Notes from the Road Race Pad

Weather, which was terrible a year ago with heavy rain and below freezing temperature, was just the opposite Thursday—just perfect, for an outdoor production such as the Five Mile Road Race. The temperature was 50 degrees and the sun was shining brightly at 10:30 when the field of 157 runners got off the mark. Since the race was revived in 1945, the weather on race days has been good on 17 thanksgivings in 19 years, only 1946 and 1952 being the "bad" years.

Miss Colbert Recalls Era of C. B. DeMille

By EUTH E. THOMPSON
Once upon a time there was a movie genius who made a spectacular about an Egyptian queen that made a fortune.

"His pictures usually did make money, you know," said DeMille's sweet-voiced Serpent of the Nile, the perpetually enchanting Claudette Colbert whom a West Coast critic, after comparing both versions, last week wrote, "A better Cleopatra for her day than Liz Taylor is in here."

"Commm-y" I used to tell him... but he knew what he was doing. And you always did things his way. Still, I'm going to be a little afraid to watch the program for fear they'll be using sequences that may prove pretty dated in style.

"The Program" is the special ninety-minute color documentary on DeMille titled, "The World's Greatest Showman," which is pre-empting every-thing between 8:30 and 10 p.m. on NBC Sunday (Dec. 1).

Miss Colbert—who's totally committed this season to dazzling Broadway with eight performances a week of the hit comedy "Irregular Verb to Love" will be represented on the NBC special only by vintage clips. However, a number of other big names who starred for DeMille will be on "live," including Gloria Swanson, Charlton Heston, James Stewart and Betty Hutton.

Remembering that James Stewart and Betty Hutton considered it such a privilege "to work for C. B." that they staged promotion stunts to get into "Greatest Show on Earth" (in which he was not recognizable and she had to raise her shoulder sockets swinging from a trapeze).

"Could hardly have been easier," she said, curling up in a quilted flowery robe in her dressing room at the Ethel Barrymore Theater. "He just asked me if I wanted to be Poppea in 'The Sign of the Cross.'"

"Then each of us got a jolt. I wasn't used to stripping." (The costume seems to have covered less territory, torso-wise, than our current bikini.) For his part he was used to flashier heroines and she was new era... streamlined and sleek.

"Then the Hayes office did something about the costume, added a jeweled belt which at least covered my navel. Before you knew it I was sinking on a couch, stroking DeMille's pet leopard, Becky, with a peacock feather."

She also appeared in one of the few "non-typical DeMille pictures—'Four Frightened People.' It just wasn't his dish." She concludes that not only did he handle the huge canvas and cast of thousands "like no one," he also needed it. He believed in building scenes and then milking them.

"But he shaped the times, very much, too. Henry Wilcoxon's rugged features were not standard for heroes at the time, but they became so." (Wilcoxon, who continued to star in DeMille Epics until the day after Pearl Harbor when he became the first Hollywood figure to enlist, turned to producing after the war... but still under the DeMille banner. Wilcoxon, incidentally is co-producer of "The World's Greatest Showman," which also marks his television debut).

Our interview was interrupted twice, the first for a backstage visit from Miss Colbert's high school English teacher, Mrs. Avery. (The Paris-born actress grew up in New York City). Then, still bubbling and gracious, she apologized for pattering off for a glass of water—not to drink, but in which to soak a painfully squashed hand. I was all for cutting the interview short when I realized what an extra ordeal it posed, but she was all for carrying on and she did.

DeMille, as she sums him up, left his mark on motion pictures because he threw himself wholeheartedly into his work. He was not "so sophisticated about spectacle that he patronized it, and he insisted, 'You've got to spell things out.'"

And talk about leaving marks on motion pictures, who can top Claudette Colbert? Equally facile with light comedy and heavy drama one wishes she'd find a part she likes, and be talked into making some new ones.

"Oh, I love movies, but I do like the stage, too. While I was rebuilding our new-old house in Barbados (the termites, though we didn't know it, had gotten there first) I kept reading scripts. There was nothing that wouldn't bore me to death for film opportunities and I have to like what I'm doing. Then "The Irregular Verb to Love" came along as a Broadway possibility and Cyril Ritchard wanted to direct it. But that wasn't enough for me, and I finally agreed only if he'd also co-star."

It should be required of all acting students that they attend and find out what real actors can do with their roles. Her rich voice is so beautifully placed she seems to be talking in a conversational tone, but it projects to the very last row. (Since she's in "The Hall of Fame of the World's Best Dressed Women" her wardrobe and chic are something else to inspire fledgling actresses.)

