The Doctor Says

"Third Tonsil" Most Likely to Be Striker to You
By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newsweek

Although I am unutterably opposed to medical practice by correspondence, I am unable to resist the temptation to go out on a limb on behalf of a Canadian member of the profession.

Giants' Coach Sets Trend, Retires While He's Ahead

New York (NEA)—So they only future for a coach is to get fired, huh?

Well, Jim Lee Howell nipped the future good. He is quitting while he's ahead.

The booming-voiced maestro of the New York Giants and Buck Shaw of the champion Philadelphia Eagles met to establish some kind of trend. They served notice on their employers, 12 months in advance, to get themselves another job for the holiday-tugging, nerve-tensing job of directing a football team on the field.

Not that it's an easy break. For 32 of his 46 years, Howell has spent his weekend afternoons in the fall on the field, sticking his nose into the minutiae of an end, pacing frantically as a coach. "You know, you'll miss it," he concedes. "But get it, you'll miss it. You'll miss it. You'll miss it."

Howell is the most honest man writers have in sports. People have tried to read mystery into a dictation from a post he has held for seven seasons, the most successful in the history of the proud Giants. Howell doesn't understand it.

"I'd won and I'd lost," he explains against your nature to do the job. "I was a hard-nosed coach. I'm a hard-nosed coach."

His attitude has been reflected in the type of ball the Giants have played since 1954—just always spectacular, but effective. They've served had the boys and their influence should continue, too, for he stays with the club as permanent director.

Because he's been a coach who believes in spreading responsibility through his assistants, Howell has established a reputation as a strategist. His greatest contribution was along the squad

Indians, Windham Try Again Tonight

If opening night is any indication, Manchester High's basketball team is in for a long season. It wasn't that the Indians were walloped by Windham, the Central Connecticut Inter-schools defending champions last night... the two teams never got a chance to play with the game postponed because of the inclement weather. Should the Indians be forced to delay all their games because of the weather, it will make for a long winter for Coach Ed Saturday.

Neither team expected to make any changes in their starting lineups. This was what the Indians would go along with Coach Johnson and Dave White in the forefront, Jim Mistrizia at center and Mike Reardon and Steve McCann at forward.

Runners-up to the Whippits last season, Coach Saturday hopes to repeat it. The Whippits will be the Whippits of Coach John McMillan at the arena last February.

Rally by Ellington Fails As Rams Preserve Win

Rockville—Playing their next-door neighbor Ellington for the first time in history on the basketball floor, Rockville pulled off a 68-56 victory here Friday night in a rough and tumble contest. The victory, the Rams' second in a row, snapped a three-game losing streak for Coach John Canavari's charges. Windham, who had won the first two games, was held to 56 points by Ellington to triumph. The Rams took 13-18 first quarter edge and increased it to 32-18 at halftime.

Maintaining a comfortable lead throughout the third period the Rams led by 18 points at the buzzer. Coach Canavari substituted freely in the fourth quarter and Ellington rallied against the Rams reserves. Rockville's Valtis Siliakos acted as a disrupter, though they had some difficulty managing to preserve their lead.

Rocky Top Rover, Bernie Arkivich (21), Skip O'Connell (15) and Paulie Pineda (14) paced the Rams' offense. Arkivich put in a sparkling 15 for 15 at the free throw line. Pineda added 14 points in 18 minutes. O'Connell had 12 points and 10 rebounds. Morhardt went to bat 14 official times, collected 23

Fine Pays Dividends; Lovellette Paces Win

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—Sometimes even a first place coach has to let off steam. It worked for Paul Seymour of the New York Yankees. The former Syracuse pilot, in his first season as manager, fired his Clyde Lovellette $75 for losing in Wednesday's game against Los Angeles.

Last night, Lovellette was the star as St. Louis, the Western Division leader in the National Basketball Association, knocked Philadelphia out of the playoffs. Lovellette had 34 points in the Hawks' 112-107 victory over Los Angeles.

The game was the opener of a doubleheader at Detroit. In the second game, the Detroit Pistons, led by Bill Russell, defeated the Los Angeles Lakers, 108-104.

