Mary, The Mother Of Jesus

The International Uniform Sunday School Lesson for October 12. Mary, the Mother of Jesus. Luke 2:15-19; John 2:1-5; 19:25-27.

By WM. E. GILROY, D. D. Editor of The Congregationalist

Concerning Mary, the Mother of Jesus, we do not know a great deal in actual fact and detail, but we can come to very real conclusions from the narrative of the New Testament.

We have, first of all, the circumstances of the birth of Jesus—a story with all the beauty of motherly devotion and suggestive in every way of the quality of Mary's experience.

The strange events might easily have created in her a spirit of self pride, but apparently they only effect was to quicken within her all the instincts of gentleness and goodness and the aspiration for righteousness.

Then there is very little detail in the record until the loss of the child Jesus and the discovery of Him in the temple disputing with the doctors.

When Mary is reproachful toward the boy, we sense the keenness of her fears and her joy at His recovery. But how her heart must have beaten at the strangeness and mystery of His words.

Then one can imagine her thoughts and her feelings as Jesus began His public ministry, as she felt the beauty of His thoughts and of His words but felt also deep misgiving and fear in her soul, as she saw Him compelled, even in His first public words at Nazareth.

Text: Luke 2:15-19; John 2:1-5; 19:25-27.

And it came to pass, as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem and see this thing which is come to pass, which the Lord hath made known unto us.

And they came with haste, and found Mary and Joseph, and the babe lying in a manger.

And when they had seen it, they made known abroad the saying which was told them concerning this child.

And all they that heard it wondered at those things which were told them by the shepherds.

But Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.

And the third day there was a marriage in Cana of Galilee; and the mother of Jesus was there.

And both Jesus was called, and his disciples, to the marriage.

And when they wanted wine, the mother of Jesus said unto him, They have no wine.

Jesus saith unto her, Woman, what have I to do with thee? mine hour is not yet come.

His mother saith unto the servants, Whatsoever he saith unto you, do it.

Now there stood by the cross of Jesus his mother, and his mother's sister, Mary the wife of Cleophas, and Mary Magdalene.

When Jesus therefore saw his mother, and the disciple standing by, whom he loved, he saith unto his mother, Woman, behold thy son!

Then saith he to the disciple, Behold thy mother! And from that hour that disciple took her unto his own home.

A baby less than a year old, says a news item, is being trained for the ring in Hull, England. Already licked and rocked to sleep, he's doubtless off to a fine start.

THE LORD'S PERSON

BY GEORGE HENRY DOLE.

International Sunday-School Lesson Text, Oct. 12. Mary kept all these things, and pondered them in her heart.—Luke 2:19.

On the one hand it is zealously maintained that Jesus was begotten of God and born of Mary. On the other hand it is strenuously argued that such a birth is impossible, and that Jesus was not the Son of God. Others, considering the beliefs held, exclaim, "What difference does it make as to whose son He was?"

The first difference is this: The Old Testament throughout clearly declares that the Christ would be none other than the God of fulfillment of the Old Testament. If the Lord was not the son of God, then both testaments are fundamentally in error and neither is reliable.

Thus not to acknowledge the birth of Jesus as Scriptures describes it is the practical rejection of the Word, and with it goes its Divine authority and real faith in it.

The second difference concerns the most vital fundamentals. If Jesus is acknowledged to be God incarnate, God with us, the mind comes immediately in touch with God, and the Person of God is revealed with ever increasing clarity and fullness as Jesus is known. If the Person of God is not seen in Jesus, no one can have any clearly defined conception of our Heavenly Father. Any one, by examining his thought of God, can clearly perceive the truth of the Lord's declaration, "No man cometh unto the Father, but by me." If we do not go to Jesus to learn the character of God, well may we exclaim, as did Peter, "Lord, to whom shall we go?"

The difference between belief and unbelief in Jesus as the manifestation of God is immeasurable. It is the difference between intellectual and mental darkness, between knowing and not knowing God, between spiritual life and spiritual death, between all that is known as heaven and what is experienced as hell.

Rightly we speak of the Lord being born, crucified, and glorified in us. He is born in us through affectionate reception of truth from Him. He grows and waxes strong in us and gains in favor through obedience to His commands. He is crucified in us when we go contrary to Him. He is glorified in us through the increase of His love in us. His resurrection takes place in us when He rises in us to rule in our thoughts, affections, and deeds.

Through this transition within us, and by none other, we come to know God in Jesus Christ.

Landscaping Your Lot Increases Land Values

Landscaping is often considered the final touch which finishes the modernizing project. Indeed, it has often been said by modernizing authorities that no project is completed until the grounds have been beautified by the planting of lawns, gardens and trees.

Certainly landscaping plays an important part in enhancing the beauty of the dwelling. Many attractive homes are made more alluring by the planting of shrubbery, the laying of stepping stones, or the construction of a lily pond. All these things aid in completing the grounds.

