PLAN TO STUDY FEDERATION OF CHURCHES HERE

North Methodists and Sec- ond Congregationalists Discuss Possibility of Uni- fication in Special Meeting

Representatives of the official standing committee of the North Methodist church and the Second Congregational church, held an informal conference last evening at 8:15 in the parlors of the Second Congregational church to discuss the possibilities of federation. The meeting was proposed by the standing committee of the last named church, and the official board of the North Methodist church graciously accepted the invitation.

Charles Chairman Frederick C. Allen, pastor of the Second Congregational church called the meeting to order and Rev. Marvin S. Stocking, pastor of the North Methodist church, led in prayer. The wisdom of choosing a layman to act as chairman of a proposed joint committee from among the members of both churches was explained and Fayette B. Clarke was elected chairman.

Mr. Clarke called upon Rev. Mr. Allen to give a resume of the reasons for the meeting. He stated that the people of the North Methodist church as well as the people of the Second Congregational church are not thinking in terms of church competition, but rather in terms of building up the Kingdom of God in their community to the best of their ability and in the best possible way. Last night's informal meeting, he said, was simply to consider what they wanted to accomplish and to have those present feel free to give their opinions. The group wasn't committed to the idea of consolidation, but was simply to consider what it now in order to get at the problem in the best way.

To investigate it was the general feeling that a sub investigating and way-finding committee should be appointed, charged with the responsibility of thinking over the various phases of federation, its possibilities and problems, and to present them in a clear light at a subsequent meeting of the joint committee to be held sometime in September, and to continue in that capacity until the work of the committee shall have been accomplished.

The committee will be called upon to consider the consolidation of the two church schools, the use of all kind of equipment, the pastoral problem, finances and benevolences—not to solve them but rather to present them to the joint committee in a clear light.

DETROIT ELECTION INTERESTS NATION

If Mayor Bowles Is Recalled A New Election Must Be Held In City.

Detroit, July 22.—(AP)—Mayor Charles Bowles, elected last fall, on a reform platform as before the voters today with an accusation that he "tolerated lawlessness" as one of the charges on which his recall is sought.

While Mayor Bowles was in Louisville last May 17, attending the Kentucky Derby, his police commissioner, Harold H. Emmons, ordered raids on race betting establishments in which nearly 300 arrests were made. The mayor returned to Detroit and discharged Emmons, thereby precipitating the recall move.

Called Double Cross Friends of mayor have declared that commissioner Emmons "double-crossed" his chief in ordering the raids while the mayor was attending a horse race. Mayor Bowles stated that he had intended to discharge Emmons for failure to enforce gambling laws and "fired him in spite of rather than because of the raids on Derby Day.

Recall sponsors repeatedly charged that "minister influences" control the mayor and urged recall as the only method of "restoring good government."

Blames Newspapers. Mayor Bowles declared that the recall move is a conspiracy led by Detroit News and Free Press. He said today's vote would decide "whether the press or the people shall rule."

If Mayor Bowles is recalled, another election to choose his successor must be held within 45 days, with the mayor automatically a candidate. The mayor would remain in office until his successor is named.

WOMEN ORGANIZE FIRE DEPARTMENT

With Men Folk at Work Town is Without Protection, So the Women Take a Hand.

Pittsburgh, July 22.—(AP)—The next time there's a fire in Chalfont borough, just outside of Pittsburgh, the big fire truck will roar out of the station house with Mary Fedoris driving the machine. Mary's mother, Mrs. Mary Fedoris, will be there, too, to act as assistant to Mrs. Sara Long, the chief, and these women will direct an attack on the flames entirely by women.

LITTLE ROCK ENTRY LEADS AIR DERBY

Lee Gehldach Heads 17 Planes From Roosevelt Field to Cincinnati, O.

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Led by Lee Gehldach, flying a Little Rock, Ark., entry, the seventeen planes remaining in the All-American Air Derby began taking off today for Cincinnati at 10:34 (E. S. T.).

Gehldach went down the runway with his motor wide open and took the air after only a short run. He led the Derby entrants on the first day by 23 minutes.

He said he planned to fly wide open all the way to Cincinnati, regardless of the strain on his motor. He plans to change motors in Little Rock and probably once or twice after that before the race ends.

Order of Hop Off. The planes took off at one minute intervals in the following order and time: Gehldach, 10:35; Hamer, 10:36; Bayles, 10:37; J. R. Fedel, 10:38; C. B. Smith, 10:39; B. B. Smith, 10:40; S. T. Stanton, 10:41; C. H. Ogen, 10:42; Charles Meyers, 10:43; H. H. Ogen, 10:44; W. H. Hooley, 10:45; William Cahill, 10:46; Robert T. Quinby, 10:47; LARRY BROWN, 10:48; C. H. Coffin, 10:49; and John Kruttschnitt, 10:50.

One Accident. H. H. Holladay, flying a Chicago entry, nosed over as he attempted to take off without sufficient run and broke his propeller. It was thought the only damage done he expected to take off within an hour or two and continue the race. It was feared, however, that his plane had suffered other damage which might force him to withdraw.

A. B. Todd of Pueblo, Colo., who landed at Norwich, Conn., last night and came on in to the field today was still working over his motor at takeoff time. Already over 12 hours behind the other fliers, he lost additional time.

MERCY MURDERER DECLARED INSANE

Father Who Killed Mentally Deficient Daughter Is Sent To State Asylum.

Walton, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—Declared insane by a commission of alienists who examined him yesterday, Andrew Beers, 79-year-old "mercy killer" was committed to the Binghamton State Hospital today for an indefinite period by Delaware county Judge Andrew J. McNaught.

District Attorney Robert S. Craft said if Beers at any time is declared to have recovered his sanity at the hospital, he can be returned to Delhi for indictment. Beers had been held at the county jail in Delhi on a first degree murder charge.

Beers killed his mentally deficient daughter, Frances, 27. He told police he could not bear to see her suffer and feared she might kill. After unsuccessful use of poison in her food, he drove an iron spike into her head, using a wrench as a hammer. He then gave himself a dose of strychnine.

Because his devotion to his daughter was well known here, most sympathetic neighbors gathered round for him.

WHEN REVOLUTION SWEEP BOLIVIA

This picture, taken at the height of the short, but successful revolution in Bolivia, shows a barrier erected by armed students who engaged loyal troops in the streets of La Paz, the capital. Five hundred persons were killed in the fierce fighting which marked the overthrow of the regime of Dr. Hernando Siles. The revolt was started when Dr. Siles resigned as President but, to evade the constitutional law that no Bolivian President may succeed himself, had installed a subservient cabinet to rule in his place.

MOSLEMS TO JOIN GANDHI FOLLOWERS

Conference Decides That As A Last Resort Mass Ac- tion In India Is Justified.

Lucknow, India, July 22.—(AP)—A representative gathering of Moslems here today adopted resolutions expressing gratitude for the "retrograde and reactionary character" of the Simon report, asserting that the disappointing result had cemented the unity of India and had shown that the country's hope lay in mutual adjustments, not in the intervention of a third and interested party.

While holding that the civil disobedience program of Mahatma Gandhi's followers was unconstitutional, the conference decided that as the last resort mass action was justified and that responsibility for forcing the "downtrodden people" to take this method must be laid at the government's door.

Ask Dominion Status. The Moslems also considered that if an honorable settlement based on complete dominion status were offered Indians it should be taken, since there had been sufficient demonstration of a spirit of determined resistance.

Another resolution refuted the government's statement that the Moslems as a community had not participated in the movement for emancipation, and urged Moslems to prove the statement baseless by joining the Gandhi movement in larger numbers. The government has reiterated from time to time that the Moslems in general were not in sympathy with the Gandhi not in sympathy with the traditional enmity between Hindus and the followers of Islam.

To Withdraw Motion. It was decided to advise Abdul Bari, a Moslem legislator, to withdraw at this time his resolution urging independence for the country.

The meeting was in connection with the Nationalist Moslem conference. At the same time active followers of Gandhi held a mass meeting here to bear two prominent Nationalist chiefs, Pandit Malaviya and M. Watal.

The speakers said they doubted that the peace mission undertaken by Sir Tej Bahadur Sapru and M. Jayakar, who intend to visit the imprisoned Gandhi and ask him to bring peace to India, would be successful unless the missionaries had in their pocket the substance of independence and not the shadow.

HOOK STILL LOST

Rangoon, Burma, July 22.—(AP)—The party which was searching the Burmese jungles for Eric Hook, missing British flier returned here today. They reported that no trace of the aviator had been found. Hook and James Matthews were flying from England to Australia when their plane crashed between Akyak and Rangoon early this month. Matthews was able to leave the wreck and reached Rangoon after wandering in the wild country for some time.

Another expedition, composed entirely of Europeans, will leave Rangoon today for a further search. The first group was made up of natives and a European pilot.

RUSSIAN MUN WHEN QUEZZED ABOUT SOVIETS

Head of Trading Company Faces Charges of Con- tempt—Says He Is Now Allowed to Discuss Poli- tics in U. S.

