

UAW Near First Profit Share Pact

Detroit, Aug. 26 (AP)—An agreement between American Motors Corp. and the United Auto Workers calling for the auto industry's first profit-sharing plan in history was believed near today. All surface signs pointed toward an understanding, possibly by the weekend. Top level negotiators broke off marathon talks about 1 a.m. today in the drive to reach a settlement and stayed on call for later meetings. Walter Reuther, UAW president, took a room overnight at the hotel where he and AMC vice president Edward L. Cushman had worked late in an effort to resolve differences. Neither side commented as to whether there had been further advances since AMC president George Romney's report of progress 24 hours earlier. However, principals in the talks were affable at the early hour recess. At the same time both sides called in technical staffs for a meeting later this morning. The Big Three car makers scheduled weekend bargaining sessions in the face of union threats of possible strike action. Their present contracts expire next Thursday night. Meetings were scheduled today and Sunday at General Motors and Chrysler and today at Ford. American Motors' contract with the UAW doesn't expire until Sept. 8 but Reuther reportedly told AMC that if an agreement can't be reached with the company this weekend he will turn his attention to the Big Three negotiations. He then would strive for a quick settlement with the Big Three and insist on AMC accepting the pattern. The Big Three say they won't accept any profit-sharing plan for its 23,000 employees. American motors asked the union to scrap

Mobilization Oct. 1 U.S. Orders 76,500 To Report for Duty

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—The Defense Department, in the biggest mobilization since the Korean War, is ordering 76,500 Reservists and National Guardsmen to active duty. Most of the men are being ordered to report on Oct. 1. The call-up is part of the Kennedy administration's military buildup to be ready to deal with the Berlin situation and other world trouble-spots. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara announced the call to active duty at a news conference late yesterday. Army and Air Force National Guard and Reserve units that were alerted two weeks ago to possible duty are now being called up, he said. Have men needed to man ships being added to the fleet also are being ordered to report. The orders are going out to 31,000 of the three services and 210 of them. Army, 58 Navy, 33 Air Force, plus miscellaneous outfits. The call-up involves 48,500 Reservists and National Guardsmen, 23,600 Air Force men and 6,400 Navy Reservists. McNamara said the orders do not specify how long the men will be held on active duty, but he noted that the authorization resolution passed by Congress placed a one-year limit on most re-call. The Secretary said the Defense Department hopes to release a many of those being called as voluntary enlistments and draft inductions provide needed manpower.

$2 Million Will Contested by 2 Who Got $2,000

Bridgeport, Aug. 26 (AP)—The will of the late Mrs. Katherine Dallett of New York and Wilton is being contested by two of her grandsons, who were left $1,000 each from an estate valued between $2 and $4 million. The other $1,000 bequest was made to a third grandson, brother of the other two, who is not contesting the will. Mrs. Dallett, widow of shipping magnate Frederic Dallett, left all but $3,000 of her as yet uninventoryed estate to her son John, a New York stock broker. John Dallett, a Weston resident, is also the executor of the estate. The two grandsons—the Rev. Frederic Franzius, Lynn, Mass., and Roderic Franzius, Nutley, N.J., charged undue influence in their appeal filed yesterday in Superior Court.

West Denounces Red Threat to Berlin Link

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—Secretary of State Dean Rusk met with the western Big Three ambassadors today in a suddenly-announced meeting on Berlin. French Ambassador Herve Alphand said upon entering Rusk's office that the Allied group would consider "the Berlin situation in general." The state department announced no reason for the meeting. The other ambassadors called in were Harold Caccia of Britain and Wilhelm Grewe of West Germany. Moscow, Aug. 26 (AP)—The United States, Britain and France today delivered notes strongly denouncing the Soviet Union's implied threat to the air corridors that link West Berlin with the western world. The notes were delivered at the foreign ministry late this afternoon by messengers. Their contents will be released simultaneously at 6 p.m. EDS in Washington, London, Paris and Moscow. The Allies were replying to a Soviet note Wednesday which accused them of using the air corridors for the transport of subversive West German elements to West Berlin. The Russians said this was a flagrant breach of the 1945 agreement which created the corridors. With the Berlin situation being what it is, Allied diplomats immediately concluded that the Russians were laying the basis for an eventual attempt to stop civil air lines from flying between West Germany and West Berlin. Although the contents of the Allied notes have not been released, it is understood they sharply warned against any Soviet attempt to tamper with traffic in the air corridors. It is understood the notes are similar to the White House statement Thursday saying any interference with Allied access to Berlin would be "an aggressive

