Johnson to Visit Brand Atom Sub

GROTON (AP) — SSSN650 awaits the LBJ brand. President Johnson sears his initials into the keel of the nuclear attack submarine with a welding torch tomorrow during a visit to the Electric Boat Division of the General Dynamics Corp.

The ceremony, known as "laying the keel," will be one of the highlights of the President's trip into Connecticut.

Johnson is scheduled to visit the submarine yards after participating in graduation ceremonies at the U.S. Coast Guard Academy in New London.

While at Electric Boat, he will be given a briefing on nuclear submarines and will speak to the workers.

One other President—Harry S. Truman—has laid a keel at Electric Boat. Truman's initials were burned into the keel of the Nautilus when the pioneer nuclear submarine was under construction in 1952.

Johnson's itinerary provides for his arrival at Quonset Point, R. I., at 10:35 a.m.

He will be at New London at 11. Ceremonies there will begin as soon as he arrives.

The President is scheduled to arrive at Electric Boat by car at 12:55 p.m. and leave the yard at 1:50.

He is scheduled to leave by helicopter from Groton at 2.

Crash Kills Girl

AVON (AP)—A 17-year-old high school junior was killed instantly at 9:30 p.m. Monday within a mile of her home when the car she was driving went off Old Farms Rd. and hit a tree.

Miss Nancy V. Hunter, daughter of Mrs. Dorothy Hunter of 150 Thompson Rd., was pronounced dead at the scene by Dr. William E. Williams, medical examiner. She was alone in the car.

According to police, Miss Hunter was returning home from the West Hartford Library where she was doing reference work.

Besides her mother she leaves a brother, Russell Hunter of Coventry and a sister, Mrs. Robert T. Middlebrook of Jacksonville, N. C. The body was removed to the John A. Hengen Funeral Home in Unionville.

Speed-Up Sought

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. Dempsey took steps today to try and keep hospitals as participants in the chemical test program for suspected drunken motorists.

His move followed announcement by Grace-New Haven Hospital that its doctors will no longer take such blood tests because of heavy time loss due to their court appearances at trials.

The Governor said his aim is to see what can be done to "shorten the time" a doctor who takes a blood test in such cases will have to spend in court.

Gov. Dempsey said he has

Shastri to Lead India, Pledges Socialist Aims

A Moderate Chosen by Acclamation

NEW DELHI, India (AP) India's ruling Congress party named mild-mannered Lal Bahadur Shastri by acclamation today to succeed the late Prime Minister Nehru. He pledged to work for Nehru's goal of a united, Socialist India.

"Socialism is our objective," Shastri said shortly after Congress party members of Parliament named him their leader, a designation which automatically carried nomination as prime minister.

Shastri, 59, gave no clue to the foreign policy he will pursue. He indicated high regard for Nehru's daughter, Mrs. Indira Gandhi, a leading candidate for the foreign minister's post.

Shastri wept as he recalled Nehru's death last week and said of Mrs. Gandhi: "Her continued association with us will be a source of strength to all of us."

He welcomed the support of former Finance Minister Morarji Desai, his opponent who yielded after a determined five-day succession struggle.

"I am sure this will generate a new confidence in the country and will have an impact on the outside world also," Shastri said.

Shastri said the party's immediate task is to fight India's "biggest enemies—poverty and unemployment."

"The country must remain united and it is important we realize our grave responsibilities toward the betterment of our people," he declared. "The economic issues are most vital for us."

India is "faced today with a great crisis," Shastri continued, and must "follow in the (Nehru's) footsteps."

If this reflects Shastri's foreign policy, it will mean a continuation of nonalignment under which India accepts economic and military aid from both sides of the Iron Curtain but does not consider itself a member of any bloc.

Acting Prime Minister G. L. Nanda nominated Shastri before the Congress party members in the central hall of Parliament.

Desai seconded the nomination, saying the party would "continue to adhere to the ideals" of Nehru. Approval followed in a burst of applause.

President Sarvepalli Radhakrishnan will complete the formalities by asking Shastri to form a government and swear him in, probably later this week.

Party President Kumaraswami Kamaraj placed Shastri's name before party members after a poll of Congress leaders favored the former home minister who had been Nehru's closest associate after Nehru suffered a stroke in 1963.

