FIGHT OPENS FOR CONTROL OF CONGRESS

Leading Spokesmen of Republican and Democratic Parties Give Their Views on Contest in November.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The battle for control of Congress was on in earnest today with leading spokesmen of the Republican and Democratic parties recording their views of the general issues on which the contest is to be decided at the November election.

Joseph Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National executive committee, placed the Democratic side before the House in a radio address last night in which the administration was charged with errors both of omission and commission. An immediate defense and counter-attack was issued for the form by the press by John Q. Tilson of Connecticut, Republican floor leader in the House. Robert H. Lucas, executive director of the Republican National committee already was on record with condemnation of the Democratic position.

Shouse's attack centered on the tariff bill, farm relief and business depression. President Hoover, in the speech, was made to share responsibility with Congress for the tariff taken by the tariff bill. He was singled out also for individual criticism in connection with farm relief legislation adopted and for failure to check in advance the depression which set in last fall.

Tilson termed the Democratic speech "an amazing collection of half truths, misstatements, abuse and criticism."

Shouse, said Tilson "failed to suggest a cure for a single thing he criticized. Instead of offering constructive program as his listeners had every right to expect him to do at this time, he presented the regrettable spectacle of the at least verbal leader of a political party literally gloating over the economic distress of the country."

Political Overthrow
The Democratic leader asserted the people of the country "are arising to a political overthrow—that may assure the proportions of a cataclysm."

Tilson replied that the overthrow of the Republican party would be a calamity, because the party "a definite well considered administrative and legislative program which it is carrying forward to completion, despite the determined obstructive tactics of the Democrats."

Shouse said farm products had declined in price steadily since passage of the Farm Act; he contrasted the Hoover 1928 campaign speeches as promises of prosperity under Republican rule with the unemployment and depressed business obtaining within the year. He blamed the President for not warning against speculation while secretary of commerce and president-elect. Conceding that after the crash Mr. Hoover "did perhaps all any man could to try to effect an adjustment of conditions".

TOBACCO PLANTERS NEED OUTSIDE AID

Can Get No Federal Help Unless They Form a Co-operative Organization.

Hartford, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Several plans for financing their 1931 crop today were before the tobacco growers of the Connecticut valley whose crops have been ruined by a series of hail and rain storms.

Agricultural leaders and state officials who met here yesterday to discuss relief measures were agreed that outside aid for the tobacco growers of the hill-torn area was a necessity. No single plan of action, however, resulted from the meeting.

Sums Up Situation
Benj. L. Hass, president of the L. B. Hass & Co., Inc., dean of Connecticut leaf tobacco dealers in summing up the situation said "The tobacco growers must have some outside help as they were not able in most cases to continue carrying their burden without some substantial financial assistance."

Formation of a cooperative was suggested as a plan to make the growers eligible for a loan from the Federal Farm Board. In a formal statement yesterday those attending the conference pointed out that Federal aid could not be expected unless such cooperative association was formed.

The Reduction
Albert Newfield, chairman of the Board of the Connecticut Tobacco Company, suggested a reduction in the internal revenue tax on cigars. A third plan advanced, one resorted to last year when hail caused $2,000,000 damage to the tobacco crop, was that the growers be financed by cigar manufacturers and packers.

AMERICAN BUYS ANCIENT BIBLE

Gutenberg Book is Over 400 Years Old and Brings Big Price—Goes to Congressional Library.

Klagenfurt, Austria, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The so-called "42-Lined" Gutenberg Bible, which for 400 years has been in possession of the Saint Blasius monastery at St. Paul, Klagenfurt, today was reported sold to Dr. Otto Vollbehr of New York City.

The Bible was handed to the purchaser at the United States Legation in Vienna, Aug. 16. It was believed here that the Bible will be passed on to the Congressional Library at Washington with a collection of first prints for a considerable sum.

Johannes Gutenberg was the inventor of the printing press. He lived at Mainz and Strasbourg, 1400-1468.

HARTFORD YOUTHS LOCATED IN WILDS

Out of Touch With Relatives and Friends for 20 Days in Canada.

Sloux Lookout, Ont., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Out of communication with relatives and friends for 20 days, Roger and Bruce Manterach, school boys of a wealthy Hartford, Conn., resident who journeyed to the north country for a holiday of adventures, were safe today at Lake Kapikik, 150 miles from here.

Guides, sent out to check a food cache which had been prepared for the brothers and their guide, returned Saturday with the news that the boys had never reached it and immediately airmen, forestry patrols, trappers and prospectors were asked to look for the party.

Boys Are Safe
Just as a special searching party had been organized a radio message was received from Pilot Harvey of the Ontario forestry air service, saying the tourists were safe. The youths had taken a side trip which threw them out of communication with their courier and gave rise to the fear that they had met with mishap.

Roger, who is 13, and his brother, 16, will start the return journey to Sloux Lookout immediately.

SHERIFF IS KILLED NEAR TORRINGTON

Auto Driven by Deputy Judge Overtakes—Driver Unhurt, Held for Hearing.

Torrington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Deputy Sheriff J. Malcolm Palmer was almost instantly killed at about 2:30 o'clock this morning when the car in which he was riding left the road and overturned near the Two-Mile bridge on the Thomaston-Torrington road. His head was crushed between the top of the car and the ground, he evidently attempted to jump from the car. Fred Miles, deputy judge of the Torrington City Court, driver of the machine, was ordered to appear in the Thomaston court this noon for a preliminary hearing. He was uninjured.

The car was being driven from Thomaston to Torrington and after it traveled around a curve north of the bridge it swerved from the extreme right to the extreme left of the road, crashed down a five-foot embankment and turned on to its right side, coming to a stop toward north. The driver lost control when the vehicle ran into a soft shoulder at the right side of the road. The car was not badly damaged.

Judge Miles, at a preliminary hearing held at the Thomaston Court room this noon, was charged

Our Women Are Copycats Says French Cosmetics

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The difference between American and French women, says Louis Clement, is that the former try to copy each other while the latter try to be themselves.

And Clement, a New York and Paris cosmetics attending the convention of the American Association of Cosmetics and Hair Artists, believes the French woman is right.

Only a blonde turned gray can risk white powder and fish is almost as dangerous, Clement said, for it makes the nose purple. Green powder is excellent for women with high coloring but no rouge should be used.

EUROPEAN FLYERS TO COMPETE IN U. S.

LIGHT BEAMS TO BECOME MAN'S GREATEST HELPER

Sound Beams That Cannot Be Heard Now Being Used for Communication Between Ships on the Ocean.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Beams of light, used for centuries by man only as weapon against darkness are destined to lift great burdens from the shoulders of mankind in the industrial real. Keith Kenney, told the Institute of Radio Engineers today.

Kenney, associate editor of "Electronics," said astounding performances in manufacturing, with beams of light and electrons playing the principal roles, will come through development of the use of the electron or vacuum tube and the photoelectric cell, delicate mechanisms which make possible both radio and sound motion pictures.

Already light rays controlling photo electric cells are doing important jobs in industry and science, Mr. Kenney said, and vacuum tubes which measure thickness, noise, pressure and vibration are being widely used in the field of transportation.

MOB IN SOUTHLAND HANGS YOUNG BLACK

Tarboro, N. C., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Oliver Moore, 29-year-old negro, charged with criminally assaulting two small white girls, was lynched near here early today.

Moore was taken from the Edgecombe county jail shortly after midnight by a mob of 200 masked men who placed him in one of 50 waiting automobiles, took him to his home just across the county line to Wilson county and hanged him to a tree. The mob riddled the body with bullets and then quietly dispersed.

Moore was being held in the county jail pending his trial at the September term of court.

Deputy R. O. Watson had retired for the night when he heard a voice calling him early today. Believing it to be an officer with a prisoner,

EDDIE SCHNEIDER MAKES NEW RECORD

Jersey City Boy Cuts Over Four Hours From Mark Set by Goldsborough.

Los Angeles, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A slight 18-year-old Jersey City youth, Eddie Schneider, today held the junior record for the fastest westward crossing of the United States.