In the only other game, Oscar Robertson and Jack Twyman combined for 76 points, leading Cincinnati to a 130-116 victory over Los Angeles.

The Warriors took a one-point lead on baskets by Will Chamberlain and Tom Goia with 2:30 left in the game. But St. Louis rallied on a field goal by Lovellette, a free throw by Cliff Hagan and two more successful field shots by Green to wrap it up. Chamberlain was the game's high scorer with 34 points. The a-b-a-b-a-dropped Philadelphia into second place in percentage points behind Boston.

Willie Naulls had 30 points for New York, including 18 in the final quarter. His three-pointer with 2:45 left broke a 90-81 deadlock and gave the Knicks the lead for good. Davey Howell had 30 for the Pistons.

Robertson had 89 points and Twyman 39 for the Royals who overtook second place in the Western Division from the Lakers. Cincinnati's 130-116 victory for Los Angeles with 34 points and 23 rebounds.

Manors Open Home Schedule, Face Simsbury Sunday Night

Victorious in their first two open games, Green Manor will open its home season in the Farmington Valley League Sunday night playing host to Simsbury. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Manors' first game was a 20-16 victory over Simsbury. The team's roster includes Coach Tom Conran's charges. Green Manor will open its home season in the Farmington Valley League Sunday night playing host to Simsbury. Game time is 7:30 p.m. at the school.

Cheney Tech Gains Second Victory, 70-51

Despite the fact that they were playing without the services of two of their players, Cheney Tech's basketball team registered a 70-51 victory over Somers High on the loser's court yesterday afternoon. It was the Rangers second victory of the season and evened their record at 2-2.

While the Rangers finally won by a top-sided 19-point margin, the game actually was much closer than the final score indicates. Coach Tony D'Angona's charges grabbed a 35-30 lead in the first half and maintained that five point advantage at halftime holding a 28-25 margin at intermission.

Going into the final quarter the Rangers were up by seven points, 45-38, but saw the host club scramble back to within five points of the lead with just four minutes to play. Then the Rangers broke the game wide open with a flurry of points to win going away.

M-Squaders Set Pace

The M-Squaders, Tom Mikollet and Bill McMullan, paced the Rangers' attack which hit its high point of the season this far. Mikollet tallied 29 points on 13 baskets and three free throws while McMullan capped eight hoops and three free throws for 24 points. Phil Hence also scored in double figures for the winners scoring a dozen points on four baskets and the same number of free attempts.

Goingman (14), Buddy Harty (12) and Phil Burgess (10) topped the Somers shooters. John D'Angona and Phil Burgess (10) topped the Somers shooters. John D'Angona and Phil Burgess (10) topped the Somers shooters. John D'Angona and Phil Burgess (10) topped the Somers shooters.

UConn Five Host To Rams Tonight

Storrs—The University of Connecticut basketball team hopes to maintain its clean slate at home this season, meeting a strong Fordham University five at the Field House, Saturday night at 8. There will be no preliminary contest.

The UConn's next game will be Tuesday when the Rams visit Plainville for a Central Valley B League contest.

Rockville comes to Storrs with clean cut victories over Yale, 71-61, and Rhode Island, 83-74, in overtime. After polishing off these UConn foes, it appeared as though the Rams might come to Storrs on an all-winning note. However, they were caught off guard at Westfield, Wednesday night, and were humiliated by a 54-32 count.

This development should make the Rams so much tougher for the UConn, Saturday, since Coach Johnny Bach's shooters will be anxious to bounce back into the win column.

Fordham's chief threat is Bob Melvin, a 6-3 sophomore who has been hitting the strings to the tune of about 25 points per game. Other scoring threats are Capt. John Coakman, 6-4 senior who is scoring close to 20 points per game, and 6-5 Joe Dempsey, a 15 point average.

With the students away from their Christmas vacation period, there should be plenty of tickets available to the public. Box office opens at 7. There will be no preliminary game on the program.