Real estate experts who have studied property values and know what makes one home more valuable than another assert that in many cases it is the flowers and shrubbery that enhance its value.

MOFFETT URGES COMPLETION OF TWO HUGE SHIPS

Washington. (AP.)—Come what may of the questioning and criticism following the crash of Britain's pride, the R-101, the American navy hopes to carry on with its program of two monster airliners.

The Akron, first of the proposed mistresses of the air, is well beyond the one-third stage of construction but there is a loop-hole in the contract that could doom the second, the ZRS-5.

Contrast for the two ships was awarded in 1928, but opportunity to cancel the second is allowed after the first has been tested in service, some time after the end of the present fiscal year.

It is on the performance of the Akron, rather than on the failure of other dirigibles, that the navy hopes judgment will be based to enable it to complete its program.

To Rear Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the navy bureau of aeronautics and a stern advocate of lighter-than-air development, Britain's disaster is a lesson to America to build its two ships.

"The crash was an extremely sad event," he said, "but England should feel fortunate in having another ship, the R-100. Lighter-than-air development is destined to go on and the vast ground facilities that have been provided will not lie idle for several years because disaster overtook one craft.

"It would take two years or more, if England had no other ship, to build another ship that could make use of the hangars and other facilities, including trained talent. In the meantime, progress would be impossible. The United States, knowing that lesson, should carry to completion its program.

MANY DEBUTANTES READY FOR SEASON

Almost 300 of Them on New York Society List—Opera Season Opens Oct. 25.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Society's stars and satellites are turning from Summer wanderings throughout the universe and moving back into the molten milky way that lies between Park avenue and Broadway.

The social constellation will not blaze in its glory until October 27, when the rising of the Metropolitan Opera House curtains before the jeweled occupants of the Golden Horseshoe marks the launching of the first social meteor.

The list of debutantes is larger than ever—it numbers almost 300—and includes a number of shining lights. With so many butterflies scheduled to dance about the social flame, confusion has arisen in dates and arrangements and several debutantes are scheduled to make their bows to society on the same night.

The debutante whirl will begin with the autumn ball in the chrysanthemum-decked clubhouse at Tuxedo Park on October 25, and will spin on with increasing speed until New Year's.

Despite town activities, the jingle of spurs and creek of saddle leather have drawn a number of society's members to the country for the last horse shows and steeplechase of the season.

Convenience Rules Simple House Design

This house might be called "the servantless home," so economical is its plan.

A house of this character is especially desirable when the housewife must do all the work herself.

Both the living room and dining room open out on the porch and garden. There are three bed rooms on the second floor, all of which have cross ventilation and one bath.

Fireproof City Termed Commercial Possibility
The "fireproof city" is a commercial possibility. The researches of the British Fire Protection Committee, carried out at their testing station in Epsom Park, London, have demonstrated conclusively the fire-resisting properties of many materials used today in construction work.

Economy of construction can no longer be given as a reason for building houses with walls that can burn.

WATER SOFTENER REPLACES CISTERN
Back in the good old days no house was complete until it had a cistern into which the surface water from the roof was drained.

CAN STAND THE HEAT

HOUSE PROVIDES WORKING BASIS IN LANDSCAPING

Design for Grounds Should be Compatible With the Architecture of Building.

There often exists in the mind of the average person contemplating landscape work on his estate a confused conception of the essential elements of the type of design adapted to his particular problem.

All Features Considered
In determining the type of design all features must be considered and a new structure plays a major role in the eventual landscape picture.

Proper landscape design means taking into consideration the nature of the environment, whether it be in a city, town or country. In either situation the designer must recognize the limitations that these widely divergent environments have placed on his work and make his creations meet the requirements of his particular problem.

Waterproof Damp Foundation Walls
The home owner who finds that the foundation walls of the house are damp may easily waterproof them, so that the trouble will be eliminated, granted that there is no head of water to create a pressure.

Waterproof City Termed Commercial Possibility
The "fireproof city" is a commercial possibility. The researches of the British Fire Protection Committee, carried out at their testing station in Epsom Park, London, have demonstrated conclusively the fire-resisting properties of many materials used today in construction work.

Return of Cottage Type Suggested for Families Wanting Private Home

The very small detached house, if we exclude that of the industrial housing development, is much more a rarity than we might expect it to be today.

Every tendency of the times would argue in favor of the small house. We talk of the high cost of land and building, of families averaging smaller than formerly, of the absence of servants in the home of the average family, the emancipation of women from the constant repetition of meaningless tasks, of compactness, convenience and efficiency in planning and of the care and expense of large houses.

The apartment is "modern." It trees its occupants from almost every responsibility of the home-owning family. Also, it swallows up the individuality, almost the identity, of the family, and deprives the family of the life-long interest and satisfaction to be found in having an independent expression.

The bungalow is "modern." It eliminates the stairs of the two-story house; but it occupies more ground, requires more excavation and foundations and requires more room than the two-story house of equal capacity. It is not always the most economical thing to build, and is by way of being a difficult problem as to exterior expression.

