Scouts May Help Distribute Books

More intensive distribution of the government's new 48-page booklet on civil defense procedures may be entrusted to Manchester Scouts in the Civil Defense Director John D. Merz said today.

Merz noted there were "quite a few thousands of the new booklets" at the post office and civil defense headquarters in the Municipal Building, and that as soon as the weather permitted, he would approach scouting organizations for their assistance.

Town residents previously could obtain booklets through the mails from civil defense headquarters or by appearing in person at headquarters or at the post office. Civil defense headquarters are open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Monday, Wednesday and Friday.

On Saturday, about 700 scouts are expected to join with CD workers to distribute about 20,000 of the booklets in Hartford.

Merz also reported the local civil defense organization was looking for owners of cars with "citizens band" radios to volunteer use of the radios if needed.

About 60 Manchester residents have a radio of this type which could be put to good use by the civil defense effort, Merz said.

Manchester's latest business and professional office building takes shape at 351 E. Russell Miller of Manchester is the builder and Edmund Van Dyke Cox of Gloucester is the architect. The building will be ready for occupancy about April 1. (Herald photo by Ofarr).

Rocker in Comeback An article in the February edition of the New Englander, published by the New England Council, for economic development, reviews the nostalgic uses of wood in New England's wood industry, dating back to the colonial days.

Especially in the craft of wood turning and shaping in making bowls, plates, skimmers, ladies' clothes pins, and furniture pieces for rocking chairs.

The article notes that "some 90 per cent of our citizens live in wooden houses" because of wood's durability and dependability.

In 1929, the Wood Turners and Shapers Association, formerly known as the Woods Turners Service Bureau, was established in Boston, to predicate rules and standards of quality manufacture for the protection of the woods parts buyers. The association is now a clearing house for inquiries pertaining to wood turnings and shaped parts—and the vast majority of the association members are to be found in New England.

Even in these days of synthetics, the interest in wood today has reached a zenith, the article says, and woodcraft services of an old New England craft have become a mainstay of the modern world.

The rocking chair has become a household word again, especially since an ailing back in the White House reminded Americans of "rocking chair comfort."

The head of a Manchester furniture store said the President's interest in rocking chairs has stimulated the rocker business in that piece of furniture.

"It reminds many of us of the use of the old fashion porch rocker and one of its primary uses at hotel resorts in Maine and throughout New England, as well as at Saratoga Springs, N.Y., where rockers have been a porch fad for years," he said.

At one time, a Manchester furniture outlet had 51 different styles of rockers in stock, but the big seller here has always been the Boston rocker.

NEW BROKER'S Two Manchester women have received broker's licenses for selling real estate. It was reported this week.

Library Work In Fifth Week

The closing period at Mary Cheney Library while work is finished on the $380,000 addition has been doubled.

The library is in its fifth week of a shutdown which head librarian Miss Anna French said this morning will probably last another three weeks. Four weeks was the previous estimate of the maximum length of time the library would be closed.

Miss French said most of the work by the Annulli Construction Co., contractor for the project, is nearly done, but painting, floor work, installation of electric light fixtures and woodwork remains unfinished.

While workmen have been doing construction work, the library's nine full-time employees and several part-time workers have been revising shelves, sorting and cataloging new books, mending and remounting the children's picture file, separating pamphlets from pictures for a new picture file, and checking lists and indices of books.

Miss French said she has been ordering records for a new record collection at Mary Cheney Library. The Whitton Library's record collection will remain at Whitton, and the Mary Cheney collection will be built up gradually from new records, she said.

She reminds townspeople that books may be kept without charge until the library opens, despite the due date stamped on the volumes when they were charged out. After the reopening, a two-week grace period, during which no fines will be charged, will be observed to allow the library sufficient time to handle the 24,000 books which will be returned.

A 16-minute black-and-white sound film, said to be able to boost a viewer's reading speed in one showing, was released Wednesday by the McGraw-Hill Publishing Co. at New York. It is intended to help persons who want to increase their reading speed and comprehension.

