THE Herald Angle

EARL YOST Sports Editor

Dodge of Pontiac or Finner

It is difficult to find a man in Dillon's for his interest in sponsoring the annual Punt, Pass and Kick football competition for youngsters. Rated bowler, too, are Tom Conran and Harold (Pinky) Pohl who supervised the play. There was an oddity, so to speak, in the list of winners when Paul Dodge Jr. placed third in the 11-year-old group. Paul Dodge Jr. placed third in the 11-year-old group. Paul Dodge Jr. placed third in the 11-year-old group.

Off the Cup

Two deaths are being mourned in the local sports scene. Wesley Shotts, an 84-year-old, died last week and was buried in the West Hills and was registered in attendance watching the dog show during the fall and winter months. Jimmy Smith, the best pitcher ever seen in handling the Vernon Baseball Club, died last week. He was 70 years old and had been a member of the club since 1935.

Great Record

The Chicago Bears' record in the National Football League is the best in the history of the league. The Bears have won 11 consecutive games and are currently leading the league in points per game.

Named Smith

Earl Yost, sports editor of the Herald, has named Jimmy Smith as the best pitcher ever seen in handling the Vernon Baseball Club. Smith has a record of 100 wins and 50 losses.

Warning Issued

The Chicago Bears from Dick Scalet and Baltimore Colts' center, Doug McCardell, were warned to stop their antics. The Bears' antics have been causing a lot of trouble for the Colts.

Attendance Up

The attendance at the football games has increased significantly. This is due to the improved quality of the games and the excitement of the fans.

Top Performance

The performance of the Chicago Bears and Baltimore Colts has been exceptional. The Bears' defense has been particularly strong, and the Colts' offense has been very effective.

Democrats Can Gain Control Of 8 Boards in November

The Building Committee will lose three of its Republican members on Nov. 1, Truman A. Crandall who now serves as chairman, Frank J. Conway and Irving Twomey.

The Democratic-controlled board of directors will have an opportunity to erase the Republican control of 5-4 by appointing two Democrats and a Republican to this committee, on Nov. 1. The minority representation rule permits no more than six members of the majority party on a nine-man board.

The membership of the Town Development Commission at present is composed of three Democrats and three Republicans, plus the existence of one vacancy, created by the resignation of John Deme, who has moved to New Mexico.

Since the only term to expire on Nov. 1 is that of Atty. Allan D. Thomas, a Democrat, appointment of two Democrats would insure another Democratic-controlled commission.

The Library Board will lose two Republicans on Nov. 1, Charles F. Gibson and Russell B. Grannis. As constituted now, this board has three Democrats and three Republicans.

The existence of the two vacancies will permit the board of directors to make appointments to insure control of still another agency.

Herbert J. Passantelli's posts on the Pension Board and Pension Trust Fund Board expire on Nov. 1. The present count of two Republicans and two Democrats will undoubtedly remain the same.

The Town Planning Commission will find the term of Democrat Raymond Ellis expiring, Republicans control the board 3-2.

The Zoning Board of Appeals will undoubtedly remain unchanged after Nov. 1, since the only term to expire is that of Board Chairman John F. Clifford, a Democrat. Democratic majority on this board is 3-2.

The one-year term of Democrat N. Charles Boggini, as the town's representative on the Manchester Country Club Board of Governors, will also expire on Nov. 1. Indications are that Boggini will be reappointed to this post.

The expiration of the term of Dr. Douglas H. Smith, a Republican, from the three-member representation on the Capitol Region Planning Authority (CRPA), may not effect the balance of control.

Dr. Smith is an appointee of the Town Planning Commission (TPC) on the CRPA, as a consequence of an ordinance, passed by the board of directors early in 1960, requiring that one member of the three-men representation be a TPC appointee.

The committee now consists of two Republicans, with a vacancy existing because of the recent death of Dr. Pascal Poe, a Democrat.

The board of directors may appoint one Democrat to this committee, and the TPC (which will remain Republican controlled) the other.

At present, of the 13 permanent board-appointed town agencies, five are Republican controlled, four are Democrats and the remaining four have equal representation.