Griffith to Fight Cuban in TV Bout

New York, Dec. 17 (AP)—A probable shot at the world welterweight title will be on the line tonight at Madison Square Garden when unbeaten Luis Rodriguez from Cuba and Ronnie Griffith, Virgin Islands-born New Yorker, clash in a 10-round nationally televised fight.

The bout, scheduled for 10 p.m. EST with ABC handling the telecasting, is billed as an elimination scrap the 147-pound crown held out by Benny (Kid) Faret. The winner must be matched with Faret early next year. Faret successfully defended his title last Saturday by outpointing Federico Thompson in the Garden.

Rodriguez, undefeated in 33 bouts with two others listed as "no contest," will be making his New York debut. The 25-year-old Cuban, whose stock in trade is his speed, a punchy jab and a convincing right hand, has fought nine times this year. His last two fights against Yama Bahama and Johnny Goncalves were spaced within 12 days.

Griffith, fourth ranked among the welters, has a highly creditable record of 21 victories in 23 bouts with seven knockouts.

Heard Along Main Street

And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

In All Earnest When youngsters tell you something in all seriousness, you've got to believe them.

That's just what George O'Connell, general manager of Shawmut Equipment Co. on the Talcottville flats, did Monday.

Mrs. O'Connell also works at Shawmut. When they left in the morning for the office, O'Connell asked his son and daughter, both in their teens, to shovel the driveway later in the day when the storm subsided so he could drive into the garage when he got home.

Without raising his voice, dad asked, "Why didn't you shovel the driveway like I asked you to?"

"You tell him," the son said, looking at his sister. "No, you," she replied. "Okay. Well, you see, dad, we were watching television all day, waiting for the snow to stop falling. And all the news kept saying how many people had died while shoveling snow. We decided not to shovel the driveway because we didn't want you to come home and find us both dead."

Dial P for Plow Monday's storm, a blizzard to the young ones and an old-fashioned winter snowfall to grandpop, produced a number of unusual stories. Like this one:

Shortly after 3 o'clock Monday afternoon when one newsmen had reached his home, the phone rang. A woman at the other end of the line was furious.

"Just when do you propose coming up to my street and clear the road? The snow is at least a foot high. I can't get my car out of the garage."

"Do you have to know someone in town to get the snow plowed out?" I have to go to the store and get some shopping done and I want my street plowed out now!"

Told that she had the wrong number, and not the highway department, she angrily replied, "That's what the other man said when I called earlier."

"I want you to know that unless you get a snowplow up here within an hour I'll call the governor. The people on—St. have had their street plowed twice today already."

The reporter hung up, then thought that he should have suggested to the irate caller that she pass along her troubles to her congressman, or—as the boys in the service say—to the chaplain.

Twice Ever Thus Even Santa Claus, his sleigh and reindeer fell victims to Monday's snowstorm. They were snowbound. It happened on Main St. in East Hartford. The sleigh and eight tiny reindeer—LIVE ones—were being transported on a flatbed truck. The truck, like most vehicles, couldn't negotiate the snowdrifts and wound up stuck in a snowbank.

And don't you think Santa wasn't embarrassed!

Impatient Housewife Snow this past week which was deposited on Manchester was great for the children. It gave them two days away from school, plus a chance to pick up a little extra spending money shoveling snow, for some, it was the opportunity to try out sleds for the first time this season.

Adults took a different look at the weather. Hundreds were unable to get to work Monday. Many who tried driving became stuck in snow drifts. Others are still nursing sore muscles from shoveling snow.

There is also the humorous side. For example, take this case. Tuesday, after the first storm had passed over, the wife did several loads of washing, finishing just before her man came home from work.

"Would you hang out the clothes?" she asked.

"Wait a minute," (what else) came the answer. After about 15 minutes, the wife got up her Irish, stalked to the door and put on the ice boots she could find—her husband's.

Two minutes after leaving for the back of the house the wife came back in and was steaming.

"She was wearing only one boot. 'Where's the other boot?' the husband asked.

"Out in the snow somewhere. Your boots are too big for my feet."

"I could have told you that," he said.

