BIG AIRPLANE FALLS IN HUB; TWELVE HURT

Was Just Starting on New York Trip When It Crash- es Into Water; No Reason Apparent for Accident.

Boston, June 5.—(AP)—One passenger was perhaps fatally injured and 11 others, suffered minor injuries and immersion today when a tri-motored Colonial Air Transport plane fell into the waters off the Municipal Airport. Failure of the right motor was given by one of the passengers, a French aviator, as the cause of the accident.

Surgeons worked over the most seriously injured passenger in an ambulance, identity of the passenger was not immediately made known.

Coast Guard boats were assisted by privately owned craft in rescuing the 12 passengers and two pilots of the plane, a number of whom were removed through a hole in the side of the cabin. The plane itself was badly damaged.

BRITAIN AGAINST CHANNEL TUNNEL

Believed That It Would Weaken Empire Isolation from Mainland of Europe.

London, June 5.—(AP)—Prime Minister MacDonald informed the House of Commons this afternoon that the government had decided against the construction of the proposed English channel tunnel.

The prime minister said a statement on the subject would be circulated in a White paper tomorrow. He did not indicate in today's announcement the reasons leading to the Cabinet's decision against the project.

The project of a tunnel under the channel has been an idea that has long gripped the imagination of Great Britain but has never gone much beyond the investigation point.

Last March a committee which had studied the question made public a report saying it could see nothing against the feasibility of such a proposal. At the same time it was said that no definite opinion could be given until the ground was proved by the construction of a pilot tunnel.

If that tunnel is constructed, said the report, "we consider that on economic grounds the work should be carried on by private enterprise and not be accorded special financial assistance by the government."

It is on the grounds that the tunnel project would weaken Great Britain's isolation as an island and connect her to a dangerous degree with the European continent that political groups in distinct opposition in Great Britain.

AGED WOMEN TUMBLE AS VERANDA BREAKS

One Dead, One Dying and Third Hurt as Springfield Structure Collapses.

Springfield, June 5.—Three elderly women, neighbors, all widows, were looking at the plants which one of them, Mrs. Minnie Janatta, 70, was tending on the fourth floor veranda of an Arch street tenement house when the veranda collapsed yesterday. Mrs. Bridget E. Burrows, 73, died in a hospital from injuries. Mrs. Janatta was seriously hurt and Mrs. Jane Davis, 70, was rescued, having seized a guard rail and held on till help came.

A building inspector found that the header holding the floor joists had rotted. Police said there would be no arrest.

BANS STREET PARADES

Munich, Bavaria, June 5.—(AP)—The government has forbidden all pen air assemblies, processions or parades throughout Bavaria by political groups in distinctive uniformed clothing.

Numerous recent clashes between hostile political groups were held responsible for the order.

SELLS PAPERS, SPURNS FORTUNE

Son of Wealthy Parents Re- fuses to go Home—Located After a Long Search.

Colorado Springs, Colo., June 5.—(AP)—Discovered here where he was earning his living by selling newspapers, Peter Imhoff, 18, said to be a member of a wealthy Utica, N. Y., family, has refused voluntarily to return to his home.

Police here said the youth, a senior in Utica Academy, had been sought widely since his disappearance last October. Thousands of dollars, it was said, had been spent in the search.

Police Inspector I. B. Bruce notified Utica police after the youth was located. A telegraphic answer was received, asking if Imhoff would return home if money was sent him by his father. Bruce said the young man refused the offer.

ZEP REACHES SEVILLE ON FLIGHT HOME

Behind Schedule Because of Heavy Rains and Winds; Trip from Lakehurst Took 59 Hours and 8 Minutes.

Seville, Spain, June 5.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin completing the first stage of her return to Friedrichshafen from the United States, landed at the Seville Airdrome at 5:04 p. m. (12:04 p. m. E.S.T.).

Seville, June 5.—(AP)—Fresh from her seventh crossing of the Atlantic, the homebound dirigible Graf Zeppelin flew over the city of Seville today ready to disembark several passengers and then to continue on to Friedrichshafen.

The Graf, after fighting unfavorable weather conditions off the European coast, arrived over Seville at 5:20 p. m. (10:20 a. m. E.S.T.). She had been expected here early this morning but heavy rains and winds had forced her to divert from a straight course from the Azores and to swing to the north so that she made her landfall just south of Lisbon, Portugal.

Cheered By Populace

The Graf flew over the city of Seville to an accompaniment of cheers from the inhabitants who saw her last on May 20th when she left for Pernambuco, Brazil and the United States. The flight from Lakehurst to Seville took 59 hours and eight minutes.

After flying over Seville, the Graf continued on to the airport and circled above the port with the intention of cruising around until later in the afternoon before making her landing.

With her arrival over Seville, the Graf had completed about 16,000 miles of her 18,000 mile four-continent journey which started on May 18th.

Although it had been raining during most of the day, causing the Graf's listeners, the cheering cleared rapidly this afternoon and by mid-afternoon the sun was shining.

Vice-President Curtis Up- holds Democratic Point of Order at Today's Meeting

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—The tariff bill was returned to conference today for the fourth time when Vice President Curtis upheld a Democratic point of order against its rate provisions.

The rates questioned today are embraced in the original confer-

Doughertys Off for Quebec To Collect the $149,262

New York, June 5.—(AP)—It was still a question today in the family of Brooklyn whether Edward and Daniel, a brokerage clerk, or their father, a hotel doorman, owns the ticket which won $149,262 on the English Derby yesterday in a Quebec pool.

But on one thing the boys and Dougherty pere were agreed: Somebody ought to get up to

Furphy's Death Brings Happiness To Ex-Wife

When John Furphy died in a jail sentence imposed by the local court for just such attacks.

Leaves Town

However, Furphy's actions became so abusive his former wife feared to remain where he could find her. She packed where he could not follow her there. Her seven-year-old boy was left with her mother, Mrs. Sarah Hamill, of 16 Wadsworth street, here. She dreaded to leave her boy behind but she could not attend to his bringing up and earn a livelihood at the same time.

Can't Be Found

Upon leaving town Miss Freeburn said that she wanted to be informed if anything happened to her former husband or if he left town so that she could return. She made

TONG WAR IS RAGING IN 4 EASTERN CITIES

Two Dead—One Killed With Hatchet in Newark—Chi- cago Tongmen Use Ma- chine Gun But Miss Victim

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Chinese gunners and hatchet men went into action in four eastern cities today and last night, killing two men and leading police to fear that widespread Tong warfare might be impending.

The first trouble came last night when a group of Chinese adopting the modern manner of gangland feuds rode through Chicago's Chinatown in an effort to put Frank Chin "on the Chin Oak T'n" representative of the Chin Oak T'n Tong, was not touched by any of the bullets sprayed from pistols and a machine gun.

In Boston seven shots were fired into the headquarters of the Hip Sing Tong early today but again no one was injured.

Ha Gong, a waiter, was killed in New York by two men who hid in a doorway near his home outside the bounds of Chinatown, two revolvers were found near his body. He was a Hip Sing.

Scoring the modern methods of killing by gunfire, assassins attacked Eng Sing, a laundryman, in Newark today, and left him with a hatchet buried in his skull.

ROAD CELEBRATES 100TH BIRTHDAY

Great-Great Grandfather of All Steam Locomotives is Placed on Exhibition.

Lowell, Mass., June 5.—(AP)—The great great grandfather of all steam locomotives, side by side with one of its giant present day "offspring," today helped to commemorate New England's "Railroad Centennial."

In observance here joined in by representatives of city, state, the Boston and Maine Railroad, other New England railroads and New England industries, the incorporation on June 5, 1830, of the Boston and Lowell railroad was celebrated. The company was the first to be chartered in New England and the first of the 111 separate lines now forming the Boston and Maine system.

All day long a 15-foot model of the famous "Rocket," first practical locomotive a century ago, was on exhibition beside a new 100-foot Boston and Maine "4,000 class" locomotive in the business center of the city.

HIGH COURT'S RULE CALLED GROTESQUE

Without Drinker There Would Be No Traffic, Says Senator.

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Senator Sheppard called it "grotesque" today to consider liquor buyers innocent of law violation.

The Supreme Court has held them innocent under present law, and the Texas Senator was advocating approval by the judiciary committee of his bill to make buyers as guilty as bootleggers.

Sheppard testified press comments on the Supreme Court decision "have been to the effect that purchasers could now feel a profound relief and proceed to buy intoxicating liquor with impunity."

"The whole structure of liquor lawlessness rests upon the buyers of illicit liquor," he continued, "without him, traffic in illicit liquor could not persist."

Although the committee may act, there is little prospect of Senate action on Sheppard's bill at this session.

TREASURY BALANCE.

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for June 3 were, $4,813,911.14; expenditures, $9,157,114.58; balance, $100,289,341.52.

CHINESE REBS ARE SMASHING ENEMY'S LINES

Northern Forces Reach Stra- tegic Railroad Line; Gun- boats Protecting Foreign- ers in the Danger Zone.

Shanghai, June 5.—(AP)—Foreign naval dispatches tonight from Tsingtao and Chefoo, Shantung province said the Northern allied forces had crossed the Yellow River about 60 miles east of Tsinan, provincial capital, broken the Nationalist troops lines and reached the Tsinan-Tsingtao railway line in the neighborhood of Chowtsun.

The naval dispatches said the Nationalist defenses held near the strategic railway line and that a sharp engagement still was going on at the time the dispatches were filed, late in the day. It was stated, however, that service on the railroad had not been interrupted.

The development was said to have aroused apprehension among foreigners in Tsinan. Some prepared for a siege of the city, while numbers of others left for Tsingtao, on the coast 250 miles to the east.

Second Setback

This was the second setback of the day for the Nanking Nationalists. The first was the loss of the important city of Changsha, capital of Hunan province, to a motley horde of Chinese province rebels and bandits, known locally as the "Red Army."

Dispatches tonight from foreign gunboats standing off Changsha said Kwangsi forces totaling 20,000 men had occupied the city, and that Nationalist troops deflected from the central China front north of Chengchow, Honan province, retreated northward after making a feeble show of resistance, it was added.

All foreigners in Changsha had been concentrated on an island in the Ssang river off the city, the dispatches explained, where they were under the protection of the guns of foreign gunboats. Japanese residents were said to be evacuating the city, moving to Hankow, Hupey province, on the Yangtze river.

Army's Objective.

The declared objective of the "Red" Army is Hankow itself and

PRICE ON TIRES WILL BE REDUCED

Goodyear Co. Makes An- nouncement; Other Tire Companies to Follow Suit.

New York, June 5.—(AP)—The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, a leading tire manufacturing company in the country, today announced a cut effective immediately in the price of some of its tires and tubes and reports were current that other companies would announce reductions shortly.

P. W. Litchfield, president of the Goodyear Company, said that prices of four-ply passenger car size tires would be reduced approximately 5 per cent, and tubes will carry a similar reduction, he added that only a slight reduction will be made in the price of heavy duty passenger car tires, but that some increases also will be made.

The reduction, Mr. Litchfield said, means that retail tire buyers may purchase tires at the lowest prices in the history of the industry. Improved manufacturing methods and lower cost of crude rubber permit the cut, he said.

The price of crude rubber has been declining for some time along with a general break in world-wide commodity prices, and this week reached the lowest point in the history of the New York Rubber Exchange.

STRANGE TRIANGLE ENDS IN SHOOTING

Man Tries to Kill One of Two "Wives" After She Leaves His Home.

Cleveland, June 5.—(AP)—Mrs. Theresa Scilla, 34, who for 12 years had lived with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Ippolito in a strange triangle, was near death today after being shot by Ippolito last night.

Ippolito, police said, went to the home where Mrs. Scilla had been living since authorities broke up his domestic arrangement last March and fired a volley of bullets at the woman.

Ippolito was felled with a milk bottle by Mrs. Scilla's brother-in-law, Philip Barabona, but died several blocks before he was captured. He was held in the prison ward at the City hospital today.

Claimed Two Wives

Police last March learned that Ippolito lived with and claimed both Mrs. Scilla and Mrs. Colgrina Ippolito as his wives. Mrs. Scilla was ordered to leave the house, taking the children she had borne Ippolito. Ippolito was given a suspended workhouse sentence and one of $500 on condition that he pay Mrs. Scilla $1,000 and provide $10 weekly for support of her children.

Ippolito's legal wife ran the home and did the housework while he and Mrs. Scilla worked in garment factories, police discovered. The children of the two women called them "mother" indiscriminately.

