Heralding Homes Two Homes in One

At the top of the curve of North Road in Bolton stands the unique of the James S. Klar family. The house is unusual not only for its post and beam construction but also in that it is designed as two independent units within a single one-story house.

It contains a 14 by 24-foot living room, dining area, three bedrooms, kitchen, office and bath in one side and a studio-living room, bedroom, kitchen and bath in the other. Situated in the joy in the "front" of the house, which faces the Columbia hills, is a paved patio.

The basic construction of the house is similar to that used in large factory buildings and consists of 30-foot beams, each spaced by 14 inches, placed on 28 cement-filled steel pilings. These, in turn, are embedded in truncated cement piers of varying heights set on a natural rock foundation.

"This building technique," Mr. Klar explained, "allows for complete flexibility in room planning and almost limitless use of large glass areas as there is hardly any stress on the outside walls."

The late Dr. Josef Moschner of Simsbury, a European architect who came to this country during World War II, assisted Mr. Klar in designing the house. Actual construction was carried out by a local builder, Klar himself, his father, and his two sons.

"It was a real family project," he explained, "with my father committed daily from Springfield to help, and I took nine months of hard work and picnic lunches to complete. Mrs. Klar says she got awfully tired of putting up picnic lunches."

The interior of the house has been tastefully decorated by Mrs. Klar with a blend of contemporary and heirloom furniture.

The Klar family comes full circle with the youngest member, Marc, a fifth year plant student, in seventh grade at the Bolton Elementary School.

"She seems to have inherited some of her grandparents artistic ability as well," her mother said, "and shows some promise according to her teachers at the school."

Walter H. Klar, artist, author, teacher and lecturer, occupies the second living area of this interesting home.

The sprightly octogenarian spends his time since retiring and helping build the house in painting, writing and visiting. He has received considerable attention and a left-foot mural in the South Congregational Church in Springfield and has several portraits and landscapes "in the works" on his easel and around his studio living room.

His pride and joy is a functional 18th century apothecary's chest wall.

On a visit to a son living there, he says he is unable to sketch the natives as he had planned because of their dire poverty. "I thought it would just embarrass them," he explained.

"They used long machetes," he said, "and their mothers made dolls and other toys in their own homes. They made the pattern necessary in an Oriental rug in his studio. Mr. Klar said that people are apt to forget that every article, whether machine-made eventually or not, must first be made by hand."

The fine examples of handmade furniture in the Klar home are more testimonial in nature to their original craftsmen but to the past and to the people who have cared for them so lovingly and patiently in that country.

Also from the Victorian period is an elegantly carved rosewood sideboard. The top of the sideboard is made of the top rail of an antique Chippendale shell on the center.

The bedrooms of the two Klar young people still at home, James A. and Mary, are strictly contemporary with built-in closets and wardrobes. Mary's room is in apple blossom pink and white.

The kitchen is also contemporary with a vivid color scheme of raspberry, yellow, green and brown. This room has completely built-in storage units with sliding doors and built-in drawers without visible hardware.

Mr. Klar's study contains a room-wide drawing board, bookshelves and two fine old Dutch stretchers table.

Mr. Klar is assistant managing director of the State Development Commission in Hartford. After graduating from the University of Massachusetts with a degree in landscape architecture, he worked 2 1/2 years as a supervisory architect for the United States National Park Service and helped to plan and landscape over 600 acres of national parks in Mississippi.

While located in Memphis with a private firm of landscape architects, he became interested in city planning. During World War II, he was stationed at Ft. Ethan Allen in Vermont as the chief civilian engineer on the post.

In 1945 he was hired as the first of the present 20 planning engineers in the State Development Commission.

"The purpose of the commission," he explained, "is to do whatever is necessary to encourage a landing sequence in the movie 'The Longest Day.' He also appeared on a recruiting poster displayed throughout the country. He is now continuing his education at local schools.

"Although the rare of growth is going down in our new England paeantry in that country."

On a visit to a son living there, he says he is unable to sketch the natives as he had planned because of their dire poverty. "I thought it would just embarrass them," he explained.

As an important constant, this relatively insignificant amount of ozone not only determines the temperature structure of the mid-troposphere but also determines the quantity of mid-tropospheric water vapor...

These effects, Mr. Pressman said, are similar to those with which we are already familiar—such as the big-city air pollution problem, the industrial pollution of our waterways, the carbon dioxide influence on the greenhouse effect, and the increase in radioactivity resulting from the atomic bomb.

The significant feature which seems to be apparent is that these modifications and alterations in the infrared and ultraviolet spectra of the atmosphere will affect our atmosphere, we must look for effects which will adversely affect our well-being.

