Lincoln's Birthday Missing In Confederate Celebrations

By ABRAHAM AP Newsfeatures

North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia. Lee, regarded by many military historians as the ablest strategist-governor of Virginia when he led the army during the Civil War, is not observed in Virginia as a legal holiday. In fact, the 11 states that seceded from the Union to join the Confederate States of America, only one—Tennessee—celebrates Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday.

And history buffs know that Tennessee was the "Johnny Reb" state that led the rebellion against the Union. It was the last state to secede. (Actually Kentucky and Missouri who sent representatives to the Confederate Congress were recognized by states in the Confederate flag, although neither seceded. Both states celebrate Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday.)

In case you're feeling sorry for all those school teachers, government, bank and other employees who don't start abetting Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday, don't start abetting Lincoln's birthday as a legal holiday.

Nonrecognition of Lincoln's birthday is not confined to the South. And the residents of the North and water for you—tally up all their special rebel celebrations. Georgians don't even miss out on Feb. 12. For them it's not Lincoln's birthday but Georgia Day—a legal holiday since 1906. Georgia Day honors the anniversary of the landing of Gen. James Oglethorpe, the state's founder, at Savannah on Feb. 12, 1733. (Residents of Arkansas also celebrate February 12—as a memorial day.)

Jan. 19, Robert E. Lee's birthday, is a legal holiday in Alabama, Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, Louisiana, Texas and Virginia.

Care Needed In Laying Of Concrete

By ANDY LANG AP Newsfeatures

If you're planning to work with concrete this spring or summer, clip out this article. You can avoid trouble and get good results by heeding the following bits of information:

The way to make certain a concrete mixture will be weak and porous when it hardens is to use more water than is absolutely necessary. Using excessive water is a common error because a mixture of this kind seems more workable than one with less water.

Concrete should be put into position immediately after it has been mixed. A delay of even 30 minutes can affect the strength of the finished job. Using a wood float on the concrete produces a rough surface. A steel trowel results in a smooth finish.

In grading, to assure that rain water runs in the proper direction, don't rely on your eyes to get the proper slope. Always use a level.

The "curing" of concrete is one of the most important steps. This consists of keeping it wet for several days after it has been put into place, preventing premature drying. Cover the concrete with burlap or similar material as soon as it begins to set, then keep the covering wet. An alternative is to sprinkle the concrete three or four times a day with a garden hose.

Oil paints don't work well on concrete surfaces. Use a latex masonry paint or Portland cement paint.

To get textured or unusual concrete surfaces, use such implements as a broom, brush, wire or wire cloth. Use a wire cloth or anything else your imagination can dream up. Do this before the sidewalk setting, the maximum load and the proper inflation pressure of each tire.

Tire Warning Required

AKRON, Ohio—Federal safety standards for automobile tires will go into effect next Aug. 1. Among other things, they require a warning molded into the sidewall stating the maximum load and the proper inflation pressure of each tire.

Senate Committee Probing U.S. Intelligence Ships included use of the Pueblo and other vessels... who participated in the Pueblo mission... Some committee members also raised questions about the intergovernmental coordination of intelligence gathering operations, particularly when their disclosure could have foreign policy implications.

What was the name of the highest official in the Pueblo mission, the committee asked, "who is aware of day-to-day operations of such ships as the Pueblo?" At another point, the secretary was asked if he was aware of the timing of the Pueblo mission.

The committee noted that it had an "understanding" that the North Korean representative to the Korean Armistice Commission had "about January 20..." warned the U.S. representative about such activities as the Pueblo's mission. Asked the committee: "Was that information available to the Department of State? At what time?"

The committee asked for copies of all "instructions" and "mission concepts" relating to the Pueblo as well as communications sent to and received from that ship.

It asked for intercepted North Korean messages before, during and after the attack on the Pueblo.

As to the U.S. response to the Pueblo incident, the committee asked for details on what aircraft were available in the area to respond, and which military commanders made the decision not to send aid.

Idle Rate Lowest In 15 Years

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's unemployment rate dropped to 3.5 per cent last month, the lowest level in almost 15 years, the Labor Department reported today.

Total employment at 73.3 million was at an all-time high for January and up 1.1 million from a year earlier, the Bureau of Labor Statistics said.

The drop in the jobs rate from 3.7 per cent in December was largely due to a greater than usual decline in the number of women seeking work, Commissioner Arthur M. Ross reported.

