AMERICANS WARNED TO QUIT WAR AREA

Over 300 In China Where Big Battle Is On—Smoke and Fire of Guns Are Seen In the City.

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—The State Department records today showed that 305 Americans are in the Tsiana-Fu district where Shansi troops are concentrating along the northern bank of the Yellow river. E. F. Stranton, American consul at Tsiana-Fu, informed that 250 Americans are in the district, and that 50 more are in the city. The message said a number of junks including some with cargoes of American oil were burned and sunk, and the smoke of fire from the guns could be seen. The message said the Shansi columns probably would try to cross to the east and west of Tsiana-Fu and that the consul was urging patriotic women and children to leave. Of the Americans in the district, 87 are men, women 129 and children 89.

REBELS VICTORIOUS

Shanghai, June 6.—(AP)—Although the artillery fire of the fighting Northern and Nationalist troops was plainly audible, the native population of Tsinan, capital of Shantung province, continued normal activities today, said Japanese advisers received by way of Tsintao, Shantung seaport.

The dispatches said many Japanese women and children were arriving at Tsintao from the west, as well as numerous wealthy Chinese merchants. The Japanese consul-General at Tsinan today urged Chinese authorities to establish a neutral zone about 60 miles east of Tsinan and reached a line near the Tsinan Tsintao railway before the Nationalists halted their retreat and reorganized their defenses. It was felt in foreign circles here that the

FAMOUS EDUCATOR OF STATE IS DEAD

Marcus White Was Head of Normal School for Thirty- five Years.

New Britain, June 6.—(AP)—Marcus White, who until his retirement last year was prominently identified as principal with the growth and development of the New Britain State Normal School, died at his home early today following a long illness, at the age of 68 years.

Mr. White's retirement last year brought to a close a teaching career of 42 years of which 35 years were spent as principal of the Normal School. Outstanding was his work at the Normal School and so marked his influence that a dormitory erected at the school last year was named the Marcus White Hall.

Made 4,000 Teachers
During his principality at the school, more than 4,000 teachers were graduated. When Mr. White assumed charge there was an enrollment of about 190 and eight class rooms and a kindergarten in the training system. Upon his retirement the enrollment was limited to about 60 pupils. The system consisted of fifty class rooms with more than 1,500 children, in which student teachers did practice work.

Mr. White was born in Blackstone, Mass., August 18, 1861. He attended the elementary and high schools of Grafton, Mass., spent one year at Worcester Academy, and in 1882 was graduated from the Westfield, Mass., Normal School. After three years of teaching he entered Wesleyan University as a sophomore and was graduated in 1888.

While at Wesleyan, Mr. White was elected to Phi Beta Kappa, captain of the baseball team and was editor of the Wesleyan Argus. He was also a member of Delta Kappa Epsilon and Mystical Seven, honorary senior society.

Following his graduation he taught for three years at the William Penn Charter School of Philadelphia and the State Normal School in Millersville, Pa. He spent the next year studying in Paris and Heidelberg and then went to the faculty of the Norwich Free Academy where for two years he was in charge of the normal training department.

Mr. White came to New Britain from the Norwich Free Academy to succeed Clarence F. Carroll as principal of the Normal School.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—(AP)—The Philadelphia Inquirer today quotes Henry Ford as saying that American business is on the up trend and that the trend upward is setting a faster pace than did the slump a few months ago.

Mr. and Mrs. Ford came to Philadelphia yesterday from Washington where they had been overnight guests of President and Mrs. Hoover at the White House.

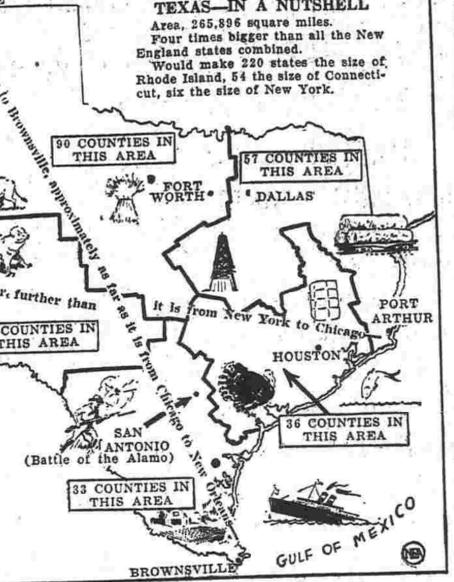

Back to Work
"You see," the Inquirer quotes the automobile manufacturer, "a lot of these fellows were fooling around with the stock market and they got caught—badly caught. Now they've been at work and they are beginning to enjoy it. That is always the reason for good business. In itself, it means there are more people honestly engaged in working hard and productively than there are idling, and it also means they are enjoying it."

Factory in China
Mr. Ford affirmed the announcement that the Ford Motor Company plans the establishment of a factory in China and said he intended to go to Germany shortly to make a preliminary study leading to the establishment of a plant.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 6.—(AP)—The girl, Peggy Mahon, was arrested last night by detectives who were watching a saloon used as a rendezvous by her and her gang. Joseph O'Connors, 23, was arrested with her. Four others were taken into custody at other places as members of the gang. All were held on charges of robbery while armed.

"It was easy for me to get boys to help us," the girl said, "because I just vamped them and when they still refused to join I told them they were yellow and that usually brought them in."

Police records checked with 35 instances of robbery were tallied by O'Connors. Both he and the girl had pistols, police said.

Garner Grabill, 22, one of the others arrested, confessed taking part in two holdups, saying he "fell in love with Peggy and she called me 'yellow'."

NO SUBPOENA TO BE ISSUED, SAYS CARAWAY

Chairman of Lobby Commit- tee Says Bishop Cannon Is Not Compelled to An- swer All Questions.

Jonesboro, Ark., June 6.—(AP)—Visiting his home here today for a few hours before leaving for Dexter, Mo., and then for Washington, Senator T. H. Caraway, chairman of the Senate lobby committee, said he had no intention at present of ordering a subpoena issued for Bishop James Cannon, Jr., who yesterday walked out on the lobby committee.

"I see no occasion to insist on the bishop testifying," Caraway said. "The investigation is aimed at lobbying and not political matters. I do not know all the facts that have developed since I left Washington but as he came to his own request, if he did not care to answer questions he should be excused, is the view I have taken."

Senators Caraway yesterday cancelled an engagement to speak before the Arkansas Bar Association convention at Fort Smith and it was reported there that he had left hurriedly for Washington as a result of the controversy between the lobby committee and Bishop Cannon. He explained he cancelled the Fort Smith engagement in order to make a brief visit to his home.

Senator Caraway delivered an address today to summer school students at Jonesboro, Ark., and M. college. He is scheduled to speak tomorrow at a Democratic rally, after which he will go to Washington.

MRS. HAMMERSTEIN IN POLICE COURT

Widow of Famous Opera Impressario to Be Sent- enced on Monday.

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Mrs. Oscar Hammerstein, widow of the opera impresario, today was convicted of immoral conduct in Women's Court and was remanded for sentencing Monday.

Mrs. Hammerstein was arrested May 12 in her room at the Hotel Winthrop by a detective who said she accepted $30 from him. He charged she had solicited from other men in the hotel.

Mrs. Hammerstein testified the charge was a "frame-up." Her attorney said she would appeal.

Mrs. Hammerstein has been in frequent financial difficulties during the last few years. In 1922 her daughters had her evicted from the Manhattan Opera House, which they had purchased at auction and she placed advertisements in the newspapers saying she was destitute and asking for work. Friends arranged a benefit opera performance but little money was realized.

Visited France
In 1926 she sailed for France, saying that she never expected to return to the United States but that she would make her home among the French people "who really appreciate Mr. Hammerstein."

She returned the next year, however, and advertised for a backer for night clubs she proposed to establish in Palm Beach and New York.

Little had been heard of her during the last two years until her arrest last month.

Yesterdays officials of WGY, the local broadcasting station of the General Electric Company here, telephoned to London and arranged with the publishers of the newspaper which had contracted for Miss Johnson's exclusive story, to permit her to talk for the benefit of broadcast listeners, not with newspapermen, but with Miss Elmer Smith, holder of the women's record for altitude flight.

Giant Dirigible Completes 18,000 Mile Trip to United States and South Amer- ica—Complete Journey Lasted 19 Days; Course Changed Over France to Avoid Electrical Disturb- ance.

Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 6.—(AP)—The Graf Zeppelin, home from her 18,000-mile voyage to South America and the United States, landed at Friedrichshafen at 7:22 p. m. (1:22 p. m., E. S. T.).

The Graf thus completed safely a cruise lasting 19 days during which she made landings in Spain, Brazil and the United States and flew over the northern African coast.

ENCOUNTERS STORM

Basel, Switzerland, June 6.—(AP)—After encountering a terrific electrical storm in the Rhone Valley early this morning, which caused her to veer southward out of its path, the Graf Zeppelin flew over the Swiss border at Soleure at 11:15 p. m. today at an elevation of 600 feet. The big ship was bucking a strong north wind, but although flying slowly, was steadily nearing her home port, Friedrichshafen.

The big air liner left Seville for Friedrichshafen at 12:35 p. m., and at midnight was on over the Mediterranean, passing over the Balearic Isles. As was his custom in past tours, Dr. Eckener took the Rhone Valley course which would bring him just west of the Swiss border on his way home to Germany. The Graf passed over Orange, France, 50 miles up the Rhone Valley at 6:20 a. m. At 7:25 a. m., E. S. T., the ship was over Montclair, France, flying at a low altitude in the direction of Lyons. The weather was perfect.

Meets Storm
Between Montclair and Lyons the Graf turned before a terrific electrical storm raging in the upper Rhone Valley and veered southward again from Valence. At 9 a. m. the Graf again appeared above Montclair and it was expected she would cut straight across France to escape the storm, heading straight in the direction of Basel.

The Rhone Valley, which is a convenient course for the Graf Zeppelin from south France to Friedrichshafen, once before presented difficulties for the great dirigible. This was in May, 1928, when the Graf had to fight against heavy storms with some of her five motors out of commission.

The Graf had started on a flight to the United States and was well on the Mediterranean when her motors went bad and she was forced to turn back to Friedrichshafen. In the Rhone valley she encountered a mistral wind which blows down the valley.

