening of friendly but evasive talk, Natalie appeals to his love for her, and Alan, torn by his knowledge of his love for her, and his entanglement with Philippa, is silent. Natalie believes that Alan does not love her. Alan goes, asking if he may return the next evening.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XXXI.

It was not a week before Alan was back in his home. Though there had been a short period during which he believed he never would live here again, for Philippa had flatly refused to release him from his engagement. When he left Natalie to seek this release, he went to Philippa's apartment, and found her engaged in making it habitable with the few pieces of furniture that had been delivered that day.

He could see on her face traces of the mental storm she had been through. But he did not know that it was temper; he thought it was pain. He felt like a brute all evening over the way he let her down about dinner and getting moved. His feeling had perhaps made it impossible for him and Natalie to reach an understanding. Philippa, less on his conscience, might not have stood so immovably in his way.

But he decided to face the issue with her squarely, and now he was a moral coward. She plainly showed her surprise at seeing him, and essayed a sweetly welcoming smile. He began by apologizing for calling so late.

"But I had to talk with you, Philippa," he went on and this is better than the office.

"Oh, I couldn't have gone to sleep anyway," Philippa assured him hurriedly. She wanted to talk too, anxious to put him right if he had any wrong ideas.

Alan looked around for a place to sit.

have done it! I can't stand it, oh, don't you see? I can't stand it!"

She had slipped from her chair to the floor, a huddled head of misery that wrenched and tore at Alan's heart.

He was speechless with contrition. Philippa raved on. "Oh, what a fool I've been. What a fool to love you like I do. My whole life is ruined." She swayed writhingly, as though in actual physical pain.

"Philippa, for God's sake, don't," Alan entreated her.

load of this. I'm cunnin' too, else I couldn't put this over. So when I sacrifice, look out."

"But you're doin' this for your sister."

"Uhuh, and for you and me too, Gee, Andy, it'll be nice when Alan and Natalie make up. Think of the parties she'll give for us, especially after you buy me a ring."

"Hey, baby, you're speedin'. I got to get set before I think of rings."

"A dollar down and a dollar a week, I already know a place. And I do want to see Nat her old self again." Florence's young voice, swiftly changing from teasing candor to wistful tenderness revealed the disposition that made Andrew's heart thump with fondness for her. Gee, she was a sweet kid.

They ate their table d'hôte dinner in reckless haste, and hid themselves off to the nearest public library, which happened to be the one at Fifth Avenue and Forty-second Street.

There, after a bit of research work, they found what they wanted. Then they went to a drug store, and came out laughing in high glee.

"But just the same," Andrew confessed, "I'm glad it isn't me."

"I'll be worth it," Florence assured him light-heartedly.

She hurriedly drove over to the Grand Central Station and caught a train on the run. Florence's plan would not be put into effect until they reached Hillsdale.

There they engaged a taxicab and had themselves driven to a corner down the street where Florence had located a store with public telephones. Andrew got out and went in.

Florence, in the taxicab, opened her bag and dug out the package they had got in the drug store. She could see Andrew through the plate glass windows, entering a telephone booth. She undid the package and waited.

In a few minutes Andrew came out of the booth and walked to the soda fountain. With the nonchalance of youth, he asked for a glass of water without making a purchase.

"For the lady outside in a cab," he explained as he walked toward the glass. "I belong in a high class neighborhood, the fountain attendant made no objections."

He looked out, however, and saw a creamy-gloved hand take the glass from the young man and disappear in the depths of the cab. Then he went on pouring chocolate syrup into a container.

Andrew hurried in with the glass, then sped back to Florence.

"Well," she asked, as he climbed in beside her, "was she scared?"

IN NEW YORK THEATERS

By DEMING SEYMOUR

New York. When the week brings a single new play, and that new play is enacted before a single set by a single actor, the theater season may fairly be said to have reached its nadir.

The play is "Courtisan," its sole player is Elsa Shelley, and suitably enough, even in this day of multiple-collaborations, it has a single author; Irving Kaye Davis.

With the aid of a telephone and an assorted handful of offstage noises, Miss Shelley acts out for us the story of Miss Alice Trevor. Miss Trevor was a young woman who was kept by her real love who was Sergei Rikoboff.

She quitted over the telephone with the millionaire who was responsible for her life of ease; she presently slew the young Russian, who was a pianist on the floor below and who turned out to be just like all the rest of the men she had known. And at last, maybe out of sheer enmity, she committed suicide.

