REPEAL DRY LAW; CAMPBELL DEMAND

New York's Prohibition Director Quits Post—Says Law Cannot Be Enforced Because of Politics.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Major Maurice Campbell, until today prohibition administrator for New York, advocates repeal of the 18th Amendment.

His declaration for repeal of the 18th Amendment was part of a statement in which he charged that his transfer to Boston resulted from refusal to grant or restore brewery, whiskey and alcohol permits which "local politicians and certain administration officials in Washington feel must be restored to secure necessary support for the Republican ticket in New York this fall."

Referring to William B. Moss who has been transferred from the post of prohibition administrator at Albany, N. Y., to take charge of alcohol permits in New York, Campbell said:

"Possibly officials in Washington think he can be more easily swayed than myself. I do not know. But I now publicly admonish him to gather together all his strength to withstand the onslaught for I am sure he will have need for all the ability and courage he can command."

"And now after four years as one of the highest field officials in prohibition enforcement, with three years of that time as administrator in New York, I publicly declare that certain Treasury officials who have been charged with enforcement of the National Prohibition Act and who are still to remain in charge of activities, have not been sincere in their efforts to enforce this law."

"Further, in New York and other areas in which the sentiment of the people is predominantly wet, this transfer of enforcement activities to the Department of Justice is left to U. S. attorneys who possess political ambitions."

CITIZENSHIP FIGHT WON BY PROFESSOR

U. S. Court of Appeals Reverses Decision of Connecticut Court.

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Declaring that an applicant for citizenship has the right to follow his conscience and religious scruples regarding the bearing of arms, the U. S. Court of Appeals has ordered that Rev. Dr. Douglas Clyde McIntosh, professor of theology at Yale Divinity School and Miss Marie Averil Bland, be admitted to citizenship.

In its opinion the court reversed the decision of Federal District Courts in New York and Connecticut.

Both Dr. McIntosh and Miss Bland are of Canadian birth. Dr. McIntosh was a war chaplain with the Canadian Army and later served with the Y. M. C. A. with American troops in France. In this application for citizenship he declared he could not swear to bear arms in what he might consider an unjust cause.

Miss Bland, a war nurse, was denied citizenship in New York because she said that while she was willing to go to the front to nurse wounded, her conscience as a Christian would not permit her to bear arms.

STEAL BRIDEGROOM'S LEG; HONEYMOON IS DELAYED.

Seattle, July 1.—(AP)—The honeymoon trip of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Burns was being delayed while police hunted for the thief who stole the bridegroom's wooden leg.

REDS DEFEAT OPPONENTS IN SOVIET UNION

Regular Forces Crush Out Last Vestige of Right Wing Authority; Are Well Organized Now.

Moscow, July 1.—(AP)—All regular forces within the Communist Party today were active in crushing out the last vestige of Right Wing opposition.

Joseph Stalin and his central committee again have emerged triumphant and with enormously enhanced political prestige. The fate of Stalin's political foes today amounted to political annihilation.

Rykov, identified with Communism for decades and the holder of many offices, Tomski, executive council member and agitator extraordinary; Uglanov, commissar of labor and a strong man by his own right; even Bucharin, one-time editor of Pravda and Left Wing central committee member, all these have gone down in the dust at Stalin's feet. This quartet, who next to Leon Trotsky fought most vigorously against the central committee's policies and Stalin's leadership have surrendered completely to majority rule within the party.

William S. Wilson of the Brockton police who lives in the vicinity gave chase and caught the boys. The pair said they were Allen Ellis and Harold Seavy, both of this city. They were held on charges of larceny of an automobile and operating without a license. An additional charge of evading responsibility will be placed against them.

TILSON ASSISTING GERMAN WAR BRIDE

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—If a bill passed by Congress is approved by President Hoover, John Munill Ulrich, a former American soldier who married a German girl convicted of charges involving moral turpitude under the immigration laws will bring her to his home in New Haven, Conn.

The measure sponsored by Rep. Tilson of Connecticut, the majority leader, was opposed by Democratic and Republican groups but was passed 257 to 45.

Food Comes First After New York-Bermuda Dash

A trans-Atlantic flyer and a trans-Atlantic plane had just achieved a new and perilous exploit of the air when this photo was taken in an airport restaurant after a non-stop, round-trip hop between New York and Bermuda. Roger Q. Williams, ocean flyer of last year, here is shown, left, with co-pilot Errol Boyd, center, and Harry Connor, navigator, after their 17-hour dash over the 1560-mile route. Their plane was the Columbia, the Bellanca craft flown to Germany by Clarence Chamberlain in 1927.

ARMORED CAR ABLAZE; GUARDS ARE TRAPPED

Driver Unlocks Compartment Just in Time; Boys In Stolen Auto Smash In to Car Overturning It.

Brockton, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—Two guards narrowly escaped death in a burning armored car today when it was struck by a stolen automobile, and overturned and burst into flames. The two men who were locked in the armored compartment with several thousand dollars were Earl Crumbling, New Bedford, and M. W. Bourne, New Bedford. They were released by John J. King, New Bedford, driver of the car as firemen were extinguishing the flames.

ENGLISH AVIATOR SET FOR BIG HOP

Has Plane Ready at Harbor Grace for Flight Across Atlantic.

St. Johns, N. F., July 1.—(AP)—Squadron Leader Wynne Eytton of the Royal Air Force reserve, was here today with a Puss Moth monoplane which he was preparing for a hop from Harbor Grace to St. John's, Newfoundland, and on to St. Louis, Mo., on the full moon of July 10 to try the first east-west crossing of the Atlantic of 1930.

Eytton arrived here last night from London with his plane. It will be assembled on Lester's Field from which Alcock and Brown, English fliers made the first successful trans-Atlantic flight in 1919. The plane holds 150 gallons of fuel, has a cruising range of 3,500 miles, a speed of 100 miles an hour and is equipped with a 120-horsepower Gypsy engine. The loaded weight of the plane will be one ton.

Tonopah, Nev., July 1.—(AP)—Insect eggs and larvae attached to the dried leaves of the preceding year's vegetation are blown away into the sand and perish by the millions, but this season, thanks to the unusual rains, the insects in the larvae and pupae stages found abundant plant life for food.

Berlin, July 1.—(AP)—Sixty million Germans continued today to express their joy at the liberation of the Rhineland.

Washington, July 1.—(AP)—Responsibility for prohibition enforcement passed today from Secretary Mellon to Attorney General Mitchell.

Whether Mr. Mitchell would take any official cognizance of that attack remained undisclosed as his staff undertook its new and complex assignment while he was still in charge of enforcement as assistant secretary of the treasury, Seymour Lowellman spoke back to Campbell. Today with the change of enforcement responsibility having taken place—his review also given the last night assertion was a disavowal of any knowledge of circumstances described by Campbell, supplemented with:

Amos W. W. Woodcock, director of prohibition at the Justice department and his assistant, Howard T. Jones, took the oath of office this morning. The oath was administered in the office of Assistant Attorney General Youngquist.

The title of James M. Doran was changed today from prohibition commissioner to supervisor of industrial alcohol permits, with his office still at the Treasury.

ATTORNEYS GUESTS OF JUDGE W. S. HYDE

First Gathering of Local Lawyers Held Last Night at Osano's.

Judge William S. Hyde entertained the attorneys of Manchester at dinner at the Osano cottage in Bolton last evening. It was the first time in the history of the town that all the active lawyers were brought together in such a party. The meal included fried chicken and several appetizing Italian dishes which Osano prepares to perfection.

—Ogden Photo
Judge W. S. Hyde

When the party was comfortably seated on the broad piazza, Mr. Hyde explained just why he had invited the attorneys to be his guests. In the first place, he said he believed that from a social point of view it would be a good thing for the men of his profession to get together in a friendly way. Lawyers too often, he said, meet in the courts fighting each other.

The primary object of the meeting was to adopt rules of procedure for the town court of Manchester, civil side. Considerable discussion ensued and a committee of three was appointed to put the rules in form and report at a meeting about the middle of July.

The proposition of a small claims court for Manchester was discussed from about every angle. It was brought out that such a court would cost the town not less than $2,000 a year to maintain. About every attorney who had dealings with a small claims court gave his experience. It was the consensus that the time for the institution of such a court had not yet arrived. The civil court takes the place largely of the small claims court. No Politics

It was remarkable that in such a gathering not one word of politics was introduced. Following the serious part of the meeting the law business of Manchester covering a period of more than 25 years was reviewed and many interesting incidents were brought out by the lawyers as they became reminiscences. Among those present were William S. Hyde, Charles R. Hathaway, Raymond A. Johnson, Frederick R. Manning, Raymond Bowers, John F. Foley, William J. Shea, Chester Mills, Alexander Arnold and Thomas Ferguson, deputy judge and clerk of the town court.

SON SENT TO JAIL; MOTHER IS BURIED

Norwalk, July 1.—(AP)—While her youngest son languished in Bridgeport county jail for the alleged theft of the automobile in which she met her death, Mrs. Lina Natale, 42, today was laid to rest in St. John's Roman Catholic cemetery. Albert, 17, the only other child, rode alone in the carriage that followed the last remains of his mother. The two boys are now orphans.

Dominick Natale, 16, was recently paroled from the School at Meriden, and is alleged to have broken into the garage of the Nash Engineering Company here and stole a high-powered car early Sunday. When he was driving his mother home from Branchville the car was involved in an accident and his mother was instantly killed. Natale was tried as an automobile thief. He was remanded to the county jail under bonds.

to 2,500 and placed on a civil service basis. To form a unity in administration, the United patrol would be placed under the assistant secretary of the treasury who handles Coast Guard affairs, and who only today was relieved of prohibition enforcement when the Justice Department took over that responsibility.