Apparently the cottage, in its true and original sense, is considered too "poor" or too "humble" for the average American family. But the two-story house of four or five or six rooms and bath would be the logical and appropriate home for perhaps millions of present-day apartment dwellers.

Such houses may afford a greater degree of privacy than is possible where houses are placed on narrow lots, with scarcely more than alleys between them. Here is an opportunity for economy in building, for a more advantageous use of ground and for a degree of harmony and

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Adventure enters the life of CELIA MITCHELL, 17, when she learns the father she has supposed dead is alive and wealthy. She leaves her unpretentious home in Baltimore for a home in New York with her father, JOHN MITCHELL, and her aristocratic grandmother.

MARGARET ROGERS, her mother, divorced Mitchell and remarried and is now a widow. BARNY SHELDON, young newspaper photographer, is in love with the girl before leaving Baltimore. Celia promised to be loyal to his love.

Mitchell asks EVELYN PARSONS, beautiful widow, to introduce the girl to young people. Mrs. Parsons considers Celia means to us in Mitchell's affection and agrees. She invites the girl to her Long Island home for a week-end. TOD JORDAN, fascinating but with a dubious reputation is attentive to Celia and Mrs. Parsons encourage the match.

When the other guests leave Celia continues her visit. LISA DUNCAN, socially prominent, invites her to a swimming party. Celia narrowly escapes drowning and is rescued by Jordan. Her father hears of the match, and insists the girl must return home. The same evening Jordan calls and in a romantic scene tells Celia he loves her. She returns to New York and two days later attends a charity fortune teller reads Celia's palm and warns her of impending danger.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CELIA SPER XZ...
"Danger," Celia Mitchell asked. "What do you mean?"

The gypsy was bending over the girl's hand again. "Two men," she repeated. "One man is dark, handsome. They make love to you. Both eyes imploringly, 'I see trouble!'"

The old woman looked distressed. Celia stirred uncomfortably as the black eyes continued to stare at her. "But what is it?" she asked.

The gypsy bent the girl's hand down on the table between them. "I am sorry," she said. "I cannot do it. I cannot read your future!"

"Why—what's the matter?" I don't understand," she said. The old woman was shaking her head. The heavy gold hoops in her ears bobbed grotesquely. Then the gypsy's expression changed. Her face became completely blank. She took out the fortune teller's cards. She handed it to the girl. "I tell no more fortunes. Sorry," she said.

Celia was both amused and annoyed. She wondered what trickery of the fortune teller's had behind this odd occurrence. Of course, the idea that the gypsy really had foreseen disaster in her palm was preposterous.

The girl arose and, with a shrug of her shoulders, left the fortune teller's waiting.

"What did she tell you?" she asked.

"Nothing! Grandmother, she's just a fraud. She tried to frighten me by saying she saw danger in my palm and then when I asked what she meant she gave up and said she couldn't tell my fortune. Isn't that nonsense?"

"Outrageous! I wouldn't have paid her!"

"I'd already done that, but she handed the money back."

Mrs. Mitchell eyed her granddaughter.

"That's strange," she said. "Wait till I go in and see what she'll tell me. If there's anything fraudulent going on here it's my duty to report it."

"Don't go now," Celia cautioned. "Wait a bit. She'd know you were with her because she saw where else and you can come back later."

Mrs. Mitchell agreed.

The fair made a gay scene. The grounds were beautiful and the bright tents and awnings under which toys, balloons and refreshments were sold added color. There were huge orange and green parasols shading tables and chairs. Pretty girls in peasant costumes carried trays of food. Men, women and children thronged about in light-colored attire.

On a lake nearby young people were taking boat rides.

It was all festive, but Celia felt lonely. She knew no one, and it was not very entertaining to stroll about chatting with her grandmother's friends. Since the affair was being held to make money, a large part of the crowd, Mrs. Mitchell explained, were "outsiders." To Celia it seemed these were the ones who were enjoying themselves.

Here and there they met an elderly woman or man with whom her grandmother paused to talk. Mrs. Mitchell promptly presented Celia to these elders, the girl was quiet. She eyed the "outsiders" boating on the lake and riding on the merry-go-round enviously. The pastimes might be juvenile, but they were having fun.

Presently Mrs. Mitchell remembered the fortune teller.

"You stay here, Celia," she said. "I'm going to find out about that gypsy!"

The girl sank into one of the orange and green chairs beneath a parasol and said she would wait until her grandmother's return.

A waitress stopped at the table and Celia ordered a frosted chocolate. She sipped the beverage slowly, thinking how pleasant the afternoon might have been if Lisa and her gay crowd had been there. The Duncan family's social standing was satisfactory. Mrs. Parsons had said. It was queer about society.

It was not long before she saw Mrs. Mitchell coming toward her. There was a triumphant brightness in the elderly woman's manner.

