Home by Supermarket Always Lacking Items

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—A house is a place where you can count on it that you are sure to run out of something you need.

Every home, be it hovel or palace, has a lack.
The mountains of real loss that confront us sometime during our existence are inescapable. These we take with a gasp. The splendor of our ordinary is made extraordinary by a disappearance, and we close ranks and go on. That is all we can do. We accept the major inevitable.

But it is the minor inevitabilities that rub us raw, the small dooms that we feel we could have avoided by proper planning.
We live on the frontier of an amazing plenty, but it seems to be our fate that we always run short of essential items.

we don't miss mink coats, yachts, and diamonds. These we can get along without tidily.

It is the things we can afford that we don't have.

For example, our home is chronically short of bathroom tissue, shoelaces, light bulbs, aspirin, sods water and canned chicken noodle soup.

Year after year I have had to face these shortages. We live across the street from a supermarket which stocks some 30,000 items.

Yet when a light bulb burns out we have none to replace it, there is never enough soda water in the refrigerator, and there is rarely a can of chicken noodle soup. On the other hand, half a dosen cans of beef and vegetable soup always adorn the shelves.

West opened the king of spades, and South saw he was going to reach dummy twice — once with each ace. This meant he could take exactly two finesses.

South really wanted to finesse twice in hearts and twice more in diamonds. Since the government didn't guarantee him four finesses he had to choose which two he was going to take.

Declarer decided to try the hearts. He won the first trick with dummy's ace of spades and led a heart to win a finesse with the queen. He got back to dummy with the ace of clubs and

The fact is that U.N. spelling has been something of a hodge-podge since the founding.

The U.N. Preparatory Committee met in London. Documents produced there appeared with predominantly British spelling.

The U.N. founding conference took place in San Francisco and the U.N. charter was written there. Ergo: American spelling.

But the United Nations brought in a lot of old League of Nations people as well as Europeans and Asians who learned their English from the British. The United States not a member of the League and there weren't many Americans on its staff, so the first secretariat officials leaned to British spelling and phrases.

Ron Cochran Stars On ABC News Show

By BUTH B. THOSPSON

Cohran — latest of the big-time selevision commentators to have a

Though he's challenging them

Eith, David Brinkiey and Chet Huntley."

Though he's challenging them in more ways than this, his last month's "invitation" to his CBS and NEC counterparts referred specifically to one of these fifty-mile hikes that White House approval abruptly made as fashionable for adults as the "laundroment" orems had earlier become for the college set. He followed up his telecast gauntlet with telegrams a mighty wise procedure considering they're all on the air on their respective networks at pretty much the same time.

Unlike Julius Caesar, Cochran finds the Ides of March just fine—for on the fifteenth he rounds out his first year on the "new AEC News Staff."

James Hagerty, former Risenhower presss secretary who is now wice pressis secretary who is now wice pressident in charge of news

News Staff."

James Hagerty, former Elisenhover pressis secretary who is now vice president in charge of news for ABC, toesed a hefty bouquet at the outset saying, "Cochran has proved himself one of the best reporters in television and radio. His appointment is another important step in our long range plan to build the ABC News Department to the foremost position among the networks." Cochran had, indeed, long since proved himself a champion with a record of taking on nightly newscast "silps" in Washington and New York and burning them into top rated shows in town.

As a sort of "advance annivermary present" you might say. Cochran several weeks ago saw his name go up in lights. What used to be "ABC Evening Report" is now "Ron Cochran With The News." Further, the network also treated him to a new set and a new production team.

Though he himself gets to the studio at 10:30 am. every day and stays until about 7:30 on a sormal day and "perhaps as lefte as 9:30 if a hig story is breaking that might mean major updating for the West Coust," he's quick to point out, it takes a lot of people to put this program together.