Hoffa Lacking Opponents for Public Debate

Cincinnati, Aug. 26 (AP)—Teamsters president James R. Hoffa was expected here today for an announced public debate Sunday on the reasons why four Cincinnati Teamsters locals last week voted to leave the international. It did not look as though there would be anybody for Hoffa to debate, as long as he insisted the session be held in the Music Hall Auditorium. James T. Luken, president of the 2,000-member Dairy Drivers Local that sponsored the debate, said he will debate Hoffa and Ohio Teamsters president William Presser "as long as they (the debaters) are controlled by a neutral party such as the press or television stations." According to Luken, Hoffa can be expected to rig the Music Hall audience in his favor. Some 4,000 of approximately 15,000 Cincinnati area Teamsters joined the revolt, which this week spread to nearby Middletown. Instead of debating Hoffa, Luken is planning to appear on a television program ending at the time Hoffa's rally is scheduled to begin. Luken said William Kircher, Cincinnati AFL-CIO director, and "several leading citizens of the community" will be on the program with him. Kircher has expressed willingness

U.S., NATO Powers Abstain UN Demands France Confer with Tunisia

United Nations, N. Y., Aug. 26 (AP)—The General Assembly gave a thumbs-down today to a demand that France negotiate withdrawal of her troops from Tunisia. The United States, Britain and other NATO powers abstained when the vote came. France boycotted the debate. With a thumping vote of 66 to 0, the assembly approved the resolution sponsored by 31 Asian-African and Communist Yugoslavia. It called on France to pull back her forces from territory seized during last month's bloody battle around Bizerte Naval Base and to negotiate a timetable for complete troop withdrawal from Tunisia. The United States and Britain had made clear during the week-long debate they would not take part in any implied censure of France at this crucial stage in the settlement. U. S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson said after the vote that his delegation had abstained because it feared that the resolution might retard negotiations between France and Tunisia. Stevenson repeated his pledge that the United States would do all in its power to bring about an amicable solution of the dispute through negotiations. The balloting came in the wake of a threat by Tunisia to use force to drive the French out of the base. The 50th American satellite her troops occupying Bizerte City. The warning, delivered to the assembly by Tunisian Ambassador Mongi Slim, was given added weight by the Soviet Union's earlier pledge to aid Tunisia in her struggle with France. Diplomats believed the landslide vote and Tunisia's warning would not go unheeded by France which had angered the powerful Asian-African group through her assembly boycott and defiance of an earlier call by the Security Council to pull back from Bizerte. Few delegates expected France to take direct cognizance of the assembly action, but many felt the Paris government might act quietly to ease the tension in Tunisia and even make some token withdrawals. President Charles de Gaulle has offered to open bilateral negotiations with Tunisia outside the U.N. He has insisted he will not pull back his troops in Bizerte City unless the Tunisian government guarantees free movement between various parts of France's sprawling Mediterranean Base nearby. The De Gaulle government was bound to be impressed by the vote cast by the eight members of the Brazzaville group of African countries, which maintain ties with France. They originally had tried to get the sponsors to tone down the resolution. Support for the resolution from the five countries of the Scandinavian group, usually neutral in such disputes, also was considered significant.

Crisis in Argentina Quadros Resigns, Leftist Gets Post

Rio de Janeiro, Aug. 26 (AP)—Brazil was plunged into a crisis by the sudden resignation of President Janio Quadros with touring Cumbica Military Airport, 10 miles outside of Sao Paulo. The airport was surrounded by troops and reporters were not allowed to approach. The newspaper Diario da Noite said it had reports it was unable to confirm that Quadros was under arrest. Quadros and his family are staying at the residence of Col. Paris Lima, commander of the airport. The resignation of the unpredictable Quadros yesterday came with such suddenness it stunned the nation and plunged it into confusion over its future. Quitting a week short of seven turbulent months in office, Quadros declared: "I am beaten by forces against me." He blamed forces inside and outside Brazil of fighting him but did not identify them. Pro-Quadros student demonstrations erupted last night in at least three cities. A mob of 200 stone-throwing attackers smashed two windows and a front glass door of the U.S. embassy in the capital of Brasilia before military men drove them off with tear gas and rubber clubs. Other students rioted in the Communist stronghold of Recife, port city of the Atlantic. In Rio de Janeiro troops and police fired shots into the air and threw tear gas bombs to break up student demonstrators. Quadros's resignation automatically dumped the presidency into a vacuum. But there was some speculation that Quadros, a shrewd politician, would return to office.

Tax Bribe Try Brings Arrest Of 3 Lawyers

Washington, Aug. 26—The Justice Department today announced the arrest in Boston of three lawyers on charges of trying to bribe an Internal Revenue official. The idea of the alleged bribe offer, according to the department, was to induce the revenue man not to prosecute one of the lawyers on income tax evasion charges. The three were taken into custody after a 10-week investigation in which the revenue agent, Charles J. McCaffrey, pretended to go along with the alleged $10,000 offer. The trio was identified as Nathaniel Bergman, 53, Hartford, Conn., and Saul Glassman, 45, and Paul Gorin, 49, both of Boston. Glassman was arrested this morning as he left his apartment house in Boston. Gorin and Bergman were taken into custody as they entered an office building at 80 Federal St. where McCaffrey's office is located. Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy gave this sequence of events leading up to the arrest of the three men. McCaffrey, 47, a $12,000 assistant regional counsel of the revenue service in Boston, told his superiors early in June that he had been approached by Glassman. According to McCaffrey, Glassman offered a minimum of $10,000 if McCaffrey would recommend against prosecution of Bergman on income tax evasion charges. Thereafter, McCaffrey, acting with the approval of Mortimer Caplin, Internal Revenue commissioner, met several times with Glassman, Gorin and Bergman. Gorin was attorney of record in Bergman's tax case.