N. Y. City Official Saves Over Million in 6 Years

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Investigation of the activities of Dr. William F. Doyle, former veterinarian and member of the City Board of Standards and Appeals on behalf of applicants for garage and filling station permits, has disclosed deposits in one bank since 1924 of $1,268,000, United States Attorney Tuttle said today.

Although Mr. Tuttle said there had been much evidence adduced before the Federal Grand Jury that Mr. Doyle received the larger part of his fees in cash, he said a check of the bank account failed to disclose any large cash deposits. He intimated the belief that the cash payments were shared by public officials.

Mr. Tuttle previously had quoted witnesses, before the Federal Grand Jury as saying they had paid Dr. Doyle only a small portion of his fee by check and a much larger part in cash, the check being publicly exhibited by Doyle as the full amount of his payment.

CANNON LEAVES STAND IN FACE OF WARNING

Cannon Before Lobby Probers

A firm, unshakable witness was Bishop James Cannon, Jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, when, as pictured above, he faced the Senate Lobby Committee in Washington. He challenged the committee's authority to inquire into his anti-Smith activities in the 1928 presidential campaign and protested against persecution by "the wet and Roman Catholic press." The committee took his objections under advisement.

MEXICAN ATTACKS INFLUENCE OF U. S.

Says This Country Is Now Trying to Get Mexico as It Got Cuba.

Mexico City, June 5.—(AP)—Lombardo Toledano, a lawyer and member of the National University Board, today made a vigorous attack upon the "United States influence" in Mexico, at a meeting of the National University Board. The meeting was called to discuss the recent seizure by the government of the American school.

Toledano said Mexico must be "on guard to prevent the deliverance of the country into the hands of the United States, as Cuba has been delivered," and added "on the day that the United States breaks down the barrier of Mexico, then no Latin American country will be able to resist the United States."

Quotes Text Books

Toledano quoted several passages from the text books which he said were unfavorable to Mexico and also quoted from a report of the American School Board issued in 1928 which said that among the purposes of the school was the formation of an "American atmosphere in Mexico."

He said that the educational systems of the United States had been transplanted in Mexico causing a condition of anarchy to prevail among Mexican teachers.

"Just as we are delivering our lands and basic riches to the United States," he said, "so we are delivering our spirit."

Other speeches in a like vein were made and the board meeting ended with a decision to issue two protests against the "imperialistic activities of Christian associations in Mexico" and the American school. One is to be sent to American universities and the other to publishers.

SCHOOL COMMENCEMENT

New Milford, June 5.—(AP)—Today was commencement at Kent school and tomorrow the crew will leave for its trip to England to rewin the Henley regatta.

The graduating class were 45 in number and the address to them was by Rev. J. S. O. Huntington, superior of the Order of the Holy Cross. The diplomas were given by Rev. F. H. Sill, headmaster.

DEMOCRAT SCORES HOOVER AS LEADER

Shouse Also Raps Tariff Bill In Statement—At Party Banquet.

Columbus, O., June 5.—(AP)—Jewett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National executive committee, who is to be the principal speaker at a Democratic victory dinner here tonight in a statement on his arrival from Washington this morning assailed the leadership of President Hoover and the tariff bill.

"Men who are to succeed in the discharge of the duties of President of the United States, the most important position in the world, must be men of leadership and courage with ability to lead the thought of their country in any circumstance that they may confront," he said.

"And I say with regret, but I do not hesitate to assert that so far in the Hoover administration there has been so totally lacking the courageous leadership which this country has a right to expect."

Further Defies Senate Probers Today When He An- nounces That His Volun- tary Testimony Is at An End—Tells Senators He Can Be Found at His Of- fice If They Wish to Issue a Subpoena.

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Bishop James Cannon, Jr., further defied the Senate lobby committee today by leaving the witness stand and walking out of the committee room in the fact of a warning that he had not been excused and that his case would be dealt with later.

The churchman stalked out of the committee room after appearing only long enough to read a statement again attacking the committee's authority to inquire about his anti-Smith campaign activities in 1928, and to announce that his voluntary testimony was at an end. It was his third appearance before the investigators and it marked the first time that the committee has mustered a legal quorum for the examination of the recalcitrant witness.

Limps Out Of Room

As Bishop Cannon limped out of the committee room, on his crutch, followed by applause and hisses, he called back that he could be found at his office if the committee wanted to serve a legal subpoena.

Walsh of Montana warned the witness that he was not excused, and that his case would be dealt with later. Whether he is to be found in contempt of the Senate probably will be decided on the return of Chairman Caraway from Arkansas.

With no witness before it, the committee proceeded to put into the record various reports relating to the anti-Smith campaign.

One of them listed various sources of contributions but did not mention the $65,300 which E. C. Jameson of New York says he contributed.

After the adjournment, Senator Walsh of Montana, the acting chairman, told newspapermen that he regarded Cannon as "in plain contempt of the Senate."

Although Cannon had appeared voluntarily, Walsh held the witness having placed himself under committee jurisdiction, he could not withdraw until excused.

The Montana added there might be doubt as to the committee's authority to inquire into Cannon's political activities, but there was no doubt the withdrawal today amounted to contempt.

HINDU SITUATION IS AGAIN SERIOUS

Dispatches to London from India Stress Seriousness Of Political Unrest There.

London, June 5.—(AP)—Dispatches from India today stressed seriousness of the political unrest there, where Nationalists are waging a campaign of "civil disobedience" to gain Indian independence.

The Bombay correspondent of the Daily Herald says that the prospect of arranging the projected round table conference in London did not seem very hopeful as long as existing conditions obtained.

Against Conference.

It was said that the viceroy, Lord Irwin had communicated during the past few days with leading Moderate politicians, with a view to preparing the ground for the October conference. One of these conferees frankly informed the viceroy that it was useless to discuss the conference in the present grave situation.

Attitude of Moslems in the crisis, it was said, ranged from extreme pro-government sympathies to extreme anti-government feeling, with the vast majority of the Mohammedians being extremes, watching the situation closely and awaiting a lead.

A Bombay dispatch to the Daily Mail said that the boycott was being taken up seriously by the purchasing masses and affected not only cloth but a wide range of goods.

STILL DEFIANT

Washington, June 5.—(AP)—Still defiant of Senatorial authority, Bishop James Cannon informed the Senate lobby committee today he would withdraw as a "voluntary witness," and would answer no more questions unless subpoenaed. He then left the committee room.

Up to this time he has been appearing voluntarily, having asked for a hearing.

His refusal on two successive days to answer questions about his expenditures in the Virginia anti-Smith campaign in 1928 already has presented the committee with a poser. The members are divided on the question of prosecuting him for contempt.

Today, at the outset of the hearing, the bishop broadened his refusal to cover any and all questions which might be asked while he remained in his status of voluntary witness.

He announced his position in a prepared statement, which he read from the witness stand.

Then, amid applause and hisses from the spectators, he gathered up the crutch upon which he has leaned in entering and leaving the committee room, and walked away.

"You take your own course but we have not excused you," Senator Walsh of Montana called after him. "Senator Blaine wishes to question you."

Leaves the Room.

Moving away as Blaine started talking, the bishop said over his shoulder:

"It will be at my office if the committee wishes to subpoena me."

His statement to the committee said:

"In view of the nature of the questions asked me by the committee on yesterday morning concerning the Asheville conference, its organizers, its participants, its officers, its methods, its contributions, etc., and the further questions asked me concerning the activities of the anti-Smith Democrats of Virginia and specially concerning the activities of myself as one of the two citizens calling the Asheville conference, and as the chairman of the headquarters committee of that organization, and as the treasurer of the Virginia anti-Smith Democrats and further more in view of the fact that no such investigation has been instituted by the Congress of the activities of other organizations or committees

CHICAGO IMPORTING EASTERN GANGSTERS

Chicago, June 5.—(AP)—Stoppage of further gang carnage rather than the solution of recent killings occupied police today as information leaked to them that crack gunners from the eastern ganglands were being recruited in the local war.

Extra squads of police were detailed early today into the "Little Italies" to prevent further outbreaks. Officers were sure the gang conflict was by no means ended with its death list of ten in less than a week.

Not one, but two gang wars are under way, as police see it. On the one hand is the battle between factions among Sicilian gang leaders for supremacy in the liquor and extortion traffic which has fed the purse of certain groups for years.

On the other, police said, is the enmity between the local and the Drugman gangs, instigated by the triple murder of Drugman men at Fox Lake early Sunday.

Hope of new clues in the latest slaying—that of Thomas Sommers Tuesday night—faded today as police admitted they had learned little from the "pretty blonde" known as "Mabel," questioned last night. She was said by Sommers' widow to have been the sweetheart of her husband.

The young woman, however, professed only a casual acquaintance with the slain man and denied having known of his gang connections. She was released.

GAS FUMES FELL LINE MAN AT WORK

Was Testing Wires in Manhole; Fellow Employees Hear His Groans and He is Rescued.

New Britain, June 5.—(AP)—When Harry Hughes, 33, a lineman, was overcome by gas in a manhole on Broad street today, telephone employees in the exchange on Court street, a mile away, heard him groan and sped relief.

Hughes' voice had been heard at headquarters while he was testing wires. Came a long silence, then his groans. Joseph Waldron, an employee at headquarters hurried to the manhole, found Hughes unconscious and hardly breathing. He descended and with the assistance of another man, fastened a rope around Hughes and brought him up to the street level.

A doctor attended him and he was taken to New Britain General hospital.

HAS JUDGE IN PLANE TO PROVE INNOCENCE

New York, June 5.—(AP)—Henry Ramsdell, Brooklyn aviator, hired a plane today to take a magistrate up for a ride and try to prove that if he did hit a motorboat with his seaplane last year he was not to blame.

Last September a plane struck a motorboat in Jamaica bay and a man in the boat was killed. Ramsdell was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter although he said he had no knowledge of hitting a boat. Green plant scraped off on the boat in the collision was said by city chemists to be the same as that on Ramsdell's plane.

Tomorrow Ramsdell's case comes up before Magistrate Marston and so Ramsdell arranged to take Marvin and a representative of the district attorney's office up today to show them how it might have happened without any knowledge on his part.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, June 5.—The Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company announced that it had improved manufacturing methods and lower cost of raw materials permit a reduction in prices of tires which will be passed on to the public effective today.

The announcement said that the cut brings the price of Goodyear tires to the lowest in the history of the industry with mileages considerably greater than ever before. The company will start construction of a factory in Argentina July 1. It will have a capacity of 1,000 tires and tubes each, daily.

The Curtiss-Wright Corporation, says President C. M. Keys, reduced its bank loans from $4,885,000 to $2,750,000 between Dec. 31 and May 31, and a further material reduction is anticipated within a few weeks.

A new issue of $7,500,000 Federal intermediate credit bank 3 1/2 per cent debentures, maturing in from six to nine months is being placed at par through the fiscal agent at New York. The loan is chiefly in the nature of a banking transaction.

The United Light and Power Company is negotiating, according to unconfirmed reports, to acquire a large interest in the Lone Star Gas Corporation, a $100,000,000 corporation. The United Company, controlled by the Eaton interests, has been reported to be obtaining working control of Lone Star.

The Continental-Diamond Fibre Company has acquired three units, including the Irvington, Varnish and Insulator Co. of New Jersey, Fibroc Insulation Company, of Indiana, and the Chicago Mica company, a report to the New York Stock Exchange has disclosed.

Output of electric utilities to the National Electric Light Association showed an increase of six-tenths of one per cent during the week ended May 31, over the corresponding period in 1929.

Eighty-four of the nation's financial and business leaders join in directing the destinies of the United States through the Chase National Bank of the City of New York. Seventeen directors who sat either on the board of the Chase or the Equitable Trust which recently were merged, have been dropped, and two new ones added.

Robert C. Stanley, president of International Nickel, and John C. Traphagen, former Equitable vice president. The National City bank, second largest, has only 27 directors.

FEAR AMATEUR ACTRESS KILLED HERSELF AT SEA

San Francisco, June 5.—(AP)—Fearing that Miss Alice Giddens, 23, amateur actress and owner of a motorboat, had committed suicide or fled to avoid marrying a man she did not love, police today investigated her disappearance from the coastal liner Yale.

Miss Giddens, sister of Roy A. Giddens, Los Angeles telephone company executive, embarked on the Los Angeles May 26, as a passenger on the Yale bound for San Francisco. When the vessel arrived here she was missing, although her traveling bag, coat and purse, and a farewell note, were found in her cabin.