First Danger Signals
The first danger signal came as the Zeppelin passed over Orange between Avignon and Montclair. She was observed to be having a difficult fight against the mistral. However, she continued on and battled her way as far north as the suburbs of Valence. For some time the ship hung over the suburbs of the town, her engines just keeping her head into the wind.

Dr. Eckener then made a vain effort to bring her down at the nearby airfield of Portes-les-Valence, but the ship was swept to the southeast. Finally the Graf made her way to the Cuers landing field, 15 miles from Toulon, just before dark and was landed with the assistance of French Army and Navy forces.

The Graf's engines were overhauled and some time later she made her way up the Rhone again to her home port.

THE HOMEcoming.
Friedrichshafen, Germany, June 6.—(AP)—This home port of the Graf Zeppelin was excited today with expectation of the homecoming of the airliner after her seventh TransAtlantic crossing.

Flags were flying from most houses and the Zeppelin works in the Maybach engineering shops. The Graf was expected home some time between seven and eight o'clock tonight (between 1:00 p. m. and 2 p. m., E. S. T.).

A great laurel wreath commemorating the first South American flight was ready to be handed over with ceremony to Dr. Hugo Eckener by a representative of the town.

Father O'Meara was a curate in Manchester during the flu epidemic and calling upon the ill at the temporary hospital in Cheney Hall, which was made necessary because of the lack of any other hospital in Manchester, made him many friends. He left Manchester to go to Suffield and later was connected with one of the churches in New Haven, his native town. Next he was made pastor of St. John's church in Montville and now is advanced to the pastorate of St. Patrick's in Waterbury.

fall of Tsian was only a matter of time. This is one of the three fronts upon which the Nationalist government at Nanking, already economically weakened by its depleted treasury, had business conditions, and crop failures, finds itself attacked. In Hunan province, south of the Yangtze river, it lost the important city of Changsha yesterday to the so-called "Red" army of bandits and Kwangsi rebels, while in Honan province, along the Peiping-Hankow railway, the Northern Allies are holding the railroad junction city of Chengchow.

His Prediction.

Davis predicted a number of days ago that death would overtake him today. He has said he was tired of living. Efforts to prevail upon him to have been in vain. No action had been taken today in the case by county authorities, despite strong public opinion that some effort should be made to save the man's life.

Authorities and visitors reported that Davis obviously is sane. Davis is quoted by friends as having expressed the opinion that to end his life with a pistol would be immoral.

Cheney Brothers' Girls' Athletic Association is planning a moonlight hike for Thursday night of next week and about thirty girls are expected to participate. The rendezvous is not a secret. Their goal will be Flax Hill on the Foster farm in Wapping.

The party will leave in two groups from the center. The first departs at 7:30 while the second will leave at 8:15. The first group to reach the announced destination, will set about to get everything in readiness for the evening's meal.

Hot dogs will be roasted and served with bread, doughnuts and chocolate bars. Miss Emily Kissman is in charge and has planned an interesting program of frolics for the evening. Girls wishing to go on the trip may procure tickets from Miss Kissman or their mill athletic director in such departments as they are located. Only adverse weather would cause a postponement.

BYRD LECTURE DRAWS INTEREST IN CITY

The Children's Museum announces through its president, Charles F. T. Seaverns that it will present Rear-Admiral Richard E. Byrd, in two lectures on October 17 in the Horace Bushnell Memorial.

Motion pictures of experiences in "Little America," showing the manner in which the company of explorers lived through the two years of their stay, scenes with the dog teams which were of such great assistance in the work, and especially pictures of the flight to the South Pole will be shown. Rear-Admiral Byrd's descriptions of the difficulties of this flight, the narrow escapes from destruction, the heroism and splendid spirit of the men, are thrilling when read, and will undoubtedly gain much when told in person by the only man who has flown over both Poles.

The afternoon lecture will be at 3:30 and the evening one at 8:15. Both tickets and reservations for seats may be secured by applying to the Children's Museum, 609 Farmington Avenue, Hartford. Already, a thousand or more have been taken by High school students for the afternoon, and evening tickets are being called for daily.

So far as is known, this will be Rear-Admiral Byrd's first appearance in Connecticut since his return from Antarctica and both Governor Trumbull and Mayor Batterson are formulating plans for a suitable celebration on his arrival.

M. I. T. PRESIDENT IS INAUGURATED

Cambridge, Mass., June 6.—(AP.)—Professor Karl Taylor Compton, chairman of the Department of Physics at Princeton University today was inaugurated president of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He succeeded Dr. Samuel W. Stratton, who became chairman of the corporation under a recently adopted plan of organization for the institute.

The inaugural exercises took place before a gathering of distinguished educators, scientists and engineers as well as thousands of alumni and undergraduates.

Purpose of Institute

After declaring the purpose of the institute to be "the development of science and its useful application through continual study and research combined with the training of men," President Compton, in his address said, "There appears to be no reason for any change in the purposes and ideals of the institute."

He suggested the necessity of greater emphasis upon the fundamental principles both in their own rights and as the basis of the various branches of engineering. This, he said, was because of the large number of engineers who now become executives and administrators to whom "broad and thorough training in fundamental principles gives much greater power than a training in details which may seldom be encountered in practice."

Must Take Lead

Of the future of technology, he said, "An institute of technology today, to perform its greatest service, must take the lead in actually developing science and its applications as well as in technological teachings."

"In fact no proper teaching in these days can be done except it is with the spirit of research."

President Compton stressed the "supreme necessity of maintaining a faculty of absolutely first grade men, despite the increasing difficulty of doing so."

In introducing President Compton, Dr. Stratton praised him highly as "an eminent investigator in the field of physics."

Dr. A. Lawrence Lowell, president of Harvard, was among the speakers.

CHAMBER STARTS TRAVEL SERVICE NEXT MONDAY

Work Out Plan for Giving Travelers Information; To Be Available Daily.

Starting Monday, June 9, the Manchester Chamber of Commerce will inaugurate its Tourist Information Bureau, a service which will be available to townspeople and transients throughout the summer months. The Chamber has on hand a large variety of booklets, pamphlets, and road maps which will be placed at the disposal of those wishing information on traveling. The office will be open from 8:30 o'clock in the morning to 6 o'clock at night including Saturdays. The Saturday afternoon opening will be expressly for the accommodation of tourists and should patronage warrant the added hours will be continued during the vacation period.

Printed signs three feet by 18 inches are being made to be placed below four of the sign signs on the principal highways leading into Manchester. One will be placed at the Silver Lane sign and another at Laurel Park directing tourists to the information bureau at the Chamber. Others will be placed on the Bolton Road and Rockville Road. At Depot Square and the center a large hand will point down Main street to where a banner, similar to the one used in the hospital campaign, will announce the headquarters of the bureau.

In announcing the new activity of the Chamber, Secretary E. J. McCabe declared that the Tourist Information Bureau is being established to earn the good will of transients passing through Manchester to "make them feel that Manchester is glad to have them in our town."

In conjunction with the opening of the bureau the Chamber is mailing a letter to each one of its 350 members asking their co-operation in the following way:

If tourists stop and ask you for directions be careful to give them correct and definite information. Remember they are strangers and do not know the turns and forks in the road which you know so well and consider so simple to make.

Kindly show them every possible courtesy and if you are in business give them the best service you have to offer. Make them feel that Manchester is glad to have them in our town.

If they are in need of information which you cannot furnish send them to the Chamber of Commerce Information Bureau, 769 Main street.

VON ELM WINS FRENCH AMATEUR

Detroit Star Beats Morrison Nine and Eight in Final Round This Morning.

VON ELM WINS.
La Bouille, France, June 6.—(AP)—George Von Elm of Detroit today won the French amateur golf championship, defeating R. G. Morrison of England, nine up and eight to play, the final 36-hole match.

La Bouille, France, June 6.—(AP)—George Von Elm, former American amateur golf champion, appeared today to have a struggle hold on the French international amateur championships. After eighteen holes of a 36 hole match he led R. G. Morrison of Chantaco Golf club, England, five up.

The high winds appeared to bother the British player, but Von Elm's driving was not affected and he negotiated the first eighteen holes in 70, three under par, the advantage all coming on the outward trip. Morrison's card for the home trip was 38, or 75 for the 18 holes. The cards were:
Von Elm—out—443 643 434—35.
Morrison—out—443 544 445—37.
Von Elm—in—354 343 544—35—70.
Morrison—in—444 454 454—38—75.

La Bouille, France, June 6.—(AP)—George Von Elm, American golfer, was two up on R. G. Morrison of Chantaco Golf Club, England, at the ninth hole in the finals of the French international amateur championships this morning.

Both players showed magnificent golf, Von Elm going out in 35, three under par, and Morrison in 37.

QUIZ PROF. LEVITT

Cheshire, June 6.—(AP)—Professor Albert Levitt who spoke to townspeople in the Town Hall last night as another in his series of meetings which he is holding in the state, found himself the center of a quiz after he had ended his discussion of public utilities conditions. He stated that he would have a discussion with Samuel Ferguson, president of the Hartford Electric Light Company, whom he met in debate at Norwich on Wednesday afternoon at Middlebury on the 12th and had accepted on invitation to be in Brantford on the evening of the 17th. He will speak on taxation before the Exchange Club at Bridgeport on the 13th.

Last night Levitt took up the candidacy of Lieut.-Gov. Ernest E. Rogers of New London for the governorship and said he would like to get Mr. Rogers on the public platform to discuss public affairs of the state. He offered to pay Mr. Rogers expenses to get him on a platform for a debate.

The local meeting was sponsored in part by Edgar E. White, local business man, who asked Governor Trumbull recently to investigate conditions at the Reformatory.

NEW ROTARY BUILDING

Jourdan-Gasin, president of the Nice Club, he will act in behalf of the French delegates, he announced today prior to sailing for America aboard the Carmania.

JUDGE MORRIS RESIGNS

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—The resignation of Judge Hugh M. Morris, Federal district judge of Delaware, was received today at the White House.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Further selling pressure appeared at the opening of today's Stock Market. Radio Keith lost 5-8 of a point, and General Electric 3-4, 4th transactions of 7,000 and 5,000 shares, respectively. Westinghouse Electric declined 1-3-4, and American Can, North American, American and Foreign Power, and Worthington Pump, 1 each. U. S. Steel opened 3-8 off, and Radio 1-4.

The market soon turned dull on the decline, and price trends became irregular. The overnight news was none too encouraging, particularly the increase of $79,000,000 in brokers loans, although this was attributed in many quarters to new financing rather than Stock Market distribution.

