Take the strange case of Loren Dale Mitchell.

The Indians have been trying to foist off the 31-year-old outfielder practically from the time he joined Cleveland in 1946. This despite the fact he has been consistently the best-hitting left fielder in the American League is right now pushing Philadelphia's Ferris Fain for the batting champlonahip.

Mitchell struck oil on his wheat and alfalfa ranch hard by Norman, Okla., no longer has to worry about fodder for the family.

The big fellow reverses the usual procedure having to do with the hungry ball player.

"Now that I no longer have to worry about money, I hope they let me alone," he remarked in the Spring. "If they do I'll have a big year."