Landing at the municipal airport at dusk yesterday, the young flyer completed his transcontinental crossing in a total flying time of 29 hours, 41 minutes, just four hours, 22 minutes less than was required by the former record holder, the late Frank Goldsborough of New York.

Leaving Albuquerque, N. M., yesterday morning, he stopped at Holbrook, Ariz., for fuel at noon, taking off shortly afterward for Los Angeles.

At Ontario, near his goal, he encountered fog and landed for weather reports.

Loses His Bearings
Assured visibility was good over Los Angeles, he took off again, but lost his bearings before he cleared the mountains and landed at Long Beach Municipal Airport.

Uncertain where he was, the young flyer asked an airport attendant and was told he was at "the Municipal Airport." The answer led Schneider to believe he had reached his destination. Several minutes later he discovered his error.

On reaching Los Angeles Municipal Airport Schneider took no chances of making a similar mistake. To fifty enthusiasts who ran out to meet him he shouted: "Hey, I want to know before I cut off my motor, is this the Los Angeles Municipal Airport?"

Receiving an affirmative answer, Schneider got out of his plane. He said later he was undecided when he would start back in an effort to beat the eastward record of 28 hours and 18 minutes, also set by Goldsborough.

OVERCROWDING CALLED CAUSE OF JAIL RIOT

Prison Prober Says Idleness Also is to Blame for Prison Trouble—New Type of Convict is Behind Bars.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—William W. Grant, Denver attorney, told the criminal law section of the American Bar Association today that idleness and overcrowding of convicts and the evolution of a new type of criminal were responsible for prison riots.

Grant, chairman of a committee appointed by Gov. William H. Adams to investigate the Colorado prison outbreak a year ago, described the old time criminal as "one who took his medicine, who served his sentence often in idleness, occasionally on the rock pile, and who submitted to ill treatment in poor quarters. He regarded it as part of the game."

The new type of criminal, Grant said, was not only different in himself but "infects the rest of the prison population with discontent, resentment against any kind of discipline and an unscrupulous disregard for the rights, feelings and obligations of the rest of the world, that so far as I know, has never been duplicated in prison history."

The latest of immediate interest to a convict, Grant said, were where he was to live, what he was to eat and what work he was to do and what opportunity for recreation was afforded.

In the Colorado state prison the attorney said, there are 5,000 men, 680 men, in which more than 800 live.

Nowhere, Grant said, is the maximum "the devil finds mischief for idle hands to do" so true as in the penitentiary.

Not Enough Work
"In practically all of the institutions at which riots have taken place, there has not been sufficient work to keep inmates busy. The routine jobs necessary to the operation require the attention of about 10 per cent of the inmates. The rest are idle, generally with insufficient opportunity for wholesome recreation. The vicious double cell to which first timers are often assigned in company with hardened repeat offenders, operates as a perfect school for crime."

"As a result," Grant said, "when the convict comes out he is the highest type of undesirable in present society."

COP, CITY EDITOR MIXED IN SCANDAL

Two More Named Who Received Money From Jack Zuta, Chicago Gangster.

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The chief of police of Evanston and the city editor of the Chicago Daily News were added today to the list of persons who had financial dealings with the slain gang leader, Jack Zuta.

Investigators for the state attorney's office, delving through the records in Zuta's secret safe deposit box, found the names "Bill Freeman" and "John Craig."

They called in William O. Freeman, who has for three years been head of the police department in the wealthy north shore suburb. Confronted with a letter asking Zuta for $400, Freeman admitted borrowing that amount from the vice overlord. He said he had offered to repay the money, but never did.

City Editor Called
Investigators called in John Craig, city editor of the News, and he identified his signature on an uncancelled check for $50.

Craig told of being accommodated

ASKS '98 VETERANS TO BACK NAVY PLAN

Captain Makes Plea to Spanish War Veterans at Annual Convention.

Philadelphia, Aug. 19.—(AP)—A plea for support of the Navy's building program was made today before the 32nd annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans as the "Boys of '98" gathered at their headquarters in preparation for the military parade later in the afternoon.

Captain W. C. Watts, of the Philadelphia Navy Yard and who for two years was in command of the U. S. S. Colorado, was the speaker. He sketched the progress of naval affairs from the time of the doughy old Olympia, Admiral Dewey's flagship, to the present. He urged the veterans to support the building program of the Navy, declaring its importance could not be overestimated.

Making Progress
"In the period since the Spanish-American war," said Captain Watts, "the Navy has progressed in rapid strides, and its building program, to be shortly announced, will be an opportunity to build a navy on a sound, comprehensive basis."

"I know that you Spanish War veterans believe in an adequate Navy as a part of the preparedness to which you have dedicated this day, and I hope you will use your individual efforts to support the

PASSENGERS TELL OF EXPERIENCES ON SINKING SHIP

Rescue Vessel Reaches Scene in South Pacific Just in Nick of Time—Were Waiting Three Days Before Help Arrived—Ship Disappears in Ocean as Mail is Being Taken Off by Sailors.

Wellington, N. Z., Aug. 19.—(AP)—First stories from passengers of the ill-fated Pacific passenger liner Tahiti reaching here today from Pago Pago indicated that masterly seamanship on the part of the captains of both the Tahiti and the rescue ship Ventura prevented an appalling disaster.

Twice before the Ventura arrived, when there seemed no hope of rescue at hand, the Tahiti's captain gave orders to the passengers to take to the lifeboats.

Could Not Assist
All aboard the Tahiti were grateful for what appeared to be their deliverance when the freighter Fenbyrn hove above the horizon and made her way to a point near the distressed Tahiti. But although she stood by and was willing to do all possible to succor the disabled and sinking craft, the Fenbyrn lacked equipment to transfer the Tahiti's company.

Fear ruled the Tahiti for three days but throughout their harrowing experience the passengers were orderly and obedient to the dictates of wiser minds. When the great good fortune of rescue came to them the women passengers first were transferred, then the men and finally the crew.

Tahiti Sinks
When all hands were aboard the Ventura an attempt was made to save the vast quantities of mail in her holds.

With some of the bags already taken off, ship's boats were returned for more when the Tahiti hunched and took another roll.

The waves swept over her bows, which failed to rise again from beneath the water. Then the doomed liner straightened on an even keel. Her stern rose and she disappeared in a boiling white whirlpool.

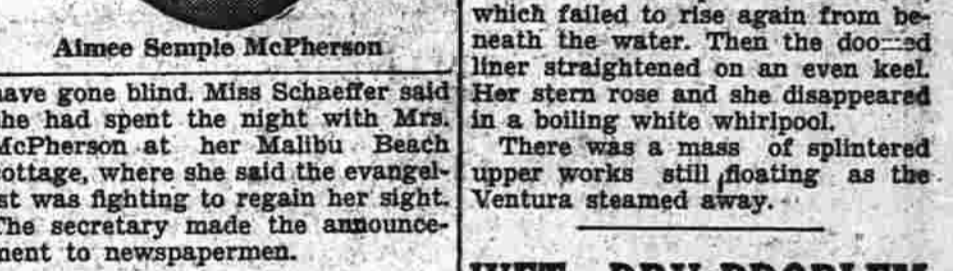

There was a mass of splintered upper works still floating as the Ventura steamed away.

WAR DECORATIONS WET-DRY PROBLEM ILLINOIS ISSUE

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Faced with a shower of measures providing for the award of decorations to veterans of the World War, a House committee has decided to formulate a policy for disposing of this legislation.

Present law set a five-year period for the award of medals for World War heroism and the War Department is opposed to any extension of the time.

A board of awards and decorations composed of Army men has been at work on the individual cases brought to its attention, but friends of the veterans fear many may be passed up in the short time available. The pressure has led to attempt at Congressional action.

Hearings on the subject, it appeared today, would be initiated soon after the December session of Congress begins.

