Board Asks Conduit, School Razing Bids

The Robertson Park Redevelopment plan moved two steps closer to realization last night.

The Board of Directors authorized Acting General Manager James H. Sheehey to take bids on enclosing Lydall and White Brooks in a conduit through the park. And it also authorized him to take bids on the raising of the old Union School. Votes on both issues were unanimous.

Major Motion

The motion on the Union School matter was made by Director Francis Mahoney, who had waged a 9-month fight to save the school. "I want for more than 20 years — for some purpose."

He threw in the sponge after massive opposition to this proposal developed among North End residents who packed the Municipal Building hearing room last night and demanded the school be torn down.

"These demands, some of which drew cheers from the public, centered on the allegation that the building represented a moral danger for teenagers as well as the charge that 'undesirables' camped there."

Mahoney, who had issued an appeal to North Enders yesterday to turn out at the meeting and oppose any more to raise the building, was almost isolated last night. His chief support came from Edward Moriarty, Democratic registrar of voters.

In moving that the acting manager be authorized to take bids on the raising of the school, Mahoney said, "My only thought was to try to keep the building up for some purpose. But it seems to be the wish of the people that it be torn down. His motion drew some applause from the public."

Attacks Mahoney

Included among the demands that the school be torn down was a hearing personal attack on Mahoney by Victor Swanson, president of the Manchester Improvement Assn. He said Mahoney was "cheated" with the raising of the school and implied Mahoney was seeking to set himself up as a "champion" of the North End.

He also said Mahoney would have further opportunities to "champion" the cause of that section of town. He said his residents intended to come back to the Board in the future with other demands notably one for a swimming pool.

In a statement to the press yesterday, the Democratic Director had accused Swanson, who is publicity chairman of the Republican Town Committee, of not standing on the Union School side for political gain.

Enclosing Lydall Brook in a conduit through the park—a long-sought objective of North Enders who complain of its stench and say it represents a hazard to children playing along its banks—is the main feature of the Robertson Park plan of Mayor Harold A. Turkington.

In proposing the raising of the Union School, the mayor had said other facilities could be built, when needed, for additional recreational purposes.

Improved Lighting

The Board last night also advanced another feature of the plan proposed by the mayor for the North End. In designating areas where street lighting was to be improved in the fiscal year beginning July 1, the Board named N. Main St. from McCabe to Oakdale St.

Other aspects of the Robertson park plan include leveling off and improving areas of the park now unused, providing additional playground and park equipment, and

Andover Little League Games Listed

The 1968 schedule for four Andover Little League teams was announced last night at Wright's Field after the Fire Department Fireball trounced the Andover Lake team, 20-5.

Tommy Bonnes was the winning pitcher while the Lake team used three hurlers, Jimmy Thompson, Larry Coyne and Jimmy Wright in a vain attempt to stop the Fireballs.

The first game will be played by Huntington's Crosses and Palmer's team Thursday at 6:30 p.m. at Wright's Field.

Other games are scheduled as follows: Tuesday, Palmer's and Lake; June 12, Fire Department and Huntington's; June 17, practice games for all teams; June 19, Huntington's and Fire Department; June 24, Lake and Palmer's; June 28, Palmer's and Huntington's; July 1, Lake and Fire Department; July 8, Fire Department and Palmer's; and July 15, Huntington's and Lake.

Five-off games will begin July 15.

Sportsmen's Club Elects

Charles Phelps was elected president of the Sportsmen's Club at the annual meeting, serving with him will be Russell Galigo, vice president; Carl Rubin, secretary; and John H. Yonkers, treasurer. The club was voted to participate in the annual Sheepsheak competition at the Sportsmen's Club grounds each summer, providing that the firmers are also interested in continuing the event.

The Sheepsheak will be discussed at the firmers' annual meeting June 13 in the firehouse.

Registrars to Meet

The registrars of voters will meet in the home of Mrs. Frank Hamilton on Helop Rd. from 12 to 2 p.m. June 12 for the convenience of voters who plan to affiliate with a party or to change party affiliations. Only voters with party affiliations may participate in their parties' primaries or caucuses.

No new voters will be made in this session. Meetings for making new voters will be held in August, September and October, so that new residents may vote in the fall elections.

New Arrival

Maytie Crowell Dies; Hospital, Church Leader

Life-long interest and service to the church. Mrs. Crowell was born at Highland Park in 1876, the daughter of Dr. C. A. Williams, D.D., and Marietta Stanley Case. She was graduated from the New England Conservatory of Music, Boston, in 1892.