The chief executive would be authorized to designate points of entry along the Canadian and Mexican borders, and the new law would make it illegal for citizens as well as for aliens and merchandise to enter elsewhere. Under existing law, citizens can enter at any point provided they report to the nearest Customs stations if they are carrying merchandise.

12 HOUSES BURNED.
Somerville, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—Twelve houses, a sawdust company plant and part of an apartment block here in ruins today from a $100,000 fire which threatened a crowded tenement district here early last night.

ADMIRAL ATTACKS LONDON TREATIES

Beatty Tells House of Lords England Only Nation to Reduce Sea Strength.

London, July 1.—(AP)—Earl Beatty, admiral of the fleet, attacked the London naval treaties vigorously in the House of Lords today. He declared that England was the only nation under the treaty that made any disarmament or reduction of its sea strength. Admiral Beatty told the Lords that Britain was obliged to make such reduction that she was rendered impotent and incapable of maintaining control over the various parts of her far-flung empire.

"In the United States," Earl Beatty said, "the conference has had the result of increasing their armaments in cruisers by no less than 233,000 tons. Japan is increasing her cruiser tonnage by ten per cent. France is building three 10,000-ton cruisers. She is building three more and has authorized another ten. Italy has built two cruisers, is building four and has authorized one."

Continuing, Earl Beatty said that in all the calculations at the Admiralty they never had taken the United States into consideration. "Indeed, the Admiralty were ordered not to so in formulating their requirements. It was recognized that if she (the United States) wished to build up to our standard she could do so without causing us any anxiety whatever. To provide protection against naval attacks on the part of the United States was not to form a part of our scheme of defense. It was completely out of the question."

STORMS SWEEP CANADA

Ottawa, Ont., July 1.—(AP)—Two persons were killed, another died of a heart attack, and much damage was done by a wind and electrical storm which swept eastward from Ontario and Quebec last night and early today.

Arthur Morais was killed at Montreal when a high tension electrical wire was blown down on him. John Lethell, watchman of the Ontario hospital at Brockville, was killed when he attempted to pick up a fallen electric light wire. Mrs. Mary Ann Harrington, of Ottawa, frightened by a vivid flash of lightning, collapsed and died. The storm swept around Ottawa but at Montreal it blew over chimneys, flooded cellars and disrupted public utility lines.

Miss Gihlin recently finished her second year at Arnold college, New Haven, where she distinguished herself by her tennis playing. She was also champion player in women's singles in this town.

Tree wells along the sidewalk on Hollister street have been filled in by the Park Department during the past week. When the sidewalk was laid, space was left for the trees to grow and now that no need of the well exists they are being filled in as a safety measure.

The Community playgrounds at the north end of the town are now in full swing. Miss Irene Tibbets, who formerly taught school here is in charge of activities during the day, and David Hamilton, caretaker at the Community clubhouse on North Main street, takes charge in the evening, and gives special attention to the younger boys between 6 and 7 o'clock.

Carol McGuire, substitute carrier and parcel post carrier at the Manchester postoffice returned to work today. He has been incapacitated from work since he figured in an automobile accident on "Bakery hill" nearly four months ago. At that time his shoulder was broken.

Although school is over for the pupils in town and all of the teachers have left their school rooms, Superintendent A. F. Howes and his clerk are still at work. He is getting together his report for the annual town report and expects to have it ready for publication early this year.

Janitors in the Eighth School District, are at present at work at the Union school building cleaning up the basement as well as in the other rooms. The heating system that was used in this school burned soft coal and this has resulted in dust settling in closets and no books and requires considerable work to clean.

Lady Roberts Lodge, Daughters of St. George, will omit its regular meeting, which would naturally take place tomorrow evening.

Supreme Council of Labor and Defense. Throughout their speeches of retraction the three, Rykoff, Tomaki and Uglanov, who resembled humble defendants on the witness stand, frequently were interrupted with derisive and sarcastic remarks.

"Some of the speeches here," said Rykoff "seem to indicate that you mistrust us and believe we continue our struggle against the central committee secretly. Is it possible to fight secretly against a party of 2,000,000 members?"

But even this failed to gain the Soviet prime minister the favor of the huge gathering because another delegate shouted: "Do you recollect a conversation between Bucharin and Kameneff and your attempts to create an Anti-Party block?"

"I never identified myself with Bucharin's act," replied Rykoff. "Keeps Up Heckling."

"But you knew about it. It was one of your manoeuvres," persisted the heckling delegate.

Leon Kameneff was acting premier and third vice president of the party and president of the Moscow Soviet in 1924 and had been powerful since the revolution. His power had expanded as had that of Bucharin.

It remained for Comrade Kiroff, secretary of the Leningrad branch of the party, to express openly on the floor of the convention the attitude of the party as a whole on the repentance of the Right Wing leaders.

"Now that the central committee's program has been fully vindicated by events it is not difficult to admit one's mistakes. Even Lloyd George regards the five year plan as 'not only bold but wise,' and Henry Ford has issued statements to the effect that he regards the five year plan as a real fact. (The five year plan is the industrial and agricultural expansion program of the Soviet.)"

The leaders of the Right Wing, after their famous recantations, should have defended with the greatest determination the general line of the party and waged a consistent struggle against the Right Wing elements. We have not seen the least sign of such a struggle.

Bucharin is absent from the Congress. He is said to be ill but certainly he could find a way to state his views upon party affairs at the present moment. Yet he is absolutely silent, which naturally arouses our suspicion and mistrust.

Kiroff, one of Stalin's staunchest supporters, warned the Right Wing their opposition was wholly incompatible with membership in the party which henceforth would conduct even greater measures against the Right Wing.

Kiroff's warnings were reiterated in even stronger terms by today's official Pravda and Ivestia.

"It is time to finish absolutely with the Right Wing opposition," both Kremlin mouthpieces said as with one voice. They insisted that Bucharin must come out not only with a confession of guilt but with a categorical pledge to correct his former mistakes through deeds and practical work.

"We want not merely suave diplomatic speeches but honest admissions of errors, the members of the Congress demand more decisive measures and firmer decisions regarding Right Wing opposition. Not only those who propagate these opportunist declarations of opposition but those who adhere to them should be kicked out of the party."

OBITUARY

DEATHS

FRANCIS GRISWOLD, OLD RESIDENT HERE, DIES

Well Known East Center St. Resident Passes Away at 91; Suffered Shock Sunday.

Francis Griswold, aged 91, one of Manchester's oldest and best known citizens, died yesterday afternoon at his home on 117 East Center street. Death was brought on by a shock which he suffered Sunday morning.

Mr. Griswold would have been 92 years old October 26, next. He was born in Manchester on the old Griswold homestead located then on Center street and he made Manchester his home most of his life.

After receiving his elementary education in the Buncce school, he studied a year at what was then known as the Center Academy, located where the Masonic Temple now stands. Mr. Griswold first was employed in the old Buncce Paper Mill which was swept away by the floor in 1869 and went to New Jersey for a short time when the plant was transferred to that state. He was also in New York a year or two before coming to Case Brothers to work for 27 years.

Next Mr. Griswold entered the employ of Cheney Brothers as a night watchman where he worked about 32 more years until he was pensioned ten years ago at the age of 81. Since that time he has not worked but had maintained fairly good health.

Mr. Griswold contracted cataracts in both eyes about the time he was pensioned and gradually he grew blind until this became more or less complete about six years ago. Despite this handicap, Mr. Griswold maintained good health until recently. He is the last of the family, there being no direct descendants. His first wife, Mary Emaline Keeney, died nearly 50 years ago and his second wife passed away July 17, 1928. Mr. Griswold was a quiet, retired person. He was not a member of any church or fraternal organization.

The funeral will be held at Watkins Brothers, 11 Oak street, at 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon and Rev. Joseph Cooper, former pastor of the South Methodist Episcopal church, will officiate. Burial will be in the East cemetery.

today the champions might stay aloft till Monday or Tuesday. Walter Hunter said they might send for the ancient "Standard" plane down on the farm at Sparta, their first ship, as an additional exhibit for the thousands who visit the airport every day to watch the making of aviation history.

WITNESSES REFUELING

The following article was written by Ruth Baldwin Cowan, Associated Press Staff Writer, who went aloft with Walter and Albert Hunter in the plane "Big Ben" to witness the endurance record-breaking plane "City of Chicago."

Chicago, July 1.—(AP)—The elder Hunter brothers, Walter and Albert, picked up all planes a chunk of air over a grave yard as the spot for me to witness first hand a refueling of the endurance plane "City of Chicago."

These brothers have flown their plane "Big Ben" to more than 170 days level cruising. The next move when one sees the "City of Chicago" roaring along at 75 miles an hour appear suddenly close underneath to be refueled.

Food and Supplies. The food and the supplies to be dropped to the endurance plane were packed in strong canvas bags to which a rope was tied. When these were placed in the fuselage, Walter did a Houdini to the pilot's seat but Albert crouched out of the draft of the open doorway, guarding carefully the food bags and holding on to a strut.

Soaring and maneuvering the "Big Ben" and the "City of Chicago" approached one another. Gaining headway the refueling plane straightened out and held a steep level course. The next move was up to the black and orange monoplane and on that next move depended much, the trick being to come close yet not too close.

Close Together. The planes contacted at 30 feet and from the window of the "Big Ben" that didn't look like any distance at all. The wing tips, all that could be seen of the "City of Chicago" bobbed up and down below and remembering the whirling propeller, hope came that one plane wouldn't bob up while the other bobbed down.

Albert lowered the food bags, one by one and they were grabbed by John, standing up in the fuselage of his plane. Walter could not see the actual transfer. His job is to fly the Big Ben on a level course and by watching the wing tip of the "City of Chicago" to be prepared to soar quickly if the endurance plane comes too close.

Next, the nozzle of the refueling hose was dropped. When John had attached this, Albert let him have fifty gallons of gas. This completed, the "City of Chicago" piloted by Kenneth, ducked to avoid a shower of gas from the hose as Albert pulled it up.