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Peter A. Bogdanov, president and chairman of the Amtorg Trading Corporation, official purchasing agency for the Soviet government was threatened with charges of contempt today for refusing to answer questions before the special Congressional committee investigating Communist activities in the United States.

Bogdanov was first asked about Amtorg affiliations with the Soviet government and acknowledged that there was Soviet direction of the American corporation through various Russian trade associations.

Verdict Biography. Chairman Hamilton Fish of the committee, then handed him a brief biography of himself which the witness said was correct in all details. It showed that Bogdanov had been engaged in revolutionary and Communist organizations and that he still was a member of the executive committee of the Communist Party in Russia.

"Doesn't every Communist have to help carry out the program of the party?" Representative Fish asked. Bogdanov agreed that this was so.

"And doesn't the party program call for a social revolution and the dictatorship of the proletariat?" Fish asked.

"Yes," said Bogdanov. "This means, first of all, that the capitalist system must be destroyed by force."

"I am prohibited from discussing politics," Bogdanov objected, adding that the Soviet government forbade all persons working in other countries from discussing its policies.

Chairman Fish said that the committee had no objection to the discussion of the Soviet, but Bogdanov still declined to answer on the grounds that trade relations between America and Russia might be jeopardized.

At this point Representative John Nelson, of Maine, introduced the questioning to any committee had authorization from Congress to question witnesses. He suggested that if Bogdanov, continued to decline to answer that he be declared in contempt of the committee.

After a hurried conference with his attorney Bogdanov declined to answer questions. Chairman Fish then asked again if the testimony program did not call for a discussion of capitalist government. Bogdanov replied that he believed that it called for it to be "replaced."

MISSIONARIES SAFE IN CIVIL WAR ZONE

Forty Americans and Brit- ishers Rescued by Party in China—Were Fleeing.

London, July 22.—(AP)—Forty American and British missionaries long stranded in the Chinese war area have been rescued by a party of 100 miles up the Min river. Announcement of the rescue was made officially today.

A message from Beijing, China, on July 18 said that John J. Munro, acting United States Consul at Fochow, had notified the Legation that he was leaving for Nan-king. The dispatch said that the missionaries were making the perilous journey in a launch.

The church men were marooned in an area controlled by Lung Pang, the rebel general, after fleeing Fochow. Both sides in the war promised the consular safe conduct through the fringe lines.

EX-CHAMPION SENTENCED. New Haven, July 22.—(AP)—Fifteen days in jail and a fine of $100 were the penalties meted out today to Thomas Manning, 37, for featherweight champion of Connecticut, when he appeared in court today to face a year old liquor law violation charge.

GUNMEN STEAL LEGAL LIQUOR

Hold Up Employees and Cart Away $80,000 Worth of Rum Used for Making Mince Meat.

Chicago, July 22.—(AP)—The mince meat may seem a little weak next winter. It was made by the robbers who held up employees and cart away $80,000 worth of rum used for the manufacture of mince meat, was stolen last night from the warehouse of Libby, McNeill and Libby in the Union stockyards. The holding of the rum was valued at $80,000.

Seven robbers wearing gas masks, held 14 employees at bay, spent an hour in ransacking the warehouse, then fled with the rum in a truck and escaped after exchanging shots with a special policeman. The robbers apparently had entered the warehouse in mid-afternoon and mingled with the workers until quitting time. They produced pistols, herded the employees into an office and then detailed one of their number to accompany the watchman on his rounds, to make certain that he rang his boxes regularly.

Police described it as the boldest hijacking raid ever conducted here against legitimate industry.

SAVANT TO LABOR AMONG TRIBESMEN

Dr. Rock Plans to Spend Five Years With Natives of the Nashi Tribe.

Hongkong, July 22.—(AP)—Dr. Joseph F. Rock, internationally known botanist working under the auspices of Harvard University and the United States Department of Agriculture, arrived here from America today enroute to the remote city of Lichang where he plans to work five years among the Nashi tribe.

Dr. Rock will proceed to Hanoi, Tongking, and thence by train to Yunnanfu, Yunnan province, where Nashi tribesmen will be awaiting him.

From Yunnanfu he will go to Lichang, which is twenty-five days distant by horseback.

Lichang is situated at the head of a narrow gorge. The Chinese steamer Hailong, which left Hong Kong for Saigon Saturday night with 400 passengers, was seized by pirates but released after being looted.

The passengers were robbed but none had been harmed when the vessel returned to Saigon today. The robbers were seen by the ship's officers and were treated accordingly by the temporary detachment of the police.

The robbers were seen by the ship's officers and were treated accordingly by the temporary detachment of the police.

HARTFORD POLICE PROBE ODD STORY

200 Gamblers Held Up and Robbed of $1,500 by Un- armed Bandits.

Hartford, July 22.—(AP)—Police today were attempting to piece together meager details of a daring robbery early Sunday morning in which 200 patrons of an alleged gambling establishment were held up and robbed of $1,500.

An investigation, immediately launched, disclosed that about $1,500 and $5,000 had been taken, one of the robbers shot in the leg and another stabbed in the hand.

At no time, according to the story obtained by police, did the holdup men display pistols. Another strange phase of the police version of the holdup is that with two of the robbers incapacitated and the third one in flight, no attempt apparently was made by employees of the gambling place to recover the stolen money.

AN INSIDE JOB

Hartford, July 22.—(AP)—Police describe as an inside job the holdup, so-called, of the gambling establishment at the rear of No. 64 Union Place, early Sunday morning, which was followed by the shooting of one bandit by a bullet, the stabbing of another with a pair of scissors, and the flight from Hartford of four or more principals involved on both sides. Detectives declare they have pieced together the story of the job despite a wall of secrecy which kept the holdup dark for over 24 hours, and that they know the identity of the principals.

Got Money Back. That the ring leader of the robbery took about $5,000 from the possession of the gambling proprietor, which was immediately recovered during a scuffle, and that the robber was given back $1,500 of this as cash money to keep the episode quiet, is alleged by the police.

The tactics in which two robbers and two gambling house men went around town after the holdup in search of a physician, has been identified and examined, and the absence of blood in the cab indicates that the two wounded men were not in bad shape.

GRAIN GROWERS MEEZE

St. Louis, Mo., July 22.—(AP)—Representatives of Rumania, Hungary and Yugoslavia met here today to discuss formation of an Agrarian cooperative bloc for the promotion of the interests of grain exporters whose stocks are too heavy.

HOOVER TO SIGN LONDON SEA PACT O. K.'d BY SENATE

It is a Matter of Satisfaction That This Great Accomplishment Has Been Given United Support of Both Political Parties.

Declares President; "Will Mark Long Step Toward Lifting Burden of Militarism From Backs of Man- kind," He Says.

RIOTERS IN EGYPT DEFY THE POLICE

One Killed and Two Wound- ed in Fresh Disorders; Mob Starts Fires.

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—President Hoover said today the London naval treaty approved yesterday by the Senate would secure the full defense of the United States and would dismiss from the minds of the world any idea that this country aimed for imperialistic exploitation.

Asserting the pact, which he will sign today, is a great accomplishment, the Chief Executive said it was a matter of satisfaction that it had been carried through step by step with the co-operation of both political parties.

His Statement. "I shall have the gratification of signing the naval treaty this afternoon at 3 o'clock. It is a matter of satisfaction that this great accomplishment in international relations has at all steps been given united support of both our political parties.

"With the ratification by the other governments the treaty will translate an emotion deep in the hearts of millions of men and women into a practical fact of government and international relations.

"It will remove the faith of the world in the moral forces of good will and patient negotiation as against the blind forces of suspicion and competitive armament. It will secure the full defense of the United States. It will mark a further long step toward lifting the burden of militarism from the backs of mankind and to speed the march forward of world peace. It will lay the foundation upon which further constructive reduction in world armaments may be accomplished in the future.

"We should by this act of willingness to join with others in limiting armament, have diminished from the mind of the world any notion that the United States entertains ideas of aggression, imperial power or exploitation of foreign nations."

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—The London naval treaty today bore the approval of the Senate and awaited ratification by Great Britain and Japan before becoming effective. The treaty was ratified by a vote of 88 to 9 late yesterday and adjournment sine die followed almost at once. The Senate will mark a December for the regular "short session" ending March 4, 1931.

Before approving the treaty the legislators adopted the Morris reservation, setting forth the understanding of the Senate that the pact is not modified in any way by secret documents or agreements extraneous to itself.

This reservation was introduced after President Hoover had signed the pact. It was the means of a saving to American taxpayers.

In particular they objected to the cruiser clauses, asserting these involved a departure from the accepted policy of American naval construction. They argued the pact played an unneeded restriction in 8 inch gun cruisers and authorized construction of a large fleet of 6 inch gun vessels, a type of warship which they said was not suited to the naval needs of the country.

The opponents of the treaty also roundly criticized the administration for twice declining to produce the confidential documents, after requests for them from the Foreign Relations committee and the Senate as a whole.

EMERGENCY ACTION. London, July 22.—(AP)—The House of Commons will discuss today the London naval treaty. The Foreign Secretary, Mr. Simon, will report on the pact to the House this afternoon.

