Red Cross Production Breaks War Records
(Start in a series describing the work of the Red Cross during the war.)

For the past four years, Manchester women, first with their own hands and later with the aid of their neighbors, have broken every record in the production of war supplies.

These were prime requisites and the Manchester Red Cross chapter personnel performed a remarkable feat in maintaining a steady flow of the necessary supplies to the front.

It was just another example of the spirit which has been characteristic of the Red Cross since its inception.

High Pay, Low Prices Sound Economy Base

As in Profits from Increasing Productivity
Must Be Passed
Along Rapidly

(This is the last of six articles in which leading economists give their ideas on how to keep the United States prosperous. The articles were composed by their authors for The Associated Press from the forthcoming volume, "Economic American Property," which is being published by the Twentieth Century Fund.)

By John H. Williams

Political Economy, Harvard University
Distributed by The Associated Press

Since the great depression, the widely discussed cure for unemployment has been fiscal policy. It has come to have much the same prominence as central bank policy had in the twenties. Theories about fiscal policy have come through three fairly distinct phases. There was the early "pump priming" phase which called for unbalanced budget to offset the initial cycle—deficits in depression, surpluses in boom periods. Then we began to be concerned with long-run contracts—tendency toward over-saving and under-investment, the problems of "overcapacity" theories which urged an indefinitely expanding public debt to compensate for a lack of private spending and investment.

Discussion Given New Turns
The new wave of the discussion has less emphasis on long-run debt financing. Instead has come new emphasis on "development" spending, necessarily financed by deficits and an increasing interest in possibilities of using taxation as a weapon to combat temporary stagflation.

Get Furnace Cleaned Now

You Cannot Delay Because Cold Weather Expected Any Day

We trust you have been forewarned and had your furnace cleaned out and the furnace put in shape for the winter months ahead, but if time has not slipped by and you've forgotten, don't put it off a minute more. Extension of Emergency.

As for bridging the transition from one to the other, I believe we will have to treat the transition period of two or three years as an extension of the war emergency. We must be prepared to use whatever combinations of private and public spending, including large deficits if necessary, the circumstances may require. If after the transition period, the economy cannot sustain itself without large deficits, our efforts will have failed and we shall find ourselves headed toward some other kind of economic system.

Our long-time efforts should include: (1) Fiscal and monetary policies to stabilize and expand income and employment without unduly large public spending, and especially, large deficits; (2) Business and governmental policies to make the private economy function more effectively and respond more promptly to expansionary forces; (3) The development of new wants, new products and new processes.

Stabilizing Purchases Important
Much has been said about stabilizing investment, but stabilizing consumers' purchases of durable goods is just as important. Let us not forget what the automobile did for our economy. Houses, heaters, food-freezing in homes, air-conditioning, television, etc., have been postwar answers to the question of how to increase consumption. Higher consumption, in turn, raises production, income and employment.

An advancing economy is one that relies more and more on better technique and organization to increase its output, and more and more upon a spreading of the benefits of this through price reductions and income increases.

Consumption should expand to productivity. This seems to be more important than fiscal policies. What is needed is a high consumption economy, i.e., a high level of income without excessive saving, based on a high-wage, low-profit system.

If the enterprise system is to grow within itself, the rise in profits from increasing productivity, new methods and new investment must be passed on rapidly in the form of higher wage rates and lower prices. Only in this way can the expansion of national income be made a self-perpetuating process, rather than one that needs to be increasingly propped up by public spending. This is our basic problem.

Two Must Go Home
With America's Division, Yokohama—Army officers on Yokohama now have seen everything. Corp. Leroy Edwards, Elk City, Okla., and Corp. Lloyd S. Maxwell, Pine Bluff, Ark., had points enough and both were alerted to return to the states in September. But they wouldn't face the idea of leaving behind Corp. Leon E. Brezce of Nowata, Okla., who was not quite fat enough in the point department. They explained that the three of them came over together. Brezce now has permission to return home, but the three still are unhappy. They want to wait for Corp. Carol G. Hacker of St. Louis, America's division officer, however, rules that the trio must go home now, whether they like it or not.