Letter Carrier Charles Rogers is confined to his home on Wadsworth street as a result of a fall down stairs early Monday morning at his home. He struck upon his head and the fall caused bruises to his body that will confine him to bed for the next ten days, or so.

DELEGATES GATHER AT CHURCH PARLOR

Congregationalists from Over World Are Meeting in London.

Bournemouth, Eng., July 1.—(AP)—Delegates from all parts of the world where Congregational centers flourish gathered here today for the Fifth World Congregationalist Convocation, which will open tonight.

There is a strong American representation for the sessions, which will continue until July 8, the official delegation alone numbering 150 while in addition several hundred other American Congregationalists have organized a good will pilgrimage in connection with this decennial international convocation.

A party of 600 in addition to the official Congregationalist delegates sailed from New York June 14 to attend the world convocation. Church union, world peace, and prohibition are the foremost topics slated for discussion, the church union issue revolving around a proposed scheme to unite the United Church of South India, formed by Congregational, Presbyterian and Reformed converts, the Wesleyan Methodist church of South India, and the Anglican or Episcopal church of India, Burma and Ceylon.

This same question will be discussed by the Lambeth conference of Anglican bishops at London, August 5-8. The American Congregationalists will be entertained frequently by their British brethren. They will celebrate the Fourth of July with an Independence day banquet at which Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald is scheduled to speak.

DIRECTION SIGNS HERE NOW BEING PLACED

State Highway Department Co-operating With Chamber in Properly Locating Them.

Motorists passing through the center of Manchester will have little trouble in the matter of which direction to travel, in that the State Highway Department, in co-operation with the Manchester Chamber of Commerce has erected several new signs and have changed the position of others at the Center, during the past week.

Entering Manchester from the east, from Willimantic a sign in the green where the fountain is located directs motorists to Danbury, Hartford, and East Hartford and another sign points north to Springfield, Rockville, Somers, and Talcottville. This latter sign is two-sided and can be seen from both east and west. Motorists entering the town from the west can plainly see the sign on the green directing towards Providence, Willimantic, and Andover.

It is the hope of the Chamber to have a sign giving directions to Worcester erected also, as the route through Manchester and Stafford Springs is recognized as the best one to that city. The Chamber is also working to have proper markings placed at Depot Square.

MISS DICKSON WINS POPULARITY CROWN

Reserve of 24,750 Gives Hamlin Street Girl Total Of 36,628.

Miss Gladys Dickson of 98 1/2 Hamlin street today bears the title of "Manchester's Most Popular Girl."

Holding a precarious lead of but six votes as the contest for the honor became a matter of only a few hours, with closing time at 10:30 o'clock last night, Miss Dickson and her cohorts let loose a deluge of reserve votes amounting to 24,750 ballots to make her final total, 36,628.

Inez Rossi of Birch street made a great bid for the title but the tremendous reserve power of the leader was too much to overcome and Miss Rossi fell short by a total of 17,208 votes.

The frenzied voting of last night fairly swamped the office force of the State Theater and they worked continuously into the late hours of the night, sorting and counting the ballots which amounted to exactly 50,376, or almost as many votes as had been cast during the whole month of the contest.

Miss Dickson's overwhelming majority leaves little doubt as to the winner. Counting of the votes was in competent hands and the possibility of mistakes was reduced to a minimum.

Last night's voting centered about the entries occupying the first five places with a sprinkling of votes for two "extras" in "The also ran" class.

The contest attracted a list of 25 entries but from the very first it was obvious that the race was between the five who finished first as with every vote they jumped farther ahead of the others.

By virtue of her coronation as "Manchester's Most Popular Girl," Miss Dickson will receive a free vacation trip to Atlantic City, or its equivalent, from Warner Brothers through the State theater.

I have reached the following conclusion: "Prohibition is not the logical solution for temperance in our form of government and I now public advocate the repeal of the 18th Amendment before the nation is consumed in the fires of its consequences."

After issuing his statement Campbell learned that a Federal Grand Jury had handed up a presentment charging laxity in the issuance of permits in the office of the prohibition administrator and accusing him of nonfeasance.

Campbell said that the presentment had been "incited" by U. S. Attorney Charles H. Tuttle.

"Mr. Tuttle is playing politics," he said. "Above all things Mr. Tuttle desires to be the candidate for governor of this state."

Tuttle replied by denying his office had anything to do with the Grand Jury presentation and said Campbell was "mistaken" regarding his candidacy for governor.

NEW DIRECTOR New York, July 1.—(AP)—Andrew McCampbell, who has been chasing moonshiners and bootleggers from Fort Worth to Buffalo since 1907, today took on the job of drying up the biggest—and some say the wettest—city in the United States.

In a talk with reporters at prohibition headquarters today, the new administrator said he wished to emphasize two points; first, that he was a free agent and that his hands were not tied by Washington. Second, that he emphatically disagreed with his predecessor, Major Maurice Campbell, who said, in a farewell statement, that he did not believe the prohibition laws could be enforced and urged repeal of the 18th Amendment.

29 Years In Service Mr. McCampbell has been in the government service for 29 years. He first was a mail carrier in Texas, then a deputy marshal in 1907 and was transferred to the Internal Revenue Service and until 1921, to use his own words, "chased moonshiners over the south and west."

In 1923 he became an assistant prohibition administrator and two years later was made an administrator and assigned to the district including Nebraska, Iowa and South Dakota, with headquarters in Omaha. In 1926 he went to Albany, N. Y., as deputy administrator and was transferred to Buffalo. For the last year he has been stationed in Washington with the title of chief of special agents.

WAPPING The Federated Sunday school board will hold their regular monthly meeting at the church next Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting is changed from Thursday evening to Wednesday evening. It is expected at this meeting plans will be made for the annual Sunday school picnic.

The Young People's society has given up prayer meetings until September. There was a church service last Sunday evening, but this will be the last one. Through July and August there will be no evening services at all.

PHONE CALL DIDN'T ORIGINATE LOCALLY

Looks as Though Torrington Was Spoofing About Cancelling Ball Game.

The phony phone call alleged to have gone out from Manchester to Torrington Saturday night by some person without authority cancelling the Torrington-Manchester Green game remains a mystery today. Torrington's excuse for failing to appear here Sunday afternoon was that the manager of the Green team had called him by telephone Saturday night and cancelled the game. Manager Samuel J. Prentice of Manchester Green didn't put in the call and was incensed that someone should impersonate him.

Inquiry at the telephone office here brought the information that not a single call went out from Manchester to Torrington at any time Saturday during the day or night. This information appears to clear up the possibility of anyone locally being responsible for the mixup and tends to point a suspicion towards the Torrington team itself.

Fred P. Hansen, an official of the West Side Club however, admitted for the present at least, it appears that someone had played a similar prank upon Coach William Brennan and himself to have a little fun at the expense of the club officials.

As far as the Torrington-Manchester Green episode is concerned, for the present at least, it appears that Manchester is absolved of all blame. Mr. Hansen wrote to the Torrington management yesterday in an effort to further clear up the mystery and the answer may provide further fireworks. But, unless something very convincing is offered Torrington's statement will no doubt be taken with a grain of salt.

PATROL AUTO ROADS FOR JAPANESE BEETLE

No Farm Products or Flowers Can Move Out of Generally Infested Area Without Certificate.

New Haven, July 1.—Day and night patrol of main automobile roads leading out of southwestern Connecticut toward the rest of the state, began today in operation of the Japanese beetle quarantine. Motorists and drivers of trucks will be stopped by uniformed inspectors in search of plants, flowers, fruits, vegetables, soil and other quarantined articles leaving the generally infested area. It includes a strip on Long Island Sound from Greenwich to New Haven and reaches as far north as Hamden.

If the contraband goods has been inspected and certified to be free of the bright bronze-and-green beetle, the motorist goes on his way. If no inspection has been made, the articles are confiscated.

"We are anxious to inspect all such goods before they reach the quarantine line," J. Peter Johnson, deputy of the Connecticut Agricultural Experiment Station, who is in charge of the quarantine, said today. "If persons who wish to move farm products, cut flowers or soil will notify us in plenty of time, we can make this free inspection. Then the motorist shows his certificate to the road patrolman and travels on through the line."

The experiment station, in cooperation with the United States Department of Agriculture, maintains five inspection points. On Lafayette street in New Haven and on Water street in Bridgeport, crews of several men each are on duty 24 hours a day. From 8 o'clock to 10 a. m. inspections are made at the Berman and Steinberg Commission House in Norwalk and at the S. Cohen and Company Commission House in Stamford. During business hours examination may be obtained at the headquarters of the quarantine, the Pierpont Building, Shelton.

Eighty Operate Quarantine

Eighty men, comprising one of the largest staffs of the kind ever employed in the state, carry on inspection, road patrol and scouting for the Japanese beetle. The entire state is under federal quarantine, with the southwestern corner designated as "generally infested" and subject to more stringent regulations. State quarantine is maintained over the "generally infested" area and on parts of Hartford and New London.

Under these restrictions, almost all the fruits and vegetables shipped from the South and West, as well as those that come by truck from the New York markets and Connecticut's own produce, are examined for the Japanese beetle before they are allowed to leave the heavily infested region. Most of this is done in the early morning hours after 1 o'clock a. m. when trucks are on the road to place their produce in time for the housewife's morning marketing. Eight men are employed for these rush hours at the

New Haven inspection platform.

Last year half a million packages were inspected.

Scotto Dangerous Pest

The Japanese beetle is one of the most dangerous pests in the United States. The adult feeds on almost all fruits, vegetables, flowers and shrubs and the grubs eat the roots of grass. Farmers have suffered severe losses in New Jersey, where it is the infestation originated and where it is heaviest.

In Connecticut, the pest has been known only five years and has thus far been found only in Willimantic, New Haven, Hartford, New London, Stamford and Bridgeport. It has not damaged the countryside.

