Eradication of Dutch Elm Disease Unlike

Bureau of Entomology Official Points to Difficulties Faced in Wiping Out Efforts.

Washington, March 2.—Years of combating Dutch elm disease have led Agriculture Department workers to the conclusion that it probably cannot be eradicated entirely. Congress learned today.

"We are not certain that we can eradicate the disease," said a spokesman here today. "The disease is so widespread that it is likely that we can eradicate it only in certain areas."

As more facts are developed, it is probable that the disease will be eradicated in certain areas. Because of the wide tree and latent infection it probably will be impossible to eradicate it.

Dr. H. H. Henshaw, head of the Division of forest pathology, likewise told the committee. "Probably we should have to learn how to live with the Dutch elm disease."

Funds Increase Sought

The experts appeared before the committee during consideration of a request for an appropriation of $250,000 for the fiscal year beginning next July 1, an increase of $100,000 over the fiscal year 1941. The record of the hearing was made public today.

The introduction of the department's appropriation bill for the year ending June 30, 1942, is generally expected to be approximately 10,000 square miles in the vicinity of New York City. The bill also provides for the reduction of funds and unavailability of funds for the fiscal year.

New Infections Found

New infections were found in Massachusetts in three important areas: In the vicinity of New York City, in the vicinity of New York City, and in the vicinity of New York City.

In answer to a question by Representative Morgan, the committee was informed that the disease is not yet under control in the vicinity of New York City.

Enemy Aliens

The various states, under contract with the War Relocation Authority, are engaged in the eradication of Dutch elm disease.

Truck Recovered

An Army truck, which was stolen from a private garage in Hartford, Conn., Sunday morning, was recovered in Manchester, N. H., today.

Enemy Bombs

Travis said New York state contribution toward anti-aircraft works was largely made up of the amount spent by the Federal government, which runs over $20,000,000.