REBEKAHS REMOVE MARKERS ON GRAVES

Adopt Plan of Identifying Deceased With Lodge—To Place Them As Memorial.

Sunset Rebekah Lodge has adopted a plan that might well be followed by every lodge in town, certainly those who are in the habit of placing markers on the graves of their deceased members. The modern cemeteries refuse to permit organizations to so mark the graves, as sometimes when persons are members of several different orders, the work of caring for these markers, removing and replacing them when the grass has to be mowed, entails much work upon the cemetery employees.

ALLING, NO CANDIDATE AMONG TRIBESMEN

New Britain, July 22.—(AP)—Attorney General Benjamin W. Alling will not be a candidate for re-nomination for that office at the Republican state convention in September. He has made this attitude known through an announcement that he would like to be nominated for judge of probate in this district. He has named William H. Judd as his political agent.

FIRE CHIEF IN COURT

Westport, July 22.—(AP)—Firemen may drive fast when on the way to hoses but it was the lot of Chief William Sherwood of the Southport Department yesterday to be haled into court on a charge of violation of the rules of the road on his own business. It looked like a simple windup for the Town Court to impose a fine but before this was done the complainant insisted that Sherwood be charged with reckless driving. He had steered another car. The case was continued.

OFFICER CLUNE DIES

Norwalk, July 22.—(AP)—The unselfish sacrifices of his brother officers having failed of their high purpose, Officer Edward J. Clune, 46, for 18 years a member of the Norwalk police department, died at the Norwalk hospital today. Two blood transfusions, one by Officer Harry Brown on Sunday and a second by Officer Norman Gormley, yesterday, were taken in vain effort to sustain life in the falling policeman.

NEW RULE INVOKED

Middletown, July 22.—(AP)—The ruling of Tobias E. Woodcock, commissioning officer of motor vehicles, giving authority to policemen to take away the licenses of automobile operators was invoked for the first time today.

ON THE ILL WIND

It's an ill wind that blows nobody good, and the slump in our over-fought industrial prosperity is no exception to the rule. Unemployment and a certain measure of economic distress operate to lend some semblance of reasonableness to the position of these alarmists who are perpetually haggard by fear of the "red peril."

There is no denying that discontent is more readily fostered during periods of industrial disturbance and when the lot of the worker has lost some of its appearance of security than at times when everybody has a job and the rewards of the job holder are satisfying to himself and his family.

In every civilized land politicians have long recognized the tactical wisdom of meeting any period of internal distress with a scare. Usually it has taken the form of a rumored invasion, an alarm of impending defensive war.

We do not wish to be understood as insisting that there is no such thing as Communistic agitation in the United States. Of course there is. And we are perfectly willing to believe that it is being instigated, possibly paid for, by the Soviet Union or by the Third International, which amounts to much the same thing.

The reason for our disbelief lies very largely in the quality of American Communistic leadership. This is made up of a type of men and women in whom the average American has not the slightest faith, nor any liking whatever—foreigners to whom the language of this country is an alien tongue, and its social structure a sealed book; who have never assimilated nor even come close to assimilation with the native American and his Nordic relatives; people whose grasping, suspicious and utterly individualistic natures have always repelled the confidence of the ordinary American.

Numerically the field for Communistic proselyting may be large. But in comparison with the whole population it is a small one. And the children of a few of them constitute all there is of Communistic leadership in America, with the exception of a negligible handful of dilettante nuts. And there is no more chance of the American workers accepting such a leadership than there is of their placing themselves at the orders of a group of Apache medicine men.

danger. Thirty thousand reds paraded in New York last May Day. Multiply that number by ten and it would still represent only about one-twentieth of the population of the biggest city in the country and the one most profoundly impregnated by Russian sovietism.

What is it that the redophobes are afraid of? Do they fear that this sour and envy-ridden crowd are going to be accepted by the mass of the American people as their guides to happiness and well-being? Or that they are going, in some magical way, to "seize the government?"

For our part, we firmly believe that a good way to dispose of the nuisance would be to let these people go as far as their courage will take them; if it should carry them to the point of some overt demonstration of considerable size, so much the better, for it would give the people, then, a chance to sweep them out of the country—a chance that would be avidly accepted as sure as there is such a thing as Russian Communism in the world.

ONE WAY OUT

We print today a letter from a citizen who asks if the editor of this newspaper cannot do something to prevent boys from playing ball in the streets. Our correspondent, a motorist, at the time of writing was suffering from the nervous reaction incident upon a narrow escape from killing one of the street ball tossers and appears to have been feeling strongly.

Very gladly would we "do something" about this peculiarly dangerous pastime. If there were anything we could do. But what is there? Perhaps our correspondent could suggest something—though we doubt whether it would be anything effectual.

There would certainly appear to be little excuse for the use of the streets as a ball ground in a place like Manchester, which is not yet so densely built up that there are not plenty of open spaces available to the youngsters for any orderly sport. But if boys will not heed the admonition of their parents against such unnecessarily risky practices they are not in the least likely to pay any attention to anything printed in a newspaper. And if the parents are too indifferent or too inept to prevent their boys from playing in the track of automobiles they are no more likely to be influenced by editorial scoldings than are their reckless sons.

It is scarcely a practicable thing to put in jail every boy who plays in the streets, even if it would insure his physical safety; so where do we get off with all this discussion—save right where we started? Just possibly it might contribute to the diminishment of the risk of automobile killings if drivers would take into consideration such items as the fact that boys—and little girls, too—do rush into the streets at the most inauspicious moments, whether in pursuit of baseballs or merely of freak impulses. And if the driver, since there can be no certainty that children will not appear in the streets ahead of his car, were to employ a speed suited to such a condition.

A car that can always be brought to a stop within a few feet is not likely to kill a child, wether it be a tot strayed from a dooryard or a felder of a juvenile ball nine, chasing a fly into the jaws of death.

Children, like the poor, are always with us; and there is no way that we know of keeping them out of the streets at all times. But there is no necessity of driving a car among them at such a rate of speed that some childish inadvertence will result in a tragedy.

BINGHAM'S ACTION

Our opinion of the opposition in the Senate to the ratification of the London naval treaty, often expressed, is not to be subjected to change merely because Senator Hiram Bingham of this state has seen fit to ally himself with it. If Senator Bingham decided that President Hoover and his entire administration, besides five-sixths of the Senate membership, were wrong, and that Senators Johnson, Moses, McKellar and five others alone were right, and to cast his lot with these off-horses, then the responsibility is his and there is no call for his usual supporters in this state to make excuses for him.

Thousands of Connecticut voters will undoubtedly be profoundly disappointed to find their senior senator in the gallery of the obstructors of the treaty's ratification. Their disappointment will not be lessened by the demonstration of his reasons for voting against the treaty which Senator Bingham made for the benefit of the executive committee of the Connecticut Chamber of Commerce. When that body communicated with Mr. Bingham urging him to support the treaty, he answered with a question as to whether the members of the committee had read the document in question—and whether they considered that Article 21 properly protected the interests of the United States?

It is quite beside the question that this sort of an answer was ill-mannered and indicative of Mr. Bingham's tendency to high-hat his constituents as well as his senatorial associates. The point is that it reveals him in a new light, as one unable to see the forest for the trees.

As a matter of fact neither Article 21 nor any other separate article of the treaty amounts to a hoot in the dark compared to the treaty as a whole. If the pact had ten times as many imperfections as Senator Bingham thinks he has found in it, it should still have been ratified, gladly. We are, and we believe the vast majority of Connecticut people are, chagrined to find one of our senatorial delegates to be of such restricted vision as to split hairs over minutiae and be willing, for the sake of some slight and possibly imaginary insufficiency, to destroy the most important move toward world peace that has been made since the Armistice.

We doubt whether Senator Bingham will find many apologists in Connecticut. Probably he doesn't care greatly whether he does or not. He seems to be satisfied with the consciousness of being about the only person in the state who is profoundly wise.

IN NEW YORK

New York, July 22.—Thanks to the radio, the average householder has not had to worry about music or song; drama is brought into the home in 15-minute pellets and now you don't even have to know how to read. Floyd Gibbons tells you what was in the afternoon newspapers; a couple of gentlemen keep you posted on Washington events; the stations fairly battle to bring the latest sport events to your ears and stories are read to you as the family gathers around the electric fan.

To be sure, no particularly valuable literature is likely to come out of this situation, since the action and suspended interest are the most important ingredients by which an audience is held from one evening to another.

In the big broadcasting stations, I am told that detective thrillers are particularly popular just now, with Thurlow Wade somewhat of a pioneer as air-going Sherlock.

And Thurlow will bring back Arthur B. Reeve, whose Craig Kennedy was a scientific sleuth who, amusingly enough, solved mysteries by radio long before radio was old enough to speak intelligently. The business of writing for the radio is getting to be almost as highly specialized and as profitable as turning out tales for the talkies.

The side rooms of the big stations are crowded with young men pounding out their staccato compositions on typewriters.