It is inevitable that the contamination will materialize. One Nova booster will carry 1,000 tons of oxidizing atmosphere to the first stage, which will be put into the atmosphere up to altitudes of 30 to 40 miles. The second stage, which may reach 100 miles, will discharge its payload of perhaps, hydrogen and oxygen.

Engaged

The engagement of Miss Sandra Ann Wood to Robert David Hain is announced by her mother, Mrs. Frederick J. Wood, 9 W. Middle Tpke. Her fiancé is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hain of Baltic, Conn. Miss Wood is a 1952 graduate of the University of Connecticut and is a teacher in the Glastonbury school system. Mr. Hain received a B.S. degree in 1959 from the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy, Kings Point, N. Y. He is employed as a mechanical engineer at the office of the Supervisor of Shipbuilding, USN, Groton.

Chamber Issues Sheet Explaining College Question

The Chamber of Commerce is distributing an information sheet urging voters to approve the proposed Community College.

William Knight, chairman of the Chamber's Education Committee, says that arrangements have been made to distribute 2,500 information sheets through local industry. The sheets explain the advantages of a community junior college in Manchester. Voters may express their opinions of the idea at the Nov. 6 elections.

Knight has been appearing at meetings of civic and community groups during the past few weeks, speaking for the community college. According to Knight, "The Education Committee and the Chamber feel that this is one of the most important questions that has faced Manchester in the past years. We will do everything possible to assure the passage of question 6 on Nov. 6. We urge everyone to vote for the community junior college."

Police Arrests

James Glynn, 56, of 247 N. Main St., yesterday was charged with intoxication. He posted a $25 bond while awaiting appearance in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, Nov. 5.

Business Bodies

NCAWA PRESIDENT Victor DellaFera, vice president of Manchester Auto Parts Inc. at 270 Broad St., has been elected president of the Northern Connecticut Automotive Wholesalers Association.

By virtue of his election at the recent annual meeting of the NCAWA, DellaFera also becomes a vice president of the statewide group, the CAWA. Member firms in the northern group are located in Manchester, Willimantic, East Hartford, Hartford, New Britain and Bristol.

In partnership with his brother, Edward DellaFera, Victor has been a parts wholesaler since March 1948. Prior to that he was a salesman for Lenk Inc. of Hartford. The DellaFera brothers also have a branch in Rockville, known as Rockville Auto Parts.

SOCIETY TREASURER Robert W. Sherman, 15 Hubler Dr., Vernon, New England Regional Office Manager of Union Carbide Plastics Co. at Hartford, has been elected treasurer of the Society of Plastics Engineers for 1956. He will assume his new post on Feb. 27, 1963, at the society's annual meeting in Los Angeles, Calif.

In this new post, Sherman will have over-all responsibility for fiscal activities of the international engineering society.

He has been with Union Carbide for 14 years, serving as a statistical and technical representative in New York and in his present post in Hartford since 1958. Sherman attended Columbia and Fairleigh Dickinson Universities at present he is vice president of the SPE Western New England Section and had previously served as section treasurer and chairman of a Regional Technical Conference held in early 1961. He also served two terms as treasurer of the Plastics in Building Professional Activity Group, an international technical committee.

"LIFE TEST RECORD Based on the accepted industry formula that 7 continuous operating hours equal one year of normal use, an Ionk food mixer (Model R-52), manufactured at Ionk's Regent St. plant in Manchester, achieved a new "life test" record of 1,186 hours, or 169 years.

The record was established as part of an Ionk Challenge promotion, conducted at Hepeco stores, appliance dealers in Honolulu, Hawaii. The previous record of the same model mixer was 1,032 hours, or about 147 years.

NEW COKE BOTTLE A newly developed 16-ounce bottle for Coca-Cola has been introduced to the Greater Hartford-Manchester area this week.

Paul G. Roberts, manager of the East Hartford Coca-Cola plant, stated that the new size is being introduced to serve a growing segment of the soft drink consumer market which prefers the half-quart size. By all odds the world's most widely distributed package, the Coca-Cola bottle is said to be readily identifiable by 95 per cent of the world's population, the firm says.

The bottle was designed in 1915 by Alex Samuelson, a Terre Haute, Ind., designer. The bottle, regardless of size, is itself a trademark of the Coca-Cola Co.

FAVOR STOCK SPLIT The Hartford Electric Light Co. board of directors this week announced they had voted to recommend to the stockholders a two-for-one split of the firm's common stock.

A special meeting of the shareholders has been set for Dec. 4 to act on the proposal and other matters. If the split is approved by the stockholders and the Connecticut Public Utilities Commission, each share of common stock, a $25 par value now, will be changed at the effective date of the split into two shares of common stock.