The brother arrived in San Francisco yesterday and enlisted police aid in a search for the young woman. He said Miss Giddens had been in love with a Los Angeles youth, and apparently had agreed to her mother's wish that she marry another man.

During the voyage, the brother believes, the young woman either leaped overboard or decided to appear when the Yale docked here to avoid marrying the unwelcome suitor.

NEARLY 200,000 LOTTERY TICKETS DISTRIBUTED

Bridgeport, June 5.—(AP)—Testimony concerning the operation of a lottery ring which the court was told distributed between 180,000 to 190,000 tickets a week in this city was given today in Superior Court by Clayton Gritman, during the second day of the trial of his uncle, Cligord J. (Connie) Lewis.

The defendant, local bowling alley proprietor, is in a trial before Judge Frederick Peasley and a jury on three counts of operating a lottery.

Gritman who is serving a six months jail sentence for his connection with the lottery ring, turned state's witness. When he resumed his testimony today he told the court that at Lewis' instigation a plant for printing tickets was established in 1927 at New Haven.

The plant was ultimately transferred to Bridgeport, he said. Between 180,000 to 190,000 tickets which sold at 50c each, Gritman told the court, were distributed weekly by the ring.

Several former agents of the ring were waiting in court today to testify against Lewis.

WAS REAL OPIUM

Waterbury, June 5.—(AP)—Police contention that a large quantity of alleged opium and morphine seized Tuesday night with the arrest of Harry Klein, 35, of New York City was the "real goods" was borne out today by chemical analysis and the accused was ordered held by city court Judge Theodore V. Meyer in a $10,000 bond for a United States marshal who is expected here tomorrow. Klein, when arrested, police say, was endeavoring to sell drugs to local Chinese.

its sister cities, Wuchang and Han-yang.

In decided contrast to most rebel victories, the "Red Army" was reported in Japanese advices to be maintaining order in Changsha. Looting was prohibited. Ample protection of foreigners was believed provided by the American, British and Japanese gunboats in the harbor.

Meanwhile Nationalist troops were reported in Japanese advices to be retreating before advancing Northern Alliance rebels in Honan province. The Northerners inflicted severe damage upon Nationalist troops along the Hanchow-Tung-kwan railway, in a continuation of an offensive begun Tuesday. This opposing groups have battle on this front since May 8.

Retreating across the Yellow river in northern Shantung, government troops were reported to have destroyed a span of the railroad bridge in an effort to halt the enemy's advance.

At least four hundred thousand men are battling in Honan and Shantung areas to determine the future of the Chinese government.

Taking advantage of the virtual absence of government troops in civil war, Communists in Amoy and in Fukien province generally became more aggressive. Red armies were attacking the city of Changchow, thirty miles west of Amoy, did not press an attack and provincial troops patrolled the streets to provide protection to foreign missionaries in both places.

CANNON LEAVES STAND IN FACE OF WARNING

opposing or favoring the Tammany candidate in 1928, not even of the Smith-for-President-Colored League, or the Smith independent organization committee, both supported entities by funds from the national Democratic committee, and because I consider this to be an effort to single out and hold up to the country the anti-Smith Democrats, and myself in particular, as the only persons whose activities in the campaign in 1928, require investigation, and because I believe the proposed investigation to be a part of the effort for many months of wet and Roman Catholic elements and of those who worship party regularity to prevent a recurrence of the Asheville conference, in 1922, I resent to the limit the implication and the purpose of this action.

W.H. Withdrawal.

"In view of these things, I must respectfully state, that having answered all questions addressed to me by the committee on which I volunteered to appear as a witness, I shall now withdraw as a voluntary witness.

"If the committee desires to subpoena me that is its right."

Just as the bishop left the room, Senator Borah, Republican, Idaho, arrived. His presence gave the committee a quorum for the first time since the examination of Cannon began. There are five members, and three make a quorum. The absentees were chairman Caraway, Democrat of Arkansas, and Senator Robinson, Republican, of Indiana.

Borah joined in the laughter as he took his seat and looked across at the vacant witness chair.

Blaine then read into the record the reports on distribution of the Cannon pamphlet "Prohibition is a Social Unthinkable" for which the bishop was paid $5,000 by Dr. Clarence True Wilson and by which he repaid a $300 loan by Dr. E. L. Crawford of the Southern Methodist Board of Temperance.

Wishes then put into the record the report made by the Virginia anti-Smith campaign committee to Congress.

It listed as loans from Bishop Cannon $2,000, given in four installments of $500 each during July and August of 1928.

Disbursements included several payments to the bishop for traveling expenses and repayment of loans.

"In none of these reports does there appear any record of receipts of any money from Mr. Jameson," observed Walsh.

Jameson Gave $65,300

Jameson has testified he contributed $65,300 to Cannon for the anti-Smith campaign. The report to Congress listed receipts of $17,000.

Cannon has explained that he did not report the remaining $48,300 because it was used in the Virginia state campaign.

In a statement last night, the bishop explained how this money was allotted among the various Congressional districts.

After reading from financial records of the anti-Smith committee, Walsh remarked also there was identified of the $5,000 paid by the Board of Temperance, Prohibition and Public Morals of the Methodist Episcopal church to Cannon for distributing copies of his speech on "Prohibition Repeal Unthinkable."

LEAKING GAS CAUSES FIRE IN BIG TRUCK

W. J. Thornton's Five Ton Vehicle Catches Fire But Little Damage is Caused.

Gasoline dripping onto an exhaust pipe started a fire in the cab of a five ton automobile truck owned by William J. Thornton, local sand and gravel dealer, this afternoon on Autumn street necessitating a fire alarm being turned in from Box 73.

Adolph Simon of View street was driving the truck filled with sand when it caught on fire. The flames spouted about him almost instantly, but Simon jumped out of the truck after quickly braking the truck, thus escaping injury. Without delay, he ran into the home of Alexander Duncan, 85 Autumn street, and asked for a hose pipe.

Water was turned on in this manner even before the fire department could arrive. The cab of the truck was badly burned. All East Side fire apparatus turned out for the alarm. The recall sounded shortly after the alarm.

Sonnik Sonniksen of 26 Wadsworth street, sailed Saturday on the Frederick VIII, for Copenhagen, Denmark. He will spend the summer in Europe visiting Denmark, Norway, and Germany.

SCHOOLS CHAIRMAN OR NOTHING-SWEET

Wants to Be Head of Committee and President of District, Too, He Says.

Dr. F. A. Sweet, president of the Eighth School and Utilities district, today announced that he will be a candidate for the chairmanship of the school committee at the annual district meeting to be held Wednesday, June 18.

Two Members Ill Dr. Sweet's reason for reaching this decision is because of the fact that he has done most of the work of the school committee during the past year because of the illness of the other two members, A. L. Brown and D. J. Ward, first and third members respectively.

It is Dr. Sweet's opinion that both positions, president of the district and chairman of the school committee, can be more efficiently performed by the same man and that under this arrangement the financial increment would be sufficient to spur the man in office on to greater endeavors in managing the district's affairs.

Would Cut Costs Dr. Sweet feels that the expenses for the past school year have been too heavy and that unless a change is made there is danger that the present five mill tax will be insufficient. He states that there is no necessity of creating a deficit and that the funds could easily be kept within the five mill range.

The actions of a policeman last Sunday almost resulted in the calling of a "cop." Harold Hefron, wearing his police uniform, was about to leave his home on Center street for duty at the station. He went the rounds of the house, closing doors and locking the windows as the family had gone away.

When this was completed, he stepped out the front door which slammed behind him. As he proceeded down the walk he noticed a rake left on the front lawn, and picking it up he tried to get back into the house. Nothing doing.

Finally the bathroom window was found unlocked, the rake placed in the cellar where it belonged and the local police officer reported for duty just in time.

Big fish delivery trucks that arrived in town this morning at 7 report that they left the Boston fish-piers at 1:30 a. m. with fish that had arrived from the fishing grounds yesterday afternoon. Developments along all lines of the fishing industry has made this possible.

These boats are larger and more commodious allowing for the preparation of fillet stock on the fishing ground, eliminating disposal of waste and saving time on the marketing of fish upon arrival at the wharves.

Practically all of the work of distributing the weekly supply of fish is done at night. Big trucks swing out from the Boston wharves shortly after midnight, heavily loaded, on their routes of distribution totaling hundreds of miles. #### 10 MILL CITY TAX IS RECOMMENDED

Council in Rockville Votes to Ask City Meeting to Accept That Rate Tuesday.

At an important meeting of the Common Council held in the Council Chamber, Memorial building, on Tuesday evening it was voted to recommend at the adjourned city meeting, which will be held on Tuesday evening next, that a ten mill tax be laid.

The meeting was called to order by Mayor A. E. Waite, with but one absentee, Councilman John McKenna.

A vote was taken to allow the Finance committee of the council to make plans for a celebration here on July 4, which will probably be the same as in former years, a band concert and special fireworks. Fireworks will be sold in this city from July 1 to July 4, a vote being taken to this effect.

A petition was presented at the last council meeting asking that Grant street be accepted by the city. This was referred to the Public Works Committee at the time. Frank Grant has offered land to be used for streets from Harlow to West streets, which would include Grant street. The committee in charge has been authorized by the Council to take steps to accept this land.

The sum of $5,000 is to be used for laying new sidewalks this year and the contract has been awarded Conrad B. Rau.

Resolutions will be adopted on the death of Alfred Say, who was a member of the police force for nearly a quarter of a century on recommendation of Roger J. Murphy, chairman of the police committee. The resolutions will be placed in the minutes of the meeting.

All bills were ordered paid at the meeting and a petition was received from L. W. McDonald to build a store at 114 Union street. This was referred to the Public Works committee.

Edward Jackson was granted permission to build a veranda at his home on East street.

Couple Sent to Jail.

The Tolland County Superior Court was in session on Wednesday, with Judge A. T. Brown of Norwich on the bench.

The criminal case of Edward Cassabatt of Portland, Me., and Ellen Grassan of Brunswick, Me., was tried and both pleaded guilty to a charge of misconduct, and sentenced to six months in Tolland County Jail. It is alleged the couple lived together in Stafford Springs and Tolland.

Two other criminal cases, that of Albert Diuccio, 21, and Joseph Polce, both of Hartford, charged with stealing $1,000 worth of pre-war liquor from a Coventry summer home, and that of Norman Wilson, charged with violation of the quarantine of animals regulations, will be tried later by jury.

The case of Miss Margaret Kabric, who was injured seriously in an automobile accident several months ago and who filed suit against the owner of the other car for $10,000 was tried, and decision was reserved.

The Rockville Lions Club met at the Rockville House last evening, with a large number of the members in attendance. Rev. George S. Brookes presided and supper was served at 6:15. Three new members were taken in as follows: Col. Francis T. Maxwell, Lewis Chapman and Sherwood Cummings.

An invitation was accepted from Professor Philip Howe to hold the August meeting at his summer home.

Beautiful Betty Compton in "The Street Girl," heads the new program which will be shown Friday and Saturday. Miss Compton, who has reached new heights through the medium of the talking screen, is seen as a girl of the streets who obtains employment as a violin player and entertainer in a small Hungarian Cafe in New York's East Side. The ability of the little group of musicians with whom she works is finally recognized after an unpromising start. Success obtains for them a night club of their own after a series of disheartening experiences. Miss Compton is well qualified to play this particular role, for she started her professional career as a violinist on a western vaudeville circuit. The supporting cast includes John Harron, Jack Oakie, Ned Sparks, Joseph Cawthorn and Eddie Kane.

The surrounding program includes selected Vitaphone acts, a cartoon comedy, and the latest sound news. The management announces the appearance of Maurice Chevalier, in his latest production, "The Big Pond" for three days starting Sunday night.

Sparks Circus To Show Wrestling Polar Bears

One of the most interesting features of Sparks' circus menagerie, which exhibits here on Wednesday, June 11th, is its polar bears. The accompanying illustration shows a wrestling match between one of the big bears and a professional wrestler. Probably no circus in America carries a greater variety of animal acts than Sparks', now on its 40th annual tour of America. Sparks' circus travels by special train of great steel railroad cars seventy feet in length, each car made especially to withstand excessive weights of the herds of elephants, camels, tigers, lions, leopards, zebras and other animals used in the daily programs. Sparks' circus train is over a quarter of a mile in length and is usually handled in two sections, by the railroad companies. It carries hundreds of head of the finest circus horses, ring stock, greyhounds with national records for high and broad jumps, scores of educated ponies and other live stock too numerous to mention. Sparks' is a "family name" in South Manchester, and thousands are familiar with the past record of this great circus organization. More than $200,000 has been expended this winter in enlarging and improving the circus.