Her first position was as organist to the Second Congregational Church of Manchester. The late William Hamilton Childs was instrumental in engaging her for the position.

She also played in the Talcottville Congregational Church and the late Thomas Ferguson of The Herald, as a boy, pumped the organ.

She served as organist at South Methodist Church for 15 years. In September 1932 she was married to Albert I. Crowell, who was secretary for Case and Ferguson, paper manufacturers. He was later head of the firm's selling agency.

She was a member and trustee of the South Methodist Church and together with the Crowells planned and built the parsonage, later gift to the church in 1941.

She was a member of the North Church in 1941. Mrs. Crowell was a member of the American Guild of Organists, New England Chapter, a member of the Lake Placid Club, the New York and of the Town and Country Club of Hartford.

She is survived by a niece, Mrs. L. Richard Holden of West Hartford. Funeral services will be held at a time to be announced. Arrangements are being made by Watkins-West Funeral Home. There will be no calling hours. Honorary bearers will be Fred Bendall, Fred Carpenter, Robert Gordon, R. Raymond W. Goster, Judge William J. Shea, and C. E. Moore Watkins.

Bearers will be Jonathan Case, Richard C. Case, Bernard Campagna, Robert Case Dennison, and Walter Case Dennison. Following is the Watkins' tribute:

"When the war clouds began to gather just before the outbreak of the first appeal came from Washington, very few understood its significance. Maytie Case Crowell was one of those who quickly sensed the new obligations of citizenship in an all-out war. She gave her music and her talents to the war effort, and she was instrumental in the winning of the war."

"As chairman of the committee, she personally sold a hundred thousand dollars worth of war securities—a record. She was appointed Chairman of Production of Manchester Chapter American Red Cross and soon was turning out more supplies for Manchester's men and women in service than they could use."

"She was one of the committee of five which raised the money, planned and built Manchester Memorial Hospital. She was one of the original trustees and, from the beginning, a member of the Executive Committee. For a number of years she was chairman of the building committee. As few others, she foresaw the necessity for construction, future planning to keep pace with the growth of the town. Twice during building, she was called upon to give courage and strength to accept defeat and single handed went out and raised the money. She had the practical faculty of securing the 'largest possible contribution' from the person and leaving him or her glad to give. She always showed the way by giving generously of her own means."

"She took her obligations as a trustee seriously, never failing to attend meetings when possible and giving thorough study to every suggestion for the welfare of the hospital. No one ever accused her of being visionary, but she did understand that a good trustee must occasionally take calculated risks. This she was willing to do in the very spirit of the founding fathers who, in the closing words of the Declaration of Independence, said: 'and for the support of this declaration we mutually pledge to each other our lives, our fortunes and our sacred honor.'"

Dr. Edgar's tribute follows: "Experience teaches that nothing good in this life just happens, but back of every worthwhile thing there is some person or a group of persons without whom that good thing might not have come into being. And while many people are too numerous to mention, five of their time, talents and gifts to build the sanctuary of South Methodist Church, the one person whose inspiration, guidance and help were indispensable was Maytie Case Crowell."

"For many years the congregation had worshipped and sung in the wooden frame church structure that was built on the corner of Main St. at Hartford Rd. A church that was once adequate became obsolete and needed replacing. Mrs. Crowell was one of the first to sense this and to set in motion the work to make a dream come true with the dedication of the present church in 1925. With the completion of the building itself, Mrs. Crowell added that a building was not enough. There must be the one who added to the beauty of the sanctuary and the word preached from its pulpit and to lead the people in worship. A full year before the completion of the church she organized a choir and started training it. When adequate trained singers were not available, she selected promising young singers, sent them to the best vocal instructors, paying for their lessons from her own funds. When the church was ready for dedication, the Chancel Choir was ready to

Directors Interested In Well-Digging Offer

The Board of Directors last night expressed interest in an offer for a well-digging concern to build a well for the town on Fern St. on speculation.

The Stephen B. Church Co. of Seymour has offered to charge the town only half the contractual price if the well does not yield 200 gallons per minute at a depth of 300 feet.

The company also said that, if because of subsurface conditions, drilling was to be discontinued before the 300-foot level, it would charge only one half the cost of drilling per foot to the depth reached.

However, a June 15 deadline for acceptance of the offer was imposed by the company, and the Board was not prepared to act last night.