As a novelty "Courtisan" is more in keeping with the standard of Miss Shelley at her telephone and for the audience on its own side of the footlights. Probably with, say, half a dozen actors it would be as good melodrama as most.

Even "Jealousy," with two persons in its cast—and they no less than Fay Bainter and John Hilday—and with all its exciting drama, did not succeed last season in being quite unwearying in spots; and so, frankly is "Courtisan."

That's not Miss Shelley's fault. It's doubtful whether Ruth Draper could make it any more exciting.

Miss Le Gallienne's Juliet in "Eva Le Gallienne is doing, at her Civic Repertory theater down in Fourteenth street, the part of Juliet—and doing it with some little distinction."

In spite of a Romeo who is somewhat less than perfect, her vitzalization of the Shakespeare heroine is more than ordinarily sound and believable.

A good many of the current generation of theater-goers believe the best Juliet of this era to have been Jane Cowl; and as many more, when they have seen Miss Le Gallienne's Juliet, will prefer it to Miss Cowl's for its slightly less saccharine quality.

The Lilliputians on Broadway is a school to which go children who are acting on their own, because their parents are acting, can't live ordered lives and go to schools of the usual sort.

The youngsters of this Professional Children's school gave "The Would-Be Gentleman" the other day and did it with a treble effect of sincerity and a juvenile forthrightness which made it an unalloyed delight.

The children range from seven to 15 years of age, and it seems quite incredible to think that some of these days, when they have grown up, they probably won't all be good actors.

SISTER MARY'S KITCHEN

BY SISTER MARY

Many times tables for roasting and baking and broiling and stewing have been worked out and the beginner in cooking will find them invaluable; but there are many factors that must be considered in the cooking of meats and vegetables. Time tables cannot specify the varying age, ripeness, and size of materials.

The experienced housekeeper has a definite routine she follows in preparing a meal. Many new cooks, however, have known the unpleasantness of finding part of the meat cold or dried out before the rest is done enough to eat.

Young, freshly gathered vegetables will cook in less time than ripened ones. Vegetables which have wilted will take longer to cook than fresh, unwithered ones.

The size and shape of the vegetable enters into the problem. Small vegetables or large ones cut in small pieces will cook quicker than those left whole. The more surface exposed, the shorter the cooking period.

Allow for Time. The time required for preparing vegetables for cooking must be considered in the planning of the whole meal. Green peas should cook in 20 to 30 minutes. The time depends on the maturity of the peas. But it takes time to shell peas, longer than preparing beans or paring potatoes, so they are not a good vegetable to choose when dinner must be served in 30 minutes.

Asparagus cooks quickly and is quickly prepared. Thirty minutes should be allowed for cooking this vegetable. Green beans cut in diamonds should cook in 30 minutes. If the beans are young and tender and freshly picked, they will be deliciously tender and delicate in this length of time. But we can't all gather our vegetables from the garden, so in order to cook the beans quickly and preserve their color they are cut lengthwise before cutting in short pieces. This takes time and must be calculated and allowed for in preparing the meal.

New carrots cook tender in 15 or 20 minutes. Since they are lightly scraped, they are quickly prepared and only a few minutes need be allowed for their preparation. New beets require only a thorough scrubbing before cooking, and as they should cook in 30 to 40 minutes, they are an excellent vegetable to use when an hour is allowed for the meal's preparation.

STAR IN SANITARIUM. Los Angeles, May 23.—(AP)—Jeta Goudal, motion picture actress, was in a sanitarium here today recuperating from a nervous breakdown. Hospital attendants said her condition was not critical.

STATE'S POPULATION. New Haven, May 23.—(AP)—The count of persons in the census went over the million mark today when the 1254 town out of 169 had been reported by the supervisors. The number in these towns was 1,010,913 as compared with 896,020 in 1920, an increase of 114,893 or about 12.8 per cent.

GAINS OF SCIENTIFIC MEDICINE SHOWN BY STUDY OF BLOOD

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN

Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

The average person considers blood as merely a fluid which pours out of the skin when a cut is made. To the physician, the blood is one of the important tissues in the body. It is concerned largely with feeding the body cells, with enabling them to overcome the various diseases, and with transporting vital substances about the body.

The glands of internal secretion pour into the blood the substances which they elaborate, and these substances control the body's actions and reactions. The blood contains formed elements which can be seen under the microscope. These formed elements include red blood cells, white blood cells, and platelets.

