Little, Shea Rehass Tiff, End Dispute

Wilber T. Little, who will be running as a candidate for State representative in Tuesday's primary election, said today the brief dispute between him and Republican Town Chairman John F. Shea Jr. is dead and that he will now stick to campaigning "on my record."

The dispute arose from a recent statement by Little that he was eased out of party endorsement as a candidate for the Legislature through "dirty work" in the GOP executive committee. Shea and Lawrence Riker are the party's endorsed candidates for the legislative posts.

Shea, at the end of a town committee meeting Wednesday night, explained the background of the dispute and stated his position in relation to it. He called for party unity and charged Little to contribute "positive, helpful, and constructive" for the post, Little is seeking.

He repeated that he had not, as Little claimed, told Little he was not endorsed because he is a farmer. Nominations were decided, Shea said, by the Executive Committee of the Joseph Lawrence School of Nursing in New London Monday.

Liberals Rap Dr. Peale Clergymen in Dispute On Religion as Issue

The United Presbyterian Church, U.S.A. did not endorse either candidate.

New York, Sept. 9 (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller says he decries "evidence that religious bigotry seems to be creeping into politics."

He did not mention the presidential contest between Quaker Richard M. Nixon and Catholic John F. Kennedy. And later he declined to comment further on the extemporaneous remark made while he was reading a prepared speech featuring civil rights last night.

Rockefeller addressed the closing dinner of the 50th annual conference of the National Urban League which is dedicated to improving the lot of Negroes and other minorities.

Rockefeller said progress toward realization of civil rights for all persons has been too slow and frequently unguided.

He discussed various ways in which the public interest might be served.

Police Scare Off Possible Burglar

A Rockville policeman scared off a would-be burglar early this morning at the Maple Grove Club on Franklin St.

Patrolman Robert Kellegher said he was walking his beat in the west end of the city and as he approached the club, he spotted a man apparently attempting to break into the building.

Kellegher said he called the man into woods nearby but could not catch him. The patrolman called for assistance and said a search was conducted in the area by himself, Det. Sgt. George Trapp, Patrolman Vincent DiBenedetto and State Trooper David Toomey.

Rockefeller said there was no trace of the man in the woods nor were there any marks on the sign that the public interest might be served.

That Man Again
 You can't hide the reason President Eisenhower has been a great man and has had his great influence and accomplishment as President, even though he may have missed some of his own goals. The reason is very simple. He is not a man.

There may be other leaders, present and potential, in the national scene, who are not modern, either. But they do not give very much positive proof of that possibility.

There may be newspaper correspondents and editors and television commentators and columnists who are not modern either. But the general pattern of nations thought they felt fortunate late does not offer positive proof of that possibility.

Morality is the common assumption, the common sense, that comes when the consensus comes up against the sudden, sharp common sense of rejection by somebody.

The President made such news at his press conference Wednesday.

There came up to him the perfect moral question, as follows:

"Mr. President, Senator Kennedy said yesterday that you can't get Mr. Khrushchev to bargain seriously about peace by arguing with him or smiling with him. Now, you've tried smiling and you've tried arguing with him here. Do you think it would have been better if you had taken a tougher road, and would you, as Vice President Nixon?"

"What?" asked the President. "Do you mean by tougher, read: 'Not stop nuclear testing, perhaps not have him here,'" said the questioner.

Now this question, and its logic and its argument, and its inferential conclusion would pass muster anywhere in normal American discussion. In fact, it would normally be rated an intelligent question, which suggests a sound and sound and intelligent answer, and which, under normal procedures, if the President had fallen in with the indicated answer, would have become the angle of the day's news which would have landed on page one and received great editorial praise, because it fitted into the preconceived pattern by which reporters and editorialists operate.

Eisenhower, however, refused to provide the moral answer, and the moral headlines, and inspire the moral editorials. And he was perhaps the only man of importance in the country today to whom that question could have been put without receiving the moralistic kind of answer it sought.

