Connecticut Yankee
 By A. H. O.

We hazarded the rather cruel guess, the other day, that the Connecticut candidates of 1962, getting on the road much earlier than usual with their full slate of candidates, would have a campaign season ending in a tie. At this point, not having prevailed, the Kennedy vote is only about 100,000 votes ahead of the other candidates. The McCormack vote is only about 100,000 votes behind the other candidates. At this point, we would give anything to have more debates, but with no way of getting them, we must wait.

Wonders of the Universe
 Russia May Put Man On the Moon by 1967

By DR. L. M. LEVITT, DIRECTOR
 The U.S.S.R. has announced that it will be the first to put a man on the moon by 1967. This is a bold claim, but the Russians are not without their scientific achievements. They have already launched several man-made satellites into orbit, and they have also sent several probes to the moon. It is not surprising, therefore, that they should be confident of their ability to land a man on the moon by 1967.

The Friendly Ice Cream Corp., started 27 years ago on $547 by two brothers, Curtis L. and S. Prestley Blake, whose parents advised them to "keep busy" during the summer months, this year expect sales volume to exceed $10,000,000 in its 70 ice cream and sandwich shops located throughout Massachusetts and Connecticut, one of which is at 435 Main St., Manchester.

The founders of the firm still head the ever expanding firm and predict to have some 400 shops in operation in the next 25 years. The main plant in Wilbraham, Mass., built in 1959, can presently supply up to 200 shops and can be expanded as the company grows.

One of the keys to Friendly's expansion is the training program developed for managers and supervisory employes which, the Blake brothers believe has produced some of the best management personnel in this field. A typical Friendly manager is a 32-year-old man who earns an average of $11,500 a year, profit after two or three years training.

Lloyd Bridges Show Makes Debut Tuesday

One of the most ambitious series of the coming television season concerns the former denizen of the deep, Lloyd Bridges, who has turned in his aqua-lung and snorkel for a typewriter and a notebook.

The star of the long running "Sea Hunt" series has come up from the briny and dons a battered trench coat to become a free-lance writer with the whole world as his "beat."

The new series out of Four Star is called "Kaiser Presents The Lloyd Bridges Show" with Aaron Spelling handling the familiar role of executive producer and Everett Chambers as producer. The half-hour series premieres on CBS-TV on Tuesday, Sept. 11.

Bridges described his forthcoming role of writer "Adam Shepherd" as a "real heyday for any actor" and feels the show is the most challenging he has ever done.

"You see, as 'Adam' I will be playing an entirely different role every week," he began. "Fantastic roles—a one-man repertory theater. I start the scene as a writer doing a story about some phase of human behavior. Then I get engaged in what I am writing about and the camera does a dissolve and lo and behold I have become the central figure in the story I came to write about."

"The roles are so diverse that it will take any acting ability I have to bring them off as well as the Kaiser people hope."

"One week I play a doctor of Greek origin who goes back to his father's village and helps a young relative become a surgeon. It's a quiet, thoughtful and at times, humorous vignette of life."

"In another role I switch to a hard-bitten professional revolutionary in a Latin American country who is battling a tyrant. Lots of action in this."

"In still a third I play a simple businessman, a railway commuter, who gets embroiled in a fantastic love affair on the train with a woman he has never met before."

"A fourth episode has me as a footloose and fancy free cowboy in the Old West who comes to a town with a problem that can earn him some money. There is a giant rock on the main road of the town and it has to go. Well, how do you get rid of a monster piece of granite? The story has a real twist and shows something about how greedy men can harm themselves."

Although he stressed the fact that the series was in no way a vehicle with a "message," Bridges allowed that he thought the various episodes presented a favorable picture of Americans abroad.

"We have William Lederer as a special consultant on these particular shows," the actor added. "He wrote 'The Ugly American' and will advise us on all themes that, what we like to think, shows average Americans abroad who do something to help other people as well as fellow Americans."

Bridges was interrupted by the arrival of Aaron Spelling, executive producer of the show. Spelling had caught the tail end of Bridges' conversation.

"The twist Lloyd spoke about," he began, "is never a contrived gimmick. We take our story as far as it can go within running time and bring it to a logical conclusion—one that may be funny, tragic, but definitely plausible."

A natural reporting question to ask is whether or not Bridges is versatile enough to handle the challenging roles he must slip into each week. After all, for four years he was good old "Mike Nelson" with nothing to worry him but mania rays and broken air lines.