Four Perfect Cribbage Hands
Topeka, Kan.—Taking no chances, Paul W. Otto, has framed, mounted, labeled with date, name and names of all players, four perfect cribbage hands, dealt to him since 1928. Otto, who believes he holds a world championship in cribbage, says he has never lost a hand since he hoisted his second perfect "29" cribbage hand in 45 years.

No Sleep for Grandpa
Tacoma, Wash.—Finally back home after three years and nine months in a Jap prison camp, much sleep the first night. The former State Highway department engineer and Mr. Eldridge spent most of it walking the corridors of a hospital, where a baby boy was born to their daughter, Mrs. Benwick W. Taylor.

Impressed by Liquor Wastage
Los Angeles—When Agnes Rena Statumers testified in her divorce suit that her husband, William R. Caldwell II, tossed a fully decorated Christmas tree out of their second story window last year, Judge Arthur Crum was unimpressed. But when Miss Statumers one charged cruelty, testified further that Caldwell, a dim casting director, smashed "quite a few bottles" of bourbon, the court's ears picked up.

"You mean he poured full-lit bottles?" exclaimed the judge. "Yes, he did," she replied, "and he made me drink it. He was drunk when he did it and he was very angry."

WHAT EVERY WOMAN KNOWS...

WAR BONDS...to have and to hold!

Well, here it is 1955! And Tom—in business for himself—already heading for a real success. Set himself up with those matured War Bonds we bought back in the 1940's—four dollars for every three we saved originally! Back in 1945, even, we knew it would turn out this way. Buying all the Bonds we could. And saving them... for our future! Tom's a wonderful husband. And he deserves all the credit. Well, almost all! There was a time—that was back in 1945, too, I guess—when he needed a little help from me. I found he'd let down on his bond buying. Not only that, he actually almost suggested we cash in a Bond or two to pay for something we wanted... And that's where I put my foot down! "YOU LISTEN TO ME, Tom Lapham," I told him. "Don't you know that the biggest difference between a success and a failure is that the success sticks to his plans? I don't want to be married to a man who hasn't the resolution (or maybe I said 'gumption') to stick off on what he knows is right! You're not going to sabotage our future!" I guess every husband needs a wife dressing down once in a while! And thank heaven Tom listened to me! We kept our Bonds—and bought more and more of 'em! First thing we knew, we had enough so we began feeling secure. That gave Tom confidence—helped him get ahead. And this year, enough bonds matured to make our dreams come true! TOM'S A SUCCESS—yet he might have failed if I hadn't spoken at the right time. And, of course, he's forgotten. I wouldn't dream of reminding him—it's a secret between us girls. MORAL: Think of your future—hang on to your bonds! And keep on buying more!

Burr Will Bequeath $40,000 to Hospital

Over $300,000 Set Up As Special Trust Funds: $20,000 for Masonic Association

The will of Clifford R. Burr, founder of the Burr Sanatorium, who died at his home, 133 Main street, September 20, was filed with Judge William S. Hyde of the Manchester Probate Court this morning.

In the will, Mr. Burr sets up several trust funds, totaling over $300,000. Included in this is a gift of $40,000 to the Manchester Memorial Hospital. Mr. Burr has been long interested in the welfare of the hospital and the $40,000 trust fund which is set up for the remaining part of a bequest that he made of $20,000 in 1939. He has already paid $10,000 on this bequest, leaving the $40,000 which is now given outright as a trust fund.

$20,000 Trust Fund

In addition to the $40,000 given to the Manchester Memorial Hospital, Mr. Burr also sets up a trust fund of $20,000 for the Masonic Charity Association with the understanding that it is to be used in the same manner as the $40,000 fund.

Mr. Burr's widow is given the home at 133 Main street and is also provided for by a trust fund of $100,000, the income of which is to be paid to her for life.

His sister and two half sisters are provided for in trust funds of $5,000 each and $5,000 is given to the town of Madison for the upkeep of the Rockland Cemetery.

The Hartford National Bank & Trust Company, with Miss Carrie M. Johnson as executor and trustee under the will.

