

School, Renewal In, Charter Changes Fail

By PHINEAS FISKE and S. R. COHEN

It was Manchester's North End that provided the big push during yesterday's referendum that put the vote on both the Robertson School addition and the North End urban renewal project firmly over the top, despite considerable North End agitation against both projects during the months preceding yesterday's balloting.

But even with the heightened interest provided by the referendum, the vote failed to draw sufficient voters to cast a decisive ballot on a series of 4,588 cast on the question. The town's North End, which will be served by the new school, came out in force, turning in 868 affirmative votes for the project. Although the north end of the school addition or the renewal project.

Schools have always been a favorite at the polls in Manchester, and they continued to be so yesterday, drawing a plurality of 1,068 votes out of a total of 4,588 cast on the question. The town's North End, which will be served by the new school, came out in force, turning in 868 affirmative votes for the project. Although the north end of the school addition or the renewal project.

Charter revisions are required to win not only a plurality, but a plurality in excess of 15 per cent of the town's voting population. Manchester has 21,800 voters, so the charter questions had to draw at least 3,270 'yes' votes to be approved. The biggest 'yes' vote on any of the 12 charter questions was 2,700 on Question 3.

Although the town Democrats, who backed the charter proposals, said during yesterday's voting that the outcome would be final, last night when the returns were in town chairman Ted Cummings was beginning to have second thoughts.

While the fate of the charter revisions still appears in doubt, there was little question about the school addition or the renewal project.

The total vote, according to the counters on the 27 voting machines in the five districts, hit 4,476, or about 21 per cent of the electorate—not considered a particularly good turnout.

Last night, however, the school and the renewal project were approved by a margin of 1,068 votes out of a total of 4,588 cast on the question. The town's North End, which will be served by the new school, came out in force, turning in 868 affirmative votes for the project. Although the north end of the school addition or the renewal project.

On the other hand, only about three referendums in the past 1947, have drawn equal balloting. It was in 1950 that 770 voters turned down two schools but approved funds to plan the high school. In 1953, 4,900 appeared at the polls to approve the high school and in December, 1958, there were 4,800 who voted at a referendum on the Hing Junior High School.

There have been a half dozen or so referendums during the same period that drew consid-

Events In State

Frank DiLoreto, Lawmaker, Dies Of Cancer at 42

NEW BRITAIN (AP)—State Sen. Frank J. DiLoreto, 42, died of cancer today after a long illness.

The death of the young legislator was termed "a distinct loss to the state of Connecticut" by Gov. John N. Dempsey.

"Throughout his life," Dempsey said, "Sen. DiLoreto devoted himself to public service. During his two terms as a state senator he distinguished himself as an able legislator and he showed particular leadership in the field of education."

A husky, pipe-smoking lawyer, DiLoreto looked like an ex-football player, which he was. He had starred at New Britain High School and later at Washington and Lee University.

His years at Washington and Lee were spent around Army service in World War II. He was wounded in the Battle of the Bulge.

DiLoreto received his law degree at Washington and Lee in 1944 and was admitted to the Connecticut bar.

He was elected to the New Britain Board of Education in 1950 and became its chairman in 1951. He was elected to the legislature as a freshman Democratic senator in 1961 he was appointed Senate chairman of the Education Committee, a position in which he continued at the 1963 session.

The New Britain Probate Club had planned to honor DiLoreto on Sunday as its man of the year in education, but the honor was postponed indefinitely because of his health.

"Frank DiLoreto, during the time that I knew him, was an able legislator," said Senate Majority Leader Louis I. Giannone, D-Bridgeport.

"As chairman of the Education Committee he coordinated many of the serious problems that faced the state with diverse groups of people. We, his colleagues in the Senate, had been concerned about his health for some time and were deeply saddened by his death."

Wallace Vote 40% Of Maryland Total

Says Forays Over Rights Proved Point

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Daniel B. Brewster, running as a hand-in-glove President Johnson, defeated Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace in a Maryland presidential primary clouded by a close vote and a murky legal question.