Bridges looked thoughtful and paused. "All I can say is that I'll do my best," he said. "I'm not a skin diver, you know. I was an actor—a starving one at times—before I knew what a snorkel was."

"I worked in summer stock in the East when I couldn't crash Broadway. I could have had better paying jobs I suppose. But that was my ambition when I was a dramatic student at the University of California at Los Angeles. So I lived in 37 a week rooms for many years and ate hash, hoping for a break."

"Actually, I had a pretty good break going for me all this time—my wife, Dorothy, whom I married while we were both in college. She worked many times to support my acting career when it looked hopeless. So I had her on my side and the job finally came."

Spelling related some of the roles the California-born actor had played and which were always enthusiastically praised by critics.

"Lloyd made the movie, 'Home of the Brave' for Stanley Kramer," the TV executive said. "That was about racial conflict—a pretty daring subject when it was done."

Lloyd Bridges

"A Walk in the Sun" by Lewis Milestone is still one of the greatest pictures about the Second World War. Then there was the more recent "The Goddess" with Kim Stanley. Lloyd played an actor on the set."

"Probably people remember one of his better roles—the cowardly deputy in 'High Noon' with Gary Cooper."

"No, I'm not worried about Lloyd being able to handle the various roles he will have to play as 'Adam Shepherd.' He's been in more than 60 movies—some good, some bad—and he's always received nothing but praise. He is a professional at his craft. A skilled actor, not a personality."

Bridges then commented on the quality of the new series. "Some studios today stress the quantity angle of a show instead of quality."

Well, I'll only be doing three shows a month because of different character pressures I'll be under."

"My wife and I recently returned from a visit with Mr. Kaiser in Hawaii and all he talked about—enthusiastically—is how he wanted this show to be quality—all the way. Well, we are not going to let him down, believe me."

Reasons behind the "problem child"—Donald Duck—of the Walt Disney Studio cartoon family are explored in "Donald's Award," a full-hour animated cartoon feature to be broadcast for the first time in color Sunday, Sept. 9 (7:30 p.m. EDT) on NBC-TV's "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color."

Q. Is Douglas Edwards still on TV? R. & J.

A. Yes, Douglas Edwards is on CBS-TV.

Show Choices Puzzle Powell

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — "Detectives are dead," said Dick Powell, raising his left hand and ticking items off on his fingers. "Lawyers are dead. Doctors are dead. Cowboys are dead. So what are you going to do?"

So what Powell and his Four Star production company are doing this season are anthologies, comedies—the broader the better—and reviving that fine, old, all-purpose device, the newspaper dray-ma.

Powell is the head of one of the smartest commercial operations in this lotus-land. But he is, at the moment, quite puzzled about television's current direction and habits of killing off whole areas of entertainment.

"If they (and he means the networks) will just tell us what they want, we'll make 'em," said Powell. "I think that we're turning out some pretty good shows for them. I know that for my own series, we've shaken down the writing supply to some 55 or 60 scripts and there will be more weeding out. But I've got my fingers crossed for the rest—I don't feel that we've got really good spots for any of the other shows—even if the time is right, the competition is rough—so we'll just have to see what happens."

Powell's own show is the anthology series in which he acts as weekly host and stars in about every third show. It proved one of last season's hits, a series of slick, well-acted and thoroughly professional shows.

This year his Four Star company (other partners include Charles Boyer and David Niven) is producing "The Lloyd Bridges Show," an anthology series, "Ensign O'Toole," a roistering comedy show along the lines of "Mr. Roberts," and "Saints and Sinners," the city-room series with a star reporter for a hero.

Powell, like every other producer in Hollywood, is watching closely NBC's experiment in a 90-minute weekly show, "The Virginian."

"If that goes," he said with a shrug, "the 90-minute show may be the big trend next season. But I think maybe the time is about right for a bright sophisticated comedy series. So far nobody seems interested."

Adam Cartwright (Fernel Roberts), robbed and left to die in the desert, faces still another cruel fate when he stumbles on a crazed miner (guest star Lee Marvin) in the "Circus" episode of "Bonanza." NBC-TV full-hour color series, Sunday, Sept. 9 (9 p.m. EDT). Repeat of April 8, 1962.

Cleve Tomson (Lin McCarthy) murders his fiancée and then nearly beats the rap by confessing to the crime in "Man in a Jam" on NBC-TV's full-hour "87th Precinct" Monday, Sept. 10 (9 p.m. EDT). Repeat of Jan. 8, 1962.