And, while talking about radio matters, here are a few side-lights on some of the folk you may not listen to on the air. The state of Maine, so I hear, has been trying to get its wandering boy, Seth Parker, back home for broadcasting purposes. Only the Stein Song has done more to get Maine, and Jonesport in particular, before millions of people. Yet two years ago, they'd have you believe, a young man whose name was then Phillips Lord was going through the usual adventures in near-starvation in this big town while trying to get his chance. He wangled himself into the NBC station and got a chance to broadcast his now famous Jonesport routine.

As a test of his popularity, I am told that some of his songs were placed between covers and before they could be issued some 25,000 copies had been subscribed. Now a second book of sayings, commentaries and songs is, I am informed, being prepared by the Century Company and the road to Jonesport carries signs reading, "The home of Seth Parker." Not bad for a young man in the big city.

Judge, Jr., alias Ray Perkins, alias Old Pepper, was a child pianist, and was responsible for the song hit of some seasons back, "Smiling Irish Eyes," and came to the radio for the second time after a session in Hollywood, during which he did much of the music for "The Show of Shows." . . . Ida Bailey Allen, who used to write of home affairs for the newspapers, has her own broadcasting station—four to be exact—one in her own studio and three scattered about Manhattan's more prominent buildings; she buys her own time from Columbia and broadcasts subjects that range from etiquette to interior decorating. . . . Her concern, which has reached amazing proportions of growth, has something of the flavor of the advertising agency selling space, as it were, to all and sundry whose products are used in the home.

Julia Sanderson, who broadcasts with her not-so-much-better-half remembers when, as a famous movie show prima donna, the late President Taft presented her with a bouquet of orchids. . . . Chic Sale, so they say, gets $1,500 for those 30 minutes he gives the air. . . . Roxy who gets that grand-elegant job with the new "radio center" which John D. Jr., will build in the center of Manhattan, hit New York as a Marine. . . . What his salary will be for this vast undertaking causes much conjecture. . . . His Roxy Chester job was said to bring $2,000, so that $5,000 per week seems like a fair guess. . . . And maybe more. GILBERT SWAN.

WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 22.—It is becoming more or less axiomatic around the capital that nobody's desk is safe.

No sooner does the flurry die down over one case of apparent political espionage and pilfering than someone else reports that his office has been entered and some of his papers messed up or stolen.

The latest victim is Judson King, head of the National Popular Government League, who was collecting persons to be published and used in Nebraska to aid the renomination campaign of Senator George W. Norris.

Senators Suffered, Too. Most such little incidents seem to have some connection with the Senate. About a year ago people began to whisper in your correspondent's ear about the weird feeling on Capitol hill that mysterious forces were at work "getting something on people."

The "spy scare" early this year when senators through their offices were being entered and searched for liquor, the reports of other senators that their desks had been opened during the fight against Judge Parker and the more recent breaks into the office of Senator Hiram Johnson of California, all helped intensify the feeling of resentful apprehension.

This was vividly described by Paul Y. Anderson, correspondent of the Nation, last month as follows: "The first thing the observing visitor is likely to remark in Washington nowadays is the atmosphere of suspicion, distrust and dread which pervades almost every department of the national government. Among officials of all ranks one encounters the same feeling of being watched and plotted against by secret enemies. The fear which emanates from the White House has spread over the capital."

As Ye Sow.—

Records Are Stolen. "Senators' offices are visited at night, and the most intimate correspondence read by a visitor wearing cotton gloves. Important records are reported missing from government archives. Guards are increased and doors that have been unlocked since the Civil War are barred for unexplained reasons. It is like living in a dime novel. When the chief shivers everyone else shakes."

Justifiably or not, people here do get excited about that sort of thing. The Senate went to the trouble and expense of having new and better locks put on its office doors recently and guards were reinforced. Half a dozen senators in all have complained of having their privacy rifled this year, and according to them it's no joke at all.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

PILES OFTEN CAUSE NERVOUSNESS

Piles or hemorrhoids and other such irritations are responsible for much suffering, not only to these local parts, but in the influence these disorders have upon the whole nervous system. There are few parts of the body where the nerves are so sensitive and from which so many reflex pains and irritations can come.

The most common rectal trouble is caused by an enlargement of the veins very much resembling varicose veins. These veins always enlarge through some interference with the normal flow of blood away from the rectum. The veins in this region seem especially liable to enlargement because they do not contain the usual valves which other veins contain to keep the blood from flowing backward.

When the portal circulation to the liver is congested, the rectal veins must enlarge. Such a sluggish portal circulation may be caused by constipation, liver congestion, prolapus of the abdominal organs, the use of strong cathartics, long continued sitting or standing, straining through lifting, accumulation of gas, misplaced uterus or pregnancy.

By far the most important cause of piles is constipation. Those who are forced to strain to produce a bowel movement sooner or later will develop an irritation in this region, and the pressure of impacted feces stops the flow of blood through the veins away from the rectum.

The internal piles probably affect the nervous system more than the external, although they are not so noticeable locally. At first, the internal veins are not visible, but as they grow larger while the bowels move, the piles may come down or protrude. The patient notices a feeling of heat, fullness, burning and stinging, and has the sensation of a foreign body in the rectum. In some cases the first symptom is bleeding which is not excessive. It may become more and more inflamed it may become sore as a boil and cause the patient a great deal of distress.

When the lining is inflamed, rough material in the movement may cause the tender masses to bleed. The patient then has bleeding piles. When toxins accumulate, there may be intense itching. (Tomorrow: THE CURE OF PILES).

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (White Spots on Skin) Question:—Miss M. E. writes: "I have white spots over my neck and arms which have been there since I was thirteen. Can you tell me what caused them, and if there is any way to get rid of them?" Answer: The white spots are caused by a destruction of the skin pigment through a systemic acid-sis which you had when you were thirteen years old. I know of no way to restore this pigment to the spots affected, but you can prevent more from forming if you will live a healthful life, and eat so that you do not have another period of acidosis.

(More Iron in Wheat or Spinach) Question:—K. L. asks: "Is it true there is more iron in whole wheat than in spinach or any other vegetable, and is it as easily assimilated?" Answer: Whole wheat contains 3 parts of iron a 1000 parts of dry substance, whereas, spinach contains 6.07 parts of iron a 1000 parts of dry substance. So far as can be judged from ordinary tests, there is no difference in the assimilability of the iron in different foods.

(Salt Water in Morning) Question:—Reader writes: "Upon arising in the morning I have been taking a teaspoonful of salt in a quart of lukewarm water. Is this harmful?" Answer: I do not recommend that you use salt to such an extent as you write about, although it does have the effect on your bowels. Try balancing your diet with enough green vegetables to give your intestines the necessary bulk, and I am sure you will not need any kind of cathartic or laxative.

(Graham Crackers Starchy) Question:—Mrs. B. asks: "Are graham crackers a good combination for breakfast?" Answer: Milk and orange juice is a good combination for breakfast, or to be taken in place of any other meal of the day, but graham crackers or other starchy foods should not be used with the orange-milk combination.

Growing Popularity of Beach Resorts Accounts for Development in Small Exchanges.

The growing popularity and the seasonal growth in population of the summer places along the Connecticut shore of Long Island Sound is well illustrated by the telephone development in small places during the past month or six weeks and while the small exchanges of the Southern New England Telephone company, through which the beach resorts are given service, have grown largely it is interesting to note that telephone development in the cities has been practically at a standstill since the summer season opened.

Once again the State will present for their Wednesday night attraction, an all-talking movietone picture, "What Price Glory," Victor MacLaglen and Edmund Lowe in "The Cockeyed World." The further adventures of two virile, red-blooded he-man Marines, Flagg and Quirt of unforgettable "What Price Glory" full of daring and venture, they conflict over women, three in particular the underlying note, the eternal battle of man for maid—the everlasting struggle of a soldier for a sweetheart. It is a story teeming with human drama, rippling with song and instrumental numbers—a supreme talking picture.

The writers, Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson, have again cast these popular roughneck Leathernecks in a sparkling story of the Russians and Director Raoul Walsh of "What Price Glory" fame has outdone himself in producing an ace-high attraction. Lila Damu is "The fire of France" plays "Elenita" the girl of the tropics superbly, and there is a surprise in store for all when she sings, "Elenita" a special song number. Others in the supporting cast are: Lella Karmally, as a beautiful Russian girl, Ed Brandel, the "Swede" Marie, Jean Bary, Joe Brown, Stuart Erwin, Erving Linow the great Russian wrestler and many others.

The picture was filmed in the Mare Island Navy Yard, the Marine base at San Diego, aboard the U. S. S. Henderson and in Hollywood. It is said to be the masterpiece of the director who filmed "In Old Arizona."

The Manchester Merchants, co-operating with the State Theater management have instituted what they have seen fit to call a "SUR-

PRIZE NIGHT" tomorrow night, giving in honor of the occasion, surprise values in furniture, wearing apparel, sport goods and auto accessories. Manchester merchants co-operating in the State Theater-Merchants Night are: The Manchester Electric Co., Watkins Brothers, Marlow's, The Stuart Shop, Glenney's, The Manchester Plumbing and Supply Co., Kemp's Inc., Williams Inc., The May Jewelry Co., The Bergen and Berman Battery Co.

