

Ives Halts Bidding on Highways

Hartford, Aug. 3 (AP)—Connecticut today stopped bids on its mammoth $522-million highway program pending assurance federal reimbursement will be forthcoming.

The action by Highway Commissioner Howard S. Ives affects highway projects in every part of the state. This includes four interstate projects and all federally assisted primary and secondary road projects.

The big projects affected are Interstate Route 84 from Danbury through Waterbury to Hartford; Interstate 91 from New Haven through Hartford to the Massachusetts line, and the circumferential route around Hartford.

Also affected is a proposed extension of the Interstate Route 95 from the Connecticut Turnpike at Waterford to the Rhode Island state line.

Ives said the department would go ahead with planning and engineering for the project, however.

A Highway Department spokesman said bids had been received so far for only a portion of the circumferential route around Hartford (Interstate 84).

This portion was the Morgan Street Interchange, the spokesman said, and the apparent low bid was $5 million. Awarding of a contract will be suspended for the time being, the spokesman said.

The highway commissioner's action will not affect scheduled public hearings on the proposed projects, the spokesman said. This means that a hearing next week on Interstate Route 91 will be held as planned.

Ives said he made his ruling because of "uncertainty" over the availability of federal aid highway funds.

The Highway Department, he said, is postponing award, receipt and advertisement of any more bids on projects.

The highway commissioner's action will not affect scheduled public hearings on the proposed projects, the spokesman said. This means that a hearing next week on Interstate Route 91 will be held as planned.

Ives said his action was prompted by congressional rejection of the Eisenhower administration's proposal to increase the federal gasoline tax by a cent and a half to pay the federal share of the program.

The President's proposal ran into what is considered a virtual dead end in the House Ways and Means Committee last week.

Ives said his action affects all highway projects in the state.

Awaits Public Opinion Polls Rockefeller to Decide On Candidacy Nov. 1

San Juan, Puerto Rico, Aug. 3 (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York will decide by Nov. 1, on the basis of public opinion polls, whether he will seek the 1960 republican presidential nomination.

The governor, who is teetering on the brink of an announcement, has told friends that he would be a candidate only if he had conclusive evidence that Vice President Richard M. Nixon is not likely to win against the Democratic nominee.

Rockefeller takes no stock in polls which point to the election of a Democrat as president.

But he apparently is unwilling to challenge Nixon unless the Vice President unaccountably slips in the polls to a point where they indicate one of several Democratic opponents could defeat him.

Some of his strategists have told the New York governor that his timing is too late. They say the reaction to Nixon's Russian visit will be a rise in the Vice President's popularity at the time Rockefeller plans his decision.

Gov. G. Mennen Williams of Michigan told a morning news conference he did not consider himself a presidential candidate at this time. Local financial problems, which he termed transitory, demand his full attention, the governor said.

Asserting the key issues in the presidential race next year will be the economy and the civil rights movement.

Rockefeller's Son To Marry Ex-Maid

Kristiansand, Norway, Aug. 3 (AP)—Steven Rockefeller and a former maid in his wealthy family's home plan a late summer wedding in a small Lutheran church in Norway.

Gov. and Mrs. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York said they were delighted at their son's engagement to 21-year-old Anne Marie Rasmussen, pretty blonde daughter of a prosperous Kristiansand grocer.

"She is a wonderful girl," the Governor said.

Announcing their engagement yesterday, the young couple did not set a wedding date. But a friend of the Rasmussen family said it would probably be Aug. 22.

It will be performed by the Rev. Olav Gautesdal in the Lutheran Church at nearby Soegne. The pastor is an old friend of the Rasmussens. The Rockefellers are Baptists.

The governor has indicated he and his wife will come to Scandinavia for the wedding. "I can't imagine that I would not participate in the wedding of any of my children," he told newsmen Saturday.

Steven, 23, and the third of his parents' five children, first met Anne Marie when she came to the United States in 1955 to learn English and worked for a time as a maid in his home. She left the Rockefeller employ in 1957 to work in a New York department store and then worked for an insurance firm in New York.

After serving an Army hitch, young Rockefeller flew to Oslo July 10 and met Anne Marie. They came on to her home by motorcycle, and the romance rumors have been booming ever since.

The girl's father, Kristian Rasmussen, appeared with the couple at a news conference yesterday and said:

"If our daughter will be happy this way, we will not stop her."

Radiant Anne Marie, wearing a charcoal gray frock with rose polka dots, showed reporters her modest-sized engagement ring—a diamond surrounded by smaller diamonds and set in platinum.