GOVERNORS TALK OVER STATE TAX

Salt Lake City, July 1.—(AP)—Problems of state taxation, which occupied a large share of the opening day's sessions of the National Governors' conference, held a prominent place on today's program.

A sentiment for the ultimate discontinuance of property taxes for the support of state government, and the substitution of sales and other excise taxes, was developed from the round table discussion that followed an address by Governor William G. Conley of West Virginia.

Governor Conley's explanation of the operation of the gross sales tax in his state was followed by a lively interchange among the governors present.

That the sales tax should be in lieu of a property tax, and not in addition to an ad valorem levy, was the position of Governor Conley.

Some skepticism among the governors as to the probable attitude of legislatures toward the proposition of abolishing the ad valorem property tax for support of state government was voiced by Governor Theodore E. Christianson of Nebraska.

HEBRON

St. Peter's School members and friends enjoyed a picnic supper party in the old cemetery of St. Peter's Church located on Godfrey Hill where the first church originally stood, more than a hundred years ago.

Some of those present employed part of the time in cutting away the bushes and small trees growing up on and near the ancient graves, and it is planned to continue this work, completely clearing up the growth where it hampers the appearance and use of the cemetery.

Among guests of the school were Professor and Mrs. Wilbert Snow, of Middletown, who motored over for the picnic.

Coffee and bacon and eggs were prepared over a camp fire in the preparation of the picnic supper, and baked beans, salads, and other picnic requisites were partaken of.

A lecture on Economics from the theories of Adam Smith, with present day applications, by Charles Ramsey, M. A., of the University of Connecticut, was given at the first session of St. Peter's School Thursday forenoon.

SEN. REED SMOOT TO BE WED SOON

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 1.—(AP)—Senator Reed Smoot of Utah announced at his office here today that he and Mrs. Alice Taylor Sheets of Salt Lake City would be married soon. The date was not made known.

The ceremony will be performed in the Latter Day Saints' Temple here. Senator Smoot, chairman of the Senate finance committee, arrived Saturday from Washington.

Rumors of the engagement have been circulating for several weeks following Mrs. Sheet's recent trip to Washington where she was seen with Mr. Smoot on various occasions.

Mrs. Sheets, prominent in activities of the Latter Day Saints church, of which Mr. Smoot is an apostle, has been a widow since 1918. Her first husband, Edwin S. Sheets, a bishop in the Latter Day Saints church, died during the influenza epidemic of that year.

Senator Smoot's first wife died more than a year ago in Washington. The liquor was part of the $200,000 worth of brandy, whiskey and alcohol taken Sunday night by a score of armed men who overpowered a watchman at a government warehouse on South Wabash avenue.

James Fern, who was arrested in the Roma Inn raid, was a Federal prohibition agent until a month ago. He was in the room when Federal raiders visited Roma Inn, a roadhouse in Evergreen Park, last night.

Uncle Sam's Planting Pointers

By Furman Lloyd Maitford Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

Personal preference should play an important role in selecting shade trees. Some of the best for the north-eastern part of the United States are red oak, white oak, American elm, tulip tree—sometimes called tulip poplar or yellow poplar—base-wood of American linden, the black gum, sour gum or tupelo, the sugar maple for gravelly soils and the pin oaks for heavy clay soils.

For the southeastern United States good trees are the willow oak, pecan, sweetgum, Spanish oak, Darlington oak, American elm, red oak, and, on the lighter lands near the coast, longleaf pine and slash pine.

West of the Mississippi and especially beyond the Missouri River, these quick-growing trees are best. Silver maple, thornless honeylocust, Chinese elm, the various poplars, American elm, green ash and Chinaberry. In the east their quick growth makes them brittle and undesirable, but farther west the drier climates check the growth somewhat, the wood apparently grows tougher and they become more satisfactory as shade trees.

Few Know Trees As warm weather approaches trees make pictures that draw thousands of people to the open country and countless thousands more to the parks of our cities. Only a few note the differences between the many kinds of trees they see. Usually the many accept all as "just trees," unless showy flowers or other especially striking characteristics concentrate attention.

Great differences in height and spread from the white oak of the north and the live oak of the south to the small stature of the dogwood, redbud and crapemyrtle distinguish the trees. They vary in character of foliage as well as in size.

Leaves Two Feet Long The bigleaf magnolia has leaves two or two and one-half feet long and the bigleaf maple has leaves half that size, but the tamarisks have almost needle-like leaves or scales less than an inch long.

Even with trees whose leaves are comparable in size there is often a great difference in the character of shade they give. The sprayers of American plane trees permit much soft yellow light to penetrate so that at no time does the shade seem dense even though there may be few flecks of sunshine on the ground under it. On the other hand the dark green foliage of the red oak in some instances makes shadows dark and at others lets through flecks of sunshine that make strong contrasts between the light and shade. The American elm with its high, head and unusual form permits much indirect light to find its way under the branches although little direct sunshine may get through.

Two rings—one of gold and the other of silver—are used in the marriage ceremony of the Greek church.

NAB COUNTERFEITERS

New York, July 1.—(AP)—Alan G. Straight, head of Federal Secret Service operatives in New York said today that Saturday night and yesterday's "nab" arrested four men and one woman who had printed and distributed throughout the east $300,000 in $20 bills.

The five prisoners, all of whom he said admitted the charge against them are Joseph Minikin, his brother Isadore, Samuel Weiss of New York, a coffee shop proprietor; Benjamin Gradowitz, a bookbinder and his wife.

The notes, which bear the portrait of Andrew Jackson, are excellent counterfeits, Straight said. They were largely distributed in New York, Connecticut, Boston, Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, he said, and a few got as far west as Detroit.

HELPING SCIENTISTS

All of us take a hand at offering suggestions to reduce the death toll taken by automobiles and airplanes. They are modern. In the last quarter of a century they have been the cause of the accidental death lists mounting steadily in numbers. That attracts our attention.

A JUDAS

So, Lingle was a crook. A newspaperman turned traitor to his profession. The paper which employed him for years in the belief that its criminal reporter was the best of his kind, acknowledges that it had been fooled; that the paper, inadvertently, had been collaborating, as it were, in Chicago's carnival of crime.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question.—(Mrs. B. P. writes: "I have what the doctor calls a thrombus, and he tells me I must wear elastic stockings all the rest of my life. He also says there is no cure for it, that the clot will always be there, and that if it did dislodge I would die instantly. Nothing has helped me but the orange juice, and I have had five doctors. Is there danger, when using the orange juice, that the clot might dislodge, and is it true that if it did so there is danger of death? Also, do I dare take the exercises when in this condition?"

Answer: I advise the orange juice fast when a clot has formed. Contrary to your doctor's opinion, I have seen many cases where the clot was dissolved or dislodged, but I have never seen a case die. There is, of course, the possibility that the clot may enter the brain or some other vital organ, but out of the several hundred cases I have seen treated, I have never yet seen a case where this has occurred, so evident it is not a frequent occurrence. I would advise another orange juice fast and also use the hot and cold applications on the affected regions. I would not advise much exercise until you show an improvement.

NO SUPT. CHOSEN

Meriden, July 1.—(AP) — No choice of superintendent for the Connecticut School for Boys was made by the nominating committee which held a special session here today.

CLEANSING AN ANTIQUE

"No traitor owned this desk." Under that caption the War Department makes the announcement regarding an ancient desk recently presented to the military academy at West Point which had been used by Benedict Arnold during his brief tenure of office as commander of that post.

DE WILEY

No one man ever did more for the general health of the United States of America than Dr. Harvey Washington Wiley, who, almost single handed, for years fought the battle to give us pure food.

A NEW COLUMNIST

Calvin Coolidge appears today as a columnist in several large papers in the country. Since the announcement that he would write a daily article there has bobbed up those who see in this publicity a desire to capitalize himself as a candidate for re-election.

HE WOULD NOT BE CONTENT WITH NOTHING TO DO

He would not be content with nothing to do. He has the background, the experiences, the training, the time, the energy and the will to do something. But that isn't to be a candidate for the Presidency. We predict that, widely different as they will be, Calvin Coolidge's brief daily utterances, will be generally read as those of Will Rogers.

WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, July 1.—Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama probably is the only representative who admits that the U. S. Senate is a better Senate than the House of Representatives is a House.

years learned to have great respect for Dr. Wiley. He set his mind on taking the sand out of sugar, the chicory out of coffee, and eliminating the sale of oleomargarine as butter, to say nothing of forcing the passage of a law requiring that each food product should carry up on the container the exact percentage of each ingredient, that the glib public might have some faint idea of what it was buying. He forced upon this country pure food. He benefited the health and saved the lives of an incalculable number of people. When he began his campaign, misleading advertising of "pure" foods that were heavily adulterated, to the detriment of humanity in general and to the benefit of the manufacturers in particular, was general. Naturally the manufacturers resented interference with their business. It was not an easy victory. That's what made it worth while; that, and the benefit to the rest of us.

He was chief chemist of the state of Indiana when he became the chief chemist of the United States Department of Agriculture. Soon after that he started his campaign. He wrote, he lectured, he demonstrated. He left nothing undone that enabled him to get before the people the vital importance of his campaign. And he won. We are better for his having lived.

So, Lingle was a crook. A newspaperman turned traitor to his profession. The paper which employed him for years in the belief that its criminal reporter was the best of his kind, acknowledges that it had been fooled; that the paper, inadvertently, had been collaborating, as it were, in Chicago's carnival of crime.

Lingle was one of the very few who have broken a faith that is theoretically as inviolate as the confidence reposed in priest, physician or lawyer. To the newspaperman on the street, especially those in constant touch with police and courts and, through them, with the criminal element, temptations to break faith are a daily occurrence.

