Yanks Leading 3-1 After Four

Pittsburgh, Oct. 6 (AP)—The New York Yankees scored two runs in the third inning and another in the fourth and held a 3 to 1 lead over the Pittsburgh Pirates after four innings of the second game of the World Series. The Pirates scored their run in the fourth.

NEW YORK FIRST
Kubek, on a 2-1 count looped a single into left field just inside the foul line. The sun came out through the clouds bringing a cheer from the capacity crowd. Kubek was cut down attempting a cheer from the capacity crowd. McDougald was called out on strikes. Maria slanted a ground single past Nelson into right field. Maria went down, swinging, missing a fast ball.

PITTSBURGH SECOND
Cinoli walked on a full count. Burgess popped to Richardson, hitting a 3-2 pitch. Mantle loped back for Hoak's long fly to center. Masaroki doubled into the left field corner. Cinoli holding up at third. Turley had a 3-2 count on Masaroki. The Pirates popped to Skowron near first base.

PITTSBURGH FIRST
Richardson walked. Turley bunted toward the mound and was out. Friend to Masaroki. Richardson moving to second on the sacrifice. Kubek grounded a single through the middle of the diamond scoring Richardson and put the Yankees in front, 1-0. It was his fifth hit of the series. McDougald bunted and dropped a Texas league single in short right center. The pitcher dropping among Maria.

Nixon Airs Confidence, Castro Kennedy Topic

time for and he arrived late and after dark. Furthermore, it had rained.

Yet as he drove down Fourth Street, Louisville's main drag, he drew a happy and bouncy crowd as a rock 'n' roll king.

Girl squealed. Boy yelled. And everybody ran every which way for the object seems to be this: Let's get close enough to touch him.

The street looked like floodtide, with humanity cut off by banks. Police said the crowd was larger than the one Nixon drew a couple of weeks ago. They guessed that one at over 100,000.

There is no denying, however, that Nixon had scored a 10-strike in Pennsylvania, with its all-important 32 electoral votes.

On the 12-mile ride from the airport, where he landed in the late afternoon, the Republican presidential nominee was seen by more people than had turned out any time previously in the campaign.

Not all were supporters. There were many Kennedy-Johnson signs and many shouts for the opposition ticket.

But when Nixon reached a square in the heart of the University of Pennsylvania area, a surge of students stopped it by main force.

The Vice President, however, eliminated from his Philadelphia speech a quotation attributed to Sir Lyndon Johnson about civil rights.

The quotation was included in prepared excerpts which Nixon's press aides had released earlier in New York. It quoted Johnson as having said: "I am not now and never have been an advocate of civil rights. I don't think I ever will be."

Nixon's press secretary, Herbert G. Klein, said the source of the quote was a column written by Drew Pearson. He said the column was published in March 1960, and that it "referred to an incident which Pearson said took place during the 1956 Democratic national convention."

Democrat Lyndon B. Johnson was treated to a boisterous reception in traditional Republican Greenwich, Conn., last night.

The cheers went up, a band played and the placards waved as the vice presidential candidate stepped off a commuter train from New York. Police put the crowd at between 1,000 and 1,200 persons.

Nobody except Honest Douglas would sell me a car on time and I do mean nobody. Honest Douglas has been real good to me and many other well-to-do heads. There's no tricks, red tape or ridiculous prices either. Name of writer on request.

Showers Honor Miss Fracchia

Two showers were held recently for Miss Janet Lee Fracchia, 260 Spring St.

A personal shower was given by her attendants at the home of her mother, 260 Spring St. A miscellaneous shower was given by Mrs. Albert Katsureg, North County, for about 25 guests.

Miss Fracchia will wed Michael Strange, 84 Virginia Rd., Oct. 29 at St. James Church.

JORGENSEN HONORED

Williamatic, Oct. 6 (AP)—President Albert N. Jorgensen of the University of Connecticut has been named recipient of a "most distinguished service" citation from the Connecticut Department of the American Legion. The department's executive committee voted last night to award the citation to Jorgensen for his work with state youth and for the American Legion program on the campus each year. The award will be presented to Jorgensen on the university campus Nov. 10. He marks his 25th year at the university next month.