In a Democratic race pinned on his opposition to the civil rights bill pending in the Senate, Wallace drew 212,068 votes Tuesday, 42.66 per cent of the party total.

It was better than his showing in Indiana—29.3 per cent—or Wisconsin—31.7—and he claimed vindication in the Maryland vote of his stand against the rights bill originated by John F. Kennedy and pushed by Johnson.

Brewster, 41, a former Marine elected to the Senate only two years ago, was slated by his effort to preserve Maryland's 48 national nominating convention votes for Johnson.

He had been tapped by the party organization—with Johnson's blessing—to take on Wallace in a border state with a recent history of racial strife marked by repeated outbreaks of violence in Cambridge.

Brewster wound up with 264,612 votes, 53.23 per cent of the total. The remaining 4 per cent were cast by voters preferring Andrew J. Easter, a Baltimore draftsman, or an unstructured delegation to the national convention.

"We might and we won and I'm glad," said Brewster.

He aimed this parting shot at Wallace: "In baseball, anyway, three strikes are your cue."

"Wallace didn't see it that way. 'This Maryland vote,' he said, 'should let them know in Washington and in both national parties that they can't get rid of me by calling us bad names.'"

The governor hinted of a possible technical challenge of the results because of Maryland's old unit vote system. Similar to the Electoral College vote in presidential elections, it makes it possible for a candidate to win a primary even though he trails in the popular vote.

U. S. District Court in Baltimore nullified the unit vote system in Maryland parties.

Robertson School To Be Replaced

By WILLIAM COE

Robertson School—at 50 years of age Manchester's oldest elementary school—will soon become one of its newest as the result of yesterday's solidly favorable referendum vote.

Though townspeople want to the polls in less than two overwhelming numbers (about 20 per cent of the electorate turned out), they approved a $670,000 bond issue for the Robertson School addition by a margin of almost 3-1.

The total vote on the school question, the first item on the machines, was 4,363. There were 3,114 'yes' votes to 1,170 'no'.

The vote once again demonstrated that townspeople traditionally affirm the need for good schools at the polls. And it was even more substantially affirmative than last November's referendum, in which voters approved bond issues for additions to the Highland Park and Keeney schools a combined $965,000. The total vote in that election was higher, about 5,800, but the margin of 'yes' votes was only about 2-1.

In yesterday's referendum, District 4 in which Robertson School is located, registered a resounding 4-1 approval of the school addition, and the North End Renewal Project with which the addition will be closely tied.

A total of 908 voted in favor of the school addition, while only 239 opposed it. On Question 2, urban renewal, 873 were in favor with only 263 opposed.

Districts one and two, in which the Highland Park and Keeney Schools are located, tallied 405-204 and 462-226 respectively on the Robertson question, for an affirmative margin of more than 2-1.

They thus mustered the support for Robertson which Keeney and Highland Park projects when they sought district four's support in the November referendum.

The huge 3-1 plurality turnout, and especially the 4-1 vote in Robertson's own district, came perhaps as a surprise to many, as there had been considerable opposition to the school voiced by some North End residents.

Among the most vocal objectors were Mr. and Mrs. Edward McKeever, whose school home must be vacated to make way for the school's parking lot.

However, one of those most intimately concerned with the school, Robert Heins, its principal, today said he had been confident all along that the addition would pass.

Heins said, "I noted during the public hearings that there were usually only eight or ten people speaking out strongly against the school addition. Many who attended the meetings and did not speak observed later in conversation with me that they favored it."

Heins said a great deal of work was done by the Robertson PTA to work up support for the question, and that a committee wrote and distributed literature to all elementary schools which children took home to their parents.

In addition, the project had the backing of both political parties, the townwide PTA Council, and the League of Women Voters.

Ted Cummings, chairman of the school board's building committee, said the school board's building committee.

