TDC Lists Work In Year Report

The Town Development Commission (TDC) in its annual report for the fiscal year 1963-64, states that its future plans and programs for attracting industry to Manchester are being developed in close association with the general manager and the Manchester Chamber of Commerce.

During the past year, it held 12 regular meetings, plus numerous special meetings on a variety of interests.

The No. 1 activity was the North End Urban Renewal project, and it cooperated with the Manchester Redevelopment Agency in getting the program approved by the voters at a May 19 referendum.

The TDC made a complete study of the Capitol Region Transit District, and recommended to the board of directors that the town become a member.

In other matters, it has studied proposed plans for the abandoned Nike site, endorsed and recommended sale of town-owned land to the Glaxo Corp., and discussed plans for the expansion of the Wilbur Cross Highway to 10 lanes in Manchester.

It has completed a survey of all available industrial land in town, for the purpose of making such information available to potential industry and business.

CRC Rehears Public On Charter Tonight

The Charter Revision Commission (CRC) will conduct a public hearing at 8 tonight in the hearing room of the Municipal Building on 12 charter change questions which it is recommending for reconsideration at the Oct. 6 town elections.

The 12 questions which include more than 80 changes in the town's 1947 charter, failed to pass at a May 19 referendum, for lack of sufficient affirmative votes.

The Democratic-controlled board of directors, two weeks ago, appointed (with one exception) the same nine men who sat on the 1963-64 CRC, and instructed them to reconsider only the same questions.

The only one of the 12 charter change questions which is not being backed by all nine members of the CRC is the one which would set up a mandatory review of the general manager's performance every second year in November, starting with 1965.

The proposal is backed by the Democrats, and opposed by the Republicans, and supported by the Republican minority.

WESTBROOK (AP)—State Police Lt. Joseph Hart, whose men staged a gambling raid in Old Saybrook Thursday, said yesterday local police failed to fulfill their responsibilities.

The illegal gambling operations at the carnival in Old Saybrook were first brought to the attention of state police on Sunday, July 12.

"It might be useful for the Organization of African Unity to conduct setting up a bureau to deal with labor Africa offensive against South Africa."

Following Kenyatta, Prime Minister Abubakar Tafawa Balewa of Nigeria said Africa university was supporting boycotts and the situation in South Africa, "but unless the rulers are convinced of the reason, the African people will be forced to resort to other means. This would be tragic."

Hart, who is commander of the Westbrook Troop, said that the raid was an American Legion sponsored arrival of the Five men were arrested.

Walter Patti, acting chief of the Old Saybrook Police Department, said neither he nor his men had been notified by state police that a complaint had been turned in.

"How are we supposed to know that he has a complaint?" Patti asked. "We had no information."

He said, however, that a state police detective had inquired last week as to who was sponsoring the carnival.

Negro Gangs Strike Again On Subways

NEW YORK (AP)—Gangs of young Negroes again made white subway riders the targets of robbery attacks.

Two white men were beaten and robbed in Manhattan subway trains Friday. The men were taken to a hospital and one of them died.

The violence was similar to attacks on whites in subway trains and on a ferry boat last Memorial Day weekend.

Memphis, 200 to 300 Negro youngsters demonstrated Friday with placards and chanted "Police brutality must go!" in a street where a 15-year-old Negro youth was shot and killed by a police officer.

The detective said the youth, James Powell, had come at him with a knife.

The first subway victim was Julian Zelenewski, 37, an actor who told police he was alone in a car when about 15 Negro boys and girls came into it.

The gang crowded around, lifted him up and dropped him on the floor, he said. One started to search his pockets.

"I got my Polish up and began to fight," he said. He was punched and kicked and present train arrived at a station.

"I yelled in my best theatrical voice so loudly the whole gang took off," Zelenewski said. They got his wallet with $25.

