Wallace Sees

State Losing
Tax Position

Hartford, Jan. 7 (47)—A Republican legislative leader warned yesterday that Connecticut's favorable tax advantage—which has been a big attraction to residents and business—"is fast disappearing."

This word of caution came from Rep. Anthony Wallace of Simsbury, who will be an assistant minority leader in the House of Acetylene Test Devised Representatives.

minority leader in the House of Acetylene Test Devised Representatives.

He told the GOP weekly luncheon at Hartford that one of the most critical problems facing the 1959 Legislature is "how much furded that the state of the metric method developed by the National Bureau of Standards can detect and measure quickly and most critical problems facing the 1959 Legislature is "how much further in debt and how much more increase in taxes can Connecticut stand before it loses its advantage as a good place in which to live and do business?"

"It is high time that the people of our state were told the unpleasant facts," he said, "They have been fooled too long and through campaign oratory led to believe that all is well in Connecticut.

"It's somewhat ironic that by virtue of their complete control of both houses of the Legislature, as well as the executive branch, the Democrats now have a mandate from the people to live up to their oft repeated promise of no new or increased taxes." In support of his contention that the state is "dangerously close" to upsetting its favorable business climate. Wallace made these Connecticut's per capita taxes are the 10th highest in the nation.

The quality of the records from the standpoint of materials and craftsmanship is distinguished. The interpretations are authoritative. According to Fred V Grunfeld, eminent critic in the field of recorded music and one of the contributors to the special illustrated Listener's Guides prepared for this library, 'the performances' and interpretations of the fifty-six classics included in the BASIC LIBRARY OF THE WORLD'S GREATEST MUSIC are, in my opinion, among the best ever recorded. The quality of the music is among the finest I have ever heard on records."

Comeback of Year Award to Yanks

Long Season for Rockville Club

So, you think you have troubles. The wife forgot to make Runner-up sniffles and that aching back is bothering you again. There's a fellow from a neighboring town who is also having his troubles. Let's examine the case of John Canavari, director of athletics and head basketball coach at Rockville High. He tle 11 times and on only one occasion was their reason for rejoicing in celebration of a victory.

Percenage wise, this is the worst season for the former New Britain Teachers College standout in his seven year coaching career in the Windy City. And it is going to be a much "longer" season than John anticipated Rockville has yet to play a single home game against scholas-tic opposition. And it will be anout before the home folks at home. Only the Alumni skirmish, which was run off at the Sykes gym, was played at home. The Sykes gym, for use as a banketball floor, was abandoned two years ago in favor of the new Rockville Armory, Canavari had hopes that the new school, which includes a beautiful new gym, would be completed shortly after New Year's. As a result, 12 of the first 13 games were scheduled on foreign courts. This weird arrangement was made only after rival coaches