Hearing Date Set On Sewer Funds

A public hearing on a proposed $40,000 appropriation for the construction of water main extension and sewer lines will be held in the hearing room of the Municipal Building on Friday, Feb. 23, at 8 p.m.

The appropriation is for the extension of water mains in Spring St., Wylva St., and Glen Rd., and is to be financed from the water department's capital improvement reserve fund.

Heard Along Main Street And on Some of Manchester's Side Streets, Too

Tinted Investigation During the storm a week ago a young woman of our acquaintance skidded on a hill in Rockville, clomped two parked cars and careened into the path of an oncoming car which, thank goodness, stopped her.

In the investigation that followed the officer asked her to describe the color of her car. "Eggshell and navy," she said. "Oh, for heavens' sake," he sighed, reaching for the register card to file out that the car was tan and blue.

His Credit Is Good A secretary in a nearby office discovered when she arrived at work that she had left her pocket-book at home, which, as everyone knows, is a disastrous situation.

She asked her boss if he would lend her lunch money, and he reached into his suit pocket and gave her 35 cents. "That was enough for a hot dog for lunch."

Later that afternoon, her boss remarked that he had had to charge his lunch. "He had left his wallet at home."

Be My (Slim) Valentine! A beautifully decorated valentine package was received by a young woman Wednesday. She was pleased and excited as she read the attached card and removed the gay wrappings.

Her joy was shortlived as she viewed the contents—three boxes of dietetic candy!

Together There must be something about stormy days that tends to give a feeling of unity to an office staff which has to report to work and might as well make the most of a dreary, snowy day.

One day this week, a young office girl made this parting remark as she left for the afternoon: "It's been a wonderful day. I can't thank you all enough."

Chrome Is No Excuse A young professional man had reached the rung on the ladder of success which permitted him the purchase of a large, new convertible, with hundreds of horsepower, shoulder-high fins, three different colors, several head lamps, and accessories to the accessories. The first day after delivery the deliciously proud owner docked it conspicuously in front of the institution wherein he is employed, so that he could point it out with pride to his colleagues.

He did just that—with pride—in time to see it towed away for being illegally parked.

Heavy Overcast Wednesday night's weather forecast said "Partly cloudy... Thursday generally fair... Early Thursday morning, after it had snowed for about 18 hours, the editor of The Herald had a telephone call.

"I just wanted you to know," said the voice at the other end of the wire, "that I shoveled eight inches of that partly cloudy forecast before I could get to work this morning."

Case in Point A reporter who handed in a story with a long and inverted first paragraph yesterday found this note on his typewriter: "Frequent use of long leads which begin with an involved predicate and end with an involved subject, leaving the principal verb right in the middle is to be discouraged, have concluded the City Editor and the Asst. City Editor and other lovers of the English language."

'Leave It to Beaver' In Its Fifth Year

The islands of Hawaii provide the romantic and exciting background for a number of television programs and this would lead one to think that these shows would be extremely popular with the residents of the tropical paradise in the Pacific.

The shows are popular . . . but . . .

The most popular television program in Hawaii has nothing to do with the islands or detectives or writers. The show is "Leave It To Beaver," now in its fifth year on ABC-TV. The Saturday night series deals with the ups and downs of a freckled-faced 13-year-old boy, "Beaver Cleaver," played by a freckled-faced 13-year-old named Jerry Mathers.

Joseph Connelly and Bob Mosher, the producing-writing team who are responsible for the show, cannot explain its immense popularity in the 50th state.

"I guess you have to sum it up by saying that kids are kids whether it's in Honolulu or New York or Jackson, Mississippi," said Mosher. "The funny thing about kids is that they can associate themselves with kids of other countries without any trouble."

Connelly checked in with the statement that he felt "Beaver" was the kind of youngster the people watching the show admired.