After the Nov. 1 vacancies are filled, it may be that the Democrats will have the majority on 8 boards, and the Republicans on two. The other three agencies will be divided, two Republicans and two Democrats on two of the committees, and two of each plus one independent on the third.

The 1964 elections could change the makeup of the town committees further, depending on which party gains control of the board of directors.

A Democratic victory would enable that party to gain control of 12 agencies in 1964, what a Republican victory would give that party only the opportunity to cut, somewhat, the predominance of Democratic controlled town committees and commissions.

Leo F. Houle of 54 Williams St., clerk at the main office, was rewarded for his suggestions of placing a chart outlining steps on computing bulk mail at the parcel post window and placing schedule of rates to foreign countries for access by clerks in outgoing section.

Raymond J. Laurent, clerk of 141 Highland St., received an award for the suggestion of placing a facing slip on each category of mail received at a critical time in the morning.

Herbert B. Crandall, clerk at the Parcel Post Station on Board St., of 334 Hilliard St. received a certificate of award for his idea of eliminating one sack for the North End section and replacing it with a sack for Bolton station, which will improve service in that area.

Rickard J. Moriconi of 155 Oak St., clerk at the main office at the Center, was given certificates and check for ideas of placing a job analysis in front of meter book to benefit men who set meters and to inform all RD patrons of correct form of address for improving rural routes service.

TWO YEARS IN TOWN Ed Walsh, manager of McDonald's hamburger restaurant at 46 W. Center St., where some 1,600,000 hamburgers have been served to Manchester families during the past year, Thursday will mark his second anniversary in business.

McDonald's, one of some 500 units in 45 states, who nationally have sold more than one billion hamburgers since the chain started in 1955, uses three or four tons of beef, a ton and a half of potatoes and almost 50 gallons of catsup in an average month. This year the entire chain will use an estimated 17,000 tons of beef and 2,400 carloads of potatoes, Walsh said today.

ASSISTANT DIRECTOR Donald G. Piper of 28 N. Elm St. has been appointed assistant director in the Bureau of Rights of Way in the State Highway Department.

The appointment was made as a result of a Merit System examination and organizational change in the bureau.

Piper, who has been with the highway department since 1923, will serve as immediate assistant to Arthur Oloot, director of the bureau.

Imogene Now 'Grindl' After 2½-Year Wait

By RUTH E. THOMPSON

"I'm a gypsy really. I've found out at last...or maybe just an escapist," Imogene Coca said describing the fun of traveling by bus to 120 cities with her actor-husband King Donovan. They toured a total of three plays and "Sometimes the company was so large there'd be several buses. We'd decorate them at Christmas and have competitions to see who had the best bus."

She also said, bringing things up-to-date, "I AM Grindl!" During the two and a half years Imogene was on the bus, "Grindl" her current Sunday night NBC comedy series (8:30 p.m.) was in the works. "It was that long ago that Bill Doner called me about the idea. Then I didn't hear anything more until they asked me to rush out this spring for the pilot." After that it was zip, zip, zip and on with the series with Imogene as a jill of odd jobs—a maid one week, an office receptionist the next, an amateur detective now and then, and misunderstandings all the time.

"Naturally I hope the public will learn to like 'Grindl' too, because I enjoy her so much," said the big-eyed, gentle voiced comedienne who as herself can count on a rapturous reception anytime.

I was on hand a few years back when she got the Peabody Award for her rollicking comic gems with Sid Caesar on the old "Big Show." How had she felt?

"Terrible. In the first place I didn't think I deserved it... and in the second place I got the only taxi driver in New York who didn't know where the Hotel Roosevelt was and so, as you know, I was late." Not too late though to impress the assemblage of television executives as gracious, beautifully dressed and since she wasn't pulling her face around like molten rubber... very pretty, as well as what they already knew, most deserving.

Taxes, however, are an old problem of hers. So is losing things. On a recent plane trip from Boston she lost all her credit cards, "all the time it's purses, scarfs, sun glasses," she moaned. Once when she was doing a stage show at the old Paramount and doubling at a night club, she lost a change of underwear and a dress in a taxi but was too timid to check but found "because what do you suppose they'd think?"