"The Cockeyed World" is the story of an outfit of Marines in Russia, in which "Flagg" and "Quirt" are to be found, reduced in rank due to the peace-time ranking, but nevertheless as keen in their battles for womankind. The outfit is called home to the States but not before there is an affair in the Boar's Head Inn and a race for the attentions of Olga later in her apartment. Flagg and Quirt saw-saw in popularity with the Russian beauty until Sano-vitch, the Russian wrestler throws Quirt into the middle of the inn floor. The outfit leaves for the States.

Later, in the tropics, the irresistible pair have many a battle over "Elenita" a tropical beauty of beauties. She finally ditches both of them for her Revolutionary sweetie, just out of jail. The revolutionists gather, and Quirt is down with fever. Flagg asks to call everything off, and Quirt agrees with the stipulation that it don't go if he gets better. A brief but bloody engagement results. Among the casualties is Connor, so happy just a few hours before. He dies with the song, "So Dear to Me," on his lips. And once more the transport and home with Flagg and Quirt still fighting, as we leave them.

BOY STONED TO DEATH

Coffeyville, Kas., July 22.—(AP)—Carlisle Cullison, 10, and his brother, Isaac, 8, yesterday confessed they had stoned to death their cousin, Donald Fox, 8, and thrown his body into the Verdigris river. Police had questioned them after the battered body was recovered.

The boys said they had engaged in a rock fight during which Donald was knocked down, struck in the head with another stone, and his body carried to the river and tossed in.

DANCING JUDITH

By CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN
COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Judith Grant, artist's model, loves Alan Steyne, who is also loved by Chummy Morley, her best friend. Chummy had loved Steyne years ago and had lost her memory when he went away. She thought she loved Judith, Judith insists it is her duty to marry Chummy, who regains her memory when she sees him again. Judith studies dancing and makes a sensation in a musical show backed by Richard Wynn. Chummy, on the eve of her marriage, learns that Judith and Steyne love each other and breaks her engagement; but Judith refuses to marry Steyne, insisting he belongs to Chummy. Then Judith learns that Wynn is merely an agent for rich Bruce Gideon, a financier who is infatuated with her. She vows to save money and repay Gideon so that people will not think she is under obligations to him. Bartien Dumont, an artist, also in love with Judith, tells her Gideon's intentions are not honorable.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXXV

Bastien was thrown into a fever pitch of excitement, the next day, by receiving an invitation to lunch with Judy, who was staying at a mid-town hotel.

"Oh, Bastien! Oh, Bastien!" she cried, when he was shown into one of the public rooms.

She was the same Judy. These months of intoxicating success had not changed her. The glitter of Paris, the warmth and scents of the Riviera, the glamour of Rome, the insidious sweetness of Naples—nothing had changed her.

And she was so glad to see him! Her Bastien, her dear, dear Bastien, her best friend, her oldest friend, the one person in the world on whom she could always rely! She smiled her flashing smile, and her pansy eyes glowed at him, misty with emotion like wet purple flowers. Her lovely mouth laughed and laughed, and her little hands drummed on the tablecloth in excitement.

Dumont was translated into heaven. He reveled in happiness for more than an hour, and then common sense forced him down to earth again with a bump.

"Judy, everybody is dying to see you," he said. "We must have an evening."

"Yes, of course we must, Bastien." Then her face fell. "Do you know that I have been here for a week, and have called on Chummy three times and she has never been here? I left word each time, but she's never been near me. Oh, Bastien, I do feel it so! Can I have offended Chummy? I've written to her—sent her a lot of cards while I was away, only you know I'm pretty bad at writing."

"Her housekeeper's a stupid creature," he said. "Probably she didn't receive your messages."

"You said Chummy was well," Judy went on eagerly; "but you haven't told me anything about her. Do tell me everything! I must get hold of her today. I'll put everything else off. I'll simply go and camp on her staircase. Of course, she might not have got my messages." Her voice sank, and she looked at him a little fearfully. "Bastien, has she heard from Mr. Steyne?"

"Oh, yes, she sees a great deal of him," Dumont replied.

"He's back, then?"

"Oh, yes, he's back."

"Bastien—Judy's voice trembled—"have they—do you think—"

"You mean, have they made it up, Judy?" he asked. "Well, there's nothing been said that I know of, but certainly they're always together. I know you always thought it was only a squabble."

"So he really has come back, and she's seen how silly she was! Oh, I'm so glad—I'm so glad!"

"I tell you, Judy, there's nothing been said about it. They may only be friends."

"Oh, no, Bastien—I'm sure it's all right! I always knew it would be!"

Judy and Dumont went off together. It was strange and unreal to see the waiters and the manager bowing before the great dancer—all those men in their black and white, with their dark heads and pale foreign faces, bowing deferentially before little Judy Grant.

Judy was entranced with her friend's studio. She had acquired some beautiful pieces of furniture and some wonderful old blue Persian pottery. One big bowl, filled with yellow lilies, was a joy.

At four o'clock Steyne came in. It appeared that Chummy had promised to go to a picture gallery with him. Instead, she made tea, and Judy and Bastien stayed.

Judy greeted Alan cordially. He was just a little more distant than he used to be. The difference was barely perceptible, and might have been put down to his absence in that distant country and to her increasing fame.

They talked. Judy asked after everybody. She planned a dinner party and an evening together, with all the boys and Clara Jenks. They would dine at Giori's and end up at the Cafe Turc.

Bastien, her faithful attendant, left with her when she went. She shook hands with Alan. Just for a second their eyes met. Hers were smiling bravely, consciously. His were dark with something that looked like ineffable reproach.

Quickly she ran down the stairs, as if from danger. She knew that Alan still loved her but he was behaving as he ought to. He had returned to Chummy. Evidently he saw that it was his duty. It was all coming out right. All that Judy had to do was to keep it up until Chummy and Alan had finally come together and were married.

Afterward—well, no need to think about that.

"Judy, why are you friends with Gideon again?" asked Bastien, as they walked back to her hotel.

"Oh," she said airily. "I changed my mind. After all, he did it out of kindness. And I'm paying him back, every penny."

"People say you are going to marry him," he went on.

"Do they?" she asked scoffingly. "People always know such a lot, don't they, Bastien?"

"Oh," Judy," he said, with his eyes fixed on her face in burning appeal. "I do wish—"

But she held up her little gloved hand and stopped his further speech.

"Dear Bastien," she said. "I love you very much indeed. You are my dearest friend, but I can't let you interfere with my life, or—"

After that he could say no more. He had never seen Judy so serious. There was something implacable about her. She was almost frightened him.

Madame De Toros and Judy stood together in a large and sumptuously furnished spare bedroom in Bruce Gideon's apartment. It was about half past 11 on the night of the same day. They had removed their wraps and were powdering their faces and tidying their hair.

Gideon's sister, immaculately neat and severely smart, was en gale. She wore a big, pearl-tipped crown and ropes of pearls, and looked very ugly and distinguished. It had been a great night at the opera, with many notable men and women present. Judy and Gideon had been to see a new ballet done by a troupe of mixed nationalities, which had turned out a dead failure.

Judy's warm heart had bled for their disappointment, and she had tried to make up for the chill of the audience by vigorous applause which had rendered her very conspicuous and made Gideon laugh unkindly. She could not bear to see anybody fall.

Now they had met for supper, and Judy was telling Madame de Toros all about the poor, discredited ballet troupe.

"You have a kind heart," said Gideon's sister, with her rather bitter frown and will have nothing to do with it. By the way, Miss Grant, I want to ask you a question. Why did my brother break off his engagement with Luna Colt?"

"Can't say, I'm sure," Judy replied, giving her bright head an extra toss. "Why do you ask me?"

"Because I have an idea that you know."

"Why don't you ask your brother?"

"I have asked him, but he won't tell me. Of course I know that officially Luna broke it off. She hasn't sued him for breach of promise; but—I just wonder. Everybody knows she hasn't a penny, and her father is on the brink of bankruptcy."

"That is too bad," said Judy demurely.

Madame De Toros smiled pleasantly.

"You are very amusing, Miss Grant," she said frankly. There was something very nice about her frankness. "I am fond of you. I've heard so much about you. I've heard that he's been your shadow during the last three months."

"He's turned up at the places where I've been dancing," said Judy. "He's given me some very nice times. In Naples he hired a small yacht. It was great fun. You see, he takes an interest in my career."

"You are delightful," retorted Gideon's sister, with unaffected enjoyment; "but, I have heard other things. I have heard that you are going to marry him."

"Oh, have you?"

Madame de Toros' dark eyes were a little malicious.

"I have heard that, if you don't marry him, you ought to."

A flame leaped into Judy's eyes. "Where did you hear that, please?"

"Only tonight, from a perfect stranger—somebody who was talking about you and Bruce in the next box at the opera."

"Thanks for telling me!"

"You are angry?"

Judy shifted the shoulder strap of her gown.

"Oh, no," she said. "I suppose one gets talked about."

"It's the penalty of fame, Miss Grant."

"I suppose so."