"For instance," he added, "kids like 'Beaver' because he has a capacity for getting in and out of trouble. Normal trouble, that is, never anything serious. Parents find him an interesting youngster and he is their idea, perhaps, of the typical American kid in his early teens."

"Beaver"—Jerry Mathers—probably hit the reason for the show's popularity in Hawaii right on the nose with his description of his recent visit to the islands.

"I met a lot of kids my age and we talked about cars and stuff," he said. Jerry's "lots of kids" was estimated at nearly 50,000 youngsters and their parents.

"I told them what movie stars I liked and they told me theirs. Most of the kids who turned out to see us were of different races than mine, but I didn't have any trouble talking with them. They were just like regular fellows in my gang."

That probably sums up the reason for the show's continued popularity over the years: You could drop "Beaver" into any home, anywhere, and he would be right at home.

The "Beaver" show is a family comedy with serious overtones. "We don't sugar coat life," explains Bob Mosher. "We don't try to give an unreal impression of American life as we think it should be. We work very hard to play it straight—as we know life is."

Young Jerry Mathers is joined on the show by 16-year-old Tony Dow who plays his brother, "Wally," and by blonde Barbara Billingsley, as his mother, and tall, greying Hugh Beaumont as his father.

The show is carried on the network on Saturday night—a night not particularly considered a good night for television viewing—but its popularity has never lagged since it went on the air with the same cast members it has now in 1958. Saturday night to millions of youngsters—and adults—is "Beaver night."

"I've got seven kids," Connelly explains, "and Bob has two. There alone is a wealth of material. Then there's the real life adventures of Jerry and Tony. Another lead of good story incidents."

"And," adds Mosher, "Hugh Beaumont has three children and Barbara Billingsley has two. So you see plot-wise we are loaded. Somebody is always telling us what their kids did and we just kick the idea around and turn up with a script."

The extent of realism in a "Beaver" segment is shown in some of the recent subjects that shows have been written about. "It's no Andy Hardy existence," Mosher states. "We've covered such things as alcoholism, divorce, cheating, swearing and stealing. Let's face it. These things happen in life and kids are confronted with them."

As the central figure in the series, Jerry Mathers is as natural in real life as on the 21-inch screen. He lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Norman Mathers, and a brother and sister in a comfortable home in Tarzana, Calif.