The January labor force declined 1.7 million, and women accounted for half of the drop, the bureau said.

"It was apparently because of a decline in retail trade after Christmas," Ross said.

The 3.5 per cent jobs rate was the lowest since November 1953, when the same figure was recorded, the Bureau said.

The unemployment rate for women dropped from 4.3 per cent in December to 3.9 per cent in January.

The rate for men rose from 2.2 to 2.3 per cent while the rate for long-termers declined from 12.8 to 11.3 per cent.

The jobs rate for nonwhite workers, mostly Negroes, declined more rapidly than that for white workers but was still double the rate for white workers.

The rate for white workers declined from 3.4 per cent to 3.2 per cent and the rate for Negroes dropped from 6.9 to 6.4 per cent.

2 New Subs Will Provide Crew Escape

GROTON (AP)—Two 25-foot research submarines being built for the Navy will be equipped with ejection capsules to enable the crew to escape in case of emergency.

The Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., builders of the research subs able to carry three-man crews, says escape can be made by means of a lever in the "personnel sphere" that ejects the front section of the craft.

The sphere will rise rapidly to the surface through its buoyancy, EB says.

The two vehicles, called Autec I and Autec II, are awaiting completion and are scheduled for delivery to the Navy later this year.

Each of the submarines has two mechanical arms. Externally mounted tool compartments will enable operators to pick tools for deep-ocean work (tasks and research without surfacing, EB says. The tools may be selected with the mechanical arms.

EB says Autec I will operate primarily at the Atlantic Undersea Test and Evaluation Center Range off the Bahamas Islands. Autec II is scheduled for projects sponsored by the Office of Naval Research at the Woods Hole Oceanographic Institute in Massachusetts.

Way Station For Burglars

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The home of William Sherman of Atlanta seems to be turning into a way station for burglars. Sherman says his home has been looted five times in less than two years.

On the latest visit Monday, thieves carted away about $4,000 in silver, including a service and a 20-piece piece setting—along with cameras, projectors and a television set.

Detective R. E. McBreath, who has handled the burglary cases, said, "I'm beginning to feel right at home there."

Columbia School Panel, Over Budget, Returning $20,000 to Town

A little ray of sunshine crept into the lives of town taxpayers with the news from the Board of Education that the school budget will be reduced by $20,000.

The budget board chairman Donald Tuttle said at this week's meeting, was overestimated by some $20,000 this year, most of which was in tuition to be paid to Windham High School.

Tuttle said $20,000 will be returned to the town and the rest kept for payment of any bills incurred and to keep an emergency fund on hand.

Another bonanza was from the Connecticut Light and Power Co. which credited Porter School with $760. Reduced rates were made after a survey and were retroactive.

This year's school budget was revised downward to $500,451.

The board voted to meet with the Teachers' Association Feb. 14 at a closed session but said the program would be kept informal on progress and negotiations. When the board and the teachers agree, an emergency meeting will be held.

State Funds for Library Superintendent Myron Collins said there are no state funds available this year for the demonstration library set up by the town and which is well known throughout the state.

Collins said an "articulation" program will be held Feb. 4 for Project ASB to further coordinate the program which includes Westham and Kibben.

Richard Greiner, filling in for Principal George Pades, who was ill, said the Family Life program has been very successful.

One board member said he understood a few parents wondered if there was "an invasion of privacy" in the questionnaire sent home but he was assured that the questionnaire was not to be signed by parents and that an overall acceptance of the program was indicated.

It was reported that Mrs. Susan Drake's remedial reading program has been very successful with the 82 students involved.

Weiss Family Moves Tuesday

Town Manager Robert Weiss told the Board of Directors last night, "If all is well, weather-wise or other wise, my family and I will move into our Manchester home next Tuesday, Feb. 13."

The new Weiss home is at 71 N. Lakewood Circle. The Windsor home has been put up for sale.

Cut Your Own Taxes—5 Most Married Couples Gain From Filing Joint Returns form to file. There are two pitfalls in filing separate returns. Watch for them.

If one of the spouses is income tax payer, the greatest tax savings for married couples.

There are exceptional cases where the filing of separate returns can greatly reduce the tax obligation.

Here are some examples where separate returns offer possible advantages:

1. Husband and wife each have income and one has considerable medical expense for 1967. Separate returns often allow the greatest medical deduction.