"We've been wondering just what the wife will get for Christmas, a pair of snow boots or a clothes dryer?"

No Lesson Today A Manchester father was determined to teach his son how to keep from getting killed by an automobile.

Getting right down to cases, he took the boy to the school he attends as a first grader. His object was to show him which route to take so that he could spend the maximum time walking on sidewalks and the minimum on the street.

Daddy picked a bad time, however. When he got to the school he found the walks had not been cleared of snow and he had to tramp along the street.

Baby, It's Cool Inside During the snowstorm Monday Mom kept busy re-arranging the furniture. Dad came home and commented, "Looks real cool." Then later on that evening, "I don't know why but it's really cool in here."

Everyone else felt it, but blamed it on the freezing temperatures outside.

The next day it was still very cool and uncomfortable. Dad walked over to the corner to the thermostat, leaned over the end table and checked. It was set at 72 and was registering 72.

He couldn't figure out what was wrong until he SAW THE LIGHT.

The lamp, used during the dark day and all evening, was directly underneath the thermostat, giving the mercury a hot foot. And the thermostat, warmed by the light bulb, wasn't sending signals to the furnace for heat.

All of which goes to prove, that husbands have a point when they object to the re-arrangement of furniture, even when they don't do the moving!

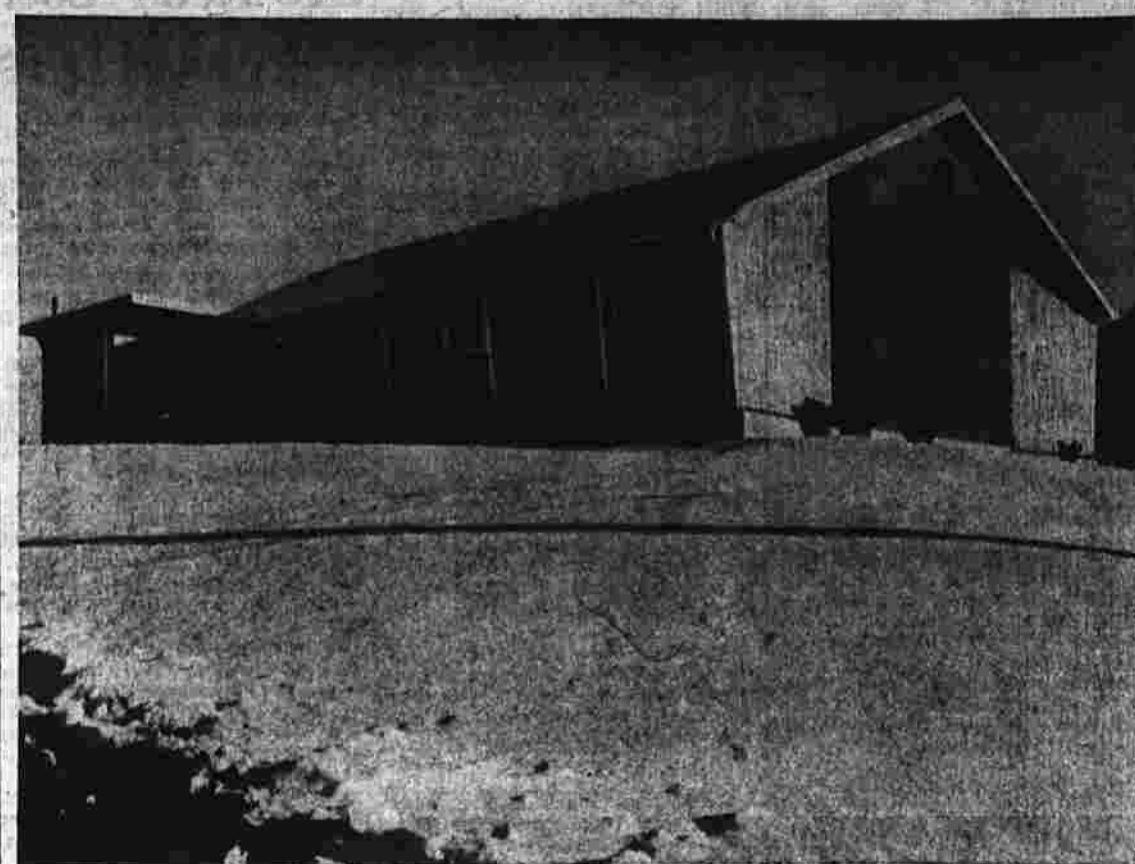

Neither Snow... Noticing that there were several births during the height of Monday's storm, including one baby girl almost born on the way to the hospital, one Manchester man cracked, "That's one courier that nothing can stop from the swift completion of his appointed rounds."

Expanding? One Main St. store clerk asked us to try to appreciate his amazement one evening this week when he drove by a big service station on E. Middle Tpke. In huge, red neon letters across its roof, the usually prim and precise sign proclaimed to the world: "COOK'S VICE STATION."

Yule Party Set At Country Club The annual Christmas party for children of Manchester Country Club members and their friends will be held tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Ralph Kanna, caricaturist, will entertain, and refreshments will be served.

Services Begin Here Tomorrow

A new Calvary Church (Assembly of God) at 647 E. Middle Tpke. will house services of the congregation beginning tomorrow, the Rev. Kenneth L. Gustafson, pastor, has announced.

The new church, designed by Joseph Kimball, a Chicago, Ill., architect, is of a contemporary design, and seats 120. The building also includes a pastor's office, Sunday School facilities and a kitchen in the basement will be completed within a month.

Construction of the prefabricated wood building began in February 1959, and was supervised by the pastor. Church members did most of the work.