The Annalist Weekly Index of Wholesale Commodity Prices showed a gain of about 1-3 of a point, but this was scarcely decisive enough to indicate a change of trend. Coty passed its dividend, and Noranda Mines reduced its quarterly payment from 75 to 50 cents. City declined more than a point to a new low for the year, and Lima Locomotive and Prairie Pipe Line also recorded new bottom levels.

Considerable selling appeared in the utilities, Detroit Edison, Southern California Edison, American Power and Light, and Electric Power and Light losing a point or two. Similar losses were recorded by Anaconda, Vanadium, Goodyear and American Tobacco B.

U. S. Steel, after declining 1/2 of a point, recovered its loss and sold fractionally higher. Houston Oil rose about 2 points, Worthington recovered its early loss and sold up a point, and Columbia Carbon rallied 1 1/2.

Foreign exchanges opened steady, with sterling cables quoted at $4.85 1/2, up 1-32.

FRANCE PROTESTS

Paris, June 6.—(AP)—A letter requesting that the attention of the U. S. government be called to anxiety of French industry at proposed increases in American tariffs has been sent to the French Minister of Commerce M. Flandin, by the French Federation of Industries and the National Association for Economic Expansion.

The latter characterizes the proposed new duties as barrier to most of the principal French industries and predicts a tariff war "dangerous alike to world prosperity and peace."

The two organizations signing the letter represent all of French industry.

BARTLETT IS ON WAY TO GREENLAND AGAIN

New York, June 6.—(AP)—Captain Robert A. Bartlett, Arctic navigator, who piloted Peary's ship on his dash to the North Pole, was steering his schooner Morrissy northward again today at the head of a scientific expedition to Greenland.

The Morrissy cleared New York harbor yesterday bound for the desolate region of Scoresby Sound which indents the northeast coast of Greenland.

Junius Bird of Rye, N. Y., is in charge of the ethnological division of the expedition which will seek relics of ancient Eskimo tribes for the Museum of the American Indian, Heya Foundation, New York.

Harry Whitney of New Haven, Conn., sportsman and explorer, who sailed part of the way with Peary in 1908, plans to trap live specimens of seals, walrus and polar bear.

Captain Bartlett plans to put in at Brigus on the Newfoundland coast, his birthplace and where his parents still live.

The Morrissy is expected to return at the end of the Arctic summer, but supplies sufficient to sustain the expedition through the winter are being taken in case the ship is frozen into the ice.

Among members of the crew are William Pritchard, who was Peary's cook, and his son "Young Billy" Pritchard, mess boy.

The Morrissy is equipped with wireless and will keep in touch with civilization during the voyage.

Asbury Park, N. J., June 6.—(AP)—While delegates to the General Synod of the Reformed Church in America busied themselves today with committee reports and routine matters, rumors of a proposed merger with the Presbyterian church of the United States and the United Presbyterian church continued to attract much interest.

The suggested merger may receive consideration early next week.

Rev. J. H. Murphy of Hudson, N. Y., was chosen vice president.

While the new customs convention is greeted in many quarters with relief, cries of alarm are raised by the luxury trade which felt effects of the New York Stock Market slump last fall and the drop in the prices of commodities.

Newspaper publishers say the paper they must import carries too high a duty, imported butter, chocolates, tea, soaps, perfume and silk material have become high priced.

Increases have been levied upon pertumeries, motor cars, tires, gasoline and oils.

Quarters friendly to the government say that in a country like Portugal, the only one perhaps which has not instituted income tax and where direct taxation is most popular, the tariff reform was an inescapable necessity.

Berlin, June 6.—(AP)—Germany's bachelors and bachelor girls will have to shoulder an additional burden of taxation as their share in efforts to meet Germany's heavy obligations if a proposal of the Cabinet is approved by the Reichstag.

The Cabinet has agreed on an additional ten per cent tax on incomes of unmarried men and women, which means more than double the present rate.

The new tariff, which went into effect January 6, is the work of the minister of finance, Dr. Antonio Oliveira Salazar. It is a compromise between protection and free trade.

High duties are imposed on goods that Portugal produces. Foodstuffs are taxed lightly. The minister of finance held the reform was indispensable for the protection of dying home industries and to end dumping of foreign goods which drove national goods from the local market.

Six Year's Labor
Various Portuguese governments in the past have been working on this comprehensive scheme which contains no less than 1090 items. It required its authors six years of unceasing labor to round it off.

It is the first serious effort made by Portugal since 1892 to adjust her tariff policy in keeping with changed economic conditions throughout the world.

Important revenue, it is declared, will accrue to the treasury by the application of the new tariff. The Portuguese government derives 40 per cent of its income from the customs. These in 1929 yielded $70,000,000 and revenue for the present financial year is expected to be considerably higher.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES

The Leaders' Class, which will spend tomorrow and Sunday at Pleasant View, will stop at the new Millsean cottage owned by Miss Erickson and Mrs. Ann Waddell of this town.

It is very probable that the class officers for next year will be elected before school closes. This, of course, applies only to the three upper classes. For many years the class officers have been elected at the beginning of the school year. Likewise, several of the school organizations, including the Sock and Buskin Dramatic club and the Debating club, will be completely reorganized for next year before school closes. The Sock and Buskin club has been using this system for some time, but the Debating club and the other organizations have been accustomed to hold their election of officers and try-outs at the first part of the year.

The assembly held yesterday was entirely devoted to the announcing of several important details. The assembly was a short one, concluding at 3 o'clock. The class officers for next week, and the assembly of the following week will be devoted to Class Day exercises, which, if the weather permits, will be held outside. Several awards will be presented at the Class Day assembly.

The girls of Miss Condon's art classes attended the art exhibition in Hartford this morning.

Those girls planning to enter normal school this fall have been advised concerning the examination which will be given tomorrow at the normal school. Formerly an average of eighty-five in three subjects enabled one to enter normal school. Now, however, a comprehensive examination, given by the normal school, as well as high scholastic standing are the entrance qualifications. The tests are always given on the first Saturday in June.

The final rank cards for this year will be distributed on June 20. No classes will be held on that day, but the students must report to their various class rooms for the purposes of returning books. Regular class periods will not cease for the three lower classes until Thursday, June 19. Ranks will be kept open until that day. The term examinations for the sixth marking period may be held on any day the instructor assigns. The class recitations for seniors will cease on Tuesday of the last week of school. Their books must be turned in by that time. They must return to school on Wednesday morning, however, for a rehearsal in marching. There will also be rehearsals in marching on the preceding Monday and Friday.

No books will be distributed to pupils next year until they have returned or accounted for all the books taken out this year.

Senior girls may wear either black or white shoes during the graduation exercises, while the senior boys have been advised to wear black or white shoes also.

At the assembly yesterday, Mr. Quimby urged the student body to attend the baseball game with East Hartford this afternoon. If Manchester, High wins this game, it will tie West Hartford for first place in the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League. Manchester beat East Hartford in East Hartford with the score of 4-2.

An intra-mural girls' tennis tournament is now being held.

The track team has had a quite successful season, losing only one meet, the one with Bristol. Manchester is considered having a very good chance in the track finals to be held at Trinity tomorrow and several students are planning to attend this meet.

The Herald Hears

That quite a bit of excitement has been stirred up by the escape of a canary from a home in the vicinity of the Colonial Gardens on the West Side. Folks in that district have made an extensive search for the bird without avail and it is the consensus of residents there that the canary will not be caught unless salt is sprinkled on its tail.

That there is at least one street in town where automobiles are not allowed to park at all—that's on Bow street, which also has the reputation of being the shortest street. It connects Chestnut and Garden streets.

That Manchester people have never got the habit of pulling over to the curb with their automobiles when a fire engine comes tearing up the street. Instead a regular hide-and-go-seek game is played around the trucks and impromptu races are staged to see who gets to the fire first, the firemen or the spectators.

That speaking of streets, there's one on the West Side named "Bremen." It's the first street on the left, off West Center street, beyond Cooper street.

CLAIMS BIG DEBT.

Sacramento, June 6.—(AP)—Forgotten for nearly three score years, claims of the state, against the Federal government aggregating $6,000,000 are being revived and efforts made to collect the money.

The claims cover funds advanced, through sale of bonds, for recruiting and paying troops during the Civil War.

Conferences between state finance officials are to be held soon at which the procedure to be followed by the state in its fight for collection will be mapped out, it was announced today.

ARTIST KILLS SELF

Paris, June 6.—(AP)—The Petit Parisien today said that Jules Pascini, one of the most talented painters of the younger school, was found dead yesterday hanging from the knob of a studio door in the Montmartre.

The discovery was made by friends who, alarmed at not having seen him since Sunday broke the door of the apartment. A police inquiry returned a verdict of suicide due to acute neurasthenia, from which he had suffered for months.

Pascini's real name was Julius Pincas. He was born in Widden, Bulgaria, in 1885, and was said to have become a naturalized American citizen in 1916, although he lived and made his career in France.

MORROW AND HOOVER

More than two years will elapse before the Republican party of the United States names its candidate for President in the next quadrennial election. To launch the advocacy of any certain candidate so long in advance is hardly within the rules of the game as custom has established them. Yet two men of much more than ordinary importance in the party in their own state, one of them also something of a figure nationally, on Wednesday night made what seemed like a quite deliberate declaration that New Jersey Republicans would be found advocating the nomination of Dwight W. Morrow for the Presidency in 1932.

At a political meeting in Trenton, held in the interest of Mr. Morrow's senatorial candidacy, former Governor E. C. Stokes and Dr. John Grier Hibben, president of Princeton University, both took the opportunity to suggest the likelihood of Mr. Morrow being the national candidate two years hence. And it is recorded that when it came the latter's turn to speak he failed to disavow the advocacy of his supporters.

It is inevitable that this proceeding will elicit some criticism. It will especially be proclaimed by Mr. Morrow's political opponents in his own state that for that gentleman to allow his ambitions to extend so far as the possible displacement of Mr. Hoover is not only unseemly but the betrayal of an old and firm friendship both personal and political.

Yet there is another side to the matter. Mr. Morrow has already made it very clear indeed that he regards the question of prohibition reform as the paramount issue before the country. He is making his campaign on that issue. To be logical he must hold that the Republican party must nominate a Presidential candidate stoutly in favor of prohibition reform. If he were to permit it to be assumed that he stood as a supporter of President Hoover for a second term he would thereby confess himself to be governed by polite consideration for a friend rather than by an earnest determination to do everything possible to get rid of Volsteadism.