Steven said forms were sent off Saturday for the publishing of the marriage banns, which in Norway must be done three weeks before the wedding. But this period may be reduced by the Department of Justice if the applicant shows cause.

Young Rockefeller, a graduate of Princeton University, said he will return to New York in September and enter one of his family's businesses.

"This will change my life completely," Anne Marie said. "Everything will become different for me, but what I have brought with me from the home of my childhood will always remain with me. I will remain the one I am."

She said she and Steven would live in an apartment in New York but that they haven't found one yet. Anne Marie added that she wants to keep house herself.

Steven said he will stay with the Rasmussens until the wedding and added he would like to get around Anne Marie, he added. "I was sure lucky catching this one."

Senate Judiciary Votes To Consider Rights Bill

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—By a 5-5 vote the Senate Judiciary Committee overrode southern opposition today and took a Civil Rights bill up for consideration.

Earlier, a subcommittee of the judiciary group lined up 2-1 in an incomplete vote, in favor of shelving a proposed constitutional amendment designed to annul the Supreme Court's desegregation decision.

The full committee overrode objections from Chairman James O. Eastland (D-Miss.) and other southern opponents. They had blocked attempts at two previous meetings to get the legislation up for action.

The bill called up, previously approved by a 4-3 vote in subcommittee, is limited to extending the life of the Civil Rights Commission and to requiring the preservation of voting records for use in investigations by the attorney general into alleged denial of voting rights.

Senate Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois told newsmen after the meeting that he believes it now will be possible to get a civil rights bill out of the committee.

"This was the roughest hurdle to clear," he said.

Eisenhower to Visit Soviet, Khrushchev Here This Fall

Most Favor Decision to Swap Visits

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower's decision to exchange visits with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev drew generally favorable—some highly enthusiastic—reaction today from members of Congress.

But approval was not unanimous. Sen. Homer E. Capehart (R-Ind.) protested that "It looks like we're again being taken in by the Russians."

Senate Democratic Leader Lyndon B. Johnson of Texas, however, applauded the President's decision. He told the Senate:

"I believe that this is a type of exchange which could do much for the whole world."

"I have always believed in the Open Curtain through which people can pass freely and exchange ideas," Johnson said. "I believe it should be encouraged at every level so that we can know the truth about each other."

Johnson said he had been briefed by a White House aide before Eisenhower's announcement and he related his own views to the President at that time.

The Senate Republican leader, Sen. Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois, said the exchange of visits, if successful, could "enshrine the President the boldest and most determined peacemaker in many generations."

House Republican Leader Charles A. Halleck of Indiana said he knows "of no better way to impress Mr. Khrushchev than to let him see for himself our unity."

Allies Applaud Ike's Decision To See Nikita

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

Geneva, Aug. 3 (AP)—The chief western Allies today acclaimed President Eisenhower's decision to exchange visits with Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev as a step toward advancing East-West prospects of peace.

Diplomats said the most immediate result of the Big Two agreement for top-level talks would be to put the Berlin crisis on ice.

They also foresew the possibility that some new approach to a Big Four summit conference may be opened up.

They were particularly cheered by Eisenhower's determination to maintain a steady front on the Cold War issues by conferring with the government leaders of France, Britain and West Germany in advance of Khrushchev's visit to Washington.

Secretary of State Christian A. Herter issued a statement saying:

"I welcome this move and hope it will be helpful in advancing better relations between our two countries."

Associates of British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd said he welcomed the President's agreement to meet Khrushchev. Diplomats said the British government hopes the Eisenhower-Khrushchev talks will open the way to a Big Four summit session.

French authorities were slower to react than the British. Officials in Paris said they thought the talks would be useful. They added that they saw no harm to the western position in respect to Russia in

State Geophysicist Killed, 2 Survive Crash on Glacier

Juneau, Alaska, Aug. 3 (AP)—A single smoke flare, saved for use at just the right moment, brought rescue yesterday to two men marooned seven nights and days high on the barren face of an Alaska glacier.

The flare was sighted by a helicopter pilot participating in a week-old sea and air search over the mountains and through the valleys and inlets of rugged Glacier Bay National Monument.

Although the two were saved, the body of the third man remained with the wreckage of a helicopter in which they crashed last Sunday at the 5,800-foot Gilman Glacier.

Dead was Robert Baldwin of Ridgefield, Conn., a geophysicist for the Newmont Exploration Co. Ltd., of New York City. Another

Crowds Hail Nixon On Visit to Poland

Warsaw, Aug. 3 (AP)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon met for more than three hours today with Communist chief Wladyslaw Gomulka and Premier Jozef Cyrankiewicz. Crowds continued to cheer him at every turn.

