plans calling for only one upstairs apartment instead of the formerly proposed two in the building, were submitted last night. Atty. John D. LaBelle represented the applicant.

Also approved was a variance request from Curtis G. Melin, 25 Falkner Dr., to erect an attached garage which will be closer to the sidewalk than regulations allow.

The ZBA denied an application for a variance sought by Peter C. Farnham, 183 Spring St., to erect an addition to the house which would be closer to the sidewalk than allowed by regulations.

The ZBA denied an application for a variance sought by Frank Gambolati to erect a house west of 232 Spring St. which would be closer to the street line than regulations allow.

Irving Pflanzman deputy national collector from New York, called the committee investigating Communist activities among Puerto Ricans that most of the propaganda pieces are mailed monthly to San Juan, mainly from Mexico.

Police officials said the Nationalists may attempt an uprising to protect the hearings. A committee member, Rep. Gordon H. Scherer (R-Ohio) said the committee expects to find more evidence of a Caribbean-wide pattern of Communist infiltration.

Rep. William M. Tucker (D-Va.) opened the hearing with a statement that the committee was not investigating Puerto Ricans as a group, but rather as individuals.

Loughran was picked up at his Brookline apartment and taken to the Kings County jail. Loughran testified that he had been a member of the Communist Party for several years.

Wagner said the disclosure was an investigation of the city's bureau of weights and measures, which treated today on extortion charges.

Puerto Ricans Get Cold Wave Stabs East, Deep South

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A pre-winter cold wave that numbed the Rockies and the mid-continent earlier this week stung the East and the heart of Dixie today with the season's coldest weather.

It was colder in many parts of the South, below freezing, than in the snow-covered sections of the north, where a quick recovery after two days of sub-zero blasts.

Forecasters said the temperature would rise to high 30s and 40s by Friday, but a high of 30 was predicted for Saturday.

Cranberries in Stores Safe, Growers Assert

Washington, Nov. 18 (AP)—The cranberry industry insisted today that the berries and berry products now on the market are clear of a cancer-causing chemical and called on the government for quick reassurance to Thanksgiving shoppers.

Secretary of Welfare Arthur S. Flemming heard the grower spokesmen out on that and industry plan for safety in the future without committing himself to any decision.

High government surveys said at the conclusion of the meeting that the cranberry industry plan was "a starting point" for a plan to speed clearance of berries.

THE HARTFORD ELECTRIC LIGHT COMPANY

As You Like It

By JUDITH AHEARN

Carolyn Mather, 15, a sophomore at Manchester High School, is one of 20 student musicians from public and parochial schools in north-central Connecticut who are competing for a $1,000 music scholarship in preliminary auditions Sunday in Hartford. A total of 37 young musicians from all parts of the state have entered competition for the scholarship to be awarded by Acta-Lite Affiliated Companies in connection with this winter's series of TV concerts by Hartford Symphony Orchestra conducted by Fritz Maibler.

Mrs. Mather, a violinist, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Mather, an Andover, She will perform Sunday in auditions beginning at 1 p.m. in the Colonial room at Bushnell Memorial.

Other performers at the Hartford auditions and similar auditions being held tomorrow at New Haven will compete in a second series of auditions in Hartford next month to select three students to appear on the TV program.

The finalists will perform one selection with the Hartford Symphony on each of the first three programs. The student giving the outstanding performance will be presented the $1,000 scholarship.

The hour-long TV programs again will be presented over

3 Sentenced In Coventry Morals Case

Three of the persons charged in the Coventry morals case were sentenced by Judge Joseph A. Longo in Tolland County Superior Court today.

The other 16 or so cases were continued to Dec. 1 for sentencing because, in most instances, the medical reports had not been received, or were not in the proper form.

Judge Longo warned the attorney to see that the reports are available Dec. 1. He said he is unfair to the court and the state's attorney to "wait until the last minute to find out that a report ordered two weeks ago is not here."

It is part of the proper preparation of a case, he said.

South West, North East, West, and South, were sentenced to 30 days in jail, with a $100 fine. The charges were reduced to 15 days in jail, with a $50 fine.

Edward W. Bridgman, 16, of 78 Oak St., Manchester, was fined $100 and given a 30-day suspended jail term for lascivious carriage. The charge was reduced to 15 days in jail, with a $50 fine.