Manchester Plymouth Inc., Rt. 83, Talcottville, shows its new look on the recently remodeled and repainted facade. The former one-story building has lost its high ceiling show room which now houses company offices above the new car display area. The firm, under the ownership of Reuben Cutler (above), Joseph Kovalsky, and Lester Resnick, has been in business at the Talcottville site for two years. (Herald photo by Sateris).

mon stock at $12.50 par value. The regular annual dividend on the common $12.50 par value was reported to be $1.60 per share, it was reported.

GIFT TO UCONN Michael Maloney Jr., manager of the John Hancock Insurance Company's Manchester Office at 63 E. Center St., Wednesday presented to University of Connecticut President Homer D. Babidge Jr. a framed print of Sen. Justin Morrill.

The gift was made in connection with the 100th anniversary of the Land-Grant movement, pioneered by Senator Morrill in 1862. The insurance firm, also observing its centennial year, is making similar presentations to the 67 Land Grant Colleges and State Universities across the nation.

JOHN'S FOGARTY'S George J. Kelley of 206 Main St. has joined Fogarty Bros. Inc., fuel oil and heating installation firm at 319 Broad St., as a sales engineer.

A lifelong resident of Manchester, Kelley had been affiliated with two Hartford firms for 32 years prior to joining the Manchester oil firm. He was a salesman with American Coal Co. for

George J. Kelley

2 1/2 years and later spent 28 1/2 years with the Connecticut Coke Co. of Hartford.

Kelley, the father of three boys and a girl, is a former baseball player and umpire here.

MOVES AGENCY The Leonard D. Rivard agency this week moved into new quarters in the recently completed Willard Building at 320 Main St. The firm was formerly at 408 Main St.

Abby Dalton Is Bride On Joey Bishop Show

Abby Dalton, who was Jackie Cooper's nurse girlfriend and ultimately his wife (in the last episode of "Hennessey," turns up this season as Joey Bishop's wife on his new show over NBC-TV on Saturday nights. On the new series, "The New Joey Bishop Show," the star plays a television comedian with Abby as his understanding bride and comics Guy Marks and Joe Besser as his second bananas. "I really loved the role on 'Hennessey,'" Abby admits. "But it's nice to get out of the starched uniform of a navy nurse and into something comfortable like an evening gown or mink coat. And Joey's show is in color, too, and those gowns and clothes I wear...are beautiful."

The green-eyed blonde reviewed a career that has seen her as a Las Vegas chorus girl, ballet instructor, fashion model, movie actress and one of the most popular television stars to turn up in many a moon.

After attending Luther Burbank High School in Los Angeles as well as John Muir High, she studied fashion designing at the famed Chouhvard Art Institute, which lists such distinguished alumnae as Academy Award winner Edith Head.

"I wanted to be a designer very much," Abby said. "I liked everything about it but the sewing. I could cut patterns and sketch, but the sewing bugged me."

Abby taught ballet for awhile, earning the princely salary of $25 her first month, and modeled at Bullock's fashionable department store in Pasadena.

A photographer friend sent her photo to an RKO casting director who in turn suggested she apply for a job dancing at the Sands Hotel in Las Vegas.

"I went to the audition," Abby said, "and there were 250 beautiful girls there. I decided to 'chicken' out. But I figured I had nothing else to do that day so I decided to stay. I was one of the seven girls selected."

Abby said she took the dancing job to save money to enable her to get to New York where she wanted to become a high fashion model. She really saved her money too.

"In Las Vegas the girls could get a chuck wagon dinner free after the show," she said, "and that's what I lived on. I shared a room with three other girls, and I never once even played a nickel slot machine. I had seven uncashed pay checks when I decided it was time to make a move to New York."

Armed with a briefcase full of references, Abby moved in on Gotham fast and was soon working for some of the best sportswear manufacturers. "But I was so homesick," she recalled. "New York was exciting, but I missed Los Angeles. I missed California. I wanted to see the Pacific Ocean again."

As quick as you could say "one plane ticket, please," Abby was again basking under the California sun. A girlfriend was studying acting with Jeff Corey and used to "bounce" her lines off Abby, who was soon so interested she was studying with Corey herself.

In two and a half years, Abby played the female lead in six movies and a dozen top television shows. She admits the movies were usually low budget affairs like "Rock All Night," "Viking Woman" and "Cole Younger, Gunfighter." "But," she adds, "you have to start somewhere."

Her favorite movie role was in "Stake Out on Dope Street," a picture that cost $35,000 to produce and which was sold to Warner Bros. for $150,000. This movie got excellent reviews, especially from the usually caustic critics of a weekly news magazine.

"My first TV show was a Schlitz Playhouse," Abby said. "I was playing 'Belle Starr,' the bandit queen, as a girl. It was a pilot, but poor old 'Belle' didn't get 'rung' that year by any takers."