Mr. Hoover has allowed himself to be definitely identified as a dry. Mr. Morrow has identified himself as a militant wet. If he puts principles ahead of men he cannot very well yield the wall to a dry candidate for the Presidency just out of friendship—not if he believes himself to be the right man to lead the wet cause and that the wet cause is right and the dry cause wrong. There is going to be something more at stake in the next Presidential election than rules of political etiquette. And quite aside from the question of whether Mr. Hoover or Mr. Morrow would make the stronger candidate it is fair to assert that a person believing as Mr. Morrow does on a highly vital issue has every right in the world to contest the Presidential nomination, even with a friendly incumbent when the latter apparently occupies a directly opposite position on that issue.

THE END OF IT

Independence Day is almost a month away. If within that month the Board of Selectmen and the voters of Manchester were to take no action in the interest of the entire community several thousand dollars very much needed for other and more rational purposes would be converted into intolerable noise, inevitable physical injury to a number of children; quite possibly a death or two; certainly a period of discomfort and demoralization succeeded by an expensive repairing of the damage; a modicum of profit for a handful of dealers and a fat amount of business for fireworks manufacturers at a distance. It is a serious commentary that the only organized interest in the Fourth of July, nowadays, is the firecracker and general explosives interest. As a day of recreation the holiday is a ruin for seven-eighths of the grown people and a ghastly menace to all the children. The barbaric method of its celebration has no friends except among those who hope to make a few dollars out of it, at the expense of the peace of mind and well being of the entire community.

This being the case, it is submitted that this community could much better afford to make each of these dealers a present of his anticipated profit and prohibit the sale of fireworks absolutely than to permit such sale and pay not only the profit, but the first cost of the stocks of infernal devices plus all the damage done to life, limb, health and property.

It is further submitted, however, that this community is going to do no such thing as the former. Nor is it, in the light of the present economic situation and the temper of the public, likely to submit to any more of these devastating periods of foolish racketing and nerve torture.

Those persons who have anticipated engaging in the sale of fireworks this year are advised that it would be wise for them to hold their horses, so to speak, in the placing of orders for noise making explosives; or, if they have already placed such orders, to cancel them or at least insist on their provisionally quality. Because there is every probability that along about the middle of this month there will be a special town meeting and that that town meeting will adopt a town bylaw prohibiting the sale and use of noisy fireworks altogether.

The hackneyed argument that to stop the saturnalia of firecrackers, pistols, cannons, etc., during the Independence Day period is an attack on patriotism has reached the raspberry stage. The best possible kind of patriotism would be to prevent the boys and girls from maiming and blinding themselves, so that they may have a reasonable chance of growing up in health and strength, to the glory of their country.

The country, the state and the town have grown weary of this pestilential annual jamboree of gunpowder, blinded eyes and little coffins. The chances are a great deal better than even that Manchester will put its foot down on the custom, long before the Fourth of July. And this should constitute sufficient warning to the fireworks dealers.

JUDGE-MADE LAW

In a Litchfield County case in which a judge assumed the right to reject the unanimous verdict of a jury the Supreme Court of Errors is to be called on to pass upon his power to do so. It is high time. Either no such power attaches to the judicial office or else one of the fundamental guarantees of democratic government in which millions of Americans have reposed an abiding faith for a century and a half simply has no existence in fact. It has been our contention for years that the whole system of jury nullification by judge's mandate, both in the setting aside of verdicts and the ordering of instructed decisions, is an attack on our charter of human rights.

It remains to be seen what the Supreme Court will do about it. After that it may remain to be seen what the people, through their Legislature, will do about it.

RACE POOLS

Our neighbor the Hartford Courant, tranquilly discussing the winnings of occasional individuals in the English Derby pools, says: Four or five persons get their names in the papers and four or five millions throw away worthless tickets. The odds are pitifully long. Yet the lure of the wager, the hope that out of one dollar will grow thousands, the belief that one man's chances are as good as another's and the ever present optimism of humankind are factors which keep gambling alive. So long as a man can invest a dollar with some prospect of making his fortune he will probably do so despite the statute books and sermons.

And, aware of the fact that to say so is to shock conventional morality most awfully, we cannot resist the temptation to supplement this opinion with one of our own—that the world is full of a great many things and that more than a few of them are worse than public lotteries would be, if conducted honestly, by government, for the common profit and under candid and strict regulation.

Very well we know that this is a wicked and terrible thing to say. We have been told so before now by plenty of folks who have made their money speculating in stocks or in buying goods on the hazard of being able to sell them for more than they paid for them plus overhead. But just the same we can't get over the conviction that there are millions and millions of men and women whose greatest need in life is a ray of hope—and it is because of the element of hope that lotteries exist.

Offsetting the hope is, of course, the disappointment. But the hope extends over many days, perhaps weeks, perhaps months. The disappointment is brief; and the philosophy of the drab life is usually immune to very keen suffering from it.

The tawdry swindling devices that masquerade as lotteries in this country are indefensible. But there is something to be said for the institution when, as has been the case in several European countries and at one time in one state of the American Union, the lottery is operated on the level and by the government.

WIRE FENCES

With the substitution of wire cables for wooden fence rails alongside Connecticut's highways there will probably come an end of one very dreadful kind of death in automobile accidents. While the list of victims who have been impaled by broken fence rails is not a long one there have been enough such tragedies to make the disappearance of the wooden rails welcome.

Not only does the wire cable possess a certain resiliency not characteristic of the timber barrier and so is better calculated to throw an uncontrolled car back onto the road, but if it does break at least it is not likely to contribute, as the broken rail has so often done, to the fatal quality of the accident.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington.—The Sheppard-Towner Maternity and Infancy Act, a piece of legislation which always seemed to interest the women of the country more than any other, is likely to stay dead indefinitely as the result of a misunderstanding or something between Congress and the White House.

That is the law under which the government appropriated more than a million dollars a year to cooperate with the states in welfare and hygiene work for mothers and babies, under the administration of the Children's Bureau. The act ran for seven years and everyone seemed to agree that the work was a great success, striking at the mother and infant mortality rates, but it stopped on July 1 of last year when Congress failed to appropriate the money to keep it going.

Not Getting Anywhere
 Women's organizations thought it was fine business to have a "child welfare president" like Mr. Hoover. Now some of their officers are complaining privately that the president has taken such an active interest in the problem that things are getting all balled up without any progress.

After he had announced his White House Conference on Child Health and Child Protection the word went to Capitol Hill that the president didn't want any action on the Sheppard-Towner measure before the conference made a report, which would take a year or more.

Nevertheless, in his message to the regular session of Congress Mr. Hoover declared himself in favor of continuing the Sheppard-Towner Act under the Children's Bureau for a limited period of years and Congressman Cooper of Ohio and Senator Jones of Washington introduced bills which would provide money to start the thing going again.

But Cooper says Mr. Hoover made subsequent demands concerning the legislation and he introduced a second bill to square with the presidential ideas. This bill would transfer maternity and infant hygiene work to the U. S. Public Health Service. The women complain, however, that it gives no assurance that real practical work would be carried on. The Health Service has never done any maternity work, whereas the Children's Bureau has been engaged in it for many years. And the theory of those who will have none of the second Cooper bill is that in order to reduce the baby death rate the mothers who need education must receive it.

During the food relief work the president became very fond of the county health units and his idea lately has been that these should be used in future administration of the Sheppard-Towner Act. There are, however, good reasons why many counties which have no such units. Minnesota, for instance, is said to have but one county health unit.

Under the second Cooper bill the Children's Bureau would have money to carry on welfare work, but the nature of such work is not defined. Besides representatives of women's organizations, those of organized labor and the American Farm Bureau Federation have joined in opposing the bill which was inspired by the president. They are all supporting a bill recently submitted by Congressman Goodwin of Minnesota which would simply re-enact the Sheppard-Towner law and provide some money.

Delay in the House
 Leaders in the House of Representatives have been consistently complaining that the House had nothing to do. The baby measure is only one of various welfare or reform measures which it has held up. The committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce, of which Congressman

Parker of New York is chairman, gets credit for holding up the Cooper and Goodwin bills. In the Senate the Jones bill was reported favorably without amendment and has been on the Senate calendar since April 9. Either house could pass a bill in a day or two, as there is little opposition.

Mr. Hoover has been telling visitors that there would have to be a compromise, but that some kind of a maternity bill will come out of this session. It appears that he doesn't want anything but the second Cooper bill. Meanwhile the session draws to its close and it looks as if the mothers and babies were again going to be out of luck.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

HAY FEVER UNNECESSARY

Now that the summer and fall are coming, over a million hay fever patients are looking forward with dread to the new-mown hay, or rag weed, or golden rod, or any of the pollens which seem to cause their attacks to descend on them.

With hay fever the attacks are usually seasonal, that is, the patient has times when he is usually free from them. During the attack the nose itches, the eyes water and smart, patient sneezes and is extremely restless at night. The mucous membranes of the nasal passages swell, causing a constricted feeling and an excess of mucus is secreted.

It should be remembered that a disease of this kind is really constitutional and the patient already has a congested mucous membrane which only needs the invasion of bacteria, or the breathing of dust or flower pollen to bring on an acute attack because of the congestion and serum already there.

Many kinds of foolish advice are given these sufferers for curing their hay fever, but the cure is really very simple and depends entirely on dietetic treatment. The first thing to do if you have this disease is to take a short fast to cleanse the blood stream of excess accumulation of toxins and relieve the congestion in the mucous membranes.

Water should be taken copiously to drink, and one enema should be used daily of one quart of warm water.

The congestion in the mucous membranes can be relieved by stimulating the skin by using two sponge or shower baths daily, using a rough towel afterwards to rub down the body vigorously until the entire ment will increase the activity of the millions of pores and increase elimination of body poisons. You will find that the hay fever symptoms disappear in a very short time with this method of treatment, but if the condition is chronic you must persevere faithfully with your diet for some time in order that your mucous membranes can become virtually eliminating organs may be restored to normal. This change is necessarily slow, but it can be hastened with the use of local actinic rays directed into the nose where the membranes are irritated. The diet should be free for a considerable length of time of all starch and sugar foods. In most cases it is also advisable to discontinue milk and cream for a time. A little butter may be used, but not over two or three ounces daily.