She's living now in a Manhattan penthouse. "We sold our big Hollywood house, moved half the furniture to Barbados and half to the smaller rented house the doctor is using." Her husband, noted surgeon Dr. Joel Pressman, is also head of the Department of Head and Neck at the University of California, makes flying visits whenever he can.

"WORLD'S GREATEST"

The unique career of producer-director Cecil B. DeMille (1913-1956) is described by some of his latter-day stars and illustrated by clips from his history-making films in "The World's Greatest Showman," a 90-minute NBC-TV color special, December 1. Early DeMille stars are sketched at left, above.

I walked away from the theatre in the rain straight into a stage door Johnny with an arm-ful of roses for the sometime-Cleopatra who's an all-time great lady.

Newspaper Enterprise Assn. NEW YORK (NEA) — The New Phil Silvers Show is a good deal like the old Phil Silvers show. The critics know it. The audience knows it. And Phil knows it.

"Sure, Grafton is Bilko," Phil says. "That's the hurdle I have to overcome. But let's face it—I was playing that character long before Bilko was ever invented. It's my style of comedy. If Grafton is Bilko, then Bilko is Silvers — and Grafton is Silvers, too. We're all the same guy."

silko, er, Grafton
"I realize there will be comparisons. Like Stafford Repp, who plays my boss, will be compared with Paul Ford, who used to play my colonel. But I hope, after the audience has seen the show for six or eight weeks, they'll forget it and just enjoy it."
Phil says it took a long time to find the right vehicle for (See Page Four) his current television entrant. After the Hiko show ended its hugely successful run, he cast about for several years for another idea. For a time he almost decided to play a publicity agent.

"But I felt," he says, "that the public around the country wouldn't understand a publicity guy's problems. When the factory idea was given to me, I grabbed it. A factory is universal—everybody everywhere can understand it."

Phil admits, quite openly, that this show is his "big push" financially. He owns it, completely.

"I didn't have the money," he says, "to make the films myself. So I borrowed on my residuals. My hope is that it will go three years, and leave me independent. That will take care of my wife and family (four daughters, expecting "one or two more" in January). After that, I can do what I enjoy the most—the Broadway stage."

Teacher John Novak (series star James Francus) won a pretty remedial reading instructor, Ariel Wilder (guest star Patricia Crowley), only to find that one of her students is giving him competition, in "Love in the Wrong Season," NBC-TV's "Mr. Novak" drama, Tuesday, Dec. 3 (7:30-8:30 p.m. EST).

Bumper to bumper, cars move north on Wilbur Cross Parkway Sunday in Orange as holiday weekend came to end. State Police reported heavy traffic also in upper reaches of parkway—on the Berlin Tpke. and Wilbur Cross Highway (Rt. 15 north of Hartford.) (AP Photofax.)

Holiday Toll: Three Die in State Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Three traffic deaths in Connecticut during the long Thanksgiving weekend brought the state's 1963 highway death toll to an unofficial 299 today.
The toll from 6 p.m. Wednesday to midnight Sunday was low in comparison with some other weekend fatality lists this year.
The victims died Thursday and Friday. They were:
Sophie Klimaszewski, 83, of Waterbury. She was hit by a car in Waterbury Wednesday night and died Thursday.
Dennis Reardon, 28, of Essex. He was the driver of a car that struck a tree in Essex Thursday. He died Friday night.
Ronald Newberry, 15, of Stafford. He was thrown from a car when it sideswiped two trees in Somers Friday.
The nation's traffic deaths during the Thanksgiving holiday weekend topped the 500 mark for the second consecutive year.
The count during the 102-hour period which started at 6 p.m. (local time) Wednesday and ended at midnight Sunday showed 510 persons lost their lives in motor vehicle accidents. The death toll during last year's four-day Thanksgiving weekend was 514, the highest since. The Associated Press started its count for the holiday period in 1955. The low toll for the holiday is 442, set in 1960.
Deaths appeared running at about the rate of a non-holiday weekend until Sunday when they

