As the names indicate, two are female, one male. They rode in separate compartments in a 1 1/2 inch long, 6-inch diameter cylinder which was attached to the nose cone of the Atlas rocket. The mice and other experiments were placed aboard because there was extra room in the area of the cone which in wartime would be occupied by a nuclear warhead.
This was the third test for the cone, designated FV-2A. The previous two tests after successful Atlas flights because of failure of recovery gear.
All three mice are 12 weeks old.

HOLD-UP PLAY
BY ALVIN SHEINWOLD
It's a good idea to refuse the first trick in the enemy's hand, but it's not necessarily wise to do when some secondary suit is led. It takes a judgment call as to whether the suit is important or unimportant.
West opened the five of hearts and South won with the king. Declarer counted on a trump trick that he would have no trouble if he could bring in five clubs. If the clubs were not solid, he would need one spade trick. South made his best play for the contract by leading the queen of spades at the second trick. East surprised declarer by leading to refuse such a trick.
That's what he worked in this case. East decided not to win the first spade.
No second chance.
East didn't get a second chance. South was stonewalled and switched immediately to clubs. The club finesse lost to the king and he had to take the jack of hearts.
Now South was in position to take nine tricks. Two hearts, one spade, two diamonds and four clubs. He took his trick and cheerfully gave up the rest.
How could East know this was not the time to hold up in spades? He had the king of clubs as well as the ace of diamonds. It was unlikely that South could make nine tricks without developing the club finesse. East should have tried to win the race against declarer by bringing in his hearts before South could bring in nine tricks.
If that takes the first spade trick and returns a heart, South is beaten. He has three spades, two hearts, two diamonds and only one club. As soon as South tries for a second club, the declarer can run the hearts, defeating the contract.

Guarding Lumumba
 It must be very difficult for the position in the Congo, as well as for some members of the United Nations—particularly members who have accused Secretary General Hammarskjöld of slanting his operations in the Congo—to understand why the United Nations force in the Congo persists in doing their best to safeguard the person of Patrice Lumumba.
 At the time he was deposed—Lumumba was on the verge of demanding the withdrawal of the United Nations from his country. He was also the apparent champion of Russian influence in the Congo and the host of Russian technicians and advisers who had suddenly come into the new country when Lumumba was deposed. Lumumba has been in one light spot after another. In the past, he had found written down that word which made a new man of him, but in the past he had been in one light spot after another. In the past, he had found written down that word which made a new man of him, but in the past he had been in one light spot after another.

Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.
 We see by the papers that one William Purcell has purchased a small Iron Co., of Deep River, Conn., and that this is the same William Purcell who retired from substantial industrial interests some eight years ago, after he had devoted a lifetime to building them up.
 His purpose eight years ago, was to wipe his personal slate clean of economic entanglements as he embarked upon a career of public service in the United States Senate. This gesture, and sacrifice, on his part were typical of a somewhat refreshing and dedicated attitude he brought to the field of public service. He was already something of an oddity in modern days, and he is appreciated today a little more than he was when he was deposed. His very impetuosity in the business of washing himself headlines at Washington has come to mean something of a worthy and pleasant tribute. He was, after all, a representative of sane and reasonable Connecticut. The votes of 1958 can never be cast and counted again, but if they could be, he would find himself doing quite a bit better.

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches
 A young wondering running away from God stumbled upon God's word. It exploded. Out of the explosion came Augustine the convert, on his way to becoming the great Bishop, doctor and saint. Augustine tells us about the tremendous impact of the word of God upon him. But some human beings had to touch off that word. In St. Augustine's case, there were several human agents; his mother, Monica; his friend and teacher, Ambrose of Milan; and all the other Christians he knew. They were the triggers who exploded the divine shell. So, the Word of God which came to Augustine was not simply a word put down on parchment and made into a book. It was a Word incarnated, made flesh, lived out by people who knew it. In the past, he had found written down that word which made a new man of him, but in the past he had been in one light spot after another. In the past, he had found written down that word which made a new man of him, but in the past he had been in one light spot after another.