"Why, she's wonderful!" she exclaimed as she reached the girl. "Celia, she told me everything!"

"You mean the fortune teller?"

Mrs. Mitchell nodded, then began to detail the remarkable occurrences of the past present. A future which had been revealed to her. She was

You'll like its slenderizing lines. The pointed treatment of the gored skirt emphasizes the smart, slender body. The partial belt arrangement does much toward concealing hip breadth. The open V-neckline with pointed collar is particularly becoming.

It's the choice of the smart woman who is always fastidious in the selection of her home frocks.

It's easily made!

Style No. C-891 may be had in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. It requires 3 1/2 yards of 30-inch material with 3/4 yard of 39-inch contrasting and 4 1/4 yards of binding.

It's very attractive to have one's house frock agree with the kitchen color scheme.

It is sketched in deep blue and white dimity with white pique collar and blue bindings.

Men's striped cotton shirting, tiny gingham checks, pin dotted broadcloth and muslin. Cottons make up lovely in this model.

YOUR CHILDREN

by OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON
© 1930 BY NEA SERVICE INC.

The kindergarten does not have the universal support I think it should have.

We shall have to except most of the large cities here, for in many we find the kindergarten flourishing most successfully. But a number of second and third class cities and smaller towns still are apathetic in this matter of the pre-school child.

"Why spend good dollars and cents and add to the strain on the school budget when boards and taxpayers are complaining now?"

The matter of the younger children does not rest entirely with school boards, but begins with the parents themselves. As long as they do not see the necessity of spending money on the four-to-six-year-old, the local directors themselves cannot act. It is difficult enough to keep up with the expense of innovations for the older children already in school, they argue, without assuming the burden of the pre-school child as well, at least without popular support.

And so the years pass on, and with the exception of a comparatively few cases, the pre-school child we still have with us, both literally and figuratively, and the kindergarten, one of the most forceful influences in a child's life, continues to be regarded by the laity as merely a subsidized playroom, stigmatized by its enemies as a place for lazy and unproductive children, and even credited by its friends too often as a mere convenience and time-saver.

Naturally enough, not all friends of the kindergarten are able to send their little folk. It frequently happens that mothers cannot find the time to take their children themselves, and it is out of the question to send them alone. Occasionally, as in case of epidemics, they consider it unwise to run the risk of exposure. Weather is another barrier. These and similar problems affect the attendance of the kindergarten school. As a matter of fact, aside from what we might call the psychological side of the situation, they are physical factors working against it.

COLLEGE DEDICATED

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Eminent scholars and educators of eighty colleges gathered here today to take part in the dedication ceremonies of the new $10,000,000 College for Men of the University of Rochester.

Twenty university presidents were among the scientists and scholars who heard Secretary of the Interior Ray Lyman Wilbur extol the education and training of youth as America's greatest achievement. His speech was broadcast by the National Broadcasting Company.

The New Campus and buildings of the College for Men of the University of Rochester adjoin the School of Medicine and Dentistry, inaugurated in 1920. It is believed to be the only instance on record where a college has moved to an entirely new physical setting, all of the buildings having been erected at one time on an 87 acre campus. The dedication ceremonies will continue through Sunday.

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

SKIN ERUPTIONS OFTEN ARE DISEASE SIGNALS

BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
Editor Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine

It has been said again and again that the skin is the mirror of the body. There are numerous diseases affecting the human being as a whole in which eruptions appear on the skin as one of the signs of the disturbance.

In typhoid fever, there is an eruption which appears on the abdomen, chest and back from the seventh to the ninth day. In pneumonia, the form of blister that is called a fever sore occurs around the mouth in 40 per cent of the cases.

Tuberculosis has all sorts of manifestations upon the skin, as does also the more serious of the disorders known as social diseases. Indeed, so frequent and so varied are the skin manifestations of these diseases that medical students are instructed again and again to look for other manifestations of tuberculosis and of syphilis whenever a skin eruption not easily diagnosed is seen.

In scarlet fever, the eruption appears at the end of the first or the beginning of the second day of the disease. It is first seen on the neck and chest and rapidly spreads to other parts of the body. The eruption in scarlet fever, as the name of the disease indicates, is a bright scarlet.

In chicken-pox, the eruption appears within the first 24 hours and rapidly develops into little blister-like spots, mostly upon the trunk. These come out in crops over a period of several days.

In measles, the patient usually breaks out on the third or the fourth day with dark red velvety spots on the face and these rapidly spread over the trunk and the extremities. One of the signs of measles are bluish white specks surrounded by a red ring which can be seen in strong daylight on the lining of the cheeks and lips. These are known as Koplik spots.

There are many instances in which the use of chemicals will produce strange swellings on the hands and splashing sometimes results in similar marks upon the skin elsewhere on the body. Almost invariably any serious disease of the blood manifests itself by a change in the appearance of the skin.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

Experts in domestic economics advise running the home on business principles, but there is one item in every industry that is not considered in the home management—that of profit and loss. The business man always has this margin but for the housewife it is either the savings effected instead of profit, while the unprofitable expenditures come under the category of waste.