Next Steps In Renewal

Yesterday's vote on the North End urban renewal project authorized the town to sell notes or bonds totaling no more than $150,000 to finance the town's share of the North End urban renewal project.

With the town's approval assured, the project now awaits the following steps.

First, the town government must complete a review of the detailed project plans, probably by the end of next month. Then the town directors, the Town Planning Commission and the MRA must give formal approval, while the MRA makes whatever detail changes in the plan that the Federal Urban Renewal Agency requires. Then its back to Washington for final approval and a contract for agency work.

With the paper work out of the way, the redevelopment agency can begin about September to negotiate the purchase of the properties needed for the renewal project, but only after all the lots have been appraised for a second time and the MRA's cash offers have been approved in Washington.

During the summer five parcels of land within the Robertson School will also be purchased as part of the renewal project, under an "early acquisition" plan.

Soviet Mikes Uncovered in U.S. Embassy

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. security agents have dug more than 40 secret microphones out of the walls of the American Embassy building in Moscow during the past month and are searching for other which may still be hidden in the building.

Officials are investigating to determine if any important secret information was obtained by the Soviets through the microphones.

Ambassador Foy D. Kohler has made a formal protest to the Soviet government over the listening devices.

The story of the hidden microphones was disclosed by the State Department Tuesday in a statement by the department's security chief, G. Marvin Gentry, said indications are the devices were "placed in the building prior to its occupancy by the United States" 11 years ago.

Officials said that not counting the newly found network, since 1949 more than 130 listening devices of various types were disclosed.

Neutrals Retreat On Laotian Plain

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP)—Neutral forces in the Plain de Jarra and the Plain de Kham, the last neutral positions existing on the plateau of Xieng Khouang have fallen to Communist forces.

Mueng Phanh, perched on the western edge of the Plain de Jarra, was Kong Le's original headquarters site which the Communists took Monday after an offensive over the weekend.

The statement did not pinpoint additional neutral positions that have fallen. Earlier it was reported that the neutrals, including Muong Kheung, headquarters for Kong Le's armed regiment, some 20 miles northwest of Muong Phanh.

A government statement said it was in advance launched by the Lao-Viet—Pathet Lao and North Vietnamese troops against our neutralist positions.

Part One Provisions of Rights Bill

EDITOR'S NOTE — For 11 weeks the Senate has been locked in a debate on the civil rights bill. About the only amendments to most features of the bill have been moved by supporters and opponents to amend the measure. Perhaps the loudest thunder and fury is what the bill, described as the most sweeping civil rights measure since Reconstruction, is designed specifically to change today is the first of a three-part series spelling out the bill's provisions and the changes being considered.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The 11 weeks of Senate debate on the civil rights bill have produced agreement so far on only one amendment—that the measure must be amended.

At first, the bill's sponsors and administration officials argued that the Senate should pass the measure in the same form as it came from the House.

As the weeks have gone by this position has been eroded.

Now Sen. Robert F. Kennedy and the bill's floor managers are supporting a package of amendments to the measure.

The biggest push for changes has come from two sources—18 Southern fighting leaders and U. S. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R., who has introduced a bill and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen.

In recent weeks, however, they have centered their fight on the pay raise issue. They demand the bill specify the right of a jury trial for every defendant in criminal contempt actions that arise out of civil rights enforcement suits under the bill.

Normally, contempt actions in federal courts are decided solely by the judges.

Dirksen has proposed 70 amendments to most features of the legislation he considers messy or objectionable.

After a series of conferences, Dirksen, Kennedy and a bipartisan group of senators reached agreement on the package of amendments. They contended the changes would not be made until the bill would win over some of those who were lukewarm or downright cool to the measure.

Dirksen has proposed numerous technical changes but the most controversial provisions in the bill are those that would prevent anyone over 70 from running for Congress.