Here is what the President did: a little display, and you won't but clear enough in its intent and sense:

"I don't see anything that would be tough about refusing to meet a man as long as there was any possible chance of his agreeing to one of the main efforts we are making toward disarmament. I do not see that it is merely in, as part of the contest between, in perfecting weapons that we want to do more testing. We are talking about everything we can do to bring some peace to the world, that is what we are trying to do. Now, toughness comes in standing in front of the man and telling him what you will do, and you won't do. Our country is peaceable, we want peace. Is it tough just to say we won't even talk peace? That makes that seem to be to be silly. Now, I don't care who says it, you have got to explore every avenue there is, and you've got to work on it day and night and think about it day and night. And I am not concerned about any criticism about my past actions. I have worked for what I thought was the good of the United States, and the peace of the world, and I will continue to do so."

What a refreshing, what a lone-

The Sin of Silence
 To sin by silence when we should protest.
 Makes cowards out of men.
 The human race has climbed on protest.
 Had no voice been raised against injustice, ignorance and lies.

 And politicians decide our least disputes.
 The few who dare must speak and speak again.

Firemen Answer 20 August Calls

Town firemen were called out 20 times in August to fight fires, an increase of six over the previous month.

In all, 28 calls were received, the other eight being broken down as follows: one fire, one fire, one fire, one fire, one fire, one fire, one fire, one fire.

But certain enthusiastic helpers and defenders of freedom, who happen to have lurking inside them a great deal of the national scene, who are not modern, either. But they do not give very much positive proof of that possibility.

 FRANCIS P. DELLAFERA
 ROBERT GARDNER
 HAROLD TURKINGTON

REPRESENTATIVES:
 A. LAWRENCE RIKER
 JOHN F. SHEA

THEY AND THEY ALONE HAVE PLEDGED THEMSELVES TO THE FOLLOWING PLATFORM:

- Libraries
 We propose the expansion of present library facilities. The growth of our central library has not kept pace with the growth of the town and we pledge ourselves to correct this problem.
- Fiscal Policy
 We advocate a "pay-as-you-go" policy on certain improvements including sewer and highway services. Such programs should be undertaken on a priority basis with provisions made for payment in the annual budgets. Bonding which greatly increases the eventual cost and burdens the taxpayers, should be reserved for major undertakings which cannot be covered in current income such as school construction, libraries and high-cost land purchases.
- Capital Improvement
 We propose instituting immediate action on a priority and "pay-as-you-go" basis for the storm sewer program. We also propose including in future budgets a reserve fund for other needed capital improvements including highways and sanitary sewers.
- Water Services
 We advocate action toward the eventual purchase of the Manchester Water Company including immediate formal discussions between the town and the present owners to improve the quality of the north end water and increase the supply as an aid in attracting new industries.
- Fire Protection
 We propose expanding and improving fire protection facilities including the relocation of the Center and Pine Street houses and the upgrading of our water main standards to meet fire underwriters' requirements.
- Assessments
 We propose to review our methods of assessments on water and sewer to provide for more equitable assessments and deferrals.
- Recreation
 We propose the development of additional recreational facilities following a comprehensive survey of our recreational system to determine future needs.
- Administrative Assistant to General Manager
 Because of the increasing complexities of local government and the added burdens on the General Manager, we advocate the appointment of an Administrative Assistant.
- Municipal Employees
 We propose the establishment of a Personnel Appeals Board.
- Elections
 We advocate the principle of off-year local elections and will urge a charter revision providing for local elections in the odd numbered years, so as to keep local issues free from the influence of state and national campaigns.
- General Plank
 We propose to return to Manchester responsible and responsive government designed to provide for the important and basic needs of the taxpayer on a sound and intelligent fiscal basis.

South Windsor Capt. Bissell Descendants Attend Bridge Ceremony

The Connecticut River bridge linking South Windsor with Windsor officially became the Capt. John Bissell Bridge in double ceremonies yesterday noon.

Bissell was the pre-revolutionary ferryman who made possible successful development of South Windsor as a community. Early settlers of Windsor were attracted to the fertile timber-free meadowland on the flood plain across the river.

Historical research indicates the ferry service by providing transport for essential supplies and manpower from the public community, made possible the settling of South Windsor.

Several direct descendants of Capt. Bissell, including Charles S. Bissell of Suffield and Polham S. Bissell of New York City, president of the John Bissell 1628 Association, attended the bridge dedication.

Albert D. Putnam, chairman of the Greater Hartford Bridge Authority, introduced town officials and others instrumental in erection of the span.