DEPARTMENT MANAGERS DAYS AT WISE, SMITH'S

Annual Event Being Held Today, Friday and Saturday; Many Good Bargains.

"Department Managers Days" are now being held at Wise Smith & Co., in Hartford. This is a big annual event with this store and lasts for three days. This year it comes on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, June 5th, 6th, and 7th. This big store is now complete in every detail after being in the hands of the builders for over a year. Business has been carried on with the least possible inconvenience to the customer at all times. In fact little could they know or realize the volume of work entailed to keep things moving smoothly during that period. Everything is complete now and in routine order. Practically all departments have been rearranged for the better convenience of the shopper and for covered with a beautiful carpet that took months to make. It lends a wonderful appearance to this floor and makes one think of a huge private room with its fern appointments. The third floor is in a pleasing shade of green that seems just perfect as a background for the furniture department.

The lounge room has been newly outfitted and provides a fine place for the tired shopper. On the ninth floor there is a first class restaurant reached by six fast elevators. These are just a few features of the New Wise Smith's, that make it such a popular store with thousands of customers.

The annual bill for creams, rouge and powders in the United States is about $69,000,000.

HEBRON

Among local descendants of early Windsor settlers who attended the tercentenary historical pageant connected with the Congregational Church of that place, besides those already mentioned, were Mrs. Olive Clark and her daughter, Miss Anne, Mrs. Leslie F. Ward, Miss Thelma Cummings, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Porter. Mr. F. C. Bissell of Hartford, a former Hebron resident was also present.

A frost here did some damage early Saturday morning, especially in places located in the lower sections of the town. Alex Gonet, who lives in the valley of Fawn Brook, near Marlborough, lost many of his early plants, tomatoes, and potatoes. His garden is said to have been practically ruined. Some evidence of frost were seen in the center also.

A picked base ball team from Hebron played the Salem team Saturday afternoon at Salem, Hebron winning with a score of 7-4. Carlton H. Jones was the principal star of the Hebron team.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. George F. Kibbe were Mr. and Mrs. Louis Holthaus, and son Howard, and Miss Julia Holthaus, all of New Britain. Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Tucker of Hartford, and Edward A. Raymond and daughter Miss Ruth, of Amston.

Mrs. Nettie Munson, who recently underwent the operation for removal of one foot at the Hartford Hospital, has returned and is spending some time with Mrs. Carrie I. Burnham during her convalescence. Her condition is favorable but she is quite weak from the shock of the operation.

The local Christian Endeavor Society was led Sunday evening by Mrs. Della Porter Hills, with the topic, "How to Avoid a Summer Slump." There will be a pageant next Sunday at the Hebron Center Congregational Church, in observance of Children's Day. Mrs. John W. Deeter has charge of the program. The pageant is entitled "The Happy Road." Sunday school children and young people of the church will take part. The service will begin at 11 a. m., daylight time. Miss Harriet Hough spent the week-end at her Hebron home, returning to the Hartford high school Sunday afternoon. At the last meeting of the Boy Scouts, held at St. Peter's Parish hall, it was voted to hold the next meeting on Tuesday evening, June 10, as the local graduation exercises of the eighth grades will come on the regular night for the scouts' meeting. It was also decided to release the scout master, Allan L. Carr, from obligations connected with the scout organization during the time of St. Peter's School, from June 22 to July 6. Competitive games were played, and the meeting closed with the repeating of the laws, the scout oath, and the salute to the flag.

Sunday visitors at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Giles Olin were Mrs. Olin's brother, Edward Dingwell, of Meriden, her daughter, Mrs. Jesse Kinney and family, her son, Henry Olin and several friends, and Mrs. Wilmer Kinney, all of Manchester. Mrs. Jesse Keeney was formerly Miss Harriet Olin, and Mrs. Wilmer Keeney was Miss Helen Johnson, both formerly of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. John Danforth and children, of East Orange, N. J., also Mr. Danforth's brother, Samuel Welles of Hartford, spent the week-end at the Standby Club house.

Benjamin Cooley of Hartford was the guest of Clarence White on Sunday. Other recent guests at the White place were Mr. and Mrs. Kirk Kyle and daughters, the Misses Ruth and Mary, of Plainville. The Gilead Congregational Church has been invited to unite with the Congregational Church at Hebron Center in the observance of Children's Sunday, at the service to be held June 8, at 11 daylight time. In the evening both churches and all interested are invited to see moving pictures at the Gilead church, at 8 o'clock. The pictures will be on Mexico.

Bishop Acheson will visit St. Peter's Church on Sunday, June 8, and will confirm a large class. The service will be at 11 o'clock, daylight time. The bishop will visit Calvary Church, Colchester, for an earlier morning service. An appearance of Northern Lights in the sky Sunday evening at about 10 o'clock, was reported. A peculiar feature was a narrow ray or band of light which extended east and west across the sky, almost completely bisecting it in appearance. This lasted about fifteen or twenty minutes. The Community Band players are hoping for fine weather Wednesday evening, when their concert so many times postponed will finally take place at the town hall, 8 p. m., daylight time. The members of the band have had a tough time carrying out their plans, as three times their dates have been interfered with, twice on account of the unfinished condition of the town hall, and the last time on account of very bad weather.

And there are many columnists who see a kinship between their work and garbage work for, in sifting contributions in the privacy of their sanctums, they're often obliged to hold their noses.

BISHOP CANNON

We have not been more than casually interested in the grilling of Bishop Cannon by members of the Senate Lobby Committee, principally for the reason that the investigation conducted by that body for a long time has seemed to lack a clear cut aim and to be carried on largely for the purpose of giving committee members a chance to show each other up and to make their own separate clevernesses conspicuous.

But there is one point at which the good bishop seems to be in conflict with the sum of political morals to which most Americans hold or pretend to hold. "I stand on my rights as an American citizen," he declared yesterday, "to carry on political activities as an individual without the right of anybody to inquire into them."

We take it that the bishop is quite wrong in assuming this to be the right of any American citizen. Rather is it the right of all the citizens to inquire into any and every political activity of any individual whatsoever. The effect of all political activity is upon the people as a whole. It is fundamental that they must have the right to inquire and ascertain what the individual is doing, or trying to do, to them or for them.

Bishop Cannon did not, by a long chalk, invent this mistaken assumption of the right to be let alone in whatever political activity he may be pleased to engage. It has been invoked by literally thousands of politicians who did not want the left hand to know what the right hand was doing. But it is none the less altogether wrong.

Whether this Senate Committee is the proper agency to inquire into such matters, however, is another question.

MATTER OF SEASONS

The seasons have a deal to do with a lot of things besides green corn, straw hats and Christmas presents. For example, politics.

If the town caucuses to nominate legislators were to be held in late March or early April, we would have, in all probability, as fine a layout of rural roads in this state as anywhere in the country, if not better. Because then no fellow could get a nomination from either party, in any of the country towns, who was not an out-and-out fighting dirt roads protagonist. At that time of the year the whole rural population is up in arms over the roads question, willing to give battle and rarin' to go. And if it had to attend to its politics during this annual spasm of indignation it would send such a dirt-roads majority to the House of Representatives that there would be holding it.

But it so happens that by the time the towns are beginning to think about choosing their representative nominees the mud has dried up, the ruts have been pounded down and the distress and indignation of the spring days has faded out like an old fashioned tintype. The political parties in the country towns pick their candidates without any particular reference to the road question—or, oftener, let the candidates pick themselves without much reference to anything but the desire to go to Hartford and wear a sprig of glory in their hats.

Then, when the Legislature does convene, it is discovered that the dirt roads have in that body few friends interested enough to go to the mat for them. The Highway Department is allowed to rule the root and the farmers get mired and swear at the General Assembly, and it is all to do over again in the same old way. What a difference a few months make! There hasn't been a peep about dirt roads in this state for many weeks.

FORDS IN CHINA

So Mr. Ford is going to enlarge his market by inaugurating an intensive selling campaign in China! Well, that's not altogether so visionary a scheme as it sounds. There are a great many people in China, quite exclusive of the Europeans and Americans living there, who could buy an automobile apiece; there is a considerable number of Chinese who could each buy a dozen or a hundred Ford cars and pay for them on the nail. It should not be forgotten that there are more rich men of the millionaire class in China than in any other country in the world, not excepting the United States. How many of them now own automobiles we haven't the least notion but there are many thousands who could own them if they wanted to.

It is hardly to be supposed that Mr. Ford expects to sell motor cars to coolies or peasant farmers in the Celestial Empire. And there is no middle class there, as there is in the United States and in many European countries, capable at a pinch of financing the purchase of a low priced automobile. The field of sale must be relatively restricted. It may, however, be actually large. Mr. Ford probably knows.

What is most interesting about this plan is the suggested inquiry: If Ford finds an important market for his cars in the Orient, how long will it be before he establishes first an assembly plant and later a complete manufacturing unit there? And then how long will it be before he is doing in China what he is already doing in Ireland—manufacturing cars for shipment to America? Manufacturing them with labor paid on the Chinese basis.

It is perhaps not surprising that Mr. Ford is self-sacrificing enough to oppose the imposition of tariff duties against imported automobiles.

WIND-JAMMING

When Senator Pat Harrison of Mississippi made a three-hour speech against the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill on Tuesday there were only four members of the Senate present for the greater part of the time. Harrison was talking for the benefit of the spectators and the Congressional Record. Naturally there wasn't the most remote possibility of anything he might say changing or affecting a single vote on the bill.

It is very infrequently that a United States senator has to make his speech to quite so many vacant desks, but the Harrison oration, nevertheless, did not differ a particle from most of the other speeches made in the Senate chamber in its complete futility. Nineteen-twentieths of the time spent in so-called debate is sheer waste, save for whatever possible educational value to the voters back home it may possess.

It is only on the rarest occasion that a speech in the Senate has any effect whatever on the pending legislation. But it does have an enormous effect in protracting the sessions.

If no senator were allowed ever to speak for more than fifteen minutes at a time or more than once on the same subject we would probably have better government. And it wouldn't cost nearly so much.

WAR'S WORK

If the incessantly restless play of a military searchlight possessed together with its sweeping nervous energy the qualities of the X-ray, and if then it had the power to reflect its discoveries in pictures of such clarity and power that none could escape their significance, it might perhaps symbolize the mind of William Bolitho Ryall, literary prodigy whose career of letters began after the end of the World War and terminated with his untimely death at 39 on Tuesday.

William Bolitho, as he was known to his American readers, was one of the most extraordinary intellectuals since Voltaire. His death is a world loss the extent of which can never be known or even guessed at. Yet short as his career was, the English speaking world came within the narrowest of margins of never knowing him at all—or he of knowing himself. He was saved for some years of extraordinary usefulness after having been buried alive for hours in a blasted trench and after weeks of unconsciousness.

How many other geniuses were destroyed before they budded at all in that frightful calamity we can only blindly surmise.

ANOTHER CASTLE

The West Haven case of some months ago in which a grand jury refused to indict a citizen for shooting to death a police officer who tried to raid the citizen's home at night might well have been a lesson to police officers throughout the East, but it was lost on the chief of police of Absecon, N. J. In consequence that police officer is dead. The police chief, accompanied by another man and two women had been having an evening of sociability. At two in the morning the party stopped at a place that had formerly been a road house but apparently was no longer. Going to the back door he demanded admission. The occupant of the house, believing the visitor to be a robber with a gun in his hand, fired on him and killed him.

There is nothing in this world much riskier than to try to force one's way into a man's home in the small hours of the morning. The veriest rabbit of a person will shoot under such circumstances, if he has a weapon, unless well convinced that the intruder has a legal right to demand entry.

If there is one point of law that needs to be emphasized by police schools every where it is that a man's house is his castle.

A CONVERT'S VIEW

An "experience convert" to prohibition reform is Miss Virginia Murray, director of the Crime Prevention Bureau of New York City. She has spent many years working among juvenile law breakers, having organized special police bureaus in several of the larger cities. She says: "The saloon sent men to the workhouse, their wives to the wash-tub and children to the juvenile courts. The speakeasy sends men to their graves, women to hell and the children to another speakeasy."

Miss Murray is for repeal of the federal amendment and the establishment of a bona fide state control. Her philosophy is that of untold millions of Americans.

