State Funds to Finance Some Work on Town Roads

A $90,000 road paving program will be financed from state highway aid funds - has been planned for town roads in the state.

The new road program will include about 35 miles of street paving; about 35 miles of street reconstruction; and about a mile and a half of street reconstruction or resurfacing and new berms.

The town financed program, which actually began last fall and was picked up again when men and equipment of Roncar Construction Co. went to work on Croft Dr. yesterday, will include resurfacing of about 10 miles of roadway.

Roncar crews will be permitted to resurface roads in Woodhill Heights, including the road from the intersection of the road and French Rd. when they are complete, the crews will move in a counter-clockwise direction to other designated areas of town.

The list of streets to be resurfaced now includes all of Love Lane, Falkner, O'Leary, Trebbe, Thompson, High, Cedar, Elm, New, Laurel, Chestnut, New, Windsor, Arvin, Stock, Blaisell, Florence, Maple, Aldridge, Battista, Virginia, Anardi, Towson, Virgil, Glenwood, Benton, Arnot, Vermont, Greenwood, Ipswich, Marston, Coleman, Fenwick, Haulers, Barry, N. Elm, Elm, Henry, and Main.

The state aid financed program is needed particularly, according to Town Engineer Walter Plank, in three areas - South St., Gleason St. and Oakland St.

But, according to Plank, there may be right-of-way questions which may be settled before the work can progress.

He proposes that the work be done in a counter-clockwise direction, specifically for the job about French Rd. when they are complete, the crews will move in a counter-clockwise direction to other designated areas of town.

Judge House, himself a Shriner and one of the original drafters of the Omar Club by-laws, was surprised by the 42 Nobles attending when he was presented a huge birthday cake. Yesterday was his birthday. Suitably decorated, the scene was of a courtroom, the judge sitting at the bench, the backdrop displaying the flags of the United States and the State of Connecticut.

This morning, 110 youngsters from the Manchester area were the guests of Omar Shrine Club and Kiwanis Club at the Shrine Circus at Hartford State Armory.

Omar next meets on Friday, May 22, at the Country Club, and it will be the second annual Blue Lodge Night.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Now you take your average well-constructed monster. He is light in weight, being made of plastic and/or rubber. He also has an occasional refinement man might find useful, like a sipper up the back of his head.

But he has drawbacks, too. Jas William O. Douglas Jr. has learned the hard way.

Douglas, who is much too nice-looking to be hidden from view, has played the monster in a half-dozen episodes of ABC-TV's Outer Limits. And he has no complaints, outside of those that comprise this story. He has even signed a contract to be all the monsters for The Outer Limits next season. (On this score, some say yes it will, and some say no it won't).

The premiere monster in Bill's repertoire, and the one that will always be close to his heart because of its experimental nature, was the Galaxie Being which appeared on the first show of the season.

"I wore a black skin diver's wet suit backwards," Bill said. "It was covered with glycerine which picked up the lights in sticky patches. What was seen on the screen was a negative print, with the suit white and the highlights black."

The Director's Megaphone
"The main problem was that the megaphone was so tight over my ears, and the oxygen made such a hissing sound, I couldn't hear a word the director was saying," Douglas laughed. "He got an old-fashioned megaphone, and would stand close to me, shouting through the megaphone 'MOVE-TO-YOUR-LEFT.' I would hear a faint voice from the distance. I could see everyone in the studio in stitches."

Douglas, the son of the Supreme Court Justice and a former student of French mime Marcel Marceau, says playing monsters is a definite challenge to an actor's art. "The face is hidden, and the voice is generally distorted. So, if they are to be made anything but lunging hulks the characterization must be done with the body, or a tilt of the head. I have the feeling that if anyone were to rip off my megaphone during a scene, he would find that underneath I have a similar expression on my face."

Heavy Breathing
There are good moments. Like the personal appearance he made in Houston, dressed in one of his monster suits. "It was in a hotel auditorium, and I was waiting to go on, leaning against the wall, right next to a powder room door.