He was a model for infants' wear when he was only 16 months

Hollywood on TV

By ERSKINE JOHNSON
Hollywood Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Hollywood—(NEA)—The letters of protest poured in as if Robert Young had beaten Bessie over the head with a crowbar—and the write-in vote is returning Rod Taylor to TV screens.
As the star of the "Hong Kong" series, Taylor could have answered all the protests with a Chinese fortune cookie note reading:
"Patience. Must first escape madhouse camouflaged as movie studio."
The letters—11,000 of them—were from fans, mostly feminine, walling about the demise of the TV show on which handsome bachelor Taylor was clicking with the ladies like James Garner had done in his "Maverick" debut.
What was going on behind the scenes at the studio was like a madhouse. But first let us advise you that Taylor is returning to home screens in the fall. Yes, in the same role of the foreign correspondent with that wonderful sense of humor.
He will even have the same character name. But the show will not be "Hong Kong." This time it will be called, "Dateline: San Francisco."
It will be a good example of just how crazy television can get what with Taylor saying to his new San Francisco buddies:
"I've just been transferred from Hong Kong to San Francisco."
"Politics" is Taylor's diplomatic explanation for the sudden canceling of the show after only 26 weeks.
But "madness" is more appropriate.
A big talent agency, which sold the show to the network, had a falling out with the TV bosses of the 20th Century-Fox Studio, where it was financed and filmed. To continue the "Hong Kong" series, the studio would be required to make $14,000 weekly commission payments to the talent agency. The big studio was so mad at the big talent agency that the show was scrapped in its 26th week.
The sponsor, of course, was howling mad. "Don't worry," said the studio, "we will film a new show starring Rod Taylor." So the new show, "Follow the Sun," was filmed, but without Mr. Taylor who had ideas of his own. While all the bickering was going on, Taylor went to Italy to star in a movie for MGM.
In reply to public clamor, the 26 "Hong Kong" shows are on the third rerun and filming starts next month on "Dateline: San Francisco." The new show is slated to start in September, perhaps sooner. And in agreeing to move his office from Hong Kong to San Francisco, Taylor won a contract for three big screen 20th Century-Fox movies as a bonus.
The movie Taylor made in Italy is a swashbuckler, "Sir Francis Drake," in the Errol Flynn tradition. As Drake, he also gets to San Francisco but that was long before there was a Top of the Mark.
The film also brought him romance. While on location in the Bay of Naples, he met Anita Ekberg—she saw him in her binoculars from aboard a passing yacht—and they have been dating ever since. She even flew from Rome to Hollywood to help him celebrate the recent holidays.
About dining out in Rome with blonde Anita, a favorite target of Italian photographers, Taylor grins:
"One night 12 photographers trapped us in a little cafe so we did a 'Hong Kong' out a rear window. But they spotted our car and chased us until we lost 'em by parking in an alley with the lights off. By the time we returned to Anita's villa, they were all out in front waiting for us. It was just like 'La Dolce Vita'—with 'Hong Kong' overtones."
If things ever slow down in the acting line for Edgar Buchanan, he can always fall back—figuratively speaking—on his dentist's drill. The veteran character actor holds a degree in dentistry and practiced for a time before starting his stage career.
Stronger than rumor is the report around TV circles that "Te Tell the Truth," the Monday night game show on CBS-TV, is being prepped to do additional duty as a daytime series. The producers are now trying to figure out the costs before going ahead with the plan.

old and was featured on television shows with Ed Wynn and Spike Jones later. He was selected to play "Beaver" out of 500 applicants who turned up at the casting office for the role.
Jerry receives about 1,000 letters a week from boys his own age who want to discuss their problems with him or from adults complimenting him on his acting or for something he has done in the show which pleased them.
Tony Dow, a natural athlete, gets as many letters as Jerry, but a large percentage of them come from teenage girls who have crushes on him.
Jerry and Tony get along well together on the set and are good friends in real life, despite the age differences. Jerry's "real pals," however, are youngsters his own age who are members of his "gang" on the show. Tony is quiet, soft-spoken and shy; Jerry is noisy, outspoken and far from timid.
Jerry's main ambition in life is to own a hot rod—one he assembles himself. "I'm either going to be a hot car driver when I get older for a football player," Jerry says. "Maybe I'll be both."
As "Beaver's" father on the show, Hugh Beaumont finds he has "a pretty easy acting chore."
"It's just like I was bringing up my own three youngsters," Hugh admits. "Beaver and Wally have the same problems they have or had. Sometimes I don't even think I need a script. It all sounds so familiar."
Barbara Billingsley nods in full agreement. "I get confused at times at home and call one of my boys 'Beaver,'" she says. "Half the time I can't tell the difference between what goes on in the show and what's happening at home. It's priceless."
"I wouldn't be surprised to see Jerry still playing 'Beaver' with a beard down to his knees," Mosher grinned.

Secret Parleys End France Nears Truce With Algeria Rebels

PARIS (AP)—The French said today secret talks with the Algerian nationalist rebels have ended, raising optimism in Paris and at rebel headquarters in Tunisia that a cease-fire may be near.

A rebel leader arriving in Tunisia from the talks instead negotiations still are going on and declined to elaborate. But it later was announced that the rebel parliament will meet in Tripoli Wednesday. The French Cabinet meets the same day.

This brought the optimism in Tunisia where it was pointed out that any decision as important as an agreement to end the long rebellion would have to be submitted to the rebel parliament for approval. Should parliament raise objections, more talks with the French may be necessary, a dispatch from Tunisia said.

