

Compromise on Laos France Blocks U.S. in SEATO

Washington, March 29 (AP)—Indian diplomatic sources reported today the Soviet Union is now consulting Communist China on the question of a cease-fire in Laos.

These sources indicated the prospects are about even for a satisfactory political settlement to be reached between the West and the Communist bloc over the neutralization of Laos.

Bangkok, Thailand, March 29 (AP)—The United States agreed today to a compromise that left the SEATO powers saying only they would take "appropriate action" unless the Communist bloc ends military intervention in Laos.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk sought a tougher line in the statement of South East Asia Treaty Organization, but France threatened a veto. The French argued that a stronger statement, indicating the anti-Communist alliance's readiness to use force, would present a virtual ultimatum to the Russians and perhaps torpedo hopes for negotiations.

The French views became known simultaneously with disclosures that France has refused to pay a share of United Nations troops in the Congo, another area where French and U.S. views diverge.

No Move to Close Plant AEC Plans A-Plane Research at CANEL

Washington, March 29 (AP)—The Atomic Energy Commission announced today it will continue to operate an atomic powered airplane engine at two plants in Connecticut and Ohio.

The plants, the Connecticut Aircraft Nuclear Engine Laboratory (CANEL), operated by Pratt & Whitney at Middletown, Conn., and the General Electric Co. at Erie, Ohio, have been working on different concepts of possible nuclear engines for airplanes.

Although President Kennedy announced in his special defense budget to Congress yesterday that he planned to withdraw military participation from the nuclear plane project, the AEC research program would continue under the AEC.

Administration officials said the government intended to earmark about $25 million for research projects in the field of high performance reactors and materials resistant to high temperatures. These will make use of the research teams at the plants.

There was no immediate indication if either or both plants would operate at or near the present manpower level. The AEC spokesman said there was no plan to close either plant.

The Connecticut plant now has about 1,700 employees. The Erie plant, which is near Cincinnati, has about 2,300.

Meanwhile, Rep. Melvin Price, D-Ill., chairman of the Joint Atomic Research subcommittee, said the administration made a serious error in reducing the nuclear aircraft program to limited research.

Price said he hoped Kennedy's decision "will not set a precedent for other atomic energy projects" in demanding a demonstration of military usefulness as a early stage of development.

Price said a nuclear aircraft would be flying today if it had not been for the "on again, off again" policy of mismanagement by the Defense Department and its atomic advisers.

Elimination of military interest in the atomic powered airplane project would come after about $1 billion and 15 years were spent on it.

The $25 million earmarked for the new research project is usually shared by the Defense Department and the Commerce and Ohio plants.

Last year, an AEC spokesman said, CANEL was given $30 million and GE $18 million.

An AEC spokesman said: "The extent of the work would determine the extent of the use of each facility."

On a long range basis, he said, it is conceivable that "some other arrangement could be worked out under which research work planned for the two plants could be done elsewhere."

Rep. Emilio Q. Daddario, D-N.Y., expressed regret that the President's decision because "it is conceivable that some other arrangement could be worked out under which research work planned for the two plants could be done elsewhere."

In a statement, Daddario said: "The weight of evidence in favor of the nuclear aircraft program is clear, propulsion is overwhelming and I seriously question the wisdom of the decision."

Fort Lauderdale Quiet Resort Owners Protest Restrictions on Students

Fort Lauderdale, Fla., March 29 (AP)—Vacationing collegians stopped riding, but ocean-front resort owners fumed today that restrictions of the students also was stifling business.

"Keep moving and keep your mouth shut," blared over one poster.

Broward County Sheriff Alan Michael's ribs were jabbed by a nightstick when the sheriff, clad in plainclothes, stopped to talk with a newsmen at a restaurant recognized by a patrolman.

Mayor Johns said last night's activities appeared to be successful in preventing disorders.

"The students are going to be successful in preventing disorders," Johns said. "They will have their day in court."

A 5-block outdoor dance, organized with city help, kept going today to stir through the wreckage of a 4-engine Cessna 440 airplane that crashed and killed 62 persons last night. There were no survivors.