"I invent figured it out scaoting but off-the-ouff I'd guess that exect 10 man hours a day go in-know you can present 100 facts in 15 minutes and do it very dully, which is not what we're out to do, they want to hear—as well as the I believe in giving people the news they should hear but don't want to—in a way that will make them tune in. Remember," he said, "a television audience is strictly volumbery." He indicated they're using averything short of magic to attract that tune-in. One of Cochran's first actions was to utilize the commentary and was to utilize the commentary and reporting of AHC newsmen based in key areas around the country because "regional stories often take on national implications."

Cochran is well acquainted with both country and city living. He was born on the then-pionesr-edge of Saskatchewan, Canada, because that's where his American wheat farmer parents were living at the time. The family returned to Fairfield, Iowa, when Ron was 6 and he stayed in Iowa until his graduation from Parsons College. Then he moved on to Illinois. Cochran is well acquainted with

Then he moved on to Illinois.

"It's hard to believe now," he says, "but prior to World War II about the only job my degree in physics would get was as a teacher." That didn't appeal to him so he followed the advice customarily showered on him after an aply showered on him after an appearance with the college drama group or debating society, "Why don't you go into radio?" He got an announcer's job in Rock Island. He moved next to Des Moines and got "rather carefully supervised news training" from the "Des Moines Register and News which owned the station. This, he adds, was a lucky break, for news reporting had become the "aspecial province, otherwise on radio, of a group of rather flamboyant newsmen." flambovant newsmen.

"And have you specialized in news and broadcasting ever since?"

"Oh yes," replied Cochran, "es-cept for my wartime years with the FBI." What did he do? "Well," he

What did he do? "Well," he said dryly, "I learned a lot that few newsmen are privileged to find out shout espionage and subversion and about which I still cannot talk." He added that when some of the cases he had worked on later became publicly known "it was just like reading the old files." And he allows as how after that, no TV crisis is apt to faze him so he stuff that makes him happy. crisis is apt to faze him so he just doesn't worry about possible mechanical or electronic slip-ups.

He left his WCBS newscast after it had been rated "most wistched program in New York City." Why? Because CBS had issued an "either-or" to newsmad issued an "either-or" to news-men (they could no longer do both news and such commercial chores as emceeing, hosting or announc-ing.) The "news strip" had be-come routine so "I chose Arm-strong Theater and the free-lance route instead." It was his old as emceeing, hosting or announcing.) The "news strip" had become routine so "I chose Armstrong Theater and the free-lance route instead." It was his old CBS boss, Bob Lange, who had since trekked to ABC, who lured him into the ABC-Hagerty realm. "I guess," Cochran commented, "I though, just helping."

Does this mania for "building" mean he's a real-life do-it-yourself type around home Well, inside the house . . . no. He once read too many books on gardening and started telling Mrs. Cochran why things that grow only in the sun wouldn't thrive in the shade. She promptly turned over her rake to him and he reigned pretty much what ever happened to Frank McGrath? That's a Hollywood story, too. He hasn't been "seen," you might say, since one day back in 1957 when he showed up "scared to death" at a telefilm studio.

Hollywood on TV

By EESKINE JOHNSON Hollywood Corresp Newspaper Enterprise Assn. HOLLYWOOD - (NEA) "What Ever Happened to Baby Jane?" was a Hollywood story answered in the movie.

For 35 years before that day Frank feared neither man hase.

Frank feared neither man, beast falling off a roof or stopping a team of runaway horses. He was a movie stunt man and the best in the business.

What he was scared about that day in 1957 was a one-shot chance at a permanent role in the tele-vision series, "Wagon Train." He had "starred" in a hundred movie scenes as a stunt man, doubl-ing for stars, but never in his life had he appeared in front of a camera as himself or as an actor with lines to speak.

"And I wasn't about to that day in 1957, either," he laughed. "I was scared to death. I thought I'd grow a beard so people wouldn't recognize me, and it was a funny thing. Behind that beard I stopped being scared."

As things turned out, that beard gave McGrath the courage of Samson as an actor, and the role of Charley Wooster he plays on "Wagon Train" is one of television's beloved characters.