Shaw Wants Doomed Men Allowed To Kill Selves

London, Aug. 19.—(AP)—George Bernard Shaw today went Dean Inge of St. Paul's one better in endorsing the suggestion of yesterday that it might be a good thing to permit condemned murderers to commit suicide. Their opportunities for self-destruction should, in fact, be facilitated, the Irish writer and commentator declared.

"Every condemned man," said the dramatist without flinching an eyelid, "should have a collection of poisons and chemicals put in his way and if he chooses to use them, he left the sentence suggestively unfulfilled but went on: "I think a condemned man should be told that on a certain day he would be hanged and if by that day he was not dead, having been provided with every possible convenience for committing suicide, he would have to suffer execution."

Shaw declared he always felt deeply obliged to a condemned killer who committed suicide, "because he saves a great deal of trouble and expense."

BETTER FURNISHED HOMES DEMANDED

National Style Show Will Teach People How Best to Choose Furniture.

The American people are demanding better furnished homes and are getting them, according to Mr. Watkins, chairman of the committee for the National Home Furnishings Style Show to be held here the week of September 26 to October 4.

"The Style Show which is sponsored by the manufacturers and retailers of home furnishings," Mr. Watkins said, "is an educational event and has been planned in response to a demand on the part of the American people for an authentic display of the latest and best in home furnishings."

"Every woman and every man wants the home in which they live to represent them to their friends, just as their clothes indicate their taste and preference in fashion. The National Home Furnishings Style Show, which is being held in every city in the United States, has been planned to help these women and men bring the interiors of their homes up to date."

"The old idea of thinking home is home, no matter how it looks or how uncomfortable its furnishings are, won't do any more. There are too many outside attractions to take everyone, especially young people, from the home. It must be interesting and as conveniently furnished as possible to compete with other demands for time and attention."

"The American people have always been comfort-loving and are now beginning to demand that their homes be both beautiful and livable. The manufacturers and retailers of home furnishings have realized this and they have planned this Style Show with the overall purpose of helping the American people realize their desire for more beautiful homes."

"There has never before been so interesting, so instructive and so dramatic a presentation of home furnishings as the people of Manchester will see this fall when the furniture merchants here put on this Style Show. Cooperative efforts are making possible this important event and in all probability it will become an annual affair."

URGES STERILIZATION OF MENTAL DEFECTIVES

Chicago, Aug. 19.—(AP)—The medico-legal committee of the American Bar Association, in its report presented to the criminal law section today, said the coroner holds "an anomalous place in the administration of our law."

"No doubt the coroner has served, and is still serving, a useful purpose," the committee said. "Scientific medicine, however, was not known when the office was established. Today, science if given an opportunity has much to contribute to the problems which come to that office."

"The committee, headed by Dean A. J. Harbo, of the University of Illinois Law School, further reported that the "sterilization of mental defectives is worthy of study but so-called reformers have made it unpopular for investigation at the present time."

"The report added however that there appears to be no convincing evidence that sterilization of criminals is likely to produce substantial results."

INSANE MAN FLEES JAIL IN TERRYVILLE

Terryville, Conn., Aug. 19.—(AP)—Firemen joined with police today in a search for William Queor, 37, who escaped from the town jail yesterday after being bound over to the Superior Court on a charge of criminally assaulting a woman.

Police believe Queor who is married and the father of four children, is demented and expressed concern for the safety of Terryville residents if Queor were not captured.

The man was held for the Superior Court yesterday after an alleged assault on Mrs. Doris Welton. He was lodged in the town jail pending his transfer to the Litchfield county jail.

Following his escape police say he went home.

He was last seen in a wooded section of the town.

(Continued from Page One.) — by Zuta when he wanted a check cashed at an atm. After a month or so I noticed the check did not come through the bank, so I inquired about it from Zuta, Craig related. "He said the matter was a) right. I replied that I did not do business in that way, and I gave him the cash."

"I asked for my check and he said he had torn it up."

Investigators said they had been told by the bank on which the check was drawn that Craig never had an account there. He explained that the account was in his wife's name but that the bank had honored checks he had signed.

Zuta, one of the leaders of the Moran-Aliello gang faction, was shot and killed in a Michigan dance hall August 1. Among persons whose names are said to have appeared in Zuta's correspondence are Judge J. W. SEC. HYDE TO HEAD RELIEF COMMITTEE

Work Now Under Way to Help Farmers and Others in Drought Areas.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Secretary Hyde was appointed by President Hoover today as chairman of the National drought relief committee.

The head of the Agricultural Department has already moved to assure that farmers will get the benefit of reductions made on freight shipments of grain in various sections, having instructed county agents in affected regions to watch and report on the situation. The National Relief committee is to coordinate federal activities for cooperation with the groups being set up in stricken states.

Feed Movement. The movement of feed for livestock into drought-stricken areas will receive immediate attention. The Agricultural Department agents have been charged by Mr. Hyde to look to the interests of the farmer in watching application of the reduced shipping rates.

Other members of the National committee will be Chairman Legge of the Federal Farm Board; John Barton Payne, chairman of the American Red Cross; R. H. Ashton, president of the American Railway Association; Ogden Mills, under secretary of the Treasury, and Henry M. Robinson, president of the First National Bank of Los Angeles.

President Hoover announced the Hyde appointment, saying approximately 300 counties were now embraced within the drought region where conditions are regarded by relief officials as serious. The real burden confronting the stricken farmers, he said, was not expected to be reached before next winter.

His statement said latest reports continue to show the drought was severe and that ratings had improved conditions only in non-acute areas.

"Continuing reports confirm the severity of the situation and the inevitability of distress over the winter in the acutely affected counties, which now apparently number 300," Mr. Hoover said.

"The rains of the last few days have stemmed the spread of the drought and greatly improved the situation outside of the acutely affected areas. In those areas the destruction of crops has proceeded to a point that is beyond any great degree of recovery, although pasturage should improve."

Worse This Winter "It must be borne in mind that from a relief point of view the burden of the problem in the acute area will show very much more vividly over the winter than at the present moment."

"I have received from all sections of the drought area high appreciation of the railroads for their prompt and constructive action. It is a notable act of courageous cooperation and has been undertaken in the face of seriously reduced incomes due to the depression. It emphasizes the public interest of maintaining the strength and financial stability of our railroads that they shall be able to co-operate in times of national difficulty."

"In order that there may be no failure to cover any case of distress pending the time when the states have completed their detailed organization, the Red Cross has given instructions to all their country agencies to take care of the situation."

House observed that "history is apt to record that he locked the barn door after the horse was stolen."

He said President Hoover could have checked the tariff "raid" at any time during the long period the revision was under Congressional consideration but had failed to speak the word which would have corrected the intolerable features of this unholly and excuseless piece of legislation.

Pointing to Shouse's assertion that the Democrats would endeavor to respond to the people's "cries of desperation" for relief from present conditions, Wilson challenged the opposition leaders to show how they would "endeavor to respond."

"Will a sympathetic and understanding ear cure the ills of which Mr. Shouse complains?" he said "if so, how?"

"These are pertinent questions to which the voters certainly have the right to answer in this campaign."

One fact to keep in mind these are times that a small roll is often better than a loaf.

SAYS WALES' ACCENT NOT SAME AS KING'S

Cambridge, Eng.—(AP)—The Prince of Wales does not speak the king's English, in the opinion of F. G. Blandford, British authority on pronunciation. In a lecture at Cambridge University he said:

"The prince and the king do not talk the same type of English. An analysis of the Prince of Wales' pronunciation gives evidence of a very particular change, yet the social environment and the outlook on life of the king and the prince are the same."

"I think the ideal accent is one that betrays neither your mother's birthplace nor your father's income."

BRITISH UNEMPLOYMENT TO BE CAMPAIGN ISSUE

London, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Well informed political circles assure that Tory politicians are preparing a heavy campaign against Ramsay MacDonald, Labor government, being their chief talking point on the failure to solve unemployment.

With 2,000,000 workless clamoring for relief, the Conservative leaders are understood to be planning to strike while unrest is high. The present figures break all previous British records on unemployment and word has been passed around Conservative strongholds to try to force a general election before the tide turns.