The plane was carrying Soviet, Czech and Bulgarian technicians to Africa, assistant Gen. Transport Minister Karl Stohl reported on arrival. No western passengers were aboard.

The big turbo-prop Ryan 18 plunged into an open field last night near the village of Runswick, 30 miles north of Nuernberg. Local police hinted at the possibility of sabotage. Yet they could not entirely exclude the likelihood of foul play. The airplane, bound for Bamako, capital of the West African Mali Republic, carried 44 passengers and a crew of eight. It had taken off from Prague with the first of about 200 U.S. Army investigators helped German police in sifting the

Medical Society Backs Contract Offered by CMS

Hartford, March 29 (AP)—The State Medical Society has approved, after three years of planning, a Connecticut Medical Service (CMS) medical-surgical coverage contract for some 1.5 million state policyholders.

The community contract of CMS is still to be approved by the State Insurance Department.

The action by the medical society yesterday, if given a green light by the insurance department, will pay for many doctor's services not now covered, pay doctors more for these services, allow more people to join the insurance plan by raising its limits, and cost policyholders more in premiums.

The medical society's House of Delegates, a 40-member body representing some 3,000 physicians, approved the plan at a short meeting. The CMS directors have already approved the contract.

The major contract improvements in the proposed contract include:

The income eligibility limit would be geared to the size of the family, with a $4,000 limit for a family of three (one child); $4,500 for a family of four; $7,000 for a family of five; and $7,500 for a family of six. The present limit for a family of any size is $5,000.

The terms of the agreement were not announced.

Omission of any Nike Zeus production funds from the revised defense budget Kennedy sent to Congress yesterday came as a shock to the Army. Some officials had hoped to get something in the order of $100 million for the Nike Zeus program.

The Kennedy said nothing at all about the Nike Zeus, but a high administration official said the anti-misile system was not advanced to the point where it can be said with assurance that it should be put into production.

This was the position maintained by the Eisenhower administration and Dr. Herbert F. York, Pentagon director of research and engineering, under that administration. Although York is being replaced, his views apparently carry weight with the new Kennedy administration, too.

Army officials felt things were going their way when a state committee of staff for the first time recommended this year a start in limited production.

Under the Eisenhower administration, the Nike Zeus program was held in check by the legislature's Judiciary committee.

25 Acquitted In South Africa 'Treason Trial'

Pretoria, South Africa, March 29 (AP)—A 3-judge tribunal today acquitted 25 persons charged with plotting the military overthrow of the South African government to establish a Communist regime.

The unanimous verdict brought to an end the longest and most sensational trial in the nation's history, lasting nearly four years and costing many thousands of dollars. It was a stunning defeat for Prime Minister Hendrik Verwoerd's white supremacy government.

Under arrest on charges of plotting a coup, the 25 defendants were held in a special court for the trial, which stemmed from the arrest of 156 persons of all races in treason trials during the December 1956. A worldwide campaign raised defense funds.

Ninety-two persons were indicted but the government dropped the charges against 84 soon after the trial began. It was believed the government, as a result of the verdict, would not try to re-indict the other 84.

The defendants claimed they were only seeking an end to the National Government's policy of apartheid—white supremacy and racial segregation.

Nike Zeus Ban Called U.S. Peril

NOTE: President Kennedy has decided not to ask funds to start limited production of the Nike Zeus. What bearing will the decision have on the nation's anti-misile defense? How much would the program cost and why have some skeptics questioned the effectiveness of the Nike Zeus? President Kennedy, Defense Department spokesman, covers these questions in this through background.

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
Washington, March 29 (AP)—President Kennedy's decision not to ask funds to start limited production of the Nike Zeus apparently means the United States will be without an anti-misile defense for at least five more years.

However, there's still a chance that congressional supporters of the Nike Zeus could get some production money into the defense appropriations bill this year.

The anti-misile has some strong roots on Capitol Hill. One of them, Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., said "We have already lost too much valuable lead time in the development of this important weapons system."

New Look for Elizabeth

That's no movie queen—it's a real-life sovereign. Queen Elizabeth II, slimy-looking in a figure-hugging sequin evening gown and white stole, made this showstopping entrance as she was greeted by the earl and Madame V. Pandit at a party in the Indian high commissioner's home in London last night.