Canada Regime To Stand or Fall On Flag Proposal

OTTAWA, Canada (AP)—Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson said Tuesday that the government's survival depends on whether it can get the House of Commons to support a new flag proposal.

"I would make it quite clear," Pearson said, "that when the government submits to Parliament a matter of policy—and this is certainly a matter of policy—the government must stand or fall on the result of the decision of the House."

If former Prime Minister John Diefenbaker's Conservatives or other opposition parties oppose the new flag, he said, they could make the issue one of confidence. If the government loses a confidence vote, it must resign and new national elections must be held.

Western Connecticut Bears Storms' Brunt

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

A meteorologist from the State Police Trooper John Donahue said Alexander's speed damage today to determine if it was a baby tornado that tore half the roof off Danbury auto saleroom.

The Weather Bureau's Windsor Locks had predicted the possibility of a tornado or two Tuesday as the sky darkened and a line of thunderstorms slanted across Connecticut.

"All I heard was a whooping sound and the crash of the roof falling to the ground," said the auto dealer, Raymond A. Boykoff.

A narrow swath about a quarter-mile long was cut by the wind in Danbury. About eight trees were toppled, greenhouse 60 yards from the car dealer's was untouched.

Western Connecticut was hit hardest with the heavy rain, lightning, hail and strong wind. Traffic snarled as trees crashed across roads. Power failed and lightning struck schools as the storm moved southward across Connecticut.

It was windy and raining on the Conn. Tpke. at Clinton when a car driven by Thomas M. Alexander, Jr., 37, of Danbury, Pa., veered across the center line and struck an oncoming car. Alexander was killed.

U. S. Atty. Edward V. Hanna said Bolden's arrest was to his knowledge the first against the Secret Service. Authorities said Bolden made the first move in attempting to sell information to defendants in a crime syndicate after almost 10 years of service.

Utah's Teachers End 2-Day Strike

SALT LAKE CITY, Utah (AP)—Utah's 10,000 public school teachers have voted to end a two-day walkout after preparing for the next round in their fight for more money for education.

About 80 per cent of the teachers voted Tuesday to return to work, but they also decided not to sign next year's contract until a special legislative session called to consider an emergency $5 million school appropriation, and other demands are met.

The normal time for signing teachers' contracts has gone by.

Rockville-Vernon New Dump Site Hit, Aides Hold Session

A wait and see attitude has been taken by local selectmen following a report of local opposition to Vernon's new dump site.

The opposition was voiced by Willington residents at a meeting of their selectmen Monday night. According to reports, several hundred residents jammed the meeting to register protest.

The dump recently was leased by city and town officials. It is located on Rt. 44 in Willington on property owned by Lawrence Becker, a former first selectman. At a local town meeting last week where a contract for the site was approved, officials declined to say where the site was located.

Willington residents demanded and received an inspection of the property by local and state including Ellington, South Windsor, Tolland, Manchester and Enfield.

Although dumping facilities have become increasingly scarce and further away from town, residents have mobilized opposition to attempts to locate a dump or incinerator through various sections of town.

Some town leaders feel that the rejection of refuse facilities in town is becoming a luxury business they want to lengthen executive session. Presumably, the dump problem was discussed at a meeting of the Willington selectmen Monday night.

One town official mentioned that some Willington residents attended the Vernon town meeting for three years.

Although Willington has no zoning ordinance, the measure proposed voiced at the meeting Monday has led several local officials to say that Vernon's use of facilities is probably limited.

Refuse in Rockville is collected by the city in the fire district. Vernon's rural area, private collectors are hired by most districts. Everett Collins, a head of a week ago when Collins was restrained by court order from using facilities in South Windsor. At that time he had no place to deposit collected refuse, and no collections in the district.

The city collectors had been using a dump in a neighboring town, but had been asked to find someplace else by the end of this month. City, district and town officials consolidated their problems and all agreed that the proposal for Willington land was best.