A French announcement said the conclusions will be brought before the government. The three-man negotiating team arrived in Paris from the talks and met at once with President Charles de Gaulle.

Arriving at his headquarters in Tunisia from the talks with the French, rebel Foreign Minister Saad Dahlab told reporters: "Negotiations are going on in very good conditions."

Dahlab declined to elaborate. While his statement did not appear to rule out the possibility of a cease-fire soon, it indicated further contacts with the French are necessary before final agreement can be announced.

The full rebel government is expected to meet soon to discuss the secret talks. It also was thought likely the rebels would call a meeting of their parliament, the National Council of the Algerian Revolution, which must have a say on any peace accord.

Buller, diplomatic quarters in Paris expressed belief the wording of the French announcement indicated an agreement had been reached for ending the nearly 7½-year-old rebellion.

With a feeling of optimism prevailing in Paris, the price of gold fell off slightly. Frenchman usually sell gold when the political outlook takes a favorable turn.

Louis Joxe, French minister for Algerian affairs and chief negotiator, arrived in Paris to make his report to De Gaulle. Joxe was accompanied by Premier Michel Debre, and his two fellow negotiators, Sahara Minister Jean de Broglie and Public Works Minister Robert Buron, on his visit to the president.

A French spokesman confirmed for the first time what was generally known all along, that the secret talks had taken place Feb. 11-18. He said they were held on French soil. It was believed the two sides met near the Swiss border.

Joxe and two other French ministers met with rebel Vice Premier Belkacem Krim, Foreign Minister Saad Dahlab and two other Algerian rebel officials.

The Algerians had left their Tunisia headquarters Feb. 10 to meet the French at a secret location.

Throughout the week optimism reigned both in Paris and Tunis over progress of the talks. But over the weekend there was a note of pessimism with reports from Tunisia that difficulties had cropped up.

In Air Space, Reds Want Allied Planes Fly Corridor to Berlin

BERLIN (AP)—Allied aircraft flew through the north corridor from Berlin today to counter renewed Soviet pressure on the vital air lanes, informed sources said.

Military and commercial transports thrummed through the Berlin-Hamburg corridor over Communist East German territory, the informants said.

The Western operation was designed to assert Allied rights in face of the renewal of harassing tactics by the Red air force.

Western commanders gave orders to harass the Western air force liberally below the level the Soviets want for their exclusive use for a three-hour period.

For the seventh time since it started harassing Western airliners to Berlin on Feb. 7, the Soviet air force told the Berlin Air Safety Center Sunday night it was reserving air space up to 7,500 feet in the north corridor leading to Berlin from Hamburg.

Allied control officers rejected the Soviet flight plan and ordered military transports to stand by.

The Soviet move came after a weekend pause in the Berlin air crisis. Sunday morning, Moscow announced it had rejected a three-point proposal that maneuvering of the Red air force in the corridors were dangerous and illegal.

The Allies insist that air safety rules, in force for 17 years, require notification of each individual flight through the three 20-mile wide corridors linking Berlin with Frankfurt, Hannover and Hamburg.

The Western powers charged the Russians were trying to change the rules by making "block bookings" for the Red air force. The Allies do not dispute Soviet contentions the Red air force has equal rights in the corridors but they insist on carrying out the safety rules.

The Allies complained to the Kremlin that Soviet jet fighters bombed Western aircraft in the corridors last week.

Glenn Relaxed, Ready to Try Orbit Tuesday

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A brightening weather picture buoyed hopes today that astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., will be launched toward a round-the-earth orbit Tuesday after months of delays.

At a morning briefing, Project Mercury officials reported "generally improved conditions" in the Atlantic recovery areas where Marine Lt. Col. Glenn's capsule would descend.

The first half of a split two-day countdown was started at 2:30 a.m. The precount was finished at 8 a.m. with both the Atlas booster rocket and Friendship 7 spacecraft described as in "go" condition.