IN NEW YORK

New York, June 5.—I doubt if many of us ever get over the kick of seeing our names in the paper.

Some of Manhattan's most wealthy and important citizens are the most liberal subscribers to the clipping bureaus, and thought actors and millionaires, alike, have had their names displayed thousands of times, they still keep running through clippings carefully assorted by their secretaries or publicity representatives.

Nor am I immune, though I've observed my name at the top of many a bit of writing in hundreds of newspapers. But when a fellow New York columnist mentions me or I break into print otherwise, I still have that impulse to clip it out and send it to Aunt Agatha.

All of which is apropos of the fact that picking up a current copy of The American Press, I find that I've been interviewed and a sketchy story of my life has been outlined.

A young man, named Alfred Zugsmith, came to my desk some weeks back and asked if he could borrow some of the material which, in a sense, he is calling my bluff.

"So," the visitor implies, "you go all these places and know all these people. Well, show your stuff." Instinctively you know that this will be the one day when everybody will either be sleeping late or spending the week in the country. And, besides, how can you explain to anyone else the New York that you yourself see? It's not that much explanation to give the other fellow the notion that rarely do you set forth with any definite idea in your mind. You know that New York being what it is, you'll run into something if you keep your eyes open.

Which sounds so silly when you say it; particularly if you don't run into anything. Wherefore, I am reminded that "we went backstage" in a theater and ran into some East Side boys who took us over to Second Avenue to hear a favorite cymbal player. Wandering over to Washington street, we watched the Syrians drinking their arrak, the strongest drink known. (Ed. note: You'll notice that I merely watched them.)

"Five blocks from the City Hall we dropped in on a Greek restaurant for a sip of their sweetest coffee, then we went on to the Bowery, where we had a dinner, and later out to the Harlem with Lee Posner . . . calling it a day."

Looking over these lines, it now seems to me that I might have done better by a guest who wanted to go places and see things. On the other hand, we appear to have covered considerable territory without meeting a single celebrity. Or, having met one, there appears to have been no sign of recognition on the part of either party.

For, to quote the quotes of the young gentleman who quoted me, "It is Swan's belief that the out-of-town owner is as anxious to hear of the Bowery, the East Side, the Bronx, Greenwich Village and Harlem as he is to hear of Broadway."

And, to reprint his brief biography of my favorite author: "Swan began as a cub reporter on the Los Angeles Examiner . . . police reporter . . . went to Oxnard as county editor . . . To San Bernardino he went in an orange belt on various South Seas . . . into San Francisco to cover the fair . . . On the San Francisco news as waterfront reporter, city editor, managing editor and coast bureau manager of NEA. Present agent to New York and drafted into Gilbert Swan club."

And there, for no particular reason, you have the story of my life. GILBERT SWAN.

FURTHER STUDY OF MENTAL CONFLICTS

There are people who refuse to accept a world of reality, and who live as children in a world of their own imagination. These people are not well adapted for the struggle of the commercial world. There are some people who find it difficult to accept authority of any kind, either of their parents, or of the law, or of social conventions, and when the authority becomes severe, these people may actually openly rebel against it, or they may be crushed under the authority and become pessimistic and morose.

Psychoanalysis originally laid great emphasis on the sexual instinct as being the primary driving force for most of our actions, but the tendency now is to include many other primary motives, such as the ego instinct and hunger.

People sometimes find themselves divided between conflicting emotions, as when desire and ambition conflict with the fear of the consequences of pursuing a course of action. Usually the weak or sentimental quality is hidden behind a hard exterior. This form of conflict prevents a satisfactory action.

It frequently happens that when two emotions come in contact and conflict with each other, one of them is repressed and hidden in the subconscious mind. One may only feel the love or hatred and be unaware of the feelings and wishes. From this we obtain the clue of a person often saying one thing while actually doing the exact opposite. Because of this repression, there may be an exaggerated development in the opposite direction of the repressed. For example, a judge in endeavoring to be stern, and in repressing his tendencies toward sentimentalism and leniency, may actually become over-severe and cruel in his verdicts. A cynical person may be a sentimentalist at heart; or a person while repressing a feeling of inferiority may develop conceit and aggressiveness; or, a person, by repressing his sensuality, may actually become prudish and censoring of other's actions. One should endeavor to guard oneself against this over-accultuation of the emotions. Whenever one feels an unduly strong dislike or dislike, one should endeavor to discover whether or not this is simply an effort to compensate for something repressed within themselves. Frequently, people blame others most for weaknesses which they, themselves, feel. Gossiping people almost always condemn in others what they, themselves, would like to do but fear to try.

Repressed tendencies usually have a way of finding an escape in some eccentricity, slip of the tongue, or foolishness or nervousness. One can avoid repression and its many undesirable consequences by trying to accept facts in their true light, and making the best of one's own abilities.

Society offers us many outlets for our emotions, and it is up to us to sublimate them to our best advantage. For example, if one desires to fight, one can use the same desire for engaging in a political contest or game. One can sublimate any of the powerful emotions in the manner which will be beneficial rather than harmful, and when one learns to do this he will be happier and healthier mentally.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

(Mercury and Teeth)

Question:—Mr. N. D. A. writes: "I have been troubled lately with pains in my shoulders and arms, sometimes the joints in my hands hurt also. Have been told that my trouble is caused by the mercury in the fillings of my teeth. Do you think I should have my present fillings replaced with gold?"

Answer:—I do not believe that the small amount of mercury used in silver fillings could affect your health as you state. Of course, if there is an infection in the roots of the teeth this should have attention. I would advise you to have an examination made and if you will send me a copy of your doctor's report I will be pleased to give you advice concerning the treatment.

Question:—J. G. asks:—"Do you believe in the theory of excluding meat, fish and eggs from the diet, owing to the highly putrefying nature of these foods in the intestines, thereby letting into the system various parasites, bacteria and poisons, with deleterious effects upon the human body, as being a sane and sound view on biological diet?"

Answer:—I believe most people should use some meat, fish or eggs at least once a day. Such foods should always be used in proper combination with other foods so they will be thoroughly digested. If the bowels then move three times daily there will be no danger of putrefaction or of harmful bacteria developing. All foods of a high caloric value are liable to cause trouble if they are not digested, but it is better to remain too long in the intestines.

WATKINS BROTHERS, INC. 55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

WASHINGTON LETTER

Editor's Note: This is the last of four stories by Rodney Dutcher, Washington correspondent for this newspaper and NEA Service, describing the tangled political situation in North Carolina.

By RODNEY DUTCHER. Raleigh, N. C.—Religion is an important factor in this year's North Carolina politics and religious elements may be decisive in both the senatorial primaries and the election.

The Catholicism of Al Smith and John J. Raskob, which was important in 1928, is not playing such a direct part in the Democratic primary contest between Senator Simmons and Josiah William Bailey. Nevertheless, it is being used to some extent against Bailey under the surface.

Simmons is relying on a heavy "church vote" to save his political skin. His people have been pointing out to the preachers of the state that the senator was loyal to the Protestant prohibition cause in 1928 when it required the utmost bravery and that a man shouldn't be defeated for that.

Bailey's record as a life-long active Baptist, on the other hand, is being emphasized by the anti-Simmons faction. Bailey follows Simmons followers, alike, are making desperate efforts to convince the church people that their man has the best prohibition record. For North Carolina is a div-

Christian state. Even in the Literary Digest poll it cast a majority for enforcement of prohibition.

Demonstrating the way political campaigns are sometimes waged in North Carolina one may consider the platform of the Rev. Henry Grady Dorsett, the first man to file for the Republican senatorial primaries. The Rev. Mr. Dorsett is a man of extraordinary versatility. He has been in Republican politics since he was 21, sometimes holding office but generally being defeated. He is now both pastor of a cotton-mill church and operator of a hotel at Wake Forest. He is also something of a cobbler and a lawyer.

In his appeal to the voters the Rev. Mr. Dorsett features an endorsement by the Rev. J. C. Canipe of the Siler City Baptist Church, which describes him as "deeply consecrated to the Kingdom of God on earth."

"I am a poor man, with no rich buddies to back me, and therefore cannot set up a great organization," says the Rev. Mr. Dorsett in his state-wide appeal. "I do not claim any care for anyone else to claim any great thing for me."

"By the grace of God, I am duty and put us across together. I shall certainly stand by and never forget my friends. This is the reason I put us into the primary. Everybody is somebody in the Republican party. Christian citizenship is our highest, noblest and holiest relationship in this great, glorious, and freest government on earth, which under God we are privileged to live and be part of. . . ."

"First Corinthians 3:9: 'For we are laborers together with God. My Lord Jesus Christ should go into everything, everywhere, all the time. I am absolutely willing to stake my chances in the campaign and everything to follow on my Master's statement in His great Sermon on the Mount (Matth. 7: 6:33): 'Seek ye first the Kingdom of God and His righteousness; and all these things shall be added unto you.'"

"I believe in the right kind of organizations for everybody and everything, when they are shot through with righteousness. . . . I have never tasted liquor of any kind, have always voted and preached against it, and am more set in my ways than ever. . . . Try the lawyer-preacher for the next six years, and see what we can do for North Carolina and the nation by working in harmony with our great president, Herbert Hoover. If I am elected you will see a new day dawn upon the Republican party in North Carolina."

He Asks for Prayers

"May I ask you for a greater contribution than all the money that could be given to anyone? Will you try to truly pray that God's will shall prevail, that He may be glorified in His Son, our Savior? John 14:13. He says 'And whatsoever ye shall ask in My name, that will I do, that the Father may be glorified in the Son.' I believe that eternity alone will be able to reveal the multiplied thousands who shall be blessed in every way."

The Chorus of the Dorsett Campaign

There will be a landslide, there will be a cloudburst. A tumble and a rush to vote the ticket first. And we'll make the grand break on June the seventh sure. And you cannot bring us down, no matter what you do! Obviously, the Rev. Mr. Dorsett doesn't believe that God is on the side of the strongest political machines.

POPULARITY CONTEST HAS SEVERAL ENTRANTS

First Week Comes to Close
With Group of Girls, as Yet
Unannounced, Working Hard

The first week of the State Theater Popularity Contest is coming to a close with a gratifying number of entrants for the title of "Manchester's Most Popular Girl." However the heavy voting is expected over the week-end and for that reason the list of entries will not be announced for a few days.

Only three sources of obtaining votes are open, namely by purchasing merchandise from the 23 co-operating merchants who are giving one vote with each one dollar purchase, by clipping the votes in the advertising columns of The Herald, and by patronizing the State Theater, when ten votes are given with each admission ticket.

For the benefit of those not yet in possession of the particulars of this contest, which is expected to assume gigantic proportions within a week, the main points are briefly outlined: The young lady receiving the largest number of votes will receive a vacation trip to Atlantic City, or its equivalent, with all expenses paid by Warner Brothers. She will also receive a complete wardrobe, donated by the co-operating merchants.

All votes must be deposited in the ballot box at the State Theater. To enter the contest, simply write your name on a ballot and deposit same in the ballot box. Then watch for results.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

WHEN OILING UNIVERSALS.

If the universal joints on your car are the kind that require oil for a lubricant, and there are two holes for inserting it care must be exercised to do the job properly, otherwise not enough oil will be added.

Some owners shoot a little oil first in one hole and then the other. Those who know better, however, simply turn the joint until one hole is all the way to the top. Then they remove both plugs and insert the oil gun in the lower one.

Just as soon as oil starts coming from the top hole the indication are that the joint is completely filled with lubricant.

Owners should be careful not to confuse these holes with the one near it which is found on many cars and which represents the lubrication point for the slip joint. This part should be greased separately.

KEEP ON THE MOVE.

When the ignition has become wet, why stop if the engine does not run evenly? Why give the rain a chance to make the situation worse?

Even if the engine falters, keep moving. As it heats up it will dry off the parts of the ignition system that are damp or actually wet. A straight-eight engine that was running on four or five cylinders hit perfectly on all eight after the car had traveled several miles.

Air from the fan also serves to dry off the wet spots. There is, in addition, a good circulation of air through the radiator core to assist in the drying process.

Usually an engine is more apt to get wet if it stands than when in motion. Water that falls on the hood blows off again immediately whereas if the car stands the water leaks through the hood hinge into the engine compartment.

STOPPING BRAKE NOISES.

There are as many reasons for squeaking brakes as there are complaints of this trouble. If, therefore, a number of remedies have been tried without success it is wise policy to consider some of the ideas that are apt to be overlooked.