From the request on the basis of friendship to the threat; from the proffer of a cigar to the offer of sizable sums, the temptations of a newspaperman range. Few police reporters there are who could not live well beyond the limits of their salary by betraying confidence, by violating the ethics of their profession. But few, very few, have yielded. The percentage of men in this profession who yield, as Lingle did, is smaller than that who digress from the straight path trod by the faithful of other professions. At any rate, we know not one, which is more than we can say of some in other professional fields.

"The Senate, the rules allow a man to express himself. Public attention is focused on the Senate and it is there that public sentiment on any public issue is reflected. When a member of the House does anything, good or bad, the newspapers take no notice of it. And he can't keep his constituents advised of his point of view."

"However much people may disparage the Senate we have a better Senate than a House. The Senate is more responsive because it is on exhibition all the time and being shot at. There is some demagoguery there, but demagoguery is a better state of mind than indifference."

And before he gets through with many months of producing a certain amount of good stuff each day he will find that he is earning his money.

BY RODNEY DUTCHER NEA Service Writer

Washington, July 1.—Congressman George Huddleston of Alabama probably is the only representative who admits that the U. S. Senate is a better Senate than the House of Representatives is a House.

"Except for the tariff bill, the legislative work Congress has done has been a series of bluffs and evasions," said Mr. Huddleston in his annual interview with your correspondent as the close of the session drew near. "That goes for both houses."

"It's been a long, grueling session and the House has been bound more tightly than ever by its controlling machine. There hasn't been a quaver of independence, insofar as any concerted action is concerned, and there were very few examples of individual independence."

The chief legislation accomplished by the House was the tariff bill, of course, and that reflected the desires of the small controlling group of leaders; if drafting the bill practically no attention was paid to public opinion.

"Worrying about elections, the two houses have viewed in passing the buck on a large mass of important legislation. The House passes some legislation which it can depend on the Senate to bury and vice versa, with the House making most of the interments because it is so much easier there. Muscle Shoals, bus regulation, anti-injunction legislation, the lame duck amendment, railroad consolidation, unemployment bills, the universal draft bill, the fair price bill and a dozen other things have all been held up, buried, dodged or emasculated because they are controversial and calculated to worry men who must be re-elected."

Blames Public "There would be more independence in the House if it were not that the life of a political independent is almost unbearable. The public and the country over is seldom sufficiently interested to support the man who steers an independent course. A member can't be more independent than his constituents will let him."

"In the Senate, the rules allow a man to express himself. Public attention is focused on the Senate and it is there that public sentiment on any public issue is reflected. When a member of the House does anything, good or bad, the newspapers take no notice of it. And he can't keep his constituents advised of his point of view."

CHERRIES ARE RIFE

Cherries belong to the stone fruits, or the drupes, being of the same family as plums, peaches, and apricots. There are over two hundred and fifty kinds of cherries, some of them large, small, sweet, sour, dark, bright red, firm, soft, and some heart-shaped. The cherry is grown in more climates than any other single fruit, since it is found from Vancouver to Newfoundland, and from Florida to Texas. It also grows in Europe, China and Japan.

In Japan the festival of the cherry blossoms in which the flowering trees break into bloom attracts many travelers. In 1912 the city of Tokyo sent to Washington, D. C., over two thousand flowering cherry trees which were set out in Potomac Park, and which provide a full month of bloom for the capital, a yearly reminder of the good will between the two countries.

In the forest region of France dried cherries are used in making soup. In many country districts schools let out in time for the cherry season, and which provide a full month of bloom for the capital, a yearly reminder of the good will between the two countries.

While cherries are now so plentiful I would like to especially recommend that my readers learn how to use them to get the best results in promoting better health. Those who have been thinking about taking a fast should take advantage of the cherry season and take a few days' fast on the delicious fruit.

Tomorrow I will tell you more about the cherry-fast and the most healthful way to use cherries in your diet.

Besides the cherry being used fresh at this time of the year, it is also employed in making beverages. Some of these are cherry bounce, cherry cordial, and cherry brandy. In the Upper Rhine, the pulp is fermented and distilled into Kirshwasser while Zema, in Dalmatia, favors the marachino liquor of cherries and honey.

Oh, See the Egg That Has Been Laid!

IN NEW YORK

New York, July 1.—So, upon an afternoon when the outside world seemed just about the same as usual, we walked into this place which was not of a world that any of us knew or comprehended.

It was down in the Bowery "smoke" belt, where men have been toppling dead like rats that have eaten of the poison left in the woodshed. And men with faces and heads and the clothes of civilization were selling the poisonous "smoke" to other men who had faces and heads and arms and the tattered remnants of clothes. They were selling poison knowing that it would be drunk and that it would kill.

They were selling it for dimes and nickels. Unlike some ancient poison-monger of the Borgias days, they could not hope for either wealth or royal favor.

And standing there you wondered what contempt they had for their fellows, however far sunk, that they should thus peddle poison for a few pennies.

Sometimes during the day and the night, an unkempt figure would slump and stagger and fall—and die! The black-eyed, half-alive creature who had just brushed your sleeve would be rushed off to a hospital—too late for rescue.

It is the lethal champagne of the derelict.

And here, all up and down the Bowery, were its victims. So—a bit ill from what we had seen—we all walked out again. And it was late afternoon. And the world seemed just about the same as usual.

CADETS LEAVE FRANCE

Charbourg, France, July 1.—(AP)—Midshipmen from the United States Naval Academy at Annapolis, Md., sailed this morning aboard three United States battleships, the Florida, Alabama, and Utah, for Kiel.

The cadets and sailors all had three days' leave in Paris and were entertained while here by city and naval authorities. The flagship, because of her Rear Admiral's presence, was the bridge, returned to the United States at 10 o'clock.

The Utah's band stayed behind the request of Ambassador Bessie Coleman, who was to play at the "concert" at 10 o'clock. It will go by rail to Kiel to return the ship.

Gifts of Great Value to Be Presented to Lucky Persons Each Week During the Summer—
Big Feature Picture to Be Shown in Connection with Awards of Gifts

Starting tomorrow night the State Theater will run a series of attractions, lasting through-out the summer months of July and August, to be known as Merchant's Night. Every Wednesday night, merchandise obtained from ten Manchester merchants will be given away to theatergoers. A coupon will be given with each admission ticket that evening, of which a duplicate will be retained and placed in a box for the drawing.

Valuable Articles
Merchant's Night will bring back memories of the old-time Country Store and the more recent Dollar nights at the State, which received such unexcelled patronage. Once again valuable articles will be given free, including furniture, kitchen articles, clothing, jewelry, farming supplies, automobile accessories, household necessities, and other goods too numerous to mention.

Big Attraction
Aside from the drawing, theatergoers will find a show of overwhelming interest tomorrow night, featuring Harry Richman in "Puttin' On the Ritz." A strong supporting program of news reel, comedy, and vitaphone acts, will also be shown.

The Merchants
The ten merchants from whom merchandise will be obtained are as follows: George H. Williams, Smart Shop, Kemps Music House, Manchester Electric Company, Glenny's, Manchester Plumbing and Supply, Watkins, May Jewelry

Company, Marlow's, and Bergden and Berman.

To Announce List
Beginning with next week's Merchant's Night the State Theater management will announce the list of articles to be given away in advance. Every article will be of value, will be greatly worthwhile to any and all who will be lucky enough to hold the winning numbers.

The Picture
"Puttin' on the Ritz," the United Artists picture starring Harry Richman, which opens at the State Theater tomorrow, is something new in the entertainment world, believes Edward Sloman, director of the picture.

It contains many of the elements of a straight dramatic picture, a musical comedy, or a lavish stage spectacle, Sloman says, yet it can hardly be listed under any of these classifications.

"Let's call it a Musical Motion Picture Drama," Sloman suggests, "for that is what it really is."

"It has several songs written especially for the picture by Irving Berlin, ranging from ballads to 'torch' songs. It has a dozen spectacular dance numbers, employing more than two hundred dancers all together.

"It has a score of elaborate settings, and it is richly costumed. Novelty and fantasy has been the keynote of these.

Human Drama
"Yet throughout, the picture is essentially a human drama, with the principal characters quite logically placed among these colorful surroundings, working out their lives in quite simple fashion. Without the elaborate settings and dazzling novelties, the story would remain a realistic and compelling drama. With them it assumes proportions I do not believe either stage or screen has ever touched as yet."

"Puttin' on the Ritz" is a story of vaudeville, night clubs and Broadway revues. Purely by coincidence, the story parallels rather closely the actual career of the star. Richman began his career as piano player and singer in obscure cabarets. He gained some experience in dramatic stock companies, toured vaudeville, then leaped into fame suddenly about three years ago as the star of George White's "Scandals."

Supports
Joan Bennett plays opposite Richman. The supporting cast includes many prominent names, among them James Gleason, Aileen Pringle, Lilyan Tashman, Richard Tucker, Eddie Kane and Furell Pratt. John W. Considine, Jr., is the author of the original story on which the picture is based, and William K. Wells wrote the dialogue.

The Title
Irving Berlin inadvertently suggested the title for "Puttin' on the Ritz." That is the title of one of the many original songs written by Berlin especially for the picture. When he wrote it, he had no idea he was naming the picture as well. But United Artists has been searching for a suitable title for the picture ever since Richman was first lured away from Broadway to make his bow to the screen. A number had been considered, including "Playboy," "The Song of Broadway" and "The Broadway Vagabond." None of them quite seemed to fit, and someone on the set had an inspiration while Richman was singing "Puttin' on the Ritz."

"Why not call the picture that?" it was asked. The title is remarkably appropriate, for the story deals with a vaudeville player who has a sensational rise to fame. The dramatic reversal of form to most backstage stories—when he develops an acute attack of conceit and temporarily passes up the friends of his leaner days for fair-weather friends, admirers and flatterers of the moment.

So the song—and it is most distinctly not a theme song—provides the picture's title without the composer having intended it so.