The red blood cells contain hemoglobin, which is the red coloring matter, and which is responsible for the carrying of oxygen to the cells. The white blood cells are of several varieties. They change their character in times of disease, and they are associated definitely in attacking bacteria and other organisms which have entered the body from various parts of the body.

The blood forms anywhere from one-thirtieth to one-twentieth of the total body weight. There are from 4,000,000 to 5,000,000 red blood cells in each cubic millimeter of blood. The number of blood platelets falls for some reason below 30,000 for each cubic millimeter, sometimes hemorrhages occur under the skin and under the mucous membrane of the mouth and other portions of the body. When the number of platelets is increased, hemorrhages cease to appear.

It is believed that the platelets as well as the other formed elements in the blood are developed in the bone marrow, and that the spleen has something to do with the destruction and removal of defective blood elements.

Before the discovery of the microscope no one knew anything certain about the actual composition of the blood. In fact, it is only within recent years that the platelets were discovered and that their relationship was found between the platelets and various disease conditions. In many forms of septic infections, in tropical diseases such as malaria and similar eruptive skin disorders, the number of platelets is found to be greatly reduced and spots appear upon the skin.

Ordinarily, blood will coagulate or clot in two or three minutes. In some cases when the coagulating factors are interfered with, the blood fails to coagulate and there is a great danger of extensive hemorrhage. When the platelets are low, the blood may coagulate promptly, but the tendency to bleed is great. The facts that have been cited show how complex in character are the modern scientific investigations of disease conditions. They represent merely an angle of the evidence which is available to prove that scientific medicine has advanced more in the last 25 years than in the previous 50 centuries.

SAVONAROLA TRIBUTES

Florence, Italy, May 23.—(AP)—Flowers were piled high today at the foot of the Neptune monument in the Signoria Square in memory of the famous revolutionary monk Savonarola. At the base of the monument is a little tablet recording the fact that May 23, 1498, Savonarola was hanged and his body burned on that spot.

The newspaper did not print reminders of the rebel monk's anniversary, but the fact seemed, as in other years, to have lingered in memory. People came from many quarters and deposited their floral offerings at the Savonarola tablet. Many Americans were among them.

Savonarola had two great loves—the Christian religion and the Republic of Florence. He proclaimed Christ king of Florence and placed himself in opposition to the ruling Medic family. For a time, with the aid of King Charles VIII of France, Savonarola's rule, based on the law of Christ, prevailed in Florence. But Savonarola went far and the people of Florence turned against him. In some quarters he was regarded as a forerunner of the reformation.

One-Piece Frock With French Yoke

By ANNETTE

It is accompanied by bloomers. They are so entirely cute with frills above the knees peeping beneath the frock. They are held by an elastic inserted through the hem at the top at waistline. Elastic is also inserted through casings to form the knee frills.

Only two parts to the dress—a front and a back section. It is tucked front and back below the slashed openings. The lower edge is then joined to the upper edge forming the yoke effect.

Style No. 102 is designed for wee mounds of 2, 4 and 6 years. The 4-year size takes but 1½ yards of 27-inch material for dress and 1 yard of 27-inch for bloomers.

It is stitched in yellow and white cotton broadcloth print with the bloomers of plain yellow broadcloth. Sprigged dimity, dotted swiss, tub silks, linen and pique are lovely selections.

YOUR CHILDREN

There is always the problem that confronts the mother who has a family of boys—with one girl, or the mother of several girls—and one boy.

A certain psychology enters into a situation, especially if the unique member is the youngest. It is as natural as the wind that a conspicuity enters into the family group to spoil the child who immediately finds himself the center of adoration.

We all know such families and as a rule where the spoiling has reached a stage where outsiders begin to comment, it is usually to pity the other children who have to give in to the young autocrat, and to denounce the hapless youngster himself as a selfish little beast who too often proves to be worthy of the censure.

How many of us ever stop to think that the one really to be pitied under the circumstances is the child himself? Not many, I'm sure of that. Yet it is to him our sympathy should go. For of all the children on earth, the spoiled, pampered only son or daughter with a group of sisters or brothers of the opposite sex has less chance of rounding out as an unobtrusive individual in later life than almost anyone I know.