For example, there are glazed spots on the lining. This should be removed by cleaning with a wire brush.

Another thing to try is smoothing off the edges of the lining. This applies particularly to internal expanding brakes where the shoes may engage with the drum at their edges first rather than at their centers. Those ends of the brake shoe liners should be filed down.

Still another point often overlooked is the possibility that a brake shoe pin may be rusty so that the shoe does not move freely, thus engaging out of time with the others.

FILE EDGES OF LINING.

Motorists continue to gather information as to the reason why brakes squeak, especially the internal expanding type. Here is the latest:

It has been discovered that frequently a brake shoe will engage with the drum at one end first. If the lining at this end is cut off sharply naturally there will be a tendency to vibrate which, in turn, results in noise.

Molded lines for brake shoes are rapidly taking the place of the ordinary woven kind but even these have to be filed at the ends, especially when used on the self-energizing shoes. Filing down the edge that first comes in contact with the drum provides for a much better engagement.

It is not so easy to file or cut down the edge of a liner made of woven material but a little time and energy spent in this connection will prove profitable.

ONLY OILY IN SECTIONS.

Today the man who lubricates his springs best lubricates them least. Also he accomplishes best result by oiling only certain parts of the springs.

This new demand upon the car owner is the result of the use of softer springs combined with hydraulic shock absorbers. The fluid is affected by the temperature to a point where a combination of thinned fluid and over lubricated springs on a warm day will fail to provide control. The car will sway up and down especially at high speed.

Some manufacturers recommend keeping the springs dry unless they squeak. However when squeaks occur it is best not to oil the leaves all over. Where the car is Hotchkiss driven (that is, where the springs take the driving torque) the squeaks will be found to be concentrated at the front ends of the rear springs. Lubricating these parts should be sufficient.

BRAKES HELP TIRE CHANGE.

Having the car slip off the jack when a rear tire is being changed and when the holding brake is set often can be traced back to neglect of this very braking system. A recent instance will illustrate this.

The owner in question jacked up one of the rear wheels after carefully applying the hand brake. No sooner had the wheels left the ground, however, than the car moved forward and the jack toppled

SPEEDY INSTRUMENT MEASURES SPARK

Flint, Mich., June 5.—A motorist may think he is traveling fast when he goes whizzing at 75 miles an hour. But figuratively he is standing still when such speed is compared with that of a delicate instrument which was used recently in connection with automotive development work.

This instrument, called an oscillograph, played an important part in the recent discovery of a new and improved spark plug electrode alloy, enabling engineers to better study the characteristics of the electric spark.

It is traced a line one inch long across an exposed photographic plate, in one-millionth of a second, which is equivalent to 144,100 miles an hour.

At this rate of speed a trip to the moon would require less than two hours.

over. Thinking the brake lever had slipped he was naturally surprised when he found it to be as secure as when he started to work.

Studying the situation more closely he discovered that the hand brakes were not equalized. That is, one of the rear brakes was doing all the work—the one on the wheel he was jacking up.

Naturally when this wheel was off the ground there was nothing to hold the car.

Disturbs the Spark Timing

If your new car carries the distributor on top of the cylinder head and you have removed the latter to clean out carbon it is necessary to retune the spark.

Removal of the head disturbs the position of the perpendicular shaft that drives the distributor breaker mechanism and rotor. You might happen to reassemble the parts just right, but nine times out of ten the timing would be too late or too early.

It is a simple matter to retune the engine after replacing the head. Set the spark control in the fully advanced position, loosen the screw that clamps the advance arm to the distributor housing and turn the whole instrument so that the contact points are just opening when the rotor is directly under the terminal for cylinder No. 1.

Valves Lean Out Mixture

If trouble is being experienced with the valves sticking it is best to adjust the carburetor for a richer mixture until such time as the engine can be serviced. Sticky valves and a lean mixture make a poor combination, and often a dangerous one.

Should an intake valve fail to close tightly it will reduce the compression of the respective charge of gas so that there will be only a weak power stroke. In addition, when the valve remains partly open air may be sucked up around the stem so as to dilute the mixture. Thus if the mixture is lean to start with it may be too lean when it is under compression.

All this has a tendency to create a backfire similar to the sort one finds when the engine is being started too hastily. This will happen during acceleration or when pulling hard uphill.

Judging Tire Wear

Too much logic may spoil the most carefully laid plans for efficient car ownership. Here is a brief story that demonstrates the idea:

An owner of a car that had traveled about 4,000 miles was warned that his front wheels were out of line. Examining the tire treads he found that they were worn too much for the mileage they had given but he argued that because there was more wear on the right tire than on the left the trouble could not be due to alignment.

"The unevenness of the wear proves there is something else wrong," he reasoned. "Probably the tires are defective."

That was his way of working it out by logic whereas had he relied a little more on experience he would have remembered that the right front tire always wears more than the left.

Gauge Tells Quantity

While the oil pressure gauge on the instrument panel is designed merely to indicate the degree of pressure in the engine lubricating system it sometimes can be used to tell how much oil is in the crank-

Highest Auto Road Scales Mt. Evans To Dizzy Height

The highest auto highway in North America will scale Mt. Evans, near Denver, when completed this summer. A panoramic view from the summit, where man is standing, is shown above.

Denver—(AP)—The highest automobile road in North America will be completed early this summer.

Snow-clad nine months out of the year, Mount Evans, rising 14,260 feet above sea level, will be grooved by a modern, 18-foot highway almost to its summit.

The road will end in a mountain "saddle" just below the mass of granite blocks which mark the summit.

Started ten years ago by the state highway department, the road has been constructed against what seemed at times to be overwhelming odds.

PROPER NIGHT SPEED

The Mississippi supreme court has decided that the proper night speed for automobiles is that which enables a driver to "stop within the range of the headlights of the car."

Should the oil pressure become unusually there would be good reason to assume that the engine is badly in need of additional oil. If, for instance, there is only half the usual amount of oil in the engine this amount has to do twice as much work as ordinarily. This heats the oil and thins it. Pressure falls.

Thus the oil pressure indicator may warn of a reduction in quantity as well as in quality very much as the oil quantity indicator on the engine may indicate dilution when it reads too high.

No matter how good this Australian is, chances are his neighbors will complain of his flat feet.

How's She Hitting?

By ISRAEL KLEIN
Science Editor, NEA Service

The little matter of cleanliness has a great deal to do with the proper running of the automobile.

There's the matter of a clean engine. To the lay driver, a matter of oil covering the engine doesn't seem to retard its activity in any way. Fof that matter, it doesn't.

But oil under the hood, except where it is supposed to be, means a dangerous dust gathc. To the auto mechanic—dangerous in that it might find its way through the slits and other openings to the inside of the engine.

And there the trouble begins.

Furthermore, oil is harmful to such parts as the hose connections in the cooling system. It rots the hose and produces a leak in the cooling apparatus.

In hot weather we can't afford that.

To prevent this, of course keep the entire engine clean. But roting of the hose with oil can further be prevented by applying a coat of shellac and then a layer of tape and shellac on the hose connections.

Gasoline, applied with a brush or cloth, will clean accumulations of oil from the engine. Kerosene, also, may be used.

An air and gasoline spray can be obtained to force the accumulated oil and dust from the inaccessible places.

At the same time, various joints about the car may be cleaned with gasoline, but care here must be taken not to remove the grease from the effective parts.

For instance, the hood hinges get filled with the oil sprayed from the engine, and that seeps out to the top of the hood. Here the oil may be cleaned from the top, but left within the hinges, to prevent squeaking of this part whenever the hood is lifted.

The same is true of the door hinges. After a long drive, a layer of dusty oil may be noted covering the hinges that jut out from the body. This can't be wiped off. Gasoline must be used. But this must be done with care, so that the hinges may remain greased.

After a long run, especially over dusty roads, the engine and other parts of the car may be coated with oil-soaked dust. This can't be washed off with water. Gasoline is the washing fluid to use.

By keeping the engine hinges and other parts of the car clean, the motorist not only has a presentable automobile, but is preventing deterioration, especially in the moving engine parts.

The fine dust accumulated from the road somehow finds its way into the crankcase and up into the cylinders, scoring the walls, causing oil to get past the pistons more easily and hastening the death of the car.

The new tourist from the flatlands has a unique thrill when he strikes the mountains.

The roads are steep, long and winding. They are narrow and treacherous. There's a cliff on one side, a declivity on the other and nothing ahead.

It's an experience for only the best of drivers to encounter with equanimity. The new driver must be ever cautious and well prepared for an emergency.

If your trip takes you through mountainous territory, see beforehand that the motor is in condition and that the brakes hold tightly.

Brakes, however, should not be relied on for mountain driving. Signs at the tops of long, steep hills today warn motorists to go into low gear. They should be respected, or the motorist may find himself smelling rubber, then ripping out the brake linings, and finally flying into space and destruction.

Low gear makes the compression of the motor brake the car sufficiently for long steep downgrades. The ignition should be kept on, but the throttle should be almost shut.

Never coast, and never turn off the ignition. It's dangerous to coast, except where you know your ground and the hill is short and easy. And it's costly to turn off the ignition, because fuel is being pumped into the cylinders anyway and isn't being burned. The result is that it works into the lubricating oil in the crankcase, scoring the cylinders as it passes the pistons.

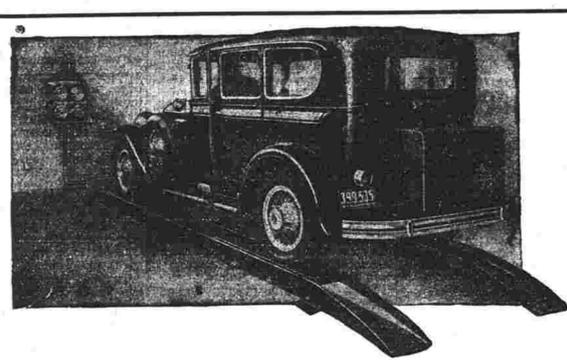

It's easier to go up a mountain road than down. You go up usually in low, and have perfect control of your car. Going down, however, even if in low, the least mistake may cause disaster.

Yet the up-going driver has the right of way on such roads. The reason is that it is he who must keep his foot on the accelerator.

Therefore, the down-going driver must stop for him. He must pull over into a nook in the cliff, if the road is wide enough only for one car, and permit the upgoing driver to pass. If the road is wide enough for two cars, the down-going driver takes the outside, whether to the right or left. That's the courtesy of mountain driving.

Experienced mountain drivers usually take along a log or a couple of large stones or bricks. Going up hill, they find occasion to put the log or stone behind the rear wheels to hold the car, while they start the car again or shift into low gear. Of course, the safe practice is to start up the climb in low gear and hold it there. But the car might stall. It it does, a passenger in the car may have time to hop out and put some rocks behind the wheels, while the driver holds the car back with the brakes.

Brakes, however, can't hold very well, but just enough to keep the car from sliding too quickly.

The Husband Hunter

©1930 BY NEA SERVICE, INC. BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY
NATALIE CONVERSE, jealous of her husband's friendship with BERNADINE LAMONT, leaves him, ALAN, seeks consolation with his secretary, PHILIPPA WEST, who has cleverly managed to become engaged to him.

Natalie returns, and Alan realizes that he loves her, but his entanglement with Philippa prevents him from attempting a reconciliation. He asks Philippa to release him but she refuses, and makes an effective appeal to his pity.

Natalie's sister, FLORENCE, takes an illness to bring him back to his home. Philippa still stands between them. Florence leaves, hoping they will get along better if left to themselves. Natalie makes a visit to Alan's office and there meets BERNADINE, who is seeking business with Natalie's old jealous flares up again and she quarrels bitterly with Alan.

Alan goes to Philippa's apartment for dinner, afterward spending the night at a hotel. The next day Natalie comes to the office to plead for forgiveness, but Alan is out. He telephones and Philippa does not tell him that Natalie is there.

Philippa, fearful that Alan's anger will not endure, uses a letter from BERNADINE in a plot to discredit Natalie. She changes the name of a stock BERNADINE wants to one that is worthless. BERNADINE, who is next to go to the office after the order has gone through and discovers the change that was made in the letter. Alan starts an investigation. Suspicion, directed by Philippa, points to Natalie. Alan for me that first night I went to your house."

as though it were lost in a fog. Alan spoke sharply. "You're right," he said. "We had parted, but Natalie came back and we made it up—in a way. But that's getting off the subject. I want you to agree to do as I say about your financial affairs in the future."