"But, if I thought perhaps you would tell me."

"There's nothing to tell that I know of. I'm ready—are you?"

The older woman accepted the offhand question that she might easily have taken amiss.

"Quite ready," she said.

The Supremacy of Cottons

For Summer Wardrobe

Smart set enthusiastically endorse cotton frocks for sports, afternoon and evening wear.

There is a real treat in store for you. If you haven't already seen these new cotton weaves on display in the smart shops patronized by women of good taste.

The dress I'm offering uses a cotton printed batiste.

The big jabot collar and spauld shoulders are distinctly smart features. The skirt has the low-flared flounce. The tight hipline emphasizes the higher waistline and slight all-around blousing of bodice.

Style No. 600 comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 22, 24, 26 and 28 inches bust.

The medium size requires 3 3-8 yards of 36-inch material with 1 1-4 yards of binding.

Fat silk crepe in pastel shade is effective with fagoting along seams of sleeves, upper edge of skirt flounce and along edge of collar and sleeves.

Printed sheer lawn, polka-dotted cotton voile and printed chiffon are very lovely ideas.

Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

Oliver Wendell Holmes said to live long one must select parents who have lived long. Statistics accumulated by several investigators indicate that people with long-lived parents have an average life of two or three years longer than those with parents who have not lived long.

On the average, the death rate of people whose parents lived long is nearly 20 per cent less than those of people whose parents lived for shorter intervals, and in some cases 30 per cent less. These facts are true, notwithstanding the fact that people whose parents died young are usually selected much more carefully before they are granted insurance, and consequently these people constitute better life insurance risks.

The increased life expectancy varied from 2 1/2 years additional at the age of 25 to at least one year additional even at the age of 60. While the influence of heredity is considerable so far as it relates to longevity, the statistics show that under modern conditions, the effects of environment are still far more important than merely good heredity.

By the improvement of death rates from infant mortality and infectious diseases, life expectancy was advanced by more than 20 years during the last 50 years. It is still quite true that a person who lives in dirty surroundings and who is not careful as to the food and water supply and his personal hygiene has a much lower life expectancy than one who has some knowledge of hygiene and who lives in a community where sanitary conditions are excellent.

Given the same chance to avoid infectious disease and accident as the person with good heredity, from the point of view of longev-

HAVE YOU HEARD?

You can bring a bit of outdoor summer's cheer into your indoor kitchen life if you have some growing thing in a colorful container. Sweet potato vine, ivy or Wandering Jew requires little attention.

and will quite compensate you for the trouble of adding a bit of water to the container every now and then.

Especially attractive are some of the inexpensive glass bowls that hang by chains from a swinging hook. They come in cornucopia design, in round shape or modernistic triangular. All you need is water and a stalk of some vine that roots in water.

APPETIZING FILLERS

For the center filling of summer cakes, why not use fresh fruit? Children love banana cake and they will like just as much red raspberry, strawberry, peach, apricot, orange or any other fruit for a center filler. You can use whipped cream or custard for the top or serve it sprinkled with powdered sugar.

EASY APPLICATION

When using salve on sunburn stand the tube or jar in warm water until the salve softens. It can be applied more easily and will hurt the victim less.

THREE FABRICS

A smart suit for mid-summer has a white flannel skirt with a gray pin-stripe, a white handkerchief linen blouse and a gray coat, pin-striped in white.

YOUR CHILDREN

Don't do these things in hot weather. They are bad habits younger children keep driving themselves along.

Don't overfeed the children or give them heavy foods to eat. They do not need a lot of starches and sugar. Both are heat-producing substances and the body needs little of that in summer. Save them for winter. Children can do with little meat on hot days. Chicken, fish and lamb or a little beef occasionally are best. Fruit is good but watch out for cherries had new apples. Too much is plenty and both are better cooked—without too much sugar. Fresh vegetables and milk should be the staple part of the diet. The vegetables should be boiled, not too long, and never dosed up with strong fats, or fried. Raw vegetables such as lettuce, grated carrots, celery and shredded cabbage for older children, are good. All raw vegetables should be served without rich dressings and chafed thoroughly and slowly. Some children have inhibitions for certain vegetables and fruits. If they disagree with them, stop them. Another thing, age enters as a factor. Ask the doctor about feeding younger children raw vegetables and fruits. All fruit, of course, must be ripe.

Peril in Ice Water

Don't allow the children to drink large tumblers of ice-water at a gulp. Cold water should be swallowed slowly. It should never be ice cold. Bottles with stoppers or corks should be set in the refrigerator to cool. That is cold enough for children, as indeed it is for grown-ups.

Don't allow the children to play in the sun all day without hats. Heads need protection from the sun's rays on hot summer days. And don't allow them to play all day until they are cross and nervous. Bring them indoors for periods of rest and quiet in a darkened cool room even if they don't sleep. Have them lie down and relax without even a picture book. Little children twice a day, older ones once a day. By older children I mean up to ten or twelve. Children older than that need rest periods too, but their own judgment usually comes to their rescue. They will rest when

Don't try to do everything yourself and let the children have a perpetual circus. Teach them how to make their own beds, pick up their toys and straighten up their own rooms, before they go out to play. Give each child a special list of things he can do in an hour each morning right after breakfast. Errands should be run before the sun gets hot. At six years of age there are many small tasks a child can do about the house.

Don't allow the children to burn the rubbish or to have picnic fires.

Don't give them picnic lunches of indigestible foods. Sandwiches, fruit and milk or perhaps some plain cookies are enough.

Keep the house darkened and cool. Tell the children not to shout or slam screen doors. Noise is a nerve smasher and leads to mental and body fatigue.

Watch changes of temperature at night. A blanket slipped over small beds in the chill of the early morning saves many a case of summer complaint. For change of temperature is as much responsible for upsets as errors in diet.

MONOGRAMMED UNDIES

Squares of lace, with your monogram worked in them, are the latest decoration for underwear. If you like, you may have your name embroidered in small letters across one side of gowns or slips and at the left side of panties.

NAME DOTS

Your newest hankies may have your name colorfully worked in very fine letters inside little circles which make polka dots.

Primo Carnera Must Join Italian Army Now

Career As A Boxer Has Ended; Six Months Extension By Mussolini Has Expired.

Omaha, Neb., July 22.—(AP)—The Italian Army has ended the American tour of Primo Carnera, the vast box office fighter from Venice.

Frank Poccasi, business manager for the Italian heavyweight, said last night Carnera had received a summons to return forthwith to his native shores to serve out a year in uniform. Poccasi disclosed that a six months extension of the date on which Primo was to enter the army, granted by Mussolini himself, had expired.

The big boy's business manager proposed an end to Carnera's career in the ring. "After a year in the Italian Army," Poccasi said, "Carnera won't be worth a darn. This is final curtains for Primo's career."

Omaha, Neb., July 22.—(AP)—Primo Carnera, Italian boxer, and his French manager, Leon See, have been ordered by Washington immigration officials to vacate American shores immediately.

Frank Poccasi, business manager for the pair, stated here last night Poccasi revealed the contents of a telegram forwarded here by See and Carnera from Byron H. Uhl, assistant commander of Ellis island, N. Y., informing the pair that immigration officials had denied their request for a six months extension of their legal stay in the United States, which terminated recently.

Whipping two world title-holders within a space of five months would furnish a fighter sufficient impetus to push him to the topmost peak of the game, but it only makes Young Corbett III just another Elk.

When Jackie Fields ruled the 147-pound division, he was a champion. He was a champion who drew down $25,000 to fight Young Corbett III, who won handily and was content with his $10,000 end from Promoter Art Hoffman.

But when he came in with Young Jack Thompson, who drew down $20,000 and who didn't win a round from the plodding left hander, Corbett had reason to squawk as his purse of $7500 was counted.

STURGEON BEATS DAVE MCKONKEY IN GREAT GAME

Pirates Top Red Sox 2-0 But Each Team Makes Only Two Hits, Game Thursday.

"Bingo" Sturgeon bested Dave McConkey in a pitcher's battle at the West Side last night by score 2-0 for the Pirates over the Red Sox. Both boys pitched wondrously all evening, only two hits apiece during the entire game.

In the second inning Hadden got hold of one of Sturgeon's fast ones, with Fraser on first and drove it out to the tree for two bases. Fraser turned third to go home, but thought it better to play safe and held third. "Pop" Eagleson hit to Sturgeon for the final out and the Red Sox lost their last chance for a score. In the seventh Sam Massey started things off with a single, but the next three men popped up and Massey died on first.

Red Sox (9) M. Moriarty, 2b, 3 0 0 0 2 0 D. McConkey, p, 3 0 0 0 0 0

Pirates (2) Raynor, lf, 3 1 0 0 0 0 W. Holland, ss, 2 0 0 0 2 0

Score by innings: 000 002 0-2 Pirates. Two base hits, Holland; left on bases Red Sox 4; Pirates 4; base on balls off McConkey 1; struck out by McConkey 8; Sturgeon 3; umpire Dwyer.

The lucky star right above Al Singer's star, which Al says brought him from a $40 to a $40,000 fighter in two years, looked like one minute and 40 seconds.