Joseph Welch Dies; Army Case Lawyer

sometimes devastating will on the nation's television screen. Welch was little known outside legal circles. But among lawyers, he was considered one of the best.

Colleagues said he was a lawyer-lawyer—one who frequently was called by other attorneys and law firms for consultation on their cases.

In 1960, Welch moved from the courtroom to the movie set to prepare the judge in the film "Anatomy of a Murder." He appeared on television periodically, taking part in discussion programs.

Welch underwent a prostate operation about a year ago and made a good recovery. The Cape Cod Hospital reported recently he was being treated for his heart and saw a likelihood that he might be discharged within a week or two.

In his retirement years he had delivered educational lectures on the United States Constitution. And at times he introduced television mystery shows.

East Most Guess

East most guess why you carefully went over to dummy to lead the second club. He knows you have just one club left in your hand. Perhaps that is the Jack.

Mind you, if East works everything out very carefully, he will know that he cannot lose by playing a low club. But not every opponent is that good or that careful. Four best hands with the ace of clubs to stop you from stealing a club trick, you will later discard a diamond dummy's queen of clubs. This will give you the contract.

The next time you are playing a pretty hopeless contract, think of some card that would give you a reasonable play for your bid. Then play the hand in dummy's hand to persuade some gullible opponent that you have the desired card. It's better to be a live insect than a dead lion.

Daily Question

Partner opens with one club, and the next player passes. You hold: Spades—J, Hearts—K 8 5 2, Diamonds—Q 9 8 2, Clubs—A 10 8 4. What do you say?

Answer: Bid one heart. Show a major suit, even a weak one, rather than raise a minor.

Sheinwold on Bridge

CREATE PROBLEMS FOR OPPONENTS
By Alfred Sheinwold

Bridge players can learn much from the insects. Some of them, for example, have no defense against a dangerous type. If you wonder whether that last sentence applies to bridge players or insects, you can pick your own answer.

How can you make four spades with this hand?

You can't, if you get perturbed. You should lose a club, two diamonds and a club to get a foolish defense you must study the ways of the insects.

West leads a heart, and you put up dummy's ace. Return a low club from dummy. East plays low, with good reason. He knows West carefully plays his lowest club to indicate that he has three cards in the suit.

Now you draw two rounds of trumps, with the ace and king, after which you lead another low club from dummy.

East Most Guess

East most guess why you carefully went over to dummy to lead the second club. He knows you have just one club left in your hand. Perhaps that is the Jack.

Mind you, if East works everything out very carefully, he will know that he cannot lose by playing a low club. But not every opponent is that good or that careful. The only compact with fine-car styling. A spirited sense of proportion gives Comet the most successful styling in the compact-car field. New rustproof aluminum grille, exquisite new interior fabrics, new fine-car appointments every here.

The first family-size compact. Comet's 114" wheelbase (longer than any other compact) provides spacious comfort other compact cars lack. There's generous room in a Comet, even for six grownups. And there's trunk space for a family-size load of luggage besides... over 28 cubic feet.

Big-car ride—small-car handling. The refined suspension (plus the 114" wheelbase) makes Comet's ride smoother and smoother than standard cars. And you'll find that Comet turns, parks and handles almost as easily as a baby carriage.

Priced with or below the other compacts. For all its fine-car feel, family-size comfort, big-car ride and extra-value features, Comet is priced with or below the other compacts.

New Thrift-Power 170 engine for '61 Comet now offers two economy engines—the standard Thrift-Power Six plus the new optional Thrift-Power 170, for 11% faster highway passing, 22% better acceleration on hills.

One-year or 12,000-mile warranty. Your Comet dealer is awarding his warranty on 1961 Comets to 12,000 miles or one full year, whichever comes first. See him to obtain full information. He will be glad to show you a copy of his new warranty.

The Issue Behind The Men

Joseph C. Harach of the Christian Science Monitor is one of the relatively few commentators on the world scene who makes something of a reliable specialty of seeing the forest along with the trees. His comments on the headline struggle between Khrushchev and Hammarajold at the United Nations help give that struggle the historical perspective which illuminates its real importance.