Bernadine did not answer at once. Alan waited. Then she said, musically: "I wonder."

"You mean . . . you're doubtful about trusting me?" Alan asked.

"No, Alan, not about trusting you. But there are so many things that can happen, especially if you and Natalie really are at the parting of the ways."

"Well, we are," Alan replied, crisply. "But that makes no difference to you, BERNADINE I love Bobby. I believe I've grown more or less to think of him as my own son. Why, I'd be crazy about having him in my home."

"I'm glad she never had a chance to hurt him," he added fiercely.

Bernadine signed. "I was afraid it was like that," she said. "Alan, tell me, did Bobby have anything to do with your quarrels with Natalie?"

Alan answered uncomfortably: "She never knew why you sent for me that first night I went to your house."

"Then she was jealous of me?"

"Yes," Alan admitted. "So I thought it best not to tell her about Bobby, unless it was unavoidable."

"I'm sorry," BERNADINE spoke with deep regret. "I'm afraid I didn't consider your wife that night Alan; or you, either perhaps. I was thinking only of Bobby."

"Alan, do you think it would be any good if I went to Natalie, and told her there's nothing between us for her to be jealous of?"

"Alan said that she was becoming hysterical. I'm going to call Nellie," he said firmly, and did.

"During the few moments he waited for the servant girl to come, he spoke sternly to BERNADINE. "Natalie has put herself beyond forgiveness," he said. "Don't think of her, BERNADINE. She's not worth you or me."

that he loved Bobby, and she believed he would intelligently care for the boy. Her fear of the influence of other women in his life vanished in his reiterated promise not to let anyone make Bobby unhappy if he could prevent it.

There was a moment when BERNADINE had been on the point of asking him to promise never to marry again, but she had, as she was, too great a sense of humor to permit her to do that. She took comfort in his assurance that Bobby would always come first with him and when the doctor arrived she was relaxed, but much weaker than she had been at any time previous to this.

She was, he told Alan, on the verge of complete collapse and must be kept perfectly quiet.

"That was why, in the days that followed, Alan did not tell her all that was happening. He told her not a word of the letter Natalie wrote him before she closed the house they had built together in Westchester, and went way "to give him his freedom."

But, though he tried not to worry her, he received a call one day that sent him hurrying to her in frantic haste.

ADAM SMITH'S BIRTH

On June 5, 1723, Adam Smith, a British political economist, regarded as the founder of economics as a separate branch of human knowledge, was born at Kirkcaldy, Scotland.

After his education at the University of Glasgow and at Oxford he became professor of logic at the former institution. When he was 25 he gave a course of lectures on rhetoric and literature at Edinburgh which not only gave him considerable of a reputation as a scholar but introduced him to the learned and accomplished men of his time.

One of these was David Hume, the great philosopher. In 1763 Smith became tutor for the young Duke of Buccleuch and accompanied him to France. In the year or more he spent in Paris, Smith was attracted to a group of thinkers who styled themselves as Economists and whose theories influenced him to such an extent that when he returned to his native town three years later he began to write his famous work, "An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations."

Five editions of this book were printed within the lifetime of the author and it is the work upon which his world-wide reputation rests.

HOW TO SHOP

SOME HINTS ON CHINAWARE

By William H. Baldwin

Here are a few definitions and hints in china-ware, which the shopper should know.

China-ware is earthenware with a white enamel coat and is used mostly for decorative tiles. Majolica, like faience, has a white finish and is further decorated with colored lustres. It is much in demand for its faience is the result of purposely inducing crazing—or cracks all over the surface of the china—because of its decorative effect for vases and porcelain ornaments.

In selecting china, examine the glaze with which the decorations have been applied, and the evenness of the glaze. The presence of black specks is evidence that the clay is impure. Pimples or blisters are blemishes. Ground marks are the result of trying to eliminate ridges or pimples by grinding them off, but these marks are apparent when the piece is held to the light.

THE HORSE'S RUBBERS

London.—They're taking the shock out of the horse's shoes now by supplying rubber soles and heels in place of the steel shoes. Experiments have shown that horses as well as men suffer fatigue when pounding on paved highways all day, and so a rubber pad, fitting over the regulation steel shoe, has been placed on the market to make it easier for the horses.

CLERGY DYING OUT

London.—It is estimated that within 10 years the clergy of England will be extinct if the present rate of loss is continued until that time. The number of clergy in service in 1928 was practically the same as in 1851, with the population of the country nearly doubled. During the seven years from 1921 to 1928, the clergy was decreased by about 4700 members.

CHAPTER XII
Alan got up and paced the length of BERNADINE's somewhat exotic living room, kicking aside a big fat floor cushion that got in his way and then instantly apologizing with a brief "Sorry."

Bernadine relaxed. "I was afraid," she said, "that you were going to Natalie, and you shouldn't do that until you're calmer."

"I've already seen her," Alan replied, his face darkening and his lips growing even harder than they had been before. "She was wheeled sharply, and faced BERNADINE. "This is the end for me and Natalie," he declared, with unmistakable finality in his suddenly lowered voice.

Bernadine realized his conviction of Natalie's guilt permitted no argument, but she did think that he might be less bitter, less hurt, if he talked about it with someone. And she did not believe he would casually expose Natalie. Being in his confidence so far, made her think she should go on with it and try to help him if she could.

"Well," she began, speaking unemotionally. "Let us assume that Natalie did it; don't you think we ought to try to find out if there was any excuse for it?"

"Excuse?" Alan shouted. "What excuse could there be for a thing like that?" He glared at BERNADINE as though he defied her to answer him, for he was past even wanting to believe in Natalie's honesty.

"Perhaps she didn't realize how serious it was," BERNADINE suggested. "She may have thought it was just causing you some slight trouble because she was piqued or . . ."

"Or jealous," Alan broke in. "You may as well know it, BERNADINE. Her insane jealousy is at the bottom of the whole thing. And I won't tolerate it any longer. There's no use trying to defend her. I came here to tell you I'll make good all that you lost—paper profits included—just as soon as I can raise the cash."

"No, Alan," BERNADINE cried emphatically; "I wouldn't let you do that!"

Alan came to a halt before her. He had resumed his riding habit and drawn face, ravaged by illness. A great compassion for her welled up in his heart.

"Don't oppose me, BERNADINE," he said gently. "Let me be a man in my own way for once. The money is rightfully yours—you need it, I know. The second mortgage on this place—it's been worrying you, hasn't it?—and you want to quit the club, don't you? For Bobby's sake."

He came over and put a hand on her shoulder. "He was much quieter now. That's settled," he said. "And if you will take my advice, you'll invest the money, but this house on the market, and go to live quietly in the country somewhere."

Bernadine managed a weak smile. "And raise chickens," she said. "It's the dream of every actor's life. But I know better, Alan."

"You won't have to depend upon chickens," he said. "You'll have money enough if it's well invested; and I see to it that the last precious few drops of water."

Alan convinced her, beyond doubt, "But I was desperate about the money," she went on. "You see, I . . . I didn't know you said you'd support Alan, because I don't believe I'll have enough to leave to take care of him. I wish I'd taken your advice and not speculated so much lately."

Her troubled eyes sought his. He gave her shoulder an encouraging pat.

"But I was desperate about the money," she went on. "You see, I . . . I didn't know you said you'd support Alan, because I don't believe I'll have enough to leave to take care of him. I wish I'd taken your advice and not speculated so much lately."

And she did not believe he would casually expose Natalie. Being in his confidence so far, made her think she should go on with it and try to help him if she could.

"Well," she began, speaking unemotionally. "Let us assume that Natalie did it; don't you think we ought to try to find out if there was any excuse for it?"

"Excuse?" Alan shouted. "What excuse could there be for a thing like that?" He glared at BERNADINE as though he defied her to answer him, for he was past even wanting to believe in Natalie's honesty.

"Perhaps she didn't realize how serious it was," BERNADINE suggested. "She may have thought it was just causing you some slight trouble because she was piqued or . . ."

"Or jealous," Alan broke in. "You may as well know it, BERNADINE. Her insane jealousy is at the bottom of the whole thing. And I won't tolerate it any longer. There's no use trying to defend her. I came here to tell you I'll make good all that you lost—paper profits included—just as soon as I can raise the cash."

"No, Alan," BERNADINE cried emphatically; "I wouldn't let you do that!"

Alan came to a halt before her. He had resumed his riding habit and drawn face, ravaged by illness. A great compassion for her welled up in his heart.

"Don't oppose me, BERNADINE," he said gently. "Let me be a man in my own way for once. The money is rightfully yours—you need it, I know. The second mortgage on this place—it's been worrying you, hasn't it?—and you want to quit the club, don't you? For Bobby's sake."

He came over and put a hand on her shoulder. "He was much quieter now. That's settled," he said. "And if you will take my advice, you'll invest the money, but this house on the market, and go to live quietly in the country somewhere."

Bernadine managed a weak smile. "And raise chickens," she said. "It's the dream of every actor's life. But I know better, Alan."

"You won't have to depend upon chickens," he said. "You'll have money enough if it's well invested; and I see to it that the last precious few drops of water."

Alan convinced her, beyond doubt, "But I was desperate about the money," she went on. "You see, I . . . I didn't know you said you'd support Alan, because I don't believe I'll have enough to leave to take care of him. I wish I'd taken your advice and not speculated so much lately."

Her troubled eyes sought his. He gave her shoulder an encouraging pat.

Her voice dropped, drifted away

Alan got up and paced the length of BERNADINE's somewhat exotic living room, kicking aside a big fat floor cushion that got in his way and then instantly apologizing with a brief "Sorry."

Bernadine relaxed. "I was afraid," she said, "that you were going to Natalie, and you shouldn't do that until you're calmer."

"I've already seen her," Alan replied, his face darkening and his lips growing even harder than they had been before. "She was wheeled sharply, and faced BERNADINE. "This is the end for me and Natalie," he declared, with unmistakable finality in his suddenly lowered voice.

Bernadine realized his conviction of Natalie's guilt permitted no argument, but she did think that he might be less bitter, less hurt, if he talked about it with someone. And she did not believe he would casually expose Natalie. Being in his confidence so far, made her think she should go on with it and try to help him if she could.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

"INTELLECTUAL" CLASSES FAIL TO KEEP UP NORMAL BIRTH RATE

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

Again and again the eugenicists find it necessary to urge the higher propogate more efficiently. The condition is not unique in the United States or in England, but seems to occur all over the world.

In an address delivered in Vienna of Berlin, the figures were revealed as they concerned families of 4000 university professors. It was found that 15 per cent of these families were childless, that the average number of children in each family was 2.8, and that about one-fourth of the children died before they were married.

Thus the children of the intellectual group are insufficient in number to replace the parents. Furthermore, not all of the children are as intellectual as their ancestors, for the simple reason that mixed marriages frequently occur in which one of the parents may be highly endowed mentally and the other poorly endowed. It was found that in a single generation there is a 43 per cent decrease in the average number of children to a family.

It has been noted frequently that both in this country and abroad the children of peasants and of unskilled workmen are more numerous than the children of intellectuals and of skilled workmen. Among peasant families six or seven children were found frequently and the mortality is greater than among the intellectual groups.

It is also obvious throughout the world that the better educated, the skilled workmen, and the farseeing limit definitely the number of children in order that the family may have the economic advantages that come with limitation of offspring. France has for years been concerned with the problem of limitation because of the unwillingness to break up estates into too many divisions.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

I haven't tried this, but pass it on for what it is worth. Shrubs like lilacs with woody stems may be kept fresh for many days by the following treatment. Take a hammer and pound the stems to a depth of six inches, then place in a deep vase of fresh water. Change the water morning and night and be sure it is fresh and cool.

The less one has about a room in the summer time, the cooler it seems. Put away all over drapes, wall hangings, superfluous pillows and the like. Replace with washable glass curtains, and if possible make a change in the rugs, floor coverings, and substitute prints for the heavy pictures.

Although it is claimed the best iced tea is made by pouring the hot, freshly made infusion over ice, it is sometimes convenient to keep a base for cooling drinks. Mixed with any fruit juice or a dash of mint it is a refreshing beverage.

Since we have had our attention called to the decorative beauty of flowers reflected in a mirror by the wonderful exhibit at the flower show, we will be moving them around to catch the reflection of a window or open door or to give a sense of spaciousness as they often do to a room that is crowded with furniture. Light reflected doubles the light shown or nearly so. Then too, wall mirrors never conflict with wall papers. You couldn't use a picture with the popular early American designs while you could use a mirror. Table mirrors formerly were much used as centerpieces to reflect the flowers in the bowl on their surface and that style seems to be gaining in favor.