Abby said she applied for the role of nurse "Martha Hale" on the "Hennessey" show on the advice of her agent. Jackie Cooper singled her out as "the typical, clean cut American girl" he wanted for the role, and it was hers for three years.

"I know the show could have gone another year," she believes, "but that's show business. It was a wonderful experience for me though. Jackie taught me so much about acting, camera angles, everything. The three years I was on 'Hennessey' I learned more about acting than in seven years of summer stock."

When "Hennessey" went under, Abby said she wasn't worried about her career. She had married Jack Smith, a Burbank electrical supply wholesaler, and was content to be a housewife for a while. She was not particularly alarmed that her role as the fresh-faced Navy nurse

Hollywood on TV

By ERSKINE JOHNSON

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — "I'm lucky I'm not an alcoholic," Randy Boone said.

There was another way of looking at it. Television, you might say, got him before AA did. "You just might say that," laughed 20-year-old Randy whose shy, bare-foot boy look belies two years in and out of taverns as a wandering folk singer.

You could say it. Randy agreed, because television just turned him into a stationary folk singer, tethered as one of its stars to a new ABC 60-minute filmed comedy drama series, "It's a Man's World."

For Randy, the occupational hazard of being a wandering folk singer revolved around tavern customers offering him drinks. His success was judged by the offers. Sometimes his salary also depended on his guzzling with tavern owners matching in cash — every drink customers bought him.

Randy Boone — no relation to Daniel or even Richard — is from Fayetteville, N. C., and any Hollywood casting director would mentally file him as a blend between Gary Cooper and Jimmy Stewart. Real friendly and soft-voiced. He's just as frank about how he happened to become a folk singer as he is about his tavern years.

"I had a foot infection," he says, "and I had to soak my feet in a bucket of hot water two hours a day for six weeks. Well, I just couldn't sit there without doing something, so I bought me a guitar and taught myself how to play."

Randy popping up as "Vern Hodges, folk singer," in "It's a Man's World" on television this season was as astonishing to his

Anne Seymour

Some become actors by accident, others, like Anne Seymour, are trained for the stage.

Coming from a family that has been in the theatre for seven generations, it was natural for Anne to follow the tradition.

She is co-starred as Lucia Garwood, owner of a 500,000-acre ranch in the southwestern United States, in the NBC-TV work's "Empire" color broad-series.

Her own roots go back to New York City, where she was born on Sept. 11, the daughter of William Stanley Eckert and Mary McLean Seymour.

She graduated from St. Mary's Episcopal School for Girls and ended at the American Laboratory Theatre School to study with Edward Boleslavsky and Maria C. Penkava.

During the summer she toured New England performing in a Gilbert and Sullivan operetta and a stage play. After another year of study, she helped organize the Elmhurst Theater's stage company in Milton, N. Y. She performed, directed, stage-managed and even swept up.

Then came a season of repertory at the Copley Theatre in Boston, after which she made her first hit appearance on Broadway playing Maria in Ethel Barrymore's production of "The School for Scandal."

Anne later toured the country and Canada with the show. In 1933 Anne turned to radio, starting with Don Ameche in "Grand Hotel," one of the top radio shows.

She starred on the program until 1944, at the same time performing in summer stock, and writing and directing other radio programs.

She went to Hollywood for the role of Broderick Crawford's wife in "All the King's Men," followed by "Whistle at Eaton Falls."

Her television appearances include "Robert Montgomery Presents," "Studio One," "Kraft Theater," "U. S. Steel Hour," "Good-year Theatre," "Lux Video Playhouse," "The Jackie Gleason Show," "Rawhide," "Ben Casey," "Gunsmoke," "Thriller," "Adventures in Paradise," and "Dr. Kildare," among others.

Since 1956 Anne has worked in many feature motion pictures, including "Man on Fire," "Desire Under the Elms," "The Gift of Love," "Handle with Care," "Home from the Hill," "Pollyanna," "The Subterraneans," "All the Fine Young Cannibals," and "Misty."

TV Notebook

By DICK KLEINER

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — "Hoofing," Donald O'Connor said, with a distinct note of sadness, "is a vanishing art."

O'Connor, one of the best practitioners of that art, was in New York for some television work. He had done the Tonight show before Johnny Carson took over as permanent host, and had hoofed some on it.

"There are no new hoofers coming up," he said. "No tap dancers, no nothing except modern jazz dancers, ballet dancers, that sort of thing. I think perhaps the change dates from 'Oklahoma,' the first Broadway musical in which there was no line of tap dancers. Broadway doesn't need hoofers any more, so they don't teach it in any dancing school."