Private Planes to Be on Sale in Department Stores This Fall

Deliveries Set for Early 1946

This is the first of two articles on the immediate future of family flying.

NEA Staff Writer

NEA Staff Writer

In about a couple of months you can drop into your favorite department store, buy a book, a tube of shaving cream and some accessories, then drift up to the impromptu floor and pick out your new plane for delivery after New Year's.

How long after New Year's will depend upon how many other like you have been waiting for the war's end to buy a foot-foot two-place for week-ends in the country.

It is the Ercoupe that now is being prepared to display samples in department stores by about October, with deliveries tentatively set to begin early in 1946. But there are some half dozen other personal or family-type planes which are being prepared for your favor—and your dollars—and some are further along with recoveries than the Ercoupe is.

William A. Shedd, Assistant Secretary of Commerce, predicts in the Harvard Business Review that within the next five years there will be an annual output of 30,000 personal planes. Confined with a total, when they began in 1941, of only 25,000.

First Big Test Comes in Coal And Oil Rows

catch-all District 50 of the United Mine Workers union Lewis heads the foremen strikes have closed down mines in West Virginia and Pennsylvania.

The coal operators flatly declined the Lewis invitation. Trouble brewed because Lewis had suggested that refusal to attend the conference would free the miners to "take such independent action as may be required."

Lewis did not elaborate but it was recalled that his 400,000 soft coal miners last spring had overwhelmingly to strike in support of their contract demands.

In reflecting Lewis' demand for a meeting, the operators said they would talk only after the 36,000 strikers returned to work.

Edward R. Burke, chairman of the Southern Coal Producers association, said that he, Charles O'Neill and Harry H. Moss, representing all the bituminous operators, have reported on the effect of the shut-downs to date to Reconstruction Director John W. Snyder.

"We're not going to surrender these the union is going to the supervisory employees," Mr. Lewis ought to be completely satisfied with the 92½ per cent of the industry already in his union."

He said foremen are part of the management end of the industry. Schwellenbach whose labor department was revamped by President Truman to deal with recovery labor troubles, arranged to move the oil conference here from Chicago to try personally to help reach a settlement over the weekend.

The Army and Navy have notified him they "can't get along because of the next week on the production. Key Texas refineries are shut down with men idle in eight states."

Two of Schwellenbach's confidants, J. Hummert of St. Louis and J. O. Hubbard of Houston, said in leaving Chicago to come here that "this case is very, very important and we believe it will set a pattern for the settlement in the automobile, steel and other industries where similar disputes exist."

Gift Packages To Be Packed

Local Red Cross Chapter To Provide Gifts for Men at Ports

Last year a successful "Christmas on the High Seas" program was conducted by the Red Cross Camp and Hospital Council Service, through which gifts were made available to transports at ports of embarkation for distribution to the men who spent Christmas at sea.

This year a similar program will be conducted, and 20,000 gift boxes have been requested. The Camp and Hospital Council of the Manchester Chapter has been asked to obtain fifty of these packages. Any club, organization or individual interested in providing one or more of these packages is asked to call the Red Cross office 4115. The boxes will be collected and shipped before October 15.

Must Obey The Rules

Army orders make it imperative that certain rules be adhered to in packing these boxes, as follows:

Case of Death Not Known
Miss Abruzzo was taken unconscious from one of the buses in the center of the city, brought to the Windham Community Memorial hospital where Dr. Ernest DeFady, medical examiner, pronounced her dead. The cause of death was undetermined, he said.

Police Lead
John Killyour said, Miss Abruzzo stood up from the bus when an altercation broke out between two men near her.

The bus left the city after Miss Abruzzo was taken off it. Lieutenant Killyour said. He added that the 40-passenger transport plane would still be hundreds of miles short of its second stop by the time it neared the sunrise.

This laugh's on you--and worth it!

SOMEWHERE in the South Pacific, American boys are getting a laugh. A much-needed laugh that helps their morale. A laugh your money helps to buy -- when you give to the Manchester War Fund.

Joe E. Brown -- the friendly voice of Frances Langford -- the dancing feet of Fred Astaire.