Officials were shooting for a launch between 7:30 a.m. and 12:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The weather outlook in the Cape Canaveral vicinity gave officials some concern. A cold front preceded by a squall line was advancing into northern Florida this morning. This could leave lingering cloudiness in the cape area, possibly delaying the shot for the 15th time.

However, officials were hopeful holes could be found in the clouds through which the rocket could be fired.

A complete check of the weather was due for about midnight tonight, after which officials were to make a preliminary decision.

Labor Leaders End Strike in British Guiana

GEORGETOWN, British Guiana (AP)—An uncertain peace settled on this tropical capital today after a siege of rioting, looting and burning. Labor leaders called off their general strike against leftist Prime Minister Cheddi Jagan, but his East Indian followers were reported plotting reprisals in the hinterlands.

British armed forces, hurriedly flown from Jamaica and London on appeal from Jagan, were braced for trouble, although fire-blackened Georgetown was quiet.

British officials said Sunday night more troops were due in today to reinforce those that arrived Friday and Saturday.

The situation remained tense until it could be determined whether workers would obey their union leaders' call to return to their jobs.

SNET Will Not Appeal

NEW HAVEN (AP)—Southern New England Telephone Co. will not appeal the refusal of the State Public Utilities Commission to approve rate increases averaging 7.5 per cent.

The company announced yesterday in a statement it did not think much would be achieved by such an action. It added that it could not agree with some of the PUC's regulatory concepts in the board's Feb. 15 decision on the rate request.

SNETCO had asked for additional annual revenue of $11.8 million in the proposed increases.

However, this was turned down by the commission which said the level of earnings requested by the company is substantially in excess of that which is required.

In its statement SNETCO said it would follow through on the PUC's decision and file amendments to its schedules of rates and charges to:

- Discontinue offering four-party service to new subscribers in exchange for the number of party subscribers is less than three per cent.
- Make a monthly charge for semi-public coin telephones instead of the present daily guarantee plan.
- Reclassify exchanges into 10 groups and advance Bridgeport to group 8 and Thompstonville and Westport to group 9.
- Extend certain base rates.

Asks U.S. Send Weapons Cuban Exiles Form Army in Guatemala

GUATEMALA (AP)—A group of Cuban exiles here are organizing an army to seek the overthrow of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in Cuba. The organization, however, is still on paper and says it cannot mobilize unless it gets U.S. weapons.

The best available information is that no Cuban exiles are being trained under arms at this time. Both Guatemala and U.S. officials deny there is any activity. Guatemala was one of the first to support the abortive invasion of Cuba last April.

The new organization is called the Army of Liberation of Cuba. Its chief is a former commander of the Cuban army, Gen. Jose E. Pedraza y Cabrera, 55.

In an interview, General Pedraza would say only that "we are not now training any soldiers."

A civilian spokesman for the group, asking that he not be identified, said the organization has "all the men we need" for an attack on Cuba.

These Cuban exiles are now scattered throughout the continent waiting for the signal to units and train as an invasion army, he said.

The army cannot be mobilized, however, without weapons from the United States, the spokesman said.

As far as can be learned, the organization's efforts to approach the United States government for backing with arms have not yet met with any success.

The spokesman said that although Gen. Pedraza is commander in all military aspects, the organization is controlled by a directorate of about 30 men. He described them as businessmen, professionals, farmers, laborers, industrialists and bankers.

Spokesmen for some other Cuban exile groups believe, however, that only followers of ex-President Fulgencio Batista would join Pedraza. They claim Pedraza is known as a Batista supporter and for his tough-handed methods when he headed the national police before becoming commander of the army under Batista.

The spokesman for Pedraza denied reports the general had been a Batista supporter. He said that after Pedraza became chief of staff of the Cuban army in 1939,

'Lost' Woman Balks at Toll, Accepts Jail

HARTFORD (AP)—A Hartford woman spent the night in jail rather than pay a 25-cent toll at the Charter Oak Bridge.