"I think it's a shame, but there it is. Times and tastes change." O'Connor is quite young to be one of the last masters of a vanishing art form. That's because he started as a child, and so now, in his 30s, he's a genius at a type of show business there is a decreasing demand for.

He says he'd like to get into directing—television and movies—but "it is hard to make the transition." O'Connor explains that he'd have to get some directional credits, but it's hard to get a job unless he's had experience, and nobody wants to take a chance on an unknown director.

She had the role of Sara Delano Roosevelt in Dore Schary's Broadway production of "Sunrise at Campobello," in which she played for 18 months.

Anne devotes her spare time to the board of directors of the Episcopal Actors Guild, the Veterans Hospital Radio and Television Guild and Plays for the Living, another service organization.

She enjoys reading, ranging from the classics to good contemporary literature. Anne's mother lives in New York, where she is in charge of the theatre and music collection for the Museum of the City of New York.

had "typed" her in any way. Abby said she heard that Joey Bishop was looking for a TV wife while she was still in "Tennessee" and since it was not yet known whether or not the Navy comedy would survive, Joey was not interested in her for the part.

"Three months later Joey was still looking for the girl and I asked him if I could try out," she said. "I did and it was love at first sight. Joey was so kind and considerate. I'm always nervous when auditioning, and he put me right at ease."

Some producers and stars just give a tryout performer a small portion of the script to read or maybe just one scene. But Abby said Joey let her read the whole script and gave her plenty of time to "digest my lines."

"He gave me a fighting chance and when it was all over he decided I would be Mrs. Joey Barnes on his show," Abby said. "It was a wonderful moment for me."

Abby said that the plots of Joey's new show should make it one of the most successful of the new comedy series of the 1962-63 season. "Joey is really relaxed because he's playing just what he is—a television comedian," she said. "He's not a press agent. He's right in character. And with Joe Besser as the bumbling superintendent of our apartment and Guy Marks as Joey's manager, I just don't see how we can miss."

And with a beautiful blonde in stunning clothes in living color—named Abby Dalton to round out this cast, "The New Joey Bishop Show" does have a very good chance this season of hitting the top ten ratings and staying there.

McCloy Heads Group for Cuba Negotiation

Red Action Hailed as U.S. Victory

By DENNIS NEELD
LONDON (AP)—Western Europe hailed the Soviet Union's retreat in the Cuban crisis as a stunning victory for the United States and greeted it universally with profound relief today.

The dramatic turn of events was seen as opening up possibilities for new East-West negotiations on the whole question of disarmament.

President Kennedy emerged in the West as the undisputed hero of the crisis. Soviet Premier Khrushchev also came in for some praise.

Banner headlines such as "back from the brink," "Retreat from danger," and "End of a nightmare" reflected Europe's mood of deep thankfulness at having escaped the horrors of nuclear war.

The British government officials welcomed the Soviet announcement that it is ready to dismantle its Cuban missile sites. A few hours earlier Prime Minister Harold Macmillan had messaged Khrushchev that such a move would open the way to wider negotiations on a nuclear test ban and disarmament generally.

Belgian Foreign Minister Paul-Henri Spaak said Khrushchev must be thanked and congratulated for his action.

Danish Foreign Minister Per Hækkerup expressed hope that the new Soviet-U.S. contact on Cuba might lead to "a final settlement in peace."

In the Soviet Union, Pravda published the messages exchanged between Kennedy and Khrushchev on its front page.

The paper also published Fidel Castro's demands for a guarantee against aggression.

India Assured Of U.S. Arms

By HENRY S. BRADSHAW
NEW DELHI, India (AP)—India turned to the United States today for weapons to fight the Communist Chinese and was assured they would be sent soon.

Prime Minister Nehru asked U.S. Ambassador John Kenneth Galbraith for the weapons and an American Embassy spokesman said Galbraith indicated they are coming.

Almost simultaneously an Indian spokesman announced the loss of Demchok, the farthest thrust the Chinese have made southward at the western end of the fighting front.

The spokesman estimated between 2,000 and 2,500 Indian soldiers are dead or missing since the Chinese launched their offensive Oct. 20 and added the Chinese are believed to have suffered much heavier casualties.

Reinforcements were being rushed to Se Pasa to try to head off at least one 10,000-man Chinese division moving from the key northeast border town of Towang, lost last week.

Despite setbacks such as the loss of Demchok India refused offers of mediation of the undeclared war with China.

A Foreign Ministry spokesman said "no self-respecting country, and certainly not India with her love of freedom, can submit to Chinese aggression, whatever may be the consequences, nor can India allow China's occupation of Indian territory to be used as a bargaining counter for dictating to India a settlement of differences regarding the boundary on China's terms."

American infantry weapons for the Indian defenders in the Himalayas may begin arriving by air by the end of this week, it was understood.