17,000 Japs Mourn Slain Socialist Idol
 mood appeared to be one of sorrow rather than deep anger. Ikeda, who was at his private home three miles away, earlier in the day had denounced the use of violence and warned he would act against it whether it came from the right or the left.
 In his first public statement since a 17-year-old rightwing fanatic stabbed the 41-year-old Asama, Ikeda said that the violence from either left or right imperils Japanese democracy.
 Ikeda accepted the resignation of the nation's top police official, Iwao Yamazaki, and declared: "I am resolved to examine overall leadership of police so that the trend toward spiritual collapse in Japan can be halted."
 He said the killings of Asama, at a political meeting before horrified hundreds, including himself, had placed new obstacles in the path of democracy.
 As Ikeda spoke, more than 15,000 leftwing students and laborers gathered in the streets, raising voiced Asama as their hero. Ikeda, according to police, called on the police to protect the police and Ikeda's government.
 Earlier attempts in mid-afternoon to arrest some 500 students to reorganize the police on the police headquarters where the youthful assassin was being held and on Ikeda's official residence fell flat. The students, carrying a large, black-bordered photograph of Asama, marched quietly past both buildings.
 The specter of more violence loomed large on the scene. Asama, Japan's biggest newspaper, said there were reports that 21 leftwing fighters were planning to kill off the leftists one by one. Kaoru Yano, chairman of the Japan Council Against Atom and Hydrogen Bombs, called on Japan's "peace forces"—meaning the Communists and other extreme leftists—to set up their own defense organization against rightwing terrorism.
 All 40 for Japanese newspapers denounced that the government "step out ultranationalist terrorism." It will be the end of democracy if the assassination incident invites a head-on clash between the right and the left," said Asama.

WORLD PEACE THRU STRENGTH
 "I stand for a dynamic defense program to give us a position of unquestioned world supremacy in order that we can negotiate from strength for permanent peace, and remove from mankind the fearful threat of nuclear war."
 —Frank Kowalski

IT IS VITAL THAT WE SPED UP OUR SPACE PROGRAM
 Supervising the American national effort to explore Outer Space for service to mankind is a major responsibility of the Congress and of its permanent Committee on Science and Astronautics, on which I serve as a charter member.
 After participating in 265 hearings of the Space Committee, I am convinced that SPEEDING UP OUR SPACE PROGRAM is of vital importance to the peace, security and development of our country.
 This is the first of a series of reports explaining what SPACE means to our national security... and to the health, prosperity and progress of Hartford County and of the nation.
 One of America's space vehicles is the Mercury Man-In-Space Satellite, as illustrated (top center). It will carry our first astronaut and achieve new scientific break-throughs for Man's well-being.
 We have built in Hartford a full scale exhibition model of this satellite. It is being shown in all 29 cities and towns of Hartford County. I hope you will have the opportunity to see it.

Our Hope For Japan
 There are, presumably, middle-of-the-road people in Japan who are interested in the concept of democracy and in the path to peace for their country. There were also such people in Japan before the war, perhaps, if one could read hearts, a good many. But whatever their number, they were out-maneuvered by extremists who had no hesitancy or deliberation about their own goals or the techniques by which they would move toward them.
 In the post-war era, the good people of Japan, clinging to sane hopes for their country and for its policy, have led an uneasy existence. On the one hand, they have visualized and treasured the new Japan which was promised by General MacArthur's insertion of American democracy and democratic ideals into Japanese law and practice.
 On the other hand, they have had to keep an eye on various threats to such a concept for Japan, and about the time they have had, as they recognized such threats, was to move temporarily away from the faction or party on politicians identified with them, thus rebuking those who seemed to be leading Japan into one kind of extreme or the other.
 Thus, when their own government seemed to be moving back toward the trappings of a thought-control, police state, and toward the militarism forbidden by the new constitution, the middle-ground people of Japan seemed their support for that government, and veered toward the left-wing movements which opposed such directions.
 And again, when the left wing movements went overboard in their agitation against President Eisenhower, the middle-ground people of Japan reacted in the opposite direction, back toward the conservatives.
 Yesterday the people of Japan saw on their television screens, in what was surely the most dramatic telecast of all time, the actual blow and blow assassination of the nation's Socialist political leader, the assassin being a young ultranationalist right. This was an extreme action, the naked resort to the effort to rule by murder, which came from the extreme political right. This act came as Japan is preparing to go to the polls in a national election late in November. On-the-spot analysis fears that reaction to this act, recalling the pre-war violence by which the military extremists took charge of the processes of national policy, and making a martyr of the dead Socialist leader, may alarm the middle-ground people of Japan that, once again, they shift away from the most vivid and threatening extremes of the moment and turn Japan topsy-turvy toward a neutralist left.
 In such a situation, when some of our own formal ties and commitments with Japan may be threatened, it will be well for us to remember what our own prime hope for Japan ought to be, from all points of view, our own Japan's, and that of all the free world. It ought to be for the strengthening of development of Japanese democracy. And it ought to be based on recognition that the real strength of Japan, and the real strength of Japan for us or for the free world, depends much more upon that development of healthy Japanese democracy than it does upon any particular power-alignment for Japan. A dictatorial, military Japan closely bound to us would not be asset, but liability, almost as much liability, in any long run, as a leftwing Japan which was flirting with Communist China or Russia. If Japan is to be a bulwark for things we believe in, it will not be because any particular treaties or agreements exist, but because the values in which we believe have