Next month will see the beginning of the Tory bombardment and when Parliament reassembles October 28, all parties are likely to be prepared for a vitri division.

A general election coming at such a time probably would cause postponement of the round table conference on India.

TUESDAY, AUGUST 19.

STORM RELIEF

The problem of relief for the stricken tobacco growers of the Connecticut area seems to be beyond the imagination of those business men, financiers and public officials logically concerned with its solution. There appears to be no hope of federal aid because such aid must be extended through co-operative market associations, and the experience of Connecticut tobacco planters in that direction has been such that they flee from the idea as being almost if not quite as bad as the hail itself. Bankers point out that it is legally impossible for them to extend credits sufficient in the circumstances to people who are at least theoretically bankrupt.

THE OLD BALLYHOO

Sensible people are not likely to pay much attention to the promise of Harvey F. Firestone that the present slump in business will soon be succeeded by "greater prosperity than America has known in ten years."

This country has had enough of business booms predicated on "confidence." We are paying right now a fairly bitter price for the latest of such disturbances—for they are nothing but disturbances.

NEW CHICAGO RACKET

From the Chicago point of view there would appear to be possibilities in the hospital racket as operated by "Dr." Robert E. Parks, automobile mechanic by day and president and head "surgeon" of the "Desplains Emergency Hospital" in the Windy City by night.

What "Dr." Parks knew about hospitals and surgery he learned while a trusty in a prison sickward. What he knew about charging fees he probably learned at the same time that he picked up the tricks that got him into jail.

STOCKEL AS GOVERNOR

Political commentators in this state who anticipate opposition to the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor Ernest E. Rogers for the governorship, basing their expectation on the dryness of the lieutenant-governor, have usually taken it for granted that the one alternative to Mr. Rogers as the Republican candidate was the present incumbent, Governor Trumbull. Now, however, the name of Motor Vehicles Commissioner Robbins B. Stockel is introduced as a possibility in case Governor Trumbull cannot be induced to run again.

WOMEN IN PULPIT

London—A petition to admit women to the ministry of the Church of England is being considered by the Conference of Bishops which recently met at Lambeth. This movement is nothing new, as women preachers are known all over the country. But their acceptance by the religious heads is somewhat vague, and it is expected that official approval will come out of the conference.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. A. F. C. writes: "I am writing you in the interest of a little boy who is almost deaf. One specialist claims that his ear drums have not developed. Also, what would cause his extremely heavy breathing? Please give us some advice about deafness?"

Answer: Deafness is usually caused by some catarrhal condition or an obstruction of the eustachian tube by enlarged tonsils or inflammation. If the little boy's deafness is caused by the ear drums not developing, it is possible that artificial ear drums could be used. A catarrhal condition is probably the more responsible for his heavy breathing. I suggest that he be given several short acid fruit fasts, being given a well balanced diet without much starchy food between the fasting periods.

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, Aug. 19.—The last Congress passed 2991 large pages of laws which required 467 pages of indexing. If you look at the Statutes at Large of the Seventieth Congress you will get the idea that it passed a law about nearly everything. The index shows such subjects as acoustics, Adams street (NE Washington), dourine, garbage, screws, breads, X-rays and Zonis.

HANDICAPPED

We are always learning something from the New Haven Journal-Courier. The latest thing we have learned is that Prof. Irving Fisher of Yale, who endorses the proposed nine-dollar-a-week old age pension law, is "unchallenged in his prestige as an economist."

We didn't know that at all. We even had the impression that the fag-end of what prestige Professor Fisher had as an economist faded out toward the end of 1929 when, a very few days before the eruption of the Wall street volcano and the total grand smash of the stock market, he announced that nothing could or should prevent shares of stock from keeping on going up.

Health and Diet Advice

By DR. FRANK MCCOY

DANGEROUS PERITONITIS

After a series of meals the abdominal organs are rounded; during a fast they are flat. If you push them around under the X-ray you will find that they have an astonishing capacity for movement and yet they stay in place. Did you ever wonder what holds them in their adjustable position? They are held in position by the peritoneal membrane, a smooth, strong, serous membrane act as "guy ropes" to walls by covering most of the internal organs, and the folds of this membrane acts as "guy ropes" to suspend the organs. The movement of the organs over each other and against the wall of the abdomen is made smooth by a serous fluid which lies between the two layers of this lining and acts as a lubricant.

London—(AP)—London newspapers foresee "skyscrapers" here as a result of recommendation of the building committee of the London County Council, that the limit be raised twenty feet from the present restriction keeping heights at 80 feet.

QUOTATIONS

"Never since the reign of Charles II have we been rendered so dependent on the good will of foreign nations."
—Winston Churchill of England.

"Death to art comes through the hatchet, the scissors or the blue pencil, applied from the outside."
—Carl E. Milliken, secretary of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors.

"A master blow would be struck at the bootlegger if church members would stop drinking."
—Governor John G. Pollard of Virginia.

"The morality of a great writer is not the morality he teaches, but the morality he takes for granted."
—Gilbert K. Chesterton.

"There are traces of jazz in many of the so-called classical compositions."
—George Gershwin, music composer.

"People in this world waste a tremendous amount—the French less than the English, and the English less than the Americans."
—Rev. W. E. Inge, London's "Gloomy Dean."

"Self-possession is the backbone of authority."
—Richard Halliburton.

One of the enigmas of the present generation is that in spite of the prevalence of soap box orators, dirty politics still persist.

REBEGARS STRIKE

Shanghai beggars are the last persons in the world to be expected to strike, but the mob in this city recently got their hands together and decided to strike for three meals a day. It is the habit to serve two meals a day in this free in this city. They did a lot of damage to property before. Chinese police put a stop to their riot. They are still on the two-meal diet.

STOCKEL AS GOVERNOR

Political commentators in this state who anticipate opposition to the nomination of Lieutenant-Governor Ernest E. Rogers for the governorship, basing their expectation on the dryness of the lieutenant-governor, have usually taken it for granted that the one alternative to Mr. Rogers as the Republican candidate was the present incumbent, Governor Trumbull. Now, however, the name of Motor Vehicles Commissioner Robbins B. Stockel is introduced as a possibility in case Governor Trumbull cannot be induced to run again.