The church will be dedicated in March, the Rev. Mr. Gustafson said.

The five-year-old congregation formerly held services in the Rev. Mr. Gustafson's home, 22 Vernon St., which was called Calvary Chapel for the interim. The new name of the building will be Calvary Church, the pastor said. (Herald photo by Pinto.)

Clear Walk Path To Garbage Pail

If you want your garbage collected, you have to meet the collector halfway.

That's the word from Chester Langtry, deputy director of public works.

Homeowners must either shovel a way from the street to the garbage pails in the rear of their homes. Or they must place the pails in front of their homes. In any event, the pails should be cleared of snow, so the collectors can see them, said Langtry.

The collectors are having great difficulty slogging through drifts to get to the pails, he said. The trucks are also having difficulty getting through the streets, due to snow and cars parked in the middle of the road.

Fiction Rides High On 'Untouchables'

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Hollywood—(NEA)—It's rather incredible, you must agree, the way Bob Stack (as Elliot Ness) and his braver-than-Errol Flynn, smarter-than-Ferry Mason T-men battle organized crime and knock off assorted gangsters and hoodlums each week on "The Untouchables."

slipped him the word about how things really were in Chicago in the days of "The Untouchables."
"They all like the show," Bob told me, "but they laugh about the many times things went wrong, even to the point of becoming comedies of errors."

"One fellow told me about two unarmed T-men accidentally finding themselves in a cafe where all of the gangsters in Chicago were having dinner. To avoid suspicion—they were scared as h— they staged a fake fight with each other and had themselves thrown out."
So if you have been under the impression that "The Untouchables" is an authentic documentary, even inconsistently, you can skip it. It's broadly fictional because with men who know good drama best, it's fiction over truth every time.

As John Peyser, who directs many of the shows, says:

"A few years ago I was with 'Crime Syndicate,' a show originally dedicated to be authentic. We made 'em authentic and no one looked at the show. So we switched to fiction."

But it is no fiction that "The Untouchables" is the best thing that has ever happened to Bob Stack. The show has the acceptance of TV fans as well as "inside" (trade) acceptance.

"For the first time in my life," says Stack, "I don't feel like a chorus girl or a beach beauty waiting for some movie producer to consult a fortune teller or his sister's cousin and then calling me on the phone with the news that I've been cast in a picture."

"It was a risk taking the role because we didn't know it would be a hit, producers would be telling my agent, 'Why, people wouldn't even look at Stack for free on TV.'"