At a recent Mayor Harold Turkington asked Acting General Manager James H. Sheeley to seek a 30-day extension to permit the Board to get a recommendation.

Other matters the Board decided to take up at its June 11 meeting include: J. Planning a Housing Ordinance which would allow for a 10 percent extension of the term of a building permit.

A public hearing on a $750 appropriation for the Capital Improvement Fund and a being recommended in connection with the proposed extension of the term of a building permit.

The Board also decided to accept a recommendation for a $10,000 appropriation for the purchase of a new car for the Mayor's office.

Better Street Lights Voted by Directors

The Board of Directors last night voted to install improved street lighting in three locations of town at a cost not to exceed $15,000.

Patrick Soren, manager of the Manchester branch of the Hartford Electric Light Co., said that the Board should be satisfied with the offer.

The program calls for 168 lights to be installed on Center St. from North Main St. to South Main St., and on Main St. from Center St. to North Main St.

GOP Policy Makers Push Court Reforms

Committee pledged that the Republicans would continue to work for the elimination of any form of racial discrimination by reason of race, religion or color.

The committee asked for legislation to broaden the coverage of the state public accommodations act to include commercial housing involving five or more units whether the units are for sale or rent.

The committee also outlined Republican policy in other key areas. It urged:

1. Organization of local safety committees as part of a "new comprehensive safety program" to direct local traffic hazards.
2. Adoption of a platform plank to prohibit discrimination.
3. Elimination of primaries for against older workers in employment.

A program of publicly assisted housing for the aged and creation of voluntary local committees to develop programs for the elderly.

Completion of repairs to flood-damaged roads and bridges and quick use of federal aid for building highways.

7. A change in permanent voters registrations provisions to eliminate registration when a voter direct local traffic hazards.

8. Elimination of primaries for

30-Day Wait Waived On 16's Driver Tests

Hartford, June 4 (AP) — Motor Vehicle Commissioner John Z. Ryan today waived the 30-day waiting period to give 16-year-olds a chance to qualify for driver licenses before July 1.

On the latter date, the new state law requiring 17-year-olds to pass a driver training course before taking an examination for a license takes effect. This law is part of the state's accelerated program to promote safe driving.

Commissioner Ryan explained that the general procedure is to have 16-year-olds wait 30 days before they can take their driver exam. If this were continued this month, he said, many 16-year-olds who reach that birthday this month would be unable to take their examinations until sometime in July — at which time they must show they have passed driver training courses.

"We want to give every consideration possible to permit this group to obtain licenses before July 1," the commissioner said. "In fact, our inspectors may be working evening hours to help meet the deadline."

While the department will do everything possible to ease the transition, Ryan emphasized there will be no lowering of testing standards. "We will continue to see that applicants meet every requirement, as always," he added. "We're not anxious to put licenses in their hands unless they qualify."

Beginning July 1, all 16-year-olds must have successfully completed driver training courses and take an examination for a license. These courses may be either taken in school or from a licensed commercial training school.

Courses offered in school must include 20 hours of classroom work and 10 hours of driving. Commercial driver training schools must have 30 hours of classroom study plus six hours of driving. Fees for commercial driving courses run about $70, Ryan said.

"This new requirement," he said, "should produce a lot more careful drivers in this age group." Ryan said, "Our studies in the past show that this age group puts into a lot more accidents and motor vehicle violations than do other age classifications."

Another advantage is that youths taking such courses will be able to get liability insurance at lower rates than otherwise.

Some 16-year-olds in the state went up several months ago from $5 to $5. The extra $2 goes to the

Chappell Issues Building Report

Building operations here last month totaled an estimated $750,000 as compared to $1,167,861 last year at the same time.

According to a report issued by Building Inspector Cleveland Chappell, his department collected $285,000 in permits compared with last year's $276,000.

Accounting partially for the wide difference between the figures for the two periods is the fact that during May of this year permits were issued for only 14 buildings totaling $195,000 and last year 30 permits were issued for similar construction which came to $452,000.

Also, for this year only two apartments were issued for $107,000 as compared with 13 last year for $221,406. Many of these were for the Shoppings Parkway.

The total estimated building cost, less demolitions, includes $500,000 tax exempt property, making added taxable building $250,000 for May. The added taxable building construction for last month is approximately 18 per cent less than the amount added during a comparable period in May 1957.

The total estimated building cost last month, however, was less than the fee collected last year for May.