Though her first loyalty this season is to her series, Imogene may also do one of the variety comic turns that have made so many viewers yearn for "TV's good old days."

"Danny Kaye has asked me on his show, and how I'd love to work with him again. I'll certainly do it if I can."

Imogene, Danny and Max Liebman the producer all polished their budding careers at the now-legendary summer resort Tammamint.

A show-business child (her father was an orchestra leader, her mother a magician's assistant), Imogene started out to be dancer. While she was auditioning for "New Faces" one cold day in the mid-1930's somebody loaned her a man's racoon coat, and while she stood shivering at the edge of the stage waiting her turn, Leonard Sillman hired her as a comedienne.

By 1939 Max Liebman was producing "Straw Hat" on stage and Imogene was in it. Then in 1949 when he went into television with the forerunner of "The Big Show" he paged Imogene again to work with Sid Caesar.

Though she now lives in California, she got her first taste of it by a fluke and because of Max and Sid. "Max thought we should work together closely all that first summer and he decreed California. No distractions he said. So I went out and rented a house. But the others never showed up. Max went to Europe and Sid stayed home in New York."

After the glorious six years with Sid concluded, Imogene began alternating television with stage acting—much of it around the country thanks to that bus.

"You know it's odd but I'd never really toured before. Then King and I did three shows, "Thurber Carnival," "Once Upon a Mattress," and "Girls in 509" (which she'd also done on Broadway).

Her eyes grew even mellow as we went to bus-talk. "We had a compartment sectioned off at the back that was library, kitchen, living room, bedroom. Once when Everett Edward Horton was with us and we had a several day layoff, he talked us into the idea of flying to the nearest big city, Denver, and 'being civilized and going to a hotel. I hated to go. It hurt... like abandoning one's home.'"

But California seems to have compensations that have erased her bus-mania at last. When she had to take her recent quickie-trip East for interviews and appearances, the crew gave her a surprise going-away party. I know she was hoping for a welcome-home surprise, too. "I'd just gotten a little wild kitten's confidence on the set and in another couple of days I know I could have taken it into safe keeping. I hope to heaven somebody's been feeding it and it's all right."

Animal-love Coca needs a house...not just for the kitten but for the cat she already has, and the dog, and the duck. "My stepdaughter got him for me when she was home for Easter vacation. Why? Well she knew I'd had one once before. Oh he's still all right. Max Liebman paid 35c for it. It was doing fine but I had to find another home for it. A restaurant outside New York that keeps prize geese took pity on us. It was the only plain duck in the pond. But now they tell me it's mated with a Mallard and the offspring look like Dalmations."

She may think she's "Grindl!" but she's really Imogene and there's no one else quite like her, humorous, talented, sensitive and kind.

"Both timid and adventuresome" describes Imogene Coca in real life as well as here hanging on a window ledge for the fun of it in her new television series "Grindl" (NBC, 8:30 p.m. Sundays.)

The old man seems to thrive on the attention and he reminisces vividly about what he calls the diaper-days of movies.

It all started when he convinced Edwin S. Porter to expand a whole nine minutes of film on an old vaudeville sketch called "The Great Train Robbery."

"Before that, movies had been no more than two minutes long," he said. "Our backers were reluctant. They said audience wouldn't sit still for a whole reel. I said they would, and they did."

The film was a boon to the growing industry, and Abner Stone came to Los Angeles to seek locales for shooting Westerns.

So he bought a Peter B. Kyne story about Bronco Billy. Film had no name actor willing to take the role, he assumed it himself.

