Rotner Tells Kiwanians of Minor Courts

The minor courts of the State of Connecticut are of major importance, Judge John G. Rotner told the Manchester Kiwanian Club at their meeting Monday noon.

Describing the town courts as "courts of first impression," Judge Rotner explained that very few people ever saw the inside of the Superior Court or the Court of Common Pleas, but that almost everyone, during the course of his lifetime, comes in contact with justice as dispensed by the town, city or borough court. These courts, he said, are the most important of the judicial system in the state.

Judge Rotner pointed out that the Manchester Town Court is an A class municipal court. It is a court of first impression, he said, and it is the only court in the state where a citizen can appear in person and be heard by a judge.

Sec. Charles M. McGill, who resides at Maple St., has as his guests his son, Gordon McGill, his wife and children, of Evansville, Ind. It was the first family reunion in 12 years. The 7-year-old son, William, was in the U. S. Army in England, and he was graduated with the degree of bachelor of civil in June from Evansville College.

Rain Is Needed To Help Texas Drought Areas

"Grain is coming in—not enough, but we're getting out there. Cotton seed meal and cake are coming in—not enough, but we're getting out there."

"There's not any way to estimate the value of the program—it's relieved the pressure," said Wool buyer Noel C. Fry, Del Rio. "But only rain will relieve the situation."

The outlook for rain in Val Verde County, where Del Rio is located, is bleak. The county marked its 66th day of 100 plus temperatures yesterday.

From Del Rio to Big Spring, 200 miles to the northwest, is the critical area. More than 300 stockmen around Big Spring have been driven from their ranges by drought. Financial condition is considered on request—just how many cattle and sheep the stockman has and how much he needs.

From Del Rio to the top of the Texas Panhandle it's a shot of 660 miles through the West Texas drought.

Texas has 102 counties—almost two-thirds of its 268,644 square miles land area—in the drought disaster area. Some rain has fallen on 66 of those counties since President Eisenhower designated them as eligible for drought relief, and 44 of these have had pretty good rains.

But—general rains are still needed before the extreme drought is relieved, said Louis P. Merrill, Fort Worth, regional director of the Soil Conservation Service. Grass that turned green after rains in the Panhandle two weeks ago was beginning to brown again under the searing heat. The capacity of the Panhandle range had been reduced 50 to 60 per cent by damage to grass root systems. Requests for emergency feed continued.

At Lubbock, 120 miles south of Amarillo, almost everybody agreed the feed program was successful. The only complaint came from R. C. Young, Lubbock feed dealer, who charged that the program had not been getting the credit feed.

The county screening committee replied that having approval on financial resources would penalize one group while helping another. The only complaint in the Amarillo area was the delay in getting the feed.

Feed Dealers Differ The picture was different when viewed by feed dealers. "It looks like the little feed dealer is being forced out of business," said Lonnie Ross, Vernon. "Everybody's got his hand out for something for nothing these days. My sales have fallen off more than 50 per cent since the program went into effect."

The Department of Agriculture has called for a report on charges made last week by a grain dealer that Texas ranchers were profiteering on the cheap feed. W. Floyd Deacon said the ranchers were stocking up and were trying to resell the feed in the Midwest at higher prices. State Production and Marketing Administration chief, Claude McCann, Victoria, said immediately that he knew of no abuses of the program. He will make the investigation and the report.

Oklahoma Storms Toll Set at Four

Oklahoma City, Aug. 12 (AP)—

Thunderstorms ripped across Oklahoma last night killing four persons, injuring others, and playing havoc with electrical lines. A sudden squall struck Lake Murray, near Ardmore in southern Oklahoma, and turned the calm waters into roaring waves. One boat with four persons overturned, drowning three of them.

The dead are Mr. and Mrs. Robert (Red) Dismore, Ardmore insurance man, and Guy Gardner, bait concessions operator at the lake.

'City Editor' Seen Saving State Funds

Hartford, Aug. 12 (AP)—

Frederick P. Grimley, who began work Aug. 1 as the state's new supervisor of publications, is confident he can point the way to both financial savings and improved state publications.

The veteran New Haven newspaperman has become a sort of city editor who screens copy coming from scores of state agencies, deciding what should be printed and how many copies of each.

Right now he's devoting his time largely to talking with department heads, explaining how his office can help them prepare better and more readable documents.

He knows his job is a big one, and will take time to bear fruit. For in 1951, a survey revealed there were some 1,000 agency publications at a cost to the taxpayers of $250,000.

Could have 10 Per Cent The survey also questioned the value of some printed reports, criticizing the waste in time and money and conservatively estimating that at least 10 per cent could be saved through centralized control.