Goldwater Upsets GOP With Extremism Stand

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater relaxes today in the hilltop desert home he loves while Republican leaders debate and discord over their presidential nominee's defense of extremism in the cause of freedom.

The formal debate was expected to transcend one bit of Goldwater's record—the first of his bid for Senate renomination now that he has won top spot in the Republican primary.

The conservative senator flew from San Francisco Friday night to a triumphant homecoming in his native city. About 3,000 persons cheered the state's first presidential nominee.

Goldwater left in San Francisco on a flight over a remark he uttered in accepting the nomination Thursday night—a remark he underscored Friday in these words: "Extremism is no sin if you are engaged in the defense of freedom."

Before the Republican National Convention's windup session, Goldwater's remarks remind you that extremism in the defense of liberty is no vice, and let me remind you also that moderation in the pursuit of justice is no virtue.

A thunderous ovation greeted his statement.

The remark brought a swift, sharp retort from an old campaign foe, New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller—the first caller to congratulate Goldwater when he remains undecided Wednesday night—termed it "dangerous, irresponsible and misleading."

Charles H. Percy, the GOP candidate for governor of Illinois, called for an explanation from the nominee.

And Goldwater apparently blustered in reply, saying he was on the road to "building a new party" and "building a new party."

The state will become strong, and give what he can. The state is supposed to be building a new party.

Now a report comes from the Soviet news agency Tass quoting Khrushchev as saying a new Soviet constitution is in preparation, with himself as chairman of the commission. This, replacing the Soviet Constitution of 1936, will be Khrushchev's monument and his claim to be the worthy successor to Lenin.

The top Soviet leadership has been wrestling with this constitution project for some time, but it has run into snags, not the least of which is the extraordinary war being fought between Peking and Moscow.

Before long a draft constitution will be unveiled, probably in the Soviet Union as having reached a new stage of development and possibly being used by a new body of Khrushchev's theory.

Khrushchev contends the U.S.S.R. has achieved an "all-people state," without classes, from the Red Chinese. The Chinese say Khrushchev is leading the Soviet Union to capitalism, concentrating on economic development at the expense of aggressive Communist expansion.

A larger boost of 8 1/2 percent in base pay would go to commissioned and warrant officers with less than two years service. This would amount to $18 more monthly for a second lieutenant, $23 for a first lieutenant, $28 for a captain, and $34 for a major.

The increase would be $18 more monthly for a second lieutenant, $23 for a first lieutenant, $28 for a captain, and $34 for a major.

Rec Audit Cost $2,943

Auditors Barry, Macri & Co. have billed the town for $2,943 for the special audit of the recreation department.

The bill submitted to General Manager Richard Martin's office includes charges for work performed between Dec. 2, 1963, and June 30, 1964.

When the special audit was authorized by the directors in December, there was no appropriation authorized to cover its cost.

The audit was actually submitted in June. The State Tax Department decided the report was too vague to support action.

General Manager Richard Martin has begun implementing the recommendations in the special audit through a series of orders prepared before he left on vacation last week.

Area Shriners Head for NYC

The Shriners move into New York next week, and numbered among them will be about 1,000 from Sphinx Temple in Hartford.

The annual Imperial Council Sessions of the Ancient Arabic Order, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, is expected to attract about 280,000 Shriners and their families.

At the business session Wednesday, Harold C. Wareham, of Sphinx Temple will be succeeded as Imperial Potentate by Carl Brock of Zem Zep Temple in Erie, Pa.

Thursday is Shrine Day at the Fair, and officials expect the day's crowd will set a record that will stand up for this year.

And when it's over, most of the Shriners will head back home—that is, all but about 3,000, who will board planes for the Middle East where an international ceremonial will be held right on the desert the following week.

Quickly Passed, 5-2 Vote Only 2 People Show For Charter Hearing

Only two persons appeared last night at a public hearing in the Municipal Building, advertised to consider a multitude of charter revisions, compressed into 12 questions, and to be voted upon at the town's Oct. 6 elections.