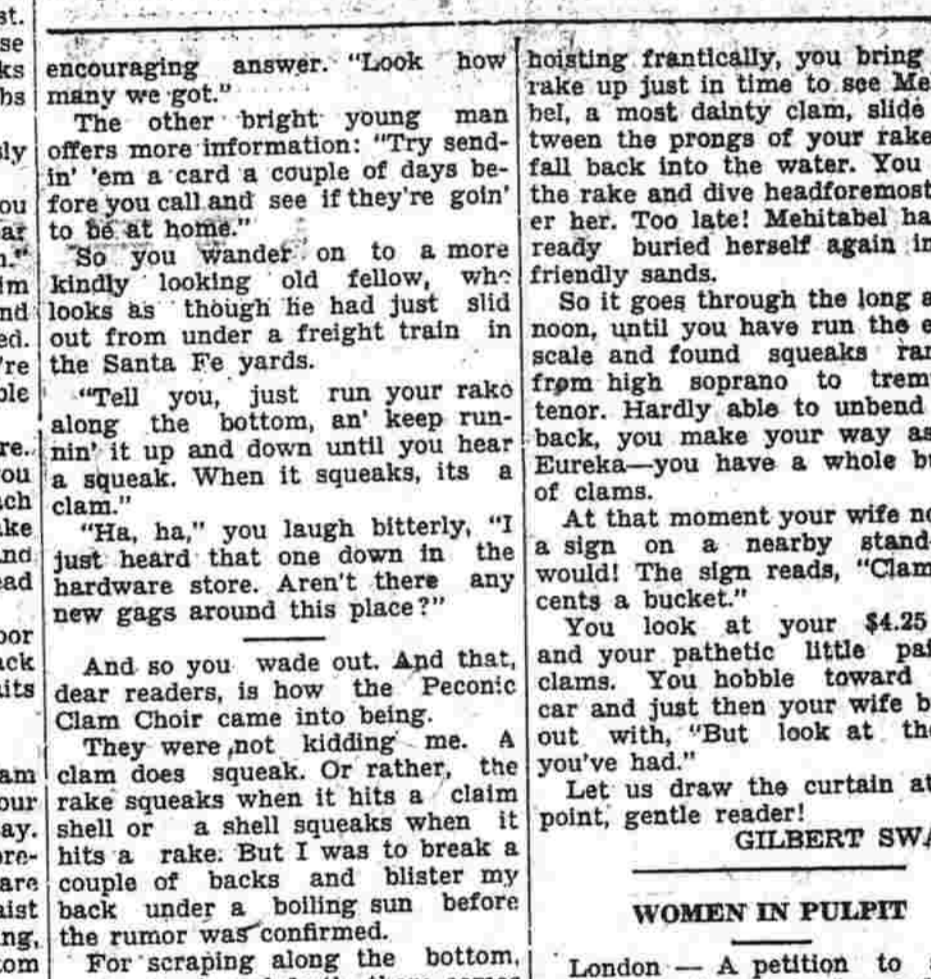

WOMEN IN PULPIT

London—A petition to admit women to the ministry of the Church of England is being considered by the Conference of Bishops which recently met at Lambeth. This movement is nothing new, as women preachers are known all over the country. But their acceptance by the religious heads is somewhat vague, and it is expected that official approval will come out of the conference.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

Question: Mrs. A. F. C. writes: "I am writing you in the interest of a little boy who is almost deaf. One specialist claims that his ear drums have not developed. Also, what would cause his extremely heavy breathing? Please give us some advice about deafness?"

Answer: Deafness is usually caused by some catarrhal condition or an obstruction of the eustachian tube by enlarged tonsils or inflammation. If the little boy's deafness is caused by the ear drums not developing, it is possible that artificial ear drums could be used. A catarrhal condition is probably the more responsible for his heavy breathing. I suggest that he be given several short acid fruit fasts, being given a well balanced diet without much starchy food between the fasting periods.

WATKINS BROTHERS

55 YEARS AT SOUTH MANCHESTER

BETWEEN WAVELENGTHS

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD (Associated Press Radio Editor)

Amos 'n' Andy may be poor struggling taxicab drivers, hard pressed for enough to buy the daily pork chops, but radio doesn't believe all that it hears.

New fame has come to this pair—portrayed by Freeman Gosden and Charles J. Correll—to the tune of a million dollars or more, if word from Chicago can be relied upon.

Their new contract, it is said, provides for that sum as salary within five years, making them about the highest paid regular radio entertainers.

It's quite a raise for these black face radio comedians who six years ago were struggling along trying to make ends meet on the vaudeville circuits.

Now a nation listens attentively to them each day.

Close upon the heels of reports that their contract with the National Broadcasting Company and their sponsor had been renewed for another year comes the announcement that it is to be for five years.

And reports state that the figure, based upon a sliding salary scale, will net them an average of more than $200,000 each year. Last year their first as chain entertainers, the sum was said to have been around $125,000.

The million dollars represents only their radio contract. It doesn't take into consideration income possible through the stage or the movies.

Yet this fame is a product only of years of hard work—and it's no easy task to keep up the interest day after day as these two have done. To top it all off, there's some birthday facts that may be interesting. Gosden or Amos is 41, and Correll or Andy is 50. Amos, born at Richmond, Va., May 5, 1890, and Andy at Peoria, Ill., February 3, 1890.

Such success, fostered by radio and ability, has not been so quick in coming as might have been expected.

PRICES CUT DOWN BY OVERPRODUCTION

Some Things Selling Far Below Price of Producing Them, Report Shows.

Washington, Aug. 19.—(AP)—Failure of international efforts to restore profitable price levels for a number of commodities essential to modern industry, was seen today in the reports from the agents abroad of the Commerce Department.

Despite that price levels the international combinations are designed to raise are so low in many cases as to threaten extinction of the producing enterprises concerned, this principal purpose appears still beyond reach.

Rubber, sugar, silver, tin, zinc, and other affected raw materials have been subject of activities which the commerce agents have been surveying carefully.

In the case of rubber—the United States consumes more than 70 per cent of the world supply—the New York price for weeks has remained at around 10 cents per pound, although the Dutch-Brazilian committee supervising the combination effort holds that it costs represents the bare cost of production in the East Indies where its main sources are located.

At times during the past decade, rubber has sold for above $1 a pound.

Tin, produced in the East Indies, Africa and South America, has dropped to under 30 cents per pound—in contrast with a 25-year average selling price of twice that figure—despite the application of rigid output restrictions by a trade agreement.

Sugar, Way Down

Cuban raw sugar, the basis of most of the United States supply, quoted at $1.15 per hundred pounds, about half its cost last year, and about a twentieth of the highest price at which it has been marketed. During the long sugar price recession, control systems have twice broken down, but the desperate conditions induced by the latest descent has enlisted American banking enterprises, and occasioned an endeavor to dispose of the surplus production in Russia on credit.

In the case of silver, producers in both the United States and Mexico have sought governmental assistance. Nevertheless, the price has proceeded to take new low ground in economic history.

A zinc cartel, based on German organization, has been forced this year to watch the price of its commodity drop from 8 to nearly 6 cents a pound before being able to stem the tide.

Brazilian coffee, Chilean nitrates and copper have left somewhat similar records, although the situation surrounding them are treated by the government observers as presenting less simple cases of economic distress.

In economic theory supply should shut itself off when producers are unable to get back even cost of production, and prices should then advance. Today, however, in almost every line of production in question, output has for many years been in the hands of large and heavily capitalized corporations which have continued to produce long after low price levels have been attained.

COLUMBIA

Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Porter and Mrs. Mary Williams motored to Shelbourne Falls, Mass., Friday, taking home John and Jean Davenport who have been spending two weeks at the home of their grandparents.

Miss Marion McCorkell opened her Columbia home Saturday, and will remain here for a few weeks. She is accompanied by her friends, Mrs. Brown of Hartford and her twin daughters, Eleanor and Frances.

Columbia was visited by two showers Saturday, being on the edge of the severe showers felt elsewhere. During the second shower for a brief period, but they did little damage. The rain beat down vegetables and flowers temporarily, but any damage done was more than offset by the value of the rain that fell.

Mr. and Mrs. James Powell and two sons of Ozone Park, L. I., are spending their vacation in the Avery cottage on the Green.

Mrs. George Zug of Hanover, N. H., and her sister, Miss Helen Stearns of Tryon, N. C., stopped overnight Saturday and spent part of Sunday in Columbia, attending the local church in the morning. Two ladies are on a motor trip to Columbia, as their grandparents, John and Dennison Crocker, and Marissa Goodwin Crocker lived here in their youth, going to the Connecticut Western Reserve about 1830 in company with others from this region, and founding the town of Columbia, Ohio. Mrs. Zug had a double interest here, being the wife of a professor of Dartmouth College, so being glad to see the birthplace of Dartmouth.

At the morning service of the Columbia church the babies were baptized by the pastor, Rev. Asa Mellinger. Francis, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lucine Hennagun of Willimantic, Phyllis Anne, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Field of Columbia, and Charlotte, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith of Columbia.

The Christian Endeavor Society motored to Spring Hill Sunday evening to attend the meeting there.

Mrs. Louis Thayer of Syracuse, N. Y., is a guest of Miss Harriet Fuller.

Mrs. Charles Stoltenfeldt and daughter, Barbara, of Manchester, have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Stoltenfeldt's father, Edward Lyman.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Verplank of South Manchester, were recent callers at the home of Mrs. Harriet Fuller.

Charles Palmer, Lester Hutchins, and William Wolf, went on the Farm Bureau Field Day trip, Friday, through Bolton, Gilead and Chbron with a business meeting at Gilead.