Balloon Hoax Just Explodes In Pilot's Face

New York, Aug. 26 (AP)—An airline copilot arrived at Idlewild Airport from Europe today, embarrassed and chagrined that his practical joke with a boy's balloon had exploded in the boy's—and his—face. Capt. John H. Bash, a 32-year-old pilot for Pan American World Airways, said his act in taking the balloon with him on a trip to London was only "to give the kid a kick." The boy, Jonathan D. Simon, 14, sent the helium-filled balloon up from his home at 31 Cedar Rd., Westbury, L.I., with a finger-please-reply card attached. The card explained that Jonathan was studying weather and air currents. The boy received a reply from London, where, the writer told him, the balloon had landed. Actually the balloon had landed 15 miles from Westbury, near East Islip, at 138 Sherry St., East Islip, where he lives with his wife and 13-year-old daughter, Patricia. Bash, explaining that what he did was "well-meant," took the

U.S. Beer Can Satellite Whirls Around Earth

Washington, Aug. 26 (AP)—A "beer can satellite" whirled around the Earth today on a space dusting mission that may help ensure the safety of astronauts on interplanetary flights. The 127-pound space messenger—the 50th American satellite to be placed in orbit since January 1958—was gunning around the globe once every 98 minutes at altitudes estimated at 275 miles at the closest point and 565 at the farthest. The satellite was hurled aloft yesterday afternoon by a Scout launching rocket in what space agency scientists hailed as a virtually perfect operation, with the achieved orbit being very close to the 280-to-610 mile orbit originally planned. Scientists of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration termed the venture a signal success for the Scout—the world's first known all-solid-fuel booster which is considered a major potential tool in the space race with Russia, though it's limited to relatively moderate payloads. Scientists of the underdeveloped Scout—known as the "Poor Man's Rocket" because of its relatively low cost—had failed in two of three previous attempts to launch a satellite into orbit. But Space Agency scientists told newsmen that, including its latest success yesterday, the overall record of the Scout shows "it has worked essentially properly." And they said the future looks bright for it as an operational vehicle. The job of the orbiting satellite, which began radioing information to the Earth soon after launch, is to make the best study yet of the number and penetrating power of tiny space bullets called "micrometeoroids" which could strike a space vehicle at speeds from 7 to 45 miles a second. Composed of iron and other substances, these cosmic dust particles—possibly the final debris from an exploded planet—are deemed potentially damaging to space vehicles and even a possible lethal threat to astronauts unless proper shielding is provided. What scientists need to know is how dangerous they really might be so that space vehicles can be designed to offset any hazard without unnecessarily over-weighting the spacecraft with shielding. The satellite, launched at 2:29 p.m. EDT yesterday from the Space Agency's Wallops Island, Va., station, is formally named "Explorer XIII" and has the technical name "Micrometeoroid Satellite." Some Space Agency technicians informally dubbed it the "Beer Can Satellite" because of the shape of some of its dust-detecting instruments. The satellite is a cylinder about 2 feet tall and 2 feet in diameter—about the size of a home water heater—wrapped around the

Dam Ceremony Today

Winsted, Aug. 26 (AP)—State and local officials gathered here today for ground-breaking ceremonies marking the official start of work on the $6 million Mad River Dam. A dispatch by the Eastern Connecticut Times said the Soviet Union may have drawn some encouragement from Nehru's recent remarks on the German problem. A Times correspondent in Washington said the United States has been hurt by Nehru's "interpretation of a delicate point in the East-West controversy which conforms with an extreme Soviet stand seldom made by any great conviction." Nehru said a parliament last Tuesday that western routes to Berlin are not a legal right but a concession granted by the Soviets. He said access rights were "diluted" when the joint administration of the city ended after the Berlin blockade. His remarks created consternation in Allied capitals. Both East and West had been angling for his support in the Berlin crisis and the Soviets claimed Nehru agreed with them.

War Over Berlin Doubted Nikita Golfs in Crimea, Macmillan Tells Press

Glenageis, Scotland, Aug. 26 (AP)—Prime Minister Macmillan calmly played a round of golf on the famed King's Course here today and told newsmen on the 18th fairway that he doesn't think there'll be a war over Berlin. The British leader, clad in a tweed jacket, plus fours and a tweed cap, said of the deepening East-West crisis: "I think the way it is going is very worrying—but nothing more." Macmillan held up his golf club and broke up the impromptu news conference by saying with a smile: "Mr. Khrushchev (the Soviet premier) is playing golf in the Crimea. Perhaps that is rather encouraging." The prime minister said there had been no new development of sufficient importance to take him back to London. An American-British-French-West German group of experts are working on the problem in Washington, he said, and everything "is going on fairly smoothly."