Neleo Tool Will Expand

A new addition will be erected by the Neleo Tool Co. at 228 Columbia St. to accommodate a step-up tool making program which will eventually place employment at the firm from 40 to 50.

Announcement of the company's decision to build was made today by the Chamber of Commerce which, at the same time, also said another firm, the Connecticut Tool and Die Co., has located at 10 Hilliard St. It will employ five workers at first.

Neleo Tool is a subsidiary of Brown and Sharpe, one of the oldest and best known companies in the business which is coming out with a new line of high speed carbide and alloy cutting tools. These will be produced in Manchester.

Considered Relocating — The Chamber has been working with company officials for the last five months in an effort to find suitable space for the new division. This includes tours of buildings available locally and applying information and statistics.

Robert Warfel, vice president and general manager of Neleo, said high praise for the Chamber's efforts in keeping the new cutting tool division in town. At one time, officials were seriously considering Columbus as a possible location.

Warfel told Chamber representatives that if plans proceed according to schedule, the company may consider building one huge structure on the present site. The present land facilities will be used up when the new 2,000 square foot addition is erected, leaving no more room for expansion on the present site, Warfel said.

Ready First of Year — The new addition will conform to the architecture of the present structure, Warfel said, and will have a brick face and metal roof. It is anticipated that operations will begin in the addition around the first of the year, he said.

Brown and Sharpe also has plants in Grayson and Providence, R. I.; and in Stamford. It also has drill and pump divisions in Detroit and Michigan. Mich. is an English subsidiary.

Kelco has been located in Manchester for 31 years and has been a subsidiary of Brown and Sharpe for the last four.

Connecticut Tool and Die is occupying the second floor of the Engineer Metals, Inc. building. Principal officers of the new firm are Joseph Mikusian, president; and Walter H. Danesman, vice president.

The firm, which works in carbide tools and dies, is using approximately 3,000 square feet of space in the building.

Churchill, 84, Resting, Chest Ailment Fades

Despite the weather, Churchill visited his old prep school, Harrow, for an annual sing-song and on another occasion met in a hospitable way, the unwell, of his status at Woodford.

In the years since his retirement as prime minister in 1965, Churchill has been seen in the south of France. But he stayed home this year to participate in the general election campaign, knocked over in this game.

Health Group Urges Controls On Population

Association's 185-member governing council, including representatives of 14 health specialties and of 49 state, regional and territorial branches, said:

"Public and private programs concerned with population growth and family size should be integrated with the health program and should include medical advice and services which are acceptable to the individual concerned."

Laws in two states, Connecticut and Massachusetts, for public dissemination of information on contraceptive means. Similar laws prevail in many Latin American countries.

Rockville Fisk Memorial Open House Stated Sunday

Open house and dedication ceremonies for the Lottie Fisk Memorial Building at Henry Park are arranged for Sunday afternoon.

The newly-completed building will be open for inspection from 1 to 3 p.m. Dedication ceremonies will be held at 2 p.m., at which time Mayor Herman O. Dixon will accept the building for the city. Rabbi Mordecai Goldweiss of the Congregation B'nai Israel will deliver a short address.

The building committee is inviting all local clubs to send representatives to the open house-dedication ceremonies. Chairman Frederick W. McKone will preside, with invocation to be delivered by Father Raymond A. Lopez, pastor of St. Joseph's Church.

Douglas H. Price will be present to represent the Park family.

Also participating will be the Rev. Paul F. Bowman, pastor of Union Congregational Church, Gordon Or Jr., architect, and a representative of Conyers Construction Co.

The building is a memorial to the wife of the late Judge John E. Fisk. In his will he provided that upon the death of his wife, a portion of his estate go to the City of Rockville for a memorial to her. After her death in February 1957, the city was advised of the bequest and appointed a committee to determine how the money should be used. Several "ideas" for memorial funds were added to the bequest, providing some $60,000 for the project.

Christmas Trees Must Be Checked

Christmas trees and other holiday decorative evergreens grown in areas of the northeastern United States that are under quarantine because of gypsy moth infestations must be inspected and certified before being shipped southward and westward, the U. S. Department of Agriculture reminded dealers and the public today.