State Lottery Sought To Provide Revenue

Hartford, March 29 (AP)—The General Assembly today was again urged to establish a state lottery to help provide needed revenue.

A state income tax in the near future whether we like it or not, as our neighbor states have."

Miscoski noted that during the colonial period the Connecticut legislature in 1825, the official history of the state, was one of financing public projects.

The proceeds from a state lottery were used to finance construction of the Old State House in 1783, Hendrik Verwoerd's several other examples of the use of the lottery in the state.

The Torrington legislator said the "time has come to not only talk about taxes but to do something about it."

"The members of this legislature have got to raise money or

'You're Kidding,' Mother Says Quadruplets Delivered To Family in Holyoke

Holyoke, Mass., March 29 (AP)—Quadruplets were born to Mrs. Raymond J. Feys, 35, today, increasing the family to children from 6 to 10.

The 5-foot-3½ inch, 114-pound wife prepared for triplets, she exclaimed "You're kidding" when her doctor told her she was having a baby.

The 38-year-old father, a 112½-week insurance agent, was told to sit down before the doctor gave him the news.

"Wonderful! How are they?" the father asked.

The babies, ranging in weight from 3 pounds, 5 ounces up to 3 pounds, 13 ounces, had been expected in May.

The small, slight, pregnant mother last month saved two of the family's youngest children when they heavily damaged her.

The mother was sped to the hospital for the premature births, all of which took place within a 45-minute span. May 17 had been the birth date forecast by doctors.

Two of the quadruplets are girls and two are boys.

"A" is a girl, 3 pounds, 11 ounces, 11½ inches long; "B" is a boy, 16 inches long; "C" is a girl, 3 pounds, 13 ounces, 17 inches long; and "D" is a boy, 3 pounds, 13 ounces, 17 inches long.

Prepared for triplets, and with names for them, the Feys are now revising their list.

OCEAN STUDY URGED
Washington, March 29 (AP)—President Kennedy today asked Congress for extra money for study and use of ocean resources, saying "one very serious handicap upon us." He requested a net increase of $64,250,000 spending on various programs among them the oceanographic studies and preliminary work development of a superoceanic treaty platform. The money was asked for the fiscal year starting July 1.

DIE IN FIRE
New York, March 29 (AP)—Three men died early today in a fire which raged through a 4-story rooming house in the Chelsea section of Manhattan. Five residents and two flames were injured, none seriously. The blaze which broke out at 10:30 p.m. in 304 St. Paul St. was caused by a tenant smoking a cigarette in a room. The fire, which started in a room, spread to the rest of the building.

40 Years Mortgage Proposed

By FRANK COORMIER
Washington, March 29 (AP)—President Kennedy today proposed government insurance of 25-year home improvement loans as a new way of rebuilding rundown neighborhoods without federal handouts.

This was the surprise item in a $3.2 billion housing bill which Kennedy sent to Congress.

Also called for were steps in low cost public housing, urban renewal and housing for the elderly, plus experimental 40-year, non-down-payment, FHA mortgages for families of mortgage income.

In letters to Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson, the Senate's presiding officer, House Speaker Sam Rayburn, D-Tex., the President said the administration's housing bill will provide "the help necessary to reverse the steady deterioration of our cities. The money is possible for private enterprise to meet the housing needs of millions of Americans who today live under conditions this nation can no longer afford," Kennedy added.

"We must resume with full vigor the forward movement toward a better life for all Americans. Essential to such a better life is housing available to all at a cost all can afford. And just as important, to the increasing number of us who choose to live in and near cities, is an orderly and healthy urban environment."

He urged early and serious consideration of the measure by Congress.

Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., chairman of the Senate Housing subcommittee, introduced the bill in the Senate and said the subcommittee will hold hearings early in April. He predicted that the Senate would approve the bill by May 1.

Most of the items were spelled out in Kennedy's special housing message to Congress on March 22. However, only a vague hint was given them of the far-reaching character of the improvement loan proposal.

TAKE YOUR TIME IN DRAWING TRUMPS. It's sometimes necessary to make haste slowly in drawing trumps.

