Change of Heart

Henry Long, Massachusetts tax collector who frequently makes good newspaper copy, has recently backed down on one item and bristled up on another.

Long, long the watchdog of the Bay State purse strings, has pulled up short in connection with tax abstements to Purple Heart veterans and those with permanent disabilities.

A couple of weeks back one of the disgruntled (and nameless assessors) state tax figures complained that if those in his group had a little more backbone, guys like Long couldn't treat veterans and had to open most windows.

Cross-Fire

Heard a good one the other evening about a local housing project that his action may be the starting point of a trend away from phoney values placed on titles and jobs which accent the supposed importance of the title-holder and suppress the little guy who doesn't have any "friends" or connections.

A partment No. 1 housewife wanted some heat so she turned on the thermostat. The heat poured into Apartment No. 5. No. 1 bewildered, turned the thermostat up to a rousing 95. Still no heat, but No. 6 couldn't stand the heat and had to open most windows.

Medals. He told them that they would have to file for full tax figures and then take a chance on getting a veterans' abatement.

This aroused such a storm of controversy in a state already ridden with special favors to special groups, that Long has now come out with a telegram to assessors. It's supposed to let them know that he's relented a bit on his previous stand and guide them for future action.

Like most state and governmental communications it is couched in a special language reserved for those who speak the gibberish. It reads:

"Be advised you must receive all applications for exemption under the sticky rely tape and bureaucratic jurgles that lie in the way. And it is an expensive proposition too. West with a wind the story proposition too. West with a bushel basket.

"A Fighter For Economy"

"Few there are who will deny that Congressman A. A. Bibicoff of Harttord is an ardent supporter and friend of the administration's foreign aid program.

As a member of the House Foreign Affairs Committee he has shown himself to be very well informed on the need for a foreign and plan and has buttressed his committee-acquired knowledge by study of world affairs and visits to the Euro-nate many of the employes of the program, persons who run around in Europe,

"paper shufflers" he calls them, getting in each other's way and "bringing ill will