Realtors Appoint Nominating Unit
 The Manchester Board of Realtors met at noon yesterday at the Three 'n Restaurant in Bolton to appoint a committee to nominate officers for the annual election in November.
 F. J. Crockett was named chairman. Other members include Mrs. Alice Clamart, Arthur A. Knofla, and Mrs. George A. Meyer. The program included talks by each member about an unusual real estate experience.
 The statement also characterized the arrest attempt as one to "neutralize out an act of political violence without due process of law."
 In this, in regard to the physical safety of one controversial figure, the United Nations behavior in the field remains consistent with what it has been all through the Congo crisis, when it has refused to join in helping one faction march against another, or to use its own force for any political objective of any kind. The consistent United Nations position has been that the United Nations is there to prevent violence, not encourage or assist it, not even when the possible result of violent action might seem likely to produce order and stability which might end the Congo emergency.
 The United Nations in the Congo is trying to veto any decision, without attending the convention which nominated Kennedy. He could judge Truman's increasing involvement, could visualize a resolution of affairs. The United Nations is different, which is why it is there, and why its existence is both necessary and hopeful.

The United Nations is different, which is why it is there, and why its existence is both necessary and hopeful.
 Kennedy's Choice
 When Senator Kennedy sent Governor Ribicoff out to Independence, Kansas, and then followed personally to be sure he made his peace with Harry Truman, Senator Kennedy had every reason to know what kind of campaign ally he might be obtaining and what price he might have to pay.
 He could judge Truman's stability of mind by the number of reversible decisions he had made about attending the convention which nominated Kennedy. He could judge Truman's increasing involvement, could visualize a resolution of affairs. The United Nations is different, which is why it is there, and why its existence is both necessary and hopeful.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By MARGE FLYNN

A recipe which was a bridal shower gift 20 years ago has become a standby in the home of Mrs. Russell Miner, 53 Mather St.

"The recipe for yeast rolls was included in a menu-maker file as a gift to the bride-to-be and Mrs. Miner has used it ever since."

Mrs. Miner points to her three children as proof that "hot rolls are not indigestible." Everyone in the Miner family prefers the rolls served piping hot from the oven.

Treat Rolls

1/4 Cup sugar
1 tablespoon salt
4 tablespoons shortening or butter
2 cups water
2 cakes compressed yeast, dissolved in 1/2 cup lukewarm water
1 egg beaten
2 cups flour