Harach sees Khrushchev in the role of defender of the United Nations concept as it was originally conceived in the Charter drawn up at San Francisco, and Hammarajold in the role of the reformer.

And the question between them is whether the United Nations shall evolve away from the original concept of a concert of great powers, making the big decisions with the little powers chirping on the sidelines toward a new concept in which a voting majority of the big powers can impose its policy and its will even on the great powers.

So long as the United Nations was a concert of great powers, with each great power possessing a veto in the Security Council, it is an organization in which Russia had policy strength equal to that of any other nation or group of nations.

When the Security Council is to be enlarged, and decisions go to the General Assembly, with all member nations having an equal vote, the majority rules, and any great power or even combination of great powers can be overruled.

And when the Secretary General of the United Nations takes orders from this General Assembly majority, and makes executive decisions according to its votes, or even makes executive decisions for which he seeks its approval after they have been taken, we have the beginning of the evolution of the United Nations based on the General Assembly half of the organization's legislative set-up.

As Harach writes: "The UN has become a living institution which has changed and evolved into something more than its founders intended and contemplated—just as the United States Constitution has evolved into something more than the founders specifically provided, or intended."

This evolution of the United Nations has had the result of taking Russia out of the equal position it had in the Security Council and putting it into what has seemed almost a perpetual and routine minority in the General Assembly decisions. Certainly, a major portion of this result can be traced to the fact that Russian positions and arguments have not been such as to win the free support of other nations. But Russia has also taken some seemingly routine holdings in instances in which its policies or arguments deserved some portion of respect, and even, on occasion, some support.

As Harach observes, it was not overruled occasionally by the General Assembly majority. It might not be as willing as we are, at the moment, to support Hammarajold, and the General Assembly majority rule at the United Nations. We originally wanted the veto as much as Russia did, and we may want it again.

What Khrushchev is trying to do, at any rate, is right for the original limits of the Charter of the United Nations as against the increasing development of the United Nations in the direction of a partial world government. Perhaps because he is fighting this, we are, for our part, supporting United Nations concepts and policies we ourselves have found dubious about in the past.

But there need be little doubt on one point. Our policy is trending in the direction both the lessons of history and the necessity of survival dictate. Khrushchev is, for his very nature and understanding, trying to do what he can to do in the future in which his country seems fated for minority status, and reestablish the past, in which his country would have policy equality. He would be more intelligent, we think, to master patience, distrust as that may be for Russian in his position, and seek, by Russian conduct and by the passage of time and policy, to create the atmosphere in which Russia would win a majority once in a while.

And it might be that we, for our part, would also be wise if we eased up once in a while, in our present position of majority leadership, and let Russia win a point now and then, just to prove to Russia that the game is worth playing. No sane majority keeps trouncing a legislative minority too severely, not if it is interested in the survival of the form of government in which both are engaged. It is not the role of our majority leadership responsibility at the United Nations to be sure we crack our whip on principles of majority leadership. It is to be sure as well that we would accept a vote defeat. If it should ever come to us, with the same democratic grace we expect of the Russians.

By A. H. O.

This is the season of year in which we find our baseball and our politics all mixed up. Somebody, the other day, quoted the Russian proverb that says, "As Russian conduct and by the passage of time and policy, to create the atmosphere in which Russia would win a majority once in a while."

And it might be that we, for our part, would also be wise if we eased up once in a while, in our present position of majority leadership, and let Russia win a point now and then, just to prove to Russia that the game is worth playing. No sane majority keeps trouncing a legislative minority too severely, not if it is interested in the survival of the form of government in which both are engaged.

Flight Via Flight

Amateur bird watchers who find their fun somewhat marred by the difficulty of absolute identification need not feel too frustrated today.

They, when the identification of birds seems a very serious business, there can be uncertainty. The wire services and New York newspapers, for instance, have reported that the birds which have been responsible for the plane crash tragedy at Boston were starlings. And that we took for the truth until we found the Christian Science Monitor, a Boston newspaper which generally pays more than the average journalistic attention to birds. There is some slight sentimental difference, since the starling is one bird almost everybody classifies as a pest, while the grosbeak is generally welcome as show-bird. There might, in other words, be some sentimental degree of public acceptance for elimination of the starlings than for elimination of the grosbeaks.