Capt. Drake gets help from two spirited ladies—Queen Elizabeth I and a stowaway—in his efforts to aid the "Lost Colony of Virginia," an episode of NBC-TV's "Sir Francis Drake" series Sunday, Sept. 9 (8:30 p.m. EDT).

TV Personalities

Abby Dalton

It's mink for Abby Dalton this year!

When Joey Bishop carried her over the threshold in the first episode of his new series format (in color Saturday, Sept. 15, 8:30 p.m. EDT), Abby will be reacting exactly like a wife.

"Frankly," she says, "as much as I enjoyed my part as Nurse Hale in the 'Hennessey' show, I was getting tired of wearing just uniforms. I secretly longed for an elegant wardrobe. This year, as the bride of a successful TV entertainer, I can wear a mink coat if I want to."

Abby, who nosed out a long roster of Hollywood lovelies for the leading lady role in "The New Joey Bishop Show," looks good in mink. A former model and cover girl before she began acting, she is a better-than-average clothes designer herself.

Her first brief acting experience occurred in a Los Angeles kindergarten. Her family had moved to Southern California from Las Vegas, Nev., where she was born.

Except for three years during World War II when her parents were in Panama, Abby spent her growing up years in and around Los Angeles. She whizzed through the public school system and out into a world of dancing and modeling. At 15, he was teaching dancing.

During her high school years, Miss Dalton modeled part time for a Los Angeles department store. She continued modeling after graduation, appearing on the covers of numerous monthly magazines and on the jackets of several hit record albums.

In 1956, deciding to return temporarily to dancing, she auditioned successfully for a Las Vegas nightclub act. Four months later, she turned to acting.

In two and a half years, Abby appeared in six movies and a dozen top television shows. Her feature films included "Viking Women," "Cole Younger, Gunfighter" and "Rock All Night," in all of which she had the feminine lead.

On television, her career began with the title role in "Belle Starr" on the Schlitz Playhouse. Her exploits in the saddle and with firearms—plus her increasing development as a talented actress—quickly won her coveted parts in "Have Gun, Will Travel," "Rawhide," "Riflemen," "Maverick" and others.

For three years she was the witty Nurse Martha Hale to Jackie Cooper's "Hennessey."

She is an expert skier and a boxing fan, and likes to cook Mexican food.

In private life she is the wife of Jack Smith, a Los Angeles busi-

177 Year Ago 7 Auto Deaths Boost Year's Total to 203

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Seven persons died in Connecticut traffic accidents over the weekend bringing to 203 the toll for the year. The toll for the same period last year was 177.
Five of the deaths occurred in two separate accidents—one in Danbury, where two died, the other at Seymour, where three died.
Mr. and Mrs. John J. McHugh, 113 Knickerbocker Ave., Stamford, were killed Sunday night when their car was struck by a New Haven railroad train about a mile east of the Hoyt St. and Camp Ave. crossing.
Police theorize Mrs. McHugh, who was driving, became confused and drove the car onto the single line New Canaan branch track instead of following the highway.
Dead in the Seymour crash were an elderly Stratford couple, Rayner Todd, 73, and his wife, Ruth, 71, of 7 Bryant Place, and Kenneth Maynard, 25, of 436 Mount Grove St., Bridgeport, a machinist at Sikorsky Aircraft.
Maynard's companion, Kenneth Jones, 42, a special Seymour policeman, was in critical condition at Griffin Hospital in Derby.
Todd and his wife were driving west—on down—on Route 188 when the accident occurred about a half mile from the Housatonic River. Police said the car carrying Maynard and Jones came from the opposite direction.

The collision occurred in Todd's lane, police said.
The cars were demolished. One of the first persons to reach the scene was Anthony De Luca, administrator of Griffin Hospital, who was out for a drive in the area.
In Cromwell, Ronald A. Nord, 22, of 26 Vincent St., West Hartford, was killed when his sports car collided with another vehicle at an intersection. The other driver, Harry G. Doughtie of Cromwell, suffered minor injuries, police said. He was charged with negligent homicide and released in $1,000 bond.
In Bethel, Kenneth D. Peek, 7 Hudson St., Bethel, died after he crashed into two utility poles, a sign station and a hydrant.
A 19-year-old Bridgeport youth, Barry Roger Bleier, died in a crash in Canada Saturday night. He was killed when his car swerved off the Trans-Canada Highway near Sussex, N. B., and overturned several times. He was in the area visiting friends.
In New York City, a woman carrying a handbag with a Connecticut identification died in the path of a southbound New York Central train on tracks near the 125th St. station.