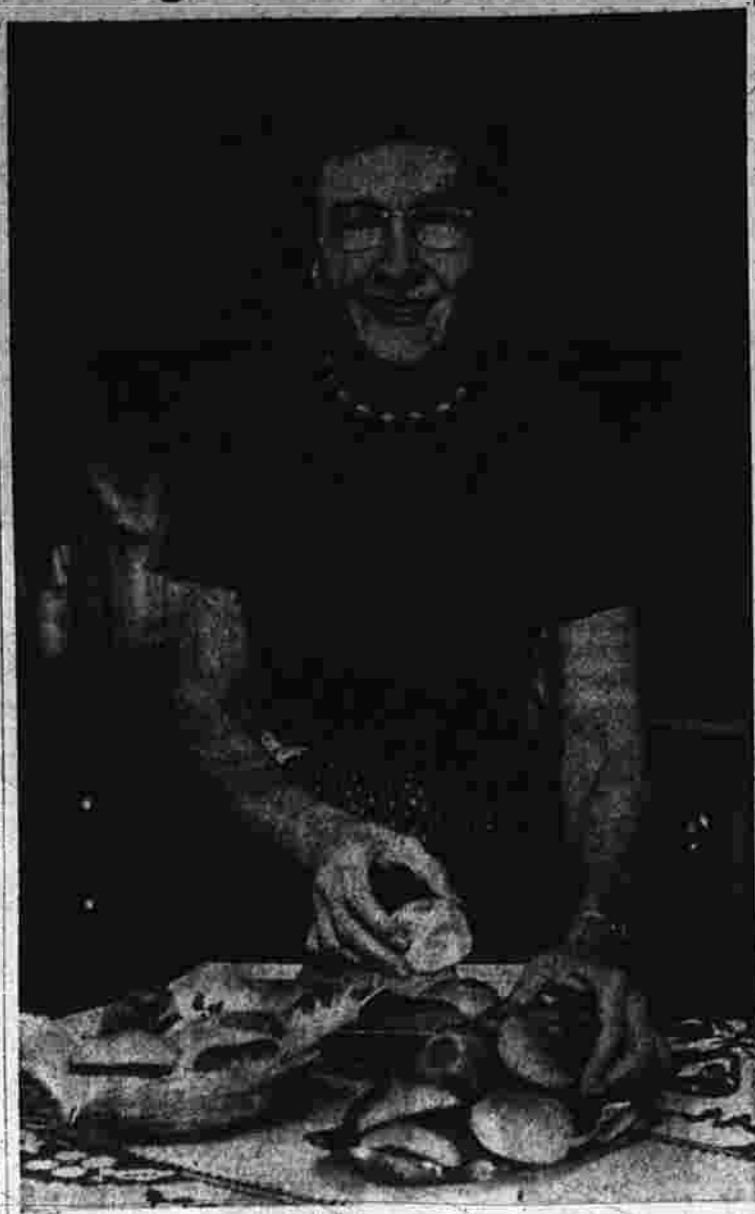

Mix sugar, salt, and shortening, and over this pour 1 cup water, heated to boiling. Stir until dissolved, then add one cup of cold water. When lukewarm, add the yeast, dissolved in the lukewarm water, and beaten eggs. Stir in the flour. Turn out on a floured board and knead lightly. Return to a formed bowl to rise. Pinch dough into rolls, let rise, and bake in a moderately hot oven, 400 degrees, for about 20 minutes.

Use any amount of wheat and put the remainder in a well-greased bowl and cover with small bits of paper. This recipe makes about four dozen rolls. The dough may be kept in the refrigerator for several days, but it may be necessary to knead the dough down occasionally. Either the dough or the rolls, baked until they are not quite brown, may be stored in the freezer.

At Christmastime, Mrs. Miner forms the dough into small balls and makes either trees or wreaths which she ices and decorates with red hot cinnamon candies or wafers to serve as a breakfast treat.

Mrs. Miner also makes these rolls as gifts for special occasions in the neighborhood, and for church food sales.

Mrs. Miner was born in Concord, N. H., and has lived in Manchester for 20 years. She is a member of North Methodist Church, where

Post Office Sets 1959 Mail Record

During the fiscal year ending June 30, a record 25 million pieces of mail and one-half million pieces of parcel post were handled by the Manchester Post Office, according to Postmaster Alden Bailey.

He said this was an increase of 28 per cent over the 18 million pieces of mail handled locally in 1952.

A national record was also set by the Post Office Department this past year, with 64 billion pieces of mail and one billion pieces of parcel post being handled. The national rise over 1953 amounted to 25 per cent.

These increases were pointed out to show the effect of the many organizational and operational changes during a seven-year improvement program. This program was directed toward more efficient and more economical operation of the department.

Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Kent, 28 McKinley St., were honored recently at a party at their home in honor of their 25th wedding anniversary. More than 35 relatives and friends attended.

A luncheon was served, and the couple received many gifts and flowers.

The Kents were married in Rockville, Oct. 12, 1935, by the Rev. E. O. Pieper, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church. Mr. Kent is employed at A. B. A. Tool and Die Co., Manchester.

Rockville-Vernon C of C Names Six Directors

The Rockville Area Chamber of Commerce has elected six new directors for 3-year terms: Bernice Cantor, Achilles Caron, Karl Hewitt, Frank Kalas, Charles Schanz, and Ernest Zahner.

The six were elected through mail ballots during the past two weeks and were chosen from a list of 10 nominees.

The new directors will join the Chamber's other 12 directors at a meeting, probably at the end of the week, to appoint three more directors to fill the board's requirement of 21.

Chamber President Kenneth Howland has warned residents against solicitation of children's pictures and magazines. He said complaints have been received recently that magazine salesmen have quoted sales schemes which have misled prospective customers.

He said many agents are reliable and said the Chamber has a list of all reliable national agencies. Careful reading of contracts and a call to the Chamber office are good insurance against confusing sales promotions, he said.

The seventh arrest stemming from the Market St. brawl Saturday night has been made by Rockville City Police, and the investigation is still underway.

Charged with breach of peace and obstructing or abusing an officer is Richard D. Morgan, 26, of 24 Brooklyn St. Free under $500 bond, Morgan is due in court Monday with five others arrested the night of the brawl.

The sixth accused, Mrs. Martha Wright of 14 Park St., is due in court Oct. 24.