TV Personalities

Robert McCormick

Robert McCormick could probably write a history of the past three decades from his personal experience. He has covered election campaigns from Wendell Wilkie's to Konrad Adenauer's. He was shot at by Japanese snipers on Iwo Jima and by Communist rioters in Berlin, both while working for NBC News. McCormick was one of the 12 reporters who covered the first H-bomb tests on Bikini; he is one of the few reporters to travel every foot of the Iron Curtain (from Pansau to Lubek) since 1953. Furthermore, he is the only NBC reporter who is an Indian. Bob was adopted into the Blackfoot Tribe and dubbed Chief Three Suns as a result of a special one-hour news program he did on the government's treatment of the Indians. The revelations on this program led to a revision of government policies on Indian affairs; it is still being shown in schools and colleges. For this program McCormick won the Sherwood Award. Robert McCormick was born Aug. 9, 1911, in Danville, Ky. His family moved to Washington, D. C., after World War I. He was graduated from Eastern High School and attended George Washington University "until the depression fixed us, along with everyone else," he says. He broke into the news business at 18 as a copyboy for the Washington News, rising to reporter, sports editor, city editor and columnist. At the News, young McCormick was under the wing of the legendary Benjie Fyle, who was editorial chief of the paper at that time. In 1936, McCormick joined Collier's magazine as Washington correspondent and began carving a career of scoops. He had the first interview with Ernest King, Chief of Naval Operations and wrote a controversial article on a secret analysis of the latest U.S. weapons.

McCormick joined NBC in 1942 and in late 1943 was appointed chief of NBC's Central Pacific Bureau, with headquarters first at Pearl Harbor, later at Guam. For coverage of the war's end in the Pacific, NBC picked McCormick, who by that time felt he had covered almost every watery acre of that ocean.

In 1949, McCormick became head of NBC's Washington television news bureau and pioneered TV news with a version of the former radio program, "Camel News Caravan." McCormick describes early TV in Washington as "some 28 'high paid' employees, mobile camera units, a White House weekly half-hour show called 'Battle Report', a daily syndicated newscast sold to 60-odd independent stations, and heavens knows what else."

McCormick went to Europe for NBC in 1951 as manager of NBC-TV news, working out of Paris. He was transferred as bureau chief to Frankfurt, Germany, and later to Bonn, where he covered Adenauer's election campaign in 1953 and the first of the refugee stories in Berlin. He also organized and directed coverage of the Big Four Foreign Ministers' meeting in Berlin in 1954, the Big Four meeting in Geneva the following year and the Geneva summit conference. McCormick returned to Washington in 1955 and covered both political conventions in 1956. He became NBC's State Department correspondent and, later, Congressional correspondent. His NBC News specials included "Hawaii, the Newest State" and "Robert Ruark's Africa." McCormick lives in Bethesda, Md., with his wife Peggy. They have two daughters, Karen, 23, and Nora, 16.

Farmlands Wither, Water Supplies Low

Jerry McGee and his wife Doris Ann look over a stock pond on ranch land near Lewisville, Tex., which has been dried up by the prolonged drought plaguing part of the nation, including New England. (AP Photofax.)

CHICAGO (AP)—The drought belt extending Texas to New England remained explosively dry over the weekend as the effect on the nation's economy deepened. Scattered rains brought scant relief to some spots, but the loss to crops and property from the dryness and accompanying fires is expected to run into the millions of dollars. Fires have burned across thousands of acres of forests and woodlands. Pastures have turned brown. Wells and farm ponds have gone dry. Water is being rationed in some communities. The shortage of water has been felt in some of the major cities in the East. The drought has delayed the seeding of winter wheat in the Great Plains. Livestock production in many areas has markedly declined because of shortage of feed and water. Milk production in many areas was far below seasonal levels. Officials in several eastern and Midwest States have ordered the closing of many forests and woodlands. Hunting and fishing have been banned. Although light rain fell in central sections of the nation over the weekend, Weather Bureau officials said heavy rains are needed. A storm off the Atlantic Coast became a hurricane Sunday night. The hurricane, named Ginny, was accompanied by winds up to 85 m.p.h. A Weather Bureau forecaster said the storm, about 90 miles south-southwest of Cape Hatteras, N.C., could bring more wind than rain and thus increase the fire hazard in the parched Eastern forests. On the bright side of the dismal weather picture, the nation's major winter vegetable and citrus growing regions —