2. Each has investments and each took stable losses last year. On separate returns each may use the losses to offset gains and a maximum of $1,000 in ordinary income. On joint returns there is a $1,000 maximum offset against other income.

3. Unless there are such unusual circumstances, it generally is advisable to file joint returns where lower tax rates prevail. Whenever there is a possible savings, both methods—joint and separate returns—should be completed before deciding which

Cottage Industry: Agents for Art Galore
By NADENE WALKER
Associated Press Writer
GUILDFORD, England (AP)—Way-out fashion has become a cottage industry.
In this Surrey county town, 30 miles from the glitter and glamour of Carnaby Street and Chelsea, housewives in 40 cottages are busy stitching out suits, mini-dresses, silver-foil capes, and the latest gingham styles. All will be labeled "Art Galore" and shipped all over the world.
It's all part of a be-your-own-boss revolution started this year by a former London advertising man, Michael Papirnik. Papirnik invited girls interested in fashion to become agents for his direct-mail business by paying three

LBJ Outlines 8-Point Plan For Protection of Consumer
By CARL P. LUTHERBORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson, bidding to put the 90th Congress into the Record Book as the "Consumer's Congress," has outlined a new eight-point program for this year.
The proposals, most of which had been detailed before Tuesday's special presidential message, include improved food and poultry inspection, safeguards against home improvement and other sales frauds, a study of auto insurance and boating safety standards.
Some proposals, such as radiation standards for color television and other electronic products, already have won strong support at congressional hearings.
Others, such as the Senate-passed gas pipeline safety bill and the measure to protect against electric power blackouts, have drawn strong industry opposition but appear to have a good chance of enactment—if they can get out of committee.
Despite frequently difficult fights in committee where closed sessions conceal many votes, only a handful of members have cast negative votes in public against the growing list of consumer-oriented bills.
The record of major consumer bills before Congress shows:
1. Interest disclosure, passed 382 to 4 last week by the House after a weaker bill had been approved 92 to 0 by the Senate in July.
2. Meat inspection, passed last fall 403 to 1 by the House, strengthened 89 to 2 by the Senate with a bill close to the stronger version finally re-passed the House 336 to 28.
3. Air pollution, passed 88 to 0 last year by the Senate and 322 to 0 by the House.
4. Flammable fabrics, passed last year by a voice vote in the Senate and by 226 to 0 in the House.
5. Auto safety and highway safety, passed unanimously by the Senate in 1966 and with just three dissenting votes—in the House.
6. Fair packaging, passed 71 to 9 in the Senate in 1966 and 300 to 8 in the House after a committee had watered it down.
In none of these cases do the final votes indicate the strength of industry opposition to the difficult fight which faced proponents in pushing the measure through.
The interest disclosure bill, described by some supporters as the strongest consumer bill ever to pass the House, is a good example of the way members reached in committee and on the floor.
In the House Banking Committee, Democrats rallied by a handful of votes to require that interest be expressed in annual percentages for revolving

Korean Diet In Pregnancy Very Limited
By AP NEWSWriters
So you're expecting a baby? If you're irked at the doc and don't—particularly in the diet field—that your doctor has prescribed, be glad that you're not a pregnant woman living in one of 26 agricultural communities of South Korea.
According to the Korean Home Economics Association, they believe they must avoid 14 different kinds of food. Here's why:
If a pregnant woman eats duck, her baby may walk like a duck all its life.
If she eats rabbit meat, her baby will probably have a hare lip.
If she eats fish or poultry, the baby will have rony skin or chronic goosefish in later life.
Soup made with meat bones, especially chicken bones, may cause her baby to be born deformed.
If she eats soybeans or