KILLED AFTER CRASH
Lake City, Fla., July 1.—(AP)—H. F. McDonald, 34, a cafe worker of Jacksonville, was shot to death on a highway near here yesterday after his automobile struck and injured Mrs. W. S. Boone, of Manatee. Authorities were holding her husband for the slaying. Officers said McDonald stopped after the accident and approached the prostrate woman to offer aid but was killed instantly by Boone, who opened fire with a revolver.

The PRODIGAL KING

by Minott Saunders © 1930 by NEA SERVICE INC.

Editor's Note—This is the second of six stories by Minott Saunders, manager of the Paris Bureau of NEA Service, on the life and loves of young King Carol II of Rumania. Yesterday, Saunders told of a morose romance between Carol's father, the late King Ferdinand, and one of the beautiful ladies-in-waiting of the queen a generation ago. Today, Saunders tells of the first of Carol's three colorful romances. Now go on with the story.

By MINOTT SAUNDERS
NEA Service Writer

Paris, July 1 — The dark-eyed daughter of an obscure Rumanian army officer who yielded to the charms of a prince of the royal blood to her ultimate sorrow was the first of the three women who have played such a big part in the life of King Carol II of Rumania.

Zizi Lambrino was her name. She was dark, and tall, and slender; with black eyes that sparkled and a soft olive skin that hinted of her remote Gipsy ancestors. She was young and beautiful then.

Recent years have seen her as a matured and defeated woman with a nameless child. The child, now 11 years old, and attending school in Paris, is the son of the man who is now King Carol II. The Rumanian crown admits paternity, but denies that it was legal because their marriage was annulled by church and state, the child having been born after the annulment took place. However, it is said that Carol is supporting the youngster.

It was a youthful romance between the future king and the pretty daughter of a commoner that began in the closing days of the World War when Prince Carol and his regiment were quartered in her village.

They met, they loved, they married. The young prince deserted his military command and eloped to Russia for the wedding. The ceremony was performed in Odessa, in an Orthodox church, to which faith both belonged.

Zizi was young, but by no means foolish. She knew that it would be hopeless for her to attempt to marry a future king as such. But Carol promised her, she says, that he would renounce the throne and they would live their own lives, with and for each other.

Probably at that time he really intended to do so. But he forgot his promise.

When the crown prince's father, King Ferdinand, heard of his son's elopement with a commoner, he was furious. Couriers were sent to Russia to bring him back. They found neither a penitent nor defiant young prince, but a nonchalant young man who informed them that he intended to do as he pleased.

But Carol did not live with his bride except for a short time. Accused of desertion from his command, he was hauled back and confined, by order of the king, to his quarters for 75 days.

Carol was then sent on a voyage around the world, to forget. Apparently he didn't want to go; he made a blundering attempt at suicide which led many to believe that he still remembered his promise to Zizi. There are rumors that he continued to visit her secretly at intervals, despite his parents' objections.

The royal court finally triumphed, however, and the marriage was annulled, the holy synd of the church concurring therein.

Meanwhile, the royal match-makers were busy selecting a suitable bride and in 1919 official announcement to Princess Helen of Greece was made. It was two years, however, before this wedding took place. The delay has never been explained.

Had Carol remained steadfast in yielding the throne for the love of a pretty commoner, the night

he made himself a world-wide popular hero for those were in the democratic days just after the World War when kings and queens were not so much in public favor.

How Carol really felt about it all is perhaps best explained by his love letters which Mme. Lambrino made public a few years ago when she was suing for 10,000,000 francs and a legal name for her son in a Paris court. She lost both.

During their courtship, according to her exhibits, Carol wrote this: "Zizi, my soul, how cautious you are for your age! . . . You do not seem to believe that there are men to whom love is more precious and sacred than power or throne. I detest my station in life . . . Life in the palace bores me . . . I am not happy with the prospect of wearing a crown. I am happy with the prospect of making you my wife and living with you as an humble subject . . . Oh, my beautiful goddess! Name the next sacrifice. I will wear peasant's garb, work in the field and return to you at sunset with my scythe across my shoulder. Zizi, my beloved, name the sacrifice and test my sincerity."

Then, after the marriage, this: "Zizi, my very dear, I write you this letter as a 'deathbed confession,' for I am passing from a serene and joyful life with you, which I have enjoyed to the full measure and from which cruel hands are parting me . . . Take good care of this letter, which is the recognition on my part that I am the father of the child you will soon bring into the world. In spite of the annulment of our marriage, in spirit and in fact, I still consider myself as your husband. I shall never cease to regard your son as my son. Zizi, my love . . ." etc.

On the birth of the boy, he wrote: ". . . My goddess-wife! The news thrilled me. I am happy. I jumped and danced around like a young boy. . . I will be with you shortly to hold you in my arms, my Gipsy goddess!"

And then, from Zurich in November, 1920, a few months before his royal marriage to Princess Helen, and in his own handwriting: "Zizi, my darling, like a forlorn patriot who fights for his country against stupendous odds, and is conquered, so I write you. But I beg you please not to believe that my affection for you has decreased. All my life shall my heart recall what you have been to me. But alas, the chariot is broken. . . I have been forced to accept the fact that my duty to the crown and the throne demands this sacrifice. . . But it must be done and what must be, shall be! Is the dictates of my parents and our statesmen. . . In him (the boy) you may find the joy that will help to lessen the sadness of our inevitable separation. He signed this farewell letter, 'your husband in spirit.' And asked her to remember him as 'an old friend.'"

And so it came to pass, young Crown-Prince Carol was married—in March, 1921—at a brilliant royal wedding to the charming and lovely Princess Helen of Greece, selected for his bride by Queen Maria, and the other royal matchmakers. He knew very little about his future queen, having seen her only a few times in his life . . . and apparently cared less.

In less than a year their son was born; Michael, who was destined by the fates to be crowned king of Rumania at the age of 5 years, after his father, befitting one romance and bored with another, renounced the throne, deserted his royal wife and fled to voluntary exile with a red-haired charmer, Madame Lupescu.

Next: Princess Helen . . . the "saddest princess in Europe" the second of the three women in Carol's life.

In China and Japan cormorants are trained to fish for their masters.

56 Porter Street, South Manchester, Conn., May 1, 1930.

Paul Hillery, Inc., 749 Main Street, South Manchester, Conn. Dear Sir:

Upon the recommendation of three friends who had had Super Oil-heaters for three previous years, I had one installed at my Porter street house and I am so pleased with my own experience that I am glad at any time to talk over this burner with anyone.

I tried coal in this house before installing the Super and estimate that I would have needed 18 tons of coal to get the same results that I obtained with $155.00 worth of oil. You can figure this out for yourself.

To have gotten rid of the ashes and dust from using coal and the enjoyment of a clean cellar has been a revelation to me. To sum up my feelings if I had to choose between the oil-burner and my car I would choose my oil burner without hesitation.

Yours sincerely, C. S. Parker, M. D.

DANCING JUDITH

BEGIN HERE TODAY JUDITH GRANT, beautiful article, shares her Greenwich Village apartment with CHUMMEY MORLEY, a lovely girl whose mind has been a blank ever since her lover, ALAN STEYNE, disappeared seven years ago.

CHAPTER XVIII A week later Bruce Gideon came in Quarveny house and found that Judy had just finished her lesson for the day.

"I came to find you, Judy," he said, after greeting the maestro. "The big Russian ballet opens tonight, and I have a box. I thought you would like to come."

Judy could hardly refuse. She dressed quickly and when Alan came to fetch her she was ready. She had managed to buy herself a new dress of rich red silk, with a hint of bronze in it.

Neither of the girls wanted to eat. Steyne was hungry, having been for a tramp in the country after several days of unsuccessful effort at the art school.

He asked her how she was getting on, and she said, "Very well." She asked him what he was painting, and he told her he had again come to the conclusion that he couldn't paint at all.

Hints On How to Keep Well by World Famous Authority

COLLAPSE OF ATHLETES IN RACES POSSIBLY SAVES THEIR LIVES

BY DR. MORRIS FISHER Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine. It is not unusual to see men collapse during or at the end of a hard race.

Various reasons have been suggested as to the cause of this collapse. It has been urged that it is due to a lack of sugar in the blood, because the athletic contest has used up the energy reserves of the body.

It has been shown that muscle cramp may occur due to an excess in lactic acid following overuse and it is the belief of Doctor Richards that the contracted heart of athletes, especially those in state of collapse, are the result of a form of muscle cramp due perhaps to over-exertion.

Hartford, Pittsfield Drop Out of Eastern League

Drawing Power Poor Can't Meet Expenses

League to Continue With Six Teams; Night Baseball Is Discussed; Allentown Wins First Half Season Pennant.

Springfield, Mass., July 1.—(AP)—With the withdrawals of the Hartford and Pittsfield clubs, the Eastern Baseball League will open the second half of the season tomorrow with a six-team circuit. The Allentown, Pa., team has won the pennant for the first half.

Allentown went into first place by a ninth inning victory against Bridgeport yesterday and took a full game lead over the New Haven team. The Pennsylvania team does not play today and New Haven has a single game, which will permit them to overtake Allentown.

Financial difficulties were given as the reason for the withdrawals by President William E. Carey of the league, which were announced at a special meeting of the board of directors here last night. The Pittsfield-Hartford game scheduled for today was cancelled.

The remaining teams are Springfield, Albany, New Haven, Bridgeport, Providence and Allentown. Hartford was in sixth and Pittsfield in last place.

The advisability of turning to night baseball to increase attendance was discussed by the directors and all owners of teams were reported in favor of the plan. Two representatives of lighting companies gave estimates on the cost of installing flood lights for night games.

It was announced that the schedule for the second half, just released, would be retraded immediately.

The New England Baseball League discontinued games for the remainder of the season on June 22, with the poor drawing power of the clubs blamed for suspension of play.