Life is easier for Stack this year because the company is 10 weeks ahead with the one-hour shows.

"Last year," Bob shudders, it was pure desperation; we were only four shows ahead. I worked day and night and wondered if my wife would run off with the milkman. Now we even get a few days off now and then. We have time for better scripts.

"The entire show has been a hit because no one looked on it as a personal, selfish endeavor. It has benefited everyone who has touched it."

ROBERT STACK

benefited everyone who has touched it.

"Not one person has said to me, 'How dare you put such awful stuff on the air?'"

Even the PTA national magazine has praised the show for its lack of sentimentality and idealization of gangsters. Director John Peyser like to tell this story:

His wife, Sylvia, writes radio's "Faith of Our Children" for the Council of Churches, to which Dr. Clifton B. Moore devotes much of his time. Not long ago Sylvia introduced her husband to Dr. Moore and Peyser recalls:

"I said to myself, 'Here it comes.'"

Dr. Moore's words, after the introduction, were: "Oh, yes, you direct a lot of 'Untouchables.' It's a good show—I like it. It points up a good moral."

Women's Major League Bowling will go into TV syndication shortly... Four Star Television, having already completed pilot films of two series — "The Freshman," a comedy starring Gertrude Berg and Sir Cedric Hardwicke; and "McKeever and the Colonel," another comedy — is also planning a comedy starring Jane Powell, a comedy adventure starring Esther Williams, and an adventure series starring Rossano Brazzi... Mickey Rooney will star in a new comedy series... Danny Thomas will produce a new comedy series which will star Joey Bishop.

Dick Denning Finally Plays Mike Shayne

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Hollywood (NEA)—Richard Denning finally made it as private eye Michael Shayne on TV this season—and it all goes back to 1939. There's a plot as complicated as one of Shayne's own cases and a cast of characters which sounds like roll call at a TV academy meeting. Lucille Ball, Lloyd Nolan and even Beaver's father are involved.

Richard Denning didn't lose any sleep (or money) over waiting 20 years to become Michael Shayne, you understand. He just mentioned the long wait as an ironic note.

The year 1939 was the year Michael Shayne hit big in the book stalls and it was the year Denning hit big as a young hopeful at Paramount. One day Paramount's front office received a phone call from the front office at the 20th Century-Fox studio.

"Michael Shayne" was about to be made as a Fox movie. Fox wanted to borrow Denning for the role.

But Paramount said no and Lloyd Nolan appeared in the film. It was so successful "Shayne" became a series. Nolan did seven.

White Nolan sloughed it up. Denning became a romantic heart throb at the Bijous and Ritzes. Author Brett Holliday's "Shayne" novels became a series, too—three a year — and they now add up to 39 and 25 million copies.

He wrote so many Shayne stories, in fact, that when Fox tired of the film series, Columbia acquired the film rights and there were six new stories ready for the cameras.

This time Hugh Beaumont played Shayne, in six films. He now plays the father on "Leave It to Beaver."

Fade Out, Fade In. Brett Holliday is still writing "Shayne" stories but Richard Denning is costarring with Lucille Ball in a radio show, "My Favorite Husband." It is a big radio hit for three years until TV hits. Then CBS says to Lucille and Denning: "We'll do a TV series now."

But Lucille says, "No, thank you." She wants to do a TV series with husband, Desi Arnaz. They call their show "I Love Lucy." CBS tells Denning, "wait a while and we'll come up with a TV version of 'My Favorite Husband.'"

Denning tires of waiting and teams up with Barbara Britton in the telefilm mystery series, "Mr. and Mrs. North."

By the time CBS gets around to putting "My Favorite Husband" on TV Joan Caulfield and Barry Nelson have to play the roles.

Holliday, meanwhile, is writing more Shayne stories.

After 96 shows, "Mr. and Mrs. North" goes off the air. "My Favorite Husband" goes off the air. Denning goes to England to star in a British series, "Flying Doctor."

Holliday goes on writing "Shayne" stories and TV gets the idea Mr. Shayne should be on home screens. Mr. Denning, just back from England, gets a phone