Two unusual sandwiches have been made with their feet. There are spread the bread with mayonnaise dressing. Mash a large, ripe banana and stir into it two tablespoons of dry cocoa powder. The other filling is made by mashing the banana until it is smooth and creamy and spreading it between thin slices of raisin bread.

So many people nowadays have trouble with their feet. There are 26 bones in each foot and with fashionable high heels it is not to be wondered at that trouble frequently results from wearing them. There are excellent foot soaps, creams and powders on the market for caring for the feet and scientifically built shoes for fallen arches and other ailments. A treatment recommended by army specialists for soothing the feet is glycerine which should be rubbed on when starting out for golf, tennis, walking or dancing.

Try ice-box frosting with your next devil's food cake, made in this manner: Into the refrigerator put one cup of heavy cream to which you have added three dessertspoons of granulated sugar and the same amount of cocoa powder. Do not beat until serving time, then whip stiff, flavor with one teaspoon vanilla and spread at once on the cake.

We are beginning today on the home page a series of short articles under the caption "Make It Yourself." They are little trifles intended for Christmas giving. You may not be quite ready to get up enthusiasm for gift making at this early date, so clip any or all that appeal to you and when the proper time comes you can make use of them. Already the stores who handle personal greeting cards are soliciting orders, and when we remember that the great rush on this one Christmas item comes in the few weeks before that holiday, it is not to be wondered at that they are showing samples early and urging people to place their orders now.

Deep Dish Apple Tapioca
Here is a dish the youngsters as well as grownups will eat with gusto—full of "sugar and spice and everything nice" not to mention plump raisins.

TURKISH WOMEN START SERIOUS ELECTION RIOT

Istanbul, Turkey, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Three hundred Turks, including many women bearing the green flag of the Prophet Mohammed, marked the solemnity of the Moslem Sabbath today by storming the municipal election booth in the mosque courtyard of Cassim Pasha, in the Golden Horn sium, of the districts which had gone over entirely to Fethi Bey's new opposition party.

Shouting "Long Live the Liberal Party!" the mob crashed through the courtyard gate. The police seized the ballot box, which was an urn, and locked it within the mosque, proclaiming the elections discontinued.

They proceeded to arrest the flag-bearers and disperse the crowd. Fethi's repeated declarations that his party is as secular as Ismet Pasha's have not influenced the spirit of conservative Moslem crowds.

Southerners Battled Yale Star Last Year at Athens But He May Break Loose Today; Other Games.

By HERBERT W. BARKER.

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—King Football reigned supreme over the eastern sports world today, with no real rival in sight for the next three months. With baseball's world series completed to the satisfaction of the American League, newspapers turned their sports pages over to the intercollegiate gridiron. Today's schedule was marked by a series of inter-sectional games chiefly between the east and south, with a few between major elevens on the Atlantic seaboard to add spice to the program.

The biggest spectacle of the day was in the Yale Bowl between Yale and Georgia of the southern conference with Yale hoping to avenge a 15-0 setback of last year. Another strong southern conference outfit, Georgia Tech, faced the Tartans of Carnegie Tech at Pittsburgh.

Other inter-sectional games brought together Virginia and Penn at Philadelphia; Washington & Lee and West Virginia at Charleston, West Virginia, and Hampden-Sydney and Cornell at Ithaca, with the eastern teams favored in each instance.

In the middle west, Notre Dame was the choice against Navy at South Bend, but Pitt was expected to trim Western Reserve at Cleveland and Washington and Jeff looked for victory over Wittenberg at Springfield, Ohio.

Of the purely domestic struggles, Princeton's tussle with Brown at Princeton packed the most elements of drama, but even battles were looked for between N. Y. U. and Villa Nova at New York; Colgate and Lafayette at Hamilton, N. Y., and Syracuse and Rutgers at Syracuse.

Other major teams faced less serious opposition. In this group such clashes as Harvard-Springfield, Army-Swarthmore, Columbia-Western, Dartmouth-Boston U., Holy Cross-Catholic, Lehigh-Johns-Hopkins and Penn State and Marshall.

Heading the long list of smaller college games were Brown and Dickinson-Ursinus; Franklin and Marshall-St. Joseph, Amherst-Union, Williams-Bowdoin, Albright-St. Mary's, Tufts-Colby, Maine-Cornell, Aggies and Hamilton-Rochester.

HOW FOOTBALL IS BROADCAST

Ted Husing, of CBS, with Jay Werner, his observer, beside him and his "announcing board" before him, broadcasting a football game.

RADIO SPORT DESCRIPTION NOT AS EASY AS IT SOUNDS

"Ted" Husing, Radio's Famous Announcer, Tells of Intricate System Used in Following Players in Action; Services of An Assistant Vitally Necessary; Interesting Experiences Related by Columbia Veteran.