Big Leoni Lead Shows Venezuelans Anti-Cuba

He Leads Top Rival By 90,000

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP)—Raul Leoni surged into a strong lead today in the tabulations for the presidential election.
With unofficial tabulations one-third completed, Leoni held a margin of nearly 90,000 votes over his closest rival.
The mounting vote for Leoni appeared to indicate a resounding popular support for the strong stand outgoing President Romulo Betancourt has taken against Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuban regime.
In recent days, Betancourt's government called for strong measures against Castro, including armed action if necessary, by the United States and the nations of Latin America on the ground that Cuba was trying to export its revolution to the hemisphere.
A big victory by Leoni, candidate of Betancourt's Democratic Action party, would hand the Castroite terrorist underground in Venezuela its second major setback. Sunday, when voters turned out in record numbers despite threats of attacks by snipers.
The unofficial results of the tabulation of 33 per cent of more than three million votes: Leoni, 293,332; Jovito Villalba, the Republican Democratic Union, 205,281; Arturo Uslar Pietri, an independent, 189,812; Rafael Caldera of the Social Democrats, 176,178; Wolfgang Larrazabal of the Democratic Popular Force, 83,881.
Voided ballots were running about four per cent in the unofficial tabulations.
The Castroite terrorists had called for voters to cast blank ballots. There was no way of telling at this stage how many of the voided votes were blank.
The pro-Castro Armed Forces for National Liberation threatened to those who voted and kept up the bombing, sniper fire and sabotage with which it sought during the campaign to provoke a military overthrow of Betancourt.
The voters were not intimidated.

Phoenix Mutual Drops Anchor In City Plaza

HARTFORD (AP)—Top officials of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Co. this morning dedicated their new home office at One American Row.
Standing in the windswept bow of the 13-story boat-shaped structure, Benjamin L. Holland, chairman of the board, and Lynn Batty, 36, of South Meriden, dropped an anchor made of blue and white carnations into the reflecting pool at the base of the tower.
A little over two years ago Holland and Miss Batty, at that time the company's youngest policy holder, shared ground-breaking ceremonies at the site.
Lyndes B. Stone, president, welcomed the employees to their new building, and said the dedication was one of the "really significant" moments in the history of Phoenix.
Stone cited the "radical" departure from the beaten track of standard architecture for business offices" then revealed he was quoting from an article written in 1928 after the company had moved into its home office at 79 Elm St.
Mrs. Laura Cava, president of the Phoenix Mutual Club, presented an engraved silver tray as a gift from the employees' club to the company's new establisment.
The ceremonies were carried over from Nov. 25, when it was

Connecticut River Said Health Threat

HARTFORD (AP)—A U.S. Public Health Service study team today said the Connecticut River in Massachusetts is so polluted it "endangers the health and welfare of persons in Connecticut and . . . is subject to abatement" under federal law.
This recommendation was contained in a report of a study of the Connecticut River given by Francis W. Kittrell, in charge of water pollution evaluation for the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare's Robert A. Taft Sanitary Engineering Center in Cincinnati.
The study began in late September and ended in early October.
At least one Connecticut official lent support to the idea of federal action to hasten the abatement of water pollution in the Connecticut River. He is Rudy Frank, chairman of the Connecticut Board of Fisheries and Game.
But Joseph C. Knox, executive secretary of the New England Interstate Pollution Control Commission said "Federal enforcement action is entirely unnecessary." All of these men spoke at a conference on pollution of the Connecticut River called by the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare at the request of U.S. Senator Abraham A. Ribicoff.
William S. Wise, chairman of the State Water Resources Commission, challenged the report on which Kittrell's recommendation was based. Wise said:
"It (the report) does not represent a balanced picture of the river's condition but purports to show it in the most unfavorable light . . .
"A formal hearing for the purpose of considering the pollution of this great river . . . and a report should not be confined to only a few aspects of the conditions."
Worthen H. Taylor, chief sanitary engineer for the Massachusetts Department of Public Health, joined in arguing against federal action. He stated:
"The department (in Massachusetts) does not believe that

First Troops Tomorrow to Leave Saigon

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States will send 300 servicemen home Tuesday in the first phase of the withdrawal of 1,000 American military men from South Viet Nam.
Gen. Paul D. Harkins, commander of U.S. forces in South Viet Nam, said the other 700 servicemen will leave in the next two or three weeks.
The United States has about 17,000 military advisers and men in South Viet Nam to help fight Communist guerrillas.
U.S. Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara said earlier this year major U.S. involvement in the anti-Communist campaign is expected to end by 1965.
The first withdrawal will primarily affect supporting units in Saigon and will not immediately reduce the Army section which handles most of the training of Vietnamese ground forces.
Communist guerrilla activity continued at the stepped-up tempo which has characterized it since the overthrow of President Ngo Dinh Diem a month ago.
On a lonely road near Tinh Dien, 115 miles southwest of Saigon, an American special forces enlisted man was killed and another soldier wounded in an ambush. The ambush was touched off when a truck carrying the two Americans and Vietnamese soldiers ran over a mine. Nine Vietnamese soldiers were wounded.
The American fatality brought to 80 the number of Americans