West's best defense is to remove dummy's trumps to stop declarer from ruffing a heart. But West should not begin by leading the ace of trumps.

See what happens if West has to lead out the ace of trumps and then another trump. South wins and gives up a heart trick to the ace. East cannot return a trump, so South manages to ruff a heart in dummy. This assures him four trump tricks in his own hand, one heart ruff in dummy, one heart trick, and the four top cards in diamonds and clubs. The sure tricks, and a fine play for an eleventh trick unless East is brilliant enough to refuse the first heart trick.

West gets a better chance to defeat the contract if he opens one of his low trumps. South wins and leads a heart to the ace. This puts East in position to lead another trump and West can clear all of the trumps out of the dummy by winning the ace of trumps and leading a third trump.

The general principle is very simple. Open a low trump from A-x-x. If you have no fast re-entry in your hand, if your partner has an early trick, he will return a trump, and you can get three rounds of trumps out at an early stage. If you have a major suit, he will bid two diamonds, and you will then bid your spades. If partner shows a major suit, you will jump to game in that suit.

Begin with the ace of trumps, however, if it is vital to get two rounds of trumps out at an early stage. If you have a major suit, you will jump to game in that suit.

Incidentally, South can still make four spades against the best defense. South must understand the king of hearts to give up a second heart trick. Then he must catch the top diamond ruff a diamond and run all of the trumps. East is eventually squeezed in hearts and clubs. This is the kind of hand that your opponent makes on a piece of paper but not at the table.

Daily Question (10 to 12 points) and the next simple. Open a low trump from A-x-x. If you have no fast re-entry in your hand, if your partner has an early trick, he will return a trump, and you can get three rounds of trumps out at an early stage. If you have a major suit, he will bid two diamonds, and you will then bid your spades. If partner shows a major suit, you will jump to game in that suit.

More than 150 high school students from throughout the state participated in the program.

Winners were Barry Cowles, son of Mr. and Mrs. Truman Cowles, 72 Hudson St., and Susan Cohen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Cohen, 61 Judd St. They won first prize in the poster contest, first prize in the radio script contest, and second place in a merchandise in two minutes from topics picked out of a list.

Roger Harry, son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Harry of 163 Mountain Rd., won second place for a merchandise manual that showed a comparison of products with the history of its background.

Stanley Pugrub of 45 Norman St. won second place in window display judging. Those students taking part in this contest were required to visit certain Hartford stores and judge their window displays already judged by professional advertisers. Andrea Glidde, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. Glidde of 41 Branford St., won third place in window display judging.

All winners were given trophies with inscriptions concerning the contests in which they participated engraved on the trophies.

Arthur Kelly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur J. Kelly of 31 Charter Oak St., presided over the state conference. He is president of MHS Distributive Education Club and state chairman of Connecticut Distributive Education Club.

Mrs. Carol Moriarty, marketing teacher at MHS and distributive education club advisor, said that she hopes to send all MHS winners to the National Distributive Education Conference that is being held in Chicago April 22 and 23. Mrs. Moriarty said that three of the current winners will represent Manchester at the National conference.

In an effort to raise money to send as many of the winners as possible, a car wash project will be held April 9 at the North End branch of the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. and a cake sale will be held April 13 at W. T. Grant's Store in the Manchester Shopping Parkade.

Woodwind Quintet Heard at School

Students at Iling Junior High were entertained by members of the Woodwind Quintet as part of a culminating activity in their recent study of woodwind instruments.

A group of instrumentalists performed for the Iling students at two school assemblies Monday morning.

In preparation for the program, students had already seen the film, "Introducing the Woodwinds," featuring the New York Woodwind Quintet. They also listened to recordings of woodwind instruments and held discussions concerning the history of these instruments.

Members of the school band, under the direction of Robert Johns, presented instrumental demonstrations to the classes. The students were Winthrop Ford, flute; Bruce Taylor, clarinet; Pamela St. Pierre, clarinet; and Alan Morrison, clarinet. This study was also correlated with Robert Von Deck's science project, "Study of Sound."