The area generally infested by the gypsy moth, a destructive forest pest, comprises Connecticut, Rhode Island, Massachusetts, most of New Hampshire and Vermont, numerous counties in Maine, and sections of eastern and southern New York. In recent years, more than four million acres of moths-infested land have been treated with insecticides as part of the cooperative State-FEDA Gypsy Moth Control and Eradication Program.

The leaf-chewing gypsy moth caterpillars destroy shade and forest trees worth thousands of dollars each year, and if permitted to spread over a wider area could cause many millions of dollars worth of damage. Buff-colored eggs of the gypsy moth overwintering on evergreens shipped from infested areas can spread the pest to new locations.

USDA urges Christmas tree shippers to obtain certification at loading points where it can be done with a minimum of delay. Motorists are also cautioned not to take evergreens outside quarantined areas.

Detailed information on quarantine regulations and scheduled certification at loading sites are furnished by inspectors of USDA and the State, located throughout the gypsy-moth quarantine area. These inspectors may be contacted by consulting post offices, agents of common carriers, county foresters, or county agricultural extension agents, or by referring to telephone directories of towns and cities in the quarantine area.

Typhoon Dead at 10
Talpel, Formosa, Nov. 18 (AP)—Typhoon Freda, had killed 10 people and injured 200 others in the general district of Olinawa.

In the Philippines, where Freda raged for two days, the storm killed at least 10 persons a dead, 22 missing, and 500 families homeless. First estimates set damage at $2.5 million.

With the storm located 80 miles south of Formosa, heavy rains flooded low-lying streets in Taipei. Freda's maximum winds were down to 35 miles an hour.

MAHRC Seeks Bridge to Normality

By MISS JUDITH ABERN
Holding a job or getting married are difficult achievements for a young man or woman who must concentrate on how many letters there are in the alphabet or where to place a marker on a Bingo card. And while these are the major problems for young mentally retarded children, the problems of these older retarded men have been largely ignored. Confinement in the home, sometimes hidden from the neighbors, has been common for the adults.

In Manchester, however, the story is different. A group of 15 mentally retarded young adults meets each Wednesday night in the Bunc Center for Mentally Retarded. Some of the young adults in the program have speech impediments, some have a lack of physical coordination, some are very withdrawn, nearly all have lower than average intelligence quotients. All nearly all of these men are unpleasantly contacted with older persons of their own age.

At the Wednesday night meetings, they learn to open up. To meet the needs of such a variety of problems, a variety of activities has been organized by John Craig, 106 Prospect St., Harry Smith, 21 Bigelow St., and Mrs. Kay O'Neill, 106 Prospect St. The aim of the program is to form a bridge on which the young adults may cross from the sheltered children's programs to the responsibilities of independent or semi-independent living.

The program is directed first toward helping the young adults acquire social ease. Vocational training and academic activities round out the program.

Under the heading of social games, the young adults play games like Bingo and dominoes and checkers which they can play with others in the "outside," including their families. They practice on a "tabletalk telephone box" to learn the social graces and to handle business calls. Some may become proficient enough to obtain a job answering the phone.

They will soon have square dancing on their program, so that they all want to know why, and won't start without him."

Two Overcome Blocks
Several of the young men and women have normal intelligence, but have been impeded from using it effectively because of some physical or emotional block. At least two of them have overcome the block partially through help from the program.

One young man, who holds a job in a grain company, helps the others with their coats and books, and acts as a steady influence on some of those with physical defects.

The other night one of a young woman with a low normal intelligence and a high level of compassion is a mainstay of the group. She seems able to help the emotionally disturbed ones.

A young man with normal intelligence, and a job at Pratt and Whitney, seems to find security with this group. He had felt unsure of himself in nearly every other context, but with the group he is gaining confidence in himself.

Some of these young adults are capable of partial or complete independence, said Craig.

Ask Chamber for Help
The Manchester Chamber of Commerce will be asked to help find jobs for these young adults, he said. The first step is to find their capabilities. The second step is for each merchant and factory owner to look over his plant and see where one of these people could help him.

Right now the parent group of the young adult program, the Manchester Association for the Help of Mentally Retarded Children, is conducting a fund drive to support its program for the coming year. The funds are used to operate the Bunc Center for the children's program in the day. The money will also help a group of pleasant young men and women achieve a more normal life.