Keep up the skin elimination and try to sweat each day through exercising and follow this with a cold shower. The sweats are best produced by exercising and are more beneficial than by artificial means. These rules are very easily followed and they will bring about a very satisfactory cure so that all of the hay fields and pollens in the world would no longer affect you.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (The Mind of the Diabetic)
 Question.—R. H. asks: "Does diabetes affect the mind? Should alcohol be made for a diabetic who is addicted to the very reprehensible habit of lying?"
 Answer.—Every cell and function of the body is affected in the disorder called diabetes, but this is also true of every disease of faulty metabolism. The diabetic is liable to forget easily, and so your friend may not remember what you think to be the truth.

The Husband Hunter

© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

BY RUTH DEWEY GROVES

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

Natalie Converse, jealous of her husband's friendship with Bernadine Lamont, leaves him. Alan is consoled by his secretary, Philippa West, who is seeking to make an advantageous marriage. Alan returns, and Alan realizes that he loves her, but the entanglement that Philippa has cleverly engineered prevents him from attempting a reconciliation. Philippa refuses to release him.

Natalie's sister, Florence, takes an illness to bring Alan back to his home. But Alan's chivalrous feeling for Philippa prevents her still to stand between him and Natalie.

Natalie goes to Alan's office and there meets Bernadine. Her old jealousy flares up again and she quarrels bitterly with Alan. The next day Natalie comes to the office to plead forgiveness, but Alan is out. He telephones and Philippa does not tell him that Natalie is there. Natalie leaves in despair.

Philippa, fearful Alan's anger will not endure, uses a letter from Bernadine in her hands. She changes the name of a stock Bernadine wants to buy to one that is worthless. Bernadine comes to the office after the order has gone through and discovers the change that has been made in the letter. Suspicion, directed by Philippa, points to Natalie. Alan believes her guilty.

Natalie is stricken to utter hopelessness by his accusation. Alan leaves her and goes to Bernadine to offer to repay her losses. He tells her he is through with Natalie for all time. Bernadine is worried over her little boy, Bobby's, future.

Not long afterward Alan is hurriedly called to her home. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XLII.

Alan did not want to think of Natalie, as he rushed up to Bernadine in response to the urgent summons from Dr. Wagnall, but he could not put her out of his mind. She was always present in his thoughts whenever he went to Bernadine's. "It's because we used to live in Westchester," he told himself, half angrily, half eagerly. He did not want to believe Natalie now held even the tiniest place in his heart.

He had not forgiven her for her last letter—she wrote it in anger—though he kept it where he could read it often. "Just to remind myself what an utterly callous creature she is," he would say to himself. "Giving me my freedom! What a gesture! As though she had not ended everything through what she did to Bernadine!"

Bernadine's gradual, but steady sinking, turned his heart to stone against Natalie. Whenever he looked at the sick woman's sunken cheeks and deeply recessed eyes, he felt a new wave of anger come over him.

For Bernadine had never left her bed after Dr. Wagnall had said she must stay there until he gave her permission to get up. To the medical man, the bed was coming about as he expected, but Alan could not escape the belief Bernadine had suffered a shock through Natalie's act from which she could not recover.

Had Dr. Wagnall, or Bernadine either, guessed what was on his mind, they could have told him he was wrong—that what was happening had been inevitable for a long time.

But Alan kept his bitterness to himself, and strove to be cheerful within in Bernadine's company. He thought he was making her believe he was happy, but when she closed her eyes, to rest, as he imagined, it was because she could not bear to see the hidden pain that lay in his.

Her heart ached for him because he had lost the woman she was certain he loved, but she did not guess he was constantly burning his memories of Natalie on a pyre of hatred.

He never talked to her of Natalie, or of Philippa either. Only Bernadine's almost supernatural perception enabled her to see that he was suffering. Once he had come close to telling her about Philippa—with a vague idea that they ought to meet and discuss Bobby's future welfare together.

He decided it would be best not to speak of Philippa. Perhaps it would worry Bernadine to know that there was already a girl chosen to be Bobby's foster-mother. For Alan had come to accept Philippa as a fixture in his life with equanimity.

boy would mean that she would lose the child entirely if he were taken into Alan's home. She knew her shortcomings, Nellie did, and she had a very earnest conviction she would not be engaged to look after Bobby when a sterner mistress than Bernadine was doing the engaging. She had in mind a professional housekeeper, and they were "worse than the wives," to Nellie.

She could at least, she figured, visit Bobby once in a while if he were in a school. Alan had not seriously considered the plan, but without giving his opinion on the subject, and she had fed herself with the hope that it might be carried out. To have a kid like Bobby around the house would drive her wild, she declared—in secret.

Alan, on his way now to Bernadine, despairing of seeing her alive, felt infinitely grateful for Philippa. She would help him; she would be a real mother to Bobby.

He always thought something pleasant about Philippa when Natalie threatened to obsess his mind. It helped him to forget her. But Philippa was not unfaithfully effective. Even to the door of Bernadine's house Alan thought of Natalie.

Oh, why, why, why couldn't she have been as good as she looked? When this was over, and Bernadine was "out there," Natalie, in their house a few streets away could have made everything so different—so bearable.

He rang the doorbell, with a feeling of helplessness. Why was it, he wondered, that people always expected a man to meet these crises with undaunted courage? He would have given anything at that moment to have Natalie at his side.

Always going back to Natalie! He recognized the unformed wish in his mind as an outcropping of what he called his damnable weakness. The weakness of which he was ashamed. Why couldn't he sustain his disgust and contempt for her? Why were his heart and his mind always engaged in warfare over her? Well, no matter. His heart had won once—now it was time for his head to take control of his destiny.

His anxiety over Bernadine deepened the moment the door was opened for him. It was not Nellie's tear-stained face that he saw. A strange maid told him, in a frightened tone, that he was to go up immediately.

Halfway up the stairs he heard Nellie speaking to Bobby, evidently trying to restrain the boy from going to his mother's room. Her voice wrung Alan's heart.

"Hush, hush, hush. Mother can't see you now. Be a good boy, Bobby, please."

Bobby's childish treble, raised in protest against this interference, caused Alan to reach hastily for his handkerchief.

"But I want to tell Mummy I've builded a bridge," Bobby cried. "She wanted me to build her a bridge, and I've builded it."

"She'll know, darlin'. She'll know everything you do; when you're a good boy and when you're not."

Alan went on, but an icy child had gripped him. He was, then, too late. The maid's nod when he had whispered in the hall: "How is she?" had meant that Bernadine was gone.

One of the nurses who had been in constant attendance upon Bernadine of late, opened the door and said in a professionally subdued voice: "Come in."

Alan looked hastily toward the bed. Dr. Wagnall was bent over his patient. Alan stepped to his side.

"She will not know you," the physician said, straightening up. "She's in a coma."

It seemed to Alan that he stood there in a state of soul-trying inactivity for time unending. The helplessness of man when he would hold a soul from departing mortal clay appalled him. Beads of moisture dotted his brow, but his lips were dry as sun-baked sand.

In reality it was less than half an hour before the doctor looked at him, and said gravely: "She's dead."

Alan stood a moment longer, silently wishing God-speed to the voyager on her long journey. Then he turned with the steps of an old man and went out.

Life seemed heavy, crushing, a burden. Had there ever been any joy in it? Would Bobby smile again when his childish mind grasped the sorrowful fact that his "Mummy" was not there any more?

Nellie was at the door of the nursery. Bobby had tired himself into his afternoon nap, long delayed, and freed her to go to her beloved mistress.

She saw Alan walking wearily down the hall and one glance at his pallid face told her it was over. With a muffled cry she stepped out into the hall and closed the door of the nursery behind her, instinctively thinking of Bobby.

She ran to Bernadine's door just as Dr. Wagnall was coming out. He told the nurse in charge to let her in.

Alan looked at her as she flew to the bed. "I'll wait," he said to Dr. Wagnall, "to help her with Bobby."

"In the meantime," Dr. Wagnall replied, "will you come downstairs, Mr. Converse? It's imperative that we discuss certain matters at once."

Alan knew what it was he wanted to talk about. "I'll take charge of everything, doctor," he said when they reached the lower hall. "Mrs. Lamont arranged it legally, I believe."

The doctor looked at him keenly. "I'm glad to know the boy is going to be well looked after," he said, extending his hand. "I'm sorry I've so little time—I'd like to stay and go into some of these matters with you, but I've neglected my patients too long as it is. Fortunately none of them were in danger."

"I feel I might thank you, doctor, for devoting so much time to . . . Alan's voice broke over Bernadine's name; he could not utter it.

Alan watched him go with regret. Now he was alone, with grief-stricken servants and a motherless boy.

The sound of Nellie's sobbing, now beyond her control, came down to him. Slowly he mounted the stairs. Surely she would wake Bobby, and he would have to tell him . . . what should he tell him? What should he do with him? He could think of but one person to help him, Philippa!

About New York

By RICHARD MASSOCK

New York—Vagrant notes: The bread is winding around the block behind the Little Church Around the Corner, where tickets are issued for breakfast at a restaurant nearby.

It is probably the first time there has been such a line so far uptown since James B. Reagan issued meals to the unemployed at his old Knickerbocker hotel, before the war.

The present queue of patient men that forms at 8:30 every morning is an incongruous sight on sedate and wealthy Murray Hill.

Arturo Toscanini awarding medals to prize winners in the Philharmonic-Symphony orchestra's children's concert and reading a speech in English which he composed 10 minutes before hand.

The Italian conductor will head the orchestra when it sails for a European tour, April 23. The tour will cost about $250,000 and the sponsors except a deficit of $200,000, a large share of which will be borne by Clarence H. Mackay, who conceived the idea.

For himself, Mackay has reserved seats at London, Rome and Paris. Thirty-eight wives, nine children and two dogs will accompany the 114 musicians. One of the dogs is Toscanini's Belgian Griffon, "Picnic." The other belongs to Guidi the concert master. A travel agency estimated that the baggage will weigh ten tons, including $150,000 worth of instruments and the tour will cover 10,140 miles. Then the statistician's pencil broke and he gave up figuring.

LOOKOUT TRADE: People whose business is to meet incoming boats want to save as much time as possible. They arrange with a telegraph company, therefore, to notify them of the hour the boat will tie up to its pier.