The Hartford Symphony performers were Carl Berger, flute; Harvey Goldstein, oboe; William Goldstein, clarinet; Robert Schaefer, bassoon; and James Jacobs, French horn.

This is the third year that a live performance by professional musicians has been presented for junior high students at the Iling school.

Arrangements were made by Mrs. Christine Parks, and Ralph MacCarone of the Iling music staff.

Proceeds from the annual Junior High Spring Concert make these programs possible. The concert dates for this year, by the band and choral organizations of Iling Junior High, has been set for Tuesday, May 9 at 8 p.m. in the school auditorium.

Rockville-Vernon Board Moves for State Aid On Maple St. School Project

The Vernon Board of Education last night approved a resolution to the state for aid in construction of the seven-classroom addition to the Maple St. elementary school.

Approval of the application comes during a curriculum meeting of the board at the Northeast Elementary School.

Joseph Nelson, secretary of the Maple St. School Building Committee, said after the meeting.

Novak, principal of the Maple St. School, said any extra space gained in the existing building once the new addition is completed will probably not be needed again some day.

At the moment the cafeteria is crowded and tables are set in the hallway. The new rooms, it is thought, will allow more space to be devoted to the cafeteria.

The Maple St. Building Committee is also charged with overseeing construction of a new elementary school on Blinnet Rd. in rural Vernon to be ready for use in the fall of 1962.

Registration for children entering kindergarten in the fall has been scheduled for April 18 from 1 to 4 p.m. at the four elementary schools and the Vernon Center kindergarten.

Parents are requested to go to the school nearest home to have their children's birth certificates made and presented at the time of registration.

Where Should Space Control Begin?

New York (AP)—The other morning my wife awakes as I leaned out the window of our eighth floor apartment and pulled up a string of words.

"Well, Roger, I give up," said Francoise, after a long pause. "Why did you hang your shoes out the window overnight?"

"To dramatize a problem," I told her crisply. "Oh, dear, I can see you're ready to launch into one of your long-winded equal-rights-for-husbands speeches."

"Space control," I replied lightly. "Governments worry about how to control outer space."

"I'm complaining about the fact that you're not ready to keep my things," she continued. "Marriage to me is plain hell down to a long struggle to find a place in his own castle to keep his personal belongings."

"I may have," admitted Francoise, yawning and yawning deeper into the pillow. "You said that when we were able to move into a bigger apartment all this would change. Didn't you?"

"I still have," admitted Francoise, yawning and yawning deeper into the pillow. "You said that when we were able to move into a bigger apartment all this would change. Didn't you?"

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

It seems strange that our Lord's friends and even His disciples foresaw His crucifixion. His disciples probably stood in fear of Him; but what of that? St. Peter expressed a noble sentiment when he said, "Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both to prison and to death," and yet we all know the tragic story of Peter's denial. The record in St. Luke's Gospel is that "all His acquaintances, and the women that followed Him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding things." To be sure, His Mother, and Mary, the wife of Clopas; and Mary Magdalene, stood by the cross. They would stay with Him to the end of all costs. But St. Mark makes the further remark, "They all forsook Him and fled."

There were indeed, many who were willing to follow Him, but who were not willing to follow Him to the end. How great was their enthusiasm for Him after He had wrought some great miracle of healing. And after the resurrection, they were ready to follow Him, but when He came to the end of His journey, they were not there. How often we may have to learn how to achieve prosperity in spite of conditions of peace.

The Holy Spirit is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts. He is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts. He is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts.

the LAW in your life

How to Report Your Income

At this time of the year, when we are all thinking in terms of income taxes, many questions normally arise in regard to the federal income tax. One of the problems that arise most frequently is the question of what is taxable income and what forms of revenue are not taxable.

Federal law requires that all income, in whatever form received, with certain exceptions, must be declared in your tax return. In some cases, a particular type of income is specifically exempt from taxation, it is taxable and must be reported in the return.

The most common type of income is compensation for services, salaries, bonuses, and commissions. Generally, any payment from an employer to an employee is presumed to be compensation, unless it is shown to be a gift or a loan. Money received in return for services rendered is also taxable. If compensation is paid in property other than money, the value of the property received must also be included as income. Such items as payment in merchandise or payment in stock are considered as property and are taxable. When you report your compensation for services, you must list the full amount before deductions for withholding and social security.