Absolutely right! Harry Smith, one of the directors of the program for mentally retarded young adults, points to a quick thinking player in a game. The young players chalk their names on the board when they win, vie hard for the recognition. Several of them hold jobs, and help in small ways to run the program. (Herald Photo by Pinto)

Speaker Cites Child's Needs

The boundaries of accepted behavior should be broad but firm. Dr. Julian W. Streiffel, professor of psychology at University of Hartford, told 75 parents at a Buckley PTA meeting last night. Constant displays of aggressive behavior problems, the speaker declared, a parent may not accept a child's behavior, but he should accept the child as a person, he added. This does not mean giving into the child, he explained. Suitable outlets for emotional feelings must be provided, he asserted.

Dr. Streiffel discussed the "Psychological Development of Elementary School Children," and conducted question and answer periods within five small discussion groups.

For a child to have energy to do in the classroom, he needs no energy or motivation to learn in the classroom," the speaker declared. He pointed out that anger, sorrow and fear interfere with a child's development. More attention, he said, lead to more frustration.

Among the factors in the development of a child which determine how well he will do in school include happy relationships with his parents, the examples set by parents and others, the attitudes, interests and habits and experiences with people before he reaches school age, and his intellectual ability which can be improved by life experiences. Dr. Streiffel stated.

The growth of a child is linked to his mental hygiene, the psychologist declared. Behavior which wins approval will be repeated, he explained. A child's bad behavior is sometimes a effort to gain attention, he added.

It is hard to understand, he said, and no child should have to learn by fear. Many children are too suppressed, he added. In expressing fear, sorrow and become withdrawn personalities. Anxious children are poor learners, he declared. Mrs. Nancy Hutchinson's morning kindergarten class won the attendance banner.

Cana Conference Set for Sunday
The complementary roles of husband and wife in a three-fold relationship in marriage, the physical, psychological and spiritual, will be discussed at a Cana Conference to be held in St. James school auditorium Sunday at 2 p. m.

The conference, to be conducted by the Rev. John T. Conley of Our Lady of Mt. Carmel Church in Mt. Carmel, is open to all married couples. Catholic, mixed marriages and non-Catholic.

The program will include instruction and discussion. Refreshments will be served. The conference will close with Benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and renewal of marriage vows.

Skaters Like Dark Skin
Chicago — Researchers have found that female mosquitoes track down human victims with built-in detectors of radiant heat, moisture, and carbon dioxide given off by the breath. From targets of mosquitoes are thin people, since they release more heat than others. The skaters seem to prefer dark skin to light.

SAC's Storehouse Keeps 'em Flying

By SHIRLEY SCATES

Disburbed through OCAMA—most of it on SAC supplies.

The organization charged with procuring and dispensing these items is based on mechanical and human brains and air transportation.

Stored at Tinker are 400,000 different items needed by SAC B22s, B24s and KC135 jet tankers, ranging from 15 cent bolts to hundred thousand dollar jet engines.

Thousands of orders pour in by radio teletype each day, some from the other side of the world, some from just across the Tinker runways at the SAC modification center.

36 Hour Service

If the part is needed to keep a SAC plane operational, it is located, packaged and sent on its way within 36 hours.

Data processing machines working four times as fast as human brains define the location of the item in an OCAMA warehouse.

Human hands and conveyor belts take the parts to the plane.

If the priority item is to be shipped outside the country, the Losair division takes over.

The goods are conveyed onto cargo planes and sent winging toward their destination.

Logair has nine million pounds of supplies from here each month.

SAC's supply would be a layman's nightmare of complexity if it could be described. But there is still another critical step.

To keep Air Force records in order, each of these supply transactions and inventory changes must be recorded.

Mechanical Memory

For this task OCAMA has a mechanical memory.

Banks of electronic data recorders are housed in a square brick building, air conditioned and light free.

In a matter of minutes these machines can furnish specific information on supply transactions.

In addition, they can reveal every detail concerning the Air Force's $1.6 billion-dollar engine inventory.

Andy Bloom, a civilian, heads the data recording section.

He runs up the radical change in this modern supply system.