In accepting the bridge for the State, Deputy Highway Commissioner Ralph L. Hager, representing Governor Ruskoff, termed it "a very important step in future plans of the State Highway Department."

Selectman Frank E. Pierce Jr. of South Windsor, who unveiled the bronze plaque at the east end of the bridge, and Windsor Mayor Alexander G. Gartry, termed the new bridge a vital link between eastern and western Connecticut, which would benefit both towns.

Also speaking at the dedication was Fourth District state senator Fred J. Doocy of South Windsor, chairman of the Legislature's Roads and Bridges Committee.

Phinney-Hunt Caravan Views Splendor of U.S. and Mexico

The caravan bearing the slogan "Go West Young Men, Follow Us" departed with 30 MHS girls from the student parking lot at 8 a.m. Monday, June 27, for Virginia. The travelers stopped enroute in New Jersey and in Washington, D. C. to visit such tourist attractions as the Lincoln Memorial, the Capitol Building and the Washington Monument.

The girls, although enthusiastic about the first night on the Phinney-Hunt caravan, were amazed at the hotel atmosphere of California. The tourists moved through the deep south into fabulous New Orleans, La., where they visited Bourbon St., Basin St., and the ritzy. Many of the girls remember New Orleans as one of their favorite towns.

From New Orleans, the group received its first look at the Great American Desert. The girls were almost too hot to enjoy the beauty of the Arizona Mountains and the best mesa for driving. The three days they traveled in the Mojave, the temperature remained at 136 degrees.

While driving across 34 miles of the hottest dirt roads in America in order to reach Tombstone, Ariz., the lowest town in the United States, the girls were amazed at the town to kill it. Further north, this stretch of land, which receives several inches of rain a year, received the entire seven on the day the Phinney-Hunt girls arrived.

The tour's stop in Texas was, as Mr. Hunt pointed out, the first and the last. It enjoyed the passing trip to Mexico's border.

In California the girls visited San Juan Capistrano and discovered the old mission of San Juan Capistrano. They also visited the Knott's Berry Farm, Hollywood, Grauman's Chinese Restaurant and all the other wonderful sights of California. "I loved it here, especially San Francisco and Chinatown," announced one of the girls.

Others found the dinner in a restaurant in San Francisco most interesting. Here, the girls who refused to be conventional used chopsticks throughout the whole meal of several courses, including soup.

The Phinney-Hunt girls, who are from all over the state, are now in California, Iowa, Illinois, North Dakota, and into Canada, Niagara Falls and back to New York to see the enormous Kodak Park. The girls believe that they were coming to the Phinney-Hunt.

During the trip, the girls camped out several times but, with much success. The first camp was the scene of many adventures, culminating in a fantastic dinner which was prepared by the girls.

Students Study On Vacation

In compliance with a national trend, Manchester High School this summer, as in the previous ones, not only offered its students the opportunity to participate in a summer school for those students who wished to repeat a subject, but included those students who wished to take advance credit. For example, if a student wishes to take an additional course in language, he may do so. He may also take an additional course in Latin or Greek. The school year is divided into two semesters. The first semester is from September to February, and the second semester is from March to June. The school year is divided into two semesters. Editorial Rogers New Principal; Edson Bailey Retires

Students returning to MHS this fall found not only changes in the staff and alterations in the building, but a new principal as well. Mr. A. Raymond Rogers, former assistant principal of the New-England High School, will succeed Mr. Edson M. Bailey, who retired as of August 1.

Before zoning the staff at New-England, Mr. Rogers was principal of the high schools in Bear Harbor, Keeseau Falls, and Brookville, Maine.

A graduate of Colby College, he received his master's degree in education from the University of Maine.

He has been a member of the Maine Principals' Assn. and the Massachusetts Council of Public Schools, and is a life member of the National Education Assn.

During a personal interview, the High School reporter found Mr. Rogers to be a calm, confident, and well-versed in the curriculum, the scheduling process, and the language of the quarterly student program.

Mr. Rogers hopes to familiarize himself with the social and educational conditions of the school, and to maintain a high standard of educational excellence. He will keep MHS abreast of modern educational developments. The merit system, honors classes, and the variety within the curriculum, the scheduling process, and the language of the quarterly student program.

Mr. Bailey, while serving MHS for a quarter of a century, instilled in the school a high standard of educational excellence.