Business income is another form of taxable income which must be reported. This does not mean gross receipts from a business, but rather your total sales less the cost of the goods sold, plus any other incidental income. Other expenses such as selling expenses are deducted from the total sales to determine net income.

If you receive interest on money which you have lent, or on savings bonds, or on your savings account in a bank, this income is taxable. You must also report money received from stock dividends.

"Walk for Peace"

To the Editor:
 This Saturday, April 1, there will be many demonstrations throughout our country to focus attention on the need for security through world disarmament.

The demonstration, sponsored by the Central Connecticut Committee for a SANE Nuclear Policy and supported by religious and other groups, will consist of a walk from Manchester center to the State Capitol, starting at 9 a.m. This distance corresponds to the radius of severe blast destruction from a 10 megaton hydrogen bomb explosion.

The walk is taking place because of the belief that the present arms race, in which the nations of the world spend fourteen million dollars every hour for armaments, will inevitably and possibly soon lead to atomic war, even perhaps by accident. Such a war would mean the end of our civilization. This walk may help in some small way awaken our fellow citizens to the dangers threatening us all.

The issues of war and peace are too important to be left solely to the politicians, whether of East or West. The public must make its feelings known through overt manifestations.

Let us not deceivably teach our children that they can hide from the bomb through civilian defense methods. Rather, let us encourage them to become peace officers throughout the world to join in a groundswell for peace on earth. Let us not be the one generation of men who will have annihilated ourselves, our progeny, and our world.

Most sincerely,
 Richard A. Russell,
 45 Kirkwood Rd.,
 West Hartford.

President Grover Cleveland vetoed a record 424 bills during his first term in office.

Her Role in 'Mikado' Is Designing Costumes

By JUDITH AREHAN

The woman who is designing the costumes for the Gilbert and Sullivan Workshop production of the "Mikado" joined the group a year ago as a member of the chorus line.

Today she's busy with gold robes, quilted wedding garments, tall hats with patches of wig hanging off them, and starting other costumes.

Mrs. Donald Withey, 321 W. Middle Tpk., is especially proud of the purple, aqua, and gold costume of the shrew Katisha.

The basic color of the costume is a purple patte, on which Mrs. Withey has appliqued gold and aqua erica to look like a peacock's plumage. To increase the oriental effect, she has painted delicate gold tracery on the fabric.

The hem of the costume is stiffened with a double row of quilting. To make it seem more impressive, and to ease the actress's movements on stage.

Best Part Job
 Katisha's headpiece is a masterpiece with heavy ornaments and a picture of a 10th century Japanese woman's headpiece.

To ensure the effect will be what she wants, Mrs. Withey has had the costume made up in a rooming house. She has had it made up in a rooming house. She has had it made up in a rooming house.

For Mrs. Withey the designing of the costumes is the best part of the job.

"I'd rather design than sew," she said.

$62,651 Donated To Easter Seals

Contributions to the Manchester Easter Seal fund total $62,651 received during the first three weeks of the campaign. It was reported today by Arnold Lawrence, Easter Seal chairman.

The campaign ends Easter Sunday. Lawrence urged those who had not contributed to mail donations to Easter Seals, William Moorhouse, treasurer, Hartford National Bank and Trust Co., 192 Main St., Manchester.

The Easter Seal Society differs from many voluntary health agencies because it serves patients with a wide range of disabilities rather than a single diagnostic condition, the chairman pointed out.

Easter Seal funds serve people with all ages handicapped by arthritis, cerebral palsy, polio, muscular dystrophy, multiple sclerosis, congenital deafness, epilepsy, and many other disabling conditions.

UNION BATTLES POST

Stratford, March 29 (AP) — Members of the United Auto Workers Union at Avco Corp.'s Locomotive Division have ratified a new 3-year contract providing a 6-cent hourly wage boost for each year.

Paul East, president of Local 1010, told the workers at the ratification meeting yesterday. The total package is worth 35 cents an hour over the three years. Under the old contract, the basic hourly wage rate was $2.57.