Singer isn't superstitious; he walks under ladders, kicks the cat out of his way and enters his ring first. But that birth mark is his lucky star.

A headline the other day said "Daughter Triumphs Over Mother in Golf Final." Wasn't that old song "Everybody Wasn't But Father's?"

Then there was the fellow who, commenting on Gallant Fox, said: "Not many young men have $100,000 come independently wealthy at the early age of three."

Our cup defenders, Westlake, Enterprise, Yankee and Whitwold, can't sail without a breeze; with one they break down. It seems spunkiness would warrant a good padding.

MCDONALD IN FRISCO

San Francisco, July 22.—(AP)—The fourteenth anniversary of the Preparedness Day bombing which killed ten persons and sent Thomas J. Mooney and Warren K. Billings to prison, found the chief witness against them with an opportunity to recant before Governor C. C. Young.

Governor Young, who recently denied pardon to Mooney and Billings, announced he would "be glad to discuss the case" with J. MacDonald, the witness who has made an affidavit he was coerced to identify the two men as the ones he saw plant the bomb.

After making his affidavit in Baltimore, MacDonald came to San Francisco to reiterate it before the governor and the justices of the Supreme Court, who agreed to hear Billings' new application for executive clemency.

The court recently gave Governor Young an advisory opinion unfavorable to the pardon.

MAIL PILOT KILLED

Huron, O., July 22.—(AP)—William Frederick Martin, 26, of Bay City, Mich., flying the air mail from Cleveland to Pontiac, Mich., was killed instantly today in the crash of his plane two miles west of here.

The crash is believed to have occurred about 4:30 a. m., the plane fell on the farm of George Beatty, who said he heard a crash at that hour but disregarded it. An hour later when he went into the field he discovered the plane. The body was crushed in the cockpit.

Jack Parker, manager of an air field at Sandusky, who accompanied Coroner A. Grierson, said he believed Martin had dumped his gasoline as he fell, to prevent the mail from burning.

Fog and rain are believed to have caused the accident.

MONSTER POULTRY SHOW

London, July 22.—(AP)—Seven thousand specimens of poultry from 23 countries, including the United States and Canada, went on exhibit in the Crystal Palace today.

At the same time delegates from 60 nations convened under the same roof for the Fourth World Poultry Congress.

The Congress, which was opened by the Duke of York this afternoon, is under the patronage of the royal family and was organized by the ministry of agriculture at the request of the poultry industry of the British Isles, the object being to provide facilities for interchange of scientific and practical knowledge in poultry raising.

The honorary chairman is Dr. Morley Jull of the United States and two American exhibits have attracted much attention.

Wall Street Briefs

New York, July 22.—(AP)—World lead production in June totaled 100,841 short tons, compared with 157,270 in May and 153,770 in April, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reports.

The total sugar melt of 15 United States refineries from January 1 to July 17 was 2,578,600 long tons, compared with 2,770,000 tons in the corresponding period last year. Deliveries amounted to 2,360,000 long tons, compared with 2,525,000 in the like 1935 period.

Utilities, Power & Light Corp. and Thuefing Gas Co. of Germany have formed a new holding company for European public utility companies, with the co-operation of the Chase National Bank and the Deutsche Bank. The initial capital is 20,000,000 marks.

Offering is expected soon of $30,000,000 Texas Electric Service Co. first and refunding 5 per cent. bonds due in 1960.

Preliminary figures show that 203,568 tons of flaxseed were crushed in the second quarter this year all products compared with 278,933 tons crushed and 187,018,538 pounds of oil produced in the like period last year.

SERIOUS BATTLE IN CHINA NEAR

Shanghai, July 22.—(AP)—Maneuvers foreshadowing a decisive battle between Nationalist and Northern rebel armies in Shanghai were reported today in dispatches from both factions.

The belligerents seemingly were destined to clash along the Tientsin-Pukow railway near Tsai, Shanghai, and the outcome may determine the fate of the Nationalist attempt to blast the rebels out of the province.

Nationalists yesterday indicated they planned to put 100,000 more men on the Shanghai and Homan fronts in addition to the 250,000 government troops already there.

Northern troops today said they were massing 90,000 men near Tsai in addition to their heavy forces near Yenchow to the southwest.

Armies equal in size

Nationalist troops in that area were believed to number about 75,000 which would make the opposing armies somewhere near equal in size.

Nanking military authorities said Chiang Kai-shek, Nationalist generalissimo, had issued general orders for an advance on Tsai, rebel held capital of Shantung. Northern reports said Yen Hsi-Shan, head of the rebel coalition, had arrived at Tientsin and the command against the Nationalist drive.

Other northern reports said the Kuomintang (People's Army) had been hammering at Nationalist positions along the Hsichow-Tankow railway. The rebels also asserted Liu Chen-Nien, Chafow war lord, had sent 16,000 troops to their aid.

Although detailed advices were lacking, suffering among the opposing forces was believed intense because of the extreme heat which has gripped central China. The temperature has been varying from 100 to 110 degrees.

CAMPBELL IS ACCUSED

Washington, July 22.—(AP)—A warrant charging him with the murder of Mary Baker was issued today against Herbert M. Campbell, Virginia real estate man, owner of the gun with which police believe Miss Baker was killed.

The girl's body was found stuffed into a culvert near Arlington National cemetery on April 12.

Campbell stoutly maintained he did not kill the young government clerk but police said he told them the gun in question never had left his possession.

WOMAN RECOVERING

Moncton, N. E., July 22.—(AP)—Mrs. Dolly Nestor was recovering rapidly today from bullet wounds in the thigh and arm inflicted by her husband, Wilbur, who also shot and killed Mrs. Nestor's mother and killed himself.

An inquest into the deaths of Mrs. Etta Fitzsimmons, the dead woman, said Wilbur was postponed yesterday until today so Mrs. Nestor might testify.

MEXICAN PLAN FAILURE

Mexico City, July 22.—(AP)—Carleton Beals, American authority on Latin-American political and economic questions, today pronounced the Mexican agrarian revolution "a colossal failure."

This assertion was made during an address before the fifth annual session of the seminar in Mexico, held by the committee on cultural relations with Latin America.

Mr. Beals, who spoke on "The balance sheet of the Mexican revolution," declared that seven million peasants in Mexico had been thrust off the haciendas without having been provided the proper means of earning a decent livelihood.

"The communal system of landholding which has been resuscitated in Mexico is a failure," he said. "It never received sufficient of proper lands; second, because they lack the means, equipment, and knowledge to cultivate even what they have properly; and finally, because it represents a primitive village system based upon the production of maize and beans for local self support and therefore runs counter to the national needs and to modern industrial tendencies."

Even ex-President Calles, once champion of the agrarian movement, has admitted that the system has been a failure.

WANTS SUBSTITUTE

London, July 22.—(AP)—Viscount D'Abernon, chairman of the wartime liquor control board, today told the Royal commission on licensing that the world greatly needs a substitute for alcohol as a beverage.

The viscount told the Royal commission, which is investigating the liquor question in Great Britain, "in the event of the fact that alcohol does not, as it is not a true stimulant and that the result it brings is not exempt from disagreeable and injurious reaction. I continue to believe in the eventual concoction of some preferable substitute."

"A vast fortune," the witness asserted, "would reward the discoverer, upon whom also would descend the gratitude of humanity."

The beverage would have to be something attractive to the palate and would have to appeal to the drinkers more than liquor did at present, he added.

Miss Marguerite Reardon of 15 Foles street, Hartford, has returned home after paying a visit to her cousin, W. C. Mulcahy.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bancroft spent the week-end in Bridgeport.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hudson and friends of Springfield left for a vacation today by taking a trip along the shores of Maine and other points of interest.

George Ruoff is the owner of a new Ford coupe.

Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Malory of Hartford left Sunday for a two weeks trip to Pleasant View, R. I., stopping at the Wig-Wam. Mrs. Malory was formerly Miss Bessie Mulcahy of this place.

ENDURANCE PLANE UP

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., July 22.—(AP)—The "Red" endurance plane entered today on its second day in the air without its "Green" rivals which landed last night. Two refueling contacts were made this morning.

The "Red" plane is manned by Louis Reichers and Robert J. Black, Army reserve pilots. The "Green" plane, which came down when Tex Andin was overcome by heat, is expected to take to the air again today with a new co-pilot for Jack Charleson.

SHOWERS BREAK UP HEAT WAVE IN N. E.

One Man Killed by Bolt and Several Fires Are Started by Lightning.

Boston, July 22.—(AP)—Thunder showers over New England last night after a day marked by extreme heat in Connecticut and western Massachusetts; killed one man and set numerous fires. More showers were predicted for today.

Louis Swett, 50, Arlington, was struck by bolt on Baker's Island, Salem, while sitting in a living room, and failed to recover. His wife and daughter were stunned. During the storm at Reading, two-year-old Donald Marcott fell from a third-story window and was fatally injured.

Eight boys were burned, one seriously, by a bolt at Manchester, N. H., and Mrs. Edith Knagton, 47, Auburn, received severe body burns from a bolt which entered her home.