To Honor Oppenheimer

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson called two Cabinet officers and his budget director to the White House today for conferences on economic and defense matters.
The sessions with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, Secretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges and Budget Director Kermit Gordon follow hard on the heels of a busy Sunday at the White House for the new President.
At his desk Sunday, Johnson drafted a letter to defense contractors asking their cooperation in cutting defense costs, and the White House announced the dates when West German Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, Italian President Antonio Segni and British Prime Minister Sir Alec Douglas-Home will visit him.
Johnson began his work day with a morning visit from Whitney Young, director of the National Urban League. They discussed Negro unemployment.
Young said he urged Johnson to launch an emergency public works program, and the President asked for written suggestions on the proposal.
Young said he has worked with Johnson on other civil rights projects and didn't "regard him as any Johnny-come-lately in the field of civil rights."
In late afternoon, Johnson presents the $56,000 Enrico Fermi award to controversial nuclear physicist J. Robert Oppenheimer.
Oppenheimer directed the Los Alamos laboratory where the atom bomb was developed during World War II. In 1954 he was declared a security risk by the Atomic Energy Commission. The commission did not question his loyalty, but by a 4-1 vote barred him from further access to atom secrets.
Last April, the White House announced in recognition of his contribution toward devel-

Ex-Convict Kills Wife, Preacher, Self in Church

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—An ex-convict walked into an Asheville church Sunday night and killed his divorced wife, the minister and himself with blasts from a shotgun.
Police said Walter H. Bailey, 57, entered the West Asheville Assembly of God church just before the Rev. Lester Cobb, 44, started the sermon and demanded to see his ex-wife, Ruby Bailey, 50.
As Mrs. Bailey huddled on the floor between pews, hidden under the coats of other members, the Rev. Mr. Cobb pleaded with Bailey to leave.
The shooting started when Bailey

Union Wants Railroads Up Pay by 25%

CLEVELAND (AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen, the key operating union in the current railroad work rules dispute, has demanded a 25 per cent wage increase from the nation's railroad.
Other demands served Sunday by the 78,000-member union were for supplemental pensions and company-paid health coverage. The Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers previously had asked the railroads for pay increases.
In Washington, a spokesman for the American Association of Railroads said the organization would have no immediate comment.
An arbitration board issued recommendations last Tuesday that would involve the elimination of up to 33,000 firemen's jobs.
The five operating unions and the railroads were to settle wages and other issues between themselves under the emerg-

The 4-Day Ordeal of Jacqueline Kennedy

WASHINGTON (AP)—The grave of President John F. Kennedy was visited Sunday by an estimated 45,000 persons, among them President Johnson and his family. Johnson placed a bouquet of red roses on the grave. The line of visitors formed before the gates of Arlington National Cemetery were opened at 8 a.m. Those within the cemetery were permitted to remain in line when the gates were closed at 5 p.m.
EDITOR'S NOTE—In the following story, Frances Lewine AP reporter who covered the activities of Mrs. John F. Kennedy during her White House years, recreates in step-by-step detail the former First Lady's ordeal, from the start of the day on which the 38th president was assassinated in Dallas, through the funeral services in Washington.

WASHINGTON (AP)—She chose a gay pink suit that day and was late getting started. Her husband explained her absence to several thousand cheering Texans.
"Mrs. Kennedy is busy organizing herself," he confided in an 8:45 a.m. politicking appearance. "It takes a little longer, you know, but then she looks so much better than we do."

Contradictions Filled Mind, Acts of Oswald

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP)—The picture of Lee Harvey Oswald which emerges so far is that of a crybaby, self-centered, undisciplined, half-educated, a mind too poor to understand what he read, and with delusions about himself.
When the facts are all in, he may look different. But this ex-Marine, 24, assassinated after being charged with killing President John F. Kennedy, was a nobody who clearly wanted to be somebody.
It may turn out he was part of a conspiracy. But the information revealed up to this time indicates the exact opposite. He called himself a Marxist without seeming to understand a Marxist revolution is a job for an organization. Oswald was too undisciplined to be a good organization man.
He boasted about the books he had read, but he never learned to spell well. He was dissatisfied with the American society but never learned how to do a job well enough to climb it so he could support himself in this society.
And while he kept talking of a more perfect society, in this one he skipped out on his rent. He called himself pro-Castro and anti-Castro. He glorified the Soviet Union and wanted to write a book condemning it.
He complained about the hardships his mother had suffered during the depression, before he was born, but the evidence indicates that after he was able to go to work, he contributed little or nothing to her support.
He complained to a family friend he was out of work and his wife was expecting their second baby. The friend drove to New Orleans for the wife and first child, returned to her home in Dallas with them, and took care of them for weeks.