BY EDWARD R. (TED) HUSING

It takes teamwork to play football well. It takes teamwork to report a game accurately. I'm not trying to belittle my own work, but I couldn't possibly report an honest, accurate, play-by-play account of a football game without the expert co-operation of my observer and technicians. I hasten to add nobody else could, either.

The system was unsatisfactory, the relaying was slow and often the representatives of the teams inadvertently, in their enthusiasm, either shouted out the name of the player, thereby completely disrupting the announcer's train of thought, or in their excitement over a play, failed entirely to function.

Observer a Mind Reader. Jay Werner, who has done my observing in other years and will do it again this season, knows me and knows my work so thoroughly that he functions intuitively. He stands in the back of the field with a pair of specially made field glasses glued to his eyes, his other hand on the signal board.

Local Sport Chatter

The West Side Baseball Club will celebrate the winning of the town baseball championship tonight with a banquet at the Sum-Alpine Club on Eldridge street.

This organization is deserving of credit. Starting from the very bottom of the cellar, so to speak, the West Sides laid a strong foundation and the champions functioned with a bang at the Sum-Alpine Club.

Coach Bill Brennan comes in for a large share of the credit. It was his untiring efforts that paved the way for the successful voyage to the championship domain. The mere fact that there were few outstanding stars on the team makes their feat of winning the title all the more commendable.

Both the Green and Bon Ami had better individual players, that is to say, better men for several positions but the champions functioned much better as a unit.

Manchester High School's football team left the West Side Rec by bus at 12:30 this afternoon enroute for Middletown where they hope to upset the hosts by defeating the Ell City eleven. The entire squad is in excellent physical condition.

The Eagles football team will play the South Ends in the preliminary to the Majors-New Britain Blues game at Hickley's Grove tomorrow afternoon.

An idea of how hard Ben Clume is working with his Cub football team this season may be seen in the fact that he has found it necessary to employ a private secretary, Miss Agnes Dufalus is the young lady who received the assignment.

BERG WINNER

New York, Oct. 11.—(AP)—Jack (Kid) Berg, British perpetual motion machine, has stoned partially at least for the one bad setback of his boxing career.

STRONG OPPOSITION AWAITS CUBS AND MAJORS TOMORROW

Since the all-conquering and unprecedented golfing march of Bobby Jones in 1930 seems a 100-to-1 shot to stand alone for the next few generations, if not for all time, in a sport whose fortunes are so fickle, it should be catalogued, if not framed in gold by every golf club for all to gaze at in wonder.

Walker Cup Play (Sandwich) Jones defeated Roger Wethered, England, 9 and 8, in singles. Jones and Dr. O. F. Willing, U. S., defeated Torrance and Hartley, England, 8 and 7, in two-ball foursome.

British Amateur Championship (St. Andrews) All 39-hole matches except final. First round, Jones defeated S. S. Roger, England, 3 and 2. Second round, Jones defeated Cow Shankland, 5 and 3.

When you go to the football games this fall, it is entirely possible that you will see players who, when their team is on the attack, seem to do nothing but trawl the man with the ball, instead of running ahead of him bent on knocking over an opponent.

THE TINYMITES

(READ THE STORY, THEN COLOR THE PICTURE)

The fountain was a queer affair. A small tower standing in the air, with water running from it in a tiny, steady flow. Instead of drinking from a cup each Tiny simply walked right up and let it trickle in his mouth. Then Clowny shouted, "Oh! That water's cold as it can be. It seems it almost freezes me." Then Scouty laughed and said, "Why do you drink more than your share? I know it's good, but please give us a chance, or we will start a fuss." "Don't worry," answered Clowny. "You will all be treated fair." The Travel Man soon shouted, "Boys, your argument makes too much noise. I think we've had enough to drink. Let's be upon our way." And so the Tinies said, "good-bye" and shortly heard the farmer cry, "Please come again to visit. I am sorry you can't stay." They walked along a mile or

ABOUT TOWN
A number of local druggists, who have long known W. E. Farnsworth, a member of the Sisson Drug Company, who died suddenly Thursday night and is to be buried this afternoon, plan to attend his funeral.

A meeting of the membership committee of the Chamber of Commerce of which William Halsted is chairman, has been called for Monday evening at 7:30 o'clock to set up plans for increasing the Chamber membership.

A typographical error occurred in the description of the building to be erected by the Sons of G. T. Keene street near Christine Miller should have been 80 feet long by 40 feet wide, instead of 20 feet wide.

The Manchester Lions Club will not meet Monday evening next week but will attend the 23rd district meeting at Willimantic Tuesday evening. Cars will leave the Hotel Sheridan at 6:15 o'clock.

Christopher Columbus society's banquet tomorrow, in celebration of its twenty-second anniversary, will take place at the Italian club on Norman street at 12:30. Osano will cater.

Loyal Circle of Kings Daughters will meet Monday evening at 7:30 in Center Church parlors. This will be the annual meeting with election of officers. Work will be on tying a bed quilt. Miss Christine Miller heads the committee of hostesses.