The terms on which the weapons will be supplied were left open, a U.S. Embassy spokesman said. In the past India has insisted on paying for weapons but now there is no cash and a desperate need for arms.

A small shipment of British weapons has already arrived. France and Canada have also been asked to supply arms. The feeling here is that only the United States can provide the amount of weapons needed.

Galbraith delivered to Nehru a letter from President Kennedy expressing sympathy for India in its present emergency and "something more tangible," the spokesman said. In response Nehru made the first direct request for American arms.

Unit Will Report Directly to Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy set up a special three-man committee today to handle negotiations looking toward an end to the Cuban crisis.

Kennedy designated John J. McCloy, whom he previously had appointed special assistant to U.N. Ambassador Adlai Stevenson during the period of the Cuban emergency, as chairman of the group.

The other members are Undersecretary of State George W. Ball and Deputy Secretary of Defense Roswell L. Gilpatrick.

White House press secretary Pierre Salinger described the group as "a coordinating committee to give full time and attention to the matters involved in the conclusion of the Cuban crisis."

He said the group would report directly to the President but act under the supervision of the three officials concerned. These are Secretary of State Dean Rusk, Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, and Stevenson.

Ball and Gilpatrick left for New York after attending the daily meeting of the executive committee of the National Security Council this morning. McCloy already was in New York.

Salinger said the coordinating committee would function in New York.

The press secretary said it would be concerned with "implementing the letters of President Kennedy and Premier Khrushchev."

In these letters, exchanged over the weekend, Soviet Premier Khrushchev pledged dismantling of Soviet bases in Cuba and a halt to the delivery of offensive weapons to the Castro regime in return for an end to the U.S. blockade and a no-invasion pledge.

Khrushchev has dispatched Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily Kuznetsov to the United Nations to work with Acting Secretary-General U Thant in dealing with the many details involved in a settlement.

Salinger said he had no information as to whether McCloy, Ball and Gilpatrick would accompany U Thant to Havana Tuesday to meet with Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro and devise methods of confirming that the Soviets offensive weapons are removed.

The National Security Council executive committee met for an hour today and will continue to convene daily at the White House for the time being, Salinger said.

Washington policymakers held hope—mixed with liberal doses of caution—that a breakthrough has been scored in the U.S.-Soviet confrontation that bordered on potential nuclear conflict.

Khrushchev's pledge was hailed in Western capitals as a stunning victory for the United States.

Informed sources said there were no deals or secret understandings involved with the Soviet leader's offer to dismantle the Cuban bases and return their rockets to the Soviet Union. The only price he asked was a guarantee, which Kennedy gave, that the United States would not invade Cuba.

American diplomats focused on working out arrangements for U.N. inspection of the withdrawal from Cuba of the "offensive weapons" which Khrushchev under threat of forceful U.S. action, dramatically announced he would ship back to the Soviet Union.

U.N. Acting Secretary-General U Thant arranged to fly to Cuba Tuesday. The U.S. hope is that he can take with him a workable inspection plan to present to Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

Kuznetsov said on his arrival Sunday night "we are sure peace can be achieved if all parties concerned will exercise good will and a reasonable approach."

The contents were kept secret. But after Stevenson's second call on Thant, a U.S. source said the central problem was that the United States still had no information that Soviet missile bases in Cuba were being dismantled as pledged by Khrushchev.

The source said the United States expected prompt action from the United Nations. Earlier an informed diplomat reported that Stevenson told a meeting of Allied delegates Saturday the United States would bomb the missile bases unless their construction stopped soon and their dismantling was guaranteed.

U.A.R. chief delegate Mahmoud Riad, who called on Thant Sunday night, told newsmen he expected Thant would spend two or three days in Cuba. Riad declared the United Nations could not force observers on Cuba but must get Castro's consent. He said that there should be a Security Council resolution to send the observers, but a high U.N. official said none was necessary.

Russians China May Vie for Cuban Control

By JOHN RODERICK
TOKYO (AP)—Soviet Premier Khrushchev's order to withdraw his missiles from Cuba may touch off a new struggle between the Soviet and Chinese Communists for the control of the Cuban revolution.

It also could dangerously heighten the ideological quarrel between Peking and Moscow.

Mao Tse-tung was one of the first to support Fidel Castro's revolt against dictator Fulgencio Batista. Peking called Castro's 1959 victory a "defeat of U.S. imperialism in Cuba."

It seemed apparent during Castro's first year of rule that Moscow had given Cuba priority to exploit the Cuban revolution and to seek to scatter its flames in the whole Caribbean area.

From the beginning, the Chinese were active with trade and diplomatic missions which culminated in Castro's severance of relations with the Chinese Nationalist government and recognition of Peking.