As for elimination of the birds which have been interrupting take-offs down at Idlewild, they have been identified as tree swallows. An inoffensive, not unattractive bird whose only sin seems to be in an organization in which Russia had policy strength equal to that of any other nation or group of nations.

A Thought for Today

Council of Churches

One of the valuable gifts with which God has endowed man is imagination. Yet too often we must admit that we misuse such gifts, and employ them for ends that are not wholly commendable. One constructive use of imagination is to attempt to place oneself, as objectively as possible, in the position of another. For example, one whose conduct is unbecoming and perhaps has really offended us. If we honestly attempt this, it is amazing how often we discover that these have not had the privileges we take for granted. And beyond this often unthought-of circumstance, a few come to them that have been in a debarred and perverted development. This enables us, if we have a healthy spiritual maturity, not only to better understand them, but also to be in a position to have more constructive relationships with them.

Another wholesome adventure in imagination is to sincerely attempt to put ourselves in the position of those who have been created unjustly, of which there are multitudes. It will lead us to a deeper appreciation for examples of those American Negroes who are sustained by religious faith and work with patient good will toward the realization of the good to which they are entitled. We discover that the thirteenth

Bidding Delayed On Tech School

The opening of bids for the construction of the proposed Manchester technical school has been postponed until Thursday, Oct. 13.

The bids were to have been opened yesterday afternoon. James P. Haran of the contract department of the Department of Public Works said the postponement was made at the request of the finance board which, they say, the Board cannot do.

William F. Luddecke, chairman of the Board of Finance, drew attention today to the problems of budgeting in the growing town of Vernon, and said the town meeting form of legislation seems no longer adequate to handle them.

"It is personally commendable," he said, "that this power to reject the entire budget because of disagreement over certain expense accounts again demonstrates the fact that the town meeting is no longer a practical legislative vehicle for properly solving our complex problems."

His statement looks back on Monday night's meeting in which the entire budget was rejected, and ahead to the continuation of the meeting Monday.

He labeled as "fiscal insanity" and "frustrating maneuver" the writer of argument and the final version of the budget, which consumed three hours before the meeting was adjourned.

"If we are to continue functioning under such a system," he said, "it is time we changed our thinking and action from negative fault-finding to constructive action with the ultimate goal of promoting and facilitating our mutual interests and responsibilities."

Luddecke went on to say the rejection in no way relieves the town from discharging its statutory duties regarding financial liability. The statutes are flexible enough, he said, to authorize officials to take action within certain limits. If the town meeting does not agree, the Board of Selectmen is empowered to meet town liabilities without a formal budget. It is "fiscally irresponsible" to op-

Center Dedicated

Greenwich, Oct. 6 (AP)—Gov. Abraham Ribicoff was among the dignitaries present at the dedication today of the Chas. Pfizer and Co. research center here.

The center is the largest of the 111-year-old drug and chemical firm.

Ribicoff, in prepared remarks for the dedication, said the life expectancy of Americans has risen by 23 years since 1900.

"Credit for this notable advance is shared by the research work undertaken in laboratories such as the one we are dedicating today," the Governor said.

The 177,000-square foot structure at Groton, Conn., is the Pfizer River hill house, microbiological, chemical and biochemical research units formerly located chiefly in the company's Brooklyn, N. Y., laboratories.

H. L. Crapo Dies

Litchfield, Oct. 6 (AP)—Funeral services for Herbert J. Crapo, former editor and publisher of the Litchfield Times, will be held at 10 o'clock today at the funeral home of H. Enquirer.

Crapo, 62, who had served on many state agencies and had been a reporter on several Connecticut newspapers following a heart attack.

A native of Montpelier, Vt., Crapo came to Connecticut 40 years ago and was state capital reporter for the Hartford Courant. He retired in 1934 as editor and publisher of the Litchfield Times.

Nineteen of the original defendants pleaded guilty Tuesday and yesterday, and another was granted a postponement.

"My entire life," he said as he started his second decade today at Yale's office, "is spent explaining things to people who have the wrong idea about them."

