Judge Alva P. Loiselle, who presided, immediately sentenced Doucette to a life term in Connecticut State Prison, without benefit of parole.

Was based almost entirely on the confessions.

The two prosecutors managed to get the Doucette and Rogers statements into evidence only after experiencing considerable difficulty in laying a ground-work for this admission.

The matron of honor wore a mauve pink ballerina-length gown of silk organza, made with fitted bodice, portrait neckline, cap sleeves and bouffant skirt of unpressed pleats. She wore a head-band of dark pink split carnations and violets, and carried a nosegay of the same flowers. The brideamaids were blue gowns similar to that of the ma-tron of honor, and their headbands and nosegays were of light pink split carnations. The mother of the bride chose a dress of teal silk taffets with seed pearls and sequins and pink accessories, and the mother of the bridegroom chose a dress of pearl gray embroidered silk or ganza with pink accessories. Radioisotopes Aid In Heart Diagnosis

Minneapolis-Researchers at the University of Minnesota are inves-tigating a method of using radioisotope tracers to diagnose con-genital heart diseases in infants.

"Right-to-left shunts"—abnor-mal transfers of blood from the heart's right side to its left through defects in the heart or great vessels—have hitherto been difficult to detect without puncturing an artery, a hazardous procedure in infants.

It has been found that several radiation detectors, plus X-ray opaque fluid containing radio-active iodine injected through a vein, avoid artery puncture and can be made to yield a map of an infant's circulation, including the presence or absence of the hardto-spot right-to-left shunts.

'Wildcat Money' From Michigan

Albany, N.Y.-In 1838 New York passed a "free banking" law and soon many independent state banks sprang up all over the country. For the most part, they were owned by the people of their communities and their business was Until 1863 these notes circulated everywhere although many of the banks were in remote places where there were more wildcats than

Such banknotes came to be called "wildcat" currency. This name was first used in Michigan, where a bank had issued currenc bearing the picture of a wildcat The bank failed, and depositors, looking at their worthless money, said in derision, "Wildcat money from a wildcat bank!"

Study of Gland Secretions Is Vital Field of Research

By EDWIN P. JORDAN, M.D. Vritten for NEA Service A lengthy list of questions about CTH and cortisone has been submitted by a reader. I shall attempt to answer the more important ones. Both of these preparations are now quite well known and have uses both in the study of diseases and in treatment. Both of them were originally obtained from glands of internal secretion. The tiny gland known as the pituitary lies on the underside o brain at the base of the skull. This gland secrets several important hormones which are necessary for the development and function of various organs and which act, not only on the body as a whole, but also on other glands of internal secretion. One of the hormones which is secreted from a portion of the pituitary body (or gland) acts on another important internal gland called the adrenal. There are two ardenal glands, which are also small and which lie close to the two kidneys.

This pituitary hormone activates or stimulates a portion of the adrenal glands and is called adrerticothropic hormone, or ACTH for short. Lacking the stimulating action of this pituitary hormone, important hormones (perhaps cortisone in particular) of the adrenal clands are not produced in suficient amounts. This is complicated of course. However, the last few years have made this subject of pracical importance in the treatment of many diseases. Several different diseases are being treated with success, both with the adrenal secretion which is called cortisone, or by the stim-ulating pituitary secretion, ACTH. And there are related preparations

Both ACTH and cortisone have remarkable effects. Both substances are being used in some eye diseases, in arthritis, in some al-Bergies, in several infectious dissaes and a number of other conditions, some of which have not up to this time responded well to other forms of treatment. Medical science has known something about these glands of internal secretion and of the hormones which they produce for many years. However, the discovery of the extraordinary effects of these two hormones on many actions of the human body and on some of the body's diseases has stimulated a great deal of inter-

As a result, the tiny pituitary gland, like the two small adrenal glands, is being subjected to in-tensive studies. From the practical point of view it should be realized that these substances may produce undesirable as well as wanted effects. Consequently they must be given with caution and the patient watched closely.

"There is a feeling in many capitals that U.S. loan programs and ald programs (ave not given as much assistance proportionally to Latin America as they should,"

Nixon said.

And our information program must be designed to correct this attitude that does exist," Nixon declared.

Government officials in some countries may be willing to seek the most effective means of developing national resources, Nixon added, but cannot go through with them for lack of popular support. The Vice President apparently referred to nationalist opposition in some nations to allowing foreign companies to develop resources where local capital is insufficient.

The feeling exists, he continued, that there should be no limit on what Washington does for Latin America in the way of loans and stabilization of raw material prices. Nixon said U.S. officials should "step up across-the-table discussions so that the resities of the situation are laid on the table."

This should include pointing out U.S. budget limitations on meeting, worldwide obligations, the Vice President said.

Bird Leads Men

To Bees' Nests

Cape Town—The African greater honeyguide, a bird distantly related to the North American woodpecker, is one of two known living creatures that can digest wax, which it objains from bee's nests.

Since the bee nest must be broken open before the bird can feast on its principal food, it attracts the attention of a human, then "guides" him to the Ireasure, hence the bird's name.

The only other creature known to be able to digest wax is the "waxworm"—the larva of a moth The wax is broken down to fatty acids by intestinal bacteria in the worm. It is not known yet how the honeyguide digests the wax.

President Orders U.S. Troops Leave Little Rock School

Washington, May 8 (AP)—President Eisenhower today or-dered withdrawal May 29 of all federal troops enforcing school integration at Little Rock, Ark.

The President said in a statement that he hopes it will be the start of the school year next September.

Eisenhower's orders on withof the Army Brucker to Maj. Gen.
Edwin A. Walker, commander of the troops which have been enforcing a gourt order for integration at Little Rock's Central High School since last September.
Elsenhower's statement said:
"Since last September the fed-