UNCLAIMED MONEY

GENEVA, Switzerland (AP)—Abandoned and unclaimed assets of victims of Nazi persecution left in Switzerland now are estimated to total $2,300,000 and to have been deposited by 281 men and women never heard of since May 8, 1945. The figures were released by the Swiss Federation of Jewish Communities after 12 years of research based on bank reports of savings accounts, postal savings, gold, shares, precious metals, and jewelry. Parliament must now vote on what to do with the recuperated money and that settlement is expected to take another two years. If no heirs are found the money will be released to welfare and charity organizations.

"Communication, a Spoke in the Wheel of Education" was the theme of the 1964 annual conference of the Connecticut Library Association held on May 18 and 19 at the Stratford Motor Inn. Over 400 librarians representing public and special libraries in the state registered for the two-day session. Miss Abby Scott, C.L.A. president for 1963-1964, announced a record membership in the association of 982.

Walter Braun, recently appointed state librarian, was introduced and spoke briefly at the first session on Wednesday. Other speakers included Herbert Kramer, director of public information of Travelers Insurance Co., who spoke on "Symbolism in Communication"; Duncan Wall, librarian at the United Aircraft, and Peter Sweeney, engineering manager at IBM, discussed automation in libraries. The library, computer systems of cataloging and information retrieval are now being used in large university and research libraries, and the foreseeable future will no doubt be used in public libraries also.

James C. Haggerty, former White House press secretary and now vice president of the American Broadcasting Paramount Theatre, Inc., was the after-dinner speaker on Wednesday.

Recalling the hectic days following President Eisenhower's heart attack, Mr. Haggerty advised that some provisions be made in the Constitution for the taking over of the presidential powers by a qualified person in the event of the president being incapacitated by illness or other causes. "Facing the rapid growth of communication in the last thirty years by radio, TV, and now by satellite, he feels it is urgent to have someone keeping the state at every moment, and feels that this should be an issue in the coming presidential election."

At the Thursday afternoon session, Gene Smith, author of the best selling book about Woodrow Wilson, "When the Cheering Stopped," indicated Mr. Haggerty's statements by describing the 18 months following President Wilson's stroke when the United States was, for all intents and purposes, without an acting president. Mr. Smith, who proved to be an excellent speaker (something authors quite often are not), has a deep admiration for Wilson as a man and as a statesman, and feels that future historians will give Wilson the honor he feels is his due.

The convention closed after a business session, during which it was announced that Edwin Jackson, librarian of the Hartford Public Library, had been elected president of the Connecticut Library Association for 1964-1965.

Attending the session from Manchester were Miss Anna French, John Jackson, Mrs. Irving Francis, Miss Marian Jameson and Mrs. Margaret Irving from the Mary Cheney Library; Miss Mildred Simpson and Mrs. Elmore Gibson of the Whitton staff also attended the meetings.

Hebron Legion Post To Decorate Graves Here

A schedule is planned by the Memorial Day Committee of Jones-Keefe Post, Hebron, to take care of certain matters in advance of May 30 ceremonies, leaving the field open for that day's program, as announced by the post.

Members of the post will decorate graves in all the regular cemeteries of the town on May 22, and a work party will be held on May 24 when members will clean the Legion Hall grounds and the Veterans Park. Services will also be held on May 29 in the West Street, Burrows Hill and the old Congressional graveyard on Wall St. These cemeteries are among the oldest and most historic of any in the town, but have largely gone out of use for burials.

Legion Drive Ends

The Hebron Legion and Auxiliary have completed its drive for funds to cover gifts and Boys State for the year, sufficient to send a girl from each town of the Regional school district, two boys from Marlborough and three boys from Hebron.

Sunday Flowers

Flowers for the altar at St. Peter's Episcopal Church Sunday were given by Mr. and Mrs. James G. Kennedy in memory of Mabelle Rowson.