Connecticut Yankee

By A. H. O. For two sessions now, we have spent casual moments imagining to ourselves how life might be in one relationship or another with a short, bouncy man named Kennedy.

Another vein of Kennedy administration endeavor in progress while the foreign aid issue was being pressed at Washington, was the administration's go down to the hemisphere conference at Punta Del Este and promise our good neighbors a total of $11 billion in aid over the next 10 years.

This is where a legislative body such as Congress can get irreverently logical. If the Kennedy administration could go down to Latin America and promise an aid program to last for 10 years, why does it consider it so necessary for Congress to pass a law which will give such a 10-year pledge?

We sympathize with the administration in its effort to put more long range sense and purpose into our foreign aid program generally, and its effort to make the Alliance for Progress seem real and tangible and dependable to Latin America.

The hot development of the Berlin crisis apparently gave Chancellor Adenauer a sudden fear that he might lose the election next month, after all. And it apparently gave Mayor Brandt of West Berlin a sudden hope that he might really win it, after all.

As we have previously noted, Chancellor Adenauer immediately reached for the issue of Mayor Brandt's illegitimate birth, which he had previously and plausibly promised not to use.

By our amateurish perceptions, this earth and everything on it, in case, last night, ever the path of another relatively small object of our satellite, the moon.

We had expected, perhaps, that the planet on which we live might cast a larger, more prominent shadow, no large as its line across the face of the moon would hold at most no curve at all. But, if it were not as big and important as our fancy sometimes imagines, he reasoned out and consistent with himself and that it would be the thought and verdict of a free man who was following nature, but his own sometimes interesting conviction.

The House, which had originally thought he might be an affliction, began to tolerate him as if he might conceivably some day develop into a privilege.

There's more — lots more — to be said about this moon, but we'll leave that to the astronomers and the physicists. We'll just say that it's a good woman can be a bore, with no spark of humor or gaiety or romance to make living with her an adventure.

A good woman can be an excellent housewife — but a poor housewife if she thinks her husband as her castle.

A good woman can be overly ambitious for her husband and push him until he becomes resentful.

A good woman can make the mistake of always putting her children first and blaming her husband if he wants to be first himself sometimes.

A good woman can make the mistake of trying to live through her children, neglecting her own needs and wishes until she is nothing but a door mat.

A good woman can be self-righteously intolerant of others, especially when she is thoroughly sold on the idea of her own goodness.

A good woman can fail to keep step with her husband's intellectual growth and take a superior attitude toward his hobbies and outside interests.

So a good woman isn't necessarily a good wife — though too many women think they are one and the same thing.

Rocket Probes Gained Valuable Cosmic Data

The playgrounds supervised by the recreation department have closed for the season. The following children received Physics and Astronomy lessons: Karl, Stephen, Harold, John, William, and Robert.

Prof. Leonid I. Sedov, holder of the coveted title, "Academician," is a member of the Soviet Union's most illustrious scientific society: The Academy of Sciences, and is president of its Interplanetary Commission.

On the other hand, the utilization of atomic energy and development of cosmic resources opens immense perspectives for the development of culture and prosperity.

Cooperation between international organizations has already become a reality. There is a tendency toward a further development of scientific contacts between scientists of various countries.

The cost of space flight is comparatively small. It is estimated that the "unrationally" spending great funds on the arms race for space research, in connection with it should be remembered that every gram of atomic weight is a source of energy.

ANGLING AROUND

Trophy Bass

There are a lot of anglers from Carolina to Seattle, who would like to catch a trophy-sized bass. They can do it if they go where the bass are.

From north to south, east to west, those who bring in the real big ones are those who fish the trophy bass. They are the "junkyard" anglers, the thick-skulled, submerged stumps, logs and brush whippers, the big ones hang out. The problem is how to get the fish out without breaking the line.

Most trophy anglers use a 10-foot tackle on a rod. For this kind of fishing, a stout rod, a good reel and a line of 15-pound test or up are needed.

Without lures, preferably with single hooks, are necessary. Also, waders, boots with black peral, or a long plastic nightgown will entice lunkers from the brush.

Remember: There is no aquatic junkyard to look for bass. Even a small opening 3 inches across will do. A trophy bass will come from your creek crawling across his front porch, look out and hold on!

Heard Along Main Street
And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

San Venuti
Two Manchester College students recently went to New York City for a weekend.
During the Sunday they were there, one of the boys accompanied his friend to a church of denomination not his own.
Upon arriving at church, the youth immediately started asking questions about what was going on. One question he asked was:
"Why are all those rows up in front marked 'Reserved'?"
The other, who did not know himself, made an effort to appear well versed in such things and answered:
"Probably because a new priest will be saying his first Mass here today and the seats are reserved for the family."
Just then a large group of men took the seats and the officiating priest from the altar welcomed to mass the entire Italian delegation from the United Nations.