Stock Split Voted
NEW YORK (AP)—Holders of stock in the Famous Artists Schools, Inc., of Westport, Conn., are to benefit March 15 from a 100 per cent stock split voted here Tuesday by corporation directors.
The action, affecting stockholders of record Feb. 15, followed a stockholders' vote to quintuple the number of authorized shares to 10 million.
Based on his fashion-agent reports, Papirnik says, "But we have to leave four-inch hems for the ladies. They don't go for real minis there."
There's a joke in Carnaby Street that all rag trade speculators are under 30. He launched Art Galore by chartering a car on the Guildford to London train and giving a free trip to all who wanted to watch his fashion show on road.
The quiet Surrey countryside might seem an unlikely spot for a booming boutique business, but Papirnik wanted to get away from the pressures of London. New London comes to him, and Art Galore has become one of the best-known names in the business. "With the new university, Guildford is England's up-and-coming provincial center," Papirnik claims.
He keeps prices down to about half the London level by direct sales, eliminating middlemen, and by farming out production to local seamstresses. A housewife gets 12 shillings and 6 pence (11.50) for stitching up a dress that may sell for from three to six pounds ($7.25 to $14). It only takes her an hour or two and by local standards the wages is good. The shop even designs most of its own materials, which are woven and dyed in Scotland.
"We have had letters from GIs in Vietnam who have seen magazine stories and pictures about us," Papirnik says. "You can't go any further. You can't send us the dress and we'll send you the girl." Others send orders for clothes to be sent to wives or girlfriends at home.
Art Galore's first hit was with the pop stars, who turn up at swarms of fans. In turn, pop-magazines, printed with pictures of the top singers, are a big novelty seller.
Another successful gimmick was Papirnik's "cushion shoulder" for capriotes. A stick-see for authenticity, he wrote to the Chicago Museum of Contemporary Art for a facsimile of Al Capone's shoulder holster. The museum pointed out that Al

State Judge Raps Police, Prosecutor In Lawrence Case

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—A Superior Court judge criticizes police and prosecutor handling of the case of John M. Lawrence, chairman of the Federated Americans Against Israel Racism who was arrested in Danbury on an assessment of charges.

Judge David M. Shea turned down Tuesday's habeas corpus petition brought by Lawrence of New York City, but took to a Circuit Court prosecutor and New York City and Danbury.

The fugitive warrant episode was ultimately dropped by the judge. Shea said, "demonstrates a calculated attempt to deprive the petitioner Lawrence of his legal rights."

It is established further by the evidence, according to the decision, that untrue statements were contained in an affidavit obtained by a Danbury policeman concerning Lawrence's having fled New York and being in the Connecticut jurisdiction.

Lawrence said at the time of his arrest, according to Shea, that his arrest was a violation of his constitutional rights and would "form the basis of a civil suit."

The prosecutor, who claimed the Church here and brother of the Most Rev. Vincent J. Hines, bishop of Norwich, died at his home here today at the age of 85.

A native of New Haven, Bridgeport and West Hartford, he was a member of the Danbury church, where he was a member of the Danbury church, where he was a member of the Danbury church.

Tax Review

The Manchester Board of Tax Review will be in session again tomorrow, from 8 to 9 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Another hearing, for those taxpayers whose last names start with the letters T through Z.

The final hearing, for those taxpayers unable to appear on their scheduled night, will be held Saturday morning, from 9 to 11 a.m.

The hearings are for all taxpayers who wish to appeal their assessments, based on the October 1967 Grand List.

The conduct of the police officer who swore to the wholly unfounded statements contained in the affidavit requires even more vehement reproach.

Lawrence said at the time of his arrest, according to Shea, that his arrest was a violation of his constitutional rights and would "form the basis of a civil suit."

Shea's 18-page decision followed five weeks of testimony in Superior Court.

Lawrence, who is a law clerk, referred himself in the proceedings.

Dr. Dorothy Dunning Chacko talks to village women about good dietary habits and sanitation, two things which, she says, India badly needs.

Dr. Dorothy Dunning Chacko checks child she helped to cure, to keep childless wife from being divorced.

Woman Doctor Helps Childless in India

"Childlessness may be for a variety of reasons—hookworm, chronic malaria, leprosy, syphilis, smallpox. The couple can often beget children without any special effort of my own, by merely ridding them of these healthier beings," she says.

"Most women do not say they have no children; they only come with complaints of interminable ailments, and I am full of their childlessness in reply to my questions. I cure them of their ailments, and their wombs begin to function in the normal way," she says.

"After they have had two or three children, the women themselves come to me and say 'doctor, give me some pill to stop childbearing,' and I send them to the nearby family planning center run by the government," she says.

"Mrs. Chacko is not adding to the population explosion; she is only helping families achieve happiness by having one or two children, she feels.

"I myself advise women to stop childbearing after they have had two or three, at the utmost, because it is both a physical and economic necessity; the health of most women cannot bear it and the family income cannot sustain more than that," she says.