The newest thing in colored sheets are those printed with colored roses, pink yellow and blue, with both sheets and pillow cases in the printed design.

Fresh cherry shortcake is rather unusual but is delicious.

Cherry Shortcake
Four cups pitted cherries, 1 cup sugar, 2 cups flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 4 tablespoons mixed shortening, sweet milk to make a soft dough.

Cover cherries with sugar and place in ice box while making and baking cake.

Mix sifted flour, salt and baking powder. Rub in shortening. Use half butter and half lard or any preferred shortening with the butter. Cut in milk with a knife using grownup milk to make a soft dough. Roll on a well-floured board into a sheet about 3/4 inch thick. Cut in individual cakes about three inches in diameter and bake in a hot oven. When done split and spread generously with butter. Put together with chilled sugared cherries and spread tops with softened butter. Dredge with powdered sugar and serve at once.

The cape styles which are just as pretty for little girls as their grownup sisters, are frangible, shallow as well as deep, all the way round or just over the tops of the arms. One pretty dress had its flaring skirt and deep cape to the waist of a matching print; the part of the little dress of plain material, trimmed with the figured cloth.

A new and interesting idea for big or little girls is to have the hatband match the frock, whether the fabric is cotton or silk, linen or pique.

Chocolate syrup is most convenient to have on hand, for it can be used in a variety of ways.

One-half cake bitter chocolate, 1 1/2 cups granulated sugar, 2 cups water, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Grate chocolate. Mix sugar, salt and chocolate. Add boiling water and slowly stir into 2 cups of boiling water. Boil without stirring until syrupy. Cool and add vanilla.

Use from 2 or 3 tablespoons of the syrup to a glass of milk.

Cocoa also can be made in the usual way, quickly chilled and served.

The problem of choosing a suitable nurse is an important factor in the life of a small child. "Nurse" is a general term. We apply it too frequently to any sort of a caretaker who helps a busy mother to look after the baby, or his older sisters and brothers. I really think it is high time that we coined a more appropriate term to differentiate the young mother's helper from those professional people who study for their work and prepare exclusively for a clinical or surgical occupation.

Now if we are engaging a "trained" or "professional" nurse we are pretty sure to be sure of credentials. We don't take a chance on trusting our lives or those of our families to anyone not qualified for their work and prepare exclusively for a clinical or surgical occupation.

Trade School Suffers Its First Defeat By New Britain Trade 7-0

Ernie Viot Pitches Great Game But Is Given Ragged Support by Over-Confident Mates; 28 Batters Retired on Strikes.

Manchester Trade School traveled to New Britain yesterday and receive a shutout at a score of 7 to 0. This was Manchester's first setback and was caused mainly by the locals inability to hit plus over-confidence.

Neither team did much hitting but New Britain connected in the pinch and that's what counts. De Borletto, who pitched for the home team, was given a ragged support by his mates, but was equal to the occasion especially in the sixth when he struck out three men with the sacks loaded. Schiebel connected for a triple and Vince for a double but were left stranded on the bases.

AMERICAN Sharkey-Schmeling Fight Will Be On Air Over WTIC

The world-championship bout between Max Schmeling and Jack Sharkey June 12, for the benefit of the Milk fund, will be broadcast to the entire nation. Hartford's WTIC will announce.

This announcement was made yesterday by M. H. Aylesworth, president of the National Broadcasting company, after a series of conferences with Damon Runyan, representing Mrs. William Randolph Hearst, chairman of the Milk fund committee; William F. Carey, president of Madison Square Garden corporation, and Frank J. Bruen, manager of the Garden.

"The National Broadcasting Company will present a description of this fight in response to the nationwide manifestation of interest in it," said Mr. Aylesworth. "Virtually all the stations associated with N. B. C. have assured us their listeners have heard that it carried on our networks."

"We are convinced that this championship match is an event of national importance in the athletic world. The eye and the voice of radio must be present when outstanding events take place. The management of the Milk fund and of Madison Square Garden are in complete agreement with us that an event of such great significance should be made available to listeners from coast to coast, as a matter of service to the public."

The main bout is expected to begin at approximately 10 o'clock. The N. B. C. observers will take the air at 9:30 for a description of the scenes in the Yankee Stadium and probably for a running account of the semi-final.

Local Sport Chatter

Billy Martin, Country Club golf pro, turned in a neat practice round yesterday afternoon when he shot a 74, one stroke better than his best score, a 73 made last year.

Martin went out five over par but finished strong with a pair of birdies, including one on the long tenth. He came in with 33, one under par and only for three sixes on the outgoing nine might have easily broken par for the first time.

Work is going forward rapidly on the building of a new tennis courts near the Country Club driveway entrance. It is expected that they will be ready the latter part of the month.

Understand that Elmo Mantelli is pitching great ball for the Holy Cross freshmen nine. The team has won all of its eight games and Mantelli, ace of five twirlers on the staff, has turned in half this number. So impressive has Elmo been, in fact, that he has been carried by the varsity team to pitch the team in batting practice. He stands a good chance of varsity fame next season.

Play-off Series Discussed In Case of Final Deadlock.

Bristol, one of the two schools to defeat the strong West Hartford high school baseball team, proved rather easy picking for Manchester's schoolboy diamond adventurers yesterday afternoon down in Bell City, the Kelleyites romping home toward the joyful end of a 7 to 3 score. East Hartford, the other team to take the measure of West Hartford, comes here Friday afternoon and if Manchester wins, it is assured of a tie for the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League championship.

SNOW REMOVAL COST HIGHWAY DEPT. $216,770

Report Rendered to Bureau of Public Roads Shows Details of Road Clearing Work.

According to a report rendered to the Bureau of Public Roads of the U. S. Department of Agriculture by Highway Commissioner John A. Macdonald today, the cost of keeping Connecticut's 2,080 miles of trunkline and state aid highway free from snow and ice last winter was $216,770 despite the fact that the snowfall this year was exceedingly light.

This figure also includes the cost of sanding icy sections of road and the maintenance of snow fences.

The later are used in several sections of the state in open spaces where except for the protection offered by the fences the wind would probably cause large drifts in the highways.

The total length of snow fence used for this purpose was eighteen and one half miles.

In accomplishing the work of snow removal, the department, according to its report, had available for use 207 trucks equipped with displacement plows and seven tractors similarly equipped.

Identically the same system of snow clearing was pursued during the past winter as has been used for several years, the report stated.

San Francisco, June 5.—(AP)—Authority of Prohibition Administrator William G. Walker to withhold permits for manufacture of wine tonic was challenged in an action on file here today in Federal District Court, on behalf of the Sterling Pharmaceutical Company.

"This is the beginning of a campaign by drug manufacturers to learn their rights," said Attorney Edmond F. Maper, commenting on the action.

The Sterling company's petition recited that its alcohol supply had been cut by Walker January 17 to 100 gallons a year, and that he had refused an application March 11 for withdrawal of 30,000 gallons of wine and 3,000 gallons of alcohol.

PENNSY DEMOCRATS HAVE WET PLATFORM

Harrisburg, Pa., June 5.—(AP)—Democratic leaders today hailed the action of the Democratic state committee in instructing its candidates for U. S. Senator and governor at the election next November to advocate the repeal of prohibition laws, as an opportunity for Pennsylvania voters to go on record on the prohibition issue.

Both the Republican nominees, Secretary of Labor James J. Davis for Senator and Gifford Pinchot, for governor, are committed to prohibition enforcement.

In incorporating a "wet" plank in its platform the Democratic state committee meeting yesterday to reorganize for the 1930 campaign, did so without a dissenting voice. All the nominees including Sedgwick Kistler and John M. Hemphill respectively for Senator and governor, pledged themselves to the platform.

The platform calls for the repeal of the 18th Amendment, the Volstead Act and the Armstrong-Snyder state enforcement law, and recommends that Congress submit a prohibition repeal amendment "to conventions elected by the people of the states, as provided by Article 5 of the Constitution."

Cambridge, Eng., June 5.—(AP)—Cambridge University authorities have started searching inquiries into the habits of undergraduates as an outgrowth of revelations of escapades in which Douglas Newton Potts, an undergraduate, is reported to have been engaged long before the shooting tragedy here early this week.

Potts committed suicide after shooting and killing a tutor, Dr. A. F. R. Wollaston, noted mountaineer and explorer, and Detective Sergeant Willis of the Cambridge police.

It has been revealed that Potts had surrounded himself with an atmosphere of false romance which he insisted his friends should share and that he had been known in the little village of Mildenhall, about thirty miles from Cambridge which he frequently visited as "the prince."

The villagers said that he called himself "The Prince of Lorraine" and pretended that one of his friends was the heir to the Russian throne.

One report which came to the police for investigation since the tragedy was that he was secretly married in London several months ago.

It was gathered from various sources that girls had played a prominent part in the last days of his life.

FEAR MT. VESUVIUS

Naples, Italy, June 5.—(AP)—Warning that the present eruption of Vesuvius may be serious and that immediate construction of earthworks is necessary to avert possible disaster was made today by Professor Malladra, head of the Vesuvius Observatory.

He said the former earthworks were destroyed in an eruption a year ago, leaving a free path for the flow of lava which may come at any hour from the volcano.

"There is no preoccupation for the moment because the preparatory phase is normal, but with Vesuvius one can never be secure," he said.

Mrs. Walter L. Shipman of McNell street was greatly surprised last evening on returning from an auto ride with her husband, to find that during her absence her home had been invaded by about thirty of her women friends and co-workers at the North Methodist church who in a number of cases brought their husbands with them. Mrs. Ruby Thrasher took charge of the entertainment of the gathering and arranged a program which might have been decades ago on the closing day of school. The songs and recitations made a great hit and everybody had a jolly time. The ladies brought with them a supply of tasty eats, and as Mr. and Mrs. Shipman have recently been remodeling their home, they brought with them a handsome floor lamp.

DOG INSISTS ON HUNT, RUNS DOWN A TURTLE

Barks So Loudly Owners Think Something Is Wrong—Nose Leads Him to Snapper.

Alexis Tournaud, Jr., who conducts the Silk City Gasoline station at the corner of Center and Adams street, owns a teeny-weeny dog whose bark is a whole lot worse than its bite and a great deal louder than seems possible for such a little bit of a dog to possess. The dog is kept on a leash to prevent its running in front of passing automobiles.

This morning the pup, tied to its leash as usual, put up a tremendous fight for freedom, barking loudly all the while. So persistent were the dog's efforts that the leash was unloosened and with two men on one end and the dog tugging on the other they proceeded towards Center street. With his nose close to the gutter the dog led the way and a short distance from the station stopped in front of a large snapping turtle and immediately set about preparations for battle.

But here the two men interfered, realizing that a bark, no matter how loud, is useless when it comes to fighting. So they took the dog back to the station and dispatched the turtle themselves to the accompaniment of staccato barks.

SURE OF 150 LEGION MARCHERS FOR HUB

"On to Boston" Club Rapidly Shaping Plans for Convention Trip.

Plans are rapidly shaping up for the American Legion "On to Boston" Club trip to the annual convention of the veterans in the Hub October 6, 7 and 8. Team captains and lieutenants met at the Armory last night to report on the number of members already enlisted in the "On to Boston" club. About 70 have already joined and promises of membership have been secured from enough others to assure 150 in the marching unit that will take part in the big Legion parade in Boston Monday, October 6.

Harry Malmgren is chairman of the committee conducting the "On to Boston" drive. Robert E. Hathaway of the Manchester Trust Company is treasurer and among those selling tickets in addition to Malmment and Hathaway are Fred Lorch, Frank Bray, John Hartnett, Walter Sheridan, Donald Hemingway, Victor Bronke and Captain William S. George. Those who have not been approached with regard to the trip to the convention are urged to get in touch with any of the above-named immediately.

May Charter Boat One of the important factors discussed last night was the possibility of chartering a boat to go directly from Hartford to Boston for the convention. A committee is already at work on this plan and if the price can be made reasonable enough this mode of traveling to Boston will be adopted. This would save reserving hotel rooms in Boston and would make an ideal way of traveling.

Among the means of raising money for the convention trip discussed last night was the possibility of bringing Count Luckner famous German submarine commander here for a lecture. This was deferred until a later meeting because it was thought lectures in hot weather would not draw sufficiently to pay expenses.