About 5,000 enthusiastic Poles gathered to watch Nixon place a red, white and blue tinted rose wreath at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in a solemn ceremony honoring Poland's war dead. Many in the crowd cheered him with cries of "Live 100 years," a traditional cheer in Poland.

An excited Polish worker shouting "Vive America" hoisted Nixon in a fierce bear hug, almost knocking him down.

Polish security agents pried Nixon loose and pushed the man roughly aside. Nixon was startled momentarily but quickly regained his composure. The Vice President's aides said the man meant no harm and that he wanted to hoist Nixon on the shoulders of the crowd.

Foreign Minister Adam Rapacki, author of a plan for a European atom-free zone which the United States has rejected, sat in on Nixon's meeting with top Polish leaders.

"Neexon, Neexon," cried many spectators as the Vice President drove through the city in a black automobile flying the American flag and the red and white Polish banner.

Herbert G. Klein, Nixon's press officer, reported that the calls on Poland's President Alexander Zawadzki at Belvedere Palace this morning and on Parliament Speaker Casimir Wyczech were "very friendly in every respect."

He declined to disclose what subjects were discussed. Nixon's call on Gomulka stretched out through lunch time. The two men discussed international problems so intently they decided they might as well continue. Gomulka arranged to have luncheon served in the Council of Ministers Building.

During the ceremony at the tomb of the Unknown Soldier one of Nixon's well wishers handed the Vice President his five year old daughter to hold. Nixon held the girl in his arms, turned to the crowd around him and called out as they applauded:

"We must all work for a better life for our children."

The crowd was small in comparison to the quarter of a million Poles who greeted Nixon on arrival yesterday. But it-outdied even that great throng in vociferousness and enthusiasm.

After placing a wreath on the exhumed tomb and reviewing an honor guard, Nixon suddenly moved toward the thousands of spectators applauding and cheering him. As the crowd gave cries of "mic zycie" (nee-edge zhi-chen), or "long life" one man broke through crying "Neexon."

He bore down like a fullback coming off right guard and clasped Nixon around his middle, almost weeping. Police and Nixon's aides went quickly to his side and people in the crowd set up the chant "stolal," meaning "may you live 100 years."

Is NATO Effective?

In the decade of its existence, the North Atlantic Treaty Organization has developed into a symbol of western unity and the chief military instrument of the defensive alliance.

Yet how effective is NATO today as the sword and shield of western Europe? How much actual power stands behind the symbol? Could NATO fight a conventional war, and what punch could it contribute to an all-out, nuclear conflict?

AP newsfeatures writer Bem Price, who writes frequently on military affairs, has just returned from an extensive tour of NATO installations, asked hard-hitting questions.

His findings are wrapped up in an authoritative 4-part series giving the facts on NATO's achievements—and dangerous weaknesses.

The first story deals with the over-all picture of NATO's fighting power. Subsequent articles discuss the defensive and offensive potential and the measure of unified command achieved to date. The series starts tomorrow in The

Red Leader Due in U.S. By Sept. 15

Washington, Aug. 3 (AP)—President Eisenhower and Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev will exchange visits this fall—thus taking into a new phase of diplomacy the East-West differences on which world peace hangs.

Khrushchev's visit here—a historic first by a top leader of Russian communism—will be in September. Exchanges will go to Moscow later in the year. Exact dates for the visits have not yet been fixed.

(In Warsaw, Vice President Richard M. Nixon said he understood Khrushchev would go to the United States about Sept. 15).

Almost identical announcements of the plans were made here and in Moscow—the differences apparently only those of translation. Winding up on the peace theme, the final paragraph in the text released by Moscow, said:

"Both governments express the hope that the forthcoming visits will promote the establishment of better understanding between the United States and the USSR and will further the cause of peace."

Eisenhower called a special news conference to make the announcement here. Exchanges will go to Moscow later in the year. Exact dates for the visits have not yet been fixed.

1. Before meeting with Khrushchev here, Eisenhower will go to Europe later this month to confer with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan. French President Charles de Gaulle and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

2. Exchanges on the question of Khrushchev-Eisenhower visits have been going on for some time; were initiated well before Vice President Richard M. Nixon went to Russia.

Eisenhower said he told Nixon on the day the Vice President left for Russia that negotiations in written form were in progress looking toward an exchange of visits, but that there was no prohibition on him to discussing the matter once the subject was opened up.