Traffic Hazard
A Manchester resident was driving in traffic in Hartford.
A police cruiser, with a loud-speaker blaring out a message on pedestrian and driver safety, was nearby.
A very attractive girl in a red coat was jay-walking across the street.
The motorist's eyes caught the red coat and he bumped into the rear of a car in front of him.
A voice boomed out over the loud-speaker of the cruiser:
"Will the girl in the red coat please get off the street, look at what you're causing!"

The board of education Monday night discussed the annual Connecticut Boards of Education (CABE) meeting, scheduled for Sept. 15 and 16.
Superintendent of Schools William H. Curtis said he would need to know soon how many board members were planning to attend, in order that dinner reservations can be arranged early.
The meals will include two luncheons and banquet the closing night he said.
"What, no dance?" smiled one board member.
"No dancing girls either," admonished another.

An Apple a Day
Little League Town Tournament games are pretty tough on the youngsters involved. There's lots of pressure no matter whether you're a winner or loser.
But it can be a little tough on Mom too. At least if you judge from the comments of one of the mothers after a game last week.
"What?" she exclaimed. "Another game tomorrow night? What in the world can we have for a quick supper tomorrow? We just can't feed the kids spaghetti every night in the week!"
No Cigars?
One Manchester family recently welcomed an heir with a banner headline across Page 1 of The Herald.
That was the work of their newsboy, who likes to keep on top of the news.
When the new father opened the door to take his Herald from the newsboy, the lad said, "See the headlines on tonight's paper?"
Printed in red ink above the mast head was:
"IT'S A BOY!!!!"
A Non.

The national census of the United States in 1960 cost more than $100 million; the first U.S. census in 1790 set the government back only $44,000.

CONTRARY TO POLICY
New London Aug. 26 (AP)—J. L. Spector, head of a local advertising firm, has been assured that the White House shares his concern over commercial use of President Kennedy's voice. Spector had objected to a radio commercial for Life Magazine used on CBS stations Aug. 1 through Aug. 4. The commercial included an excerpt of a presidential speech and encouraged the public to follow Life's coverage of the Berlin crisis.

ECONOMY UP
The economy picture in the state and nation has shown marked improvement since the beginning of the year and is now above the recession month of June 1960, the Connecticut Labor Department reports.
Connecticut's manufacturing output index increased for the sixth consecutive month to 128.6 in June from 126.3 in May. Seasonal gains show an increase of 30 points in the Construction Output index to 126.8 in June from 96.8 in May. A year ago the index rose from 220.9 to 237.4.

WARNING
John P. Wiet, executive vice president of the Manchester Chamber of Commerce, warns garage and service station operators in this area against fraudulent itinerant salesmen offering specialty automotive products, who are especially active at this time of year.
Citing a report received from the National Better Business Bureau with which the Chamber is affiliated, Wiet said that "garage and service station operators can usually avoid losses on unsatisfactory franchise or other deals, if they establish and adhere to a firm business policy of not entering into contractual relations with 'unknown' vendors or 'unknown' products, without prior inquiry."

NEW DEVELOPMENT
Linwood Elmore, president of the Manchester Savings Bank and Giannibonary town officials, this week broke ground for a new 37-home development at Highland Woods, about three miles south of the Manchester town line.
The new community "is an architect's dream" said Philip J. DiCorcia, Manchester architect, responsible for the design of Highland Woods. DiCorcia worked with Builder Peter A. Thorne, designing a few basic models to fit in perfectly with each individual lot, its landscaping and special contour, its natural elevation and the excellent ground for planting grass, trees and shrubs.

Lakewood Circle, vice president and director, statistical engineering, Rath and Strong of Boston, will serve on the nine-member faculty Sept. 10-22 at the University of Connecticut's 12th annual Statistical Quality Control Institute to be held at Storrs. Rapid detection of factors responsible for manufacturing bugs is one of a score of specialized techniques to be explored at the Institute, co-sponsored by the American Society for Quality Control and UConn's Business School of Business Administration.

LOVING CARE IS NEEDED when you're driving, too!

There are so many ways to express your love for a child—amuse him, caress him, understand him, protect him from hurt and harm.
Because drivers kill and cripple more children than any disease, a car is potentially one of the most dangerous places your child can ever be. So protect him whenever he is in the car—with a seat belt.
If every car owner in America had seat belts in his car—and used them—we could reduce severe injuries by one-third, deaths by 5,000 a year!

It's terribly important to drive with loving care, always. And to support strict law enforcement in your town, for where laws are strictly enforced, accidents and deaths go down. But can a parent who wants to protect his loved ones and himself possibly overlook the protection afforded by seat belts?

Robert Young Novelist In 'Window' Series

By E. KATLEMAN
Robert Young is a tall, slim, graying man who says without even a trace of facetiousness, "I wanted to retire 30 years ago." No mean feat, considering he is now in his middle forties. And he's still a long way from retirement.

Probably the most famous father image in America, Young starred in television's "Father Knows Best" for six successful years, and in the radio version for five years before that.