Although Grimley must give his opinion on how many copies of some documents, he may approve or disapprove of agency reports and other material. "We want both quantity and quality control," he adds.

"This has definitely got to be a cooperative job," he says emphatically.

"Publications of the State of Connecticut should be truly representative of the state, its government and its people," he says.

"They should be dignified in content and appearance."

"They must be concise and readable, written in good, terse English that all can understand."

Grimley, who moved to the new position after eight years with the Connecticut Development Commission, aims to save as much money as possible.

But he does have some definite ideas on how taxpayer money can be saved.

These include elimination or reduction in some publications which serve little value and have no public interest, close editing to reduce size where needed, use of smaller type where feasible and determining whether to use printing or mimeograph processes.

In cases, he says, it has been found that it is cheaper to print than to mimeograph reports where great number of copies are needed.

Where he may approve fewer copies of some documents, he may approve or disapprove of agency reports and other material. "We want both quantity and quality control," he adds.

A Remarkable Trip
If Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had gone to Korea and Japan with the express purpose of insuring a much future trouble as possible, we doubt that he could have created any more than has created in his pre-arranged effort to make things smooth.

In Korea he issued a statement and initiated a treaty.

In the statement, he cooperated with President Rhee in putting a 90-day limit on the Korean peace conference. After that 90-day limit, he said, the United States would, if it in the judgment of the conference is not producing the unity of Korea, make a "concerted withdrawal" from the conference with South Korea, after which the United States and South Korea would "then consult further regarding the attainment of a unified, free and independent Korea."

A little later, the Dulles-Rhee statement notes that South Korea "has agreed to take no unilateral action to unite Korea by military means for the agreed duration of the political conference."

That means, then, that we have more than a 90-day guarantee of peace from Rhee, and that we accept that fact. Obviously, we are inclined to keep edging him on paper, but in reality he is not, he is exactly where he himself has said he was.

In the proposed treaty with South Korea, we are given the right, permanently, to maintain United States troops in Korea.

The trouble in all these developments is fairly obvious. We and Rhee are dictating not only to each other but to the United Nations. The war fought in the name of collective security is being transformed into a two-power affair. And even as we enter a peace conference in which we are insisting that the Chinese Communists withdraw all their troops from North Korea, we are negotiating a treaty which gives us the right to retain our troops permanently in South Korea. Likewise, we seem to be assuming that the negotiation of Korea would mean simply putting North Korea under the rule of Rhee.

If we hold to such positions, without developing clever compromises out of them, there is small use in even beginning a Korean peace conference. Now it may be that Mr. Dulles has it in mind to get out of some of these implied commitments—that he is ready to be patient for more than 90 days, that he hopes to edge Rhee into milder attitudes, that he intends to base our peace conference policy on the fact that the proposed treaty with South Korea does not require us to maintain troops in South Korea, even though it gives us the right to do so.

But, if we take the position in which Mr. Dulles now stands, officially, which is the only position either the enemy or allies can see clearly, Mr. Dulles has torpedoed the Korean peace conference before it begins. And his central error, it seems to us, is that he has given South Korea, and our commitments to it, priority over the United Nations, and our commitments to it.

From Korea, Mr. Dulles went to Japan for a little courtesy call. There he held out a carrot, and he used a stick, both a little unbelievable.

The carrot was his announcement that the United States is going to give back to Japan one small group of islands known as the Amami Oshima group, whose 214,000 residents have been on recurrent hunger strikes against American sovereignty there. But at the same time, Mr. Dulles made it clear that we are not giving back Okinawa and the other major Japanese islands we now possess.

and which we consider it necessary retain for military reasons. One does not have to guess very much about the Japanese national mood to say that this token return of some small islands will whet Japanese campaigning for return of the big islands, and that we have not given back more than we are committed to give us have given back.

Having opened his brief visit in Japan with a carrot, Mr. Dulles closed it with hold use of a stick. He invited Premier Yoshida because that nation is not building an army faster, and he scoffed at a goal of only four divisions for the Japanese army, pointing out that South Korea, with a population less than a quarter the size of Japan, had tried 17 divisions and was aiming at 20.

The unbelievable thing about such conduct is that Secretary of State Dulles knows that the Japanese constitution, which we handed to them, forbids them to maintain an army. And he should also know that, if he does want Japan to raise a big army, nonetheless, the worst thing he can do given the political situation in Japan, is to make it appear that the United States is ordering Japan to do it.

Altogether, Mr. Dulles has had a remarkable trip.

Wheat Vote Coming
One difference between the present Department of Agriculture and the present department is not campaigning one way or another in the important vote coming up Friday.

The worst thing he can do given the political situation in Japan, is to make it appear that the United States is ordering Japan to do it.