It is telling of his plans to go to Europe to confer with the heads of state of Great Britain, France and West Germany, Eisenhower said coordination between the Allied powers has been good.

Soviet Refuses To Help Curb Laos Rebellion

Geneva, Aug. 3 (AP)—The Soviet Union has rejected a British plea to intervene in a new Communist rebellion in the Southeast Asian kingdom of Laos.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd discussed the new outbreak of violence in what was formerly French Indochina with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko yesterday.

Official sources said Lloyd told Gromyko that Britain is gravely concerned over the situation and that Communist North Viet Nam, aiding the rebels with men and arms.

In rejecting this, Gromyko claimed the Laotian government violated the 1954 Indochina armistice, under which Laos was to remain neutral and establish a national front government with Communist participation. Britain and Russia were co-chairmen of the

Encouraging Heresy
 Dr. John H. Fischer, the Ballroom superintendent, of schools is going to become dean of Teachers College at Columbia, spoke to the student body at the college the other day, and let it be known that he was worried over the increasing number of "priests" in the American educational system.

"The tasks assigned to the American school system," he said, "are to extend and diversify anything of the sort that has been attempted, much less accomplished, anywhere in the world."

"The present state of the system is not the result of one law, agency or conspiracy. It represents rather the slow accumulation of institutions and patterns approved by various segments of our people and successfully adopted by still other segments, as men have found in one innovation after another."

"Each new increment to the curriculum has been added because some group somewhere considered it sufficiently desirable or necessary to make it the object of pressure for a new priority."

Dr. Fischer proceeded to give examples of what he was talking about—vocational agriculture, home economics instrumental music, varsity athletics, driver training, family life education, laboratory science and elementary foreign languages.

But, although the curriculum has been expanded to include many such additional "priorities," there has been no corresponding increase in the amount of time the school system has at its command.

"This all sounds like dangerous common sense to come from an incoming high priest of education. But perhaps it really signals the beginning of an honest examination of what the curriculum has become, and what the results are."

In a jargon of all trades, master of none, result inherent and inevitable in the touch and taste diversity of the modern curriculum? Is this diversity, this smattering of many things, one explanation why there can be no time and concentration for such an elemental thing as spelling? When we consider the marvelous new fad for teaching foreign languages in the grades, should we first investigate to see if English is being taught there? Dr. Fischer's first concern would seem to be with the ability of the teacher to carry such a load. What about the people's ability to absorb?

Does the European system of education, which we have all and duly come to admire, perhaps especially for its early teaching of foreign language, clutter up its curriculum with all the other "priorities" of the American system? Or does it, in reality, keep much longer hours for many fewer subjects?

Perhaps America's headlong rush toward innovation after innovation, which has been a pretty mad thing for some 40 years' past, is now going to slow down long enough for some process of real evaluation. To have the incoming dean of Teachers College merely raising such questions is encouraging.

The Human Element
 Vice President Nixon had a very pleasant meeting, the other day, down 800 feet in the earth at the bottom of a Siberian copper mine with two burly miners who were obviously not professional surfacers. When he got back to the surface, among his own American party, he began making a few observations, which amounted to an explanation for, or apology for, another strike kind of life, in other days, when conditions were much worse than they are now. To survive, you had to be tough, and it could be that Khrushchev's background as a miner had much to do with determining his character.

Here, in his informal reactions, Nixon was touching on what has unquestionably been the richest part of his Russian experience—the elemental discovery that the Russians are human beings. That would seem a nonsensical discovery to have to make. But not all of us quite realize what the cold war mood, and cold war propaganda, have done to our thoughts and feelings. They have created conditions in which it does become a shock to encounter friendly greetings, shining faces, beautiful children beautifully dressed, rough, honest workmen, rough, agile politicians.

The some 50 American newspapermen who have been sharing Nixon's journey have also been sharing his human experience. They, too, wise and sophisticated as they traditionally fancy themselves to be, have found a new dimension opened in their thinking about Russia. They too have made the astounding discovery that the Russians are people. All sorts of notions they brought with them have had to be discarded. They found Russia less advanced industrially than they had been led to think. But they found the people more friendly, better fed, and better and more colorfully dressed than they ever expected. Among their other discoveries about people, they have discovered that Khrushchev himself is a person. Some of the correspondents who were scoring the ideas of a meeting between Eisenhower and Khrushchev now favor it, because they now have the impression that Khrushchev is probably more willing to talk openly and try to reach agreements, and is much less of a dictator, than any other Russian leader, past or potential.