Now he is essaying a new role, that of a novelist in CBS-TV's new "Window on Main Street" on Monday nights at 8:30 (premiering Oct. 2).

"And the part is as far from the omniscient father as I am from being an actual novelist," Young grins. "In the new show I'm a widower with an implied romance with a newspaperwoman, played by Constance Moore. I have returned to the town of Millsburg where I was born and brought up to write the stories of the people in the town, from my window on Main Street of the Majestic Hotel. Where there was action with the children on 'Father' and I solved all the problems, in this show there's only one child—the newspaperwoman's 13-year-old son. She is a widow, by the way. And I'm dealing on more of the adult level."

A great student of human nature in real life, Young is fascinated by the formula of "Window on Main Street" as it was evolved by his longtime friend and producer, Eugene B. Rodney, and their chief writer, Roswell Rogers.

"That's the problem of many shows," he points out. "What do you do for added stories, if a show goes for more than two or three years. We faced that problem in the last few years of 'Father'—what to do with the children that hadn't been done before. Now, with 'Window on Main Street,' we have a population of approximately 30,000 in the town of Millsburg. So conceivably there are 30,000 stories into which we could delve, since there is a story in every human being."

Asked if he'd like the series to go for 30,000 episodes, Young merely raised his eyebrows expressively. "Heavens, no! Frankly, I think three or four years is an ideal length for a series. After that, you don't exactly get stale, but you do get—well, perhaps a bit bored. It's like doing a play for a long period of time. There cease to be facets of the character you play that you can explore. You know the person too well. And there's no challenge left."

A product of the theater in his early career, Young knows whereof he speaks. He was a bank teller after graduating from high school when his former drama teacher met him accidentally and insisted he continue the budding acting career he had started in Los Angeles' Lincoln High School.

"I went to the Pasadena Playhouse at her behest, and found that I really did want to be an actor. I'd been such an introverted kid, too tall, too thin, too shy, that I never dreamed I could succeed at acting. But you know, in introspection, I know very few actors that aren't introverts. Most of us are, and we come out only when we walk onstage, or the cameras start to roll."

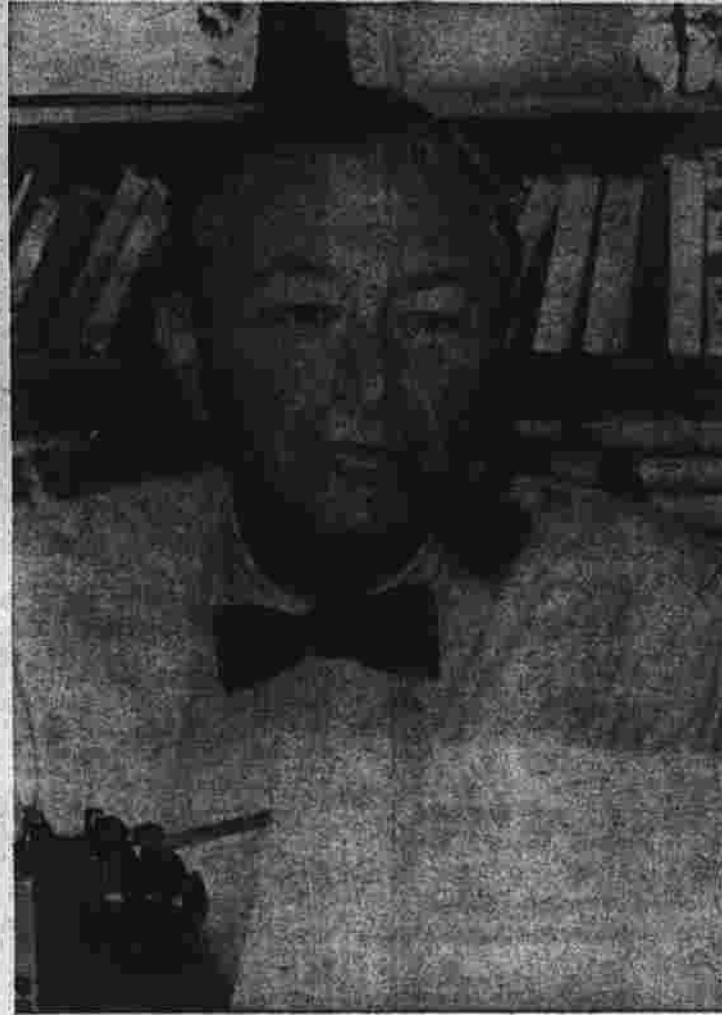

It was as a result of the Pasadena Playhouse plays that Bob was signed to the MGM contract where he remained for many years, married his high school sweetheart, the former Betty Henderson, and they parented four daughters, now aged 27, 24, 18 and 16.

Young appraises his MGM tenure quite dispassionately these days.