Ten years ago the Air Force was lost trying to keep up with these inventories. Now, with the electronic machines and organization we're ready for anything.

Tail Fins Retractable

Indianapolis—An Indianapolis inventor has patented retractable automobile tail fins that give a speedy, stylish look, yet can be lowered when parking so they won't interrupt the back-up view.

The goods are conveyed onto aircraft by the SAC's motion.

A June wedding is planned.

Does Platinum Deposit Exist Somewhere in Glastonbury?

By ELMORE BURNHAM

Glastonbury is said to have been the scene years ago of a frenzied search for platinum that temporarily rivaled the excitement of the gold rush days in Nevada.

According to the legend, the treasure is guarded by spirits just as real and deadly as those which protect rich temples in the Orient, from foreign looters or thieves.

Hansen, the fact that it is easily shaped, and the many uses found for its alloys make platinum several times more valuable than gold.

If a speculator could borrow money from a bank to buy a ton of platinum, and resell the platinum at current prices, he would

Man's Body Found

Police Chief James M. Reardon looked over the sweater's job last month as several State jobs formerly administered under county government were dropped in anticipation of final abolition of county government in 1960.

Winston S. C. Turkington, 57 Hamlin St., was town sealer for eight years.

Reardon reported leaving and sealing 10 gas pumps and meeting three, testing and sealing of 36 scales, resetting four air reflectors, and checking 130 packages for correct weight.

Police arrests declined in October, according to the report, but auto accidents and general complaints increased. There were 130 arrests in October and 140 in September. There were 20 October accidents but only 17 in September. Police received 407 complaints last month as opposed to only 261 the month before.

Arrests for m.i.d.e.a.n.o.r.s dropped from 66 to 54, the most noticeable decline coming in the breach of peace category, 16 to 8.

Motor vehicle arrests increased from 74 to 76 in the 1-month period. Rules of road offenses dropped from 30 to 15 but there was a slight increase in most of the other categories.

Importation

First steam locomotive to operate commercially in the United States was the Stourbridge Lion, which was imported from England in 1825.

Reardon reported leaving and sealing 10 gas pumps and meeting three, testing and sealing of 36 scales, resetting four air reflectors, and checking 130 packages for correct weight.

Police arrests declined in October, according to the report, but auto accidents and general complaints increased. There were 130 arrests in October and 140 in September. There were 20 October accidents but only 17 in September. Police received 407 complaints last month as opposed to only 261 the month before.

Arrests for m.i.d.e.a.n.o.r.s dropped from 66 to 54, the most noticeable decline coming in the breach of peace category, 16 to 8.

Motor vehicle arrests increased from 74 to 76 in the 1-month period. Rules of road offenses dropped from 30 to 15 but there was a slight increase in most of the other categories.

Cranberries in Stores Safe, Growers Assert

Steps in which there has been no evidence of contamination.

The 1959 crop of cranberries has been segregated for further checks and are not going to the stores. Growers groups said they had done that themselves.

The plan for safety in the future was essentially a continuation and expansion of the segregation program, with further use of the chemical harvest until more is learned about its effects.

Fluencing today's production specifically to bear the industry view on how to separate the contaminated berries.

Fluencing is a chemical which is stressed that will fill the purpose. Fluencing is not a new chemical, but a choice as to the action he should take in the situation.

He told the growers further that under the law he cannot take action in separating the berries, but he can accept their plan, the grower contention that the effect of ametrinose is to keep berries from growing.

He determined he said that it is true under the law forbidding the department to set an acceptable dosage level for any material found in cranberries or in humans or animals.

Amtrone E. Stevens general manager said he represents 75 per cent of the cranberry crop, said cranberry sauce now on store shelves was from berries harvested in 1958.

Neither the Federal Food and Drug Administration nor produce inspectors Stevens said, have any reason to believe that cranberries were improperly treated in a manner with the weed killer.

The very careful restrictions made by us on fresh berries also indicate that 10 million pounds of fresh cranberries in grocery stores are also entirely pure.

Stevens presented a 5-point industry program designed to remove ametrinose from cranberries. Stevens, representing the Ocean Spray, Cranberries Cooperative, said his growers had been forbidden as long ago as Sept. 15 to use the questioned herbicide on their cranberry properties in any form despite approval by the Department of Agriculture for use as a harvest aid.