"The craving for a son is inbuilt in the Hindu society; parents without a son are believed to be condemned to a hell called pashu. The poor girl is blamed for not saving the family from such a contingency," she says.

"The situation has been worsened by the new law which forbids a Hindu from taking more than one wife. Formerly, he could marry any number of women but now the 'one and only' wife must produce the heirs," Dr. Chacko says.

"Mrs. Chacko finds that the craving for a son is no longer so important with the sophisticated Hindus. This has been helped by a new law which gives property rights to daughters.

"What India needs badly and most urgently are two things—change in food habits and sanitation," says Dr. Chacko. Rural Indians eat the same things which their ancestors have eaten for hundreds of years.

"Women do not supplement their children's food beyond international law. He recently bread-feeding until they are at least 1-year-old and by that time too emaciated to assimilate 'foreign food'.

"Women need a lot of education on how best to rear children. They are ignorant and are misled by their mothers-in-law who know no better.

"Mrs. Chacko starts her clinic every day with a lecture on how to bring up children, elementary principles of sanitation.

"She tries to get experienced doctors in the cities to visit village clinics on day a week and attend to patients within a 50-mile radius. 'The whole of India will then be covered by this one method,' she says.

"She is against sending raw medical graduates to the villages. 'They are inexperienced and are being young, lack patience and the necessary emotional "Atakau" or "Atakabak." In the high road of recovery, send senior doctors once a week and let it work wonders," she says. "Atakau" is the same general Dr. Chacko also believes in manner.

Hearing Resumes In Hair Dispute

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—A show-cause hearing is to resume Wednesday in Common Pleas Court to consider the case of male students suspended from a Norwalk high school because their hair was considered too long by the school board.

The principal and assistant principal of Briton McMahon High School began testimony Monday in a courtroom packed with mini-skirted girls and boys with long hair.

Principal Luther A. Howard said Monday 51 boys were suspended Jan. 29 because their long hair "detracted from a healthy atmosphere" and "was not conducive to good educational standards."

Since the mass dismissal, problems had occurred. They however, all but 16 of the boys had visited a barber or had their hair cut at home to meet the school regulations. The regulations say a boy's hair cannot cover his eyes, ears or collar.

Four boys are being represented by the Connecticut Civil Liberties Union, which asked Judge Thomas O'Bullivan last week for the show-cause hearing.

The CCLEU hopes the court will issue an injunction forcing the school to reinstate the suspended students.

Burton Weinstein, CCLEU lawyer, said state law permits the school board, to make regulations under which administrators may later suspend students only "as a means of enforcing discipline."

"No reference to any such disciplinary problem" was made in the students' suspension order, Weinstein said.

Howard and his assistant, David Cutrona, said some disciplinary matters, "but to foster restraint and cooperation among industry, labor and the government."

There was no indication that the suspended students would be allowed to testify Wednesday.

Wage-Price Spiral Set Awirl, Tax Hike Not Seen Answer

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—What's the government going to do about inflation? Not very much, it appears.

People who looked for a novel or dramatic anti-inflation plan in President Johnson's Economic Message to Congress last week were disappointed. He came up with a plan for a commission—and with a renewed plea for the 10 per cent surtax which the House Ways and Means Committee has shelved three times.

Some expected Johnson to propose a revision and revitalization of wage-price guidelines. Others looked for a plan to set up an advisory board to give guidance on pending major wage and price decisions.

Nothing so definite was suggested, although the new five-member Cabinet Committee on Price Stability apparently will try to find a substitute for the virtually defunct guidelines.

Mezzanin, said Johnson, "urges on workable and acceptable wage and price controls."

But how can a union negotiator be expected to settle for anything less than he can wrest from an employer, when he knows 1967 inflation will outpace three, four, or possibly five per cent of his unionists' paychecks?

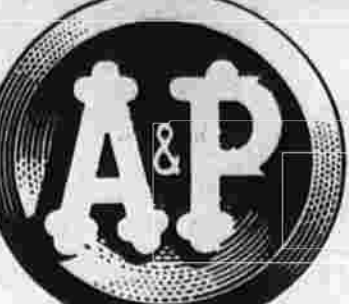

And why should a businessman—unless he has fat pockets in sight—be expected to accept last year's prices in his 1968 catalog when he gave a 5.5 per cent wage increase in 1967 and faces another one, perhaps just as big, in 1968?