The Parent-Teacher association in Buckland resumes social activities Monday evening when the Ways and Means committee will conduct a dinner in the school hall. Playing will begin at 8:15 sharp and all-cash prizes will be awarded the winners.

The regular business meeting of the Order of Rainbow will take place this evening at 7:30 at the Masonic Temple. A meeting of the advisory board will follow.

Rev. A. B. Carey of Beacon, N. Y. who will be the speaker this evening at the Salvation Army citadel, will close his revival campaign at the Church of the Nazarene tomorrow, with services at 10:45 and 7:30. The meetings held every evening but Saturday for the past two weeks have been well attended, and it is hoped many will take advantage of these final opportunities to hear this well known revivalist.

Alexander Kisselburgh, well known New York and California baritone, who on several occasions has assisted at the Sunday evening concerts at the South Methodist church, took part in the Travelers' hour program on WYU last evening and was listened to with interest by a number of local people.

Nineteen tables were filled with whist players at the card social and dance given in the City View hall on Kenney street last evening. The winners of first prizes were Miss Hoffman and Robert Alexander, second, Mrs. Fred Keish and Carl Wiganowski and third, Miss Eva Warner and Edward Lithwinski. Coffee, cake and sandwiches were served and dancing followed.

There is an abundant supply of nuts of all kinds to be found growing in the section east of Manchester. Walnuts and hazel nuts, are found in the greater numbers. The walnut trees are heavily laden this year and there have been many parties spending their time in Bolton, Columbia, Andover and Lebanon gathering nuts during the past week and have been rewarded for their trouble. The hazel nut bushes are bent low because of the number of nuts that they are carrying and there have been more nuts picked this year than has been the case in many years.

All eyes are turned on the face — now that off-the-face hats are in fashion. An astringent mask for enlarged pores, an oil or a regular facial as they give them at the Weldon Beauty Parlor will do wonders for the complexion. — Adv.

SCOUTS HERE TO JOIN ROOSEVELT PILGRIMAGE
Dan Beard, Famous Scout, to Head the Procession to "Teddy's" Grave.

A large number of Manchester Boy Scouts are expected to participate in the annual Roosevelt Pilgrimage to Oyster Bay, New York, final resting place of Theodore Roosevelt, to be made Saturday, October 25 by Scouts from New York, New Jersey, Pennsylvania and Connecticut. Application blanks are now in the hands of Joseph Dean, field executive of Delmont street, and must be at the Hartford office by the 20th.

STONE HITS EYE, BOY LOSES SIGHT

Six-year-old Raymond Dancosse, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Dancosse of 61 Middle Turnpike West, has lost sight in one eye as a result of being struck by a pebble from a slingshot discharged by another boy.

The Dancosse boy is in the Manchester Memorial hospital. The accident happened when he went to throw an old bottle in a dump across the street from his home. The section is thickly wooded and a group of children were playing there. One had a slingshot. Just who fired the shot, is a mystery. All the boys in the group deny the blame. Raymond named one boy but he emphatically denies that he is the guilty person.

The chief danger is that of infection developing, the doctor said. Right now the eye appears to be responding satisfactorily under the treatment being administered but it was pointed out that it is still a bit early for infection to develop. If infection should set in, it would probably be necessary to remove the eye for fear of the other eye being infected and its sight impaired. The exact extent of the boy's loss of sight is a matter that will not be definitely known for a few days at least.

Police Lieutenant William Barron has been working on the case but as yet the guilty boy has not been located. Raymond is one of six children in the Dancosse family. The father and mother, although greatly upset over the untimely accident, hold no ill feeling against the boy responsible. Principal Thomas Bentley, however, has taken drastic steps to prevent any possible repetition of the accident. He has personally warned all of the pupils telling them that any boy found with a slingshot in his possession will be punished.

Mary C. Kenney Tent, Daughters of Union War Veterans, will meet in front of Center Congregational church tomorrow at 2:15 to attend the funeral of Mrs. Ida Dart, late color bearer of the tent.

NEGRO MINISTER HERE TOMORROW
Rev. Wm. N. DeBerry, of Springfield, to Speak in Good Will Service.

The 31 years that have passed since Rev. William N. DeBerry was called to the pastorate of St. John's church in Springfield, Mass., have been full years for the famous colored leader who will speak from the South Methodist church pulpit Sunday evening at 7 o'clock in the second Good Will service at the church. That this is so may be gathered from the article in the Congregationalist upon Rev. DeBerry's resignation as pastor this month.

In part is said: "During his pastorate the church has grown from a small, struggling group on a side street, with a small frame building, to a large city institution with a big membership, church building and program. Dr. DeBerry has projected his program into all phases of the life of the people in the community, building up vocational, recreational, residential, cultural and religious activities. Among the notable features of the St. John's Institutional Activities has been the home for working girls, the music department, the boys' club, and the summer camp in East Brookfield. The institution has an endowment of about $200,000."