Another part of your money is spent right here at home, to help servicemen's families keep living decently, united in happiness and health. Still another part helps cheer our merchant seamen in distant ports of the world. And it helps relieve hunger and sickness and suffering among our allies.

This is a great united cause. And because the needs are so many and so great, give generously -- give more than you gave last year. Make your gift as big as your heart.

For part of every dollar you give goes to the U.S.O. and helps send the U.S.O. camp shows overseas. And, with the millions of men now idle in occupied territories, the need to keep up their morale is greater than ever. That's why the Army makes the U.S.O. to quadruple its activities. And why your money is needed to help bring to some lonely G.I. a touch of home -- the familiar face of

The Doctor Says:

Head and Hobby Combat Tension. Millions have found the victory garden an ideal place in which to relax even though care of the plot required a certain amount of physical activity. It is to be regretted that many who presume to relax in this way as the pressure is off to produce more food. Exercise is not a cure all for nervous tension, as any diversion which takes us away from our selves is helpful. Even though nervous and high-strung, though, the latter suffer more from the effects of tension than do women. High blood pressure is probably related to tension and conflict in our daily lives and is more serious in men than in women.

A Great Many People Find their jobs disagreeable, although they realize they have to carry out their assignments, friction and tension reduce their efficiency. If your job is beyond your ability, you had better admit it and try to find the kind of work you can do best. Some people never learn the importance of rest. Our country has many places where we can enjoy ourselves through physical activity, but few where we can rest.

Nervous Tension often results in chronic fatigue. A good night's sleep is the best cure for irritability and contracted muscles from over-exertion to our work. Strenuous work is better in the morning when they do not burn the midnight oil too late.

Seditary workers need physical activity to release their tension. Nervous tension often results in chronic fatigue. A good night's sleep is the best cure for irritability and contracted muscles from over-exertion to our work. Strenuous work is better in the morning when they do not burn the midnight oil too late.

Ellington
Felix Batulonia, of the Frog Hollow section, who was arrested Saturday night by Officer Cowdy of the Stratford Springs Barracks, on a charge of breach of peace and bonded to appear Wednesday night in Ellington Justice court, was unable to appear and the case was continued for one week.

"Booster Night" program at Ellington Grange being an open meeting 100 non-members were the guests of the Grange. The program being arranged by Evelyn Abrahamson was a radio broadcast sponsored by Edward Charlier, grocer, and the Ordian Dairies. Refreshments were served and dancing followed.

No Need to Burn Home
Mesa, Ariz.—(AP)—Democratizing professional expertise and a decided love for their work, burglars bored a hole in the door of a home here which was company with an acetylene torch and came out 500 richer. Next morning when the robbery was discovered the operator of the company told their negotiator he had forgotten to lock the safe.

Octogenarian Seeks Divorce
Los Angeles—(AP)—After three months of litigation, the divorce of Boho Walker, 85, has changed her mind and appealed to the domestic relations court for recovery of $35,000 in real and personal property from her husband, Mrs. Walker, 66. "I thought he was the best man I ever knew," said Mrs. Walker, "but he changed three times. But he changed." Her suit for annulment or divorce is pending.

Hebron

Hebron electors should have in mind that besides its regular election of town officers on Monday, Oct. 1, they will have the opportunity of voting upon three constitutional amendments. These are: 1. To increase the pay of members of the General Assembly from $300 to $600 for the term. 2. To provide for an annual session of the legislature. 3. To provide for the Lieutenant Governor-elect to qualify as governor in case of the death of the governor-elect.

Following the voting session, with polls open from 9 a. m. to 8 p. m., the usual town meeting will take place after an adjournment. Questions to be considered will be along the usual lines. Reports of town officers will come up for approval. Budgets for the ensuing year will be planned for. The care of roads and bridges, accepting the customary aid from the state in paying off railroad bonded indebtedness, borrowing necessary money in anticipation of receipt of tax payments will be acted upon, and any other business proper to come before the meeting will be in order.

Hotel Clerk Robbed
Salt Lake City—(AP)—The short stocky fellow said he wanted a hotel room. The clerk said sorry, fresh out. The short one then asked change for a ten spot. Complainant, the clerk opened the money drawer exposing $62. The short one then applied a hammerock, slugged the clerk cold and left—roomless but $62 ahead. Always ready to give the right man a bed, police continue looking.