JFK Order Expected For Women's Rights

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy is expected to step more squarely into the battle of the sexes with an executive order carrying out his promise to do something about discrimination against women. Kennedy's order reportedly will set up a citizens committee and name Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz to work with it in trying to get women a better competitive break with men in jobs, education and other areas. The President's order could come within a week or two, reliable sources said today. But the real fight, said one Labor Department source, will come later when women seek a stronger presidential order to discourage discrimination against them by employers with federal contracts. Kennedy's expected action stems from recommendations by his Commission on the Status of Women. Asst. Secretary of Labor Esther Peterson, the commission's

Tories Hurt By Defections

LONDON (AP)—Lord Home, Britain's next prime minister, today faced an urgent job on the Conservative party's election machinery, disrupted by defections at the top. Home's hastily constructed Cabinet—largely a reshuffle of Harold Macmillan's—won general approval from Conservative newspapers and deflection from pro-Labor commentators. Editorial writers of both sides suggested the government must be handicapped by the refusal of Iain MacLeod and Enoch Powell to serve under Home. MacLeod, one of the younger Tory progressives who backed Richard A. Butler in last week's struggle for the leadership was expected to resign as joint chairman of the Conservative party. Informed sources said his co-chairman, financier Lord Poole, would resign with him. He had backed Science Minister Lord Hallham to succeed Macmillan. MacLeod and Poole were a formidable team in planning Conservative platform and finances for the national election next year. Their joint chairmanship probably will be turned into a one-man post and given to John Hare, 52, a former labor minister who took the sinecure post of chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster in the new Cabinet. Editorial reaction to Home's Cabinet ranged from "a good start" in the Conservative Daily Sketch to "grotesque" in the Laborite Daily Mirror. The Independent Times said the speed with which the Cabinet was produced was a good strength of the party.

Sides to Argue Tomorrow On State Reapportioning

By THOMAS M. STEWART NEW HAVEN (AP)—A problem that has been hopelessly mired in politics for decades—reapportionment of the Connecticut legislature—will be placed in the laps of three federal judges tomorrow in U. S. District Court. Until last year, the federal courts kept hands off in the disputes over how representation was allocated in legislature throughout the country. But that was before Baker vs. Carr, a Tennessee case. The U. S. Supreme Court held that federal courts could hear cases in which it was alleged citizens were denied their rights under the U. S. Constitution in the legislative reapportionment systems in their states. Since then nearly three dozen cases have been instituted across the country. Oral arguments in the Connecticut case, Butterworth et al. vs. Dempsey et al., will be presented before Judges Charles E. Clark, William Tamber, and

Events In State

State Approves Renewal Bonds HARTFORD (AP)—Urban renewal projects totaling $630,559 were approved today by the State Bond Commission. The bonding represents the state's share in the projects. Granted to the Bushnell Plaza project was $594,944, and to the Front-Talcott project, $35,615. The commission also approved: $500,000 to assist in construction of Rts. 730 and 607 in Wallingford. $89,400 for the East Main St. urban renewal project in New Britain. An increase of $1,500 to the previous allotment for the Norwich Water-Commerce St. project. Acting on the recommendation of State Public Works Director Timothy J. Murphy, the commission approved a cutback on specifications for the proposed mental health center in New Haven so that it will be tailored to the funds appropriated for its construction. Murphy advised the commission the bid for the project had been some $200,000 over the $4,992,000 which was authorized for the center. He pointed out that State Mental Health Commissioner Wilfred Bloomberg desired to retain the original specifications for the building but he was confident that a review of the project would develop areas where savings could be made. State Finance Commissioner George J. Conkling reported the state might receive additional private grants for the center but was not assured of them at this time. He also advised that further efforts should be made to determine whether or not all possible sources of federal aid had been explored.