Flames Consume 200-Year-Old Barn

Firemen from three mutual aid volunteer fire departments fought a fierce blaze yesterday afternoon that consumed a large 200-year-old barn on Cedar Swamp Rd., Coventry.

The barn was owned by E. J. Hall of Bolton, well-known Manchester realtor and builder. It contained only a small amount of hay and was used as a storage shed in very poor condition. Hall estimated the damage at about $2,500. It was not insured.

North Coventry Fire Chief Richard Gallant said he suspects the fire was set by children playing in the area.

He said Hall told him he has tried to keep the barn boarded up to prevent children from entering it.

The fire was discovered by Air Force T. Sgt. Arnold Bentley who was driving on Cedar Swamp Rd. when he saw a large fire. Bentley felt a sudden blast of heat right through his car window and spotted the blaze when he looked to the left. He drove to the scene.

The intense heat generated by the flames threatened a house occupied by Mr. and Mrs. William Minor, located only 100 feet from the barn. However, the fire was eliminated the need for lengthy explanations from the manager at meetings.

Board Gets 3-Point Plan To Streamline Meetings

A 3-point plan to streamline meetings of the Board of Directors, prepared months ago, may finally be acted on by the Board at its next meeting.

The plan was presented to the Directors last night by Director Eugene Kelly, chairman of a committee that prepared it.

Mayor Harold A. Turkington said he would have the matter included on the agenda for the Board's June 11 meeting. No action on it was taken last night since proposed changes in the action of the Board have to be submitted in writing in advance.

Three Points

The plan, which is the outgrowth of the Board's desire to streamline its meetings, is a "reasonable" one without shutting off the public discussion that stretches out meeting would:

1. Limit all public discussion to the agenda for the Board's June 11 meeting. At the present time, there are two items on every agenda under which the public may speak. One is the beginning of every meeting, the other near the end.
2. Require notes on the agenda regularly from the general manager in advance of the meeting. This would serve to brief the Board on the public items and help to eliminate the need for lengthy explanations from the manager at meetings.
3. Require the Board to decide if a photographic studio.

Harry T. Mathiason, 36, of 117 Helaine Rd., was arrested yesterday and charged with reckless driving after his 1957 Buick Wildcat was involved in a 4-way shunting accident on W. Middle Turnpike today. He is to appear in court June 14.

Police said the accident occurred as Mathiason was traveling east on Middle Turnpike at the intersection of the turnpike and Main St. He is to appear in court Saturday.

The vehicle left the road, struck a state fire hydrant and then smashed into a utility pole. Damage to the car was estimated at $460, said Vernon, Fairhead authorities.

Board Gets 3-Point Plan To Streamline Meetings

A 3-point plan to streamline meetings of the Board of Directors, prepared months ago, may finally be acted on by the Board at its next meeting.

The plan was presented to the Directors last night by Director Eugene Kelly, chairman of a committee that prepared it.

Mayor Harold A. Turkington said he would have the matter included on the agenda for the Board's June 11 meeting. No action on it was taken last night since proposed changes in the action of the Board have to be submitted in writing in advance.

Three Points

The plan, which is the outgrowth of the Board's desire to streamline its meetings, is a "reasonable" one without shutting off the public discussion that stretches out meeting would:

1. Limit all public discussion to the agenda for the Board's June 11 meeting. At the present time, there are two items on every agenda under which the public may speak. One is the beginning of every meeting, the other near the end.
2. Require notes on the agenda regularly from the general manager in advance of the meeting. This would serve to brief the Board on the public items and help to eliminate the need for lengthy explanations from the manager at meetings.
3. Require the Board to decide if a photographic studio.

South Windsor Collector Hits Town's New Law on Garbage

A new ordinance governing garbage removal in South Windsor was attacked by a Rockville refuse collector who says it stands to lose $120,000 a year in business that he collects.

Charles Dickmore, owner of the Rockville Sanitary Co., said the ordinance, which requires that all refuse trucks be completely enclosed, seems aimed at him.

"Not so," said Thomas L. Burgess, South Windsor First Selectman. "The ordinance was not aimed at Dickmore. We have received complaints for many years about refuse blowing off trucks," Burgess said. "In fact, this ordinance occurred even before Dickmore came into town. We just never did anything about it until now."

Town Counsel Edwin Lassman who drew up the ordinance said he did so with the sole purpose of keeping South Windsor's streets clean and solely for the protection of the town.

In fact, Dickmore collects his garbage and does a very good job at it, Lassman said.