Now it just happens that thousands of such children do mature spoiled and normally and make outstanding citizens. The reasons are multiple and obvious. Either the family life is so normal and even that the very atmosphere of thoughtfulness and justice that surrounds him tends to balance all spoiling on their part. It happens sometimes that the child himself possesses qualities that step in and save him from any selfishness that has developed from over-indulgence. Again, too, before he is too hopelessly set in the wrong pattern, the parents themselves may realize that a wrong start has been made, re-vamp their own and the family attitude toward him, and save the day before it is too late.

But he'll Grow Up. It is not by the way, always the "odd" child who is selected for spoiling. The baby of almost any family shares honors with him when it comes to that. But there is one thing that usually rescues the baby. He doesn't stay a baby and soon after he can talk, walk and get about, he loses his halo, takes his place in the mixed group, as any other ordinary individual and shares fortune and misfortune alike with his brothers and sisters.

Why do we allow our affection and emotions toward the "different child" to warp our judgment? Why do we let him have his own way, permit rage tantrums, give him first choice, the largest servings, the best room, the finest toys? Why doesn't he ever have to do his share of family jobs? Why don't we get after him when he's lazy in school or if he is unfair with his playmates?

Chicago bandits should be given credit for suppressing at least one racket. They held up a jazz orchestra the other day and swiped all the instruments.

GIBBONS ASSEMBLY HAS BIG OPEN MEETING

About 250 at Enthusiastic Session in St. James's Hall Last Evening. Several Speakers.

Gibbons Assembly, Ladies of Columbus, named for the late Cardinal Gibbons, an outstanding Cardinal of the Catholic Church in America, held a very enthusiastic open meeting in the St. James church hall on Friday evening, which was attended by upwards of 250. Prominent among the speakers were the Chaplain of the organization, Rev. Father Reidy of St. James church, who opened the meeting with an address of welcome and welcomed the presence of representatives of Vicinity Assembly Ladies of Columbus of Rockville and Merrier Assembly of Hartford.

Miss Margaret Crane of Hartford, State President, spoke on the progress of the order in the state. Miss Charlotte Holoway of the State Department of Labor, speaking as a guest, outlined the work of that department and its efforts to better the working conditions of employed women. An interesting talk on the work and hopes of the Catholic Social Service Bureau of the State, which society attempts the betterment of Catholic homes where social conditions of today rend the family apart and especially the care of the children left often homeless and parentless by such conditions, was given by Miss Margaret T. Boylan, of Hartford, Director of this work in this section.

Rev. Francis Greyish of St. Peters Church of Hartford spoke most interestingly on the subject of Americanism and the Catholic church. An honored guest of the evening was Mrs. Margaret Dutton of Norwich, Honorary President of the State Council, who has many warm friends in Manchester.

Miss Arline Morarty entertained in her usual splendid manner with three solos as did Miss Alice Geary of Hartford, following which a buffet lunch with ice cream and punch was served in the dining hall. The evening was brought to a close with a decidedly humorous sketch furnished by talent from the Rockville Assembly.

The floral decorations, which were much admired, were by Mikowicki's Floral shop.

NO MYSTERY SHIP.

New York, May 23.—(AP)—Clarence Chamberlin denied today that he was planning any long distance flights this summer.

"Some one put two and two together and got fifteen," he said today when asked concerning the rumors.

"I am not building any mystery plane and I'm not planning any long flights. I'm entirely too busy."

"As for a mystery ship being constructed at my Jersey City plant, that's a lot of hokey. We are only doing regular construction work."

Bridge Needs Repairs

The bridge on Vernon avenue over the Hockanum river has been closed to traffic. While the Public Works Committee of the city were at work getting ready for resurfacing from West Main to Brooklyn street the bridge gave away. An examination showed the underpinnings and walls were weak.

The bridge is of the old style, but it is now planned to place strong concrete walls on either side of the river by building forms.

Another bridge on Minteburn Hill is receiving needed repairs and the work will soon be done.

Auto Accident

A slight auto accident occurred in the center of the city on Thursday morning when a car driven by Mrs. Doris Bamforth of 4 South street collided with a truck driven by Leo Dawidowicz of 144 West Main street. The former was driving down West Main street, near the Rock Mill and the man was driving up. The front axle on the truck was broken and the fender of the other car was damaged.

Starled By Blast

Many stories were in circulation, but it proved to be an explosion at the plant of the Thompsonville New England Fireworks Corporation.