Uphara Sunday

Uphara Sunday were Charles W. Phelps and Marvin P. Osa, greeting parishioners at the door. Activities serving were William Borst Jr., 8 a.m., and J. Linara Jr., Robert Keefe and R. Cole (crucifier).

The informal dedication of the renovating of the sanctuary was held Sunday at 10 a.m. to those whose generous gifts made this possible.

The gospel curtain, sanctuary carpet and the altar kneelers were the gifts of Mr. and Mrs. Gardner Hayson as a memorial to their son, Kenneth S. Hayson. The reouching of the sanctuary's fixtures were the gift of Mrs. Caroline L. Randolph.

The new carpet in the nave of the church was made possible by gifts of members of the Episcopal Church Women and of the T.P.P. each organization giving $25. Also given was the monetary gifts received by Ronald Miner at his dedication ceremony, who was admitted into the Order of the Holy Cross, about $50, the whole amount to a generous sum for the purpose.

St. Peter's Epiphany Hall will be open daily this week up to and including Friday, with opportunity for action to be left for the rummage sale to be held this Saturday.

New Post Members

John Kutyvych, membership chairman for Jones-Keefe Post, reports a total of 24 members for 1964, to date. New members recently joining the post are Walter O'Brien of London Rd., and Marcel LaPierre of London Park. Also an application for membership has been made by Thurston Brackett of Amston Lake.

Expense Increases

The board of finance has approved an additional appropriation of $125 of schoolmen's expense at a meeting this week, transferred from contingency. Also approved was the transfer of $1,000 from town snow removal to welfare, and $4,668 from surplus to the board of education. Marie B. Reid is now acting postmaster at Amston.

Final PTA Meeting

The final meeting of the Hebron PTA will be held this evening at 8 in the elementary school auditorium, teachers to explain the ungraded program of the school, comprising the three primary grades.

Officers for the coming year will also be installed.

Saturday Money Orders

Postmasters of Hebron and Amston announce the new orders have been received from the Boston Regional Office, which now allow money orders to be issued during the four hours of business on Saturday.

Why Insult the Animals?

"They acted like animals." That was the language of a poor bus inspector, down at the World's Fair, describing the way people trying to get out of the Fair in a big hurry behaved last Saturday night.

Buses weren't appearing and loading fast enough at one of the gates, to accommodate the crowd waiting there. Police had to sound the riot call for reinforcements. By midnight, they had succeeded in calming down the crowd, so that progress out of the fair and home-ward became orderly, and non-violent.

"They acted like animals." "That one suspects, would be a good description, too, for the way the young rival range of Britain were battling each other, on the Wiltshire weekend holiday, at the British show.

"They acted like animals." "That description would go, as well, for things nearer home than Britain's show report, at Margate, or nearer home than the World's Fair.

Only some one, at some stage of the comparison, would have to rise to the defense of the animals.

Animals aren't that senseless. Animals don't go around sticking horns or claws in one another just for no reason at all.

Animals aren't that wasteful. Animals don't go around twisting down trees for which they have no use.

Animals use what intelligence, what sense, what instinct they find themselves equipped with.

They don't deliberately throw their own best natural gifts away. They don't deliberately train and school themselves to be something sub-animal.

Real animals have some respect for one another, and for the laws under which they maintain their lives.

They do not hurt blindly, or for the hurt of it.

So let us be careful, what comparisons we make, when we see a group of adults, or a group of young, when we have to deal with the sense-blinded insanity of some youth mob, when we wonder what rewards young hoodlums will avoid all day dreaming of their nights of terror.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. Robert D. Novak

WASHINGTON - Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman is on the warpath against the scientists in his department who have been too relaxed about health hazards.

Traditionally, the Agriculture Department has leaned over backward in favor of crop-sav- ing pesticides and played down the warnings of conservation and public health officials that certain pesticides are a threat to human, animal, and fish life.