"The door opened and two very pretty, beautifully dressed, young ladies came out. It was probably because they were so pretty that I couldn't resist turning around and hunching over like the monster I was.

"The first one screamed, the second tried to see what she was screaming at, they tumbled over each other trying to get back inside. They finally made it."

"I couldn't resist peeking in after them. They were nowhere in sight, but behind a closed door I could hear their very heavy breathing."

Bell Tolling For Boxing

Should professional boxing be outlawed, or should it get one last chance to regain the respectability it once enjoyed as the "manly art of self-defense"? This is the question to be probed in "Boxing's Last Round," an NBC News color special to be narrated by David Brinkley Tuesday from 10-11 p.m.

Graphically presenting both sides of the ledger, "Boxing's Last Round" will show the brutal and sometimes degrading results suffered by many professional fighters after a career in the ring. It will also show the hope it holds out for some young athletes who are striving to rise above an underprivileged social status by using their fists.

As an archetype of the profession today, "Boxing's Last Round" will document the life of Bobby Foster, a 25-year-old Washington, D.C., heavyweight. The father of four small children who works as a garage man and a nightclub bouncer to help support his family, Foster sees the vision of "The Championship" as the answer to all his dreams of financial and social success.

Around, under, and through the story of Bobby Foster, however, will be entwined a thorough study of contemporary boxing — the sport, profession, and business.

According to Stuart Schulberg, who directs as well as coproduces the program, the ultimate decision on the future of the fistie arts in this country rests with the American people. "This program," says Schulberg, "may help to bring about the correct decision."

A CHORUS GIRL NAME-CHANGING
NEW YORK (AP) — NBC's forthcoming Dennis Weaver comedy series, having been titled "Kentucky's Kid" and "Kentucky," now will be called "Kentucky Jones."

TV Unsubtle In Creating Characters

NEW YORK (AP) — Television, limited mostly to half-hour and hour shows, has the perennial problem of establishing characters quickly, effectively and unmistakably.

That is the reason that the medium continues year after year to use a handful of easily identified status symbols.

For instance, very rich people in televisionland drink a lot of hard liquor. It is found in decanters atop a living room bar, near a gleaming ice bucket and ice tongs, which they use.

As the characters move down the social and financial scale, drinking becomes progressively more primitive until we find inhabitants of flop house rooms pouring shots from the bottle into a water glass.

Women's costumes are often a strong clue to the character's social position. Wealthy women seem to float around the house all day in elaborate chiffon peignoirs, changing only occasionally into street clothes and expensive furs or extravagant ball gowns for a quiet evening at home.

Poor people, it can be noted, spend much time in their kitchens, and eat a lot. The men are likely to be in their shirt sleeves and the women wear practical aprons, and sometimes we see them with their hair in curlers.

Rich older men, the tycoon type, are usually cigar smokers—big, fat cigars. They almost always wear homburgs, are rude, and drive around in big, fat limousines. Practically all other rich people drive convertibles, and the richer they are, the bigger the convertible. No one ever takes the key out of the ignition.

Rich women most often are terrible snobs if they are middle-aged or pretty wild and mentally disturbed if they are young. Either type speaks with a broad "a," which instantly denotes private school education. There are other incidental clues for the initiated. Rich people have but flowers, oil paint-

A Two-Part Study Of De Gaulle Begins

An unprecedented study in depth of the towering figure whose vision of France's destiny has shaped world history will begin on "CBS Reports: De Gaulle: Roots of Power" on Wednesday from 7:30-8:30 p.m.

The second half of the two-part series, "CBS Reports: De Gaulle: The Challenge," will be broadcast one week later, on May 6.

In both parts of the series, Charles Collingwood, whose personal coverage of Charles de Gaulle's career dates back to the days when the French leader was heading the Free French forces in World War II is the reporter.

Producer William K. McClure spent 18 months researching the two-part documentary which shows why the history of France from the early dark days of World War II to the present era is inescapably the personal history of Charles de Gaulle. During this 18-month period, McClure culled unusual film footage from the hundred of thousands of feet of historical motion pictures garnered from archives in France, England, Germany, the U. S. and other countries.