Police said a keychain tag in her handbag read: "Return to L. Sosinski, 85 Herkimer St., Bridgeport." There also was a train ticket from Bridgeport to New York and Chicago.
The woman ignored a shouted warning from a private guard who saw her on the tracks, police said.

Doctors Report Soblen's Brain Seriously Hurt

LONDON (AP)—Robert A. Soblen has suffered serious brain damage that will take some time even to assess, doctors said today.
The runaway spy lay in a coma racked by convulsions more than 100 hours after taking a massive dose of barbiturate, doctors said in an effort to block attempts to fly him to the United States to begin serving a life sentence.
A medical bulletin this morning said Soblen is less deeply comatose than he was but he is still unconscious. Convulsions continue to occur frequently and constitute the main cause of anxiety, it said.
Dr. Cyril G. Barnes, the physician who heads the medical team treating Soblen, said the 61-year-old psychiatrist had suffered brain damage as a result of lack of oxygen.
He said it probably occurred

10 States to Conduct Primaries Tuesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Names out of the political past—Bridges, Lee and Benson—are among the hundreds that go before the voters this week in primary nominating elections in 10 states.
Voters nominate their party candidates Tuesday for eight Senate seats, 39 House seats and six governorships in New Hampshire, Utah, Arizona, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Vermont, Rhode Island, Georgia and Colorado.
Most of the attention is focused on New Hampshire where four Republicans are waging a hot fight for the seat held by the late Sen. Styles Bridges. There also are close battles in Arizona, Minnesota and Utah.
Six incumbent senators have either light or no opposition. They are Republicans Norris Cotton of New Hampshire, George Aiken of Vermont and Alexander Wiley of Wisconsin, and Democrats John Carroll of Colorado, Warren G. Magnuson of Washington and Carl Hayden of Arizona.
Sen. Maurice Murphy, appointed to fill the vacancy created by Bridges' death late last year, may be unseated. Sen. Wallace Bennett began when Gov. Wesley Powell named Murphy instead of Bridges' widow, Deloris. She has jumped into the race for the remaining four years of the term on the same conservative platform used by her late husband. She appears to be a front-runner along with Rep. Perkins Bass, a self-styled Eisenhower Republican.
New Hampshire's other House member, Rep. Chester E. Merrow, a liberal Republican, completed the field.
Powell, seeking a third term as a possible springboard to higher office, has received stiffer than expected opposition from State Rep. John Ellsbury in the Republican gubernatorial campaign.
In Arizona a pair of conservatives are vying for the GOP senatorial nomination. They are State Sen. Evan Mecham and Stephen

Truman Blasts Ike to Spark State Politics

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A speech by former President Harry S. Truman, a television debate, a Democratic clamor and a declaration of Teamster support for a Republican candidate highlighted weekend politicking in Connecticut.
Truman in Hartford Saturday night to help get the state Democratic campaign officially off and running, raised Republican hackles by calling former President Dwight D. Eisenhower "the laziest President we ever had in the White House."
With Truman as the feature attraction, the $100-a-plate dinner drew 900 paying guests. Gov. John N. Dempsey and Senate candidate Abraham Ribicoff shared the speaker's platform with Truman.
Truman made it clear that he was in Connecticut to boost the Democratic ticket, but he did not mention any candidates by name.
His speech was primarily an attack on the GOP in general and Eisenhower in particular.
A series of eight televised debates between the major Republican and Democratic candidates opened Sunday afternoon at Station WTHC (Channel 3), Hartford. The first match pitted Fairfield County Congressman Abner Sibal against Democratic challenger Francis X. Lennon Jr.

State News Roundup

Alsop Promises He'll Work Full Time—If Elected

EAST HARTFORD (AP)—John Alsop, Republican candidate for governor, said today he will "work full time in the interests of this state" if elected in November.
He said he will never be too busy outside of the state to take an active part in Connecticut problems.
"During the past eight years," Alsop said, "we have seen a number of instances of neglect of Connecticut problems because the state's elected leaders were preoccupied with national politics."
"This will not happen while I am in office as governor," he said in a prepared statement.
Alsop, without mentioning names but in a reference to former Gov. Abraham Ribicoff, reminded his audience that in 1958 labor union officials in the Democratic governor to return to Connecticut to help settle the United Aircraft Corp. strike.
"My ambition is to give this state the best possible government," he said, "and I do not have political aims beyond that."