HOW TO SHOP

Shower curtains come in colors in the more desirable fabrics, such as silk, cretonne, satin and moire; in flowered, striped or solid hues with great diversity of designs and patterns.

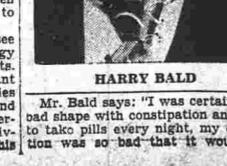

They may be broadly divided by the waterproofing into the rubberized and oiled silk curtains, the latter being on the average about twice as expensive as the former. In buying the rubberized article, the shopper is advised to demand a year's guarantee of serviceable wear.

Whatever the type of shower curtain selected, make sure that it is an honest cut, the standard being 70 x 70 inches.

CATHOLIC BATHING RULES. Rome, June 6.—(AP.)—The Catholic Society, Azione Cattolica, has issued a list of rules for the guidance of young men and women regarding bathing and bathing costumes.

The regulations state that women's bathing costumes should not be cut like men's, that the costumes for both sexes should cover the person, that women's and men's dressing cabins should be separated, that there should be no dancing in bathing suits.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

DISTRUST ANY PASTE OR INJECTION METHOD OF "CURING" CANCER

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

In the Annals of Internal Medicine, Dr. Alfred Scott Warthin of the University of Michigan has recently made available an editorial surveying the history of cancer cures during the last 40 years.

Year after year new methods are described, are tried, and fail. Many of these methods are based on a scientific study of the cause of cancer; others are purely experimental. Many of them are old wives' cures and the treatments of herb doctors. A few are cancer pastes which burn away the tissue.

Finally, there are weird mechanical and electrical conceptions which seem to come only from a disordered imagination.

Not an Infectious Disease
Dr. Warthin is convinced that the evidence that cancer might be infectious is absolutely nil so far as concerns its scientific merit, and he is supported in this view by the majority of cancer investigators. Indeed, he says that there exists absolutely no proof that infection plays any specific exciting cause in the production of cancer, and that all cancer cures based on such assumption of the cause can be dismissed at once as outside the realms of possibility.

Caustic applications directly to the effected part and the use of an arsenic paste produce agony from the ulceration or sloughing of tissues, and not infrequently make the growth more rapid rather than hinder it. The majority of all quack, Indian and herb cures for cancer are of this variety.

The cancer quacks in the middle west, and there are several of them, depend on application of pastes of this nature. Such methods are dangerous in efficiency with clean removal of the cancer by the knife. A study of the history of cancer untreated reveals the fact that the older portions tend to pass away and that anything at all injected into a cancer will produce such changes. It has long been known that the injection of protein substances into the body or that the injection of extracts of various tissues at a distance from the cancer will also produce changes of this character.

Time and again investigators have been misled by these changes into believing that they had discovered a method of merit. Of this character was the lead treatment of cancer and of this character also, according to Warthin, is the recently exploited Coffey-Humber method.

Cancer is not simply a local disease and the majority of investigators are convinced that it is a condition affecting the human body as a whole. There is something in the nature of the tissue of the individual that makes him likely to have cancer. The general constitution determines whether or not he will have cancer, and the condition of the organ affected makes it likely that the cancer will appear in a certain place.

Heredity Is Involved
The work of Maud Slye indicates that the susceptibility is inherited and that the inheritance may manifest itself in different forms in different families. Moreover, the tendency may vary in its strength, so that some individual in the family may have the disease and others do not.

It is likely that an extremely scientific race would attempt to breed cancer out of the race. It is unlikely that the present race of human beings will make any such attempt because today breeding of human beings is uncontrolled by any scientific factors from the point of view of health.

Marjorie: Yes, I've noticed that. But her age is beginning to tell on her.—Answers.

YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

The children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor has just issued a statement on the child for labor question. It begins, "Why do children leave school to go to work prematurely?"

Several reasons are set forth as outstanding factors in the determination of children to stop their school courses as soon as they reach the age limit set by the compulsory education laws. Some leave even before that, taking advantage of the loophole provided by the clause that permits a child of fourteen or fifteen to go to work if he attends "continuation" school—classes held at special hours, or a short part of each day. The age limit varies in different states. In some states children who have completed the sixth grade may take out employment certificates.

Quoting directly from the bulletin, here are some of the interesting statements about the school situation relative to the child who wants to leave and go to work.

"Recent investigations tend to regard 'family necessity' as of less importance than other motives which leave school because of restlessness, impatience with discipline, and personal and family ignorance of the value of continued school training, an important cause of dissatisfaction with school is found in the fact that, despite improvements in recent years, many school systems do not yet provide training adapted to the needs of an industrial society.

"Although much need exists for investigation in regard to the effect of employment on the child's health, evidence as to the effect of working life on young adolescents on the whole indicates that it is unfavorable. Because of the thoughtlessness natural to their years and ignorance of the results of carelessness in operating machinery, children are more prone to accidents than adult workers, and thousands of industrial accidents to young workers are reported annually, many resulting in permanent loss, or loss of use, of a member, in serious and permanent disfigurement, or in death. In a study of industrial accidents to working minors in Wisconsin, Massachusetts, and New Jersey, the Children's Bureau found that in each state a larger percentage of the accidents to children 16 and 17 years of age was due to power-working machinery than in Wisconsin, Massachusetts, and New Jersey, the Children's Bureau found that in each state a larger percentage of the accidents to children 14 and 15, who are more adequately protected by the law, or to working minors of 13 or over, who have more mature judgement and better powers of muscular co-ordination, in spite of the fact that a great proportion of minors 18 and over are employed in the more dangerous occupations.

"While adequate child-labor and school-attendance laws adequately

(Neuralgia)

Question:—Mrs. A. C. E. asks: "What are the causes and what is the cure of a sort of neuralgia in the head? Can same affect the eyes?"

Answer: Neuralgia may be caused from a general systemic toxemia or from local infections of the sinuses or antrums. In some cases the pain comes from congestion in the back of the neck which influences the nerve going to the head, the eyes ache because of neuralgia, and the vision is somewhat affected.

(Dizziness)

Question:—D. S. A. asks: "Is being more or less dizzy all the time a symptom of acidity? Do oranges and lemons counteract an acid condition of the system, or do they only increase it?"

Answer: Acidity could cause dizziness, but I would advise you to have a thorough examination to be sure. Oranges and lemons counteract an acid condition.

(Arthritis)

Question:—Mrs. M. K. asks: "What is arthritis and what causes same? About seven months ago I met with an accident. X-ray pictures taken two weeks after showed arthritis. Could the arthritis have been in my bones before the accident and I suffer no pain? How long does it take for arthritis to develop? Injury was in lower back and spinal column, and arthritis is located in near joint. Pains are mostly in back."

Answer:—Arthritis is a form of rheumatism of the joint. It often starts with an injury when the system has rheumatic toxins. It is a chronic disorder and you should use a diet similar to that outlined in my article on rheumatism. You should be careful not to exercise or strain the affected joint until the inflammation has subsided. Use hot applications for relief.

NEW CARDINALS

Vatican City, June 6.—(AP.)—Osservatore Romano today published the names of five prelates who will be raised to the cardinalate at the forthcoming consistory, June 30, three of them for the Curia and two outside the Curia.

One Latin-American will be appointed to a cardinalate outside of the Curia. He is Monsignor Sebastiano Leme Dansilveira Cintra, coadjutor of Rio Janeiro.

The cardinals of the Curia will be Monsignor Marchetti Selvabiani, secretary of the Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith, Monsignor Giulio Serafini, secretary of the Congregation of the Council, and Monsignor Raffaelloncaro Rossi, assessor of the Consistorial Congregation.

The fifth is Bishop Achilles Liénart, bishop of Lille, France.

IDENTIFIES JEWELS

New York, June 6.—(AP.)—Thirty-five pieces of jewelry, found yesterday in the safe deposit box of Max Nadel, were identified today by Harry Reger of Alden Park Manor, Pa., Philadelphia suburb, as articles stolen from his home last Tuesday morning.

The valuables, worth about $7,000, included gold watch and cigarette boxes and similar articles, mostly marked with Reger's name or initials.

Nadel, listed by police as a pickpocket was the seventh person arrested within a fortnight in a roundup here of stolen jewelry and their possessors. He said he was a purchaser of second hand jewelry.

WORLD BANK MEETING

Paris, June 6.—(AP.)—The bankers committee of the Bank for International Settlements, among whom is Leon Frazer of the United States, has decided to call a plenary session of the directors on June 10.

This is interpreted that all countries concerned in the issue of the first slice of the Young plan loan of $300,000,000 have agreed in principle. The date of issue probably will be June 16.

COLUMBIA

Word has been received by friends in town of the death of Easton, Pa., last Saturday of Thomas Sprague McGlaughlin, a former resident of Columbia. Mr. McGlaughlin was born in Providence, R. I., 78 years ago, and lived there as a young man. He lived in Columbia for 8 years in the Pine St. section. He had been in poor health for several years, but had been growing worse since March. He leaves a widow and one daughter, Mrs. Royal Pierce of Easton, at whose home he died. The funeral and interment was in Easton on Tuesday. Mrs. McGlaughlin is a sister of the late Samuel Brainin, who lived in Columbia for so many years.

Mrs. George Kay of Hartford was at her cottage at the lake Tuesday. Many of the lake cottages were opened for over Decoration Day and the week-end and some of them are remaining for the summer. The cottage of the late Dr. Outerson of Hartford is open for the season.

The following pupils of the Central School had perfect attendance for the month of May—Carol Lyman, Sylvia Price, Irene Seigel, Mary Szegda, Sophie Szegda, David Hunt, Westcott Rice, Jack Seigel, Joe Szegda, and Jasper Woodward.

Mrs. Anna Dart of Providence, R. I., came to Columbia Wednesday to spend the summer at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Holmes.

Mrs. Mary Hutchins spent the day Wednesday in Berlin at the home of her sister Mrs. Daisy Gwathlin.

Mrs. Mary Lyman Smith has been spending several days in New Britain, at the home of her sister, Mrs. Conrad Venberg.

The subject of Lecturer's Hour at Columbia Grange Wednesday evening was "Flower night." A roll call was responded to by each member telling something about their flower gardens. Mrs. Mary Hutchins read a paper on "State Park" and Mrs. Rice a paper on Luther Burbank. Music was in charge of Mrs. Florence Badge. After discussion it was voted to hold a picnic sometime during the summer, the master to appoint a committee to take charge of arrangements. This committee will be announced later.