The franchise of the league, which was represented at the meeting by Roland G. Utley, when the league was informed that the local club was no longer about to finance its operations. The same statement was made by the Pittsfield representatives.

Fortitude of the Hartford franchise will leave this city without representation in organized ball for the first time in more than a quarter of a century. Hartford was a member of the old Connecticut league, later held a franchise in the Eastern Association, then when James H. Clarkin, who owned the baseball park and the franchise, withdrew from this organization in 1915 the Colonial League operated a club here only to have Clarkin return to baseball in 1916 as one of the charter members of the present Eastern League.

Local Sport Chatter

News that the Hartford Club has found it necessary to drop out of the Eastern League because of the inability to meet expenses, was no startling surprise here. It was well known that the games were being very slimly attended and that the ultimate breakdown was only a matter of time.

There is no getting around the fact that outside of the big show at least, baseball is nowhere near the magnet it once was ten or fifteen years ago. The once popular national pastime seems to be gradually losing its hold on the populace, save for some of the leading major league clubs.

One of the reasons is that the teams are not as good as they used to be, another is that automobiles are too easy a way to reach the shore, lake or favorite mountain resort. Then, too, the number playing has increased almost beyond estimation. Chicago, for instance, reports that more people play golf there in a season than play and witness baseball together.

In a few years baseball may come back to the pinnacle it once held. Sports are like that. They travel in cycles. For a few years they slip downward only to regain popularity and forge to the front again. The growth of hockey is tremendous at present but in a year or two, possibly longer, it will undoubtedly experience the same troubles as baseball is today.

The new tennis courts at the Manchester Country Club are expected to be ready for use in a few days. Incidentally, they will be located on the best in town. The Manchester Construction Company has been doing the work. The courts are located close to the club house on a little knoll. The only trouble lies in the fact that they are open to every bit of wind.

The boys say that Bobby Sturgeon is coming along fast as a baseball pitcher in the West Side League.

Elmo Mantell insists that Stuart Clancy, Holy Cross gridiron hero, was not released from his contract to coach the Cubs, but, rather, threw down the proposition himself for a much more attractive one that nets him something like $125 a game for 23 games of football next season in addition to a good job on the side.

Those who patronize Globe Hollow are more than pleased to find a large clock installed over the bath house on their return. Louis Jaffe made the donation. It is a much needed addition.

NEW YORK READY TO ACCLAIM JONES

New York, July 1.—(AP)—The Emperor of Golf, Bobby Jones will come home tomorrow to a welcome such as no golfer before him ever has received.

A celebration of a size that ordinarily is reserved for trans-Atlantic fliers returning war heroes and foreign dignitaries has been arranged when Bobby steps off the S. S. Europan on his return from England where he won the British Amateur and Open championships.

In the crowd that gathers to do him honor as a great sportsman will be hundreds of friends from his home town of Atlanta.

BUSCH TOPS SCHMELING

It is a well known fact that Max Schmeling, the new world's heavyweight boxing champion, takes a great liking to golf. In fact close observers practically went so far as to say that he trained for the Sharkey scrap on golf. Here's a picture that shows Schmeling posing with Frank C. Busch, Manchester boxing and swimming instructor, who worked as the German's sparring partner. Der Maxie and Frankie are standing near the first tee of the Endicott Country Club course near where the German trained. The photograph was taken just prior to a match in which Schmeling shot 105, his lowest score. Busch turned in a 98.

Sharkey-Schmeling Fight 'At The State

Hundreds of Manchester fighters on these two days and nights, fans may take a belated trip to the Yankee Stadium and watch the Schmeling-Sharkey fight by merely going to the State theater tomorrow or Thursday.

Manager Hugh J. Campbell has booked the official pictures of the fight to be shown at the local theaters.

HOOKS & SLIDES

THE GREAT ENIGMA. Now comes our old friend from the canebreaks with a mighty wallop that cannot be ignored, Master William, "Young" Stribling, acrobat, puncher extraordinary, aviator, dilly-dallier and heavyweight threat.

His career, curiously is like Sharkey's. He has been up there three after time, ready to step out into a heavyweight title match, only to fall back just as the chance was about to be grasped. Once both he and Sharkey were up there together, and their unsatisfactory meeting in Miami was a blot upon both their records.

The other day in Chicago, he did come through, knocking out Otto von Porat in the first round. Otto von Porat in the first round, he or devil, cannot be ignored. In our acrobat, puncher extraordinary, aviator, dilly-dallier and heavyweight must be written again.

A Great Spot. This looks like a great spot for Stribling. Upon the heavyweight throne sits Max Schmeling, a young man from Germany who cannot box. Anybody who cannot box is a pretty dish for the Georgia battler. And Pa and Ma and all the Striblings know it very well. Any ringster who is smitten early with a left hand is just another Wiener for William. Bring on your Schmeling, say they.

I am tempted to believe that if Max and William were to mix tomorrow the heavyweight champion of the world would be a gentleman from Georgia.

William's career has been precarious, we have said, but it has been also interesting. He met the big Italian Ibez twice, once in London, and once in Paris. Both affairs ended in fouls, with the score at one apiece. Stribling hit the Ibez low, which is easily to be explained away in view of all the territory Strib had for a target. In the other bout, Carners, enraged by Strib's superior boxing tactics didn't hear the bell ending the round and kept slugging away at the elusive William.

Beat Risiko. Away back in 1926, the canebreaker kid won a decision from Johnny Risiko, but since then both men have improved so greatly that a return match now between the pair would be almost like a brand new encounter.

Helen Wills Moody Reaches Semi Finals

What a lot of experts have overlooked in prematurely placing a "world's" heavyweight crown upon the black thicket of Max Schmeling is that the "title" was involved in his match with Jack Sharkey only by the influence of proclamation, ballyhoo and the unsuspecting consent of John J. Fan, led to believe that this would be the FINAL elimination.

Old John has been quicker, probably, than the experts to realize that what actually happened was the ELIMINATION OF BOTH FIGHTERS, at least for the time being, so far as any real manifestation of championship calibre was concerned.

Had either Sharkey or Schmeling held the title that Gene Tunney held the title two years ago, no argument or edict could deprive the German of its possession. The fact is, however, that the two heavyweights were on trial before a crowd that came, hoping for the best, but remaining to see the worst. Schmeling, a bean boy as he went grovelling to the floor in the fourth round, fouled, was no more the picture of a champion then or afterward than was Sharkey, who saw prospective victory bounce from his erratic grasp.

Championships a number of which have been won or lost on fouls but only when the victim or his opponent had tangible access to the title before-hand.

After all, it may not seriously disrupt international relations even if Schmeling is regarded only as the champion in some sections of the U. S. A., Germany and Lithuania and not in the British Empire or the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, comprising the larger portion of the universe. In fact it is doubtful if the aforesaid far-fung Empire or the U. S. S. R. cares who is champion.

If we must be serious about it here, it will be time enough to pass the laurel to Der Maxie, a game kid, if and when he demonstrates a superior fighting prowess. For the time being, John J. Fan may consider himself fortunate to have whatever championship claims there are rest peacefully in Germany.

Max Schmeling, it seems, is a good business man, anyway. The boys tell a story about his signing a contract for exclusive newspaper stories carrying his byline. Max looked the papers over carefully and balked at a reference to "net receipts" in a clause about his percentage of syndication profits.

"Ich verstahe nicht! Ich verstahe nicht!" repeated Max. "Well, then," said the business manager after exhausting efforts to make the situation clear to Max as to overhead, distributing costs, etc. "We will change it to gross receipts."

"Lawohl!" exclaimed the German, perfectly satisfied.

Inside the ring, a fighter who is fouled gets the decision (usually), says the sporting time to go. Look at advantage of the situation to increase their lead and beat the Giants 10 to 3. The victory was the Cubs' 12th triumph in 14 starts.

In the only other national league game the Braves defeated the outa 6 to 5 victory over the Pirates.

The Washington Senators also kept in the midst of the American League scramble. In defeating the St. Louis Browns 2 to 1 the Senators were forced to battle down to the last inning when they scored the winning run.

A five run rally off "Bull" Durham in the eighth gave the Indians an 8 to 3 verdict over the Red Sox. With the Robins idle with wet grounds at St. Louis, the Cubs looked advantage of the situation to increase their lead and beat the Giants 10 to 3. The victory was the Cubs' 12th triumph in 14 starts.

Trims Phyllis Murdord, Young English Star in Straight Sets at 6-1, 6-2

Wimbledon, England, July 1.—(AP)—Mrs. Helen Wills Moody, defending her British tennis championship, reached the semi-finals today by overwhelming Phyllis Murdord, young English star, 6-1, 6-2.

Elizabeth Ryan, native Californian now living in England, overcame Betty Nuthall, England's famous young internationalist, in another of the quarter-finals by scores of 6-2, 2-6, 6-0, to join Mrs. Moody in the semi-final round.

CUBS AND ATHLETICS MIDWAY POINT LEADERS

July the Fourth, the unofficial date for naming the winners of the major league pennants, is still three days away but already the 1930 race resembles the 1929 chase with the Athletics out in front in the junior circuit and the Cubs setting a hot pace in the Heydler division.

The world champions failed yesterday to gain ground on their rivals although rallying in the eighth to defeat Detroit 3 to 1. Eddie Rommel let the Tigers down with seven hits.

The Yanks kept pace with the champions by staging one of their frequent slugfests, during which Babe Ruth hit his 30th homer of the season.

The White Sox were the victims of the Yankees' wrath losing 15 to 4.

The Washington Senators also kept in the midst of the American League scramble. In defeating the St. Louis Browns 2 to 1 the Senators were forced to battle down to the last inning when they scored the winning run.

A five run rally off "Bull" Durham in the eighth gave the Indians an 8 to 3 verdict over the Red Sox. With the Robins idle with wet grounds at St. Louis, the Cubs looked advantage of the situation to increase their lead and beat the Giants 10 to 3. The victory was the Cubs' 12th triumph in 14 starts.