Union Workers At Veeder Root Vote to Strike

HARTFORD (AP)—Union workers at Veeder Root voted overwhelmingly today to walk off their jobs at midnight Wednesday unless a contract settlement is reached.
The vote to extend the strike deadline another 48 hours followed a meeting in Bushnell Auditorium in which a small, but highly vocal group demanded an immediate strike.
Result of the secret-ballot vote showed 59 in favor if the union negotiating committee's recommendation to extend the strike deadline and 37 opposed.
Approximately 300 union employees at the Hartford plant are involved.
Production at the plant has been stopped since midnight Friday when a two-year contract expired.
The essence of today's meeting was to reject the company's latest offer for a new three-year contract, return to work beginning with the first shift Tuesday morning and work until Wednesday midnight.
Joseph C. Cronin, International representative of the International Association of Machinists, AFL-CIO, told the workers that a negoti-

Authority Held Vital To Nation

OSLO, Norway (AP)—Secretary-General Dirk Stikker of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization said today there is nothing in the present world situation to cause President Kennedy to call up 150,000 Reserves immediately.
Stikker told a news conference he could understand why the U.S. President had asked Congress for authority to call up the Reserves since it would permit him to meet any new crisis that develops while Congress is in recess.
Stikker refused to comment on complaints by some U.S. congressmen that ships from some NATO nations including Norway are transporting Soviet military material to Cuba.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said today the requested presidential authority to call up 150,000 Reserves is needed to enable the United States to respond promptly and decisively if the international situation worsens suddenly.
McNamara appeared before the Senate Armed Services Committee with Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to urge speedy approval of a resolution submitted to Congress Friday by the White House.
"The authority for a limited call-up of Reserves, however, would provide us with a flexibility of response which could be crucial if the international situation deteriorates suddenly and specific crises occur," he said.

Ben Bella's Troops Ruling in Algeria, Guerrillas Protest

ALGIERS (AP)—Deputy Premier Ahmed Ben Bella and regular army Col. Houari Boumediene were Algeria's rulers today and preparing to nominate the nation's first legislature heavily weighted in their favor.
Boumediene marched 5,000 men of his Communist-equipped army into Algiers Sunday ending the chaotic, seven-week occupation of the city of rebellious guerrillas forces of Wilaya (zone) No. 4.
The smart, well-disciplined regular troops were given a tumultuous welcome as they drove up and down the streets of the capital in flagrant violation of an agreement with Wilaya 4's leaders to demilitarize the city.
The civilian crowds expressed both their pride in their "national people's army" and their relief to be freed of the oppressive Wilaya 4 regime.
The guerrilla leaders had run the city at gunpoint and sought

China Ties Chiang U2 To U.S. Spy Program

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red China, reporting it shot down a U2 spy plane, said today the U2 pilot who delivered a U2 intact to the mainland.
Peiping's announcement was broadcast Sunday night in English.
The Nationalist spokesman said the U2s were bought from the Lockheed Corporation in the United States in 1960 and put into operation that December.
A State Department spokesman said in Washington that the U2 purchases were made with U.S. approval, but that operation of the planes was solely a Nationalist matter.
Officials admitted privately, however, that it could be assumed that information obtained from Nationalist U2 flights would be turned over to the United States in the normal course of intelligence exchange between the two nations.
The latest U2 incident, announced over Peiping radio, came five days after the Soviet Union protested that an American air space over Sakhalin Island north of Japan. The United States admitted that one of its patrol planes might have been blown off course by high winds.
Peiping did not disclose the fate of the Nationalist pilot, but national officials said privately they were convinced he could not have been captured alive.
It was recalled, however, that

Farmers Forecast Meat Shortage, Ask Price Boost Probe

CORNING, Iowa (AP)—The National Farmers Organization said today its members may withhold feeder livestock from the market if packers start slaughtering them to supplement dwindling meat supplies.
Oren Lee Staley of Rea, Mo., NFO president, issued the warning that the NFO started the second full week of its effort to raise livestock prices to farmers by keeping slaughter animals off the market.
Staley also disclosed that he asked the Department of Justice and congressional committees a week ago to investigate the possibility that impending higher meat prices may be the result of "collusion and price fixing" by chain stores and a major packing company announced Saturday