FORD CHARGES PADDING

Dearborn, Mich., June 6.—(AP.)—The Ford Motor Company, which pays 70 per cent of the taxes in the Fordson school district, today published a report of auditors employed by the company charging the district school board with "padding" its 1929-1930 budget to the extent of $200,000.

Henry Ford formerly was a member of the board, but was removed by other members about a year ago because he failed to attend sessions, sending instead a representative who acted in an "advisory" capacity but had no vote.

The Ford auditors criticized, among other things, the alleged purchase for the high school of waste baskets for $26 each, walnut coat-racks at $22, and book-cases at $158 a shelf. They also reported that the board paid for 143 loads of coal but used only 52.

DOMESTICS ORGANIZE

London, June 6.—(AP.)—First steps toward organization of domestic workers—maid servants, cooks and butlers—were taken at today's final meeting of the National conference of labor women.

ANOTHER GEM SUSPECT

New York, June 6.—(AP.)—Arrested as he stepped out of a bank where he had placed $15,000 worth of jewelry in a safety deposit vault, Max Nadel, 55 years old, was held today as the seventh suspect in a police drive on jewel thieves.

Police said the jewelry found in Nadel's safe deposit box was identified by jewelers as the loot taken in the robbery last Tuesday of the apartment of Harry Reger, of Philadelphia. Nadel said the jewelry had been turned over to him as collateral for a loan.

The suspect has a record of 20 arrests for pocket picking and thefts with eight convictions since 1906. Captain of Detectives Richard Oliver, who ten days ago led a raid on a hotel room here where four men and a woman were arrested and $300,000 worth of stolen jewelry were recovered, arrested Nadel. The five were indicted yesterday for concealing stolen property.

Has Trained Only 14 Days in Preparation for Title Fight With Sharkey But Insists He Is In Perfect Physical Condition.

By EDWARD J. NEIL

Endicott, N. Y., June 6.—(AP).—Not since the gorgeous Georges Carpentier, orchid of France, hid behind the closed doors of his training camp at Manhasset in 1921, has a man of mystery trailed such a string of doubts and surmises across the heavyweight horizon as Max Schmeling.

Next Thursday night the young Teuton is to match his youth and punching power against Jack Sharkey's skill and experience in a 15-round battle in the Yankee Stadium for the world heavyweight championship. Many capable critics believe he will win the title, although he is certain to be an underdog in the wagering. Yet no man in fight history with the possible exception of Jim Jeffries or Luis Angel Firpo ever came so far in so short a time as he himself a challenger's rating on his first display of prowess. He has fought five men in two years and has beaten only two good ones.

The air of mystery is not as deep as the secretive air of the slender Frenchman, first European to fight for the title in modern times, worked at on Long Island for his slaughter at the hands of Jack Dempsey. The mystery this time is in the young Schmeling himself. After a solid year's layoff from the ring, Max has boxed just 14 days to prepare for the Sharkey battle. He will work out three more afternoons before hanging up his training gloves until the next fight rolls around. No one knows what he weighs but the suspicion is general that he is underweight, too finely drawn. And many of the critics, too, believe he will not do much better than to lose an important match.

Yet Max himself is satisfied with the situation, confident that he is in the best physical condition of his career, certain he will win, but frank to grant the possibility that Sharkey will prove too much for him.

"I may lose, but I don't think so," he said today. "I hope Sharkey comes out fighting because then I have my best chance. But if I lose, I have no chance for another chance at the title. I have worked 14 days, yes. That is enough for me because I never get out of condition. I am young, 24. If I can't get ready for any fight in 15 days of boxing then I can't ever get ready."

Strangely enough, no one in American fight circles has any idea how well Schmeling can take a punch on the chin, or how well he can stand up under a body bombardment such as Sharkey is certain to send his way.

West Hartford beat Middletown yesterday 12 to 2 thus assuring itself of a tie for first place in the C. C. I. L. tennis race with Manchester, and of the title unless Manchester beats East Hartford here this afternoon.

Coach Tom Kelley said that in case his team won today, a play-off game with West Hartford for the title was likely. Coach Kelley believes that it is not more than fair to both schools to settle the matter one way or the other. West Hartford has beaten Middletown twice before, but then it appears that they can, then the pennant flag, not even a portion of it will belong in the Silk City.

A new sand trap is being made on the first hole of the Country Club course. It will be located on the right of the fairway, its purpose in life being, to snare poor drives that come in that direction mainly because some players are reluctant to drive straight down the fairway toward the green for fear of slicing or hooking (according to whether you are a lefty or a righty) into the wide open jaws of the spacious Globe Hollow reservoir.

Another sweepstakes tournament will be held at the Country Club tomorrow. A match between the married and single men had been planned but then it appears that too many of the single men have deserted their comrades and gone across to the other side.

The Community Club baseball team has outdressed itself with new uniforms and will meet the Wheel Club of Rockville here Sunday afternoon.

The Bon Ami tackles the Windsor Tux team here tomorrow at Elickey's Green and Sunday moves to William's for an engagement with the West Ends.

"Hobby" Hyde of Hartford, one of the leading tennis players in Hartford, the man who finally took the measure of Manchester's town champion, Ty Holland, in an exhibition match last season, was eliminated in the New England tournament yesterday by Daves Jones of New York, 6-4, 10-8.

BUSCH FINDS HIS WEAKNESS

Herr Max Schmeling

Busch Proves Fast Left Will Bother Schmeling

Further proof of the excellent showing which Manchester's Frankie Busch made when he stepped against Max Schmeling, the German contender for the world's title, the other day at Endicott, was seen from the words of Bill Cunningham and Dave Egan, two well known Boston sports writers.

Writes Mr. Cunningham: "Then came Frankie Busch, a fairly fast stepping light-heavyweight from South Manchester, Conn. He worked a round and it was the only worthwhile stanza of the entire afternoon. Busch can move around and he has a fast left hand. Busch had no trouble sticking to German in the face with it, and Schmeling seemed to have plenty of trouble keeping his physiognomy out of its path. This is worthy of note because Sharkey has a needle-like left jab which could do about anything one wanted to do."

"He didn't do much, not in the one round anyway, although two or three times he managed to weave in under it and take a couple of belts at the Busch fellow's middle. But those who go for Sharkey only worked a round, and that part of the report will have to be left incomplete pending a little more looking."

Says David H. Egan in the Boston Post: "Schmeling boxed another round with a brisk young light-heavyweight from South Manchester, Conn. one Frankie Busch, whom I seem to remember as a sparbox at one of Jack Dempsey's camps. Busch used his feet and left hand to good advantage and stood off Herr Maximilian with little or no harm. Those who go for Sharkey in a large way, pointed to the fact of Busch in popping left hands into Max's bugle with a regularity that may be described as astonishing. Those who have a hankering for the Black and hammering the other three sparring partners."

The above accounts concerned the one round which Busch was pitted against Schmeling Tuesday. Wednesday Schmeling went two more rounds with the Manchester man, announcing beforehand that he had been easy with Busch the first time but would "show him up" this time. But once again the Manchester boxer crossed the dope, proving too experienced for the German ace. Let Bill Cunningham's Boston Post dispatch tell you what happened:

Endicott, N. Y., June 4.—There was nothing hot in this encounter today but the weather. Schmeling, the Schlager, didn't even look warm. But eight days away from his all important fight with Jack Sharkey, he boxed several rounds with this assortment of comic cartoons they have been masquerading up here as sparring partners, but there was none of the fire and fury of yesterday, little of the speed and but a veritable dot of the class.

At least four of the seven rounds—two each with Lou Barba and Frankie Busch—the German titular hope did barely better than even. Although he managed to bloody the schnozzle of each of these gentlemen, he never did get in a good solid smack. They seemed to have him fanning at butterflies by merely stepping around and away, and although neither of them has what might be called a real first-rate left hand, they clocked his ribs and his chin with their port paws repeatedly and had his head bobbing sharply at times.

He managed to chew his other two antagonists up pretty thoroughly. They were Jack Shaw, the New Jersey ex-soldier and Signor Umberto Torriani, the large Italian gorgonzola. Neither of these gents could lick an old apple woman, given free swings for a handicap. They have lefts that look like hanging banana stalks and rights that positively crack on their hinges. They move about as gracefully as giraffes on a greased floor. They are cold, dead targets ambling around on flat tires and unable to strike even an attitude.

Each Partner Stays Distance. And yet each of them stayed the distance today, and the Signor stayed despite Schmeling's quite obvious efforts to knock him cold. The German made a smear of both their features. As a matter of fact, it begins to appear that one of the prerequisites of a job as sparring partner up here is a bugle that will start leading from nothing more vicious than a dirty look. But Schmeling started to blast and batter at the huge Italian for the benefit of the 1,000 or so spectators. The Signor took it all with patient resignation, until Schmeling caught him a hard right smash on the chin, then his dander came up and to the intense delight of the throng, he began to fight back to the best of his ability.

This wasn't much, but it gave Schmeling full excuse to cut loose. He did or tried to, and began swinging viciously. But the Signor not only remained vertical, he slammed back two or three times and it was noticeable that his jabs and round-housers, clumsy as they were, caught Schmeling at points where sharper blows driven by a more accomplished antagonist would have done him the slightest particle of good.

Schmeling hammers and harasses a big, slow moving bokun, but he's not so good against a man who can step. Barba and Busch escaped largely unscathed today, merely because they kept moving around. Busch in particular, who has a rather nice boxing style, was forced to take only one real clip in two solid rounds, and that for all the fact that Schmeling told reporters last night that he intended to open up against Busch today, after discovering that Busch used to work with Jack Dempsey. Schmeling said he "went easy" with him yesterday because he thought he was a novice. Sharkey can move faster than either Shaw or Busch, and if Maxie can't nail them solidly, where'll he be against a bigger, smarter, faster fellow, who has a left that darts like an adder's tongue and is in its right nice boxing style, was forced to take only one real clip in two solid rounds, and that for all the fact that Schmeling told reporters last night that he intended to open up against Busch today, after discovering that Busch used to work with Jack Dempsey. HIGHWAY SAFETY TALKS ON RADIO

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Tells of New Means of Appealing to Autoists.

A plan to use the radio in a direct appeal to the public for co-operation in efforts to promote highway safety was announced last night by Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoekel, from WTIC, the Travelers Station, at Hartford. A series of talks will be given in coming weeks, he said, dealing with particular problems which arise from the present complex traffic conditions and various ways open to everyone to help solve these problems.