The fact is, as Johnson's message acknowledged, that a classic wage-price spiral has been set awirl. And that it cannot be halted in 1968, regardless of higher taxes or anyone's private sacrifices.

It could be slowed by prompt enactment of the surtax, the President told Congress. And if there is also labor-management restraint, reasonable stability may return by 1969 or 1970.

But with business activity heating up "and with labor unions building the expectation of further price rises into their wage demands, there is danger the spiral will accelerate," Johnson said. "The longer it runs the harder it is to stop."

More Unrest Stirs India

By ARTHUR J. DOMMEN
The Los Angeles Times

NEW DELHI—Violence that recently has gripped three widely separated towns in north, south and eastern India underlines the diverse causes of India's most persistent malady.

So far, 1968 gives every indication of surpassing the grim record set in 1967 for unrest in which citizens fought with police, and there were looting and arson.

A strict curfew clamped on Meerut, the North Indian town whose garages started the famed Sepoy Mutiny in 1857, last week put an end to rioting in which 15 persons were killed.

The rioting outbreak coincided with a visit to a local Muslim college of the Moslem Kashmir political leader Sheikh Abdullah, 70, who is released from detention by the Indian government. Some sources in the town attributed the rioting to an attempt by Moslem leaders to use the Sheikh's visit as a pretext for staging a show of strength.

The state chief minister visited injured victims of the rioting in hospitals in Meerut Sunday and promised compensation to the families of those killed.

In the South Indian town of Bangalore, police opened fire to disperse a mob storming a police station. Official spokesmen there say the mob was protesting the death in police custody of a man who had been involved in a criminal case.

Earlier this year Bangalore was the scene of civil disturbances caused by protests against the Indian government's language policy. As a result of the Indian parliament's passage of an official language bill, feelings are still running high in the South Indian town.

Meanwhile, in Eastern India, the town of Guahati on the Brahmaputra River, which flows down from Tibet was shaken by a rampage of arson and looting that has resulted in a call for an official investigation to determine whether it was touched off by "foreign hands."

In this case obviously Pakistan, which watches developments in the strategic Assam state with more than casual interest.

The violence in Guahati broke out against the background of yet another political issue facing the Indian government—the demand by minority hill peoples living along the East Pakistan border for separate statehood.

The boycott turned into a demonstration, and soon mobs were on the loose, looting shops and setting fire to some of them.

An Assamese supremacist organization, which some regard as an unfortunate byproduct of the 10-year old agitation of the hill peoples for a separate state, began distributing clandestine leaflets about a year ago.

Assam is not the only state where supremacist organizations have sprung in recent months. Other states have seen them, too. Each for different local reasons.

The organization that has probably gained the most notoriety in India is the Shiv Sena. The Shiv Sena operates in Bombay and espouses the thesis that Bombay does not need and does not desire immigrants from the other parts of India.

In particular, the Shiv Sena's attention has been concentrated on South Indians, of which Bombay has received settlers living among its cosmopolitan population. South Indians in Bombay have received letters threatening their lives and property unless they move out of the city. So far, few have been scared enough to take the warnings seriously. But Shiv Sena has become an underground force in Bombay politics.

Find Excuse For Cleaning Your Cellar

By WYVASHI BERNARD
AP Newsfeatures Writer

You might find a small fortune in your cellar if you start digging in the trash.

That attitude makes cleaning the cellar less of a chore. The dream can come true, even in a small way. One man found $800 stashed away in a cookie jar.

And if you don't find anything of real value, there's always the satisfaction that a clean cellar can provide.

There are few old houses that aren't burdened by an accumulation of stored items.

A cellar can be a health hazard, breeding germs and bacteria. Many women go through such cellars every day to do laundry, or remove food from a freezer. They are repulsed by it but they don't do anything about it.

Plan the cleaning program by buying a mask and goggles and gauze filters at the hardware store. An effective one costs under 50 cents. You insert the filter, fitting it to your nose and around your mouth, tightening the strap to your head.

Put on long pants, long-sleeved blouse or shirt, a washable cloth around your head, pinning it tight. Wear work gloves or other long washable gloves. Put cotton in your ears.