Dr. DeBerry graduated from Fisk University in 1896, and from Oberlin Theological Seminary in 1899. The same year he was called to the pastorate of St. John's church. In 1914 he received the degree of D.D. from Lincoln University, and was elected a trustee of Fisk University. He received the gold medal award from the Harmon Foundation of New York in 1927 for outstanding religious service and the Pynchon medal from the City of Springfield for outstanding public service in the community in 1928. "Who's Who in America" for this year includes a sketch of Dr. DeBerry.

MISS GERDA SWANSON IS GIVEN A SHOWER

A surprise miscellaneous shower was held at the home of Mrs. Edwin G. Swanson of 83 Laurel street in honor of her sister-in-law, Miss Gerda Swanson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gottfried A. Swanson, of 81 Laurel street, last night. Miss Swanson will be married this fall to Frank Leigh Gardner, of Hartford, son of Byron L. Gardner, of Dallas, Texas.

The dining room and parlor were decorated with chrysanthemums, and the table with a miniature wishing well. A large sized wishing well was heaped with gifts from the 20 persons present from Manchester and Hartford. A buffet lunch was served by Mrs. Swanson assisted by Mrs. Edgar Gibson. The evening was spent in singing and in playing games.

Helen Davidson Lodge No. 98, Daughters of Scotia will hold a sale of Scotch baking and preserves at 2 o'clock this afternoon at Watkins Brothers store.

RECREATION INSTITUTE IN NEW COUNTY HOUSE

First of Series Arranged for Monday and Tuesday and the Following Week.

The first recreation institute to be held in Hartford County under the auspices of the Hartford County Farm Bureau, have been arranged for October 13, 20 and 21 at 8 p. m. in the County Building, according to an announcement made by Chas. D. Lewis, County Agricultural Agent for the Bureau and directors of the Farm Bureau, 4-F Club Leaders, Home Demonstration Leaders and representatives of Granges and their respective husbands and wives are invited to attend and learn new games and methods of entertainment for rural groups.

Mr. Jackson of the National Recreation Association will have charge of the meetings and will instruct the group in folk dances, songs and games. Mr. Jackson has had a vast experience in this line of work and it is expected the various leaders attending this series of meetings will be inspired to bring these new ideas in entertainment to their communities and make the meetings more enjoyable. In discussing the recreation institutes, Mr. Lewis stated that the Farm Bureau was deviating slightly from the policy of strictly agricultural and home economics education in conducting these institutes, but the executive committee of the Farm Bureau in authorizing this type of meeting felt that there was a decided need for more recreation and fun at rural gatherings. Any leaders of rural groups who are sincerely interested in making their meetings a place where "a goodtime will be had by all" are invited to attend.

SCOTTISH PAST CHIEFS MEETING HERE TODAY

Scottish Past Chiefs from this state will hold their annual meeting this afternoon at 4:30 p. m. in the Masonic Temple. Dinner will be served at 8:30 p. m. by the Past Chiefs, Daughters of Helen Davidson Lodge, this town. At 8 p. m. Glen McLean will furnish an entertainment with the following artists: Leon Holmes, recitation; Cheney Mill Lassles, the Merry-makers; Chester Shields, cornet solo; Tommie Hynds, Scotch comedian; modern and old-fashioned dancing will follow.

Court of Honor
Only two more meetings of the Court of Honor of the Manchester District, Boy Scouts of America, remain this year, according to a bulletin sent to Scout leaders by Robert Houghton, chairman of the Court of Honor. The dates are: Friday, November 14, and Friday, December 19.

A tentative schedule of Hartford Council activities for the coming year has also been sent to officials for approval and additions. Leaders who have not received one may obtain a schedule by applying to the Hartford office.

REPUBLICANS BEGIN CAMPAIGN BY RADIO

Hartford, Oct. 11.—Four half-hour radio talks over Station WTIC, the Travelers Broadcasting Service, by prominent Connecticut Republican speakers have been scheduled by the Republican State Central Committee. It was announced at headquarters at the Ally House today. United States Senator Frederic C. Walcott will be the first speaker on the evening of Wednesday, October 22, from 8 to 8:30 o'clock. Other dates chosen are as follows: Saturday, October 25, 6:30 to 7 p. m.; Monday evening, October 27; Saturday evening, November 1, from 6:30 to 7 o'clock. Others scheduled to give addresses are Lieutenant-Governor Ernest E. Rogers, Miss Katherine Byrne, vice-chairman of the Republican State Central Committee, and Professor Charles M. Bakewell of Yale, former State Senator.

ANTI-SALOON LEAGUE HEAD TO SPEAK HERE

Rev. F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League of America, who has just completed a tour of the United States, is to speak in the South Methodist church tomorrow morning at 10:30. After speaking in Manchester he goes to Norwich where he addresses a gathering in the Baptist church in that city in the evening.