Your GI Rights

By Douglas Larson
NEA Staff Correspondent
Washington—Here are some general questions from men in the service and their relatives:
Q. In a couple of weeks I will be discharged from the Army on points. I would like to re-enlist in the Navy. Will I have to be re-drafted again and take any chances, or can I enlist directly?
A. You can enlist directly.
Q. My brother will soon be discharged from the Army. Is there anything to prevent him being drafted again and put into the Navy where his points won't count?
A. Selective Service has ruled that all men who have received an honorable discharge, or its equivalent, from the armed forces are to be placed in Class I-C. They are not to be re-drafted unless they volunteer or unless their induction is authorized by the Director of Selective Service.
Q. My son is an air cadet in the Navy. He has a chance to get out. He does get out will he be eligible for the benefits of the GI Bill of Rights?
A. This way of getting out of the service will not bar him from the GI benefits. He will be eligible, if he meets the other qualifications.

Bears Grime of Centuries
To get to the central part of the shrine you enter a long staid archway which bears the grime of centuries—half lit and active with a hundred strange smells each fighting for supremacy.
The shrine is supposed to have about 3,000 separate small pagodas.
Burmese children squabble at the entrance of the temple gateway for the chance to guard your shoes, for it is against the house rules to go in shoeless. You walk barefooted or in your socks, and after one glance at the unswathed cobblestone pavement, we elected to keep our socks on.
The covered archway was more than 100 yards long and housed scores of Burmese families who had turned the shrine into one of Bangkok's busiest shopping centers. You could buy almost anything there—from Japanese magazines to candles from hairpins to rubies.

Patches Marital Troubles
Chicago—(AP)—Mrs. Ruth Brown, 33, agreed to patch her husband's trousers—and thereby patched her marital troubles. Before Superior Judge Edwin A. Robson, Mrs. Brown agreed to sew back the one leg each, she had snipped off six pairs of trousers—stitched off, she told the court in a separate maintenance suit, to prevent husband Herbert from going out with another woman. The suit was dropped, and Judge Robson told Mrs. Brown's attorney, Charles Cooley, "You've done a fine job of reconciling this couple, and I'm going to enter a $75 fee order for you."

Bayles COLUMN

Burmese craftsman, soaked to the waist, carved one of the temple's figures in wood. He labored with oriental patience, carving out the same figure over and over again as he had done for years.
Put on Black Cheerios
Burmese women puffed nonchalantly away on black cheerios as they sold tiny colored candies to the pious on the way to their favorite shrines.
From the air the golden shrine of this centuries-old monument to Buddhism is the most outstanding feature of Bangkok's bomb-marked landscape. At closer range it is even more remarkable.
I went through the shrine with Sgt. Jack Malone, former truckman, of Grand Rapids, Michigan, who was among a group of fewer than 50 American troops stationed in Bangkok.

Used As Air Raid Shelter
"We were asked not to bomb this shrine during the war," said Sgt. Malone. "I don't know what shelter whenever our planes were over the docks area. Many civilians lived here for a long time, afraid to return to their homes."
The shrine is supposed to have about 3,000 separate small pagodas.

Tolland

At the Tolland War Fund Rally held Monday evening Miss Helen McCartney, singer in USO hospital camp shows in Italy, told of her varied experiences at the end of the program which William Spear participated. Miss McCartney was requested to sing "Ave Maria." Miss McCartney had told of the popular demand for this song by the G. I. boys.

Symbolic of Far East
In one stall was a woman who symbolized for me all that I have seen of the Far East. She was small and slimly built with a face whose features were clean, soft and beautiful as old ivory. She was wearing a high-waisted, long-sleeved, buttoned dress with delicate shabby hands and her face was as serene as if she were alone in a high-walled convent out of the world and its troubles. Yet a tiny dirty squawking baby, obviously ill and shockingly thin, drowsed covered the baby's face and body. The mother paid no heed to its sick wails and silently and peacefully kept on playing her flowers.