The first cellar cleaning should be with the vacuum. You'll need it to remove cobwebs, dirt in corners and to clean items that will be saved.

Next, sort everything into (a) junk (b) useful give-aways (c) tag sale items (d) hold.

When you've discarded junk—old fuses, flashlight batteries, children's games, old bottles, jelly jars and perfume and water tanks (which will require heavy arms for removal)—you'll have made a big dent.

Sort out the give-aways: bags of outgrown galoshes, snowsuits, bathing suits.

You may be tempted to throw away the Boy Scout coffee pot, record player, record player, horse, toy chest, carpet sweeper, old wallpaper, trunk and old books.

Resist that impulse. These make ideal items for a tag sale. One person's junk can be another person's find.

For example, one man made over $200 selling such items as old garden tools, flower vases, unused maps, picture frames, old bowls and so on. He was prepared to pay a junk man to dispose of them.

When you've sorted, discarded and tagged sale items, the remaining items can be vacuum brushed or wiped with a cloth and replaced on shelves or floor. They will be a lot more useful now that you can get to them.

Map or hose the cellar, if possible. But this phase of the project can be delayed until warmer weather.

A good arrangement may carry this clean-up idea to the ultimate—putting winter items—ice skates, sleds, skis and so on in one area, and summer paraphernalia—tennis rackets, golf clubs, water skis, boat oars and so on in another.

If there is an old coal bin, clean it out. It can provide a good storage place for sportsman articles if you decide to rent the house sometime when you are on vacation.

A cellar should be sprayed periodically with a good disinfectant. But don't use one of the lethal sprays in the confines of a cellar.

Compass Drinks Crew's Alcohol

AUCKLAND (AP)—A "compass cocktail" brought a New Zealand yacht safely home after a Tasman Sea mishap.

Four days out from Sydney on a 1,200-mile voyage back to the New Zealand city of Whangarei, the 37-foot yawl Andromeda struck trouble. The bottom of her compass fell out. Her fastenings weakened by electrolysis.

The instrument was repacked and glued but after two days the alcohol melted the glue and ran out. Again the bottom was repacked but there was no more compass alcohol left. So the crew raised the cocktail can net, mixed equal parts of white rum, gin and vodka and poured the concoction into the compass.

In spite of the fiery cocktail, according to owner Skipper Roy Davies of Whangarei, the instrument had never performed better. It guided the yacht, with never a slagger, safely through the remaining six days of the voyage.

Honored Again

NEW YORK (AP)—Billy Tindall, a 6-foot-6-inch standee for Massachusetts, is a member of the weekly ECAC basketball team for the third time this season.

Tindall was named to the team Monday for his final second baskets which boosted Massachusetts to victories over Connecticut and American International.

There are about 17 species of frog in the United States.

LEARNING YOUNG HOPKINSVILLE, Ky. (AP) — One of the 5-year-old youngsters in Mrs. E. G. Adams' kindergarten suddenly left the room and ran across the room and planted a kiss on the cheek of a little girl.

"I don't think she liked that very much," Mrs. Adams remarked. "Oh, yes, I did!" quickly retorted the girl.

Teacher Aides Complete Course

Mrs. Beverly Lawrence of 89 Doane St. and Mrs. Marjorie Chapin of 30 Tuck Rd. were among 21 teacher aides graduated Monday from Eastern Connecticut State College's new teacher aide program.

The class was the first to graduate from the Williams college's program, initiated last November under a $280 federal grant.

The 10-week course trained the participants to take over routine school duties such as clerical work, attendance taking, collections and other non-teaching matters.

Half the course was devoted to educational theory, while the remainder was on-the-job training in the classroom.

A second 10-week session will be held beginning March 15, and interviewing will start March 17. The program may be obtained from Dr. Bruce E. Bradford, extension division director at ESOC.

Board Asks CREC Goals

An official from the Capital Region Education Council (CREC) will be invited by the Manchester Board of Education to discuss the group's aims and opening procedures at the board's next regular meeting, Feb. 20.

Regional Superintendent William Curtis was directed at his week-end meeting to issue the invitation to several members concerned about the council's methods.

CREC, formed in 1966, is a regional association of school boards from 30 towns in the Greater Hartford area, including Manchester.

The board's concern was occasioned by a letter it received recently seeking its favorable vote on a proposed amendment to CREC's constitution, relating to the appointment of council officers and employees.