"De Gaulle: Roots of Power" examines in detail and largely in his own words the personality, the philosophy, the motives and the image of the man who rallied a defeated, humiliated nation and raised it to powerful affluence. It also describes the French leader through the eyes of two early associates, one of whom is credited with "discovering" the genius of De Gaulle when he was a young maverick army officer, and the other with bringing De Gaulle to England and saving him from the death penalty decreed by the Vichy Government.

Ex-Premier Paul Reynaud, who placed De Gaulle in his cabinet just before the fall of France under the Nazi steamroller, recalls how he named the aloof soldier Under-Secretary of War, British Major General Edward L. Spears relates how he brought De Gaulle from France to England in a perilous flight and thus presented him with the opportunity to establish the Free French headquarters in London.

Also appearing in "De Gaulle: Roots of Power" is Maurice Schumann, present head of the Foreign Affairs Committee in the French Assembly. Schumann gives a penetrating view of the French leader, based upon a long relationship going back to pre-World War II events.

The documentary frankly examines the reasons why De Gaulle and Franklin Delano Roosevelt never understood each other's policies. It explores, too, the reasons why Winston Churchill once declared that the heaviest cross he had to bear was the Cross of Lorraine—the symbol of De Gaulle's crusade to restore France to a position of power and prestige.

Striking films, discovered by McClure in his search for rare footage, show De Gaulle as an obscure lieutenant colonel, in the early days of World War II, thrust into the background by more important personages. Other films, shot by both Allied and Axis photographers, show France under the heel of the conqueror and the crushing burden of devastation wrought by the Nazis.

"De Gaulle: Roots of Power" traces De Gaulle's career up to the point where he consented to come out of retirement to head up the Fifth Republic and shows him reassuring a disoriented people, "Why should I, at 67, begin to be a dictator?"

Nepotism Is When Relatives Have No Talent - Groucho

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)— "Nepotism? I'm crazy about it," said Groucho Marx with his usual studied irreverence. "Too bad I'm getting too old for it."
 Irreverence aside, the acidic comedian seems to be doing all right by his family these days. Last night his lovely wife Eden joined him on the Bob Hope show in "Time for Elizabeth," a play written by Groucho and Norman Kraama.

Recently he appeared on the Steve Allen Show to introduce a new folk music act composed of his grandchildren. "But that wasn't nepotism," he declared. "Nepotism is when your relatives have no talent."

What of various other Marxes? Daughter Melinda is nearing 18 and making sounds of wanting to be an actress. "I never suggested it to her," said Groucho, "and that's the surest way to make her want to do it." Son Arthur is co-authoring a new television series, and brothers Gummo and Zeppo are involved in orange growing. And Harpo?

"He told me seven years ago he was retiring and he works harder than I do," said Groucho. "Right now he's touring the Northwest making appearances for United Jewish Welfare. I didn't even know he was Jewish."

With his family so actively employed, you'd think that Groucho might enjoy a leisurely life. Such is not the case. He continues his frequent television appearances—last week he did two of Carl Reiner's "Celebrity Game" shows in one night—and he wouldn't be adverse to taking on another series like his long-running "You Bet Your Life." He is considering two or three opportunities to do so.

Groucho was divesting himself of opinions at a high-toned Beverly Hills luncheon spot where he indulged in his favorite sport of head water-baiting.

"Do you call this a full portion of cheesecake?" he demanded. "It's sliced so sharp you could shave with it."

He spoke fondly of "Time for Elizabeth," which has long been a cause with him. He wrote it with Kraama over a two-year period 15 years ago, but got involved in television before he could play it on Broadway. It flopped with another actor as star. Then Groucho did it in summer theaters for three years with great success.

Viewers Like Live Stars

By CYNTHIA LOWEY
NEW YORK (AP)—Commercial television may be free, but experience has shown that the viewing public is happy to spend hard cash to see their favorites in the flesh.