"I wasn't a big star, in the sense that Clark Gable was. I was sort of the second-string echelon. And people constantly confused Robert Montgomery and me. We were both under contract at the same time. And there was that funny story, when we were seated at the MGM commissary, and I said to Montgomery, 'I wish you wouldn't turn down so many scripts. I'm tired of having them offered to me.' And when the laugh died down, another voice at the opposite end of the table spoke up. 'Well, how do you think I feel, getting the scripts Montgomery and Young have already refused.' It was Lew Ayres!

And that's the way it was in those days. Sort of stock companies, and we turned out movies at a fairly rapid rate. But nothing compared to the pace of television," Young says.

His current schedule for "Window on Main Street" has one day's rehearsal under director Richard Dunlap and four days' shooting. The show is filmed mostly on stages at DeLuca Gower Studios, where art director Phil Bennett has created Millsburg, its hotel, its theatre, and of course, the Millsburg Courier, where Constance Moore works for its editor Lloyd Ramsey played by Ford Rainey.

It's quite a career switch for Constance, who has been concentrating mostly on her supper club singing career for the past few years, rather than movies or TV.

"I just got tired traveling," she says simply. "I heard about this role; my agents set up an appointment for me to see Eugene Rodney, and it was as simple as that. Before I signed for this series, I was on the road most of the year—two months in New York, one in Las Vegas, to Europe and South America fairly regularly. Everywhere. Now I just drive home to Beverly Hills every night, and I'm letting the suitcase gather dust. I much prefer it that way."

In addition to getting to stay home, Constance is enchanted with her role of the widowed "handymah" of the Millsburg Courier.

"It's funny, and hard to explain. But I know this woman. Really know her, and her reactions. And I never worked on a newspaper in my life, but it goes deeper than her occupation. She's the mother of a young son; so am I. She has natural warmth and curiosity towards people, and I think I do too. It sounds saccharine to say it, but I really love the world. And it's so exciting to wake up each morning knowing I'm doing the work I love, with people who are just as dedicated as I am."

The dedicated people to whom Constance refers are her fellow-actors, and the crew of "Window on Main Street." Producer Rodney gathered together no less than ten people who had been associated with him and Bob Young on "Father Knows Best," among them, cameramen, stand-ins, wardrobe man and woman, propman, script girl etc.

"It really felt like old home week," Bob says, in recalling the first day's rehearsals. "You know, I was off work 14 months, 27 days and I forget exactly how many minutes. But when I walked onto stage 14 here, and saw all the old friends, I just turned to them and said, 'Good morning, everyone. Did you all enjoy your two weeks' vacation?' And that's how it felt!"

Show Debuts With Program On Astronaut

America's astronaut program will be the principal subject of the premiere program of "1, 2, 3—Go!"—new educational entertainment series for children—Sunday, Oct. 8 on the NBC-TV Network (6:30 to 7 p.m. NYT).

The pre-flight training and the actual missions of the astronauts, the new heroes of the new generation, will be seen through the eyes of a 10-year-old boy as Richard Thomas, youthful star of the series, visits the Space Task Group Headquarters of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration at Langley Air Force Base, Va., and the missile-launching site at Cape Canaveral.

Richard will be "launched" on his adventures by Jack Lescaulte, who co-stars in the role of his adult friend and companion.

Lt. Col. John A. Powers, public affairs officer for NASA Space Task Group, will be Richard's guide, explaining to the boy the equipment and procedures used in preparing an astronaut for his space flight.

Wearing a reduced-size copy of a space suit, complete with a helmet containing two microphones and an air hose, Richard will be given a spin in an Alpha Trainer. Afterwards, his reactions will be checked by an Air Force physician.

The boy will operate the controls of a capsule trainer—an exact replica of a space capsule. A NASA instructor will show him which buttons to press to cope with various emergency situations. Richard also will inspect the wind tunnel used in the development of missiles and aircraft.

At Cape Canaveral, Richard will ride in the NASA van to a launching pad and up the elevator in the gantry of a missile. He will visit the tracking and control center where the duties and responsibilities of the men in this important operation will be described to him.

A Public Affairs presentation of NBC News' "1, 2, 3—Go!" will be produced by Jack Kuney under supervision of Irving Gitlin, executive producer. Leonard Safir will be associate producer.

'Thriller' Changes To Monday Nights

"Thriller," full-hour weekly mystery-suspense anthology with Boris Karloff as host and occasional star, will start its second season on the NBC-TV Network Monday, Sept. 18 (10-11 p.m. EDT). (The first season's series was scheduled Tuesday.)

"Thriller" again will present stories which accent on the occult, the supernatural and the bizarre.

Hubbell Robinson Productions Inc. is packaging the series which will be guided by three veterans of the past season—producer William Fyfe and directors Herschel Daugherty and Ida Lupino. Each week's drama will present a different stellar cast. Stories range from original scripts to adaptations of mystery novels, short stories and classics. Stories represented by Donald D. Sanford, Cornell Woolrich, Charles Bennett, Sheridan Gibney, Robert Bloch and Edgar Allan Poe, among others.