The Chinese established newspapers in Cuba, sent in new correspondents, drew up trade agreements and went to work behind the scenes to win Castro's ear.

Tense France Sees De Gaulle Staying In

By JOSEPH E. DYNAN
PARIS (AP)—France waited anxiously today to see if President Charles de Gaulle considered his referendum victory decisive enough for him to stay on as president. The outlook was that he would and that the nation would continue in a period of bitter political strife.

The country's voters approved Sunday, De Gaulle's proposed constitutional amendment providing for direct election of future presidents, an issue which De Gaulle turned into a test of strength with the majority of the nation's politicians. He deliberately tied his political life to a solid majority, saying he would resign if the approval was "weak, mediocre or doubtful."

De Gaulle won, but the margin was less than his followers expected, and only a minority of the French electorate approved his proposal.

Complete official returns from metropolitan France, including Corsica, were:
Yes—5,210,848, 61.76 per cent of valid ballots.
No—7,939,389, 38.24 per cent of valid ballots.

The "yes" votes represented only 46.3 per cent of the registered voters. Fully a fourth of the electorate abstained, mostly by staying at home although some cast blanks or spoiled their ballots. De Gaulle's backing on previous referendums had never been less than 56 per cent of all the voters.

Cartaker Premier Georges Pompidou and Interior Minister Roger Frey hailed the result as a popular mandate for the general, and predicted De Gaulle would take the same view. The president remained in seclusion at his country home at Colombey-les-deux-Églises where he had voted.

Many of De Gaulle's opponents thought he should remain at the helm, regardless of the vote. However, they challenged it as a mandate. They claimed that withdrawal of De Gaulle's threat to resign and the Cuban crisis, the proposal would have been soundly beaten.

Far from settling things, the referendum set the stage for a constitutional dispute and further political conflict.

Senate President Gaston Monnerville planned to challenge the legality of the referendum in the Constitutional Council, supreme court for constitutional issues. Under the constitution, the referendum results cannot be proclaimed officially without council approval of the conduct of the vote.

Monnerville and the opposition politicians contend that De Gaulle violated the constitution by not submitting his amendment to Parliament first.

The nation will be plunged into a serious constitutional crisis if the council upholds Monnerville's complaint and refuses to proclaim the referendum results.

More serious political storm clouds are hovering. General elections for a new National Assembly take place Nov. 18 and Nov. 25. The response in the referendum indicated that the Gaullist contingent in the National Assembly will suffer heavy losses.

GOP Seeking Substitute for Cuban Issue

By JACK BELL
WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans may turn to the one-party government theme pounded by former President Dwight D. Eisenhower as a substitute for the Cuban issue in the congressional campaign.

The prospect that Soviet Premier Khrushchev will comply with President Kennedy's demand for withdrawal of Soviet missiles and the dismantling of launching pads on the island deprived GOP candidates of an issue many of them had hoped would spell victory in any otherwise close contest.

Thant Holds Talks, Plans Trip to Cuba

By WILLIAM N. OATIS
UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP)—Acting Secretary-General U Thant conferred with a special envoy of Soviet Premier Khrushchev today and made hurried plans for a peace mission to Cuba. Thant is trying urgently to nail down a U.S.-Soviet deal to end the missile base crisis.

Continuing his talks on the Cuban problem, Thant had a private session this morning with Soviet First Deputy Foreign Minister Vasily V. Kuznetsov, who arrived Sunday from Moscow.

Separate meetings were scheduled also with U.S. Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Cuban Ambassador Mario Garcia-Inchaurra.

The secretary-general and a dozen aides will fly to Havana Tuesday to begin arrangements for U.N. supervision of the withdrawal of Soviet missiles, which premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy agreed to in an exchange of letters Sunday. Thant will call on Thant Sunday night, told newsmen he expected Thant would spend two or three days in Cuba. Riad declared the United Nations could not force observers on Cuba but must get Castro's consent. He said that there should be a Security Council resolution to send the observers, but a high U.N. official said none was necessary.

Dempsey Calls Emergency Talk
HARTFORD (AP)—Another emergency meeting of top State military Civil Defense and police officials has been called for late afternoon by Governor Dempsey.

The session is scheduled for 3 p.m. to discuss a telegram received today from New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller on resolutions approved by the governors conference representatives in Washington Saturday concerning the Cuban crisis.

Governor Dempsey said that the situation is "still tense" despite recent reports that there is some easing of the situation.

Governor Rockefeller's telegram contained 15 resolutions of possible action to be taken. Governor Dempsey said that he plans to have a full discussion of these recommendations with his security aides.

Among the suggestions made is one to personally report to the mayors and town executives the present status of Civil Defense planning.