These discussions will be prepared by the motor vehicle department and presented every Thursday evening by the motor vehicle department and presented every Thursday from WTIC usually at 1 p. m. and 6:15 p. m. On the same day, articles covering the subject matter of the talks will be released to the newspapers. By this double method of presentation it is expected that nearly all traffic participants will be reached.

The purpose behind the new effort, Commissioner Stoekel said, is to bring to the realization of every driver and pedestrian that each has a definite part in traffic today and that there are things each can do so as to be of assistance to those who are trying to save lives and eliminate dangers.

"Eighty per cent. of all motor vehicle accidents and mishaps occur because there is some little personal kink in conduct caused by a lapse in attentiveness to the job of driving," said Commissioner Stoekel. "This lapse is most often inadvertent. We might call it carelessness. But carelessness may result from many other causes. It may come from forgetfulness, or distraction, or from any other little trait of mind which even momentarily takes from the directing mind its fixity of purpose on the driving. Immediate consequences are, of course, always expected to be suffered by the sinner himself. In motor driving this is often not the case, but like the innocent bystander who gets by mistake, the consequences often fall upon others. So it is necessary to remember that motor driving affects everyone. If wrong, it is a danger to everyone so everyone ought to be interested in it to the extent of self-care at least, while actual operators must in addition, because they have assumed the burden of responsibility by becoming operators, look out for others as well. So this comes back to the original proposition that defects in personal driving conduct make 4-5 of all the trouble. That means 4-5 of the deaths, crippling, incapacities, hurts and finally money losses. Recognizing this, we plan to set before you various short discussions of the more common types of personal defects which appear.

"It is somewhat daring, perhaps, to discuss personal conduct in this new field. Very probably none of us knows very much about it now. But we must do something about it. Do you know when it is safe to go fast? Do you know that you can create danger sometimes by driving too slowly? Are you sure you know what to do after you have had an accident? Do you know the part you should play when some one else has an accident? Do you know what traffic plans are being made in Connecticut today to relieve conditions? Do you know the ways in which the motor vehicle department is prepared to assist you, aside from issuing a license or registration? Do you know how to get a registration with the least possible inconvenience? Do you know that the state is preparing an assurance that everyone who goes on the highway as an operator will have knowledge of what is ahead of him and ability to meet conditions and circumstances? These are some of the things to be discussed.

"What the State of Connecticut wants of the listener, both now and in the future, is self-analysis in the light of what he hears. If he is told in a broadcast about how such a personal characteristic as 'curiosity' makes accident, let him ask himself 'Does that fit me?' It is a fact that the most lovable, most honorable and most distinguished person is just as apt to commit the kind of personal error to which this idea is directed as that it be the act of a criminal or reckless person. But it makes very little difference to the victim who is hit by a car whether its operator is a gentleman or a ruffian. The effect is the same. Self-analysis and correction are in order. In fact they constitute the sole hope for an immediate betterment."

SEASON AT GLOBE OPENS TOMORROW

Hot Weather Brings Welcome News to Hundreds of Manchester People.

Today brings welcome news to hundreds of Manchester people, men, women and children. The town's only protected public bathing resort, will open for the summer season tomorrow. The announcement was made this morning by Director Lewis Lloyd of the Recreation Centers under whose auspices the pond and its facilities are controlled.

The present heat wave which is already several days old with no immediate signs of relief in the offing, has served to attract scores of people to Globe already even though the pond is not yet officially open, meeting that lifeguards are not able to do the work from the main Globe Hollow reservoir several weeks ago, and many have taken advantage of the opportunity for a cooling.

Globe Hollow was usually not opened until school closes, but the present warm spell had brought about at least a temporary preliminary opening. Director Lloyd made the reservation that in case the weather should turn cold suddenly tonight or later before June 20, the pond will not be officially open and those who bathe there will do so at their own risk without protection from lifeguards.

The pond will again be in charge of Lifeguard Frank C. Busch with August Milder as assistant lifeguard. Milder will be on duty at the expected opening tomorrow in the absence of Busch, boxing and swimming instructor at the Rec. Busch is down in Endicott, N. Y., working as a sparring partner with Max Schmeling. He is expected back immediately after the Sharkey-Schmeling fight next Thursday.

ELEPHANTS RULED BY DAINTY WOMEN

Three Herds With Sparks Circus Obey Every Command of Pretty Girl Trainers.

Dainty women handle the three elephant herds carried by Sparks Circus, working the huge beasts in their routine with all the precision exacted by male trainers.

The Sparks' Elephants have the reputation in the show world of being the most highly trained of any now on tour with a tended organization. Walter McLain for years has had charge of these "bulls" as all elephants, male or female, are called in the vernacular of the white tops. As a matter of fact, most of the elephants with Sparks' Circus are females, their leader being "Old Mary." Elephants in their native state have their herd leaders, and this characteristic remains in the pachyderm of the circus.

Sparks Circus exhibits in South Manchester next Wednesday afternoon and night.

LOS ANGELES 5TH CITY IN COUNTRY

Los Angeles, June 6.—(AP)—The city of Los Angeles, with an official population of 1,231,730 today was credited by the Federal census with an increase of 655,057 or 113.53 per cent since 1920.

While metropolitan Los Angeles showed growth during the ten year period since the 1920 census, greater still was the increase of 1,263,102, or 134.88 per cent, which brought the 1930 population of Los Angeles county to 2,199,537.

Although official figures have not been announced for several major cities, Los Angeles is expected to rank fifth among American cities. The ten largest cities in the United States a decade ago, in the order of their population totals, were New York, Chicago, Philadelphia, Detroit, Cleveland, St. Louis, Boston, Baltimore, Pittsburgh and Los Angeles.

By moving to fifth place this year, the Pacific coast metropolis will pass Pittsburgh, Baltimore, Boston, St. Louis and Cleveland. Figures for Detroit have not been announced, but that city is expected to hold to fourth position.

Established under a Spanish land grant in 1850 Los Angeles entered the race for population leadership with 1,150 inhabitants. The city began taking on a metropolitan air in 1890 with 50,395 inhabitants. And in 1900 passed the 100,000 mark with a total population of 102,479. In 1910 the census showed 319,198 and in 1920, the figures increased to 576,683.

LET A SALT BATH LIMBER YOU UP!

After a glorious afternoon on the golf course or your daily activities about the house you will find a salt bath joyously refreshing. It relieves and relaxes tired nerves and muscles.

A salt bath is nature's best anti-septic and tonic. It cleanses the skin of all impurities—limbers up the muscles, and gives vigor.

Just pour into your regular bath a carton of Ivory Salt, (the very same salt you use for table and cooking) reserving a few handfuls for massaging the muscles and feet. If you prefer a shower, wet the skin and rub Ivory Salt all over the body. In either case rinse the salt away with clean water before stepping from the tub.

Take a salt bath every day—you will be surprised how much better you will look and feel in a short time.

There is no Substitute for Salt
 Salt is as essential to digestion as it is necessary to bring out the best flavor in foods.
 You know "It takes the best to make the best," so insist upon Ivory Salt. Your grocer has it in the convenient orange carton with the easy pouring spout.

MANCHESTER CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

READY TO TRANSFER

DRY LAW AUTHORITY

Washington, June 6.—(AP)—Preparing to turn the Prohibition Bureau over to the Department of Justice, the Treasury today ordered the Customs service in the Detroit area and on the Pacific coast to resume its individual efforts against liquor smuggling on July 1.

Activities of rum-runners around Detroit became so intense a year ago that the government mobilized large forces of Customs, Prohibition and Coast Guard agents for a co-ordinated fight there. Liquor States through that area was reduced more than fifty per cent they reported.

Along the Pacific coast, about the same time, the Customs and Prohibition forces were co-ordinated and as in the Detroit area, have since operated under the Prohibition Bureau.

Orders Cancelled.

The orders just issued cancel this and permit re-arrangement of the dry forces by the Department of Justice, but again place entirely upon the customs forces and Coast Guard in those sections the responsibility of preventing smuggling of liquor.

Final conferences at which plans for turning the Prohibition Bureau over to Department of Justice now are being held between Prohibition Commissioner Doran and Assistant Attorney General Youngquist, who will be the administrative officer in charge of the dry forces after July 1.

Leary, city solicitor, who will bring the greetings of Springfield, "The mother city" and Rev. W. A. Downey of St. Thomas Seminary, Hartford, who will give the anniversary address.

The three days' observance will include a parade and commemorative exercises on the 27th, a pageant on the next day and old-time service in churches on the third day which is Sunday.

QUOTATIONS

—Dr. H. A. B. Dunning.

—Rev. Dr. Howard E. Hand.

THAT'S SCRAMBLED

UUBBSR
Always out of the city

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it.

CORRECTIONS.

(1) The dive is a somersault, not a "jackknife." (2) "Jackknife" is spelled incorrectly. (3) The springboard supports are reversed—the forward one should be below the board and the rear one above it. (4) There is no ladder leading up to the springboard stand. (5) The scrambled word is Suburb.

The organization of a Boy Scout troop in the community will be decided upon.

Daughters of Liberty, L. O. L., No. 125, will meet at Orange hall Monday evening.

"Where Art Thou?" was the text upon which Commandant Hewitt, the special revivalist at the Salvation Army spoke last night, and he surely lived up to his former reputation of preaching the gospel in a clear, forceful manner. He will be with the local corps just three more days, when he will leave for Ogdensburg, N. Y. The people of the community are heartily invited to take advantage of this opportunity to hear a great gospel preacher.

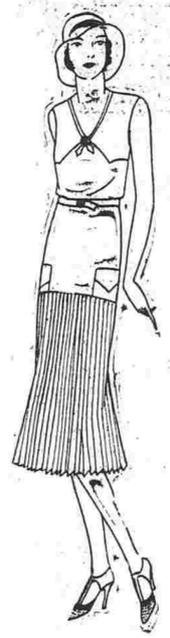

Frank V. Williams of Tolland Turnpike who had the index finger of his left hand amputated on Wednesday at the Memorial hospital, is getting along nicely. Mr. Williams caught his finger in a corn sheller last week and although the surgeon did his utmost to save it, the injury was so severe this was found impossible.

The American Legion auxiliary will meet Monday evening at 8 o'clock at the State Armory. As this is the last meeting before the summer recess, it is hoped as many members as possible will attend.
