Hartford, May 12 (AP)—Gov. John N. Dempsey sent a bill embodying his new $100 million highway program to the General Assembly today and expressed the hope that each individual legislator will rely on his own judgment as to its merits.
When newsmen asked him if he thought the opposition of the Republican leadership would scuttle the program, Dempsey said he thought the program would pass if the legislators themselves will support it.

Heavy Damage in 6 States 15 Counties in Illinois Flood Disaster Areas

(By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS)
Southern Illinois river towns battered the worst floods in 20 years today in the most serious overflows across Midwestern valley lowlands in six states.
Fifteen of the 102 counties in Illinois, all in the southern region, have been listed as disaster areas. But Gov. Otto Kerner has appealed to the Office of Civil Defense to declare 63 counties covering much of southern half of the state, a major disaster area.
Although Illinois appeared the hardest hit by the spring floods, much water from rain-fed rivers and streams covered broad sections of Missouri, Arkansas, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kansas.
The floods, which reached earlier proportions at last week-end's heavy rains, have driven thousands from their homes. The muddy waters, covering thousands of acres of farm land, have taken a heavy toll in property and crop damage—estimated running into the millions of dollars.
Generally clear weather prevailed against today, but the threat of the flood-stricken region as well as most other parts of the country. It was fairly mild in most sections.
In the southern Illinois flood belt, extending from Madison County on the Illinois-Missouri border to Lawrence County on the Illinois-Indiana line, workers toiled around-the-clock, to strengthen levees.
A record flood crest here down on Murphysboro, a southwest Illinois city of 8,000, threatening power and water service. The big muddy river, expected to crest at 85 to 95 feet, pounded a wall of 6,000 sandbags protecting the town.

Quadros Awaits Aid Funds

Washington, May 12 (AP)—Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., today told his Senate Latin Affairs subcommittee that he would support the United States in holding some survivors of the Cuban invasion force incommunicado on the Caribbean island of Vieques, a U.S. Marine base.

Reports that invasion survivors, some reportedly wounded, were being held on the Marine base cropped out at U.S. Naval Base at Guantanamo, Cuba, New York City, and San Juan, Puerto Rico.
Newsmen have been denied permission to visit Vieques presumably because U.S. officials want to keep the Cuban debate out of the area of imperialism that has started with the country's routing of the Cuban invasion force.

Dempsey Gets Bill Easing Drug Term

Hartford, May 12 (AP)—In concurrence with the senate, the house passed and sent to the governor a bill setting a minimum sentence of 15 years and a maximum sentence of 20 years in prison for a third conviction for narcotics peddling. At present, a third conviction carries a mandatory sentence of 20 years.

Among measures passed by the senate were two resolutions dealing with proposed amendments to the constitution concerning voting rights.

Both are "second round" amendments, in that they met the first test for adoption by being approved by one chamber of the General Assembly last session. The house has already passed them a second time this session. The next step is for them to be submitted to the public in a referendum during the general state election next year.

One would ultimately simplify the procedure to be followed when a voter leaves the town in which he is registered and moves to another town in the state.

The amendment would give the General Assembly the power to enact legislation determining how such persons must register in their new communities. It has been suggested that, if given the authority by this amendment, the legislature

STATE INDIANS BILL

Senate Votes For Increase In Sales Tax

Hartford, May 12 (AP)—The Senate has passed and sent to the House three tax revision bills, including one to boost the sales tax from 3 to 3 1/2 per cent.

In other action yesterday, the upper chamber also approved bills establishing maximum speed limits and authorizing a constitutional convention.

All the bills were sponsored by the Democratic administration. The constitutional convention has been proposed by Gov. John N. Dempsey as the best means of solving a stalemate between the two parties on proposals for cutting the size of the House of Representatives and changing the boundaries of the 36 senatorial districts.

The sales tax bill is designed to bring in an additional $28.8 million in new revenue during the next biennium.

The other tax measures would place a 30 per cent surtax on the present succession and inheritance taxes and would require large corporations to make advance installment payments on their corporate business tax.

No objection by GOP Republicans, who are a small minority in the Senate, offered no objection to the sales tax increase but they did criticize provisions of the bill requiring merchants who collect at least a quarter in sales taxes to turn them over to the state every month.

GOP senators said this would impose a hardship on some businesses.

There was no opposition to the measure that would require advance installment payments of the corporation business tax. Through a separate bill, the Dempsey administration is also increasing this tax from the present 3 3/4 per cent to 5 per cent.

Only those corporations that pay at least $5,000 a year for this tax would be affected by the requirement to advance payments.

The rates for determining the succession and inheritance taxes are on a graduated scale, with the amount increasing with the size of the estate. The bill passed by the Senate would impose a 30 per cent surtax on these taxes.