Spent 52 Years Behind Bars:

Maine's Only Lifer-Trusty To Be Released from Jail

Thomaston, Maine, Aug. 12 (AP)—Fifty-two years ago, following a conviction for murder, John G. Grafton, 25, had to reconcile himself to prospects of life behind bars for murder.

He did that by becoming Maine State Prison's only lifer-trusty.

Now at 77, Grafton faces a new adjustment—getting used to freedom in a changed world he sampled a few times in old age.

His oldest convict will be Maine's oldest parolee reformer, said by state legislators, when he is released from the Portland State Prison in 1954.

The parole board indicated that processing Grafton for release may take 10 days to two weeks.

The release is conditional on his dwelling in Knox County, three counties removed from the town of Grafton, scene of the crime for which Grafton was sentenced.

But the still active trusty gave no sign of worry over life on the outside when he heard the news.

Parole board chairman Gerald Mullins, 22, said Grafton didn't say a word, but he smiled and his eyes moistened as he heard the news.

Four times, between 1920 and 1947, Grafton sought executive pardon of the crime he has maintained he didn't commit. Each time he was turned down after Grafton folk testified they feared his release would endanger them.

Now Grafton said he was not budging by his plans will be opened by a parole board.

Grafton was convicted, largely on the testimony of a companion in the crime, of beating Clifford Mosher to death in the course of a burglary at Mosher's farm home. The companion, William Hamlin, died in prison after serving nine years.

Pet Bear Kills Arizona Boy, 3

Flagstaff, Ariz., Aug. 12—Three-year-old Andrew Mark Palmer, Jr., was dead today, victim of a 200-pound bear that had been his household pet.

The boy died in a local hospital about three hours after the clasp.

Mrs. Palmer, the boy's mother, said her son went out to play. The bear was on a chain but not caged.

Whether the boy teased the bear with a stick was not known, but he was mauling the lad when Mrs. Palmer came out of the house. She tried to save the boy when the bear attacked her.

A neighbor, hearing the scuffle, shot the bear to death.

The bear, about three years old, had been bought by the Palmers at a Phoenix carnival when it was a cub.

Mrs. Palmer suffered minor injuries.

Columbia Zone, Planning Unit Voted by Town Meeting

Columbia, Aug. 12 (Special).—A Planning Commission was voted for by Columbia residents at a special town meeting held Monday evening in Yeman's Hall.

The present Zoning Commission will act as a Zoning and Planning Commission.

LaVerne Williams, chairman of the commission, pointed out the value of having a local planning commission with the town government so rapidly. Philip Iohann served as chairman for the meeting.

Garbage Problem

Another subject brought up at the meeting was the garbage disposal problem. At present most of the rubbish and garbage is collected by a resident of Coventry who stated that his sources for disposal in Coventry cannot be found in the future.

It could be furnished for that purpose, then the problem would be solved. But the reaction of most people when asked would they rent their land for such a purpose was a flat "No."

Chair Robinson, first selectman, asked all present if they knew of land available that could be used to please inform the selectmen. Suggestions offered included a town-controlled dump with an attendant on hand to keep the area covered and a large incinerator where the public could do their own burning.

authorizing the appointment by the presiding chairman of a three-man committee to meet with the selectmen to approach the owners of the present town dump, Howard Newberry, to ask if the rubbish dump could also be used as a garbage disposal unit for the present.

An amendment was made to the proposal asking for the establishment of an area for the disposal of garbage and rubbish in keeping with a 1947 ruling empowering the selectmen to arrange for a rubbish and garbage collection with each person using said service to pay individually for service rendered.

Under this amendment the selectmen and the new planning commission were authorized to find a suitable solution to the problem.

Regional School Discussed

A third subject taken up at the meeting was the establishment of a regional school planning committee to join with other town planning committees to make a study of the possible regional school to accommodate Windham and other towns.

Mrs. George Peters at the request of Donald Tuttle, local Board of Education chairman, read a letter from the Windham Board of Education asking for a purpose of land for such a purpose.

Chair Robinson, first selectman, asked all present if they knew of land available that could be used to please inform the selectmen. Suggestions offered included a town-controlled dump with an attendant on hand to keep the area covered and a large incinerator where the public could do their own burning.

Chairman Appointed

A proposal was made and passed of Education stating its views on this project as the answer to the future high school enrollment problems facing this area.

It was voted to have the present members of the Board of Education, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Card and Mrs. Chauncey Squier, secretary of the board, act as the local study group.

At the close of the meeting Chairman Williams stated that Raymond E. Clarke, local constable, has been appointed enforcement officer for the commission.