One section of the amendment would permit CREC's board of directors to hire "such persons as deemed to be necessary and appropriate" for transacting council business.

All 12 CREC representatives attending a council meeting Jan. 25 were reported to have voted for the amendment. It could not be passed, however, because it failed to get the necessary two-thirds vote of the 30 members.

Atty. John Rotimer, chairman of the local board, said he was concerned about the attempt to get passage by written ballot of an amendment that potentially might give the council too broad powers.

Rotimer said he was particularly upset over the fact that the local board never received notification of the Jan. 25 meeting.

Rotimer was among delegates who spoke out against unduly broadening the council's powers when other proposed constitutional changes were under discussion at the council's annual meeting last December.

The changes were not brought to a vote at the annual meeting because of considerable opposition.

U.S. Failure Predicted

Cong Claim 3-Point Victory

Washington Post News Service HONG KONG, Feb. 7.—The Vietcong claimed Wednesday that its current thrust has dealt "irreparable" military, political and psychological blow at the United States and its allies in South Vietnam.

In a special communique transmitted here by Hanoi's official "Vietnam News Agency," the Vietcong described its "general offensive and simultaneous uprisings" as having inspired widespread popular support, prompted South Vietnamese army defections, destroyed allied equipment and, among other things, "wiped out" thousands of U.S. and American troops.

As a result of the Vietcong's "air-raucous force," the communique said, the "failure of the United States is a foregone conclusion." It added: "No matter how obstinately and frenzied they may act and no matter how many more troops and means of war they may bring in, they (the Americans) cannot emerge from their predicament, and will certainly meet with complete failure."

The communique, attributed to the "General of the South Vietnam Peoples Liberation Forces," also asserted that the Vietcong attacks had significantly undermined the Saigon government. It said: "The signboards of 'independence,' 'democracy,' 'constitutionalism' and the like of the puppet administration are crumbling like a soap bubble. The U.S. neo-colonialist policy in South Vietnam is being sapped to the roots."

The statement obliquely hinted at the Vietcong's reliance on Hanoi, affirming that "the blood-soaked sentiments between the north and south, are being turned into very great moral force of supply and reinforcement. Officers at Khe Sanh said the northmen appear bent on a drive to the South China Sea along east-west Route 9, the U.S. military western end of the Khe Sanh garrisons.

The last American, South Vietnamese and Montagnard forces were driven from the Lang Vei camp three miles west of Khe Sanh after an 18-hour siege in which the defenders suffered heavy casualties.

Fourteen of the 24 Americans escaped, and eight of them were wounded, some critically. The other 10 were dead, captured or trying to make it to Khe Sanh.

Of about 400 South Vietnamese and Montagnard irregulars in the camp, some 25 were wounded and 15 were killed. The Vietcong said it had captured 100 rifles and 100 machine guns. It also reported that the Vietcong had captured 100 rifles and 100 machine guns.

Survivors reported that after a heavy artillery bombardment Tuesday night, the camp was hit on two sides by North Vietnamese tanks being used in the war for the first time, while foot troops came in between them.

Johnson Asks Congressmen For $3 Billion in Foreign Aid

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson asked Congress today for $3 billion in foreign aid, including a special $100 million in immediate military assistance for South Korea.

Saying threats against South Korea from the North call for strengthening defenses of "this steadfast ally," Johnson said the $100 million would be used for planes, anti-aircraft equipment, naval radar, patrol craft, ammunition and other supplies.

Johnson also asked for $200 million in economic assistance for South Korea, saying that the country's economy is being strangled by the North's blockade of its sea borders.

In his message to Congress today, Johnson said the $3 billion would be used for a variety of purposes, including military aid, economic assistance and technical aid.

The presidential request for foreign aid in the fiscal year starting next July came to $2.8 billion—$2.5 billion in economic assistance and $430 million for military aid.

Another $100 million in arms aid will be sought through separate legislation.

The program I proposed today are as important and as essential to the security of this nation as our military defenses," Johnson said.

But there were advance indications of more trouble for the big aid bill on Capitol Hill. Congress chopped nearly $1 billion from the $2.8 billion economic aid bill.

The new request is about $700 million more than what the lawmakers were willing to hand him last year for the overseas program.

Johnson contended the billions would be used for a variety of purposes, including military aid, economic assistance and technical aid.