Speed Limit Bill

Under the speed limit on limited-access highways would be 70 miles per hour by day and 60 m.p.h. by night and the maximum on all other roads would be 65 m.p.h. by day and 55 m.p.h. by night. Lower speeds would be prescribed for trucks.

The bill would not affect limits already posted, unless they are higher than the ones in the bill. Its purpose is to put maximum limits on the lawbooks that would guarantee a conviction if exceeded by any motorist.

At present, motorists who admit exceeding the posted limit are occasionally acquitted on the grounds that their speed was reasonable because of good visibility, light traffic, or other factors.

Dempsey has proposed a constitutional convention because, he said, with the legislature's two chambers ruled by different parties there is little chance for agreement. He said the best chance of reform lies in summoning delegates to do some rewriting of sections of the Constitution dealing with the matters.

Any revision would have to be approved by the public at a referendum.

Check-up for school officials announce that children in 9th and 10th grades, 4 and 7 in September are required to have a health examination during the coming year. It is recommended that this be done by the family doctor since he is acquainted with the child's history and can do a more thorough examination than is possible at school.

In accordance with a Board of Education policy, the check-up should be given within the four-month period before Oct. 1. Children not examined by that date will be scheduled for examination by the school medical advisor.

Report forms are available at the school office for use when the family doctor makes the examination. If a parent chooses to have his child examined at school, he will be invited to present at the examination.

Did Yuri Gagarin Orbit Earth?

NOTE—Ever since the Soviet Union reported that Yuri Gagarin had orbited the Earth, there have been some doubters who refuse to accept the Russian announcement as fact. This article gives the basis for their skepticism and presents also the views of others who see no reason for rejecting the Soviet version.

It is highly debatable whether or not Gagarin actually orbited the Earth. The Soviet Union has not put out an open record now. The United States, the FIA official said, also quickly advised about Yuri Gagarin's flight. He said the FIA expects to receive the supporting data within the required time. Shepard's flight was held open by the FIA, FIA president, was a witness at Cape Canaveral.

Russia can claim world records for duration of manned orbital flight (1 hour and 29 minutes out of 108 total minutes from lift-off to landing); altitude (110 to 180 miles); and for the greatest mass (five tons) lifted without Earth orbit (3,000 pounds).

But skeptics raise a chorus of doubts, and cite numerous reasons. Moscow itself could still afford to be a space power, and it is a space power. It has the capability to launch a satellite, and it has the capability to launch a satellite, and it has the capability to launch a satellite.

On April 12, Moscow telegraphed the FIA the names of the pilot and spacecraft, the Vostok, and said a space flight had been made. The telegram gave no other details but did say supporting evidence would be forwarded within the required time limit of two months and eight days, said an FIA official who asked not to be quoted by name.

But to date, claims authentic, say aviation experts. Moscow would have to describe the mode and type of spacecraft, the engine or engines, special apparatus aboard, the landing gear, the date, time, and place of lift-off and landing.

House Rejects Bill To Release Lifers

Hartford, May 12 (AP)—The House has turned down a bill that would have given convicted first-degree murderers for whom the jury recommended mercy some hope of eventual release.

Under the present law, if a jury finds a person guilty of first-degree murder but recommends mercy, the judge must sentence the offender to life imprisonment without benefit of parole.

The State Parole Board, which can commute death sentences to life imprisonment in cases where the jury showed no mercy, is powerless to act in cases in which the jury recommends mercy.

The bill, which the Senate approved last week, would have allowed judges to sentence lifers to just life imprisonment in cases where the jury decided in a 2-1 vote.

manifold, how unshaking our help hand to the outside world can be.

It has under consideration giving financial aid to the state and all monopoly in the country of Bolivia—something hitherto forbidden to United States foreign aid policy.

Now that even the possibility of this has become known, one can understand the barrage of argument that will be directed against it.

Such a step would take American free enterprise dollars, would it not, and devote them to an American, socialistic institution.

Even worse than that, such American aid would buttress a policy by which Bolivia keeps all its own oil reserves to itself, and frees out exploration and development by outside interests, including, of course, American oil interests.

And to top it all off, this would not only be an un-American use of American dollars, against the interests of American citizens, but it would also, by the unbiased opinion of these American companies themselves, be bad for Bolivia, because monopoly is a most inefficient way of exploration and development.

But if the Kennedy administration happens to withstand all this domestic pressure and wisdom, and goes ahead with aid to the Bolivian government's oil monopoly, then there will be some other things that may be said in the outside world. It may be said that, painful as it was, we made one decision which clearly showed our desire to help Bolivia, even in an instance in which Bolivia was following a practice of which we do not approve, even in an instance which, far from opening any door for American capital, actually helped to keep Bolivia's door closed against it.