It was in 1950 that Griswold at the age of 43 made the jump from professor of history at Yale to that of university president. Not divorced from the classroom, Griswold was:

You, can't run Yale like you would a business. This is an intellectual community and it rests on intellectual foundations. It will keep abreast of all problems, get the truth, and then convince others that what they are doing is the truth.

"That is the essence of teaching," he said.

Walton and Chilli said the water was so murky they could not see if any bodies were inside. In the entire plane, only two seats remained attached to the floor.

The divers said the cockpit section was badly smashed and separated from the rest of the plane. One wing, apparently the right one, lay nearby, both engines torn from it, and some distance away. The wing, which the water first was smashed to bits.

Federal investigators will reconstruct the plane so far as possible either at Logan International Airport or the Naval Air Station at South Weymouth, Quanda said. A final determination of the cause of the crash may take several months to a year.

Selectmen Set Appointments, Name Banks

Several appointments were made at the meeting of the Board of Selectmen Tuesday. Aldo Pears was appointed custodian of the Swanwick tract; Mrs. William Riley, clerk for the Board of Selectmen; Donald Massey, custodian of the Community Hall and library; Howard Skinner, tree warden; Fred Gial, park commissioner; Mrs. Donald Tofford, welfare director. The appointments are effective until Oct. 1961.

A letter from Alex. Harold Garity, town counsel, assured the Selectmen the Board of Education had the authority to establish a kindergarten in the school system and the general procedure followed in establishing it was legal.

The board designated the Hartford, Rockville, and Manchester offices of the Connecticut Bank and Trust, The Peoples Savings Bank of Rockville, The Savings Bank of Rockville, The Savings Bank of Manchester as depositories for town funds. A report by T. J. Crockett was appointed by the Selectmen to serve year term on the Insurance Advisory Board.

The board agreed to rent the Community Hall for Natalie Norman for use as a dancing studio. The Board of Finance will be asked to set the rental fee.

On the recommendation of the Insurance Advisory Board the Selectmen voted to increase the town's insurance liability limits from $100,000-$300,000 to $200,000-$500,000.

Two thousand dollars of town aid road funds was set aside for the selectmen to cover the cost of salt and snow fencing for winter maintenance.

The selectmen are seeking bids for supplying sand to the town for road maintenance during winter months.

Dog Warden Frank Paggoli reported he made 10 investigations during the month of September.

Building Goal Voted

The $100,000 Congregational Church has a goal of $50,000 for the educational fund drive at a special meeting on Tuesday, Sunday Nov. 20 was designated for the day of the caravan. The educational building committee announced at the meeting that Curtis R. Schumacher, director of the Department of Church Finance and Advisory Service of the Board of Home Missions of the Congregational Christian Churches, will conduct training sessions for canvassers during the week of Nov. 14.

Plans at this time are to seek donations to the fund in 3-year pledges.

The Electronics Unlimited Club of Tolland County will present a course on basic electronics. The classes will be held on Friday evenings from Oct. 14 through June 2 from 7:30 to 9:30 p.m. at the Elementary School.

The course will teach basic electricity, electronics, and transistor circuitry. It will be taught by an electronic instructor, two engineers, and two electronics technicians of United Aircraft Corp.

The club is presenting the course free of charge as a public service to the community. John Henley, Richard Smith Jr., Richard Dibble, Kenneth Stike, and Robert Use are the instructors for the course.

Persons interested in the classes should attend the orientation meeting on Oct. 14 at 8 p.m. in the Civil Defense room of the school. Students in junior and senior high school who are interested in the electronics field are invited to participate.

Rockville-Vernon TAC Engages Architect on New Building

The Tolland County Agricultural Center Inc. has taken a step forward in its building program with the hiring of Arnold Lawrence of Manchester as architect for its proposed $65,000 agricultural building on Rt. 30 in Vernon.

The proposed center will house offices of the State Extension Service, the federal Soil Conservation Service and the rural superintendent of schools, and will contain meeting rooms and a home demonstration kitchen.

Everett O. Gardner, building committee chairman, said the organization hopes to begin construction before winter, if possible. The center will be paid for by funds gained largely through donations supplemented by a sizable contribution from surplus funds of the Tolland County government, which ceased operation Oct. 1.

