An Important Message for SAVERS...

Beginning July 1st Hartford National Bank Will Pay You

ON YOUR SAVINGS

From Day of Deposit to Day of Withdrawal!

At Hartford National, there's a new and better way to save money. We call it the FULL INTEREST way because your money earns interest every day your savings are on deposit. Hartford National will pay interest on all Savings Accounts from day of deposit to day of withdrawal.

Not only will your deposits earn interest from the date they're made, but, in addition, you won't be penalized if you withdraw some money before the end of the interest period. If you have to withdraw in the middle of an interest period, Hartford National still pays you FULL INTEREST!

More facts for you on the FULL INTEREST SAVINGS PLAN.

The Full Interest Savings Plan becomes effective for all savings accounts beginning July 1st. · Your money may earn interest even when it's not on deposit thanks to the 60 grace days in each semi-annual interest period.

Money you deposit during the first 10 days of each month earns interest from the first day of the month-plus a three-day grace period for withdrawal at the end of each semi-annual interest

e So long as there's a balance in your savings account at the end of the interest period—as little as $10-you'll get full interest on ALL your savings every day!

e FULL INTEREST makes HNB's Check-Savings Plan more valuable than ever. Simply tell us how much you'd like to save each month-$10 or more-and we'll transfer this amount from your checking account to your FULL INTEREST savings account ... automatically! (If you don't have a Hartford National checking account, you can open one in a few minutes.)

A little more than a year ago, we were pleased to bring you the popular Check-Savings Plan . . . and we're equally pleased to announce the FULL INTEREST Savings Plan. believing that it means added benefits for our many savings customers. It's another example of how Hartford National leads the way in offering new and better services to help meet the financial needs of the community

For 68,988; against 135,739.
The Faubus family salvaged one victory yesterday despite the crushing bond issue defeat. Faubus' son, Farrell, a 22-year-old law student at the University of Arkansas, was elected state representative from Madison County.

Faubus, central figure in the 1957 Little Rock integration crisis, campaigned for the bond proposal as vigorously as if he were himself seeking office. He made five television speeches and numerous personal appearances.

But the integration issue, which he used to win his third and fourth terms, created little interest. The main question was whether the bonds could be financed without a new tax.

Answer: Pass. Avoid responding to partner's opening bid of one in a suit when you have only four points.

Revitalized House and Hale Marks Year Under McCanns

By JACK REPASS

A revitalized House and Hale department store on Main St., a leader in the parade in modernizating of downtown business firms, this month marks the first anniversary under the ownership of the McCann brothers.

Thomas J. McCann, president general manager, and Frank P. McCann, who heads a Torrington branch department store, purchased the former twin department store of C. E. House and Son, Inc. and the J. W. Hale Corp. of June 20, 1960, and have since expanded its facilities and renovated the firm into one of Maintester's most visited stores on Main St.

Sylvester McCann, a third brother who once managed the house-vares department at Hales, is now operating manager of the firm.

Shortly after purchasing the first self-service grocery in the country operated by the former owners and at one time was managed by Thomas J. McCann.

A complete china and gift shop in the basement has been provided to the customers with such famous brand names of Pearl China, below a nine-day clearance sale in preparation for plans to remodel and renovate the firm, the McCann's held a nine-day clearance sale in preparation for plans to remodel and renovate the firm was not remodel and renovate the firm to the mountry operated by the connecticut State blooky major, working for a B.s. blooky major, working for a B.s. blooky major, working for a B.s. blooky major, working for a B.s.

Today, after one year of renovating, House and Hale has helped to give Downtown Manchester a "new look" in the retail business world. To the Editor,

I am grateful for the concerned citizens who have taken the initiative in forming the Manchester Volunteer Committee for the Laubach Literacy Fund.

When Dr. Frank Laubach spoke in Manchester a month ago, he in Manchester a month ago, he caught the hearts and minds of all in his audiences. It is no mere co-incidence that the "black belt of illiteracy" described by Dr. Laubach is the very same as the so called "hunger belt" of the world, and includes all those areas about which we worry that communism which we worry that communism will get firmer footholds.
Certainly we should support our government's foreign aid program, and also seize upon every opportunity to send food to the hungry, but, as Dr. Laubach pointed out, the government can not do the whole job. Further, we will never win men to democracy until we win men to democracy until show that we really want to help them to help themselves. Hand-outs never win friends. No people are content until each man can provide for himself and his fam-ily. Until a person can read and write, he doesn't stand a chance to better his way of life. It makes sense when we hear Dr. Laubach tell us that literacy is the real answer to the root of the total answer to the root of the total problem.