It was a matter of principle, Mrs. Edith White, 65, of C-47 Overlook Ter., accompanied by her two children, said she refused to pay the toll Sunday afternoon.

Her intention was to use the toll-free Bulkeley Bridge but Mrs. White lost her way among the detours bordering the Connecticut River, in the area where the highway construction work is progressing.

That's how Mrs. White turned up at the Charter Oak Bridge toll station and why she felt it was unjust to pay a toll. Argument failed to sway her. Troop H, Hartford, of the State Police was finally notified.

Trooper Joseph Krajewski arrested Mrs. White on a charge of evasion of toll. He told her the bond would be only $5 for her appearance in court but Mrs. White refused to put this up also. Off she went to the Hartford State Jail with her two dog night.

The dogs were taken to Mrs. White's home later and this morning Mrs. White was taken to Circuit Court H, East Hartford, to face the consequences of her standing on principle.

Plage were at half-staff as the area went mourning for victims of Friday's wide-whipped floods that wreaked damage running into hundreds of millions of dollars.

Officials said it would take several days to get a complete casualty list of the toll taken by the slowly receding waters which left the area looking like a battlefield.

Nina Khrushchev Bids World Disarm

NEW YORK (AP)—Speaking English that came through clearly, Nina Khrushchev appealed in a special broadcast to American women for international understanding and complete disarmament.

The Soviet premier's wife, whose words were easily understandable despite her accent, called on Americans Sunday night to lay down their arms and be friends with the Soviet Union.

"War must not be allowed to break out," she said in her 10-minute broadcast heard by Moscow radio at 2:30 a.m. Monday, Moscow time. "This can be done through general disarmament under strict international control."

Mrs. Khrushchev said she was replying to American women who had written expressing their concern about the danger of war, especially a nuclear conflict.

Will Bobby Become Brother's Adviser?

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Ally Gen. Robert Kennedy's world tour has revived speculation that sometime later the President's brother may move to the White House to expand his operations as presidential adviser.

Although those accompanying the attorney general have tried to make it clear he isn't armed with specific diplomatic powers, Kennedy has not hesitated to wade directly into ticklish international waters.

Kennedy's blunt weekend declaration to Indonesians that they would be crazy to think the United States will drop its neutral attitude and oppose the Dutch in Indonesia's claim to West New Guinea apparently illustrated the confidence he has that he reflects accurately the President's views.

Republicans already have begun to depict Kennedy's trip as a kind of training mission for him to become what a few of them call a super secretary of state. Others have hinted that the younger Kennedy already is beginning to prepare himself to bid for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1968.

While they can only guess about any such developments, the Republicans have shown that they are assaying line-by-line everything the attorney general says.

They obviously are searching for some major booby that goes beyond the attorney general's statement in Jakarta that the 1846-48 war with Mexico was unjustified and not a very bright page in American history.

Offers Plan To Prevent Recession

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy today sent to Congress legislation to give him power to trigger up to $2 billion of public works projects in the early stage of any business slump.

In an accompanying letter Kennedy said the standby authority would be "an invaluable anti-recession tool."

It would permit a speedup of authorized federal projects and provide grant and loan funds for the states to activate their own high-priority improvements, Kennedy said without the necessity of waiting for congressional action which "may be too late."

The standby plan, part of the three-point program urged by Kennedy in his economic message Jan. 22, has been hailed by most Democrats but attacked by Republicans as a potential invasion of congressional authority.

The other requested measures were the standby authority to reduce income taxes subject to veto by Congress and permanently enlarged unemployment benefits.

Kennedy said he would permit the government to act "more promptly, more flexibly and more forcefully to stabilize the economy."

The administration bill set out a formula which would permit the President to start the work program. He could move when unemployment had risen in three out of four, or four out of six consecutive months by not less than one percentage point, and after the