Purex Repeating Dramatic Story Of Photographer
 "The Margaret Bourke-White Story" with Teresa Wright in the title role, will be repeated as "Purex Special" Tuesday, Sept. 5 (NBC-TV Network color broadcast, 10-11 p.m. EDT) in a dramatic story of the Life photographer's fight against Parkinson's disease. The story was presented on "Sunday Showcase" Jan. 3, 1959, and was repeated on June 13, 1960. It co-stars Bill Wallace in the role of Alfred Eisenstaedt. (Color)

Her career seemingly cut short in 1962, when she incurred Parkinson's disease, an illness which left her limbs stiff and her vision blurred, Miss Bourke-White received alleviation for her condition when she underwent a delicate operation in 1968.

A member of Life magazine's original photography staff, Miss Bourke-White shot the magazine's first cover and later ranged the world on a wide variety of assignments.

(Robert Alan Aurthur was the executive producer of "The Margaret Bourke-White Story" and Alex March served as producer-director.)

LEADS MANY LIVES

He's been a comedian's straightman, interviewer, narrator, news anchor, announcer and TV host. He recently made a record album of folk songs and will soon publish his first book, an autobiography.

Hollywood on TV

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

Newspaper Enterprise Association Hollywood—(NEA) — The Russians are being blamed for almost everything these days but they had nothing to do with movie and TV Yankee Doodle glamour going into limbo.

For that, says a Hollywood model agency and charm school boss, blame Madison Avenue and television, "now wielding the influence the movies once had. "I'm not in favor of the earthy, no make-up types," says Mary Webb Davis, "but what can I do? Madison Avenue says, 'Give us girls with that wonderful girl-next-door midwestern look.' "My answer to the Madison Avenue boys is, 'What do you know about the Midwest? All you do is fly over it. The Midwest is full of chic and stunning girls.' If you ask me, New York, Chicago and Hollywood have become Hickville and Hickville has become Glamourville."

The Madison Avenue influence in TV advertising and TV shows is the reason, Mary contends, that all the screen glamour girls these days are foreign imports. She says: "Ravishingly beautiful American girls no longer seek careers in movies or TV via modeling. They are too sexy for TV commercials designed for young housewife empathy. The whole idea in TV today is the American girl-next-door and family togetherness.

"I'm happy to see the home magazines are now working on anti-togetherness. Maybe it's about time for the young housewife to say, 'I want to be alone so she won't have to look at the TV screen's parade of other young housewives trying to sell her something.' "Except for this "midwestern look" influence, Mary says there's little else different about professional models these days. "The walk is the same and maybe they are a little taller. There was an attempt to unionize models but as I told the union organizer: "It just can't be done. If the wage scale is too high for an important assignment, a model would rather pose for nothing. It's that old ego."

As the head of the charm school affiliated with her model agency, Miss Davis admitted, "I'm practically a psychologist."

She said: "When a girl or a woman comes in for classes, my first question is, 'Why are you here?' I'm honest to the point of bluntness. I know it is a negative world and that inferiority complexes and other psychological problems are behind the desire to go to the charm school. "I'm happy to say my honesty seems to work magic. One woman, in her late 30s, admitted she came to my school because she was having trouble holding on to her husband. She was drab, unattractive and with a terrible inferiority complex. I was happy to hear her tell me, after taking our full course: "Miss Davis, I want to thank you. I won back my husband—and his best friend even made a pass at me last night."

Q: What is Ed Sullivan doing this summer while re-runs of his show are being aired? Ellen R. A: Ed is spending the summer on an around-the-world talent search. He hopes to find new performers for his fall programs in Tokyo, Hong Kong, Munich, Rome, Paris and London. Q: If Ben and Jeff Canfield (in "The Americans") are born from the same parents, how come Jeff happens to have a southern accent and Ben doesn't?—M.M., Baltimore, Md. A:—We would guess that, since Ben is fighting with the Northern army, he got rid of his Southern accent in a hurry to avoid being shot as a spy. Q: Would it be possible for you to give me the address of Sir Winston Churchill? The program taken from his memoirs, "The Valiant Years," is the best I have seen in a long time.—G. G., Arlington, Tenn. A: We're delighted to print the address of the statesman; you can write him at 28 Hyde Park Gate, London, England. Incidentally, "The Valiant Years" will be shown again later this year, in case you missed any of the episodes.

'Ichabod and Me' Debuts Sept. 26

Dapper Robert Sterling didn't just get a role when he accepted the lead in the new CBS-TV comedy series "Ichabod and Me." He also got a body. Sterling, you see, has been one of Hollywood's most "transparent" actors for quite some time. Along with lovely wife Ann Jeffreys, he played the part of a charming ghost on the "Topper" series. "But on Ichabod and Me," laughs Sterling, "there aren't any ghosts. Some of the townspeople would scare them away." Bob's referring, of course, to some of the quaint characters who inhabit the New England town of Phippsboro — the setting for the new series. "Ichabod and Me" premieres Tuesday, Sept. 26, on CBS-TV (9-9:30 p.m. EDT).