Hurricane Moving Toward Northeast

Boy Gives Up Dog 'Stormy' To Help Rusty

HARTFORD (AP)—It isn't every shoshina boy who reads the front page of the newspaper. But Clarence Walker, 13, says he did yesterday because he had a picture of his dog, Stormy. Stormy was not just any old dog. She was a full-blooded German shepherd that cost him $25 and months of saving. And now she was in the pound. So Clarence was natural. Interested. Besides, he hadn't seen his six-month-old pup since she trotted off with his five-year-old cousin last Wednesday. Clarence might have run right down to the pound and claimed his dog, but he didn't. Instead, Clarence decided to give her away. With Stormy in the picture was 8-year-old Rusty Stackman, who had come to Hartford Saturday to see if the dog in the city pound might be Dame, the shepherd stolen last month from outside his West Quincy, Mass., home. Rusty had had five operations. (See Page Eight)

High Seas Endanger Two Ships

MANTEO, N. C. (AP)—Hurricane Ginny churned northeastward in open sea today, bringing gale force winds and high tides to the North Carolina and Virginia coasts. At least two ships were in trouble in the lashing waves. The U. S. Weather Bureau said at noon that Ginny was estimated to be about 115 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras. The storm, with top winds of about 80 miles an hour, was reported moving slowly toward the northeast at about five miles per hour. Winds along North Carolina's Outer Banks, a narrow, sandy strip of islands paralleling the coast, were reported only slightly above normal. A Navy hurricane hunter plane reported it had sighted the decommissioned Fogg, a destroyer escort adrift in the Atlantic since Saturday. The Fogg, with 10 men aboard, broke from its tow, the tug Salish, in high winds. A spokesman said the Fogg was reported upright but there was no word about the crew. The Salish also reported it was having difficulty in the turbulent Atlantic. The Outer Banks area and coastal regions of North Carolina relaxed. No extraordinary hurricane precautions were taken. Hurricane warnings are displayed in the Cape Hatteras vicinity south of Manteo. With the apparent turn of Ginny to the northeast, storm-wrecked vessels in this narrow, sandy island off the North Carolina coast relaxed. Telephone lines are down between Cape Hatteras and Manteo, a distance of about 35 miles, but communications are maintained through Coast Guard radio. Ginny became a hurricane Sunday night about 90 miles southeast of Cape Hatteras. The storm had been developing since Saturday. The storm spun 90-mile winds out for 60 miles around its center and reached out with gale force winds for 250 miles to the north and 170 miles to the south and west. Waves of 25 to 30 feet were reported lashing the Diamond Shoals lighthouse off Cape Hatteras, N. C. The Weather Bureau warned that flooding is likely at high tide. (See Page Eight)

Bloodiest Nose' for U. S. Side Vietnamese Routed

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—South Vietnamese and U. S. Army officers expected trouble when they planned a weekend attack on a Communist guerrilla unit deep in the Mekong Delta. Their fears were well founded. The battle, termed by U. S. advisers "the bloodiest nose" given President Ngo Dinh Diem's forces since a similar defeat Jan. 2, took place in a remote area of rice paddies and palm groves near Loc Ninh, 140 miles southeast of Saigon. A considerable distance from helicopter bases and out of reach of government artillery, the sector has long been infiltrated by guerrillas. Entrapped in fortified positions, Viet Cong heavy machine guns cut up two waves of South Vietnamese troops carried in by U. S. helicopters. Another government battalion brought in on foot failed to dislodge the Viet Cong's well-trained and well-equipped battalion. A third helicopter force was halted too. By Sunday morning, the Viet Cong had melted away in sampans along the many canals in the area. About 900 Vietnamese troops fought against a force of no more than 400 to 500 guerrillas, U. S. advisers said. "They (the guerrillas) were a well-trained, well-organized unit," said an American officer. "They had plenty of automatic weapons and ammunition." Four American crewmen were injured when a helicopter was flipped over in the mud. Another helicopter lost rotor control but made a crash landing at an airfield 25 miles away after the American pilot was struck in the back by a Communist bullet. Viet Cong machine gunners also wounded the American aviator. (See Page Eleven)

Troops Ready For 'Big Lift'

FT. HOOD, Tex. (AP)—A "let's get going" mood gripped this sprawling tank base today as the 13,500 men of the 1st Cavalry Division poised for the start of the historic "Exercise Big Lift" to West Germany. The lead jet C135 bearing Maj. Gen. Edwin H. Burba, the "Hell on Wheels" division commander, and his headquarters were en route to the airfield at midnight Monday. From then on, for three days, jet, turbo-prop and propeller-driven transports will ferry a stream of battle-dressed U. S. soldiers across the Atlantic 5,000 miles from deep in the heart of Texas to the heart of West Germany. Other planes of the Military Air Transport Service (mats) will be lifting artillery and truck outfits from Ft. Bliss, Okla., Ft. Eustis, Va., and Ft. Bragg, N.C. (See Page Eight)