The questions are, word for word, the same that were defeated at the May 19 referendum for lack of sufficient affirmative votes.

Neither of the two citizens present spoke on a subject pertinent to the questions under consideration, and the combined public hearing and special meeting of the Charter Revision Commission (CRC) took only 30 minutes to complete.

Since the present CRC was charged with consideration of these 12 questions only, it voted to recommend them to the board of directors, and thus concludes its deliberations and existence after two meetings, totaling only 45 minutes.

The proposals will be under discussion again Wednesday night at 8 in the hearing room of the Municipal Building, when the board conducts its own required public hearing.

The board will then vote its approval of the proposed charter changes for placement on the Oct. 6 voting machines. The questions will then be filed with the office of the secretary of state, as required by statute.

Last night's approval of the proposed questions passed by a vote of 5 to 2, with Republicans Donald Conrad and Vincent Diana, the only ones of the minority party present, voting "no."

Atty. Diana, apparently miffed at the lack of public participation at the hearing, questioned the legality of the proceedings, but was assured by Chairman Sanford Plepler that they were entirely in order.

Diana also deplored the fact that Atty. John Shea, newly appointed Republican member of the commission, was unable to participate in any of the discussions.

TV Notebook

By JOAN CROSBY
NEW YORK (NEA) — Patricia Barry, a red-headed beauty and one of television's busiest actresses, was explaining why she had agreed to appear in a series next season.

"The thing is I love Jack Klugman, and when they told me he was going to be in the series, it helped me decide. Of course, later I found they had told him I was going to be in the series, and that's what helped him decide."

The NBC series is something new in programming. The overall title is "90 Bristol Court," and it consists of three separate but interwoven comedies, with "Karen," "Tom, Dick, and Mary" and "Harris Against the World."

In an engaging bit of television whimsy, all the people involved live at the same Southern California bungalow court. So there will be an occasional overlapping of actors, as "Karen" spills into "Tom, Dick and Mary," and "Harris" takes on his neighbors as well as the world.

It's "Harris Against the World" that will occupy Emmy

Ieda Maria Vargas Getting Married

the mother of two girls, 13 and 6.

"The children are at an age where they need some of my time. I can do this show like ordering groceries. There will be a regular shooting schedule, the same hairdresser, the same director, the same studio. This kind of a schedule takes less out of you. You can plan your time. You know when you will have days off. And if there are special things at school I must attend, they can write me out of a script."

Another beautiful girl made a brief visit to New York — Ieda (pronounced Yedda) Maria Vargas, Miss Universe 1963.

On Aug. 1, when CBS telecasts the stylized ritual which leads to a new Miss Universe, Ieda Maria will take off her crown, head for her native Brazil, get married and retire from public life.

You get the idea that Miss Vargas will be very glad to have not only the CBS eye but also the public eye looking in another girl's direction. You also get the idea that this tall girl is a very tired 20-year-old. Her English exists, but not in depth. "Is difficult," she says. "I don't have opportunity for conversation. But this has been

TV Coverage Was Smooth And Sure

By BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD (AP)—And now, back to the summer reruns.

The television networks have packed up their millions of dollars worth of electronic gear in San Francisco. Schedules have reverted to the endless replays of winter shows. With the television news staffs resting up for the Democratic National Convention in Atlantic City, N.J., next month, it is time to assess their performance at this week's Republican affair.

Television news came of age during the four days following last Nov. 22, and the GOP coverage reflected that new maturity.

Four years ago, the television newsmen seemed to be pressing their power. Reporters tried to stir up controversy where none existed. Backgrounding was sometimes shallow. Camera crews and interviewers often used obvious music in getting at their stories.

It was different at San Francisco last week. All three networks operated smoothly and with little of the self-consciousness of past conventions. There was a comic scene when NBC's John Chancellor was arrested by overzealous officers for not clearing the Cow Palace floor. Otherwise, the television men let the politicians occupy the center stage.