Shastri, who stands only 5 feet 2, smiled broadly at Parliament for the ceremony. He was dressed in the simple white homespun clothing affected by Congress party members.

A moderate Socialist and firm anti-Communist, Shastri was picked largely because of his middle of the road views, which Congress leaders hope will bring together the party's conservative and leftist extremes.

TYPHOID INQUIRY

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — The government ordered an official inquiry today into the typhoid epidemic that so far has stricken 234 persons in Aberdeen. Michael Noble, secretary of state for Scotland, made the announcement of the inquiry to the House of Commons in London. He said the government had ordered withdrawal from retail shops of canned corned beef produced by two companies.

CONGRATULATES SHASTRI

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson announced today he has sent congratulations to Lal Bahadur Shastri upon his election as India's new prime minister, and said he expects this country's relations with him to be good. Johnson said relations with Shastri have been good, and predicted they will remain that way in the future. Johnson told of his message to the new prime minister as a new Congress convenes and made the announcement about good relations with him in the past, a reply to a question.

224 Stricken In Aberdeen By Typhoid

ABERDEEN, Scotland (AP) — The city of Aberdeen braced today for a possible third wave in its typhoid epidemic.

Already 224 persons have been stricken and one woman has died. Another 17 suspected cases are in crowded hospitals and reports of infection are turning up in other parts of the country.

The original outbreak in this seaside city of 180,000 was blamed on a can of defective corned beef sold in a supermarket. The victims spread the disease to neighbors.

Today could be crucial in the fight to confine the disease said city health officer, Dr. Ian MacQueen.

"If there is a third wave—and we should know about the middle of the week—then matters will be very serious," he said.

Sixty-four cases were added Monday to the mounting toll. It was the biggest one-day rise.

Results Awaited On Crash Tests

EAST HADDAM (AP) — Like football coaches after the big Saturday game, state police are waiting for the results of the crash tests.

The films and the official report on yesterday's auto smashing spectacular are expected to provide the answer to the question—whether cars are safer, the big ones or the little ones?

However, most people at the tests, including the man who supervised them, seemed to know the answer already: Small cars got the worst of it.

"It's simply physics that any youngster could figure out," said Andrew J. White. "People don't believe it until they see it."

White's firm, Motor Vehicle Research Inc., of Lee, N.H., conducted the tests, which consisted of electrically steering riderless moving cars into riderless stationary ones.

State police had said the tests might take two days, but they finished up in one.

State Police Commissioner Leo J. Mulcahy, who persuaded White to make the tests, has been claiming for some time that the big car is safer than the small one.

Yesterday, however, Mulcahy would say only that "vehicles should be more sturdy. Manufacturers should be more safety conscious."

Lt. Walter Stecko, commander of the State Police Traffic Division, said the results would have to await White's movies and official report.

"We'll be hounding him," Stecko said. Stecko said it would have been impossible to stage the tests by having two moving cars collide head-on. There would have been no way to do that safely, he said.

The first successful test involved a Buick and a French-made Renault Dauphine.

The Buick, weighing a hefty 3,800 pounds, was traveling 25 miles per hour when it hit the motionless 1,600 pound Dauphine.

The Buick was barely damaged. The Dauphine, pushed 90 feet by the impact, was a mess.

"I'd ride into these compacts all day long if I had a shoulder harness on," said driver Denny Dearborn, 30, of Plymouth, N. H. He left the Buick after putting it into a collision course.

Such risks were not allowed. To the disappointment of some of the spectators, who were ad-

Six Primaries Today, California's Crucial

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Republican presidential race steams into a critical turn today as Sen. Barry Goldwater and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller meet in their dramatic California showdown.

After the smoke has cleared and the primary votes counted, Republicans may have a clearer idea whether Goldwater's strong charge toward the nomination can be stopped—or whether perhaps it has gained unstoppable momentum.

Rockefeller is Goldwater's only opponent in today's balloting and write-ins are not counted. Thus supporters of some of the other contenders are rallying around the New York governor's colors.

At immediate stake are California's 86 delegates to the Republican National Convention. Some observers feel that with Goldwater's strong lead in delegates a California victory will almost assure him of the GOP nomination.

On the other hand, a defeat, some feel, will make it a new race and a wide open field with Gov. William W. Scrantom of Pennsylvania and Richard M. Nixon figuring strongly.