Views of Rocky, Barry Split Widest on Rights

By JACK BELL AP Political Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Sen. Barry Goldwater disagree on some vital issues but they are in accord in advocating a two-front attack on President Kennedy in 1964. In answers to a series of identical questions submitted to them separately by The Associated Press, the two potential contenders for the GOP presidential nomination disclosed a deep division over civil rights. The New York governor and the Arizona senator voiced opposing views on how to provide medical care for the elderly, the need for right-to-work laws and whether there should be an immediate tax cut. In the international field they stood together in opposition to any American pull-out from Vietnam. Both cautioned against being lulled by Soviet overtures for peaceful coexistence. Their answers about what to do about the Cuba problem were relatively similar. They differed in degree over the limited nuclear test-ban treaty's effect. Rockefeller served notice he did not regard answers to the questions as a substitute for a face-to-face debate with Goldwater over party policies. Goldwater said he was willing to debate "the weaknesses of the Kennedy administration" but saw little value in Republicans debating Republicans. Both men picked foreign policy and the state of the domestic economy as prime two-pronged issues against Kennedy in 1964. The governor and the senator were asked if they felt a Republican could defeat Kennedy without strong electoral support from the South, where Goldwater reportedly has much more strength than Rockefeller. Goldwater said that to defeat Kennedy, would require "substantial electoral support from all sections of the country, not just any particular one." Rockefeller said he believes "that the Republican nominee, running on a forward-looking platform which really meets the nation's needs, will receive substantial support in every section of the country." The differences between Goldwater and Rockefeller were sharpest in response to a question as to what, if any, civil rights legislation Congress should pass. The senator said his "basic feeling is that legislation will not solve the civil rights problem." The governor contended that "the federal government has a deep moral and constitutional responsibility to guarantee equal rights for every American citizen." Goldwater said: "I completely oppose the public accommodation section (to enforce integration on business firms serving the public) as being unconstitutional and unbecoming." (See Page Three)

Diana Churchill Inquest Ordered

LONDON (AP)—Scotland Yard said today an inquest into the death of Diana Churchill, eldest daughter of Sir Winston, will be held Thursday. The body of the 54-year-old ex-wife of Commonwealth Secretary Duncan Sandys, was found in her house in London's fashionable Belgrave section early Sunday by her housekeeper. The British Press Association reported that the body was nude, and the Daily Mail that a bottle was discovered nearby. "It is understood," said the Mail, "that the bottle was taken away for analysis after a doctor and police were called to the house." Diana Churchill was married to Sir Winston Churchill. Bulletins Culled from AP Wires

HOME NAMES HARE LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Lord Home picked a new chairman for his Conservative party today to repair the rents of factional struggle and reorganize for elections. The new chairman, John Hare, minister of labor in the Harold Macmillan government, who now moves up to the House of Commons and takes on the title of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster to assure him a seat in the Cabinet. Home also began appointing junior ministers, picking cautiously from party inside circles and the ranks of those tested in other posts. There was a job for Maurice Macmillan, 42, son of the former prime minister, as economic secretary of the treasury.

CHINA REJECTED UNITED NATIONS, N. Y.

(AP)—The General Assembly rejected by a substantial margin today a new bid to seat Red China in the United Nations. The vote on the Albanian-Cambodian proposal was 41 in favor, 57 against and 12 abstaining. Ethiopia was absent. The result last year was 42 in favor, 56 against with 12 abstentions. It was the 14th successive year in which the issue had been sidetracked or in which the assembly had voted outright to keep the Peking regime out. The vote came after a week of debate which placed the spotlight on the ideological rift between the Kremlin and the Chinese Communists. The Soviet block voted solidly for seating the Peking government, but left it to Albania—follower of the Peking line—to carry the ball. As usual, the United States led the fight against handing over Nationalist China's seat to the Communists.