The following girls are planning to attend: Eleanor Fumde, Agnes Zdarwid, Harriet Cheney, Virginia Straughan, Maude England, Lucy Waddell, Marion Ripplin, Lillian Hart, Elizabeth Washkevich, Dorothy Gaylor, Stella Gryk, Evelyn Bears, Doris Muldoon, Muriel Tomlinson, Pauline Emonds, Mary Tierney, Agnes Pomgraniz, Mary Miroglio, Gertrude Gerard, Hazel Rogers, Rebecca Harris, Lois Wilcox, Ella Packham, and Ruth Hale.

graduating class will wear caps and gowns during the graduation exercise is important as it seems to make a custom out of this practice which was introduced by the graduating class of last year.

Wheeling, W. Va., May 23.—(AP)—Bandits held up an automobile in which money was being taken from the Citizens Mutual Bank, of Wheeling to a Benwood bank today and escaped with two bags, one containing currency and the other silver. The bandits stopped Johnson's car by crashing into it with their own machine. A gas bomb then was thrown into the cashier's car.

The robbery occurred at Schad crossing in the southern section of Wheeling. The bandits fled south in an automobile after the robbery.

The girls who represented the various characters were quaintly dressed in the styles of 1886. Mrs. C. J. Strickland had charge of the musical numbers on the program, and to Mrs. C. E. NOTED PAINTER DIES

Los Angeles, May 23.—(AP)—Mrs. Elizabeth Prosser, 81, internationally known painter and claimant to an ancient English title, died late last night at her studio home atop one of Los Angeles' highest hills. Although she owned a luxurious home in Pasadena, Los Angeles, and New York, Mrs. Prosser eight years ago built a two-room studio on top of Loma hill, and since then she had lived there at home only to intimate friends.

Mrs. Prosser claimed that her ancestry dated back to the year 1254, and that Earl Bore of Cowdres, was one of her ancestors. Her attorney recently said the title was one of the few that could be transferred by female descent. She was the wife of William Prosser, pioneer Nevada silver mine owner. Before her marriage to Prosser she studied art in England, France and Germany.

REV. WATSON WOODRUFF UNDERGOES OPERATION

Seriously Ill on Sunday Pastor Continues in Pulpit—Condition Satisfactory.

Rev. Watson Woodruff, pastor of the Center Congregational church, underwent a major operation at the Memorial hospital at 8:30 this morning and his condition was reported as satisfactory.

Mr. Woodruff became ill late Saturday night but declined to make an eleventh hour change in the pastor of the Center Congregational church on Sunday. In addition to preaching the morning and evening services, Rev. Woodruff also officiated at a funeral.

Tuesday he underwent a thorough examination and it was decided that an operation was advisable. He was suffering from an infected kidney which was removed in the operation at 8:30 this morning. The surgeon and attending physician assured Mrs. Woodruff that her husband's condition was both satisfactory and favorable following the operation.

Rev. Woodruff will, of course, be unable to preach next Sunday and in his absence, Dr. William F. English, state secretary of the Missionary Society will occupy the pulpit.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.)

'Oh, gee,' cried Clowny, in a whirl. 'I only wish I had a girl. I'd purchase her a bunch of flowers, 'cause, my, but they smell sweet. I've never seen such nice bouquets that folks can buy, in all my days. To have a bunch of flowers like these would really be a treat.' The Travel Man said, 'You are right. They surely make a wonderful sight. But, lad, as long as you've no girl, we'll only buy a few. Just five, in fact, I'll purchase now and promptly I will show you how to pin one on each one of us. Come on, that's what I'll do.' And so the five were bought real quick and very shortly they looked slick pinned right upon the Tinymites. Said one, 'We look real swell! The flower I have is a big rose. That's one flower everybody knows. I only have to tip my head to get its lovely smell.' And then they wandered on their wax. The Travel Man said, 'Well today, we'll hike down to the fishing place and watch the fishermen. You'll see some fine sights, never fear. They catch some real big fish down here. A monster often grabs their hook and breaks it now and then.' They reached the spot, not far away, and Scouty shouted loud, 'Hurrah! I see a fisherman right now. I guess he's starting out. Before he goes I wish he'd tell us how they do it. Gee, I'll yell and tell him please to wait for us.' Then he began to shout. The fisherman then spread a smile and said, 'Why, sure, I'll loaf a while and tell you all about the fish. There's much that you can know.' The Tinymites then gathered 'round and squatted down upon the ground. The man then told his story in a manner loud and slow. (The Tinymites find out more about fish in the next story.)