Under safe cover of the snow white brush on what he calls his "horseplayer's chin," he moved up from a few lines to recently polishing off an hour-long love episode with guest star Theima Ritter.

He takes a lot of good-natured kidding about his bristly trademark and he's not slow in kidding back in his processo way of talkback in his staccato way of talk-

When people ask whether his wife objects to him for not shaving year after year, he grins:
"She's become so accustomed to spending money she doesn't say much about it say more."

His big ambition is to shave some day and appear as himself on "What's My Line?" Early in the show's history, he did shave as the show's history, he did shave as a prelude to a love scene with Agnes Moorhead. "But," he laughs, "the incident 'healed, and I re-

Savings of $92.19 a year and more!

The major cost of home heating, of course, is the cost of the fuel or energy used, and here in Connecticut fuel oil is far cheaper than any of the other automatic fuels. A recent survey by a responsible national magazine indicated that the homeowner will pay up to 10% of his take home pay for maintenance, and heating costs. With the cost of living continually going up, it becomes more important now than ever to control major home operating costs. Savings, on fuel alone, in the Hartford area amount to almost $100 a year using Timken Silent Automatic Oil Heat. Important money that can well be diverted to other purposes by the wise home owner.

By DICK KLEINER

Actor William Redfield, featured in the long-run dramatic hit, "A Man For All Seasons," was a child actor. From the time he was 9, when he appeared in "Swing Your Partner" with Hope Emerson (who taught him risque songs), he worked in dozens of plays, He now has two sons of his own, and he fervently hopes they choose some other career.

William Redfield

"Acting." Redfield says, "is longer a profession which leads to an abundant life. I'm not talking about material things if successful, you can have a good life, financially, as an actor. I'm talking about artistic satisfaction.
That's what makes life truly abundant and that's almost impossible for an actor today."

Redfield says that acting—he defines it as "creating another human being and making him live"—is seldom demanded today.

He draws a distinction between stage actors and "businessmen" the Hollywood actors.

"They don't really act in movies," he says. "Spencer Tracy is a possible exception. But all the is a possible exception. But all the others may be great at their profession, but it isn't acting. It is impossible to act in bits and pieces, which is what they do when they make a movie or a filmed television show. That may take some skill and be hard work, but you can't call it acting." but you can't call it acting."

Redfield insists that even Br way offers little opportunity the abundant acting life. "Take the actor that I con the man with the most skill and talent," he says. "Trust's Marion Brando. He couldn't find enough branco. He couldn't had enough challenging acting roles on the stage, so he went to the movies. He's wasting his talent now. The talent has to have a place to go, so it comes out in odd ways—like playing Fletcher Christian with a lien."

As a movie stunt man who broke into the movie business in broke into the movie business in 1921 after running away from his home in Mound City, Mo., Frank's only real claim to Hollywood's idea of "fame" was being able to tell how he "killedi" himself. In an early western he played the dual roles of an Indian (courtesy of the make-up department) and one of John Wayne's ranch hands. One morning he led the Indians in an attack on the white settlers. In the afternoon he crouched behind a wagon wheel and, as the ranch hand, shot him-self as the Indian. It can be done in the movies, you know, with film 12:2 cutting.

Because of his diminutive Frank worked as a stunt double for heroines as well as heroes. As early as 1923, he wore a blonde wig and doubled for Laura LaPlante and

The eight companies, representing a major segment of the brass industry, and the five individuals were found guilty automatically Feb. 11 following a nolo contendre (no contest) plea. Each faces a maximum penalty of $50,000 fine and one year in prison. Speaking for more than an hour, Atty. Mansfield told generally of the industry's problems with import and foreign manufacturers and only occassionally referred specifically to Bridgeport Brass. He followed John Gilgay, chief of the New York Division of the U.S. Department of Justice antitrust section, who summarized the government's complaint. Mansfield said he could not give precise detail because of govern-ment charges against three Waterbury firms who are standing by their innocent plea.