While the limelight glared on California five other states—Alabama, Mississippi, Montana, New York and South Dakota—also had primaries today, picking senators, congressmen, and convention delegates.

The campaign careened to an end Monday night in the Golden State with speeches by Goldwater and Rockefeller, chanting supporters, Dixie and bands—and worried police.

Winding up a 12-city, 1,500-mile election eve tour of California, Rockefeller flew into a hot reception at Los Angeles International Airport.

Police, finding that a good part of the welcoming delegation were Goldwater supporters, called in reinforcements.

If it hadn't been for Goldwater leaders pacifying the crowd before Rockefeller's arrival, one officer said, "We would have had a riot on our hands."

But Rockefeller made the most of his chance, announcing,

Earl Eisenhower Runs for Office

CHICAGO (AP) — Earl D. Eisenhower at 66, four years older than his brother was when elected president, has decided to run for public office.

With characteristic bluntness, however, he said he is not looking forward to getting elected. Eisenhower was nominated Monday in Springfield as one of 118 Republican at-large candidates for the Illinois House of Representatives.

"I think the state will get elected," he said, "but, no, I'm not exactly looking forward to going to Springfield."

"Since I came to Illinois in 1964 I've been asked to run for everything from dog catcher to governor, but I've always refused."

Increased Military Activity Charted in Meeting on Asia

HONOLULU (AP) — American policy makers, in the final hours of their secret strategy talks, beach occupied today with the question what more the United States must do to prop up Southeast Asia against intensified Communist pressure.

The two-day meeting already was setting off political reverberations in election-conscious Washington. But the assembled diplomatic and military authorities at Pacific Command headquarters appeared to ignore—at least officially—everything but the subjects at hand.

Efforts to solve the Southeast Asia crisis began Monday with that convened in a heavily guarded room, moved to a private beach working lunch and closed back behind locked doors.

That same schedule was in force today with most of the officials including Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who presided, and Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara, who planned to fly home to Washington after final adjournment about dusk.

None of the conferees would disclose what directions their meetings were taking. It appeared likely that details of any recommendations will be revealed only after approval by President Johnson.

Political reaction to the talks came from Rep. Melvin R. Laird, R-Wis., chairman of the Republican congressional campaign committee. He said in a Congressional Record statement that the conference won't be productive unless the administration gives up what he termed false premises that belong in the past.

Laird said executive policy in Southeast Asia is unrealistic in its approach to Communist-inspired problems.

Rusk, asked about Laird's charge, declined comment. The assembled Cabinet officers, ambassadors and military leaders have been instructed by the President to review American policy in Southeast Asia and make suggestions for its future course.

There were growing indications that military moves were being charted to show pro-Communist insurgents the United States officials said the credit

Romania to Buy U.S. Atom Plants

WASHINGTON (AP)—Armed with a new U.S. trade policy pledge, Communist Romania hopes to buy large quantities of American industrial equipment soon—probably including two big nuclear power plants.

The Bucharest government, which has rejected Soviet economic domination, is reported to have a shopping list for purchases of industrial equipment in the United States and Western Europe amounting to possibly $100 million.

How much of this will be bought in the United States is not clear, but it will depend on what kind of deals the Romanians can make with manufacturers and the credit terms they can get.

U.S. officials said the credit

You Should Know...

Joseph Tamsky

The introduction of a new department into a town administration, particularly if the job has been vacant for some time, is guaranteed to cause some changes in the town; when it brings with him new ways to do things, developed over a number of years and evolved from a different tradition, changes are likely to be interesting.

Joseph Tamsky was appointed by the Town Planning Commission in March to fill the post of town planning director, which had been vacant for more than a year. With him came a tradition of social consciousness, more than a dozen years experience in planning posts, and some new ways of doing things that are the product of experience and temper.

The appointment, however, was to be for an interim period, until the political heat that clouded the job could be cleared away. At the time there were two problems—first, the town directors could not assure the planning commission that they would appropriate a salary for the 1964-65 fiscal year. This commission members felt they would need to attract the right man. Accordingly, a proposed change in the town charter, then pending would have changed the planning department.

In the ten or so weeks since Tamsky was hired, the situation has changed. The 1964-65 budget has been approved with the salary for the TPC added for staff salaries, and the proposed charter revisions have failed to clear votes at a referendum last month. And on June 1, Tamsky's retention appointment was up, and both he and the planning commission must decide if the appointment is to become permanent.