The temperature here was 98 when the storm struck. Five minutes later it was 87.

BLOCK IN SUBWAY

New York, July 22.—(AP)—Thousands of subway riders reached their destinations by roundabout routes today while wreckers strove to cut away a derailed car that blocked the west side tube of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company at the Wall street station.

A local train was proceeding toward Brooklyn shortly after 3 a. m. (E. S. T.) when a split switch caused the derailment. The second car of the train fell on its side against two concrete pillars and the first car was wedged against another pillar across the tracks.

Only a few passengers were on the train and they were led back to Wall street platform through the four cars remaining on the rails. One woman suffered slight bruises.

THE TINYMITES

As Cloway tasted of the soup, he jumped and let out one loud whoop. "Why, what's the matter?" Scouty cried. "Your tongue was burned, I'll bet." Poor Cloway snapped, "You bet it was. That first taste startled me because it was too hot. I'll wait a while. Then cool I'm sure 'twill get."

The other Tynies waited, too, which was the real wise thing to do. And then they all enjoyed the soup, with crackers on the side. No single mouthful went to waste, 'cause it was cooked to proper taste. Said Coppy, "I feel great now. That's the best soup I have tried."

They thanked the soup-man for his treat and then they sauntered down the street. "Twas getting toward the dusk of day and nearing time to sleep. The Travel Man said, "Well, let's hike to a hotel I think you'll like. The beds are soft and all night long I know you'll never sleep."

VEGETABLE INSPECTION DELAYS AUTOMOBILES

Flowers: Confiscated, Corn, Beans, Beets, Celery and Rhubarb Are Keenly Inspected.

Manchester people going through to Hartford with vegetables and flowers in their automobiles are experiencing some delay because of the state agricultural department's inspection stations located at each western exit of the town. The inspectors are trying to prevent the spread of several devastating vegetable and flower diseases.

Those vegetables liable to inspection are corn, beans in the pod, beets with tops, celery and rhubarb. Flowers that are forbidden to pass through the area are asters, zinnias, chrysanthemums, cosmos and gladiolus. The vegetables are given a rigid inspection and those found bearing signs of disease are confiscated.

Wholesalers are not allowed to take corn through under any consideration. Wholesalers of vegetables other than corn may secure permits to sell in the restricted area by applying to T. Cannon, 225 Trumbull street, Hartford, Conn.

That a traffic cop was almost necessary outside a Bolton beer resort Saturday night, business was so good. One car bearing an out-of-the-state marker got into trouble blocking the road. Fortunately it is said there were plenty of helpers to right the machine again so that the rest could proceed.

That a couple here in Manchester are planning an endurance contest that will be different. Fiddle players, tree sitters, bike riders and long distance dancers have become so common that this couple will strive for the lasting endurance record. If they could find a store window available they might even entertain conducting the contest in public.

That, even though bathing is prohibited in the large Globe Hollow reservoir, a number of boys have a favorite shady beach of their own directly opposite the Manchester Country Club. . . . and that these same boys don't bother with the formality of bathing suits. . . . also, that said boys know the wooded territory on the side of the pond so well that catching them is a most difficult assignment.

That there is a possibility of a new mill being opened in Stafford will mean source of employment for many of the Manchester persons now out of work.

That Manchester's baseball teams could attract a lot more of interest by playing each other than out of town teams, most of which prove unsatisfactory.

That many of those who hoped to get through the season with the old bathing suit were forced to buy a new one during the past few days.

That the past few days have been very hard on invalids and bed-ridden folk in town. The hospital has also felt the effect of the unusual heat.

That the little boy or man is again busy with his birthday jack-knife on the Center Park benches. On one bench the slats are nearly ruined. This industrious whittler should be given an axe and sent up to Birch mountain where he can get his fill of wood cutting.

That violent objections to the powers sought for the State Police in connection with the traffic ordinance in the state are being voiced in town.

That a big dent in the available ice supply was made over the week end.

That the only niche that "old dobin" seems to have cinched for all time is towing the mowing machine. At least, a motor-towed mowing machine is a rare sight.

HEAT DOESN'T DRIVE CROWDS TO PARKS

Manchester's Cool Spots Deserted On Night When Relief Is Sought By Everyone.

Hot nights in Manchester don't drive residents here to the parks to find relief. It was difficult to find a cool spot anywhere last evening, but Center Park and Center Springs Park were delightful all evening. However, a chance check-up disclosed that only about six people used the parks as a resting spot for more than a casual few moments during the evening. The swimming holes got their usual big quota early in the evening and later breezes by automobile seemed to be most popular.

DESCRIBES WORK IN BIG HOSPITAL

Former Local Physician, Dr. A. B. Moran, Now At Johns Hopkins, Baltimore

Dr. A. B. Moran, former local physician, now making a special study of orthopedics at Johns Hopkins hospital, Baltimore, Md., has written The Herald a letter telling of the marvelous treatments that are being given crippled children at the famous institution. His letter, in part follows:

Things here are working out beautifully for me. Since my departure from Manchester, I have had the pleasure and good fortune of working under the direct supervision of Dr. William S. Baer and Geo. Bennett. At this writing I am located at the Childrens Hospital school or as it is known here, Bears Hospital. There is a continued abundance of material in the hospital which gives one the privilege of caring for every phase of orthopedic surgery. We have been doing a tremendous amount of work in the time it is put into the wound would be labor indeed. This I'll avoid as I know you're not interested. But I will tell you that the results are most gratifying.

All the men here with whom I have found associations are just fine and are most eager to teach they can. Believe me, I know I owe them a tremendous debt. Along with my work here I am at Johns-Hopkins hospital, both in the dispensary and the operating room. You can imagine the proportions of the Hopkins dispensary when I tell you that in the orthopedic department alone an average of about twenty-one hundred cases are cared for monthly, exclusive of fracture cases. The average number of fracture cases is about 350 to 450 per month.

Frankly I have been given every opportunity since coming here and I'm glad and proud to say that in Dr. Baer and Bennett I have gained the acquaintance of two of the greatest orthopedic surgeons in the world, and what an honor it is to work with them.

Their work is simply marvelous. Truly it is hard to understand how human hands become so remarkably clever. And how these little tuckers here, crippled and deformed as they are, do worship them. And well they may, for it has been the hands of these two men who have transformed so many of them during years past from apparently hopeless cripples to boys and girls who will grow up to manhood and womanhood, useful to themselves and every one else, with every privilege to go out into the world to pursue the occupation of their choice. The one great thing we cannot console ourselves to, is that these men cannot go on forever, that they too must stop.

Yours,
 DR. A. B. MORAN,

RAIN GIVES TEMPORARY RELIEF HERE FROM HEAT

Mercury Soared to Century Mark Yesterday — Starts Climbing Again Today.

With the mercury soaring until it was close to the century mark, Manchester experienced one of the hottest days of the year yesterday. Relief came during the night when rain started falling. Although the sky was still cloudy, the storm abated during the morning hours today and the temperature began another climb upward.

Inquiry this morning brought the information that close to 2,500 bathed at Globe Hollow yesterday. Last night another large throng numbering close to a thousand was present. It seemed that three out of every four automobiles that passed down Main street between six and eight o'clock, was loaded with men, women and children dressed in bathing suits on the way to relief from the heat.

Dilworth-Cornell Unit To Take Part In Parade In Connection With State Convention.

The Fifte, Drum and Bugle Corps, of Dilworth Cornell Post, American Legion, will take part in the parade at Bridgeport Saturday in connection with the state convention of the Legion. The local bandmen will wear their trim blue and white uniforms and "tin hats." The trip will be made by automobiles leaving the state armory here at 10 o'clock Saturday morning. Those intending to make the trip should plan to meet at the Hotel Strathfield, Bridgeport at 1:30 in the afternoon. Several delegates from the local post and its auxiliary will attend the convention and take part in the parade.

EAST SIDE WINS

PET SHOW A PART OF BIG PROGRAM

Rockville-Manchester Affair To Start With Unique Show In Afternoon.

The Pet Show, first of a series of Wednesday afternoon activities to be held at the West Side Playgrounds during the summer season, will be conducted tomorrow in conjunction with the Rockville-Manchester Night program which includes a band concert and athletic competition. The Pet Show each year attracts a large gathering of women and children, especially the latter. Mothers come to watch the proceedings and to take care of their children. Dogs and cats usually outnumber all other kinds of pets, but some of the children are very fond of little Mexican turtles. Others bring rabbits. Some used to bring flies in milk bottles hoping to win the prize for the smallest pet, but the judges outwitted them last year by wisely ruling that flies were pests rather than pets.

The classification of the Pet Show this year is much different than in other years. Instead of the smallest, largest, prettiest and cutest pets there will be prizes for the most unusual pet, pet with the longest ears, boy or girl with the largest number of pets and the most attractive pet. The parade is scheduled to get under way promptly at 2 o'clock. Competent judges will be in charge. In the evening the stage will be cleared for a much different type of entertainment in the nature of a two hour band concert, baseball game, tennis match, horse shoe pitching contest and volley ball game.