The Toland County Art Association has named three judges who will select award-winning pictures from the collection now on display in the Professional Building at Park St. The judges are Mrs. Eleanor Vibbert of Westchester, Daniel Phelps Smith of Westchester, and Gordon R. Macdonald of Andover.

The current display is the association's fall exhibition and is open to the public in the afternoon until Saturday. A spokesman said visitors will have an opportunity to choose the pictures they feel is the best on exhibit.

The Rev. Warren E. Covell, pastor of Vernon Methodist Church, will preach his final sermon at the church Nov. 28. The Rev. Mr. Covell told parishioners Sunday he will be transferred to Union, N. Y., to serve as associate minister at the First Methodist Church there.

The Rev. Mr. Covell came to Vernon in 1956 as a student minister while studying at the Hartford Seminary Foundation. Upon graduation he was named the first full-time pastor in many years at Vernon Methodist Church.

District Supt. Harvey K. Mousley will confer with the pastoral relations committee of the church to arrange for a successor. The Rev. Mr. Covell will leave town on Nov. 15.

Collecting Used Uniforms: The Marine Girl Scout Troop 8 of Vernon is collecting used outdoor Brownie and Girl Scout uniforms for resale to new troop members.

The Marines will repair and launder the uniforms. They will also have available used green sweaters for junior high school. Persons wishing to donate or purchase the used uniforms, should contact Mrs. John McLeod, 177 South St.

Seniors Commended: Two Rockville High School seniors have been honored for outstanding performance in the National Merit Scholarship Quality Test given last June.

The students are Edward A. Gosselin, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. Gosselin, 100 South St., and L. Wright of 124 Grand Ave. They will receive letters of commendation from the U. S. Dept. of Education.

Ambrose Dies At Wheel of Utility Truck

John D. Ambrose, 48, of 125 Brantford St., died of a heart attack suffered while at the wheel of a Hartford Electric Light Co. truck on Charter Oak St. at 7:00 last night.

An autopsy performed at Manchester Memorial Hospital this morning confirmed an earlier diagnosis that Mr. Ambrose had died of natural causes.

He was employed as a trouble-shooter for the utility company. He had been driving east on Charter Oak St. when the tire marks indicated his truck went off the road to the right, into a ditch and over a 20-foot wall.

The truck was found on a brook just south of Charter Oak St., where it ended up over 100 feet off the road before plunging into the brook. (Herald Photo by Pinto).

Bolton 'Open House' Attracts 250

The Parent-Teacher Assn. open house last night attracted about 250 parents. Terms of a successful revival of the annual program, last night's experience in the lead to further improvements. It was predicted today.

A schedule of 15-minute periods was followed allowing parents to visit several classrooms in Grades 1 to 6 in the time allowed. Another hour was devoted to 15-minute sessions in each of the Grades 7 and 8 classrooms.

Although parents and teachers both seemed to approve the new schedule for the open house program, both groups said last night that longer periods would be more beneficial. Principal Richard B. Dispute on Quemo, Matsu Nixon, Kennedy Turn To Peace-War Issue

In Washington, Truman was asked if he intends to apologize for the remark, as Republicans have demanded.

"Let them go to hell," Truman said.

Nixon began by praising Eisenhower: "He restored dignity and decency to the conduct of government in Washington, D. C. at the White House."

And then: "Without referring to his predecessor, I will simply say that: Whoever is the president of this country has greater responsibility to keep the peace, to keep this nation strong, but he also has a responsibility to the young people of this country and that he never to indulge in anything that would make them ashamed of who he is the president of the United States."

But Nixon ignored these harsh attacks and predicted he would carry California this fall.

Kennedy planned to spend his time in seclusion today preparing for tonight's TV-Radio debate, a clash which is certain to bring further exchanges on the two ill-fated islands. The Communist China coast opposite Formosa.

The Senator apparently decided to make his big pitch on Quemo and Matsu last night after Nixon charged Tuesday that the Democratic candidate's policy on the islands would take the nation down the road to "war and surrender" or both.

Kennedy said this:

"As president he would stand firmly by the nation's pledge to defend Formosa and the Pescadore Islands."

Quemo and Matsu lying under easy bombardment since the Chinese Coast, are not essential to the defense of Formosa. President Eisenhower and many eminent military leaders have concurred in this view.

The U.S. persuaded the Chinese Nationalists to abandon the islands and predicted the U.S. would assist them in the defense line to include Quemo and Matsu plus the islands in the position of being Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, the National leader, and the Chinese Communist decide whether American troops shall stay on the islands.

"That is a foolhardy and reckless decision," he declared. "If he followed through on it, it would mean a tragic disaster. If he backed down on it, it would mean retreat under communist pressure."