In the meantime, the town government has already felt some effects. Tamsky was born in New Haven in October 1904, the son of Godwin and Mathias Tamsky. By the time he graduated from the Guilford High School in New Haven, his interests had already turned toward architecture and the conduct of his job—an unfettered openness.

For example, one department head has characterized him as a "cut-throat" and added that "you can talk things out with him." The openness comes in another form as well—he is a member of the town's Planning Board, which is willing to speak his mind, and he has been criticized by some persons with a reputation for discretion, who have been largely ignored for that reason. Tamsky, aware of the prevailing attitude, was never hesitant to see justice in some of the planning commission's actions, and he has been a revision of the zoning ordinance prepared by Tamsky awaiting action now.

Tamsky's openness leads him to express an interest in zoning which he still pursues today, with a trail of controversy. In the Navy he was stationed in the Pacific theatre, where he was assigned to base maintenance operations—including, at one point, assignment on the Guam city planning commission, which was rebuilding the island's communities that had been destroyed during the Allied invasion.

From Yale Tamsky went on to MIT, at the time the only university to offer advanced study in city planning, graduating in 1931 with a master of city planning degree. Before he completed his thesis he began work in 1930, with the Philadelphia Housing Authority—but found his interest in the social aspects of public housing diverted by "streetly business" attitude among the authority's leaders.

So, in 1931, he moved to the newly formed Delaware County Planning Commission, where planning personnel were busy building county and local level governments together into a unit which could participate cohesively in the making of countywide plans.

In 1933 he embarked back to Philadelphia—this time to the City Planning Commission, where he became chief of long range planning before leaving in 1935. Philadelphia at the time was the seat of the most forward thinking community planning in the United States. As part of the process of gain community acceptance for city planning, the commission called in experts in overlapping fields—law, construction and development—to assist in coming up with new ideas. This principle was one of the things that stuck with Tamsky in his later assignments, and may appear in his work in Manchester.

Tamsky retained through his early years in the Pennsylvania area an interest in Connecticut, where he was born. When the opportunity to become New Britain's first planning director presented itself in 1952, Tamsky took the job. There he stayed until 1960, when he became assistant director of the Hartford Redevelopment Agency. In 1963 he joined the engineering firm of Morton Pine & Associates as a planning consultant. The engineering firm was not frequently approached for planning work, however, so when Manchester's TPC expressed an interest in obtaining his services, he responded.

Tamsky's approach to planning has become quickly clear, partly because he speaks his principles in plain, practical, and partly because he speaks his mind so easily. His apparent guileless frankness is a key to his character and to the conduct of his job—an unfettered openness.

In prototype form this means that an applicant asking a zone change should not simply be denied but rather be given an alternative situation beneficial not only to the applicant but to the area as well.

For example, the owner of the Highland Park market area has been granted a zone change to off-street parking zone for a lot abutting the street—but also asked that an existing two-family house be permitted to remain on the back of the lot.

Rather than simply mixing the request because of the mixed use asked for the land, Tamsky proposed instead that the house be moved to face the street around the corner from the market area, and that the parking be located on the back of the tract of land suitable for a two-family house, and that the owner be permitted to retain the existing house on the back of the lot.

Military Moves Charted in Talk On Asian Crisis

States means business. Limited military pressure have been applied in the past—notably in Thailand in 1963—with temporary success.

Increased U.S. military activity in Southeast Asia could take a number of courses, including jet reconnaissance flights over Communist North Viet Nam, or carrier task force cruising just outside North Vietnamese territorial waters—close enough to be seen from shore.

Other alternatives might be tactical activity by South Vietnamese forces inside North Viet Nam, or even a naval quarantine. The United States already has imposed economic sanctions on North Viet Nam to halt the sale of that nation's goods in America.

Yet another possibility was a repeat of the 1961 mauling of the Viet Nam Communist forces when U.S. Army, Navy and Air Force units went into Thailand in a clear warning to the Communists.

Runk stopped off in Thailand en route to Honolulu to discuss new threats against Thailand by the Viet Nam Communist forces. He was met by a group of American troops who were sent back to Thailand, which borders strife-torn Laos along a 500-mile frontier.

The despatch crisis in Laos with the Pathet Lao attempting to destroy the coalition government with rightists and neutralists gave new emphasis to the border threat. A breakup of the government would lay open the border to new Communist guerrilla activity.