Dickmore said today he will either have to comply with the ordinance in the time allotted or pull out of South Windsor. The ordinance allows garbage collectors 45 days to comply.

Dickmore said he feels the ordinance was ramrodded across at the town meeting and felt it is unfair to him.

"In fact, Dickmore said, 'the town meeting was worked so that people didn't know what was coming up.'"

The hearing of the town meeting stated that a hearing would be held "to consider and act upon an ordinance regulating the use of public roads, highways and streets in the removal and transportation of rubbish, trash, refuse and waste refuse."

"I think I'll be the next governor of California," Brown predicted. "I'm very appreciative of the great vote I received—particularly on the Republican ticket. It shows there are many progressive Republicans in the state."

Brown was the first Democratic candidate for governor to lead a Republican opponent in the combined vote. He said he would continue to campaign on that described as "broad and better" issue.

Knowland said the primary was "the best opening yet" and added that he expected to be elected governor after four years.

Because Democratic registration exceeds Republican in the state, Brown's showing was significant. Knowland would have to get a substantial Democratic switch to become governor.

Many Republicans have looked on the tall, heavy-set senator as a possible presidential candidate in 1964. He already has been named as Vice President Richard Nixon's party's likely nominee in 1960.

Board to Await Action Of Golf Club Members

Rules and regulations for the Manchester Country Club will be discussed by the full Board of Directors after club members act on the town's latest proposal Friday night. Any action the Club might take on the proposal will have to be decided by the full club membership, according to Arthur P. Ryan, club president.

Mayor Harold A. Turkington at a Board of Directors meeting last night said the Board should hold off action on fees, rules, and regulations until the Club's feelings are known.

Tentative agreement on the rules and fees has been reached by Stevens and General Manager Richard Martin. These matters, and the proposal must be approved by the Board.

And approval seems certain, because six of the nine Board members served on the committee that drafted the lease. Also, Country Club officials have indicated approval of it.

The lease would require the club to operate its course on a public-private basis until it relocates certain holes from Park Department to Water Department land.

It has been hailed by club officials as a possible solution to the long-standing Country Club controversy, which has troubled the City since the Club purchased the 106-acre site in 1936.

An annual lease of $13,225, which the Club would pay while operating a public-private course, is currently under negotiation. Director Ted Cummings last night said he believes this figure is too low.

And in last night's discussion of the proposal, Director Ronald Jacobs raised four points he said should be reconsidered:

1. He said the town would be on "safer ground" if the lease was set for a definite term, instead of a long-term agreement which could be subject to renegotiation. Under present terms, the Club has a right to terminate the three-year terms, but the club should not have to vacate, if it re-opens, until 12 years after Oct. 31 of the year in which the new agreement is made.

2. Jacobs said the proposed fee is higher than those charged in public courses in area towns. He mentioned courses in Glastonbury and East Hartford.

3. Kelley said the fee is not higher than those the Club has been charging members of the public, up to now. He added that "solving" would be the only control over fee payments.

"Kelley said this fact should be given more study, A loan, he said, might be "comparable of the course."

4. In conclusion, Jacobs pointed out that, under the proposed rules, non-members will be later start-

ZBA Grants Variance For $400,000 Motel

The all-weather, air-conditioned, 200-room motel is planned for a site on the north side of the town, bounded by the Wilbur Cross Highway, the Wilbur Cross Highway, and the Wilbur Cross Highway. The motel is planned to face south, with entrance from a court-yard on the north side. However, the north side, facing the Wilbur Cross Highway, will be finished attractively, with large windows and landscaping, Shute explained. Part of the building would be a story to improve the design, he added.

The project would use about 11 acres of the 15 acres owned by Rich at that location. The other four acres, located on R. 15 at the railroad tracks, would not be used at this time. Ackerman said permission was asked only for use of the land for a motel and restaurant, but the town might make up a bit later for the loss of Amco.

Ackerman spoke of a proposed connecting road between Tunnal and Bolton Rds. that would facilitate access to and from R. 15. He said the road has been agreed upon by the Selectmen and the State Highway Department, and will be definitely constructed.

Atty. Kahn resigned as counsel for the ZBA to protest Rich's request. However, ZBA Chairman Charles Brown said he will recommend that the group ask Kahn to remain and withdraw his resignation now that he is agreeable to the motel-restaurant project as outlined by Atty. Ackerman.