Result is a flourishing and extremely profitable sideline for many popular television performers. It is personal appearances, summer theatre performances and special acts for fairs, rodeos and exhibitions. Stars of westerns are always in demand for state and county fairs and rodeos.

Lorne Greene of "Bonanza" and James Drury of "The Virginian" have acts, which, like most others, involve horses, a singing group and one number kidding Hollywood cowboys. Andy Griffith occasionally does a country-style show.

Panelists on the more popular game shows, including Arlene Francis, Orson Bean, Peggy Cass, Betty Palmer and Henry Morgan, are much in demand. Performers who are not considered actors by the television public are very popular with audiences. Among them are Merv Griffin, Allen Ludden, Hugh Downs and Ed McMahon.

Coming Shows

"Shakespeare: Soul of an Age," with Michael Redgrave and Ralph Richardson will be repeated tomorrow on NBC-TV from 10-11 p.m.

"The Flamenco Theatre," on the art of Spanish Flamenco dancing, will be presented tomorrow on CBS-TV's "Camera Three" from 11-11:30 a.m.

Aerial photography as a secret weapon is examined in "Cameras Aloft, Secrets Below" on CBS-TV's "The Twentieth Century" tomorrow from 6-6:30 p.m.

Elizabeth Taylor and Spencer Tracy star in "Father of the Bride" on NBC-TV's "Monday Night at the Movies" from 7:30-9:30 p.m.

Fire in Meriden Destroys Three Industry Buildings

MERIDEN (AP) — Fire authorities were looking for the cause and owners were totaling their losses today in a fire that swept through an industrial block, destroying three buildings. Meriden firemen, supported by fire fighters from 11 communities, battled the blaze as it aged out of control for over two hours. Flames shot high, attracting Sunday afternoon spectators to the block between Elm and High Sts. in the center of the city. The three buildings that were destroyed housed the Royal Park Silver Co.; the Esbec Finishing Division Plant; the Connecticut Telephone and Electric Corp.; and C. N. Flagg and Co., Inc., plumbing and heating contractors. Firemen were able to save an adjoining building owned by Connecticut Telephone and Electric Corp., manufacturers of inter-communication systems; the nearby municipal garage; and a building that houses the Towle Manufacturing Co. The fire was believed to have started in silver company's 50 by 200-foot, one-story building. Flames jumped to a two-story building that housed the Esbec firm and then to another two-story building that housed the Flagg firm and the Connecticut Telephone and Electric Corp. A spokesman for the Flagg firm said losses would be well over $100,000. Joseph J. LaPorte, manager of the Esbec Barrel Finishing Corp., which has headquarters in Stamford, said about $25,000 worth of equipment was destroyed at the finishing division plant. The firm is known as a tumbling job shop. Its equipment takes rough edges off metal products. The silver company had gone into voluntary bankruptcy and was scheduled to be auctioned tomorrow. Silver plating machines and stock were destroyed. Fires caused damage in two other cities yesterday. In Hartford, a large, old structure in Colt's Park burned down last night, and a large supply of city-owned sports equipment was destroyed. The two-and-a-half story building has served as a warming house for ice skaters, a dance pavilion and storage building in its time. In Bridgeport, a three-story apartment building was damaged by fire yesterday. Fire officials said the fire left the six-family building uninhabitable. No one was reported hurt.

Events In State Wade-in Planned At Lake

NEW HAVEN (AP) — A New Haven Negro minister said today he is planning a "wade-in" at Andover Lake in late May or June to force what he calls a segregation issue. The Rev. William M. Philpot, minister of Community Baptist Church, has owned property at the lake for some eight years, but his three efforts to join a property owners association have been rejected. He said he has been denied privileges due a property owner at the lake, which is located about half way between Manchester and Willimantic. Said the minister: "I look forward to using the lake without interference this summer. I plan to force the issue by confronting the Andover Lake Property Owners Association in a direct way..." The organization is a private corporation. The minister said he expects to meet with his attorney to iron out details of the "wade-in," and probably base any future legal action on the reception he gets at the lake. The Rev. Mr. Philpot and Rev. George Ritter of Hartford say that the association's refusal to give the minister membership is illegal. Meanwhile, the Friends of the Andover Committee on Equality (FACE), a citizens' group helping to raise funds for a test case, said it had received $1,500 in contributions. A spokesman for FACE also said it needed $1,500 more to meet its goal of $3,000 to be used to finance the minister's legal battle against the lake association.