It is hard to tell, this early in the game, which course would prove the stronger and louder—the chorus at home against what we are now doing, or the whispering campaign that would go on abroad, about American strange act. But first, there will be an opening chorus, in Congress, against even the slightest suggestion of aid to Castro in Cuba, we were at least intelligent enough to be aware of the need for some consistency in our attitude toward dictators in this hemisphere, and accordingly we began to put the freeze on Generalissimo Trujillo of the Dominican Republic. He was a notorious dictator of the right, as Castro seemed to be becoming a dictator of the left. We had been friendly enough with him over the years, but when we needed to display a front toward some hemisphere dictator, in order to prove that it was dictatorship we were against, the just revolution, Trujillo was the most logical target. There are other dictators still in the hemisphere, but none quite so well advertised. Furthermore, the liberal regimes in the hemisphere considered Trujillo himself had chased out. So we joined them in making Trujillo a marked man.

It is not yet sure of this latter goal, although signs are that, if we play our cards right, and Castro continues to be Castro, it is a goal which can be attained eventually.

One of the things which may help persuade our hemisphere friends is the extraordinary case with which Castro and Trujillo, thus under mutual fire from the rest of the hemisphere, seem to have made peace between themselves. When Castro came to power, he seemed to be threatening a confederate invasion of the Dominican Republic, to rid the hemisphere of a menace, perhaps because he so often provided refuge for dictators they themselves had chased out. So we joined them in making Trujillo a marked man.

Obviously the Russians are stalling. Does that mean we have to do something worse? Does that mean we have run out of some certain quota of time which is all we are willing to spend or risk on the slim chance that we may, some day, find a key to human survival in the nuclear age?

The real situation at Geneva is that, although no formal agreement is ready for signature there, the participants in the test ban conference all have accepted a boxed into a continuation of the present voluntary ban on tests. Do even the propaganda warriors of the political opposition really want the United States to be the one to be the first to break this spell, and thereby free Russia from it? We doubt it.

How Unselfish Can We Get? The Kennedy administration, it is now revealed, is flitting with a real opportunity to prove just how the stage for our opposition to Castro, or forgets the beautiful understanding we have had with Franco lately. Perhaps the safest conclusion is merely that, once again, international politics makes strange bedfellows.

Windsor Locks, May 12 (AP)—The U.S. Weather Bureau at Bradley Field issued this Connecticut forecast today for Saturday, May 13, through Wednesday, May 17.

The outlook calls for temperatures to average 6 degrees or more above normal. A warning issued over the weekend turning a little cooler by Wednesday.

The normal mean temperature in the Hartford area is 60 degrees against it. There are other dictators still in the hemisphere, but none quite so well advertised. Furthermore, the liberal regimes in the hemisphere considered Trujillo himself had chased out. So we joined them in making Trujillo a marked man.

It is not yet sure of this latter goal, although signs are that, if we play our cards right, and Castro continues to be Castro, it is a goal which can be attained eventually.

One of the things which may help persuade our hemisphere friends is the extraordinary case with which Castro and Trujillo, thus under mutual fire from the rest of the hemisphere, seem to have made peace between themselves. When Castro came to power, he seemed to be threatening a confederate invasion of the Dominican Republic, to rid the hemisphere of a menace, perhaps because he so often provided refuge for dictators they themselves had chased out. So we joined them in making Trujillo a marked man.

Obviously the Russians are stalling. Does that mean we have to do something worse? Does that mean we have run out of some certain quota of time which is all we are willing to spend or risk on the slim chance that we may, some day, find a key to human survival in the nuclear age?

The real situation at Geneva is that, although no formal agreement is ready for signature there, the participants in the test ban conference all have accepted a boxed into a continuation of the present voluntary ban on tests. Do even the propaganda warriors of the political opposition really want the United States to be the one to be the first to break this spell, and thereby free Russia from it? We doubt it.

How Unselfish Can We Get? The Kennedy administration, it is now revealed, is flitting with a real opportunity to prove just how manifold, how unshaking our help hand to the outside world can be.

Women's Crowning Glory In There in Her Peak The first thing a woman thinks about in most of her small crises, unexpected events and spur-of-the-moment plans is her hair.

No matter how many things Mrs. A. W. has to do before she takes off on a trip, one of the very last is to get her hair "done."

And many a Mrs. W. has jerked herself out of the deep dol-drum by making an appointment at her beauty shop and getting an entirely new and different hair-do.

A woman's hair may be her crowning glory—as the poets say—but keeping it in a crowning glory is one of her most nagging necessities.

For a woman's hair is always on her mind—as well as on her head.