Governor Dempsey said, "As a former mayor, I know of some of the problems of CD at the local level."

He indicated that the decision to call in the local officials would be made after this afternoon's session. Governor Dempsey said that he would postpone any political campaigning today in order to hold the meeting.

The chief executive said that it had not been determined whether the reported Russian backdown in Cuba would have any effect on the proposals made by Governor Rockefeller's committee. He added, "I want to review them carefully and make sure that we have strengthened our Civil Defense preparedness wherever possible."

Among those scheduled to attend include Maj. Gen. Frederick G. Reincke, State Civil Defense Director William Schatzman and (Continued on Page Seven)

Planes Seeking Evidences of Stripping Sites

By FRID S. HOFFMAN
WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. reconnaissance planes focused their sensitive cameras on Cuba today in search of evidence that the Russians are starting to dismantle their missile bases there.

The American quarantine fleet remained on guard in the Atlantic. But no Soviet ships were reported within two or three days' steaming time of the U.S. quarantine line thrown up nearly a week ago.

There was an almost tangible easing of the tension that gripped the nation during the past week of crisis.

There was no accompanying reversal of the military preparations which had been mounting toward an indicating bombing strike or invasion of Cuba.

Informed officials said they don't expect to see any substantial reduction in those land, sea and air preparations at least until this country is convinced the missile threat from Cuba is removed.

Even after that it is almost certain that aerial surveillance will be continued over Cuba to make sure there is no new sneak try at setting up ballistic missiles pointed toward the United States.

Authorities said the 14,000 Air Force Reservists who went on active duty Saturday probably will (Continued on Page Nine)

Girls Lose Tilt, but Catch Men

POUGHKEEPSIE, N.Y. (AP)—Those Vassar girls really know how to catch a man—especially if he's carrying a football around the line of scrimmage.

They know how to avoid being caught, too, when they happen to be carrying the ball. All they do is push their handschiefs a bit deeper in their pockets, or switch the hanky to another pocket.

Confused?

Well, so were the men from Siena College this weekend when an 11-gal team from Vassar College engaged them in a bit of gridiron tomfoolery. That's the closest anyone can come to describing this particular game of touch football, played at Vassar's "Wash Bowl" here.

Did we say "touch"?

Slight correction, please. At one point there was tackle by a male fullback who excused himself by saying, "I guess I just lost my head."

The girls were supposed to have an advantage with 11 players on the field to the men's eight.

But when the quarter rolled around, the girls discovered there were 10 males rushing them at the line of scrimmage.

"It's the best built line (of girls) I've ever seen," said one of the guys.

The gallant boys from Siena graciously agreed to a rules change.

They would consider themselves tackled simply by being touched

Subversion, Sabotage Still in Fidel's Power

By SPENCER DAVIS
WASHINGTON (AP)—Fidel Castro's prestige has suffered a damaging blow but his capacity for trouble-making subversion in Latin America has not been ended, American diplomats said today.

As fresh evidence of this authoritative sources cited the new signal given Sunday by the official Cuban radio for general terrorist agitation in Latin America.

The signal broadcast by the official Havana radio was heard by both U.S. and Venezuelan government sources. The instructions to Castro agents called for dynamiting Venezuelan oil facilities at Lake Maracaibo. Saboteurs knocked out one-sixth of Venezuela's oil production by blowing up four oil company power stations.

Radio Havana also was reported calling openly for an insurrection in Honduras.

Secretary of State Dean Rusk called in Latin-American ambassadors late Sunday to brief them on developments in the fast-moving Cuban crisis.

After the 45-minute session, the dean of the diplomatic corps, Ambassador Guillermo Sevilla Sacasa of Nicaragua, reported that Rusk "gave to us information of great importance to our respective governments."

He said the information was of a private character that he could not disclose.

Subversion, Sabotage Still in Fidel's Power

Sevilla Sacasa said, however, that the statement of Soviet Premier Khrushchev ordering a halt to the building of offensive missile bases in Cuba signified a real blow to Prime Minister Castro and Castroism.

The opinion of diplomatic experts was that Castro had been treated as a pawn by Khrushchev in his direct dealing with President Kennedy and this undoubtedly would stir not only resentment but division within the Castro regime.

One evidence of this, authorities said, was Castro's five-point demand that the United States hand over the big U.S. base at Guantanamo bay and end what Castro called the piratical quarantine of Cuba.

Another evidence that Castro has been stung by the weekend exchanges between Washington and Moscow was his call for all local Communist agents to go to work in Latin-American nations in a program of subversive activity against existing governments.

The Organization of American States is expected to meet in the near future to coordinate anti-subversion machinery.

The question of continued Castro-fomented subversion in the Western Hemisphere is considered a very real problem that the OAS is studying.