A good deal of this business of the human discovery of the Russians, charming as much of it has been, must still be taken with reservations. These lovely, friendly people are still ruled and managed by a system which is quite capable of galvanizing them into enmity toward us and expelling them out to die against us, just as, for our part, the decent, friendly, peace-loving people of this America could, by decision of our government, be turned into a unified, terrible force for destruction.

But there is enough danger of this already without having either side continue in any inactive, propagandist, or psychological denial of the other's humanity, and we can be thankful that the Nixon tour has resulted in a massive human contact which must do much to take uniformed hate out of the relationship between the two peoples involved. It is quite obvious that Nixon is never going to forsake the wonderful Russian people who have welcomed him, and that he is going to become and remain, from this time on, a powerful advocate of attitudes and policies in which we never allow the Russians to become faceless symbols again, and seek their right to life and happiness along with our own. The further he gets from people, and the nearer he gets to official policies, the more difficult such a task is going to become, but it is good,

Rockville-Vernon Council, City Meetings Slated Tonight in New City Building

The City Council will meet at 8 o'clock tonight for the first time in the new city hall. The new headquarters for the city government was used this morning for the first time by the city council.

Tonight's meeting is the first since the suspension of police Captain Peter J. Dugan's and it is likely the Police Commission will report on that matter.

Some opposition to the suspension by Mayor Herman Olson has been voiced, particularly by Democrats, and a lively discussion may take place tonight if Democrats on the council decide to make an issue of the matter.

A city meeting is also scheduled tonight, at 8:30 in the city hall, when citizens will be asked to appropriate $10,000 for partial financing of the construction of the Fish Building in Henry Park.

Three doctors opened offices in new locations today after moving over the weekend.

Dr. Allan B. Dambach has moved from 84 Park St. to Vernon Circle, Dr. John Pluffer and Dr. Noel Kerr have moved from 87 Elm St. to their medical building at Maple and Grant Sts.

Carnival Time at Play Areas

There weren't any brass rings or hoopie dolls at these carnivals, but the winners at the various events won peanuts. These pictures were taken at the annual carnival held by the Recreation Department on the playgrounds.

This year, the carnivals were held at Bowers and the West Side. More than 500 youngsters took part in the activity last week. The Herald's chief photographer, Singh Chava, produced the pictures from the West Side, and staffer Joe Sternis covered the Bowers carnival.

Judging by the expressions on the faces, there were many winners and few disappointments. Some playground supervisors "look it on the chin" as they became targets for among three or four bowling, nail driving, gun shooting and dice ball.

A Message From "Your Pharmacist"

AN OLDER PHARMACIST FRIEND once gave us this good advice which we have never forgotten and always try to follow.

HE SAID, "ANY MEDICINE OR HEALTH-AID can do much good if properly used and great harm if improperly or excessively taken."

"PHARMACISTS LEARN IN COLLEGE how to compound medicines, protect their potency by proper storage and the possible dangers involved if they are not taken properly."

"PHARMACY'S CODE OF ETHICS directs pharmacists to consider the public's health to be more important than greater profits. It is the dedicated obligation of every pharmacist to caution folks who may be unwisely taking a patent medicine or home remedy."

PLEASE ASK OUR PROFESSIONAL OPINION of any patent medicine, vitamin, or home remedy. We will always give you an honest, informed answer. If necessary, we will explain when it would be wiser for you to consult a physician.

THIS HELPFUL ADVICE IS IMPORTANT. Every medicine or health-aid should only be secured from a pharmacist. We will never knowingly permit you to gamble with your health.

Eisenhower to Visit Soviet, Khrushchev Here This Fall

But, he added, there are problems that ought to be talked out between the two governments. He remarked that it is good for the leaders to meet.

As to whether all this may lead to a summit conference in the near future, Eisenhower in effect brushed that aside as a premature question. He said such a summit conference was absolutely impractical unless there were advance indications of positive results.

But with the prospective collapse of the Geneva foreign ministers conference, it was obvious that there was opening up now a higher level of exchanges which the western Allies hope may bring some alleviation in Soviet positions on the great issues of the East and West.

Khrushchev is expected to visit Washington for two or three days to engage in, as the announcement said, informal talks with the President.

Plans are for the Russian leader to put in another 10 days on his travels about the United States. How obviously it is that these plans may be subject to change, Khrushchev's ideas about the strength of his people.

Eisenhower amiably described his announcement. He said that he would visit this country in September and then he would return to the Soviet Union in the next few weeks.