Here is an opportunity for each family here to support a program that will take real help to illiterate countries. One hundred pledges of a dollar a week will provide a teacher trained in literacy teaching. Can't we make up several of these "companies of compassion" from Manchester? It seems entirely fitting that we should cross lines of creed and church denomination and, as a community, express our love and community, express our love and concern for mankind in a way that will most surely lift people out of ignorance and poverty and hunger.

I hope that there will be a great rallying to the efforts of this Manchester committee. Contributions and pledges should be sent to Mrs. Adam Rhodes or Mrs. Theodore Malek, who will record them and forward them to the New York headquarters of the Laubach Literacy Fund, Inc.

Miss Connecticut from Glastonbury

Beauty queens and automobiles seem to be coming in compact sizes lately, as witness the new Miss Connecticut.

She's Karen Scalise, Glaston-bury, and she is quick to correct anyone who puts her height down as 5-2.

"Five feet two and three-quarters," she says, bearing down hard on that final fraction.

Karen, 18, won the crown last night in competition with 16 other girls and will be Connecticut's entry in the Miss America pagent at Atlantic City in September.

By coincidence, Karen has credentials that none of the other girls longing to be Miss America has. She is already a member of the "All America Family."

This title came to Karen, her parents, her two brothers and younger sister last year in a natural page of the compact of the "All America Family."

What kind of a girl is the new Miss Connecticut?

Well, she's fresh out of high school, graduated from Glaston-bury high earlier this month. She has a summer job as a salesgirl in the children's wear department at a Hartford department store, and she plans to enter Hartford College, a 2-year school for women, this fall.

Her hair is brunette, her eyes are blue-green, and her measurements are a secret that neither she nor the Junior Chamber of Commerce, sponsors of the contest, chose to make public.

But today Duren could claim attention not only for his throwing skill but a bat that paved the way for Los Angeles to defeat the mighty New York Yankees,—who thought so little of him they traded him to the Angele last May It scored two runs, putting the Angels in front, 2-1, and the most astonishing thing about the matter was this:. It was the first hit Duren had registered since July 13, 1958.

It undoubtedly shook up Tur-ley, who had been doing very well, for little Albie Pearson followed with a three-run homer that made it 5-1.

Everything that later developed was anti-climactic.

Duren went into the ninth with a two-hitter and 12 strike outs behind him. Then he walked. Roger Maris and Mickey Mantie smacked his 24th home run.

Guast speaker at the weeklye meeting of the Manchester Kiwanis Ciub at the Manchester Country Ciub Tuesday was Lindy Remigino. Presently coach of Hartford High's track team for whom he performed as well as Manhattan College, Remigino is also an Olympic champion in his own right having won the 100 meter event for the United States during the 1652 Games at Helsinki.

Remigino gave a short talk on the background of the Olympics and how they originated and also showed a film of the 1852 Games which also included his own startling triumph.

Greatest Skewing

"Greatest Olympic performance I ever saw or heard of," declared Remigino, "was turned in by the Czech long distance star Emil Zatopek. He won three events at the 1952 games, the 5,000 meters, 10,000 meters and marathon. And he did this all in the space of one week. His wife also won her specialty so that gave the Zatopek family four gold medals."

Remigino pointed out that qualification for the Olympic team now is much more realistic than in the past.

"Olympic qualification is based on performance as well as where you place in the trials," stated the Hartford track coach. "In other words, each event has a basic requirement and, unless you meet it, you don't make the Olympic team.

Defending the 1960 United States Olympic squad Remigino declared. "It was one of the greatest teams ever assembled despite whatever adverse publicity it may have received. Sprinter Ray Norton was particularly maligned by the press. While he may have failed in the Olympics, he still must be considered a great performer when you consider the number of other events he did so well in representing the United States.

"Our tryouts were probably held too soon, being scheduled in June with the Olympics themselves."

As an illustration, Remigino pointed out that qualification for the Olympic team now is much more realistic than in the past. FOR Limit: 4 coupons ftotal value $20.00) on set of 4 Jet-Air tires.