The TAC corporation, made up of people interested in the progress of the county's agricultural and homemaking services, owns a 22-acre tract on Rt. 30 across from the Vermont Elementary School in Rockville.

A large, 10-room building, designed mainly for meetings and lunch-gatherings, is on the property now, but will not have to be torn down. The new building will face Rt. 30.

Miss Cora Webb, home demonstration agent, said rough plans submitted by Lawrence show a 2-story building, the upper floor to be at ground level and the lower floor to open on a lower level in the rear.

Miss Webb, who has been named by TAC to work with the architect, said more detailed blueprints will be submitted to the building committee shortly. Proposed dimensions of the center have not been settled.

The contribution from the old county government has been estimated at between $10,000 and $15,000. The county government, before going out of existence, had settled on a division of its surplus between TAC and the Tolland County Mutual Aid Fire Service Inc. The former was to get $15,000 and the latter $7,500.

However, because the government operated one month beyond its normal fiscal year without receiving any new revenue, the surplus was reduced by a small amount to pay operating expenses. The government had accumulated funds to pay for construction of a new county hall, but abandoned the project when the 1959 General Assembly abolished the state's historical county administrations.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By MARGE FLANN

The "hot cooking" was the advice of Edward Kehl, 14 Ardmore Dr., as he stirred the bristly cabbage in a large kettle in the kitchen of Concordia Lutheran Church last week.

He was preparing a roast pork and sauerkraut dinner for members of the Lutheran Brotherhood, a social meeting at the Memorial Library last night.

Fifty-seven adults and six juveniles fed applications for membership with the group that started the club. All will become charter members.

A board of directors was chosen to serve until a slate of officers has been proposed and elected. Serving as acting chairman is Donald Anderson, Richard Krawinkel is treasurer. Other members are Richard Remont, Bernard Gosso, Edwin Blow and Henry Krawinkel.

A coin auction was held and many scarce United States coins were on display.

Sauerkraut

1 No. 3 sauerkraut with liquid 1 cup water

1 small onion, cut into quarters

Caraway seed

Pork bones with a little meat

Do not soak or drain the sauerkraut. Add ingredients in the order given.

Cook for 1 1/2 hours.

For roast pork, Kehl advised: Rub into the pork salt, pepper and a little powder. Seasoning Sprinkle with paprika. Slice a onion in slices and roast in a 450 degree oven for 30 minutes and cook 200 to 250 degrees.

Macaroni is prepared in the length of time depending on the size.

But cooking is also recommended "avoid overcooking pork."

Most people are afraid of trichinosis, a disease which is caused by eating undercooked pork. It is a parasite which is found in the muscle of the pig, and is killed by cooking to 160 degrees.

Neutrals Striving to Build U.S. Soviet Peace Bridge

last night. He made a mildly optimistic statement before boarding his plane.

President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana also departed. He said he was leaving for London to be present at the late Blago and Maria J. Saccetti DePieris, and establish an East-West bridge.

"I am sure that the feeling is shared by all nations of the world," he said, "I don't share that view."

The time has come for the non-committed nations and others who are striving to build a peace bridge between the East and West.

Mr. Nkrumah was taken as a clear indication of the growing Asian-African thinking. He had a long talk with the Soviet ambassador, Mr. Nkrumah in the effort to bring about a U.S.-Soviet meeting.

Among friends of the neutral movement, this idea was expressed to the British Prime Minister, Mr. Clement Attlee, in London.

But meanwhile, many Asians and Africans were nursing bitterness against the United States.

"The theory that the United States acts as a cover for imperialism," Mr. Nkrumah said, "is not an original product of the neutral movement. It is a product of the Cold War working on those national movements in the United States."

Mr. Nkrumah said he was not a member of the neutral movement, but he was a member of the United Nations.

He said he was not a member of the neutral movement, but he was a member of the United Nations.

Obituary

Blago A. DePieris, 75, of 185 Salisbury St., Holden, Mass., died last night when he became caught in a pronged picking machine at the Aldon Spinning Mill in Taunton, Mass.

He was the father of Anthony J. DePieris of 87 Burroughs St., Manchester.