In the only other national league game the Braves defeated the outa 6 to 5 victory over the Pirates.

The Nut Cracker

All the boys are busy trying to find ways to save the boxing game from being killed by foul blows. Wonder if they have thought of the expedient of paying off the boxers in counterfeit money.

Giving the heavyweight title to Schmeling, says a New York scribe, was the sporting time to go. Look at advantage of the situation to increase their lead and beat the Giants 10 to 3. The victory was the Cubs' 12th triumph in 14 starts.

NEW MAJESTIC RADIOS ON DISPLAY AT KEMP'S

The new Majestic Radio models for 1936-37, have been delivered this week, and are now on display at Kemp's, Inc., leading Manchester dealer in Majestic radios. A beautiful display of the new models is now being shown in the window of Kemp's. The new Majestic cabinets are a distinct change of design, yet in keeping with the modern trend of furniture style. Both the radio and highboy cabinets are of walnut. The lowboy is rounded off instead of having the straight line edges. This effect adds considerable to the design, and will meet with the approval of furniture decorators, as it will not look like a bulky piece in the room. The highboy, does not have the straight square front as preceding models have had, but it is noticed that the front panels and doors are turned to give a rolling or bulging effect. This will have a big run, as it is an outstanding work of cabinet designing.

The most important features of the new Majestic Radio are the use of a Screen-Grid Power Detector and the Majestic Super-Screen-Grid Receiver. Far greater and more uniform selectivity and sensitivity is attained by the use of Majestic Super-Screen-Grid Tubes in both the Radio Frequency and Detector Circuits. Absolute fidelity reproduction of all frequencies is obtained through the use of the new Majestic Super-Coloura Speaker. Considering every phase of performance dependability, and stability, it can truthfully be said that these new Majestic Super-Screen-Grid Receivers represent a higher stage of perfection than has ever before been attained. Mr. Pearl who is manager of the radio department at Kemp's, is very enthusiastic about the new Majestic radio, and feels that in keeping with the large sales of Majestic's in past seasons, the 1936-37 radio season will find Majestic in the lead, and as popular as ever.

TEACHERS DISCUSS RETIREMENT PLANS

Columbus, O., July 1.—(AP)—With the presentation of committee reports on tenure laws and retirement systems for school teachers the National Education Association swung into the first business session of its 68th annual convention today.

The reports of the committees on tenure and retirement allowances, through which the association hopes to build up a more efficient body of teachers for the public schools were outstanding among the committee studies offered at the initial session of the representative assembly.

Candidates Named. Nominations for president to succeed E. Ruth Pyrtle, of Lincoln, Neb., were in order. Three outstanding educators mentioned for the presidency are Joseph Royster, Fairmount, W. Va., president of the West Virginia State Normal school; Willis A. Sutton, superintendent of school at Atlanta, Ga., and Dr. John W. Abercrombie, Montgomery, Ala., assistant superintendent of education in Alabama.

An elaborate speaking program for the association's general sessions centered today upon the international point of view as a vital value in education, one of the themes of this year's meeting. ### OPENING STOCKS

New York July 1.—(AP)—Price trends were irregular at the opening of today's market. While the majority of issues opened fractionally higher, the sharp uptick yesterday attracted profit taking in pivotal shares. Westinghouse Electric lost 1-2 points, and American Can, Consolidated Gas, and Goodyear, about 1 point. U. S. Steel lost 5-8 and American Telephone 1-2. International Harvester, Lambert, American Water Works, American Smelting, and American Tobacco B gained about 1-2.

Stocks continued to move uncertainly in extremely dull trading during the first half hour. Selling of pivotal shares, while probably largely profit taking, was apparently furthered by bear efforts to unsettle the list. In the main, however, stocks held relatively steady.

The overnight news was mildly favorable. A preliminary estimate of Dupont's second quarter earnings, placing them at 1.31 a share, compared to $1.44 in the like quarter of 1929, and $1.05 in 1928, was more favorable than generally expected. The condition statement of weekly reporting member banks showed a drop of only $128,000,000 in security loans, but a fraction of the drop of $371,000,000 in brokers loans during the same period, but all other, or commercial loans continued their recent expansion with a gain of $59,000,000.

American Can soon made up its initial loss, but Eastman Kodak sold off nearly 2 points, American Telephone and Foster Wheeler, 1-2, Electric Power and Foreign Power, U. S. Steel, and Byers a point or so. On the other hand, Ingersoll Rand, Missouri Kansas Texas, Illinois Central, New York Central, Borden and United Corp. gained a point or two.

Sterling cables opened steady at $4.85, up 1-16 of a cent.

WINS TRIP TO EUROPE

Detroit, July 1.—(AP)—Joseph Ehrhard, 17, of St. Louis, won a trip to Europe, $250 in cash and trophies in the annual meet of the Airplane Model League of America today.

The trip abroad was awarded by the American Boy, a magazine, for winning the senior outdoor flying title. He kept his model plane in the air 385 seconds. He also won the fusilage model flying contest, the time being 124 seconds.

Don Burnham, 15, West Lafayette, Ind., defending champion, again captured the junior outdoor flying title with a mark of 202 seconds. He received $200 and a silver cup.

GOOD ROADS AID PEACE OF WORLD

If Europe Spent More for Roads There Would Be No Future Wars.

Salt Lake City, Utah, July 1.—(AP)—Credit for the spirit of friendship and good will which he said pervades the nation was ascribed today by Governor Louis L. Emmerson of Illinois to the development of a great system of hard surfaced roads. Governor Emmerson was one of several governors attending their national conference here who spoke before the Salt Lake Rotary Club.

"Let the nations of Europe spend relatively as much as our states in construction of easily traveled roads, and their increased appreciation of each other's problems may save them billions of dollars that would result from another European war," he said.

Reason for Slump. Discussing economic conditions of today, the Illinois executive declared that "in a major degree the present slump in business is due in no small part to the mental attitude of the nation."

"It will not end until we forget the Stock Market crash," he added, "and remember that the country lost not a single penny of real value in that slump. Every loss sustained was a loss of imaginary values, which were created by speculation and which in reality did not exist. At the end of the market debacle, we had just as much coal in our mines, just as much fertility in our soil and just as much productivity in our factories."

New world markets will be opened to the Midwest through completion of the Mississippi waterway, Governor Emmerson said.

FALLS TO DEATH

Magnolia, Miss., July 1.—(AP)—Augustus Wierdelauer, 22, of Patterson, N. Y., an Oxford University graduate, died early today of injuries received during the night by either falling or jumping from a window of the Oceanside Hotel here. His father is president of the Associated Dyeing and Printing Corporation of New York city.

SENSE and NONSENSE

A Night in Bachelor's Hall They've gone away! It seems a year, Aye! weeks of years, since they were here. And yet it was but yesterday I kissed them when they went away; Away from all the scorching heat That grips this brick-walled city street. And it was I who bade them go. And vowed I'd find no joy at all, Nor any peace, in Bachelor's Hall. I laughed at that, but she was right; I never knew a sadder night Than this, while thus I tread alone, These silent halls I call my own. I never thought this place could change. So utterly, and seem so strange. The night is hot and yet a chill pervades the house; it is so still. I miss the living atmosphere That confronts me when they are here. I miss the sigh, long drawn and deep. The music of refreshing sleep, That undulates the gentle breast Of weary motherhood at rest. And in the unaccustomed gloom That shrouds the small adjoining room I miss the moans, the muffled screams, Of childhood troubles in its dreams, O! Sing your song, all ye who roam: Your wistful song of Home, Sweet Home. But, though unhappy is your lot, You will not find a sadder spot. In all the world, than Home, when they Who make it home have gone away.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE.) The Russian train was quite a sight and tickled Clowdy Tynmites. Said he, "This sure is different that the trains we have at home. It's funny how you get so thrilled o'er trains that are of different build. It seems we find a new sort in most every place we roam." The Travel Man then said, "My boy, it's different things that put the joy in any sort of journey. That's why we have all had fun in every town of every size. A change brings forth a grand surprise. Just like our trains however, it is steam that makes this run." "Oh, I would like to go up front. I think 'twould be a dandy stunt," cried Carry. "Let's all hike up to the engine cabin now. The engineer won't start to rave, if we are careful and behave. If he is shoveling coal we might turn in and help somehow." So, through a lot of trains they ran and shortly found the engine man. He let them come into his cab for just a little while. "No help is needed now," said he. "But you can sit and ride with me." And so they sat real quiet as they moved mile after mile. Soon Mister Travel Man cried out, "Come boys! We're just about to land in grand Odessa." And, sure enough, with 'quite a shout, they reached the depot and jumped out. They promptly found a Sna cafe where they were nicely fed. Then, after eating, they went 'round and on a quiet street they found a funny little toy shop. "Walk right in," somebody cried. It was the toy man. He was kind, because he said, "I do not mind if you all watch me make my toys. Stand right here by my side." (The Tynmites meet a strange hat vendor in the next story.)

at West Center and McKee streets last night called Hook and Ladder Company No. 1 and also Center Hose No. 2 for an automobile fire on West Center street. The fire was caused by a short circuit of the wires in the automobile and was extinguished by chemicals taken from the gasoline station owned by Patrick Moriarty at the corner.

While the chemicals were doing the work, an alarm was turned in and this served as a general invitation for about everything on wheels to start moving. In less than three minutes after the whistle had completed its four rounds a big crowd of automobiles had arrived from north, east, south and west on the side streets in business.

The fire was in a 1924 Buick sedan which was parked in the auto stand with its engine running. The car was owned by Mrs. Moriarty and was used for the business of a taxi.

In the summer of 1929 a Buick sedan was used on the business of a taxi and was parked in the auto stand with its engine running. The car was owned by Mrs. Moriarty and was used for the business of a taxi.