Crashes Kill Eight in State On Weekend

By The Associated Press Eight persons died in traffic accidents, a young man was drowned and another was crushed to death over the weekend in Connecticut. The state's 1964 highway death toll jumped to 87. Last year at the same time 93 persons had died on the highways. One of the highway accidents, in Ellington, took three lives and one in Stonington killed two persons. The drowning victim, Alvin Hummel, 23, of Rocky Hill, fell off a homemade raft into a pond near his home Sunday. Two of his cousins, 10 and 12, were with him on the raft and tried to save him. Firemen formed a human chain from the shore 50 feet out into the water to recover the body. The victims of Friday night's triple fatality auto accident on Rt. 140 in Ellington were Donald A. Benick, 24, of South Windsor, and John Cantello, 72, and his wife, Ida, 70, of Stafford Springs. Killed in the Stonington accident on Rt. 96 Saturday were Leonard F. Manchester, 56, of

Slide Blocks River Above Fabled City

MOSCOW (AP) — Soviet engineers have begun blasting in an attempt to drain off flood waters threatening the fabled Mongol capital of Samarkand and villages along the Zeravshan River blocked by a huge landslide. The Communist party newspaper Pravda said engineers sent to the edge of the Pamir Mountains in Southwest Asia Sunday night began blasting a canal through the slide, which was said to be as high as an 80-story building and 2,000 feet wide. Pravda said 625 million cubic feet of water have built up behind the slide, which on Friday formed a huge natural dam. It said the water level behind the dam rose more than 100 feet in 50 hours. The landslide dropped into the Zeravshan at a point where the river flows through a gorge. Engineers are blasting a canal 985 feet long to drain the backed up waters into the river bed below the dam formed by the landslide. Otherwise, it was feared the pent up waters would sweep away the dam and unleash a torrent on villages along the river and on Samarkand, an ancient city of blue-tiled mosques and new industries. The area is 1,700 miles southeast of Moscow, near the juncture of the Soviet Union, Red China and Afghanistan. Official reports Sunday said there had been no casualties so far. Pravda today made no mention of any. Pravda said the landslide occurred Friday when the Darnvors Mountain "cracked as a result of earth tremors" and was "cut in two by water." The huge mass of earth and rock fell into the river, swollen by a month of heavy rains, and the slide formed a natural dam. A lake is forming 100 miles

Village, Pass, Scenes Of Cyprus Showdown

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — A when the attack opened Saturday, cannot lose much more ground without surrendering control of the pass. Greek Cypriots today said U.N. officials sought to remove the village's 800 Turkish Cypriots. New fighting flared this morning in the mixed Greek-Turkish village 30 miles south of Nicosia. U.N. troops tried to set up a cease-fire and arrange for immediate removal of 150 women and children who had taken shelter in a Turkish schoolhouse. "Both sides will probably have at each other then," said one U.N. officer. A U.N. spokesman said 50 Greek Cypriot police had entered the village while another 30 were poised on the outskirts. A showdown also appeared to be shaping up for control of strategic Kyrenia Pass, where Greek Cypriot forces pinned down Turkish defenders dug in around medieval St. Hilarion Castle. Greek Cypriots felt out Turkish positions with mortar, machine gun and rifle fire. They denied, however, that they were trying to hit the castle, which the Turkish Cypriots use as their stronghold in controlling the pass along the Kyrenia-Nicosia road. Sheriff Says Ruby Butted Wall of Cell