The smooth performance was due to careful planning, expert crews, and the steady hands of the star commentators, who perhaps deserve a more distinguished term than anchor men. All five are old hands at the convention broadcasting game, although their average age is 49. Their total duty on radio and television amounts to over a century.

The Huntley-Brinkley team, according to the audience ratings of the Republican convention, remain the most popular newscasters. They constitute a stalwart duo.

Chet Huntley, born 52 years ago in Cardwell, Mont., is the senior member, having clocked 30 years of broadcasting. He is the hard news expert with a sober manner that sometimes borders on weariness.

Brinkley, 44, a native of Wilmington, N.C., supplies the light touch and is incisive without

Andy Williams Is Riding High

By RUTH E. THOMPSON
It sure must have taken some elbow-twisting. But there's cause for rejoicing over at NBC and out and around the land as well.

Andy Williams had signed to do more than twice as many programs this coming season as he did last; 26 full hours, in full color, Mondays starting in October.

It was a different story last winter as far as the suave, singing, emcee was concerned.

"Twelve programs a year are about enough for now. We work very hard to get that easy look. This is creative stuff."

"I do love television; and intend to keep doing it. But I also want to do more movies and keep up some club dates. Those big audiences at last summer's tour certainly made you feel great."

"Besides, though I'm certainly no 'handy Andy' around the house (except for presiding over steaks) I do want to spend more time in my own home with my family."

Besides which he was understandably miffed.

He settled back in his Plaza Hotel Suite overlooking New York's Central Park and lighted a thin cigar.

"Sure, my ratings are great right now. But ratings alone shouldn't determine whether a show is on more often or entirely off. New shows deserve a chance to build, too."

Obviously he was remembering the year before. The polished nonchalant Williams' emceeing and stylish singing had won him the top Emmy Award and a batch of other "Best Male Vocalist," "Most Popular Personality" type citations. Yet — because ratings had not yet reached "block-buster" — the "to be or not to be" sign dangled like the sword-of-you-know-what.

Luckily the light turned green on what turned out to be the glory road. Each show has been better than the one before it . . . and the first one was simply great.

But now that the elbow-twisting is over, it just means Andy — who's been working since he was eight — is going to be working harder than ever.

For one thing, he's serious about movies. Feels the time is ripe for a return to the "frothy, polished, elegant kind of comedy everybody but Cary Grant has been neglecting for too long."

Though he didn't get the girl in his first full-length feature, "I'd Rather Be Rich," he loved the role. "Very rich character," he grins.

Though The Williams Brothers broke up as an act a dozen years ago with Andy alone choosing show business they remain a close knit family as you can see for yourself on Andy's Christmas shows.

As the other boys married, they wanted to "stay put in one place."

Andy himself married only two-and-a-half-years ago, but his French wife, Claudine Longet, is very much in tune with show business.

Pay TV in 3rd Year

Subscription TV on Channel 18 has completed the first two years of a three-year experiment.

To date, nearly 5,000 subscribers to the pay TV plan have participated. Shows seen have included exclusive sports events, live theatre productions and current motion pictures.

The demonstration is being conducted by RKO and Zenith. Marking the end of the first two years of experiment with pay TV, a Channel 18 spokesman said, "Subscription TV has fulfilled its promise to supplement commercial TV with outstanding family entertainment at a fraction of the cost of such programs in theaters, auditoriums and sports arenas."

In a pioneer move, the station last May started a series on medical information beamed exclusively to physician subscribers in the Greater Hartford area.