Dads Night Held At South School

The program opened with the singing of the hymn "The Star Spangled Banner." Each class then presented its part of the program. The kindergarten rhymed in honor of Mr. Robert Jones, principal. The first graders sang "A Father's Love" and the second graders sang "I Love My Dad."

At the dinner table, each father was served by his own child. A menu for the occasion was served for each class by Miss Leibold, principal.

The dinner was made possible by the efforts of Mrs. Robert Venturi, who is in charge of the cafeteria at the school. She was assisted by Mrs. Louise Johnson, Mrs. Herbert Bengtson, Mrs. Elizabeth Little and Mrs. Marion Rowe.

Vernon Town Promised 'Gala Time' As Celebration Ideas Mount

The estimated $100,000 cost of the gala celebration will be met by the town and the 15,000 residents. There will be a gala time in the 150-year old town in September.

Enough ideas to pack eight days, from Sunday to Sunday, Sept. 14 to 21, burst forth at the first meeting of the general committee last night.

A gathering of all religious faiths on the Hill seemed the best idea for the opening day. Perhaps a tableau could be presented by each faith relating its history in this community, was the thought. The beauty of such a sunset service was deemed indispensable by the ideas.

"Give us Monday night and we'll start the week off with a bang," proposed Mrs. Francis of the Bazaar. "We'll put on an old time minstrel with a torch light parade in full costumes." The Bazaar people got Monday night.

Other nights there'll be dramatic skits, songfests, variety talent programs, sports events—but they may run out of nights.

A parade, estimated in length anywhere from one to three hours, will invade the business center Saturday, Sept. 20.

"We've contacted 40 bands and 16 fire departments," loaned a parade committee member. "Glastonbury's fire department is so enthusiastic that they offered to send 60 men and a band before we even got to them!"

Floats, sports cars of the future, local organizations and state dignitaries will join the parade. "We're making sure the lead-marchers don't bump into the tail end of the parade."

The time of march is set to start at Grove St. move down Prospect St. to Union St. and back to the center of Rockville, where it will disperse. Officials are trying to find a good steady spot for the reviewing stand.

A short speech by some state official, maybe even the governor, will wind up the parade. But that isn't the end.

"We should have a ball Saturday night, but there's no place big enough because everyone would want to go. Let's settle for dances at all the clubs, open to the public, and we can move around from one dance to another."

And there'll be a block dance for teenagers and carnival rides for youngsters. All week long there'll be an industrial exhibit, sale of anniversary buttons by some youth organization, and sale of anniversary programs.

But before the week of celebration begins will be neglected and any man caught observing will be liable for a fine. Maybe a whole city organization will be deputized to enforce this special law.

While the men compete to see who can give the longest beard, the fairer sex will vie for the honor of being Vernon's Sequenential Queen.

A reenactment of the march of St. Joseph College, West Hartford, during the Revolutionary War, will be carried out before the parade starts.

"A group of young boys, representing a portion of the march will invade the business center in a parade planned for Vernon Center on the closing day of the celebration."

Other historical events will be reenacted by interested groups. Ladies' sewing circles may be called upon to create costumes.

All of these ideas are subject to expansion or deletion, according to the amount of work volunteered.

A number of the projects are expected to produce income to support the parade.

Directors 'Straighten' Vernon St. Walk Issue

The Board of Directors last night straightened out the Vernon St. sidewalks project in more ways than one.

For weeks the Board has had on its agenda the question of whether it would amend its original plan on the project in the light of a decision by ZBA Ward on Hester Murphy on the trees affected by the project.

Each time the outlier was tabled because of an uncertainty over which trees were supposed to come down and which to stand.

Last night, the Board came to a decision on the matter. It voted to reject an offer from two property owners of 8-foot rights of way around trees in front of their houses.

Trees Come Down

The Board thus agreed with Acting General Manager James H. Sheehey's view that sidewalks should be straight. As a result, the trees—a 25-inch maple in front of 79 Vernon St. and a 4-inch maple in front of 87 Vernon St.—will come down.

The fate of five other trees on the west side of the street remains in question, however. These were originally replanted by Murphy after a public hearing on the three removal plans. Since then the Highway Department has concluded that they should be cut down.

In event of rain, the concert will be postponed until the following day.

But the most valuable commodity, the amount of work volunteered.

Largest American hero in the great blue heron, which stands some four feet high and has a wingspread of about 6 feet.

Dear Graduate:

May we take this opportunity of expressing our best wishes to you on your coming graduation?