Clayton and David Hunt and Carleton Hutchins returned from Camp Wadsworth, the Boy Scout camp at Gardner's Lake in Colchester, where they have spent the past week. The boys report that they had a fine time.

Mr. and Mrs. John Locke of Amherst, Mass., are visiting at the home of Mrs. Locke's aunt, Mrs. Julia Little at the lake.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gillette and three daughters of Spring Hill, and Mrs. Gertrude Smith of Columbia spent the day Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Isham in celebration of the 18th birthday of the twin daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Gillette's, Hazel and Lois.

The annual Fair and Supper of the Ladies Aid Society was held Thursday and was a great success financially and socially. Over 300 enjoyed the usual delicious supper served by the ladies consisting of baked beans, cold ham, salads, rolls, cake, ice cream and coffee. The various booths were well patronized, these being displayed in the chapel, which was attractively decorated. During the supper hours music was given by members of the Hebrew Band under the direction of A. E. Lyman, on the Green in front of the hall. A goodly sum was realized for the treasury of the Ladies Aid.

Mrs. Griswold and party who have been in one of the Hillcrest bugabows returned home Thursday.

TODAY IS THE ANNIVERSARY

CAPTURE OF GUERRIERE

On Aug. 19, 1812, perhaps the most important naval battle of the War of 1812 took place when the frigate Constitution, commanded by Captain Isaac Hull, captured the British frigate Guerriere off the coast of Nova Scotia.

In less than 30 minutes after the engagement began, the Guerriere struck her colors. She was so badly cut to pieces that Hull could not tow her to port. Instead, he set her on fire and then blew her up. The American ship was undamaged.

From that time on the Constitution became popularly known as "Old Ironsides." Out of 18 naval engagements between single ships during the war the Americans won 15. These series of victories moved Daniel Webster to urge Congress to increase the navy.

The success of the Americans on sea was due to the fact they handled their ships and guns far better than the British did theirs. The enemy, it is estimated, lost on the average of about five men to one for the Americans.

A Cinderella of the Talkies

by Dan Thomas
© 1930 NEA SERVICE, INC.

By DAN THOMAS
Hollywood, Calif., Aug. 18.—Once upon a time fairy godmothers used to choose their favorite Cinderellas. Now they give a movie test instead. And so this is a true Cinderella story from real life.
A cinema star needed a leading lady. He knew the type that he wanted but nobody else did. So he started to look around. One day he walked into the cafe on the Paramount lot. Frances Dee, an extra girl, was eating a sandwich and thinking about the weather.
She glanced up and saw Maurice Chevalier coming towards her. Naturally her heart missed a beat and thumped a little louder. Maurice Chevalier was one of the adored of the screen's adored! His kisses, his eyes, his acting.

The handsome French star who has been such a success in American films kept coming closer and pretty soon it dawned on Frances that he was going to speak to her. She put the sandwich down and swallowed. Since she had only been in the movie world for six months, she still had the satisfaction of thrilling now and then.

Maurice Chevalier did speak to Frances Dee. If he had been doing a version of the first Cinderella story he would have pulled a glass slipper from his pocket, placed it on Frances' foot, and informed the rest of the sandwich-eating maidens in the cafe that he had found the girl he wanted.
As it was he gave her something much better than a slipper . . . an opportunity to be his leading lady in his new picture, "The Little Cafe."

"Come and rehearse with me this afternoon," Chevalier suggested.

Frances smiled and said she would. That test showed the French star that he had found the girl whom he needed for his leading lady.

So Frances Dee, pretty college girl with only a few months' movie experience, played a role that lots of actresses in Hollywood would like to have. The most popular star on the silver screen made "screen love" to her! And he chose her for the part!

In addition she has a long-term contract with Paramount and a salary that would make life worth while even if she couldn't play with Maurice! More than that, her work opposite Chevalier was so excellent that this young girl has been selected for the feminine lead for the next production of Buddy Rogers.

About six months ago we met Frances working as an extra on the Fox lot and at that time predicted a brilliant future for her. It was a perfectly safe prediction, too. Any girl with her ambition, ability, beauty, personality and willingness to work couldn't possibly be a failure.

Frances had always liked to act, but she didn't know anything about motion pictures until a short time ago. As a girl, she thought she wanted to be a star of the stage.

The Hollywood Story

COPYRIGHT 1930 by NEA SERVICE Inc. by ERNEST LYNN

BEGIN HERE TODAY

DAN BORMER, temperamental young man of Hollywood, can't get along with the studio manager at Continental Pictures and tears up his contract as scenario writer and asks to be fired. But he isn't. Dan has become keenly interested in ANNE WINTER, a young girl from Tulsa, Okla., who is working as an extra. She has stage experience and she knows enough to warrant a screen test at Grand United studios.

Dan lives with PAUL COLLIER, who writes a daily movie column for a string of newspapers. Anne lives with MONA MORRISON and EVA HARLEY, two extra girls. Eva is rather bitter.

GARRY SLOAN, famous Hollywood director, has shown some interest in Anne Winter. Dan does not care much for Sloan; he is an admirer, however, of MARTIN COLLINS, formerly of Continental, now with Amalgamated. Collins invites him to a house warming at his home, and he brings Anne along.

There Dan meets a charming young actress named MARIS FARRELL. Anne meets and is annoyed by FRANK MAURY, a conceited character of the screen. Maury makes himself obnoxious to Maris and Anne, and it falls to Dan's lot to rescue them from his unwelcome attentions. Maris is curious about Anne. She seems interested in knowing whether she is a particular friend of Dan's.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Gorgeous looking, Anne was, in a black bathing suit and white rubber helmet.

CHAPTER XIX

Rorimer said, "Why, I hope so," and he wondered if Anne would be so kind as to play around with him. Anne was hard to figure that way; you never knew just where you stood. True, she seemed to enjoy him when ever he was with her, but that might mean much and it might mean nothing; Anne had never given him reason to think that it had any special significance. He grinned inwardly, remembering the night that he had kissed her and she had told him calmly that she hoped he would not do it again. That was Anne for you; always calm, always composed; always just what she was doing and where she was going.

He remembered now that he had last seen her in the patio, talking with a little gray-haired man. He hoped she would still have felt the same way. He had seen Frank Maury in a mood to be unpleasant. He heard Martin Collins' voice calling from the house, and Maris Farrell, beside him, clutched his arm.

"Maris says everyone's going swimming," she said. "Are you?"

Maris' head reached above his shoulder. He looked down at her and smiled and nodded emphatically.

"Absolutely. How about you?"

And Maris nodded, too.

Rorimer collected something. "Did you find that green bathing suit, by the way?" he asked. "Because if you didn't, somebody's going to have to explain to Frank Maury."

Maris said that Maury probably wouldn't remember a word that had been said. "Anyway, I found it," she answered him.

She left him then, and went off to change her clothes, and Dan told her that he would meet her in the pool, and he started toward the house in search of Anne. But he heard loud voices, and presently a crowd emerged from the house led by Collins, who had a girl on either arm. And one of them, Rorimer saw, was Anne, and he made for the men's dressing room and was among the first to get into a bathing suit.

He heard someone say in the dressing room that Maury was "sleeping it off," and another voice said, "Yes, Frank said he had been insulted and he wasn't coming in. Do you think we ought to drag him out and throw him in?" But Martin Collins quietly said it would be better if they let Maury alone.

The man next to Dan said in a low voice that that was a good idea. "It'll suit me fine," he told Dan, "if he doesn't wake up till I'm gone."

When Anne Winter emerged from the little building, Borimer, dripping with water, was sitting on the edge of the pool, watching for her with eager eyes. Gorgeous looking, Anne was, in a black bathing suit and white rubber helmet. He waved to her and she came over and stood beside him and asked him how the water was.

"Fine," he said. "Going in the deep end?"

Anne smiled and nodded, and he got up and took her by the hand and led her to the springing board.

CHAPTER XIX

"You first, Anne, and I'll race you to the other end. Okay?"