'A Man Named Mays' Rerun Shows New Film Footage

New film footage of Willie Mays, showing his outstanding play during the first half of the 1964 season, will be included in "A Man Named Mays," a one-hour special about the San Francisco Giants' star, on NBC-

TV Tuesday from 10 to 11 p.m. The filmed special, as first telecast last year, reviewed Mays' major-league career from his "Rookie of the Year" season in 1951 through the 1963 campaign. The additional footage, according to producer Lee Mendelson, will:

Show Mays in one of his best early-season starts (leading National League at mid-season in homers, runs-batted-in, runs and slugging percentage, among leaders in batting average and hits);

Note his appointment as the Giants' team captain (Manager Al Dark says during the show, "Willie has been leading the team for a decade—now we've made it official.");

Show Mays as one of the National League stars in the All-Star Game, with his defensive play and ninth-inning base-running playing a big part in the 7-4 victory.

"A Man Named Mays" also includes action shots of many of Mays' greatest feats and comments about Mays by top baseball figures: Charles Einstein, a long-time friend and author of two books about Mays, narrates the show.

Hollywood on TV

By DICK KLEINER
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — "Mister Ed," the television show about the friends and associates of a talking horse, is a huge financial success. It has made its star, Alan Young, a household word and a reasonably wealthy man.

But there are those of us Alan Young fans who wish "Mister Ed" was still a listener. We remember "The Alan Young Show" of 12 years ago. It was "The Danny Kaye Show" of its day — slick skits, tasteful comedy, good entertainment every week.

"This is much easier," Alan says. "Why, doing 'Mister Ed' is like a vacation for me. I never get a frantic phone call from the producer — 'Alan, the second spot is a little weak, we'll have to rewrite it.' Believe me, a situation comedy is a snap compared to a sketch show."

But there is a treasure trove of sketch material in a drawer in Young's home. And maybe, if we're all good and eat our cereal, someday we'll get a chance to see some of it.

Funniest Drawer
 It seems that Young took a year off, after "The Alan Young Show" went the way of all television shows, and took himself to his native England. There he spent the twelve months (English talk, y'see) doing nothing but leisurely dreaming up sketches and sketch ideas.

"I was sure I could get the show back on somehow," he says. "But when I came back there was this idea for 'Mister Ed.' And I took it."

So all the sketches and sketch ideas were shoved into the drawer. Over the four years that "Mister Ed" has been galloping into our living rooms, he has added to the collection. The result is that that drawer is jammed with comedy material; it's the funniest drawer in the West.

He hopes eventually to get back into the sketch business. While he's delighted with the success of "Mister Ed" and doesn't mind playing second out to a horse, still it isn't quite the same as the good old days. That was Alan Young's heyday; now, it's just his hay-day.

Mail Confuses 'Mr. Novak' With Star James Franciscus

By JAMES FRANCISCUS
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — I'm a little intimidated by a high school teacher named John Novak.

It's my job to portray him on the "Mr. Novak" series, but the more I learn about him, the more I realize that the job demands something besides acting skill.

John Novak, in case you haven't been introduced, is a practical, hard-working idealist. He campaigns, every Tuesday night, against ignorance and inertia. He decided while on duty with the Air Force in Korea that knowledge, not guns, holds the solution to many of man's problems.

That's the character executive producer Jack Neuman created and asked me to play when he and Boris Sagal blueprinted the show a year ago.

But in his first semester of teaching, John Novak grew far beyond these limits.

Neuman's impertinent experiment — to bring a sincere, dedicated, unhysterical teacher to television's audience — succeeded.

committee judges when they honored our show this past season: "The uneducated man is an incomplete man."

But I'm not John Novak, the selfless, underpaid teacher. I'm James Franciscus, the well paid actor. Through letters and daily personal contact with educators who work with the "Mr. Novak" show, all of us — the cast, the production crew, the writers — have a powerful new awareness of the educator's urgent role in our culture.

In the series, we have a tool to dramatize the vital, creative influence these people exert. We try zealously to spread the word that school teachers in general are underpaid and overworked. That's why, when a teacher or student praises me for my contribution to education, I squirm a bit.

The plaudits belong to John Novak — to the John Novaks and the Jane Novaks in big schools and little schools all across the country.