Stevens said this was done "because of the controversial nature of ametrinose."

He said the prohibition will stay in effect until the possible effect of the compound on humans is finally determined.

Stevens said Fluencing's statement in regard to consumption of cranberries was not advised and commented that the cranberry industry now refers to Nov. 9 when Fluencing issued his "Black Monday."

Referring to the precautions which he said growers have taken, Stevens asked this from Fluencing:

"A declaration to the American people that cranberries are completely wholesome and free from contamination of any sort."

Stevens improved Fluencing to make such an announcement as to reverse the trend of fear which has been created by the announcement of Nov. 9."

The industry will be glad to cooperate in any further steps, portions of the 1959 crop, Stevens said.

Fluencing's stated purpose in setting up today's meeting was to hear from the industry a plan to separate the clean berries from

"We have a couple of surprises for the committee," one of the attorneys said.

The Puerto Rican Bar Association set up a 13-member committee to study any possible evidence of a great amount of contamination of other food products from use of ametrinose.

He said he based his statement on an indication that in his area, one of the most highly centered cranberry growing areas, the total amount of the chemical, sold to cranberry growers is only 25 per cent of the total amount sold.

"It is as dangerous as pointing a gun at me," he said, "I certainly will not be doing any marketing agencies which first handle them. Stevens said this plan was put into effect at the beginning of the 1959 harvest this fall. About 100,000 pounds have been impounded.

A Toting of all 1959 crop berries now possessed by primary handlers of the major distributors. These tests would be carried out by sampling procedures consistent with those used by the food and drug administration.

A Destruction of all cranberry found by such tests to contain any residue of ametrinose or impounding them until it is decided to use them.

A Continuation of scientific research and cooperation with government agencies to insure that any interruption of supply to the public of an adequate supply of pure and wholesome cranberries and cranberry products."

Many retail stores have advised Stevens said, have any reason to believe that cranberries were improperly treated in a manner with the weed killer.

Stevens said the industry plan has been checked and found safe.

He said a minimum dose can be set for a chemical which causes cancer in men or animals.

A Fluencing regional grower told Fluencing it has offered retailers free certified cranberries for replacement of stocks but John R. Quarles, Ocean Spray attorney, said under questioning by Fluencing that such a thing would be impossible for the industry generally. Ocean Spray operations practically cover the country.

Irwin Trial Starts Today

Joseph A. Irwin, 35, of 110 Ridge St., went on trial today in Hartford County Superior Court for the May 9, 1958 break at O'Leary's Restaurant. He is charged with breaking and entering.

The jury trial is being conducted before Judge Charles E. Howe. Six men and six women make up the jury.

Prosecuting for the State is Special Assistant State Attorney Douglas Wright, a former assistant State attorney who last year will become a Circuit Court judge.

The case was bound over to Superior Court from Manchester Town Court in October 1958 under a $5,000 bond. Probable cause was found after Hersebell J. Letta Jr. of East Hartford, formerly of 375 Adams St., turned State's witness and implicated Irwin.

Witnesses who took the stand this morning were Steve Cavagari, owner of the restaurant, Walter Clavello, who investigated the case and made the arrest; Letta, his wife, and Mrs. Freda K. Olson of 27 Huntington St., who turned over to police a pair of brown gloves and a screwdriver she found on her patio and later was identified by Irwin as items used by Irwin in the break.

Irwin continued his afternoon after the luncheon recess.

Elaborate Medical Facilities Slated for Winter Olympics

Agnew Valley, Calif.—No one will carry a radio to the medical center at the Winter Olympics, Feb. 18-28, 1960. Any radios will be left at the medical center or possible, should they become ill or need a doctor.

Headed by the medical organization, Dr. William W. Sullivan, the 61-year-old native of Washington, D.C., has the job of setting up emergency medical care up to 24 hours a day for the athletes.

During the trial events there, February, there were several competitors who suffered injuries. In each instance they were given prompt and proper attention and recovered completely.

Such a tremendous task which would be a medical center, equipped with all the latest medical equipment and drugs are being loaned or donated by private firms. Some pharmaceutical companies, even asked to provide complete medical centers for the use of the athletes.