It was, Anne replied, gaily, and he watched her walk confidently to the end of the board, poised for a moment and then, a slim and lovely figure, cleave the air with bewitching grace and disappear beneath the water with a little splash. He followed and, swimming under water, took her hand and came up laughing happily.

"That was a great dive, Anne. You're good." And he added: "I like you in black, too."

Anne said, "Your taste is too nickle."

"Meaning just what?" he urged, swimming beside her. Something in the curtness of her speech led him to think that she might possibly be thinking of Maris Farrell. He found himself hoping eagerly that this was so, remembering an early reference Anne had made to Maris; she had said something about his not appearing to be perspiring on the vine in Maris' company.

But Anne refused to elaborate, even after he had repeated his question, and he let her beat back to the end of the pool, where they stood up in the shallow water, and Anne scolded him mildly for not exerting himself to win.

"Masculine superiority of the worst sort," she termed it.

"What?" Because I didn't break my neck to beat you? Life's too short, Anne."

"Because you showed so plainly that you weren't trying." Her eyes flashed scornfully.

"Well," Dan said meekly, "can I square it if I try real hard?"

"Because you asked."

So they retraced their course, and this time Dan won by more than a length. He said he hoped she was satisfied. "You made me work every inch of the way."

The sky was turning pale gray in the east as they drove back to Hollywood. Dan told her of what Maris Farrell had said. "Coming from her, I'd call it a real tribute," he said.

And he talked a good deal of Maris, hoping that Anne would say something that would enable him to feel that she was jealous; but there was nothing in her comment to indicate that she resented one bit the attention Maris had demanded of him.

He would have known a savage joy if she had resented it and had intimated as much. Then he could say the things that he wanted so badly to tell her. But they were things that could not be spoken without some sort of encouragement; they were not easily said. The trouble with Anne Winter was, she was so difficult. Always, when he tried to steer their conversation into very serious channels, he reached a point sooner or later where she matter-of-factly manipulated it back again, or wrecked it on a shoal. It was a little maddening.

Rorimer had never known a girl like this. He sometimes suspected that her matter-of-factness was a shield beneath which she hid emotions as strong and as tumultuous as his own; but it was a barrier he had been unable to penetrate. Sometimes when she talked about the work she had chosen to do, there was a breathless parting of her lips and a dreamy light in her wide dark eyes and a rush of color to her cheeks, and Dan knew a feeling that was akin to jealousy. Anne was driven by ambition; it fogged her on; nothing else seemed to matter.

He was reminded now, with Anne sitting beside him as they drove toward the dawn, of the night that he had gone to meet her in compliance with Ziggy Young's request. That seemed like a long time ago, and it seemed like yesterday. She had persuaded her father—against his better judgment, Anne admitted—to let her come to Hollywood. She had had her own way. Ziggy Young said she was "bull-headed." Maybe Ziggy knew what he was talking about; the expression was inanelegant.

Uncle Sam's Planting Pointers

By D. VICTOR LUMSDEN

Bureau of Plant Industry, U. S. Department of Agriculture

August is the best time to sow pansy seeds. Sowing at this time will allow plants to grow large enough so they can be transplanted, while the soil is still in good condition in the fall, to the place where they are to bloom.

Sow the seeds in a rich friable soil which has had manure or fertilizer mixed with it sometime previously. Make furrows in the soil three inches apart and one-sixteenth of an inch deep in which to sow the seeds. Cover the seeds very lightly and firm the soil with the hand or a wood block.

When the seeds are sown, water the soil with a very fine spray so that it does not wash the seeds out of the soil. While the seeds are germinating keep them shaded from direct sunlight but avoid blocking a free circulation of air by any structure used for shading.

Must Be Watered

The young seedlings must be watched carefully and must not be allowed to dry out at any time. Excess water is also detrimental and may cause a "damping off" fungus to develop. Water early in the mornings on clear days, and only when absolutely necessary in the evenings or in cloudy weather. A temperature of from 50 degrees to 75 degrees is ideal.

In summer it takes from eight to 10 days for the seeds to germinate. As soon as the seedlings are large enough to handle, transplant them into boxes of rich loamy soil. Set the plants three inches apart if they are to be again transplanted to their permanent places. Again keep the plants shaded from direct sunlight until they are re-established. As they grow, pinch off long growth to induce a bushy sturdy growth.

Reset In Ten Weeks

About 10 weeks after sowing the plants will be large enough to set in places where they are to bloom the following spring. After the ground is frozen apply a mulch of straw, manure or leafmold to the plants. This serves to keep the ground frozen and thus prevents alternate freezing and thawing which is more harmful than intense cold. Snow is a very good covering to keep pansy plants from winter injury.

Pansies so treated will be ready to break into blossom as soon as warm days arrive in early spring.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

Let children run in their bare feet. It is good for them, not only because it toughens them and gives them air, but because it strengthens the arches.

Many mothers have a decided inhibition against it—it isn't just Germany and Italy, it isn't Italy! As soon as Tommy or Betty is four years old, on go the shoes to stay. What would our children think if they saw our children running about the streets like ragamuffins? Well, are we bringing up friends or children?

The children don't need to run about the streets anyway. They shouldn't be on the street at all for that matter. They should be playing in their own nice yards (all children should have a yard) or on the porches. A city child is simply out of luck if he has no choice and I am sorry for that.

Children can be washed and dressed at three o'clock and shoes put on. That's as it should be, but playtime in summer is barefoot time, and we can put our inhibitions and squeamishness behind us. I hope far enough to give the youngsters some freedom.

Little sandals that protect the soles of the feet but that permit the same muscular development that results from "going barefoot" are excellent, but there is something about ground contact that the children need more of, and that they don't get. Their feet need it too.

One mother I know put diminutive bathing suits on her children every morning and they play around in them all day. These suits are merely shorts and shoulder straps. She has one of those new-idea shallow movable tanks in the back yard that is easily filled with the hose and emptied by means of a little side faucet over the thirsty grass at night.

Bakers of Mud-pies

The children have disregarded the nifty white sand pile and are busy making regular mud-pies in the corner of the lot. They mold things out of the sticky mud, dry them in the sun, and play store. She has laid in a quantity of play money. They wear big farmer hats bought at the ten-cent store to keep the sun off their heads, but they are as brown as berries at that. The yard is hedged all around, which is a great comfort. I often wonder why we Americans waste our yards so. We surround ourselves with lawns to the edge of the walk, and to the neighbors' lawns on the right and left. Then we stay in our houses rather than go out.

FLAID VELVET

A yellow and green plaid velvet frock has a gathered suede green belt and has collars and cuffs made of a combination of "organdie" and "late pique."

LEG-O-MUTTON

A dark brown chifon cashmere coat for autumn has a dainty collar of brown caracul and long laccaul cuffs ornamenting its leg-o-mutton sleeves.

MOTHERS ARE LEARNING USES OF MAGNESIA

From the beginning of expectancy until baby is weaned, that's the time Phillips Milk of Magnesia performs the greatest service for many women.

It relieves the expectant mother's nausea, heartburn, "morning sickness," inclination to vomit, helps her digestion. Its mild but effective laxative action assures regular bowel movement.

Phillips Milk of Magnesia is better than lime water for neutralizing cow's milk for infant feeding. A teaspoonful of it does the work of a half pint of lime water. It is mild, laxative, harmless, almost tasteless.

All drug stores have Phillips Milk of Magnesia in generous 25c and 50c bottles. Always insist on the genuine, endorsed by physicians for 50 years.

"Milk of Magnesia" has been the U. S. Registered Trade Mark of the Chas. H. Phillips Chemical Co., and its predecessor, Chas. H. Phillips, since 1876.

HEALTH

HOW BODY FUNCTIONS TO KEEP SYSTEM SUPPLIED WITH WATER

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

The kidney is the organ most prominently concerned in the control of the water balance in the human body. It gets rid of the superfluous water when it is necessary, or sees to it that a proper amount of water remains in the blood when the supply is running low.