Gene Mystery Solved

The case of the wandering geese in Columbia has been solved with ownership of the travelers being established by John R. Wiley of Cheshire. Wiley purchased the geese Sunday morning. Apparently they took a wandering trip and three of them showed up in Julius Banner's yard about a mile away and the rest wandered into the chicken yard of a neighbor. Pio Belli, frightening his chickens.

Stafford Youth Freed by Reds In POW Swap returned by the Communists yesterday.

Mothers Hear News

Mrs. Elsieberger, who told news of her son's release, said that only two words, "He's alive,"

The Connecticut soldier, fourth from the state to be released in operation big switch, enlisted in the Army in 1940 and went to Korea shortly after the Reds invaded South Korea. He was taken prisoner in December, 1950.

In the background of the telephone conversation could be heard the boy's father repeating over and over again the same words used by his wife.

Elsieberger has four brothers, one of whom is serving with the U. S. Army in Germany, and seven sisters.

Reporters called the homes of each of the freed prisoners as soon as their names came over the radio. "It's so wonderful, it doesn't seem possible," said Mrs. Mae A. Pratt, mother of Cpl. Vial.

"It's what we've waited for for so long months. We've never stopped praying. Oh, how we've prayed," she said, and added, in a halting voice:

"I'm not ungrateful of the boys who still are prisoners, but, oh, it's so wonderful that he's home and back with us."

Vial's airplane died last April 4.

Went Over in 1951

Sgt. Lundquist was formerly a resident of Chicago but four years ago married the former Nancy Koskinen, 23, of Pittsburgh, Mass. Seven months after their marriage he was sent overseas and was captured on April 24, 1951.

His mother-in-law, Mrs. Lelma I. Koskinen of 8 Broadway, Fitchburg, said: "I'm very excited and so happy for him and my daughter."

Lundquist's wife is living with friends in San Diego.

In Chaco, Maine, Mrs. Everett R. Merrill went to bed without word of her son, Cpl. Delvin R. Merrill.

Finally, at 2:30 a. m. (DET.), his name came through from Korea and Mrs. Merrill was awakened by the ring of her telephone.

"You've changed my whole life by this call," she said. "I hope he can come home for his 31st birthday Aug. 19. He's been waiting right along that he is well, but he'd tell me that anyway—that's the kind of boy he is."

Cpl. Merrill, a prisoner for two years, has two brothers, John, 21, a discharged Korean veteran, and Charles, a high school pupil.

Cpl. Vincent will get a big eggshells dance when he gets back to Manchester, N. H. That's on the word of his aunt, Mrs. Regina Vincent.

Thanks to God

The first thanked God for her nephew's release and then said: "We had more than a dozen from him since he was captured. He was really anxious to get home to one of my spaghetti dinners. And he said he can't wait to get down to his peanut butter sandwiches and cocoa."

Vincent is a career soldier with 12 years service. Mrs. Vincent said her nephew's wife is "somewhere in Florida." They have no children.

The aunt said the soldier's father, Emory, lives on St. Elizabeth St., Montreal. The freed prisoner has a brother, Albert, 31. Their mother is dead.

Told his son: Pfc. Lawrence P. Dahms, 21, was now free. His father, Walter G. Dahms, said in Portland, Maine:

"There aren't words in the dictionary to tell how we feel."

The soldier's mother added that her son passed three birthdays in Red prison camp.

New York, Aug. 12 (AP).—The first Soviet newspaper arriving here with accounts of Premier Georgi Malenkov's hydrogen bomb speech to tell the Soviet people that the U. S. S. R. either has the bomb or has mastered the production of it.

In direct and indirect quotations of the speech to the supreme soviet, permitted through Moscow censorship Saturday, various correspondents attributed to Premier Malenkov assertions that the Soviet Union had the bomb and had mastered its production.

No such statement appeared in the version broadcast by Moscow Radio, nor does any such statement appear in the Russian language text as printed by the newspaper Trud, first of the Soviet employees in private industry set on their own time and so should public employees. Police work during the fiscal year which began July 1. The funds would be used to build up Spanish armed forces and improve the country's road network.

In addition, further American money would be used in developing the bases themselves. The Air Force told the Senate Appropriations Committee last month it planned to spend up to 400 million dollars on the four bases it hoped to get.

Reports said the pact also provided for a limited number of U. S. military, naval and economic experts to supervise construction work at the bases and assist in administering the economic aid.

This does not say that the Soviet Union either has the bomb or has mastered its production. It hints at it and indicates it but falls far short of an outright admission. This is all that Malenkov had to say on this particular matter.

There have been instances in the past when Soviet leaders knowingly have let through censorship information which was not in accordance with the actual facts. There is a possibility that Malenkov used the words attributed to him and that the words did not show up in the official text. It is also possible that correspondents were given a mis-translation of Malenkov's remarks.