He leaves his wife, Antonietta, and four other sons, William J., Raymond L. and Robert J., all of Holden, and George E. of Sterling, Mass., and 17 grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Saturday at 9:15 a.m. at the Miles Funeral Home, 1138 Main St., Holden, followed by a solemn high Mass of requiem at St. Mary's Church in the Jefferson section of Holden at 10 a.m.

Friends may call at the funeral home tonight from 7 to 10 p.m. and tomorrow from 10 to 5 and 7 to 10 p.m.

Mill Worker Killed, Mangled by Machine

George Lisk, 24, of 134 Oakland St., died instantly at 9:30 last night when he became caught in a pronged picking machine at the Aldon Spinning Mill in Taunton, Mass.

According to company officials, Lisk was cleaning the machine in the picker room at the time.

He was thrown into the machine and mangled by one of the pronged rollers inside and killed.

Lisk had been employed at the Aldon Spinning Mill since April, 1948, and was on the payroll at the time.

His body was so severely injured that it had to be transported to the morgue.

Bids to Hold for Sewers On West Side

Town officials said today that low bids opened last spring still stand for a West Side sewer project. Town Directors expect to put to rest again Nov. 8.

General Manager Richard Martin reported as still available the $73,000 bid of Fred Benvenuti of New London, for a pump station for a trunk sewer in W. Middle Tpke. is also available, according to Water and Sewer Suppl. Fred Thrall.

The $100,000 sewer package, including fees and contingencies was rejected in a referendum last May, but some West Side voters since expressed themselves in favor of paying assessments for the project.

The officials are aiming at a bid that will be acceptable to the West Side people, and also meet Mayor Eugene T. Kelly's request that the project be paid for by the town.

Norwood Sewers To Be Discussed

Town officials will hold another informal meeting with Norwood officials following a session last night on proposals to sewer that street and also Farm Rd.

General Manager Richard Martin said the Sewer Department will prepare a new proposal.

The officials are aiming at a bid that will be acceptable to the West Side people, and also meet Mayor Eugene T. Kelly's request that the project be paid for by the town.

TOMORROW THE GREATEST SIXTY-ONE CHEVROLET

SHOW ON WORTH! CHEVROLET

More space... more spunk and wagons, too!

NEW '61 CHEVY CORVAIR

Here's the car that reads you loud and clear—the new size, you-size '61 Chevrolet. A car so right for you in so many ways that once you compare it with the rest of the crop you'll agree nothing else near the money measures up to it.

More room—more for you, more for your things. More dependable operation. Smarter, smoother styling. More miles per gallon. Wagons.

IMPALA 4-DOOR SPORT SEDAN—one of five Impalas that bring you a new measure of elegance from the most elegant Chevrolets of all. Notice what beautiful sense the new roof line makes—the front door entrance height is nearly 2 inches higher.

The newest car in America: the CORVAIR 700 LAKEWOOD 4-DOOR STATION WAGON. Like all Corvairs, it's powered by a dependable air-cooled rear engine.

NOMAD 9-PASSENGER STATION WAGON. You have a choice of six Chevrolet engines, each with a cargo opening nearly 4 feet across and a new concealed compartment for storing valuables.

This sporty CORVAIR 700 CLUB COUPE gives you almost 12% more luggage space up front plus a longer range fuel tank.

BEL AIR 2-DOOR SEDAN, like all '61 Chevrolets, brings you Body by Fisher means you can use—more front seat leg room and, thanks to a shored-down drive shaft, tanned, more foot room in the rear.

You're looking at the handsome CORVAIR 700 4-DOOR SEDAN. Provisions for heating ducts are built right into its Body by Fisher for more equal distribution of heat front and rear.

INTRODUCING THE '61 CHEVY BISCAYNE 6 the lowest priced full-sized Chevy with big-car comfort at small-car prices! Now you don't have to go without style, space and one of the world's best rides to get a car that's low priced and economical to drive. Chevy's new '61 Biscaynes—6 or V8—give you a full measure of Chevrolet quality, roominess and proved performance—yet they're priced down with many cars that give you a lot less!

Now in production—the GREENBRIER SPORTS WAGON with up to twice as much room for people and things as ordinary wagons (shown with optional extra-cost third seat in position).