New Foreign Aid Outlook

In his proposals for a reawakening of our foreign aid program, President Kennedy has outlined several common sense objectives, not all of which will have instant popularity with the public. From whom they require votes or cooperation action.

One aim of the aid advisers has set up is that our money abroad should be used more for long-range and fundamental projects, rather than for potentially more glamorous shots-in-the-arm.

One thing necessary to make that kind of program possible would be constant and appropriate action from Congress to set up long-term financing, as compared to the present year to year appropriation system. This is something Congress refused to yield to President Eisenhower, when he also wanted it.

Another necessity for such a system would be initiative on the part of the various recipient nations to set up fundamental, long-range programs for themselves.

Finally, President Kennedy wants other nations of the northern, developed half of the world to join in such a foreign aid program, with a fixed percentage of their national income, to match a similar percentage from us. The President, in fact, is trying to make such initiative on their part an essential part of any aid program for other reasons too.

We want to get away from hand-outs, which may go to the wrong people or to shallow purposes. We want to help people who are busy helping themselves. But already some of the nations which expect to be involved in receiving our aid are uneasy over this kind of talk from the President, not because they lack real need, but because, perhaps, many of them feel that they lack the technical manpower even to do their own planning.

Finally, President Kennedy wants other nations of the northern, developed half of the world to join in such a foreign aid program, with a fixed percentage of their national income, to match a similar percentage from us. The President, in fact, is trying to make such initiative on their part an essential part of any aid program for other reasons too.

Courteous Congo

Sometimes we have the feeling that if we newspapers were to shut down, and the air waves also go silent, that crisis would also go out of human living.

What suggests this to us is the way, in the world as it does operate, the emergence of one crisis in our headlines tends to smother out another.

Where, for instance, has the crisis in the Congo been in the last few days? A week or so ago, it was our chief crisis, the story that every newspaper and every broadcast. Nowadays, at most, it gets a casual mention.

In the situation in the Congo suddenly completely different? Have revolutions and light suddenly descended there? It all resolved? Need we never hear more of the Congo and its troubles?

These are all loaded questions. The only thing different about the Congo is that we have Laos to think and write and talk about. If we didn't have Laos, there would still be daily drama coming to us from the Congo. Nothing has happened to the fundamental issues in the still chaotic Congo, except the fact that we are no longer putting the microscope on them. But perhaps that in itself is a real event, a real development. Perhaps each crisis consists of one part part and another part whipping up. There have, for that matter, been a number of past crises in Laos. After each one of them, there has come a sort of mummification of the actual facts involved, and these were always much less sensational than the reports which had been headlined during each crisis.

The current crisis in Laos is the bottom of all, but some of the heat, may, afterwards, prove to have been something added by impetuous report and interpretation.

It all suggests the old question about the tree falling in the forest. Does it make a resounding crash if there is nobody there to hear it? Can a crisis exist unreported, or achieve drama without headlines? If we forgot about the Congo completely for a year, what would be the result?

These are fascinating questions, and, fortunately, will not be put to the test. If things go quiet in Laos, we will all head back toward the Congo and, in a day or two, have that all heated up again. Or, if the Congo proves obstinately cool, we can focus on Cuba. There is nobody there to hear it. Can a crisis exist unreported, or achieve drama without headlines? If we forgot about the Congo completely for a year, what would be the result?

A Thought for Today
 Sponsored by the Manchester Council of Churches

It seems strange that our Lord's friends and even His disciples foresaw His crucifixion. His disciples probably stood in fear of Him; but what of that? St. Peter expressed a noble sentiment when he said, "Lord, I am ready to go with thee, both to prison and to death," and yet we all know the tragic story of Peter's denial. The record in St. Luke's Gospel is that "all His acquaintances, and the women that followed Him from Galilee, stood afar off, beholding things." To be sure, His Mother, and Mary, the wife of Clopas; and Mary Magdalene, stood by the cross. They would stay with Him to the end of all costs. But St. Mark makes the further remark, "They all forsook Him and fled."

There were indeed, many who were willing to follow Him, but who were not willing to follow Him to the end. How great was their enthusiasm for Him after He had wrought some great miracle of healing. And after the resurrection, they were ready to follow Him, but when He came to the end of His journey, they were not there. How often we may have to learn how to achieve prosperity in spite of conditions of peace.