AMERICAN LEGION BINGO EVERY WEDNESDAY NIGHT

8 O'CLOCK—LEGION HOME, LEONARD ST.

At the time Rome fell, another city, another great civilization was rising—half way around the world. The center of the first Mayan Empire, Chichen Itza, lifted its great pyramids above the forests of the Yucatan Peninsula on the east coast of Mexico in the fifth century, A.D.

Deep within the largest pyramid is a chamber dominated by a throne in the shape of a red jaguar, spotted with inserts of green jade. The Mexican government valued $1,000,000 for it 30 years ago. Far to the north stand the remains of another ancient city, Teotihuacan, which housed 250,000 people in 700 A.D.

And only 35 miles from there is a modern capital of today's world—Mexico City. Here, the tall buildings are examples of the best in modern architecture. Commerce and industry, theater and the arts, education and medicine, people and customs—all are of today's world.

Knowledge of our modern neighbor is important today. Send for the free 16-page booklet, "Know Mexico," Box 190, New York 10.

300 at Fete For Pearson

By JOHN GRUBER About 300 well-wishers gathered at Piano's Restaurant last evening for a testimonial dinner offered Al Pearson, son to retire as head of music at MHS.

His name, of course, is G. Albert Pearson, but nobody there referred to him as anything else than "Al" for he has always been a friendly man whose charm compelled friendship in return.

Accordingly, it was "Ed" Bailey who presided as toastmaster for the occasion, a friend of Al's, not merely a former principal of the high school under whom Mr. Pearson served most of his 22 years tenure. Almost everybody in the musical and educational fields in Manchester was on hand to pay tribute to this genial gentleman who has meant so much to the music of our town.

The G. C. F. Club was represented, and so was the Beethoven Club, both now defunct for years, but whose members still recalled happy and inspiring hours under the leadership of Mr. Pearson. The Manchester Federation of Teachers was likewise on hand to present him a plaque representing a lifetime honorary membership in the organization.

There were many eulogies of course. A. Raymond Rogers, superintendent of schools, offered another Raymond Blinfield, a former assistant superintendent, recalled his associations with Mr. Pearson, and so it went through a host too numerous to mention, all of whom were mercifully brief, but who managed to convey their sincerity and good wishes despite their brevity.

Naturally there was some music. Roger Loucks, well-known in Greater Hartford as a tenor soloist, started the program singing "Danny Boy," a tune he recalled was the first time he ever sang for Mr. Pearson at Nathan Hale School some 20 years ago.

Likewise, the Round Table Singers were on hand. Under the direction of Diann Platt they sang "Hail, Hail, the Gull." Mr. Pearson they offered two compositions by Mrs. Vatter. The first bore the title "When I Was But a Little Child," which Mrs. Vatter wrote to commemorate Mr. Pearson's kindness toward their children. The second number, written especially for the occasion last night, was titled "With Love From All of Us To You." The group likewise presented Mr. Pearson with a gift.

Then Miss Martha White, senior member of the music faculty in Manchester, presented him with a gift from every present, a clock. No ordinary clock was this, but an antique English clock made by Eliot, a hundred years or so ago. A large timepiece, it looked like the top of a conventional grandfather's clock with brass finish and so on. But it was designed to sit on a table instead of on the floor.

Mr. Pearson's love for clocks is well known, so it was an excellent choice. Moreover, it offered not only the conventional "Westminster Chimes," more properly called the "Cambridge Quarters," but another series of quarter-hour announcements featuring the tinkling of a merrily chirping bird.

The banquet ended with everyone present singing a benediction as a final tribute to the gentleman who will long be remembered as Manchester's "Mr. Music."

Get you fastback styling It's a new kind of look with sports car appeal. Exciting new styling... racy new lines that look like a whole lot of expensive sports car.

Get you room for use With bucket seats up-front and a flip-down rear seat for storage. And with the seat down there's seven long foot of fully carpeted storage space.

Get you V-8 performance You can have a 273-cubic-inch V-8 or you can have your choice of sizes—the 170-cubic-inch engine is standard, the 225-cubic-inch is optional.

Get you a low, low price Probably the most surprising thing about the Barracuda is the price. Be much car, so much pep at a price as low you'll be amazed!