If the kidney is diseased, the water balance may be upset and various disturbances result. In various forms of disease of the tissue generally, the method by which the body controls its water supply may be disturbed and its effects in the form of symptoms are prompt. If the body is deprived rapidly of water by fever or if a person is unconscious and water is not put into the body, the blood will take up water from the tissues. The balance of water in the blood must be maintained and even small changes in its content are accompanied by severe general reactions.

Of course, waste water must be eliminated in order to carry out poisonous waste products which may bring about death unless they are eliminated. Therefore, the kidneys continue to get rid of some water until the whole body is pretty well dried out.

It is an interesting commentary that prizefighters who attempt to make certain weights in order to fight in certain classes subject themselves before the fight to this intensive drying out process, and as a result sometimes enter the ring so completely shattered by the distortion of their water regulating system that defeat is inevitable.

In many diseases in which patients have been unable to take energy foods so that their tissues have been exhausted in order to provide the body with materials, the giving of small amounts of sugar with a large amount of water somewhat followed by prompt improvement tending toward recovery. The person who is short of water in his system has been vividly described by Dr. J. S. McLester: "With his drawn face, the patient looked tired. The mucous membranes are dry and the skin is dry and wrinkled. The lips are drawn and cracked and the tongue is fissured. The deep respirations of air hunger indicate the always present acidosis. The extremities are cold, and in extreme cases the knee-kicks may be absent. The circulation is often impaired and if the desiccation is great there is a rapid throbbing pulse. Nervous symptoms appear or those already incident to the illness are made worse. There may be dullness or perhaps delirium or coma."

KING GEORGE LABORS ON STAMP COLLECTION

London.—(AP)—Every Wednesday morning is now devoted by King George to his stamp collection, one of the finest in the world.

With his curator, Edward C. Bacon, he spends the time from 11 o'clock to 1 o'clock in his philatelic library at Buckingham Palace, arranging and indexing and nobody, not even Queen Mary, is allowed to interrupt him.

The king recently acquired some rare old Greek stamps and is now negotiating for some American specimens.

HOW TO SHOP

DUCK OR CANVAS MOST USED FOR HUNTER'S WEAR

By William H. Baldwin

The greater part of the clothing for hunters and fishermen is made of a good grade of duck or canvas cloth and is sold mainly on the manufacturer's brand.

Heavyweight duck is almost waterproof. As a rule the cloth in established brands is good; so it is the workmanship in a garment that really distinguishes the higher from the lower grades. To traverse the knees should be of double thickness of cloth and, as is true also of coats, jackets and other garments, all seams should be lapped or doubled and tightly sewn. Even in the lighter weight ducks it is the labor expended on them that counts for the most, because the difference in price between a good grade cloth and a poor one is such a slight factor that it does not pay to use the inferior material.

The shopper is strongly advised to make certain that all garments from shirts to coats and trousers are full-cut and at least one and preferably two sizes larger than the every day clothing.

WINE REDS

First frocks for fall street wear show a preference for the new wine reds that richly suggest autumn colorings.

REAR COLOR

Many, dark frocks have a touch of color in the back, in pipings, in the lining of cape collars, or for shoulder yokes.

EXPECT BIG NEWS FROM INDIA SOON Either Gandhi Will Accept or Refuse British Peace Offer in 48 Hours.

London, Aug. 19.- (AP)- Reports from India that the Mahatma Gandhi had offered peace in his letter to the viceroy if Lord Irwin and the British government will pledge dominion status for India at the forthcoming round table conference.

After the conferences of last week in the Veroda jail at Poona the leader of the civil disobedience forces in India wrote a letter which was supposed to embody the terms upon which he would consent to a cessation of the activities of his followers.

Looking For Leak It was pointed out today that if reports as to the nature of the Mahatma's peace offering were true they must have emanated from a leak on the part of some interested party since Gandhi's communication to the viceroy was written in prison and was to be delivered only today.

There was said to be a growing feeling in exceptionally well-informed quarters that "big news" from India could not be long delayed.

The stumbling block in the whole matter is the word "when." The whole civil resistance movement has been directed toward pinning the British government down to a definite date for the enactment of a dominion status.

HAIL-BROKEN WINDOWS INCREASE IN NUMBER

Difficult to Estimate How Many Were Shattered in Saturday's Big Hail Storm.

It will take from now until the cold weather arrives to learn just what amount of window glass was broken in the hail storm on Saturday. The extra supply of glass that was brought in on Monday by all of the dealers is fast diminishing as many individual places not mentioned before have also been hit and the number of lights of glass reported as broken is increasing each day.

Men were today at work on the Balch and Brown building replacing glass in the upper part of the north and northeast sections of the building taking out about a dozen lights of glass. From the countryside many were coming in, getting the glass cut to the sizes that they want and are replacing broken glass themselves. The dealers expect that there will be extra orders of glass right through to Thanksgiving time.

DEXTER SLATED TO BE A MAJOR

Local Man to Appear Before Examination Board to Prove Fitness.

Men of the local companies of the 169th Infantry, C.N.G., will be pleased to learn that their battalion commander, Major Samuel A. Butler of Hartford, has received orders to appear before an examining board for promotion to Lieutenant Colonel. At the same time, Captain Allan E. Dexter, of 35 Brookfield street, South Manchester, Regimental Plans and Training Officer, will appear for examination to determine his fitness for promotion to Major. The vacancy occurs, due to the promotion of Lt. Colonel Clarence C. Seal, of the 169th Infantry, to command of the regiment, to Assistant Adjutant General.

Major Butler has an enviable record in the Connecticut National Guard since his enlistment on February 28, 1913, as a member of the Second Infantry. With the exception of three years from 1914 to 1917, he has served in various commands in the regiment. Upon the organization of the First Machine Gun Company of the Connecticut Regiment of Infantry in 1921, he became a private in this organization, and three days after enlistment was appointed captain of the company, later changed to company M. In the following year he was transferred to command Company D, and then was designated machine gun officer of the regiment. On Oct. 7, 1923 he was promoted to Major and later assigned to command the second battalion of the regiment.

Last Thursday evening at Camp Devens Major Butler was the special guest of the men of Company G and the Howitzer company at a big dinner, a feature of the training period each year. Major Butler, because of his knowledge of men and his willingness to take their part on all occasions, will be missed as battalion commander by the officers and men of both companies.

Captain Dexter, a foreman in Cheney Brothers, is a veteran of the World War and the holder of the Distinguished Service Cross and the Croix de Guerre. He enlisted first in the Connecticut National Guard on March 1, 1915 when he became a private in Troop B Cavalry, with which organization he entered the Federal Service on June 20, 1916, serving for four months before the organization was mustered out of the Federal service.

On April 14, 1917, he reenlisted as a private in Troop C, Connecticut Cavalry, being discharged to enter the Officer's Training Camp on May 14 that year. He was appointed Second Lieutenant of Cavalry on August 15, 1917, and was assigned to the 104th Infantry a month later. He was appointed First Lieutenant on June 8, 1918, and assigned to Third Corps Headquarters in September of the same year. He was honorably discharged from the Federal Service, July 29, 1919. On June 24, 1923, one week after the formation of the Howitzer Company, 169th Infantry he was appointed commander of the organization, and was later transferred to his present position.

CONDITIONAL SALES RARELY RELEASED

Town Records Clattered With Those That Are Ignored—Dealers' Receipts Sufficient.

There are hundreds of conditional bills of sale on the records of the town of Manchester which would indicate that goods bought on such type of sale have never been paid for, while, in truth, they have been paid for many years ago in most cases. This is especially true of automobiles and store fixtures and in many cases the automobile in question has long since been worn out and has helped to fill in the School street dump.

A representative of one large concern that has sold fixtures on conditional bills of sale for years says that in only one case in his remembrance of over twenty years in the business has a release been asked for a conditional bill of sale. It is also the same with the automobile dealers. Instead of getting a release from a conditional bill of sale the person takes the final receipt from the manufacturer or agent and does nothing about getting it recorded as a release in the town records.
