Safe Burglars Grab Jewelry, Securities Worth $3 Million

Los Angeles, Oct. 16 (AP)—A $3 million safe burglary was reported today by sheriff's deputies. Officials said the loot—jewelry and stocks—was taken last night from the home of retired broker Raul Fernandez, 5009 8477 Delongore Ave., West Hollywood.

He is the widower of Katherine Fernanandez Candler Fernanandez, an officers described as an heiress to the Coca-Cola fortune.

She died four years ago. The haul consisted of approximately $1 million worth of jewelry and $2 million in stock of the soft drink giant, La Leona Bergman of the Sheriff's Detective Bureau. He said the stock was non-negotiable.

The burglary took place while Fernandez was away, was out to dinner last night. He came home about 11:30 p.m. to find a wooden case containing an 18-by-24-inch, 250-pound safe that he had received in the mail.

The Rev. A. Ray Petty, Broadview Community Church, said he had been contacted by a man who offered to buy the safe for $200,000. He said he had declined the offer.

Other items listed by the victim included a diamond necklace valued at $200,000.

Macmillan Back Home

Prime Minister Macmillan achieved the distinction of being the only major spokesman for the West at the present session of the United Nations General Assembly...

He has followed something of the same broad and temperate line after his own return home...

It is on that basis and in that mood that he favors tentative scheduling of a new summit meeting next year.

How does he get that way? It is not fully aware of the international trouble-making aspect of the Khrushchev performance on the world stage...

One Last Reckoning

For most of the participants in the rigged quiz above which were once the raging rage on television...

In his back-home pronouncement of policy, Prime Minister Macmillan had a paragraph for this:

"We must believe that our way of life is better materially, morally and spiritually and that with peace and growing contacts between the two concepts faith must triumph if we do not believe that we have no right to call ourselves either democrats or Christians."

The moment they did this, their own careers and reputations were blasted. The well publicized personal agony involved seemed, to most members of the public, punishment enough for the entertainment diversion in which they participated.

But there remained the question of their attempted deception not of their audience but of formal grand-jury. And that grand jury has now ordered the arrest of 14 of them on charges of perjury...

One can, at this stage, be sorry for these one-line stars of the intellect; they should have heeded the trap, but they were not the ones who set it; they were fools...

Lamps for your Colonial room with "turned" columns of white ironstone, blue or amber translucent glass fonts and white fabric-over-parchment shades that tilt for good reading light.

I asked for words? Life led me to a wood, and set me in solitude where even still and wisdom comes by prayer.

I asked for love? Life led me to a hill, and bound me to a cross to bear and lift and to be hanged upon.

There is no reason to believe the Algerians do not know their own desperate reason for the decision they will be making, if they muddle up to Moscow...

Rockville-Vernon Kowalski's Visit To End in Rally

U. S. Rep. Frank Kowalski, Democratic candidate for reelection as Congressman-at-large, is touring Tolland County today.

Lt. Gov. John Dempsey and Secretary of State Ella T. Grasso are among leading Democrats scheduled to appear with Kowalski at a rally at Democratic Headquarters on East Main St. at about 7 p.m.

Kowalski's schedule called for arrival in Rockville at 3 p.m. from Stafford Springs, followed by visits to stores and factories here.

He is being accompanied by Rockville Mayor Leo B. Flaherty Jr., High Sheriff Nicholas Towish, Rep. Raymond E. Spelman, and Gerald Allen, candidate for State Representative.

As a theatrical district, Stratford Avenue is to London what Broadway is to New York.

It's no wonder that House delegates and even House caucuses go longer and longer. There are at least chairs, and cushions, and carpet.

In our opinion, the House which is always considering such measures as off-the-job insurance, has a right to consider its own off-the-floor comfort.

The senator can, in other words, transact the major portion of his business in a proper and dignified and inviting atmosphere.

The poor member of the House has no such facility. If he wants a sandwich and a soft drink, he either has to take it standing up, or go back to his legislative seat.

If he wants to find out what his boss wants him to do he has to stand in some corridor corner. If he wants to entertain some good constituent, he can't talk him out down.

In the old days, the member of the House could entertain either boss or constituent inside the House itself. But after certain bills disappeared, perhaps in connection with the presence of such guests the rules were changed, and houses, at any rate, are boomed if they enter the Chamber.

During the last session, there was for Democratic legislators at least, and occasionally for broad-minded Republicans, that genteel oasis known as Ella's Place. But that could only be really available after regular office hours, and space again was limited, and besides, the next secretary of state may be some inopportune Republican, who knows?

There used to be, before the Rineoff administration, in the public anteroom in the Governor's suite, a comfortable lounging place of deep soft leather where a legislator could sink down and relax and look impatient at the same time. But some curiosity puritanical drive on the part of Governor Rineoff led to a complete change in atmosphere, with the state forbidding the immediate provision of lounge quarters where legislators and their friends can relax.

At present, half of the normal House member's time is spent pacing and standing on the hard, frigid floors of the Capitol corridors. Once he is out of his legislative seat, he is homeless and without place of his own. In the club-like Senate, however, there are luxurious lounges where he can sink into soft, carpeted comfort, entertain his friends, and hire horses, and improve his soft drinks and sandwiches.

Will Not Follow Example

Chicago, Oct. 18 (AP)—The Associated Press learned today that the American League will not immediately follow the example set yesterday by the National League when it committed itself to becoming a 10-team league in 1962 by granting franchises to Houston and New York City.

Instead, the American League will devote most of the business at its meeting, scheduled for Oct. 26 in New York, to setting its own expansion program.

Earns More Than $100,000 in Series

By EARL YOST

Pittsburgh Pirates are being tossed around as the probable successor to Casey Stengel as manager of the New York Yankees, should the old master step down. Gridders Promoted

Boston, Oct. 18 (AP)—Boston University will have three new faces on the starting eleven when it meets Connecticut in football today.

Whether Casey's career with the Yankees is over, or just turning into another season, no other manager ever had a winner in five consecutive World Series, as did Stengel with his Yankees of 1949-53. Only one other manager, Red Barber of the Yankees, ever won seven World Series. And only one other manager, John McGraw of the New York Giants, ever won as many as 10 pennants.