The famous Mississippi River fish-bill, in which traces of an-drin were found in millions of dead fish over the past four years, simply confirmed Freeman's worst fears. Far too little research has been done on the whole question of pesti- cides, he decided.

Even before the Mississippi fish-bill became known, Freeman was moving. The Deputy Administrator of Regulatory Programs, Dr. W. L. Fopham, was quietly eased out last year before he reached the manda- tory retirement age.

This was not the attitude Freeman wanted. Freeman ordered the Associate Director of the Research Service, Dr. Robert Clark, to make a study of the health hazards of pesticides.

Clark's report, however, was not what Freeman wanted. Clark had created an atmosphere of "Don't worry, everything is going to be all right. We are engaged in wild-life lovers and conservationists."

A special introductory offer
 U.S. Royal has developed a tire construction that is so strong, we can make this unheard-of offer:
If the tire fails for any reason, except for a repairable puncture or deliberate abuse, as long as there is still 1/2 of original tread left, U.S. Royal will give you a brand new tire free.

Do not confuse this offer with the usual "partial allowance" toward a new tire, based on remaining tread.

This offer covers:
 The U.S. Royal first-line tire (Only 80)
 The tiger's paw (Red-circle Super Safety 800)
 The U.S. Royal premium tire (Red-circle Royal Master)

Road hazards are included in the offer. No time limit. No mileage limit.

Offer applies to passenger car replacement tires purchased and registered between now and August 15th.

Fair enough?

But how can you build a timepiece with only 12 moving parts that has a daily accuracy within 3 seconds? The secret lies in the vibrations of a fine tuning fork. 360 of them a second. Jones New Hero as Red Sox Win

Youngster Delivers In Pinch Hitting Role

BOSTON (AP)—You couldn't blame him, but James Dalton Jones must have been the last person in Fenway Park to realize that the Red Sox had won the game.

There he stood, on second base, waiting for more action. But nothing more was needed. Young Mr. Jones had just come through for the first time in the last six tries in a pinch hitter's role, and the Boston Red Sox had beaten the Los Angeles Angels, 4-2.

Finally, second base was being looked at as two strikes with a full count, the 20-year-old youngster had a shot to center that fell safely.

Jones watched three balls thrown. He then was caught looking at as two strikes with a full count, the 20-year-old youngster had a shot to center that fell safely.

The conversation was unheard. But it must have gone something like: "Let's go. It's all over. You won the game."

Jones finally trotted off the field, the last man to leave.

His base-clearing double last night was the big blow as the Red Sox came suddenly to life and whipped the Angels into being one out away from a 3-0 shutout defeat.

The two teams meet again today, with Jack Lemage (3-1) facing Dean Chance (2-1).

A large percentage of the crowd of 7,027 had either left the park or was huddled at the exits when Boston led from the brink of defeat and won the game.

Left-hander Bo Belinsky was one out away from pitching a three-hit game when he was relieved by Carl Yastromski.

After Carl Yastromski had popped up and Frank Malone filled out in the last of the ninth, Dick Stuart drew a walk yesterday as he hurried the home run to center field.

Belinsky's first pitch to Bob Ullman was a ball and Angelo's first pitch to Bill Rigney was called in manager Barry Lomax.

But Lomax walked Ullman and hit him with a line drive.

Ullman then hit Rigney in the chest with a hard line drive.

Rigney then hit Ullman in the back with a hard line drive.

Siebert Comes Back To Haunt Ex-Mates

NEW YORK (AP)—Charles Finley, who is busy mulling Kansas City these days, ought to start his legal battles working on an indictment against an ex-employee on hit and run charges.

Finley, who has had time to notice but his ball club into an old friend in Baltimore Tuesday night, and the collision was devastating.

Norm Siebert, who used to be his hit-and-run man for the first time and he gave them plenty to talk the old boss about.

The ragsy first baseman as a strike three hit, the last one a game-winning home in the ninth.

Finley, who had been in the dugout, then went to the field to see Siebert.