The Holy Spirit is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts. He is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts. He is the one who leads us to the truth, and it is His will that we should have His presence in our hearts.

the LAW in your life

How to Report Your Income

At this time of the year, when we are all thinking in terms of income taxes, many questions normally arise in regard to the federal income tax. One of the problems that arise most frequently is the question of what is taxable income and what forms of revenue are not taxable.

Federal law requires that all income, in whatever form received, with certain exceptions, must be declared in your tax return. In some cases, a particular type of income is specifically exempt from taxation, it is taxable and must be reported in the return.

The most common type of income is compensation for services, salaries, bonuses, and commissions. Generally, any payment from an employer to an employee is presumed to be compensation, unless it is shown to be a gift or a loan. Money received in return for services rendered is

Kennedy Asks Loans For Housing Repairs

The 25-year loan would carry a maximum interest rate of 6 percent and could total up to $10,000 per family living unit. By contrast, present improvement loans insured by the Federal Housing Administration run for only five years, carry a rate of 8.4 percent and are subject to $3,500 ceiling. The 9.4 percent interest rate represents the effective rate during the life of a $3,000 loan. On some smaller loans, the rate goes as high as 12 percent.

To entice private lenders into the program, FHA would have authority to pay off defaulted loans in cash. FHA normally pays off in debentures carrying low rates of interest and these must often be sold at less than face value if the lender wants his cash in a hurry.

Other items in the bill would be advanced in the form of first or second mortgages or other types of loans and would be available in all areas. Some advantages would be granted to projects in urban renewal areas, although basic terms would be the same everywhere. Officials are hopeful that if Congress approves the program will become the major weapon in attacking urban blight without any subsidy.

Housing Administrator Robert C. Weaver, in a memo to Kennedy, says: "We sorely lack today the financing devices that are needed to support and encourage the use of direct housing loans for the elderly and to preserve our cities and protect the living standards of our people."

FHA-insured mortgages for units in cooperative apartments and for experimental housing units for low and moderate income families. Kennedy's special message put no price tag on the total housing program. Weaver said that $1.05 billion would be spent by June 30, 1965, and $311 million in the 1963 fiscal year which began July 1.

All these outlays would be in addition to those already authorized. The amount previously authorized for fiscal 1963 is $728 million. The biggest new item would be $2.5 billion in authority to commit federal funds for urban renewal projects. The commitments would extend over four years but actual spending would continue for five years or longer.

Weaver said this would make it possible for our cities and urban areas to plan and develop their growth over a reasonable long period, instead of a year-to-year basis. Congress never has authorized urban renewal commitments for more than two years in advance. The proposed 40-year loan for moderate income families would represent a broadening of the present program available only to those displaced by urban renewal projects or other government action.

Kennedy would make such loans available to an experimental basis to all those who can't afford regular FHA mortgages but earn too much to be eligible for public housing. FHA would set income limits on an area-by-area basis but has not attempted this yet. The program initially would be

Church Conducts Tag Day in Town

A one-day town-wide mission appeal and tag day will be held in Manchester tomorrow by the Seventh Day Adventist Church. The Rev. H. Ward Hill, pastor of the church, will launch the campaign to raise about $700 here.

Members of the church will canvass the business district for funds which will be used to extend welfare services at home and in 185 countries overseas. Richard Anderson, a spokesman for the drive, said the drive will be held in Manchester for the first time as the first step in an area drive.

The appeal is in its 87th year. Last year, members of the church aided victims of the Cille disaster with donations of clothing, and distributed a great number of food baskets.

What Will Pay-TV Offer Subscribers?

When pay-TV comes to the Hartford-Manchester area, what will it cost and what will it offer those persons who want to subscribe to it? So far, most discussion about pay-TV has been focused on the cost of the service.

It will cost more than $150. Such events as a heavyweight championship fight where the promoter's demands could be a controlling factor, might run as high as $250.

The pay-TV test is unique because it will be transmitted over air waves, rather than through telephone wires as has been the case in the past.