So, if you plan on attending the Olympics, you may see a medical center, a pair of brown gloves and a screwdriver she found on her patio and later was identified by Irwin as items used by Irwin in the break.

Irwin continued his afternoon after the luncheon recess.

Strong Unit Aim Of Town Workers

Non-union municipal employees meeting yesterday expressed sentiment in favor of a stronger organization than the Municipal Employees Group which now represents them in collective bargaining.

About 20 of the employees who are members of the group met yesterday afternoon in the Municipal Building.

They elected Ernest MacCall of the assessor's office as temporary chairman of their group, and named MacCall and Joseph Lemore, members of the group's former executive committee.

MacCall will serve until new elections are held in January.

After considerable discussion centering on a group of 5-10 members toward their organization, several members suggested a lighter organization. One suggestion was that the group have a representative of a union with a view toward seeking union affiliation.

Such a move would have to await the January elections.

Police Arrests

William Orr, 61, of 842 E. Middle St., was arrested yesterday after his car rolled from a parked position and hit another car at Manchester Green. He is charged with failure to set his handbrake.

Police said Orr's car rolled from its front end of the Green School street on 400 feet, hitting the parked car on the way. Damage was light, but the car was damaged. Orr, 61, of 842 E. London, Bonn Chiefs Sidestep Talk on Arms

This is another area of German-British disagreement. Britain is unwilling to discuss the possibility of some kind of stop-gap arrangement to ward off Soviet demands that the U.S., British and French guarantees get out of West Berlin. Adenauer's feelings on this deal may lead to the abandonment of Berlin to the Communists.

The two spokesmen, John Ruseell of the British Foreign Office and Paul von Bismarck, said Macmillan and Adenauer had agreed to limit so communications when the talks deal may lead to the abandonment of Berlin to the Communists.

Police Arrests

William Orr, 61, of 842 E. Middle St., was arrested yesterday after his car rolled from a parked position and hit another car at Manchester Green. He is charged with failure to set his handbrake.

Police said Orr's car rolled from its front end of the Green School street on 400 feet, hitting the parked car on the way. Damage was light, but the car was damaged.

Orr told Patrolman Clarence Heritage he had set the handbrake before going into the school building. Orr is due in court Monday.

Hebron Finance Unit Slates Duties

Board of Finance Chairman Emory Taylor says it has become necessary to set up a calendar for the rest of the year and to orient new members on the duties of the Board.

The chairman pointed out that the activity of the Board has increased because the material for the budget hearing had to be collected, organized and presented at the annual town meeting in June.

This enabled meeting with the Boards of Education and other town agencies in public hearings.

Recent legislation enacted calls for clarifying old town laws, records are to be searched and all obsolete ordinances are to be discarded. The selectman are in charge of this program. First Selectman William E. Leahy reports that he has already started work on the matter and hopes to have it completed by December of this year.

It was brought out that there are many problems pertaining to the town involving expenditure of money and the general opinion was that different Board members should gather information on particular subjects and report back to the Board. Mrs. E. Leahy was directed to investigate town insurance. First selectman William E.

Leary also states that the Board of Selectmen has instituted a policy on purchasing for all agencies and town officers, each agency chairman to show by signature on bills his approval of the purchase. Each agency is to keep a running account of expenditures, except that purchase of $25 or under does not require the approval of the chairman.

The agenda of the PTA meeting to be held tonight at the elementary school, starts off at 8 p.m. with a business meeting, with reports of the various officers. The committee in charge will report on girls' society, legislative rights to know, commemorative Crystal Lake Fall Conference, scholarship fund, PTA conferences, and other committee reports.

The program to follow will include a talk by a guest speaker, Dr. Ralph C. Baker, professor of family relations of the University of Connecticut, on the theme "Helping Children to Grow Up." Refreshments will follow.

The PTA expresses appreciation of all those who have aided its work, including the Grange, and those who have aided the school. The selectman are in charge of this program. First Selectman William E. Leahy reports that he has already started work on the matter and hopes to have it completed by December of this year.

Doctor by Day, Tunesmith by Night

By RY HANSEY
Louisville, Ky. (AP)—By day Dr. Charles Pearce is a dignified general practitioner.