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby, a lump on his almost bald head from colliding with a cell wall, appears in court today as defense lawyers seek his admittance to a hospital for more mental tests. Sheriff Bill Decker said the condemned slayer of accused presidential assassin Lee Harvey Oswald charged head-first against his Dallas County jail cell wall early Sunday in a "deliberate act." Ruby's lawyers asked a few days ago that Judge Joe E. Brown order him placed in a hospital. The former night club operator pleaded insanity in his March trial, but was sentenced to death. The sheriff said Ruby bashed his head about 1 a.m. Sunday when a jailer turned to get some ice water after the two had played cards. The jailer restrained Ruby, who remained conscious. The county health officer, Dr. J.M. Pickard, said Ruby suffered a knot and a scratch. Under heavy guard, Ruby was sped to a hospital for skull X-rays which a hospital attendant said confirmed the injury was minor. Decker said Ruby attempted to rip his clothing when he was returned to his cell. The few jail furnishings were then re-jail furnishings were then re-

Episcopal Priest Bars Couple for Defending Dance

IONIA, Mich. (AP) — An Ionia couple was excommunicated Sunday after charging their Episcopal priest with harboring "archaic beliefs and moral knowledge" in his criticism of a dance in a high school production of the musical "Damn Yankees." Mr. and Mrs. Robert Clore were stripped of their membership in the Ionia Episcopal church by the Rev. Raymond Bierlein, who said he acted because of a letter written by the Clores published Friday in the Ionia Daily Sentinel-Standard. "We can no longer restrain our feelings concerning the objections voiced by our rector to the dancing in the current high school musical play," the letter said in part. "We know we are speaking for a great many of our congregation when we are not in accord

Navy Rocket Planned To Spot Star Debris

By FRANK CAREY Associated Press Science Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The Navy, an old hand at spotting seagull derelicts, is planning to launch a rocket this summer to hunt for wreckage of a star that exploded in the year 1054 A.D. This was reported today by a Naval Research Laboratory astronomer who said that the novel experiment is designed to prove or disprove a theory that mysterious, celestial X-rays, discovered last summer by another rocket flight, are generated "neutron stars." These are believed to be the ultimate remnants of supernovae, or exploding stars. Dr. Herbert Friedman, in a report prepared for the 101st annual meeting of the National Academy of Sciences, said the oddball X-rays—so soft that they couldn't penetrate a piece of paper—were discovered coming from the general vicinity of the constellation Scorpius and the Crab Nebula, in widely separated sectors of the Milky Way. He said Navy scientists believe the X-rays may be the WOMAN MURDERED HARTFORD (AP) — A woman with bloody clothing wrapped around her head, and her hands and feet bound with stockings, was found dead in her bed today in her apartment at 169 Westland St. Police identified her as Mrs. Ida Kantowitz. They said the motive for her death was robbery. Capt. Thomas J. Kerrigan, head of the Hartford Detective Division, said there is "nothing here like the sexual attack on Lawrence Street" two weeks ago, when a 37-year-old housewife was raped and murdered in an alley while walking home from work. Kerrigan said the cause of Mrs. Kantowitz' death had not been determined. He said an autopsy will be performed. HANKARD said the body was found by a tenant who noticed that the door of Mrs. Kantowitz' apartment was partly open. BELL SENTENCED NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Henry F. Bell, vice president of the International Longshoremen's Association, was sentenced today to five years in prison and fined $5,000 on a jury-tampering charge. U.S. Dist. Judge Frank Gray Jr., who handed out the maximum penalty, overruled a motion for a new trial. Defense attorneys said they plan to appeal. Bell was convicted April 8 of offering $30,000 to bribe two jurors in the 1962 conspiracy trial of James R. Hoffa, Teamsters Union president. He was the sixth person, including Hoffa, to be convicted of attempted jury tampering in that trial, which ended in failure of the jury to reach a verdict. That case is still pending. WORKMAN CRUSHED WATERTOWN (AP) — A workman was crushed to death today by a 10-wheel dump truck that backed over him on Buckingham St. Police identified the victim tentatively as Agostino Simoes of Naugatuck. Simoes was the driver of the truck that was employed by Innes Brothers Construction Co. of Thomaston, which is reconstructing the street into a state highway.
