Paul Cervini Named Collector of Year

Paul A. Cervini, Manchester's collector of revenue, last night was named "State Tax Collector of the Year," and was placed near the top of the consultant list for the State Tax Department.

the State Tax Department.

The announcement was made by State Tax Commissioner John L. Sullivan, before close to 275 diners, gathered at Fiano's Restaurant in Bolton to honor Cervini for his 24 years of dedicated public service.

Cervini, who will retire Friday after serving 18 years secollector of revenue, was cited "for his outstanding record of tax collection, not only during the past year, but during every year he has been in office."

Last night's reception, as described perfectly by Miss Norma Johnson, assistant collector of revenue, was "both happy and sad. Happy for having been associated with him, and sad because of his retirement."

Miss Johnson presented Cervini with one of the several gifts given him by the assembled well - wishers — a reclining chair.

Police Chief James Reardon, chairman of the event, presented Mrs. Cervini with a purse of money, and told her to "parcel it out to Paul as an allowance."

William Skoneski, president of the Manchester Improvement Association, and a lifelong friend of Cervini, presented him with an FM-AM radio, "for listening to your many favorite sports events."

General Manager Richard Martin was called upon to present Mrs. Cervini with an original portrait of her husband. The Eternal Triangle For 18 years now, everybody has been giving lip service to the idea of reunifisation of Germany and nobody has ever done a single thing about it.

Yet everybody knows, in reality, that It is something that is bound to happen. The only questions are when and how. The United States can't reunite Germany all by itself. We don't hold the pieces West Germany has to get. Consequently, the only way we can play a part in the reunification of Germany is to enter upon some agreement with Rusto this, we chose to create a separate West Germany, as our own major and special ally. We'll concede—unlike many Southtion. To get the electoral votes of the Bouth, the Republican party has proved willing to water down its own historic stand on civil rights, just as the Demoeratic party has in many years compromised its own principles for these same

If there is not much difference in the othics involved, as first one party and then the other seeks to sell some of its own principle to the South in return for electoral votes, there is a great potential difference in the result. If the South goes into the Republican sarty, or into the kind of Republican party which seems offered at the monent, it could be a situation in which reaction joins reaction, each inciting rather than restraining the other. The new party resulting would not be a party which had its own restraints and checks within itself. It might be a party which would have more tendency to run loose in one direction and therefore be less stable and responsible. And it might seem a much more coherent and consistent party in the realm of principle, but t would be a great deal less of a party which could be classified as truly nation al, in the way either the Democratic or the Republican party has, in the past, been capable of representing the whole nation because it itself included Americans of all shadings of belief and prin-And this is what worries some. It does not worry those political theorists who have often thought how neat and convenient and simple it would be if Amerion divided itself into two parties more clearly and completely separated by lines of creed and principle. But it does worry those who love both the traditions and the results of American politics and who think it has been a strength with us that each party has contained within itself a rather full mixture of people and

Perhaps these latter theories, the one which like our hybrid parties, are wrong. Perhaps it would be better for us to have one party, all conservative, and nothing else, and another party, all liberal, and nothing else. And perhaps that is what we are now coming to, if the Republican experiment of 1964 pays off.

There is no such shame in it. The World's Fair has been, from the start, a proposition based on government subsidy and government assumption of Atlantic at least. NEW HAVEN (AP)-An attack of mononucleosis is standing between hurdler Jay Luck and a trip to Tokyo as a member of the U.S. Olympic team. The energy sapping disease struck the former Yale captain 10 days ago as he was continuing to prepare himself for the final Olympic trails to be held in September in Los Angeles. The illness, he said, may be "a blessing in disguise. At least that's what I tell myself to keep my spirits up. I've been training since last September and its tempting to say you need a layplace on the U.S. team is to be

Los Angeles. Being ruled out of condition is the only way be can lose the spot he earned earlier this month when he turned in a near record-breaking perormance to win the Olympic rials in the 400-meter hurdles t Randall's Island. His time of :49.4 was good mough to beat Rex Cawley and Chris Stauffer, two of the country's leading hurdlers, and was only two-tenths of a second off the world record set by Glenn Davis in 1958. But maintaining his condition may be the hardest thing he is to do.

The national leaders were critical of what they called the "states rights platform" adopted by the Republican convention that nominated Arizona Sen. Barry Goldwater for president. Their statement, issued Wednesday night after a "summit meeting," said: "We believe that racism has been injected into the campaign by the Goldwater forces."

China told the Soviet Union today it will "never take part in any international meeting" that will split the international Communist movement.