By night, he composes music at a piano when the beatnik in him comes out.
"It's a mixed picnic," he says. "Sometimes I feel real low and start emphasizing the minor chords. Other times I feel great and the music comes out bubbling."
Four years ago Pearce found he could improve the musical ditties of his Little Theater group.
Then a picture company paid him $500 for a television commercial, he says. "I guess I got in the groove after that."
Not quite. His first commercial song, "I've Never Been in Love Before," was a dud.
But that didn't discourage Pearce or his lyricist, housewife Wanda Receptor. When the doctor got a melody idea he played it over the telephone by tape to Wanda, who called him back with the lyrics.
They composed "Flip Kitten" and "Blue Jean Hop." This effort took the mid-nineteen fifties scene into the strange world of A & R (Artist and Repertoire).
"The trouble with those songs is they aren't 'bad enough,'" an A&R man advised.
Pearce correctly translated this to mean the melodies were too pretty and the lyrics intelligible.
"We butchered the record and he asked us to make it just a little worse," the physician says. "We did, and the record went to No. 1."
Pearce says the trend now is toward songs that aren't too bad and he has two ready.
"When" and "Are You Really in Love?" have been recorded by well known singers and are scheduled for release this fall.
"If they go over, I've arrived," Pearce says.
Pearce, 36, played piano with college bands, but composed songs solely for his campus date, New York City, and back again can be filed on pop, crooner, and pianer blades.

practice Pearce views himself as what people call a nice doctor, someone who listens to you sympathetically.
After four years as a tunesmith Pearce is reaching for Hollywood, "but even if I get there," he said, "I'll still be a doctor in the daytime."
Oklahoma City, Nov. 18 (AP)—A widow is asking seven cigarette companies to pay her and her minor children $250,000 on grounds her husband smoked cigarettes and died of lung cancer.
The suit was filed on behalf of Mrs. Hazel Shields of Holdenville, Okla., in Oklahoma District Court yesterday.
The contending husband, Ed Shields, smoked two to three packages of cigarettes per day since 1926, and had smoked since he was 15 years old.
Mrs. Shields contended the companies and distributors named failed to protect the public health. The suit also alleges the defendants warranted their products were wholesome.

Smoker's Widow Seeks $250,000

Des Moines—American farmers are expected to spend 17 billion dollars this year for fertilizer, machinery, seeds, and other non-consumer items, an increase of 100 per cent in such expenditures since 1958. Investment per worker in many Midwestern farms is about $25,000, nearly four times the average investment per industrial worker.

Yule Decorations Shown to Club

Forty members and guests of the Junior Century Club attended a meeting at Wilbur Memorial Auditorium last night at which Mrs. Edson P. Herick demonstrated the making of Christmas decorations.
Mrs. Herick showed several types of wreaths, one made of dried hydrangeas, one of white feathers, and one of traditional greenery and holly. The most complicated wreath consisted of seed pods, cones and nuts, wired and glued to a cardboard base. She had also made candleholders to match.
The guest speaker also showed a variety of Christmas centerpieces. She constructed one piece with a wondrous train in greenery and lighted with white candles.
The table for the social hour and refreshments was decorated with silver and a horn of plenty. Mrs. Gerald Park was hostess for the evening.

Farm Spending Soars

Des Moines—American farmers are expected to spend 17 billion dollars this year for fertilizer, machinery, seeds, and other non-consumer items, an increase of 100 per cent in such expenditures since 1958. Investment per worker in many Midwestern farms is about $25,000, nearly four times the average investment per industrial worker.

Ike Ponders Truman As Tour Companion

The conference was related to Eisenhower's travels to Europe, Asia and Africa of a western summit conference starting Dec. 10 in Paris.
Eisenhower said he thinks an answer to Dodd's letter will be coming up very shortly.
"Is this something he is consulting with other people about?" a newsman inquired.
"I just don't know who he is consulting or whether he is or not," Hawks said.
But he was definite on one thing: Eisenhower hasn't communicated with Truman about it. Eisenhower-Truman relations have been frosty ever since the 1952 political war in which Truman sought Eisenhower and the GOP with typical vigor and picturesque speech.
Since then he hasn't set foot in the White House and has had few invitations to do so. He sent regrets last spring when Eisenhower asked him to a dinner for former Prime Minister Winston Churchill of Britain.
